"You see, gentlemen of the jury," he said, "that whoever wrote that name must have written it in a bright light, must have written with a pair of eyes that worked thoroughly in concert, for there are defects of eyesight that cause persons so affected to write slanting the lines downward or upward."

"I presume," interrupted the prosecuting attorney, "that defendant's counsel proposes to prove that his client has the defect he mentions. I would call your honor's attention to the fact that the prisoner has a very beautiful pair of eyes. Indeed, I greatly fear that she is using them upon the jury with a view to securing her acquittal."

The accused's counsel received in silence for a few moments this attempt to prejudice the court and the jury against his client. Then he said:

"The prosecuting attorney is mistaken, your honor. I am not intending to prove that my client has this especial defect. I would for her sake that it had pleased her Creator to give her this defect instead of the one with which she is afflicted. Gentlemen of the jury, my client is unable to cast upon you glances calculated to excite your sympathy any more than she could have seen to write her name exactly on the line in that document, for she is stone blind."

The effect produced on the court by this announcement rendered any further process of law unnecessary. The jury without leaving their seats acquitted the accused, and I now knew why when she and her mother left the courtroom they went hand in hand.

This is but the beginning of a story in which I have been long and am still deeply interested.

Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets do not sicken or gripe, and may be taken with perfect safety by the most delicate woman or the youngest child. The old and feeble will also find them a most suitable remedy for aiding and strengthening their weakened digestion and for regulating the bowels. For sale by all dealers.

Different Vision.

We only see the ws . and the obliqued nose as we gaze into the face right beside us, while those from afar come to see the power and flash of genius there.

Frail Human Nature.

A man dreams of far-famed popularity when he sees a crowd of men standing about him, only to swiftly discover they were attracted by selfish interests.

First Weighed.

The Marketer—Aren't you wasting a good deal of that steak in trimming it? The Butcher—No, ma'am. I weighed it first.—Toledo Blade.

Cannel Coal for Open Grates.

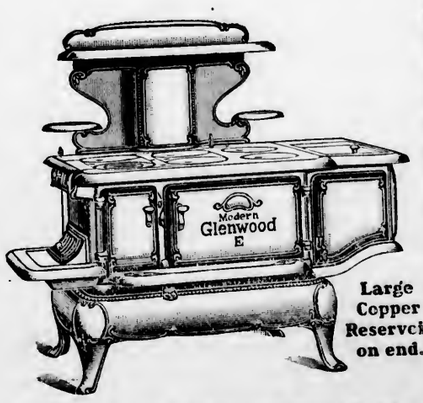
English quality Bostonia cannel coal, especially adapted for open grates and quick fires, of unusually good quality. Try it.

Juanita Forge Coal.

Guaranteed to be the best forge coal mined. Blacksmiths are requested to give it a trial.

Feiner Charcoal.

I have the wholesale agency for Palmer, Monson, Ware and Wilbraham.



W. F. Fillmore, Palmer

If Your Old Range Doesn't Suit—Try A Glenwood

Most HouseKeepers Use One you would if you knew about it.

"Makes Cooking Easy"

Large Copper Reservoir on end.

The E. Brown Co., Palmer

THE PALMER JOURNAL

Published

EVERY FRIDAY EVENING

13-15 Central Street, Masonic Block.

PALMER, MASS.

The Palmer Journal Company,

LOUIS E. CHANDLER,

Editor and Manager.

Terms of subscription—Two dollars a year; a discount of 25 cents to those who pay in advance. Six months, $1.00; three months, 50 cents; single copies, 5 cents. Subscriptions continued until notified.

Entered at Post Office as second-class matter.

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 17, 1911.

LOCAL NOTICES.

Electric wiring, etc. 'Phone Moulton, 122-21 Monson.

For all coughs use our Mentholated Pine Expectorant, 25c at Kinsley's Pharmacy, 357 Main St., Cor. Central. The Old Corner Drug Store.

PALMER NEWS.

Those Polish Night Schools.

Now Well Established. Large Attendance, Much Enthusiasm.

The night schools at Three Rivers for Polish residents, which were begun last week, are now well organized and both pupils and teachers have settled down for a good winter's work. The work is somewhat hampered by a lack of adequate quarters, but the Palmer Mill company is putting in more seats and blackboards, and by dividing the classes it is hoped to make satisfactory progress. The noticeable feature is the large amount of enthusiasm shown by the Polish people. They arrive before the classes are scheduled and almost have to be driven home after dismissal, so eager are they to get additional information. The services of the teachers are voluntary, for which they deserve great credit. The classes and instructors are: Supervisor of Polish classes, A. R. Jenks of Amherst; advaneed class, about 30, divided into two seetions, meets Wednesdays at 7 and 8.30 p. m., with Robert W. Wales and Mr. Hamblin, seniors in the agricultural college at Amherst, as teachers, and Clifford Geer of Three Rivers as assistant; elementary class, about 130, divided into 5 sections, meets Tuesdays and Thursdays at 7 and 8.30 p. m. with Miss L. E. Fletcher, Miss Lucy Twiss, Miss Nellie Twiss, Bradford Stone and Arthur V. Rice, all of Three Rivers, as teachers.

Arcanumites To Take Trip.

Will Attend Union Meeting in Springfield Next Wednesday.

A goodly number of the members of Quaboag eouncil, 876, Royal Arcanum, are planning to attend the union meeting in Springfield, with Pynchon council, next Wednesday evening, of the councils of the Connecticut valley. The meeting is to be held in Grand Army Hall on Court street, next to the new Hall of Records building, and it is expeeted that a large number will be present. The meeting is to take the form of a elass initiation.

Some time ago the offieers of the Grand Council of the state offered two cash prizes—$15 and $10—to the two eouncils having the largest number present for initiation this evening, and Quaboag eouncil is making a try for one of the prizes.

The party will leave Palmer by special electric car at 6.45, and will have a special car returning. A buffet lunch will be served on the return trip. It is expected that there will be about 60 in the party. A speeial car will be run to the villages after the return of the Arcanum car to Palmer, to aeeommodate the members who live in the villages.

A Drop In Temperature.

Freeze Follows Two Fine Indian Summer Weather Days.

Two finer days than Saturday and Sunday—as far as weather is concerned—could hardly be asked or desired. Possibly the latter part of Sunday was a trifle windy, for there were a few broken tree limbs and displaced blinds before Monday morning, but they came mostly late in the evening. Saturday was warm and balmy, and open cars were run on some of the lines to the pleasure of patrons who dislike elose stuffy ears on warm days. Sunday was warm until about 3 in the afternoon, then the temperature began to drop and the wind to rise, and in the evening there was a hard rain, accompanied by high wind. This over the moon came out as bright as on a harvest night, but the mercury dropped with the moon's ascension, and Monday's atmosphere called for a freshening up of furnace fires. Monday night was also cold, the mercury dropping to several degrees below freezing.

Associate Justice David F. Dillon presided at Wednesday's session of the district court in the absence of Judge Kenefick. John Augustine of North Wilbraham was charged with an assault, and Geofil Telvezosky of the same place was charged with an affray. Both were found not guilty.

Body of Infant Found.

Hunter Makes Discovery in River Near Three Rivers.

Louis Rollett of Three Rivers, while gunning in a boat on the Quaboag river near the "Sikes" farm yesterday afternoon, found the body of an infant floating in the water. It lay with the face down and the back showing above the surface.

Police Officer Michael J. Sullivan Jr. of Three Rivers, was notified at onee, and he took the body from the water. Associate Medieal Examiner Dr. Charles W. Jackson of Monson was notified and viewed the body. He found it to be that of a newly-born boy, and it had apparently been about ten days in the water. It was taken to Belanger's undertaking rooms in Three Rivers, where an autopsy will be held later. Such examination as could be made yesterday failed to determine whether or not death was due to drowning. The authorities will make a rigid examination into the matter.

Red Men Hold Smoke Talk.

Enjoyable Affair Tuesday Evening. Springfield Visitors Present.

Tockwotton tribe of Red Men eonverted the regular meeting Tuesday evening into a smoke talk for members and invited guests, of which there was a generous number. A pleasing surprise was the dropping in of District Deputy William Dearden of Springfield with a party of about 15, in the party being a fine male quartet, several soloists and a reader, who eontributed much to the program of the evening. Rousing addresses were made by David F. Dillon and Dr. George A. Moore of Tockwotton tribe, and there were talks by other local and visiting brethren. A lunch was served. The tribe is planning to have some entertainment at every meeting through the winter.

All Boys Are Invited.

To Men's League Meeting Next Week. But Must Have Invitation Card.

What promises to be a most interesting meeting of the Men's League will be held in the vestry of the Congregational ehureh next Monday evening at 8 o'clock. It is known as a "Big Brothers and Boy" night. Cards of invitation have been printed and eaeh man who attends is expected to bring at least one boy with him—he may bring a number if he ehooses; eaeh father is expected to bring his own son. All the boys above ten years of age are invited, but only by receiving a card from some member. The meeting will consist of singing, story telling and plain talks. Prof. Ralph Cheney of the Springfield Training School will make a brief address on "Playing the game."

Deer Caught in Wire Fence.

Woven Wire Proves Death-trap For Animal in Brimfield.

A yearling buck deer was found entangled in a woven wire fence about a mile from the village of Brimfield this week, so badly hurt that it had to be killed. The animal had tried to jump the fence but failed to clear the top; one fore leg went through the meshes of the fence and the animal was unable to get away, as it could reach the ground only with its hind legs and could not raise the forward quarters high enough to draw out the imprisoned leg. Deputy Luman of Palmer was called and distributed the meat to citizens of Brimfield, including four Brimfield Academy students who helped to carry the deer to the village.

State Will Build Road.

Strip at Shearer's Corner Will Be Constructed Next Year.

Chairman of Selectmen George Warriner reeeived word to-day that the state highway commission has deeided to build the short strip of road necessary to connect the macadam on North Main street near Shearer's Corner with the state road whieh now ends west of the railroad tracks on the road to Springfield. A petition was sent the commission August 3, asking them to build the strip, but nothing was heard until the letter of this week. The cost is estimated at $1600. The allotment of funds has been made, but the work cannot be done until another year.

Death of John W. Foley.

John W. Foley, 74, died at his home near Palmer Center on the Warren road Sunday afternoon after a short illness. Mr. Foley was born in Boston, but came to Palmer with his parents when but eight years old. He enlisted in Co. A, of the 24th Massachusetts regiment, September 10, 1861, and served for three years, being discharged September 10, 1864. He was a member of L. L. Merriek Grand Army post. He leaves one son, William, and two daughters, Kathryne and Maude Foley. The funeral was held Tuesday morning at 9.30 from St. Thomas' church, Rev. P. J. O'Connell celebrating the high mass of requiem. The bearers were D. J. Mahoney, Capt. H. E. W. Clark, H. S. Hobson, S. H. Wright, all members of the Grand Army post. There were numerous fine floral tributes, including a pillow with the word "Comrade" on it, presented by the Post. Burial was in St. Thomas' cemetery.

William H. Crane in "The Senator Keeps House."

William H. Crane will come to the Court Square theatre in Springfield Friday and Saturday of next week, with Saturday matinee, in "The senator keeps house," a new comedy. Mr. Crane plays the part of "Christopher Larkin," a senator and widower, who keeps house in Washington, his nephew acting as his secretary. The senator fights all pension increases and claims for war damages. He is constantly losing his housekeepers, as they fall in love with him. A famous lobbyist assists him by getting new servants, at the same time scheming to marry him herself, so the servants always leave. Assisted by the lobbyist, a congressman brings to the senator's house a widow and her daughter, who are interested in a claim which is the senator's pet aversion. They revolutionize the household and the nephew falls in love with the daughter, while the widow rules the senator. She abandons her claim, which is found to be worthless, and the congressman and lobbyist, in revenge, induee the senator to give a reeeption at which the women of his household are snubbed by Washington society. The senator is then told of the identity of the women of his house and gets into a terrible rage which ends in the thrashing of the congressman and the closing of the house. But of course all ends happily in the marriage of the daughter and the nephew and a change of heart for the senator.

Program Clock at High School.

A recent acquisition at the high school is a Blodgett program master clock, which does almost everything except think aloud. By an ingenious arrangement of notches cut in the edges of a continuous band running over a series of wheels, all signals in the various rooms are given at the regular times; a bell rings for the beginning of a recitation, again at three minutes before the time is up as a warning, when the time is up, and again when the new period begins. Dismissal and all signals are rung exactly on time.

Mrs. E. R. Pierce of Greenfield is visiting friends in town.

The annual ball of the trolleymen will be held in the opera house on Friday evening of next week.

The Woman's Tuesday Club will meet next Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. S. H. Hellyar on Squier street.

Mrs. Oliver N. Ferry of Providenee, R. I., is the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Gager of Foster street.

The contractors who furnished the seats for the Baptist church have been at work this week replaeing a number which eracked across the back.

The ladies of the Foreign Missionary society of the Congregational church received an invitation from the Ware society to visit them this afternoon and listen to a lecture on missions.

The proprietors of the soda fountains of the town are considering the question of raising the price of egg drinks from 10 to 15 cents, to hold good as long as the price of hen fruit remains at the present figures, or higher; they are now 50 cents a dozen.

Announcements have been received in town of the marriage Tuesday of Miss Olive Holden Pope, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank B. Pope of Bennington, Vt., and Dr. Rollin Dewey Jenney. The bride is a native of Palmer and is well known here.

A dog belonging to Mrs. Frank Tracy of East Park street got in the way of a passing auto yesterday afternoon and when the auto had passed the dog had passed also, although the body still remained in the highway, covering a larger portion of space that it had a moment earlier.

Mrs. A. H. Gates was pleasantly surprised at her home in Palmer Center last week Thursday afternoon by 12 women, members of the Old Center Improvement society, the occasion being in honor of Mrs. Gates' birthday. The afternoon was devoted to a social and at 5 o'clock a luncheon was served in the dining-room by Misses Ida and Fanny Gates, daughters of the hostess. Each of the guests left a reminder of the occasion.

"I do not believe there is any other medieine so good for whooping cough as Chamberlain's eough remedy," writes Mrs. Francis Turpin, Junction City, Ore. This remedy is also unsurpassed for colds and croup. For sale by all dealers.

Among the Churches.

Rev. C. M. Seamans, pastor of the Advent church in Springfield, will speak in the Advent chapel on Park street Sunday afternoon at 3, following the usual Sunday school at 2.

The subject of the sermon next Sunday morning in the Baptist church will be "Horses and mules." Bible school at 12, Y. P. S. C. at 6 o'clock. Evening worship at 7; sermon subject "Elijah suffering from the blues." All are invited.

The subject of the sermon at St. Paul's church Sunday morning will be "The church and the social crisis." The topic of the young people's meeting will be "Keeping Thanksgiving Day." The leader is Philip Doherty; sub-leaders, Louise McDonald and Frances Tyers.

"The place in life for men who fail" is the subject of the sermon at the Congregational church Sunday. Sunday school at 12, Christian Endeavor at 6. This meeting will be addressed by Miss Helen Jenkins, the daughter of Dr. Jenkins, a former pastor of the church. Evening service at 7; subject, "The prophet Ezekiel and the Babylonian Exile."

W. B. T. Smith,
Physician and Surgeon,
Office and residence, So. High Street, BONDSVILLE, MASS.
Office Hours 7-9 a. m. 12.30-2 p. m. 6.30-8 p. m.
Tel. 104-5.

S. H. Wright,
64 Pleasant Street,
Lock and Gunsmith
Light Repairing of every Description.
Locks, Keys, Guns, Pistols, Shears, Lawn Mowers, Skates, Sewing Machines, Saw Filing, Clocks, Pattern Making, Etc.

Notice to Piano Owners.
Mr. J. Frank Normand, Piano Tuner and Repairer. Nearly 20 years' experience on all makes of pianos. Over fifty satisfied piano owners to refer to in Palmer, Monson and vicinity. Orders left at Journal office or mailed to 800 Main street, Worcester, Mass., will receive prompt attention.

For Sale.
My residence on North Main street. 20 rooms and ground level basement—more room than I need. Steam heat, electric lights, bath. Can easily be made into two tenements.
Louis E. Chandler.

Low Prices for Shoe Repairing
See these prices for machine work:
Men's shoes, half soled and heeled, sewed, $1.00
Men's shoes, full soled and heeled, sewed, 1.50
Ladies' Shoes, soled and heeled, sewed, .85
Better than hand work and much quicker. Satisfaction guaranteed.
H. Platkin,
Bridge St., Palmer.

Palmer Trucking Co.
Successors to S. H. Brown.
Trucking and Jobbing of all kinds.
Piano Moving.
Dealers in Spring Water Ice.
Orders solicited, prompt attention guaranteed.
F. M. Ralton, Manager.
Office, South Main street.
Telephone connection.

Another New Lot of Fountain Syringes
and
Hot Water Bags
Direct from the manufacturer, which means new fresh goods that we can warrant in every particular and sell at bottom prices.
Lynde & Gould
Palmer, Mass.

Quality Always First
Seasonable Goods at Reasonable Prices

Heaters to burn either coal or wood; standard makes; built for service.
Oil Heaters to use before you want to start up your furnace.
Coal Hods
Coal Shovels
Ash Sifters
Ash Cans
Glass and Putty to fix up the cracked windows before winter.

Loaded Shells
Double and Single Barrel Shot Guns
Hunting Coats
Hunting Vests
Cartridge Belts
Shot
Powder
Empty Shells
Primers

Whitcomb & Faulkner,
All Cars Stop in Front of the Door.
Main Street, Palmer, Mass.
Telephone.

I Have an Elegant Line
Of Ladies' Fur, Caracul and Cloth Coats at very popular prices.
My Ladies' Suits are up-to-date and made of the best of fabrics, and the Furs, Skirts, Dress and Shirtwaists, complete a very fine showing of ladies' wearing apparel.
I also have an elegant assortment of Girls' Coats, both in cloth and caracul, which cannot be beat.
My men's and boys' line of Suits and Overcoats cannot be excelled at the price.
A visit to my store will be greatly appreciated.
M. Ecker, Palmer, Mass.
P. O. Block. Up one flight.

The "Proper Dressing"
For males for Thanksgiving is surely to be had here in GLOVES, NECKWEAR, CUFFS and CUFF LINKS, SHIRTS, HOSE, COLLARS, UNDERWEAR.
If you want to be a "swell bird" at the Thanksgiving Dinner, ball or party, here's your chance to make yourself one.
Reasonable prices --- yes, honestly!
C. K. Gamwell,
Clothier and Furnisher,
Palmer, Mass.

Are You Interested in Parlor Stoves?
The GLENWOOD base burner does the best work. The E. Brown Co. handle this line. also carry a full stock of
Modern Hardware at Very Low Prices
E. Brown Co., Agents, Palmer, Mass.

The Palmer Journal.

VOLUME LXII. PALMER, MASS., FRIDAY EVENING, NOVEMBER 17, 1911. NUMBER 33.

FIRST IN THE STATE.

New Penny Savings System For Schools Next Week.

PALMER SAVINGS BANK THE PIONEER.

Under Law Passed by Last Legislature. Stamp System to be Done Away With.

A new system of penny savings collections will be inaugurated in the public schools of Palmer next week, displacing the savings banks system which has been in use for several years and has been productive of much good.

The new system will be handled by the Palmer Savings Bank under a law passed by the last Legislature permitting savings banks to engage in that sort of work, the Palmer bank being the first in the state to put the scheme in operation. Application was made to the school committee at its July meeting for permission, which was readily granted. When the law was passed the savings bank commissioner sent out to various banks a set of blanks which he suggested for use in in the work. These proved to be cumbersome, necessitating a large amount of work, Treasurer Charles L. Waid of the Palmer Savings Bank set to work to devise a simpler but effective system, and it is this system which will be tried for the first time in the state in the Palmer schools. It has been subjected to the closest scrutiny by the bank commissioner and others, and is believed will prove satisfactory, entailing a minimum amount of work on the teachers of the schools. Mr. Waid gave a talk Tuesday afternoon in the high school building to the teachers of the schools, explaining the system.

He began with a short history of the establishment of the penny savings system, which was introduced by the Home Penny Savings Society of Boston. It was intended to inculcate habits of thrift among adults in the saving of small sums, and collectors went from door to door receiving the amounts to be deposited, as savings banks are unable to receive very small amounts—less than one dollar. The plan finally attracted the attention of some women's clubs and they introduced it into the public schools, where the collections are made in any amount, the total then being deposited in banks in bulk and credit being given each child.

Mr. Waid digressed here to remark that savings banks are probably the nearest approach to the socialistic idea of common ownership of any business concern. Savings banks are owned by the depositors—not by a group of stockholders—and every penny of the profits after the expense of management has been paid goes direct to the depositors. In this it differs vastly from a corporation owned by stockholders, who divide among themselves the profits of the business. He described the organization and working scheme of a savings bank, showing how the trustees were chosen for their proved business ability in their own vocations, the idea being that they owe the community in which they have made their success some service for what they have gained from it. These serve without any remuneration, the only ones to be paid anything being the members who serve on the investment committee, and they receiving only sufficient to reimburse them for actual money expended in the performance of their duties.

The school savings scheme finally began to attract the attention of state officials, they recognizing that if habits of frugality and thrift are begun young they will very likely last through life, thus tending to make these persons more nearly if not quite self-supporting and so lessening the likelihood of becoming state or town charges in mature years. The child has the same right to save pennies that the grown person has to save dollars. The system is not a question of profit to the savings banks, but a question of teaching and helping the child to lay up something for the future.

Mr. Waid then explained his system, with the aid of the blanks prepared; it is extremely simple. A sheet large enough to hold the names of all the pupils of a room is ruled into spaces providing collection days for five months of the school year, the plan being to have collections made on a certain day of the week. In connection with each month are columns for receipts, paid to bank for deposit, and balance remaining. After the names of the pupils have been written on the sheet they are credited opposite their names with the amount they deposit

[Continued on Second Page]

Water Tank Gets Afire.

Incendiary Blaze in C. V. Yard Early Saturday Morning.

A fire in a water tank seems rather an incongruous proposition, but that is what the firemen found when they turned out at 4.15 last Saturday morning in response to the tripie 15 call which signifies that the work is inside the fire district but not serious enough to warrant a full alarm.

The blaze was in the large tank at the Central Vermont yard, used for filling the locomotives. The firemen found a brisk blaze in the interior at the bottom, where the entrance pipes and the supporters of the tank are enclosed, and up under the roof of the tank. Two streams soon killed out the most of the blaze, but it took climbing and chemicals to put out the fire which had worked under the roof. There was every prospect that the fire had been set in the interior on the ground; the building had recently been painted and the fire ran up the new paint and under the roof in short order.

After the fire was out it was discovered that two of the locomotives housed in the yard close by for the night were out of water and the fires had to be drawn. The firemen kindly filled the tender tanks from their hose later. There was a suggestion that the water supply in the tenders had been tampered with, but this is scouted by the railroad officials. The alarm was given first by blowing the locomotive whistles, but their efforts were not very loud and Officer Crimmins phoned to Chief Summers that the services of the department were needed.

Would Abandon Highway.

New Railroad Asks to Have Old Palmer Road Discontinued.

A hearing will be held December 16th by the county commissioners at the home of Mary E. DeLand on the Palmer and Brimfield highway in Palmer, on the petition of the Southern New England railroad company for the discontinuance of the highway in Palmer lying between the old Palmer and Warren road and the road leading from the Palmer and Brimfield road to the Studley place. The road in question is known as the road from the Keith place to Palmer Center, and the company wants to have it abandoned so that it may be crossed at grade. If the road is maintained as a public highway the railroad will have to go under or over it, as the charter does not allow it to make any grade crossings. It is claimed that the road is little used and that other roads in the vicinity are sufficient to care for the traffic now going over the road. Judge Thomas W. Kenefick of Palmer is for the railroad company.

Spencer Murder Trial Jurors.

One Eastern Hampden Man Serving. Several Others Rejected.

The little town of Holland in Eastern Hampden county is furnishing one of the jurors in the trial of Bertram Spencer of Springfield for the murder of Miss Martha Blackstone in that city March 31, 1910. The Holland man is Ernest M. Bennett, a farmer, and he was the eighth to be chosen. There is one other juror from this section, Charles Graham of Ludlow, the sixth man to be chosen.

There were others from this section whose names were called, but they were excused or challenged for the following reasons: George Ezekiel of Palmer, insurance agent, formed an opinion; William Brown of Palmer, merchant, excused on account of ill health; Edward P. Donovan of Monson, bookkeeper, formed an opinion; Charles S. Tarbell of Brimfield, farmer, formed an opinion; Ansel H. Shaw of Wales, challenged by the prisoner; John McDonough of Ludlow challenged by the commonwealth.

Illiterate Minors Law.

Certificate For All Over 16 and Under 21 Must be on File.

A new law—or rather a change in the age limit of a former law—requires all mills and factories where illiterate minors are employed to have on file for inspection a certificate of illiteracy for every such person employed who is between the ages or 16 and 21. The standard of literacy is the ability to read readily at sight and to write legibly simple sentences in the English language; such a test as is required for the fourth grade of the public schools. Certificates must be issued by some person in authority, and Superintendent of schools Hobson has been looking the matter up. He has received reports from all the large manufacturing concerns of the town, and finds that there are about 250 illiterate minors in the town. He has begun issuing certificates as the law provides, and will proceed with the work as fast as possible.

W. R. C. SILVER WEDDING.

Twenty-five Years of Existence Celebrated To-day.

OTHER CORPS INVITED TO ATTEND.

Meeting This Afternoon, Supper This Evening, Entertainment to Follow.

L. L. Merrick Woman's Relief Corps, No. 76, is celebrating to-day the 25th anniversary of its organization — its silver wedding day, so to speak. There has been much of interest for the members and their invited guests, and with the satisfaction of a successfully planned and executed celebration the Corps will pass into the second quarter century of its existence.

There was a regular meeting this afternoon at 1.30 in Odd Fellows' Hall, which was followed by a social and entertainment. The Corps of Springfield, Monson, Warren and Ware had been invited and sent generous delegations, the number of guests being about 100. There were also present the department president, Mrs. Nellie Libby of Lynn, and the Department Inspector, Mrs. Mary Landt of Hyde Park. This evening at 6 there will be a supper in the Corps' quarters in Memorial Hall, to which the members of the Grand Army post and Sons of Veterans camp, and their wives, have been invited. An entertainment will follow.

Mrs. Ida L. Bond.
President Woman's Relief Corps.

L. L. Merrick Woman's Relief Corps was instituted Nov. 19, 1886, with 20 charter members. Of these seven are still members of the organization; three have died and ten have been dismissed or have removed from town. The total membership since organization has been 196; the present number is 108. The first president was Mrs. Delilah S. Davis, who served four years; she was followed by Mrs. Clara B. Davis, two years; Mrs. Abbie J. Lawton, two years; Mrs. Julia H. Henry, two years; Mrs. Jennie E. Weld, two years; Mrs. Laura J. Davis, two years; Mrs. Edith J. Clark, two years; Mrs. Ellen M. Barnes, one year; Mrs. Lavinia E. Carpenter, four years; Mrs. Lillian E. Parkhurst, two years; Mrs. Ida M. Bond, who is the present president, serving her first term.

In addition to the regular work of the order, which is too well known to need explanation here, the principal action of the local Corps was the purchase, soon after organization, of a room in the Soldiers' Home in Chelsa, which they furnished and have since maintained. In 1908 a boulder "To the unknown dead" was procured and set in the Oak Knoll cemetery by members of the order working under the name of the Woman's Relief Corps Circle. The Corps is in a prosperous condition, and its meetings are attended by a considerable number.

Convicted By a Coin.

Spanish Piece of Money Fastens Larceny On Farm Hand.

In the district court last Saturday Joseph Wiskierski was found guilty of larceny and given a sentence of six months in the house of correction. Wiskierski had been employed as a farm hand by John Roman, on the "Sikes" farm near Four Corners, and was suspected of appropriating to his own use money and other articles owned by his fellow-workmen. There was not much to sustain the theory however until a search of his belongings disclosed among them a Spanish coin which was owned by one of the losers at the farm.

Walter E. Burnham, taxidermist, of Greenfield, is prepared to do first-class work in his line. Hides tanned, and rugs, deerfeet and specialties made up to order.

FOR COMMUNITY'S GOOD.

The Men and Religion Forward Movement.

CONSIDERED AT THORNDIKE MEETING.

Nine Churches Appoint Committees to Consider Extension of Work In Palmer.

A largely attended conference of representative men gathered at the Congregational church in Thorndike Tuesday evening to consider the Men and Religion Forward Movement and its possible application to Palmer. Each of the seven resident Protestant pastors had selected a committee of five laymen from his congregation, although the number was not restricted. Rev. Charles W. Williams, as senior pastor, presided. Rev. C. C. Gorst of Thorndike outlined briefly the origin and scope of the movement. Other pastors followed. The movement began in the hearts of a few men who without any previous conference or design were drawn together over an apparent failure of the churches to reach the men of the community and to interest them in definite forms of religious work. There are enrolled in the Protestant churches of the United States and Canada 3,000,000 more women than men. A committee of nearly 100 men representing nine different denominational brotherhoods, the International Sunday School Association, the Y. M. C. A. and the Gideons, has general charge of the movement with headquarters at the Christian Association rooms at 124 East 28th street, New York city. Mr. Fred B. Smith is the executive head of the committee.

An appeal was made for co-operation in the common work of the churches of Palmer for the men and boys. A leakage cannot exist in one part of the town without its having an effect upon similar work in another place. The appeal was made on the grounds common to all Protestant churches. It was recognized in the discussion at once that definite methods for work were demanded. But it was pointed out that definite information concerning the forces at work and the results that are now being obtained were also essential. To secure these facts survey blanks were presented, covering first, four departments of intensive work by the churches in their respective fields. Bible study, Evangelism, Boys' Work, Missions; seeondly, blanks covering social service in the community, including some of the preceding topics but emphasizing boys' work under four departments, of education, industrial occupation recreation and religion, and a social survey; thirdly, blanks that tabulate the results of the intensive church work in the first named survey.

As the meeting progressed it became apparent that there were two questions in the minds of some: First, what are you going to do with the statistics when you have them? the fear being that the movement would resolve itself into a mere gathering of statistics. This was answered that in both church and community extension work the services of many laymen would be required, which of itself would be worth while, and particularly, that when results were obtained and tabulated they would serve as a basis for quickening interest in these various fields of effort. The oft-repeated assertion that men want something definite to do is answered by getting at the facts and letting those facts speak for themselves. The second query was, that Palmer is not especially interested in Springfield or New York, and what is being done elsewhere is no criterion for work here. But this was answered by the fact that what other communities have found helpful would likely be helpful here; that after all, our conditions are similar in social, moral, industrial, educational and church problems that we want to adapt the methods to local conditions and not discard them, but should look for as much inspiration and help as possible from a movement that is gripping so many communities in the United States and Canada. It was further pointed out that no new organization is needed, simply a federation of existing forces to the one end of community betterment.

A motion was passed to ask each of the pastors of the nine churches to appoint a committee of three from his congregation to consider the advisability of this campaign of Palmer, and to report at an adjourned meeting of the conference. Mr. Williams was asked to call the committee together. The meeting was looked upon as a success in that it brought together the men of the town who are working for the same ends, and it is hoped that the movement may grow until it shall develop into something definite for the town.

Small Strike at Ware.

New 54-Hour Law Cuts Down Pay of Women and They Quit.

About 25 spinners left their work in the No. 1 mill of the Otis company in Ware Friday afternoon as the result of dissatisfaction with the pay received under the 54-hour law recently put into effect. Friday was pay-day, and when the women received their pay and found they had less by two hours than the week previous, they demanded more pay. This the company refused to give, saying that conditions in the cotton business do not warrant an increase in wages.

Monday afternoon a number of spinners left their work in No. 4 mill after demanding an increase in pay to compensate for the two hours loss sustained under the new 54-hour law. The increase was refused. The spinners in No. 4 mill are engaged in the spinning of filling for the weave room and their leaving necessitated the closing of the weave room Monday night, thus throwing 200 weavers out of work.

The condition of affairs assumed a more favorable aspect Wednesday, when after noon the weave room was reopened. A sufficient number of spinners have returned to work to prepare enough filling to enable the starting of the looms and probably keep them running at least for the remainder of the week.

Yesterday all those who had gone out of No 4 mill returned to their work. There are still some out of No 1 mill, but unless something new develops, it is thought the mill will keep running.

Will Contest Election.

Belchertown Man Claims Election Through Error in Ware.

Almon L. Pratt of Belchertown, who was on the face of the returns defeated for representative in the Fourth Hampshire district by E. E. Sargent of Belchertown, has filed with Town Clerk Morse of Ware a notice of his intention to contest the election. Attorney H. M. Coney of Ware through whom the notice was filed, stated that Mr. Pratt claimed the election on the ground that the vote in Ware was invalid because of the failure of the selectmen to live up to the law in posting the warrant, and that he served this notice on the town that he would protest the election of Mr. Sargent. This will probably be done by a petition to the Legislature. Mr. Sargent, when interviewed in regard to the matter, stated that if he had been counted out, he would have accepted his defeat. When asked if he had any fears for the result of a protest, he said he had the very best authority to the effect that the people of Ware could not be disfranchised by the error of an individual or individuals.

Nearly Buried Alive.

North Wilbraham Man Misses Death by Very Narrow Margin.

George Cady of North Wilbraham narrowly escaped being buried alive Friday afternoon while at work in Riverdale. Mr. Cady was engaged in digging a ditch for a water connection and straightened up to speak to another workman when the bank caved in, burying him up to the neck. Help was quickly obtained and Mr. Cady released from his precarious position, barely in time however, as the weight of earth on his chest would soon have suffocated him. He was taken to his home and medical attendance summoned. Examination showed that his collarbone was broken.

Ware Hospital Report.

The annual report of the Ware Visiting Nurse and Hospital Association has been issued. In addition to the reports of officers, it contained the following interesting data: Number of patients admitted to the hospital for the year was 80; males 30, females 50; number of operations 21; number of births 15; male 8, female 7; number medical patients 21; surgical 29, obstetrical 15; number of deaths 4. The residences of the patients were as follows: Albany, 1; Boston, 1; Gilbertville, 7; Hardwick, 4; Wakefield, 1; Ware, 64; Wheelwright, 1; West Warren, 1. The receipts for the year amounted to $6604.87, and the expenditures $4079.63, leaving a balance on hand of $2525.24.

Probate Court Business.

At a session of the probate court in Springfield Wednesday, the following business of interest to the people of this vicinty was included in that transacted:

Will proved of—Adelaide C. Rees, late of Monson, Evan D. Rees of Monson administrator.

Account allowed in the estate of Julia A. Smith, late of Wales.

AN OLD HOME SUNDAY.

Union Church of Three Rivers Holds Celebration.

LARGE ATTENDANCE AT EXERCISES.

Supper and Social Saturday Evening. Special Services Twice on Sunday.

Old Home Sunday was observed at the Union church, Three Rivers, last Sunday. A supper was served in the vestry of the church at 6.30 Saturday evening for those who returned to attend the services on the following day. After supper an informal reeeption was held for the guests. Sunday morning service was at the usual hour, and there was a large attendance. Rev. Henry C. Newell, who is always sure of a large audience and a hearty welceme whenever he is announced to speak, w s the preacher, and chose for his text, Rev. 3d chapter, 8th verse: "Behold I have set before thee an open door, and no man can shut it." His theme was "The God-given opportunity to service."

He said in part that the measure of a man's influence is his personality, and that the power which makes for righteousness is the personality of the best and most consecrated Christians. He said that his own conception of Christianity was in early boyhood moulded by a minister of the Union church, who at a time when one of the families of his parish was stricken with a malignantly contagious disease and when others feared to go, himself went and ministered to the needs of that family until the members were restored to health. He said that there is a great need to-day of Christian service. The open door of opportunity is before every one, and no one can close it. Shall the man hasten to cross its threshold?

At the evening service several letters from former pastors and from those who were once members of the church were read. After the usual service communion was received, that the day might be closed with the most fitting recognition of fellowship with Christ and with each other.

WALES.

Dennis Maynard has gone to Westhampton for the winter.

Mrs. Hattie Parker has returned from a visit to Springfield.

J. H. Loudon is starting the Dell mill and opened the boarding house this week.

Judge H. A. McFarland has been confined to the house by illness for the past week.

F. M. Parker has taken a position with the Standard Oil Company in Springfield.

Mrs. Kent has closed her house and will spend the winter with Mrs. Albert Sizer.

Mrs. Gustavus Drechsler has closed her house at the lake and gone to Palmer for the winter.

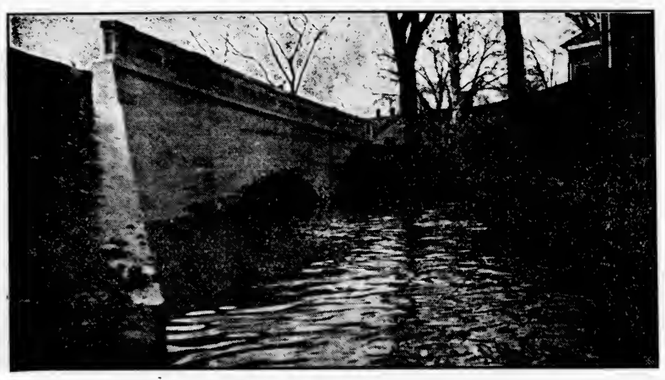
Mrs. C. M. Thompson fell from her piazza Wednesday afternoon and sustained a broken shoulder.

Frank Bailey, formerly of this town, moved from Monson to J. H. Loudon's house on Church street this week.

Mrs. George H. Lanphear entertained the Baptist Ladies' Aid Society at her home Wednesday afternoon.

Miss Alice McGrath has secured a position in the schools of Easthampton and will not return after the Thanksgiving vacation.

The automobile truck of the Texas Oil Company met with a slight accident between this town and Brimfield Wednesday afternoon.



Mrs. John Royee slipped last Thursday and sprained her ankle. Lulu Sizer, daughter of Albert Sizer, sprained her elbow while playing at school the same afternoon.

Rev. Samuel A. Read of Springfield supplied the Baptist pulpit Sunday. The Rev. Charles T. Holt is taking a trip to Virginia and will visit Petersborough and Valley Forge with a party of members of the Legislature, accompanied by Governor Foss.

Springfield Bridge Built by Wales Man.

T. J. Hynes & Son of Wales completed last week a rather unusual concrete bridge for the city of Springfield, over Mill river, a cut of which is given herewith, the work comprising one part of the extension of Loeust street.

The contract for the structure was awarded July 26 to Hynes & Son at $3687; the same to be completed in sixty working days, their bid being about $700 less than their nearest competitor. Many people wondered at the difference in the bids, and there were many conjectures as to whether the firm could build a substantial structure at that figure. The bridge is much more complicated than the accompanying photo would tend to show. In the first place, it is built on an angle of 34 degrees with the old structure; the spandrel wall and railing, instead of being on a straight line, are built on two distinct and different curves, one having a radius of 792 feet and the other curve a 32-feet radius; the bridge is also on a grade of over 5 per cent. It was probably the most "ticklish" piece of work of its kind ever attempted in or about Springfield.

Work was begun August 1st, and on account of high water the men were obliged to work nights for the first two weeks. After the first few days it was evident to the lookers-on that the contractors were thoroughly conversant with bridge construction; and those who had looked on optimistically at first now became interested in the work. On Sundays large numbers of people would gather to note the progress of the work, and many of them were daily visitors.

A portable concrete mixer was installed on the bank above the site, and the concrete was conveyed through iron chutes to the forms. The concrete arch was two and one-half feet thick at the base and tapered to nine inches at the crown. It was reinforced by longitudinal steel rods placed one foot on centers, and transverse rods placed three feet on centers. Many expressed doubts as to whether such a light arch would support the enormous weight of clay hardpan (over seven feet in thickness) which was to be placed upon it. Those doubts have already been dispelled, as the fill was substantially completed prior to the heavy rain storms of October 17 and 18, during which dams failed and retaining walls were entirely washed away; the bridge withstood this test with no perceptible movement.

The railing is of solid concrete eight inches in thickness, with inset panels, tooled so as to show the aggregate. The structure combines durability with economy and beauty in simplicity of design. It is a type which might well be copied by towns and municipalities desiring durable construction combined with no cost for maintenance, as a concrete bridge properly built requires no repairing of any kind. The workmanship on the above structure is of the first order and reflects much credit on the contractors.

This bridge was designed by W. M. Denman, associate engineer Luten Engineering Co., Springfield, Mass., to carry the 100-ton cars of the Springfield Street Railway Co.

W. D. Kinsman Co.,

SPRINGFIELD.

Saturday Brings a Great Sale of the Famous Belle Waists

Belle Waists have enjoyed a pre-eminenee in our waist department never before equaled by any other brand of waist and they knowing of our immense outlet of their fine, high-grade waists, made us a proposition to close out over one hundred dozen at a mere fraction of their true worth. You can now buy Belle Waists at practically little or nothing of their former prices. This is not a sale of our own stock, but every waist represented in the offerings comes to you fresh, spiek and span from the makers. Aside from this great offering of high-grade waists, every department in this busy, bustling store will be alive with special attraetions for Saturday traders.

We Describe the Various Values Below So That You Get Your Share of Them

$1.50 to $2.98 Waists, 98c

Hundreds and hundreds of styles at this price in heavy Cheviots, Madras, Lawns, Linens in both plain, fancy, embroidered and tucked styles. Some of these styles are in the Lingerie effects and some of them are in Semi-Tailored effects. Every size represented in this offering. Every waist is an exceptional value.

BELLE WAIST SALE, 98c each

$2.25 to $3.98 Waists, $1.48 Each

These Waists are made of the choicest and daintiest Madras, French Percale and French Flannel styles, all sizes represented in this collection. In all pretty color combinations. Every waist is superbly designed and come with collar of self material or white laundered collar. It is needless to say that Belle Waists at this price will prove highly interesting to all who see them. Then again the vast assortment of styles and colorings will prove even more interesting. Every wanted size.

BELLE WAIST SALE, $1.48

$2.98 to $3.50 Waists, $1.98 Each

The finest and choicest of all the waist offerings is shown in this collection of fine French Flannels, choice tailored waists in plain and embroidered fronts. These are exclusive styles made of Flannels and Linens in the choicest and newest effects. They come in white and all pretty colors, both plain and striped combinations.

BELLE WAIST SALE, $1.98 Each

Another Big Offering Is the Collection of Slightly Imperfect Waists, 69c Each

Every waist manufacturer at some time or other has accumulations of odds and ends that are slightly imperfect. This is equally true of the Belle Waist Mfg. Co. Heretofore, these slightly imperfect waists have been sold by one of the large Boston stores, they having control of their entire collection of imperfect waists. By a fortunate circumstanee, our buyer participated in this offering, the reason being that we were on the ground first, and owing to the fact that we intended having a sale, and as an extra inducement to help boom the Belle Waist Sale, they allowed us the privilege of securing these waists. We were mighty pleased at the opportunity that enabled us to bring before our patrons these handsome Belle Waists. In regard to the imperfections, we want to say that they are only slight and hardly noticeable. The offering represents Semi-tailored, some Flannels, Linons and even some Linens, made in pretty embroidered front styles and then there are some tucked effects in white and all good colored combinations. This offering is a rare opportunity for women to secure Belle Waists at prices lower than ever before.

BELLE WAIST SALE, 69c Each

W. D. Kinsman Co., Springfield

A Peacemaker

By EDNA JENKINS

Copyright by American Press Association, 1911.

"How long are you going to hang around Laura Troop, Charlie, before you get her?"

"I fear I'll never get her."

"It would serve you right if you didn't."

"Why do you say that?"

"You're no adept at the game of love."

"What do you mean by the game of love?"

"There is a game of love the same as a game of war or politics. There is a game in everything."

"Teach me the game of love."

"I'd rather play one for you, putting my hand on yours and moving the pieces for you, only you would have to promise to make no move independently."

Charlie Warren thought deeply on what had been said to him by his friend Hereford. He sometimes suspected that Miss Troop was amusing herself with him, but what the result would be he had not even an opinion. Hereford, on the contrary, had observed the girl in Warren's company and knew by instinct that she wouldn't lose her lover for the world. Very fond of Warren and knowing that he was made really miserable by Miss Troop, he had a desire to revenge his friend and bring him in a winner at the same time.

"Very well," said Warren. "Play the game for me with Laura."

"Not unless you promise to obey every instruction I give you."

"I consent," replied Warren haltingly.

"Then I will make the first move. Remember, you are to do exactly what I say."

"What am I to do first?"

"The next time you meet Laura cut her dead."

"For heaven's sake, what's that for?"

"To break the present deadlock."

"Then what?"

"I don't know. I shall be guided by what our opponent does."

Notwithstanding Charlie's promise it was some time before he could make up his mind to obey. However, he consented at last, and the next morning he did the deed bravely. He was used to passing Miss Troop's house on his way to business, and she often contrived to be where her lover could see her. One day she would smile at him, the next scowl at him. When he passed without looking up at her a scowl she had put on faded into a look of astonishment.

"Well, I declare!" she exclaimed, following him with her eyes till he had turned a corner. "What in the world does it mean? I wonder if any one has been saying anything mean about me. I can't remember having treated him any worse than usual. What has he got hold of, I wonder? How mean of him not to come up like a man and tell me to my face what's the matter. I suppose he thinks I'll knuckle down to him. Not I. I'll pay him in his own coin."

The next evening Charlie Warren rushed wildly into Hereford's room.

"It's all up with me!" he cried.

"What's up?"

"I cut Laura yesterday. By the mail today I received a note from her saying that, having been so unmanly and ungentlemanly as to pass her without speaking to her, she wished to inform me that she had no further desire for my acquaintance. Great Scott! What shall I do?"

"Cut her again. This time if you get an opportunity turn your back square upon her."

"I shall go at once and explain, begging her forgiveness."

"No you won't. You've promised to be guided by me."

Hereford found his friend unmanageable. The best he could do with him was to gain his consent that he (Hereford) should see Miss Troop and play the rest of the game directly. Warren could not wait, so, leaving him, Hereford sallied off to beard the lioness in her den. Within half an hour the messenger returned.

"Well?" asked the lover anxiously.

"I found her in."

"What did you say?"

"I told her that you had sent me to tell her that you had lost all respect for her."

"Oh, my good gracious! You've done me up. What did she say?"

"She asked why you had not the manliness to come with the message yourself. I replied that you wished never to see her again."

"Don't tell me any more or I shall kill you."

"All right; I think I'll have a smoke." He filled his pipe and lit it.

"I mean I'll kill you if you don't tell me the rest at once."

"Oh, I can't remember it all."

"Tell me what you remember."

"I told her that I had found you the other day disgruntled with her treatment of you; that I had endeavored to persuade you to be patient with her, but had failed; you had become thoroughly imbittered against her. She believed the yarn and admitted that she had teased you a little bit. If I could secure your forgiveness she would never do so any more."

Warren gave a jump for his friend and threw his arms about his neck.

Married women do not usually favor their husbands' intimate men friends. Mrs. Troop is an exception. She dotes on Hereford, thinking that he brought about a peace between her and the man she loves. Troop has had the good sense to keep the secret.

The way that wins is hard.

First In The State.

[Continued from First Page]

with the teacher; at the same time they are given a card folder on which the amount has been credited; the stamps now in use will be done away with. The money collected is put in an envelope bearing the name of the room and sent to the bank, where it is entered to the credit of that room. When a pupil has deposited one dollar or more a savings bank pass book is then issued to that pupil and the amount begins to draw interest. Simple methods of transferring the accounts and withdrawal when desired are provided.

Pupils who have books of stamps will be asked to bring them to be transferred to the new system.

The first collection under the new system will be made in Palmer next Monday morning by Mr. Waid personally, in Thorndike Tuesday, Three Rivers Wednesday and Bondsville Thursday.

How We Live.

The only right is that which allows man's individuality to expand, and the only wrong is that which contracts it—we live in the measure that we voice ourselves, and we but linger when self-expression atrophies and dies.

Oldest American Settlement.

Acoma, an Indian village of the southwest, is said to be the oldest settlement in this country. It was referred to by the Spanish 30 years before St. Augustine was founded.

If You Are a Trifle Sensitive

About the size of your shoes it's some satisfaction to know that many people can wear shoes a size smaller by shaking Allen's Foot-Ease into them. Just the thing for Patent Leather Shoes, and for breaking in New Shoes. Sold everywhere, 25c. Sample FREE. Address, Allen S. Olmstead, LeRoy, N. Y.

Mrs. Rose

Late of New York City.

Hair Goods Made to Order and Remodeled.
Complexion and Scalp Treatment --- Facials, Shampooing and Manicuring.

Hours: 9 to 5. Appointments made.

Telephone 49-11.

17 Thorndike Street, Palmer, Mass.

A Penny Announcement

That Is Worth Dollars to You

I Will Retire Fom the Jewelry Business About Jan. 1, 1912.

Sale Now On

My entire stock of Diamonds, Watches, Jewelry, Silverware and Cut Glass is now on private sale at Cost Prices.

It is needless to make any comment on the quality of these goods and would suggest to those of my friends who wish the opportunity to secure Rare Bargains for Christmas Gifts or Personal Use, that they COME EARLY.

Enos E. Penny

417 Main Street, Springfield, Mass.

Springfield # Meekins, Packard & Wheat Massachusetts

We Personally Guarantee the Absolute and Literal Truth of Every Statement Made In This Advertisement.

A. A PACKARD. W. G. WHEAT.

We Take Special Pride in Our Showing of Library Tables

We always carry a most complete line of library tables but this season our stock is larger and more attractive than ever before, including a superb variety of handsome patterns --- uncommonly good tables at most reasonable prices. We mention a few examples of this notable value-giving:

Quartered oak library table, in plain rich design with French legs, one drawer and undershelf---table 42 x 26 in.---at $10.50.

Heavy massive design in quartered oak or mahogany finish with drawer and undershelf---table 42 x 28 inches.---at $12.

Other excellent styles in quartered oak and mahogany---at $9, 11, 13.75, 15 and 17.

Beautiful Colonial table in solid Mahogany with graceful scroll supports --- table with top 44 x 28 in.--- special value at $35.

Magnificent pieces in solid Mahogany, many of them exact reproductions of fine old Colonial pieces --- from $35 to $100.

Lowest Prices of the Year on High Grade Carpets

In our mid-season carpet clearance in which we are closing out all discontinued patterns, we are offering the lowest prices of the year on high-grade carpets. We have gone through our entire stock, weeding out all patterns which we can no longer duplicate, and marked them at mill prices and less for a quick and decisive clearance.

Thus, at prices such as you would expect to pay in our January clearance, you can now buy the very best carpets made, in a big variety of desirable patterns suited to every room in the home.

Best Quality Tapestry Brussels

Regular $1 grades in 15 good patterns--- 79c yd

Axminsters and Velvets

Best quality Axminster and Velvet Carpets, regular $1.40 and $1.50 grades, in 17 desirable patterns---at $1.10 yd.

Madras and Filet Curtains At Attractive Low Prices

We are offering some especially attractive values this week in Madras and Filet curtains---two of the most popular curtains of the season at initial low prices. These are all brand new goods, of fine quality and quite the handsomest curtains we have ever been able to show at these very low prices.

FIGURED MADRAS CURTAINS in ecru, in the genuine imported Scotch Madras---curtains 2 1-2 yards long, in a choice selection of patterns.

Curtains regularly $2.50 $3.00 $3.50 and $4.00.
At $1.50 $2.00 $2.50 and $3.00 pair.

FILET CURTAINS---made on fine scrim in white and Arab, in a variety of handsome new styles with Filet insertion, wide band and lace edge. Regular $4 curtains---at $3 pair

Equally good values in more elaborate designs---at $3.50 $4.50 $5 and $6.

Meekins, Packard & Wheat

Springfield, Massachusetts

BELCHERTOWN.

Death of Mrs. Mary Hastings.

Mrs. Mary Hastings, 83, died at her home on Maple street Wednesday afternoon after a long illness. Mrs. Hastings was the widow of Martin Hastings and had lived in Belchertown for many years on a farm, but moved to the Center about 10 years ago. Mr. Hastings died about eight years ago. Mrs. Hastings leaves a sister, Mrs. J. R. Gould.

Mr. and Mrs. Myron G. Ward have moved to the Center.

Department President Nellie P. Holt and Department Inspector Mary Land of Boston will inspect the local Woman's Relief corps at the annual meeting this evening.

BRIMFIELD.

Funeral of Mrs. C. M. Sherman.

The funeral of Mrs. Catherine M. Sherman was held Friday afternoon. Relatives and friends from New York and elsewhere as well as townspeople were in attendance. Rev. Dr. Frank I. Hall of New York, pastor of the church of the Divine Paternity, of which Mrs. Sherman had been a member for over 50 years, officiated, assisted by Rev. Dr. Joseph K. Mason of Waltham, formerly of New York. Mrs. C. W. Williams sang two selections. Burial was in the family lot in the Brimfield cemetery.

Mrs. Robert W. Lewis has been making a short stay in Springfield.

Mr. and Mrs. George Brackett have been spending a part of the week in Boston.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only Constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

Address: F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.
Sold by Druggists, 75c.
Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

O'Connor's Barber Shop

PALMER, MASS.

Just across the street from the Waiting Room.
(On Corner going to Depot.)

4 Chairs, No Long Waits

Everything absolutely clean.

Shavers' Supplies For Sale

Razors Honed and Handles Put On. Why pay more? We warrant our Razors at $1.50. Each one is tried, so we know what we sell you.

Central Vermont Railway Co.

SOUTHERN DIVISION.

CORRECTED TO OCTOBER 1, 1911.

Trains Leave Palmer Going South:

7.25 a. m. Passenger for New London. Due Stafford 7.58 a. m., Willimantic 8.50 a. m., Norwich 9.27 a. m., New London 10.00 a. m.
9.55 a. m. Mail for New London. Due Stafford 10.31 a. m., Willimantic 11.17 a. m., Norwich 11.52 a. m., New London 12.20 p. m.
1.25 p. m. Passenger for New London. Due Stafford 2.03 p. m., Willimantic 3.08 p. m., Norwich 3.43 p. m., New London 4.10 p. m.
6.30 p. m. Steamboat train for New London and New York. Due Stafford 7.10 p. m., Willimantic 7.55 p. m., Norwich 8.30 p. m., New London 9.00 p. m., New York City via Norwich Line, Pier 70, East River, 5.45 a. m., Pier 40, North River 7.00 a. m., following morning.

Above trains connect at Willimantic and New London east and west for points on the N. Y. N. H. & H. R. R.

Trains Leave Palmer Going North.

7.30 a. m. Mail. Due Amherst 8.15 a. m., Millers Falls 9.00 a. m., Brattleboro 10.00 a. m.
12.10 p. m. Express. Due Amherst 12.55 p. m., Millers Falls 1.20 p. m., Brattleboro 2.07 p. m.
5.30 p. m. Due Amherst 6.16 p. m., Millers Falls 6.50 p. m., Brattleboro 8.00 p. m.

These trains cannot connect at Millers Falls with trains east and west on the B. & M., and at Brattleboro with express trains for White River Junction and Montreal and points west thereof.

These trains run week days only.

SUBJECT TO CHANGE WITHOUT NOTICE.

J. W. HANLEY, General Passenger Agent.

PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM

Cleanses and beautifies the hair.
Promotes a luxuriant growth.
Never Fails to Restore Gray Hair to its Youthful Color.
Cures scalp diseases & hair falling.
50c. and $1.00 at Druggists

McCall's Magazine and McCall Patterns

For Women

Have More Friends than any other magazine or patterns. McCall's is the Model Fashion Guide monthly in the mail on one hundred thousand times. Besides showing all the latest designs of McCall Patterns, each issue is brimful of sparkling short stories and helpful information for women.

Save Money and Keep in Style by subscribing for McCall's Magazine at once. Costs only fifty cents a year, including any one of the celebrated McCall Patterns free.

McCall Patterns Lead all others in style, fit, quality, economy and number sold. More users sell McCall Patterns than any other two makes combined. None higher than 15 cents. Ladies, ask your dealer, or by mail from

McCALL'S MAGAZINE
236-246 W. 37th St., New York City

Note—Sample Copy, Premium Catalogue and Pattern Catalogue free, on request

HOLLAND.

Mrs. Oliver Howlett is visiting in Worcester.

Work has begun on the new state road from the Brimfield line to Holland-pond.

At a recent meeting of the parish it was voted to retain Mr. Lovering as pastor for another year. The solicitors for the year are Loring M. Howlett, John F. Hebard and Miss Howlett.

HAMPDEN.

Morton L. Day has bought the house nearly opposite Sidney Chapin's residence.

Mrs. Roxannah Warner has presented a quantity of plates, cups, saucers, etc., to the Grange. The grangers have decided to buy a piano.

Hampden Grange will meet this evening. The third degree will be worked by the women's degree staff and the fourth degree by the regular officers. An oyster supper will be served.

WARE.

Whist Club Observe Anniversary.

The Married People's Whist Club observed its 10th anniversary Tuesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Storrs. The members of the club at its inception were Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Ossian Moore, Mr. and Mrs. Frank M. Sibley, Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. F. F. Gilmore, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Booth, Mr. and Mrs. Paul R. Bridgman, Mr. and Mrs. John H. Schoonmaker, Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Wood and Mr. and Mrs. George D. Storrs. Mr. and Mrs. David Wooley and Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Wetherbee have since become members and Mr. and Mrs. Schoonmaker have withdrawn. There has been one death among the members, Mrs. R. C. Snow dying in 1910.

Death of Octave Mandeville.

Octave Mandeville died Saturday at his home on Cherry street of pulmonary tuberculosis. He was born in Canada, but had lived in Ware 15 years. He is survived by three daughters, Maria, Anna and Mrs. Artel Demers, and four sons, Fred, Louis, George and Napoleon. A solemn high mass of requiem was celebrated Monday morning in Mt. Carmel church and burial was in Mt. Carmel cemetery.

Donaldson—Plouff.

Joseph A. Plouff of Church street and Miss Emma Donaldson of West Main street were married Wednesday morning at 5.45 in St. Anne's chapel, Rev. W. J. Lucey performing the ceremony. The couple were unattended and left immediately after the ceremony for a short wedding trip.

At the annual meeting of Eden lodge of Masons Monday evening, these officers were elected: Master, David Woolley; senior warden, J. Gardner Lincoln; junior warden, Walter H. Apperson; treasurer, Herbert W. Sibley; secretary, John H. Schoonmaker.

WARREN.

Death of Patrick Rooney.

Patrick Rooney, 75, died suddenly Saturday afternoon at the home of his daughter, Mrs. George Riley on School street. He had been in his usual health and had been at work for the telephone company. He worked up to Wednesday night, but had caught cold and did not work after that. He lived alone in his house on Pine street and nothing was known of his illness until Friday night. He was removed in James White's automobile Saturday morning to his daughter's home. Death was due to acute congestion of the kidneys, probably following a chronic attack of Bright's disease. He leaves two daughters, Mrs. Kate Riley of Warren and Mrs. Lizzie Bradley of Dorchester, one son, John L. Rooney of Springfield, and two step-sons, Thomas McGovern and William McGovern. The funeral was held Monday from St. Paul's Catholic church.

Was Painfully Injured.

Benjamin Halley was painfully injured Monday afternoon. He drives one of the school teams and was returning down Maple street when his horse suddenly became frightened at a passing train. Mr. Halley feared that the covered wagon was going to tip over and jumped out, catching his foot in the spokes of the wheel. The horse did not run and Mr. Halley lay on the ground for a few moments until J. Victor Sherburne found him. He was helped into the wagon and driven home, where he was attended by Dr. J. E. Dalton. He suffered a fracture of both bones of his right ankle.

The body of Mrs. Carrie J. Gould Blake, wife of William H. Blake, who died in North Weymouth Tuesday, was brought to Warren Friday for burial. The funeral services were held in the Universalist church in the afternoon, Rev. O. I. Darling officiating and burial was in the family lot in Pine Grove cemetery.

For pains in the side or chest dampen a piece of flannel with Chamberlain's Liniment and bind it on over the seat of pain. There is nothing better. For sale by all dealers.

Forbes & Wallace | Forbes & Wallace | Forbes & Wallace | Forbes & Wallace

MAIL ORDERS Promptly and Carefully Filled.

A Remarkable November Clearance of Floor Coverings

Featured By Many Extraordinary Offerings---Prices Lower Than We Have Ever Quoted Before

We are planning many changes in our Department of Floor Coverings. Already we have taken up a lot more of the new room which it is to occupy when the changes have been completed. We have also made large purchases of new goods and must adjust the stock to meet the new conditions. Therefore we have made a bigger event than usual of this annual stock-clearing. More goods are offered. Larger assortments are shown. Prices have been cut more deeply than ever before. Altogether this is Without Exception the Greatest Opportunity to Buy Floor Coverings of High Quality and Desirable Style That Has Ever Been Presented to the Public of Western New England.

Two Unprecedented Offers of Very High Grade Domestic Rugs

$35 to $40 High-grade Royal Wilton Rugs at $29.95

A lot of high-grade Royal Wilton Rugs, new patterns, mostly choice Oriental designs, some of the very best domestic makes. Size 8 feet 3 inches by 10 feet 6 inches. Rugs that usually sell for $35 to $40, November Clearance Price $29.95

$37.50 to $50.00 Dobson's Saxony and Wilton Rugs at $31.95

These fine rugs include Dobson's high-grade Saxony and a lot of Royal Wiltons. They are in beautiful designs in soft, rich colorings. Size 9 x 12 feet. They are values sold regularly at $37.50, $42.50, $45 and $50. We offer them in the November Clearance for $31.95

Tapestry Brussels Carpets, Regular $1.10 grade, November Clearance Price, yard 79c

Wilton Velvet Carpets, Regular $1.45 grade, November Clearance, price, yard $1.05

$1.35 Grade Linoleum in a great variety of patterns, at, a yard $1.15

Hodges' Fibre Matting in very attractive patterns, usually sold at 35c a yard, November Clearance Price 25c

Department of Floor Coverings, 4th Floor.

Forbes & Wallace, Springfield, Mass.

Three Meetings

By F. A. MITCHEL

Copyright by American Press Association, 1911.

Three times I saw her, three times I gazed upon her, each time being drawn nearer to her before I knew her sorrow.

I was riding on a railroad train to my home in the suburbs of a great city when looking up I saw a girl who faced me gazing at me with a pair of large brown eyes. There was in her face something like sadness, but not sadness, rather the appearance of one born under different conditions from other mortals—a resignation, yet a contentment in resignation. I have tried by these words to describe it, but am conscious of having failed.

Though her eyes were fixed upon me, there was no boldness in them. Rather she seemed unconscious of meeting my gaze. Perhaps, I thought, she is thinking of something so absorbing that though she is looking straight at me she does not see me, or it may be that she is looking at something beyond me. I have often returned a salute from a person who meant it for one behind me. So I continued to gaze at the girl and she at me till she turned her face in another direction.

She was sitting by a lady double her age, and the likeness between them indicated that they were mother and daughter. Presently the train stopped at a station, and the two left the car together. I had noticed by the affectionate glances the mother gave the daughter that she idolized her, and when they passed out it was hand in hand.

I did not forget the face, and a year later I saw it again. This time it was in a church. She was, as before, accompanied by her mother. I was sitting in a transept; the girl was facing the pulpit. There was the same look, indescribable in words, that had impressed me twelve months ago. Her gaze was fixed on the clergyman, though occasionally she would drop it as though looking into her lap. There was in me a vague feeling—something like a hope—that when I had seen her on the train she had been, at least a part of the time, looking at me, cognizant of my presence; that she had remembered me as I remembered her. I watched to see if she would not look in my direction. Just before the close of the services I was rewarded by seeing her turn, and her eyes rested upon me. I looked for something to indicate that she was conscious of my presence and that she had seen me before. But there was only that strange look of resignation I had seen before. After the benediction she and her mother left the church in the same manner as they had left the train.

The third meeting. Having a law case I was waiting in the courtroom for it to be tried. A criminal case was called—that of Evelyn Bryce. Who should come into court to answer to the charge of forgery but the girl I had seen twice before. She came hand and hand with her mother.

Naturally I was wrapped in the trial. The prisoner's attorney was evidently trying to prove a conspiracy on the part of certain persons against his client. When he made a point in her favor or her case appeared to be going against her I looked to see what effect it had upon her. I could see very little. I was not sure that I could see any. I noticed that the jury—indeed, all those in the courtroom—were looking at her; that they seemed as much impressed with that look of mingled resignation and content as I.

The defendant's counsel exhibited the document that the girl was accused of forging and showed that the name had been written on the line intended for it without the raising or depression of a single letter and without incline either up or down.

"You see, gentlemen of the jury," he said, "that whoever wrote that name must have written it in a bright light, must have written with a pair of eyes that worked thoroughly in concert, for there are defects of eyesight that cause persons so affected to write slanting the lines downward or upward."

"I presume," interrupted the prosecuting attorney, "that defendant's counsel proposes to prove that his client has the defect he mentions. I would call your honor's attention to the fact that the prisoner has a very beautiful pair of eyes. Indeed, I greatly fear that she is using them upon the jury with a view to securing her acquittal."

The accused's counsel received in silence for a few moments this attempt to prejudice the court and the jury against his client. Then he said:

"The prosecuting attorney is mistaken, your honor. I am not intending to prove that my client has this especial defect. I would for her sake that it had pleased her Creator to give her this defect instead of the one with which she is afflicted. Gentlemen of the jury, my client is unable to cast upon you glances calculated to excite your sympathy any more than she could have seen to write her name exactly on the line in that document, for she is stone blind."

The effect produced on the court by this announcement rendered any further process of law unnecessary. The jury without leaving their seats acquitted the accused, and I now knew why when she and her mother left the courtroom they went hand in hand.

This is but the beginning of a story in which I have been long and am still deeply interested.

Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets do not sicken or gripe, and may be taken with perfect safety by the most delicate woman or the youngest child. The old and feeble will also find them a most suitable remedy for aiding and strengthening their weakened digestion and for regulating the bowels. For sale by all dealers.

Different Vision.

We only see the wart and the obliqued nose as we gaze into the face right beside us, while those afar come to see the power and flash of genius there.

Frail Human Nature.

A man dreams of far-famed popularity when he sees a crowd of men standing about him, only to swiftly discover they were attracted by selfish interests.

First Weighed.

The Marketer—Aren't you wasting a good deal of that steak in trimming it? The Butcher—No, ma'am. I weighed it first.—Toledo Blade.

Cannel Coal for Open Grates.

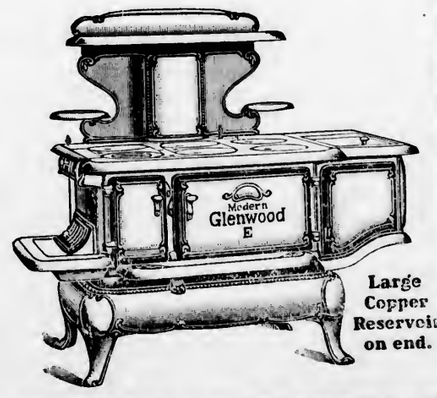
English quality Bostonia cannel coal, especially adapted for open grates and quick fires, of unusually good quality. Try it.

Juanita Forge Coal.

Guaranteed to be the best forge coal mined. Blacksmiths are requested to give it a trial.

Feiner Charcoal.

I have the wholesale agency for Palmer, Monson, Ware and Wilbraham.



W. F. Fillmore, Palmer

If Your Old Range Doesn't Suit—Try A Glenwood

Most Housekeepers Use One you would if you knew about it.

"Makes Cooking Easy"

Large Copper Reservoir on end.

The E. Brown Co., Palmer

THE PALMER JOURNAL

Published

EVERY FRIDAY EVENING

13-15 Central Street, Masonic Block.

PALMER, MASS.

The Palmer Journal Company,
LOUIS E. CHANDLER,
Editor and Manager.

Terms of subscription—Two dollars a year; a discount of 25 cents to those who pay in advance. Six months, $1.00; three months, 50 cents; single copies, 5 cents. Subscriptions continued until notified.

Entered at Post Office as second-class matter.

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 17, 1911.

LOCAL NOTICES.

Electric wiring, etc. 'Phone Moulton, 122-21 Monson.

For all coughs use our Mentholated Pine Expectorant, 25c at Kinsley's Pharmacy, 357 Main St., Cor. Central. The Old Corner Drug Store.

PALMER NEWS.

Those Polish Night Schools.

Now Well Established. Large Attendance, Much Enthusiasm.

The night schools at Three Rivers for Polish residents, which were begun last week, are now well organized and both pupils and teachers have settled down for a good winter's work. The work is somewhat hampered by a lack of adequate quarters, but the Palmer Mill company is putting in more seats and blackboards, and by dividing the classes it is hoped to make satisfactory progress. The noticeable feature is the large amount of enthusiasm shown by the Polish people. They arrive before the classes are scheduled and almost have to be driven home after dismissal, so eager are they to get additional information. The services of the teachers are voluntary, for which they deserve great credit. The classes and instructors are: Supervisor of Polish classes, A. R. Jenks of Amherst; advanced class, about 30, divided into two sections, meets Wednesdays at 7 and 8.30 p. m., with Robert W. Wales and Mr. Hamblin, seniors in the agricultural college at Amherst, as teachers, and Clifford Geer of Three Rivers as assistant; elementary class, about 130, divided into 5 sections, meets Tuesdays and Thursdays at 7 and 8.30 p. m. with Miss L. E. Fletcher, Miss Lucy Twiss, Miss Nellie Twiss, Bradford Stone and Arthur V. Rice, all of Three Rivers, as teachers.

Arcanumites To Take Trip.

Will Attend Union Meeting in Springfield Next Wednesday.

A goodly number of the members of Quaboag council, 876, Royal Arcanum, are planning to attend the union meeting in Springfield, with Pynchon council, next Wednesday evening, of the councils of the Connecticut valley. The meeting is to be held in Grand Army Hall on Court street, next to the new Hall of Records building, and it is expected that a large number will be present. The meeting is to take the form of a class initiation.

Some time ago the officers of the Grand Council of the state offered two cash prizes—$15 and $10—to the two councils having the largest number present for initiation this evening, and Quaboag council is making a try for one of the prizes.

The party will leave Palmer by special electric car at 6.45, and will have a special car returning. A buffet lunch will be served on the return trip. It is expected that there will be about 60 in the party. A special car will be run to the villages after the return of the Arcanum car to Palmer, to accommodate the members who live in the villages.

A Drop In Temperature.

Freeze Follows Two Fine Indian Summer Weather Days.

Two finer days than Saturday and Sunday—as far as weather is concerned—could hardly be asked or desired. Possibly the latter part of Sunday was a trifle windy, for there were a few broken tree limbs and displaced blinds before Monday morning, but they came mostly late in the evening. Saturday was warm and balmy, and open cars were run on some of the lines to the pleasure of patrons who dislike close stuffy cars on warm days. Sunday was warm until about 3 in the afternoon, then the temperature began to drop and the wind to rise, and in the evening there was a hard rain, accompanied by high wind. This over the moon came out as bright as on a harvest night, but the mercury dropped with the moon's ascension, and Monday's atmosphere called for a freshening up of furnace fires. Monday night was also cold, the mercury dropping to several degrees below freezing.

Associate Justice David F. Dillon presided at Wednesday's session of the district court in the absence of Judge Kenefick. John Augustine of North Wilbraham was charged with an assault, and Geofil Telvezosky of the same place was charged with an affray. Both were found not guilty.

Body of Infant Found.

Hunter Makes Discovery in River Near Three Rivers.

Louis Rollett of Three Rivers, while gunning in a boat on the Quaboag river near the "Sikes" farm yesterday afternoon, found the body of an infant floating in the water. It lay with the face down and the back showing above the surface.

Police Officer Michael J. Sullivan Jr. of Three Rivers, was notified at once, and he took the body from the water. Associate Medical Examiner Dr. Charles W. Jackson of Monson was notified and viewed the body. He found it to be that of a newly-born boy, and it had apparently been about ten days in the water. It was taken to Belanger's undertaking rooms in Three Rivers, where an autopsy will be held later. Such examination as could be made yesterday failed to determine whether or not death was due to drowning. The authorities will make a rigid examination into the matter.

Red Men Hold Smoke Talk.

Enjoyable Affair Tuesday Evening. Springfield Visitors Present.

Tockwotton tribe of Red Men converted the regular meeting Tuesday evening into a smoke talk for members and invited guests, of which there was a generous number. A pleasing surprise was the dropping in of District Deputy William Dearden of Springfield with a party of about 15, in the party being a fine male quartet, several soloists and a reader, who contributed much to the program of the evening. Rousing addresses were made by David F. Dillon and Dr. George A. Moore of Tockwotton tribe, and there were talks by other local and visiting brethren. A lunch was served. The tribe is planning to have some entertainment at every meeting through the winter.

All Boys Are Invited.

To Men's League Meeting Next Week. But Must Have Invitation Card.

What promises to be a most interesting meeting of the Men's League will be held in the vestry of the Congregational church next Monday evening at 8 o'clock. It is known as a "Big Brothers and Boy" night. Cards of invitation have been printed and each man who attends is expected to bring at least one boy with him—he may bring a number if he chooses; each father is expected to bring his own son. All the boys above ten years of age are invited, but only by receiving a card from some member. The meeting will consist of singing, story telling and plain talks. Prof. Ralph Cheney of the Springfield Training School will make a brief address on "Playing the game."

Deer Caught in Wire Fence.

Woven Wire Proves Death-trap For Animal in Brimfield.

A yearling buck deer was found entangled in a woven wire fence about a mile from the village of Brimfield this week, so badly hurt that it had to be killed. The animal had tried to jump the fence but failed to clear the top; one fore leg went through the meshes of the fence and the animal was unable to get away, as it could reach the ground only with its hind legs and could not raise the forward quarters high enough to draw out the imprisoned leg. Deputy Luman of Palmer was called and distributed the meat to citizens of Brimfield, including four Brimfield Academy students who helped to carry the deer to the village.

State Will Build Road.

Strip at Shearer's Corner Will Be Constructed Next Year.

Chairman of Selectmen George Warriner received word to-day that the state highway commission has decided to build the short strip of road necessary to connect the macadam on North Main street near Shearer's Corner with the state road which now ends west of the railroad tracks on the road to Springfield. A petition was sent the commission August 3, asking them to build the strip, but nothing was heard until the letter of this week. The cost is estimated at $1600. The allotment of funds has been made, but the work cannot be done until another year.

Death of John W. Foley.

John W. Foley, 74, died at his home near Palmer Center on the Warren road Sunday afternoon after a short illness. Mr. Foley was born in Boston, but came to Palmer with his parents when but eight years old. He enlisted in Co. A, of the 24th Massachusetts regiment, September 10, 1861, and served for three years, being discharged September 10, 1864. He was a member of L. L. Merrick Grand Army post. He leaves one son, William, and two daughters, Kathryne and Maude Foley. The funeral was held Tuesday morning at 9.30 from St. Thomas' church, Rev. P. J. O'Connell celebrating the high mass of requiem. The bearers were D. J. Mahoney, Capt. H. E. W. Clark, H. S. Hobson, S. H. Wright, all members of the Grand Army post. There were numerous fine floral tributes, including a pillow with the word "Comrade" on it, presented by the Post. Burial was in St. Thomas' cemetery.

William H. Crane in "The Senator Keeps House."

William H. Crane will come to the Court Square theatre in Springfield Friday and Saturday of next week, with Saturday matinee, in "The senator keeps house," a new comedy. Mr. Crane plays the part of "Christopher Larkin," a senator and widower, who keeps house in Washington, his nephew acting as his secretary. The senator fights all pension increases and claims for war damages. He is constantly losing his housekeepers, as they fall in love with him. A famous lobbyist assists him by getting new servants, at the same time scheming to marry him herself, so the servants always leave. Assisted by the lobbyist, a congressman brings to the senator's house a widow and her daughter, who are interested in a claim which is the senator's pet aversion. They revolutionize the household and the nephew falls in love with the daughter, while the widow rules the senator. She abandons her claim, which is found to be worthless, and the congressman and lobbyist, in revenge, induce the senator to give a reception at which the women of his household are snubbed by Washington society. The senator is then told of the identity of the women of his house and gets into a terrible rage which ends in the thrashing of the congressman and the closing of the house. But of course all ends happily in the marriage of the daughter and the nephew and a change of heart for the senator.

Program Clock at High School.

A recent acquisition at the high school is a Blodgett program master clock, which does almost everything except think aloud. By an ingenious arrangement of notches cut in the edges of a continuous band running over a series of wheels, all signals in the various rooms are given at the regular times; a bell rings for the beginning of a recitation, again at three minutes before the time is up as a warning, when the time is up, and again when the new period begins. Dismissal and all signals are rung exactly on time.

Mrs. E. R. Pierce of Greenfield is visiting friends in town.

The annual ball of the trolleymen will be held in the opera house on Friday evening of next week.

The Woman's Tuesday Club will meet next Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. S. H. Hellyar on Squier street.

Mrs. Oliver N. Ferry of Providence, R. I., is the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Gager of Foster street.

The contractors who furnished the seats for the Baptist church have been at work this week replacing a number which cracked across the back.

The ladies of the Foreign Missionary society of the Congregational church received an invitation from the Ware society to visit them this afternoon and listen to a lecture on missions.

The proprietors of the soda fountains of the town are considering the question of raising the price of egg drinks from 10 to 15 cents, to hold good as long as the price of hen fruit remains at the present figures, or higher; they are now 50 cents a dozen.

Announcements have been received in town of the marriage Tuesday of Miss Olive Holden Pope, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank B. Pope of Bennington, Vt., and Dr. Rollin Dewey Jenney. The bride is a native of Palmer and is well known here.

A dog belonging to Mrs. Frank Tracy of East Park street got in the way of a passing auto yesterday afternoon and when the auto had passed the dog had passed also, although the body still remained in the highway, covering a larger portion of space that it had a moment earlier.

Mrs. A. H. Gates was pleasantly surprised at her home in Palmer Center last week Thursday afternoon by 12 women, members of the Old Center Improvement society, the occasion being in honor of Mrs. Gates' birthday. The afternoon was devoted to a social and at 5 o'clock a luncheon was served in the dining-room by Misses Ida and Fanny Gates, daughters of the hostess. Each of the guests left a reminder of the occasion.

"I do not believe there is any other medicine so good for whooping cough as Chamberlain's cough remedy," writes Mrs. Francis Turpin, Junction City, Ore. This remedy is also unsurpassed for colds and croup. For sale by all dealers.

Among the Churches.

Rev. C. M. Seamans, pastor of the Advent church in Springfield, will speak in the Advent chapel on Park street Sunday afternoon at 3, following the usual Sunday school at 2.

The subject of the sermon next Sunday morning in the Baptist church will be "Horses and mules." Bible school at 12, Y. P. S. C. at 6 o'clock. Evening worship at 7; sermon subject "Elijah suffering from the blues." All are invited.

The subject of the sermon at St. Paul's church Sunday morning will be "The church and the social crisis." The topic of the young people's meeting will be "Keeping Thanksgiving Day." The leader is Philip Doherty; sub-leaders, Louise McDonald and Frances Tyers.

"The place in life for men who fail" is the subject of the sermon at the Congregational church Sunday. Sunday school at 12, Christian Endeavor at 6. This meeting will be addressed by Miss Helen Jenkins, the daughter of Dr. Jenkins, a former pastor of the church. Evening service at 7; subject, "The prophet Ezekiel and the Babylonian Exile."

W. B. T. Smith,
Physician and Surgeon,
Office and residence, So. High Street, BONDSVILLE, MASS.
Office Hours 7-9 a. m. 12.30-2 p. m. 6.30-8 p. m.
Tel. 104-5.

S. H. Wright,
64 Pleasant Street,
Lock and Gunsmith
Light Repairing of every Description.
Locks, Keys, Guns, Pistols, Shears, Lawn Mowers, Skates, Sewing Machines, Saw Filing, Clocks, Pattern Making, Etc.

Notice to Piano Owners.
Mr. J. Frank Normand, Piano Tuner and Repairer. Nearly 20 years' experience on all makes of pianos. Over fifty satisfied piano owners to refer to in Palmer, Monson and vicinity. Orders left at Journal office or mailed to 800 Main street, Worcester, Mass., will receive prompt attention.

For Sale.
My residence on North Main street. 20 rooms and ground level basement—more room than I need. Steam heat, electric lights, bath. Can easily be made into two tenements.
Louis E. Chandler.

Low Prices for Shoe Repairing
See these prices for machine work:
Men's shoes, half soled and heeled, sewed, $1.00
Men's shoes, full soled and heeled, sewed, 1.50
Ladies' Shoes, soled and heeled, sewed, .85
Better than hand work and much quicker. Satisfaction guaranteed.
H. Platkin,
Bridge St., Palmer.

Palmer Trucking Co.
Successors to S. H. Brown.
Trucking and Jobbing of all kinds.
Piano Moving.
Dealers in Spring Water Ice.
Orders solicited, prompt attention guaranteed.
F. M. Ralton, Manager.
Office, South Main street.
Telephone connection.

Another New Lot of Fountain Syringes
and
Hot Water Bags
Direct from the manufacturer, which means new fresh goods that we can warrant in every particular and sell at bottom prices.
Lynde & Gould
Palmer, Mass.

Quality Always First
Seasonable Goods at Reasonable Prices

Heaters to burn either coal or wood; standard makes; built for service.
Oil Heaters to use before you want to start up your furnace.
Coal Hods
Coal Shovels
Ash Sifters
Ash Cans
Glass and Putty to fix up the cracked windows before winter.

Loaded Shells
Double and Single Barrel Shot Guns
Hunting Coats
Hunting Vests
Cartridge Belts
Shot
Powder
Empty Shells
Primers

Whitcomb & Faulkner,
All Cars Stop in Front of the Door.
Main Street, Palmer, Mass.
Telephone.

I Have an Elegant Line
Of Ladies' Fur, Caracul and Cloth Coats at very popular prices.
My Ladies' Suits are up-to-date and made of the best of fabrics, and the Furs, Skirts, Dress and Shirtwaists, complete a very fine showing of ladies' wearing apparel.
I also have an elegant assortment of Girls' Coats, both in cloth and caracul, which cannot be beat.
My men's and boys' line of Suits and Overcoats cannot be excelled at the price.
A visit to my store will be greatly appreciated.
M. Ecker, Palmer, Mass.
P. O. Block. Up one flight.

The "Proper Dressing"
For males for Thanksgiving is surely to be had here in GLOVES, NECKWEAR, CUFFS and CUFF LINKS, SHIRTS, HOSE, COLLARS, UNDERWEAR.
If you want to be a "swell bird" at the Thanksgiving Dinner, ball or party, here's your chance to make yourself one.
Reasonable prices --- yes, honestly!
C. K. Gamwell,
Clothier and Furnisher,
Palmer, Mass.

Are You Interested in Parlor Stoves?
The GLENWOOD base burner does the best work. The E. Brown Co. handle this line. also carry a full stock of
Modern Hardware at Very Low Prices
E. Brown Co., Agents, Palmer, Mass.

"I am pleased to recommend Chamberlain's Cough Remedy as the best thing I know of and safest remedy for coughs, colds and bronchial trouble," writes Mrs. L. B. Arnold of Denver, Colo. "We have used it repeatedly and it has never failed to give relief." For sale by all dealers.

Card.—We wish to express thanks to our friends and relatives and especially the members of the G. A. R. and Sons of Veterans for their floral offerings and kindness shown us in the recent loss of our father.

Kathryne Foley.
Maude V. Foley.
William J. Foley.

Palmer, Nov. 15, 1911.

DIED.

In Palmer, 12th, John W. Foley, 74.
In Monson, 11th, Kate Harrington, 66, wife of James Gough.
In Belchertown, 15th, Mrs. Mary Hastings, 83.
In Warren, 11th, Patrick Rooney, 75.
In Springfield, 14th, Alice E. Weldon, 29, formerly of Palmer.

TENEMENT TO RENT. 32-tf E. BROWN CO.

WANTED—Plain sewing or work by the day. Inquire at 112 PARK ST., Palmer.

HORSE, Wagon and harness for sale. 31-tf D. F. HOLDEN, Palmer.

WANTED.—Board and room for active elderly lady. P. O. BOX 272, Palmer.

FOX TERRIER PUPS FOR SALE. 17-tf JAMES BURDICK, Mechanic St. Monson

IF YOU WANT your horse clipped in first-class shape, call on JAMES BURDICK, Monson. 32-tf

TO RENT.—Tenement at corner of South Main and Valli streets; rent $11 per month. Inquire of DAVID F. DILLON.

VAULTS CLEANED, gardens plowed, ashes and rubbish removed at reasonable prices. W. H. HOUSE, Palmer. 3-tf

FOR SALE.—One two-horse sleigh, one one-horse sleigh and four driving sleighs. 46-tf WHITCOMB & FAULKNER.

WANTED.—Hens, calves and cows. Will pay good price. Notify by postal card. 44-tf E. GOLDBERG, Three Rivers.

UNITED STATES CREAM SEPARATOR for sale; used only one summer. Cost $70, will sell for $25. Can be seen at my store, 3 Church street. GEORGE W. BARNES. 33-1

FOR SALE—Second-hand hot air wood furnace in good condition; pipes and registers with it. Inquire of E. J. FULLER, Fuller's Crossing, on Bondsville line. 33-tf

PETER MILLS is continuing his cobbling business on North Main street, Monson, having moved into an adjoining room in the same building in which he has been located.

CARPET CLEANER. A Richmond Cleaner to rent with or without operator. Best way to clean carpets, rugs or furniture. Write postal or telephone 25-2. FRED McCOMBER, Box 174, Palmer. 40-tf

NOTICE—Pass Book No. 24,910, issued by the Palmer Savings Bank has been lost and an application by the owner for the issuance of a duplicate Pass Book has been filed with the Bank. Any person finding Pass Book No. 24,910 is requested to return it to the PALMER SAVINGS BANK, Palmer, Mass. 33-3

Taxidermy.

Deerheads mounted, average $10 to $12. Workmanship guaranteed. Hides tanned. Rugs, deer-feet and specialties made up to order. Years of experience.

Walter E. Burnham,
Taxidermist,
Arms Block, Greenfield, Mass.

August Peterson,
Monson, Mass.
Cement, Concrete and Stone Work of all kinds at Lowest Prices.

Bernard J. Bancroft
Teacher of Piano.
In Palmer Saturday of each week. Methods rapid and modern. Teaches at pupil's residence. Terms: 50 cents per lesson. Address
442 State St., Springfield.

Teacher of Violin,
Robert J. Wilder.
Palmer, Mass.

Upright Pianos to Rent
$3 to $5 per month
Money paid for rent applied if purchased.
STONE'S STORE,
370 Main St. Palmer

John Winer, Three Rivers
Dealer in Cattle, Beef and Milch Cows, Poultry.
Pays High Prices
P. O. Box 339, Three Rivers

For Sale
8-room cottage, with bath; on car line. Bargain if taken at once.
R. E. Cummings,
Palmer, Mass.

INSURANCE
Of every kind placed at short notice, and all favors duly appreciated.
Yours Truly
S. H. HELLYAR.
Office at store on Main St.

Johnson's Bookstore
BOOKSTORE BUILDING
391 Main St. Springfield

Our Magazine Club List Is Just Out. It Will Save You Money

Over 700 listed. Save money through us on private or club combination subscriptions. Lists free. We'll mail it if you say so.

Books Stationery Pictures
Prompt attention to mail orders

Fraternity Notes.

Palmer lodge of Odd Fellows meets next Wednesday evening.

Court Palmer, Foresters of America, meet next Tuesday evening.

A regular meeting of Palmer Grange is to be held next Friday evening.

A regular meeting of the Order of the Eastern Star will be held this evening.

A meeting of Division 15, A. O. H., will be held Sunday afternoon in Thorndike.

Next Thursday evening is the regular meeting time of Good Cheer Rebekah lodge.

Quaboag council, Royal Arcanum, will hold a regular meeting next Tuesday evening.

Palmer council, Knights of Columbus, holds a regular meeting next Thursday evening.

L. L. Merrick Grand Army post has installed a gas range in the kitchen of Memorial Hall.

The officers of Thomas lodge of Masons will be installed on the evening of the 27th. The installation will be public to Masons and their families and invited friends.

Personal Mention.

Mrs. Robert Grimstone is seriously ill at her home near Palmer Center.

Mrs. R. Collmer and infant daughter of Pine Plains, N. Y., are guests of Mrs. F. L. Bailey of Foster street.

Mrs. H. G. Loomis of Pleasant street has returned from a week's stay with her mother in Providence, R. I.

Superintendent E. D. Atkins of the street railway, with his wife, is visiting his home in Ellenburg Center, N. Y.

Mrs. F. N. Aiken of New Haven, Ct., has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Ellen M. Barnes of Pleasant street this week.

Mrs. David Micott returned Wednesday from the hospital in Springfield, where she has been some time for treatment.

C. A. Chapman, the new second-trick telegraph operator for the C. V. road, has moved his family from Willimantic to Mrs. William Mason's house on School street.

C. C. Barrett, the new yardmaster for the C. V. road, has moved his family here from Brattleboro, Vt., and is occupying a flat in A. Podrat's new house on South Main street.

Dr. and Mrs. G. A. Moore of Pleasant street are breaking up housekeeping and are selling a portion of their furniture at private sale. They will board through the winter.

Saved Storage Charges.

Young men with meager salaries evolve financial makeshifts abhorrent to the moral and physical sensibilities of their opulent elders. Said one young sprig of boarding house gentility to another who expected to seek new quarters upon his return from a two months' trip on the road:

"What are you going to do with all this personal truck that is cluttering up your room? It will cost you anyhow a dollar a month for storage."

"Not the way I am working things," said the man who was going away. "I have purposely refrained from paying board for four weeks, and the landlady will hold my stuff. Of course I shall square up when I come back and get it again, and in the meantime she will give it free storage."—New York Times.

Loans Without Interest.

In the city of Barcelona, Spain, there is a peculiar pawnbroking establishment bearing the dainty name of "Our Lady of Hope," where loans are made without interest to necessitous persons on the deposit of any articles in pledge. Two-thirds of the value of the deposit is at once advanced, and the loan is made for six months and a day, but if at the expiration of that period the depositor should declare himself unable to redeem it, after another period of six months the pledges are sold, but if they yield more than the amount advanced the difference is given to the original owner. This institution is very popular. Thousands are every year suitors for the favor thus afforded by "Our Lady of Hope."—Richard Ford, "Gatherings From Spain."

A Composer's Dream.

The "Devil's Sonata" was written by Tartini, Italian musician, under the inspiration of a dream, in which the arch fiend challenged him to a trial of skill. Entranced by the wonderful performance of his visitor, the dreamer upon awakening seized his violin and produced from his general impressions this celebrated composition.

The Virtue of Vanity.

What a hideous place to live in this world would be if women took it upon themselves to be too superior for the use of the powder puff!—London Madame.

There is little danger from a cold or from an attack of the grip except when followed by pneumonia, and this never happens when Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is used. This remedy has won its great reputation and extensive sale by its remarkable cures of colds and can be relied upon with implicit confidence. For sale by all dealers.

Royal
BAKING POWDER
Absolutely Pure

Used and praised by the most competent and careful pastry cooks the world over

The only Baking Powder made from Royal Grape Cream of Tartar—made from grapes

Contrary Clues.

"Why was Jack so down on Jim's plans?"

"Because he was up to his tricks."

Wisdom of Loti.

Let us be kind if we wish to be regretted.—Pierre Loti.

Pinless Hat for Wome

A pinless hat for wom[illegible] [illegible]oks around the head with hooks [illegible] eyes.

Invention of Danish Scientist.

An instrument for measuring the nocturnal terrestrial radiation of heat has been invented by a Danish scientist.

Clean-up Sale of Monuments

Don't miss this chance of getting one of them. Manufactured from the best granite in the world and guaranteed to be satisfactory.

The lettering and placing on your lot will be executed in the same careful manner which has won commendation from past customers. The prices will be sure to suit you; they cannot be duplicated.

Palmer Granite and Marble Works
W. H. MacLean, Prop.
10 Converse St., rear of High School.

A Trifle Mixed.

Gerald—She is a college graduate, I believe. Geraldine—Yes, she is an old maid of arts. Gerald—An old maid of arts? Geraldine—Isn't that what you call a female bachelor of arts?

Never Acquitted.

By the verdict of his own breast no guilty man is acquitted.—Juvenal.

Ocean Always Cold.

The great bulk of the water in the oceans is always cold. Only the surface is ever warm, even in the tropics. The depths know nothing of the heat of the sun or the changes in the seasons.

Nugget of Truth.

A pen may be driven, but a pencil does the best when it is lead.

We always have what we advertise. Springfield—Worcester.

Copyright Hart Schaffner & Marx

HERE'S a dignified style in Overcoats for gentlemen, the Chesterfield; one of many good ones we show in fall line. Look them over; Varsity, English box Overcoats, Raglan, adjustable collar, ulsterettes; and many others. All good.

Hart Schaffner & Marx

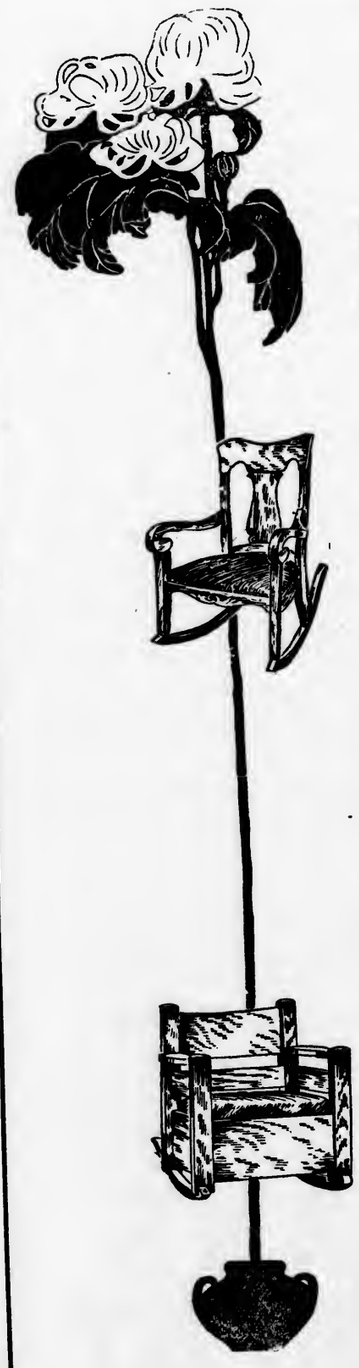
Suits $20 and up
Overcoats $18 and up



This store is the home of Hart Schaffner & Marx clothes

The W. J. Woods Co.
383-385 Main Street,
Springfield, Mass

Fifth Anniversary Sale of Furniture

WELL we certainly are rushed with orders this week since we started this sale. It has been a success right from the first day. Hundreds have taken the opportunity to refurnish their homes; many of the housekeepers to be have placed their orders with us for future delivery.

COME TAKE ADVANTAGE OF THIS SALE. LOOK AND COMPARE

Buffets and Sideboards

We have seventy-eight patterns of Buffets to select from. Some of the finest product in this line is to be found on our floors. At prices ranging from

$11.75 to $98

A very massive Colonial design Mahogany Buffet, large plate mirror, dust-proof drawers, handsome finish. Certainly a beauty for any home. Regular price $90. Sale Price $68

A Handsomely Carved Genuine Solid Quartered Oak Buffet, with pillar columns, large roomy drawers, several of which are lined for silverware, Regular price $48. Sale Price, $29.50

A Swell Front Quartered Oak Buffet, brass or wood knobs, large and roomy drawers, good-sized French plate mirror. Regular price $28. Sale Price, $18.75

Others as low as $11.75.

China Cabinets

Bent Glass End Solid Quartered Oak Cabinets, $11 88

Others at $13.50, $16.75, $18.50, $22 up to $75.

Mattresses

Cotton Felt, Silk Floss, Hair, Rattan, all in the very best of construction and designs at extremely low prices. We have a 45-pound Hair Mattress, covered with the best of ticking, with a sewed imperial edge which ordinarily sells for $22.50. Sale Price, $14.85

The Famous Silk Floss Mattresses which sell for $13.75 and $15.75 we are selling for $10.75 and $11.75

Cotton Felt Mattresses of well-built layers of cotton. A very serviceable mattress. Sale price, $6.48

We have the Soft Top Mattresses in all sizes as low as $1.98

Now is the time to buy that new Range that you have been waiting to buy for a long time.
If you get a "Household Built to Bake" range into your home, you will realize what a pleasure it is to have easy baking. This coupon will entitle you to a water front free of charge with any of the Ranges on sale on our floors.

Free
This coupon entitles you to a Water Front free of charge with every Range purchased.
ADASKIN FURNITURE CO.

Liberal reductions are on the entire line of Ranges.

Rugs

Having purchased at very low figures Tapestry, Axminster, Brussels and Velvet Rugs at the recent mill auction held in New York, we are ready to offer this wonderful purchase to you at great bargain prices.

We offer a 9 x 12 Axminster Rug in floral or Oriental designs for only $17.85

A 9 x 12 Tapestry Brussels, seamless rug as low as $10.68

The 9 x 12 Velvets in various patterns, only $12.50

Just think of saving from $8 to $12 on each Rug, without any exaggeration.

Never has there been such a wonderful bargain before to buy Rugs at such bargain prices.

Dressers, Chiffoniers and Princess Dressers

Our display of high-grade Bedroom Furniture is not surpassed anywhere. Handsome Tuna Mahogany, Circassian Walnut, Birdseye Maple, Quartered Oak, etc. These various woods make handsome Bedroom Furniture, and the prices during this sale are very low.

Handsome Colonial design Mahogany Dresser, with large French plate mirror, glass or wood knobs, plenty of drawers. Regular price $30. Sale Price $23.50

A Bird's-eye Maple Princess Dresser with large oval French plate mirror, glass knobs. Regular price $21. Sale Price, $16.50

Chiffoniers of solid oak, with the latest wood knobs. Sale Price only $4.88

See our large Oak Dressers for $6.88, $8.50. $10 50, $12 75

All marked down from two to six dollars on each Dresser.

Oil Cloths and Linoleums at a Saving of 20 per cent

Blankets and Comforters

800 Blankets and Comforters will be offered at ONE-THIRD OFF THE REGULAR PRICE.

If not ready to receive your purchases we store them FREE OF CHARGE, subject to your order.

Dining Room Tables

A very nice assortment of Round Pedestal Tables. A massive claw foot Solid Oak Pedestal Extension Table, opens up to six feet. Sale Price, $8.39

A Solid Quartered Oak, 42-inch Round Top, 9-inch Pedestal Extension Table with claw feet, extends to six feet, well finished. Regular price $16.75. Sale Price, $12 00

A 45-inch Flush Rim, Solid Quartered Oak, Piano Polish Pedestal Table, with massive base. Regular price $32. Sale Price $23.85

Others from $4.88 to $75.

Dining Room Chairs

A Genuine Leather Upholstered, Box Seat, Quartered Oak Dining Chair. Regular price $2.50. Sale Price $1.97

A Genuine Leather Slip Seat, Quartered Oak Dining Chair. Only $2.39

Others up to $12.50

Brass Beds

We are showing 62 patterns of Brass Beds at prices in such variety to suit every one.

We have a two-inch Post Brass Bed for $6 88 and from that ranging to $75

Iron Beds

$2.88 gives you a well-constructed metal bed. Brass trimmings, three coats of enamel goes on this bed as well as on the higher priced beds.

Ask to see our No. 528 Bed, the bed which hundreds of stores throughout the country sell for $8.50. Our Sale Price on this bed is $5 78, in green, white or blue.

Other designs grading up from $2.88 to $18

Parlor Suits

We have devoted several aisles of our vast second floor to the display of Parlor Furniture, both in three and five-piece Suits. Among these we have a Three-piece Loose Cushion, Mahogany Finish Parlor Suit, handsomely finished, well constructed, which we offer during this sale at $19.88

Other Three-piece Suits at $23 $29, $38, $42, $65 up to $180

The Five-piece Parlor Sets, upholstered in Green Verona, nicely finished frame. Sale Price $22.50

Others at $29, $35, $46, $52, $63 and $75.

ADASKIN FURNITURE CO.

234 Main St., SPRINGFIELD "Just Above the Arch." You'll Like Trading at Adaskin's

Darina and The Agents

She Makes One Mistake

By MILDRED STEVENS

Copyright by American Press Association, 1911.

Miss Charity Decker tied a knitted "fascinator" over her scanty hair, bundled herself into a long, warm cape and drew on thick woolen mittens.

"Darina!" she called shrilly, and when a girl's slender form had appeared in the kitchen doorway she continued: "I'm going now. Hannibal's been waiting for ten minutes, and I expect that old horse's hoofs are most froze off. I know it's cruelty to animals to keep 'em standing around in the snow like this, but I had to get ready, and I couldn't find my spectacles, and then I lost my handkerchief, and I found it and lost it, and I haven't found it again yet. Why, there it is on the almanac. I was looking to see what the weather is going to be tomorrow"—

The girl laughed softly as she pushed the older woman gently toward the door. "There, Aunt Charity; if you stop and talk much longer the horse's hoofs will freeze off, and Hannibal is looking so impatiently at the door. I won't forget to put the bread in the oven at 11 o'clock, and I'll water the plants and put Toby in the woodshed before I go over to Cousin Sarah's to sleep. And I'll expect you home on the 3 o'clock train tomorrow afternoon without fail—there!"

Miss Charity was on the porch by this time and waving a mittened hand to Hannibal Jones, the stage driver. "I'll be there in a jiffy, Hannibal. I've got to say something more to Darina"—

Darina laughed merrily as she waved a farewell to Miss Charity's gesticulating mittens, and she went back into the house and closed and locked the door. Miss Charity's departure for Greenville, the next village, was an event that had been talked about for a fortnight, ever since her brother's wife had invited her over to the Baptist donation party and to spend one night. She had left a dozen different commands for her grandniece to carry out, and the last and the greatest of these was the one concerning agents of any description.

Charity Decker detested agents. She was scarcely polite when members of that honorable calling knocked insinuatingly at her kitchen door. Her strict orders for the reception of any that might call during her absence had been thoroughly drilled into Darina's understanding and out of the tenderness of her heart the girl hoped that the agents would stay away.

"They are not so plentiful in snowy weather," thought Darina as she rolled out some ginger cookies. "I hope none of them will call, but somehow it does seem as if Little River harbored more canvassers, and—there is one now!"

She popped a pan of cookies in the oven and pushed back her fair hair with a floury hand, leaving a dab of white on the rose of her cheek. She opened the door to find a Syrian rug dealer squatted on the doorstep. Miss Charity's admonitions still rang in her ears.

"No—no—no!" said Darina emphatically in response to his appealing gestures as he displayed his wares. She closed the door and watched him shamble down the path. Her heart leaped with fright as she saw him pause at the gate and make some sort of mark on the white post with a bit of red chalk. Then, with a sly look over his shoulder at the house, he went on his way.

"How dreadful!" thought Darina as she returned to her baking. "Perhaps he has marked the house so he can return tonight and rob us—or perhaps murder."

There was another knock at the door, and Darina took her cookies out of the oven before she tiptoed over to the entrance and peered through the crack in the door curtain. A man with a long handled patent mop impatiently waited on the doorstep

Darina opened the door.

"Good morning," said the agent courteously. "Are you the lady of the house?"

"Yes," said Darina. "But I do not wish to buy anything today. We have a mop we bought from you last year."

"Very good, ma'am; you cannot need another one now, and you will never unless yours is stolen, for, as I told you last year, when I sold it to you, our mop is practically indestructible Now, let me show you the best clothes brush you ever saw—there, ma'am—look at that!"

When Darina had finally added a firmly voiced "No, no!" to his monologue he gathered up his wares, disposed them about his person and with a bob of his head was gone.

"I hope he doesn't mark the house," murmured Darina as she watched his hurried departure. But the brush man seemed glad to get away from such an incriminating vicinity and paused to look neither to the right nor left as he hastened down the road. Presently Darina saw him open Cousin Sarah's green gate and enter the yard.

She went back to her cookies, and an hour passed rapidly. Just as she had placed the last panful of crisp dainties on the table another knock came—loud and imperative.

This time the agent was a young man, tall and good looking, muffled to the ears in a thick warm ulster, while a fur cap that rested on his dark head was whipped off as Darina opened the door. He did not carry a bag nor a bundle, but Darina did not doubt that somewhere concealed about his person was a capacious pocket that would hold innumerable samples of something salable—probably subscription books.

"Good morning," he said pleasantly and in a very businesslike manner. "Is Miss Charity Decker at home?"

"No," she said coldly.

"Ah," he said in a disappointed tone. Then, unbuttoning his coat, he thrust a gloved hand into an inner pocket. "I wonder if you"— he was beginning when Darina interrupted him coolly.

"We don't wish to buy a dictionary, thank you."

His hand dropped to his side, and he flushed redly. "I beg your pardon"—he was beginning when Darina's voice, a little sharper this time, brought fire to his brown eyes.

"Or a history of the world or reminiscences of anybody," said Darina heartlessly.

"I'm not canvassing for books," he said grimly.

"Nor a patent mousetrap or a carpet beater or fancy note paper," continued Darina recklessly. "We've got a folding sewing table that turns into a chair"—

"Do I look as if I had a folding sewing table concealed about me?" he demanded scornfully, yet with a smile back of the glitter in his eyes.

"We've got a bread mixer and a patent washer and a freezer"—

"Pray spare me the inventory of your household goods," he said cuttingly. "I may as well tell you as rapidly as I can that"—

"And we don't want to purchase any fruit trees or shrubs this year!" ended Darina breathlessly and rather frightened at her own lack of courtesy.

"All of which is very interesting, madam; but, as a matter of fact, Mr. Joseph Decker of Greenville asked me to stop here for his sister, Miss Charity, and drive her over to his place. There! That's why I'm here!" he ejaculated, in a relieved tone.

Darina's floury little hands flew up to her reddening cheeks. "Oh, I am so sorry! What have I said?" she faltered. "My aunt went to Greenville by train. She left about an hour ago in the station stage."

"Then I may as well drive along," he said, replacing his cap and turning away, his glance lingering in a troubled way on Darina's sweet, tearful face. "You mustn't disturb yourself over that. You see, I was so slow about explaining who I was that no wonder you thought I was a canvasser of some sort. I suppose you're bothered to death with them."

"We are," said Darina fervently, and in a few words she told him of Aunt Charity's last admonition and also of her experience that morning. "I think the brush man scattered my last atom of patience," she explained.

"I don't wonder," he consoled her. "I believe the same fellow called at the parsonage the other day and"—

"The parsonage!" echoed Darina. "Then you must be Mr. Fleck, the new minister at Greenville."

"I am," he smiled, baring his head again. "I believe there is some sort of donation party going on for me tonight, and my sister, who keeps house for me, advised me to keep out of the way. That is how I happened to call for Miss Decker."

"It was very kind of you, indeed, and I am ashamed of the reception I gave you," said Darina. Just as he was passing through the gate to enter the little cutter that awaited him Darina remembered the red mark on the gatepost. Perhaps Mr. Fleck could reassure her as to its meaning. She recollected hearing Miss Charity say that he had been a missionary.

Instantly she was in the gateway explaining her fears. The minister looked at the rude character closely, thought for a moment, and then a smile broke over his face. "I was connected with a mission in Syria for a year, and I learned something of the language. This merely says it is the house of avarice and merchants will do well to pass it by. It is too bad that it is not written in plain English so all your obnoxious agents might be discouraged."

Darina watched him drive away over the sparkling crust of snow, conscious that her heart had thrilled strangely at the clear, compelling glance of his brown eyes. She went back to her baking quite cured of her ill humor and humming softly under her breath.

The next day when Miss Charity returned home and had evolved from her voluminous wrappings into a very small thin old lady she related with much animation the events of the evening before.

"It was the nicest donation party I ever went to, Darina, and I like that young minister. Why, the first thing I'd got there he singled me out and told me about coming here and asked all sorts of questions about us. He's coming to call, and I say it's very kind and attentive, because Little River is out of his parish. They're going to have a sociable at the church next week, and your Uncle Joe says he wants us both to come over for it. Don't you want to go?" Miss Charity beamed proudly at her pretty niece.

"Yes, indeed," said Darina demurely, with a happy light in her blue eyes.

Miss Charity shot a keen glance at the girl. "Of course, you'll wear your rose colored cashmere," she said carelessly.

"Of course," agreed Darina, blushing

Life is larger than morality.

OUT OF THE SAVAGE STATE

By DAVID WALTER CHURCH

Copyright by American Press Association, 1911.

From the time America was discovered to, say, half a century ago there were repeated cases of white children being carried away by Indians and brought up in the tribe. Those that were raised by red men were boys. At any rate, I never read of a girl having received such treatment. Doubtless any girl falling into their hands was killed. Savages are not overburdened with respect for the value of women.

Some forty years ago I was a young lieutenant in the —th U. S. cavalry, and my principal business about that time was fighting Indians. In one of our skirmishes with the Sioux we captured one of the white boys who had been brought up as an Indian. He was a handsome little fellow, tall and straight, about fourteen years old, and his originally white skin from having been exposed had turned brown. He could speak only the Sioux language; could not remember any life but that of an Indian, any father or mother or other relative. When captured he was fighting like a little devil.

The colonel turned him over to me to see if I could discover his identity. I questioned the Indians who had been captured with the boy, but they knew nothing of his antecedents, since they had captured him from another tribe when he was about four years old. I then questioned the boy himself—through an interpreter—and found that he had once been shown the clothes in which he had been captured and some trinkets that were taken from those to whom he had belonged. These were a pocketbook, a gold watch and chain and various other things the boy could not remember. They had been kept by an old squaw, who received them at the boy's second capture from another squaw, to whom they had been given by the chief of the tribe who had taken the baby from his parents.

Having reported this to the colonel, he directed me to ride under a flag of truce to the main body of the Sioux, secure the articles and bring them back if possible. He authorized me to pay $50 for them, if necessary. I went to the Sioux camp, purchased the articles for a song and brought them back with me.

Besides the watch and the pocketbook was a tintype of a baby, and a resemblance could be traced between it and the boy. There were also some lace and a bunch of keys on a silver ring. I examined the contents of the pocketbook. It was a long leather one such as is used to carry unfolded bills. If there had been any bills in it they were not there when I looked into it. There were papers the use of which were very plain to me, but would mean nothing to an Indian. For instance, there was a deed to a lot in the county of Cook, state of Illinois. There were a draft on a bank in San Francisco and two little books that I recognized as savings bank books.

I reported the find to the colonel, and he forwarded my report to Washington. After a long period, during which we kept the boy—much against his will—at Fort G., to which we returned after the campaign, the colonel received an order to detail some one to take the boy to the places indicated by the deed and the savings bank books, with a view to learning who he was. The colonel gave me the job.

Looking on the map of Illinois, I discovered that Cook county was the site of Chicago. One of the bank books indicated an account in a bank at Peoria and another in Quincy, both in the same state.

I set off in company with the boy, who by this time had learned a little English, and on reaching Chicago found the lot in question to be in the heart of the city. The deed was in the name of Edgar Kyle. This also was the name on the savings bank books and the draft on San Francisco. The draft was for $3,000, the accounts in the savings banks amounted to an aggregate of $6,743, and the lot in Chicago had within a few years become worth about $100,000.

Pursuing my investigations, I discovered that Edgar Kyle some twelve or thirteen years before had emigrated or started in a plains schooner for California with his wife and baby, but had never been heard from after leaving the Missouri river.

I felt very sure that they had been murdered by Indians, their baby carried off, that I now had him under my care, and he was doubtless heir to a very good property. But I saw very little hope of his possessing it.

On his baby clothing were the initial letters "E. K.," and on this evidence I collected the draft and the amounts in the savings banks for him. With this as a starter I succeeded in having the court of chancery appoint a guardian for him, and proceedings were begun to secure the lot, which had been bought in under a foreclosure of a mortgage for $2,500. A flaw in the foreclosure was discovered which enabled young Kyle's guardian to recover the property for him by paying the mortgage with interest.

Meanwhile Kyle was being educated and is now a prominent resident of a western city. He still holds the Chicago lot, which is worth three-quarters of a million. He says his boyhood, passed with the Indians, now seems to him like a weird dream, though for several years after becoming civilized he often had longings to return to a savage life. But realizing that a better life was before him he resisted and now rejoices that he did.

The way that wins is hard.

SHE SUFFERED FIVE YEARS

Finally Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Erie, Pa.—"I suffered for five years from female troubles and at last was almost helpless. I went to three doctors and they did me no good, so my sister advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and when I had taken only two bottles I could see a big change, so I took six bottles and I am now strong and well again. I don't know how to express my thanks for the good it has done me and I hope all suffering women will give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. It was worth its weight in gold."—Mrs. J. P. ENDLICH, R. F. D. No. 7, Erie, Pa.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, contains no narcotic or harmful drugs, and to-day holds the record for the largest number of actual cures of female diseases we know of, and thousands of voluntary testimonials are on file in the Pinkham laboratory, from women who have been cured from almost every form of female complaints, such as inflammation, ulceration, displacements, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, indigestion and nervous prostration. Every suffering woman owes it to herself to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial.

Without trying it no woman ought to say this medicine will not help her case.

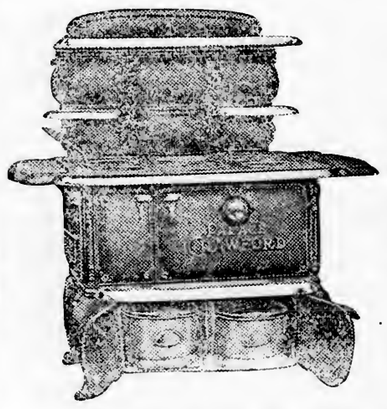
m

VIOLIN AND PIANO LESSONS

Given by

Julia A. Allen, Palmer, Mass.

Orders promptly filled for Music, Violins, Strings, etc



Here are the Helps that Cooks have wanted

Crawford Ranges

supply them—no others can!

The Single Damper (patented); one motion—push the knob to "kindle," "bake" or "check"—the range does the rest. Damper mistakes impossible.

The Ash Hod in the base (patented). The ashes fall through a chute into a Hod, all of them, making their removal safe, easy, cleanly. The Coal Hod is alongside, out of the way.

The Oven has cup-joint heat flues that heat it in every part alike. No "cold corners," no "scorching spots."

The Fire Box and Patented Grates enable a small fire to do a large baking.

Ask the Crawford agent to show you. Write us for circulars.

Walker & Pratt Mfg. Co.
31-35 Union St., Boston

Whitcomb & Faulkner, Palmer Agents

An Innovation in Oil Heaters

The Perfection Smokeless Oil Heater, with its drums enameled in turquoise, is an ornament to any room, whether in the country or city home.

No home is quite complete without a Perfection Oil Heater. It is a necessity in the fall and spring, when it is too warm to start the regular heating apparatus, and too cool to be without heat. In the midst of winter it is often convenient as an auxiliary heater, as there are always some cold corners in a house.

The enameled heater always presents a nice appearance, as the enamel will not tarnish or burn off. It is not an "enamel paint," but it is the same as the enamel of your cooking utensils

The Perfection is the most reliable and convenient portable heating device you can find. An automatically-locking flame spreader prevents turning the wick high enough to smoke

PERFECTION SMOKELESS OIL HEATER

Dealers everywhere. Ask yours to show you the Perfection Heater enameled, or write for descriptive circular to any agency of

Standard Oil Company
(Incorporated)

Stiff Neck Relieved

For any stiffness or lameness Sloan's Liniment gives relief at once. It acts like massage—quickens the blood and limbers up lame muscles and joints. When applied immediately after violent exercise it prevents stiffness.

Here's Proof

"I am using your liniment for stiffness. I have bought two bottles of it and it is the best I ever saw."
Mrs. MARY CURRY, Milltown, Ga.

"I had a severe pain between my shoulders, and noticing your advertisement in the street cars I got a bottle which quickly relieved me."
R. D. BURGOYNE, Maysville, Ky.

SLOAN'S LINIMENT

is an excellent antiseptic remedy for sore throat, cuts and bruises. Very penetrating—needs no rubbing. Sold by all dealers.

Price 25c., 50c. and $1.00.

Sloan's book on Horses, Cattle, Hogs and Poultry sent free. Address

DR. EARL S. SLOAN, BOSTON, MASS.

Choosing Silver

Artistic designs, correct style, brilliant finish, combined with honest value, make

1847 ROGERS BROS. XS TRIPLE

silverware the choice of discriminating purchasers. This name to-day stands for the heaviest grade of plate and exquisite beauty of patterns, assuring long years of service and satisfaction. Its remarkable durability has won it the popular title

"Silver Plate that Wears."

Sold by leading dealers everywhere. Send for catalogue "C 1," showing all patterns.

Meriden Britannia Co., International Silver Co., Successor, Meriden, Conn.

Palmer Savings Bank,

Palmer, Mass.

Officers.

H. G. LOOMIS, President.
R. C. NEWELL, 1st Vice President.
W. E. STONE, 2d Vice President.
C. F. SMITH, 3d Vice President.
GEORGE A. RICE, Clerk.

Auditors.

W. E. Stone. E. B. Taylor.
C. A. LeGro.

Board of Investment.

H. G. Loomis. W. E. Stone. C. F. Smith.
H. E. W. Clark. E. E. Hobson

Trustees.

H. G. Loomis. W. E. Stone. J. O. Hamilton.
H. E. W. Clark. G. D. Mooers. L. J. Potter.
R. C. Newell. L. B. Holden. C. L. Wald.
Geo. S. Holden. C. E. Fuller. E. B. Taylor.
M. J. Dillon. C. F. Smith. C. A. LeGro.

Treasurer.

C. L. Wald.

Safe Deposit Boxes for rent.

Banking Hours: 9 a. m. to 3 p. m. Saturday, 9 a. m. to 12 m. Friday Evening, 7.30 to 9.

The Antalgica

Or Vegetable Pain Reliever

was introduced to the public in 1848, since which time thousands of bottles have been sold each year to an appreciative public, which is a good evidence of its merits. It is adapted to so many ailments it should be in every household, for it cures all kinds of pains both internal and external. For Bronchial affections it is unrivaled by any article in the market. It is a sure cure for Cholera Morbus and Dysentery, if taken in season, also for Coughs. It is an effective remedy for rheumatic affections, stiff joints, swelled limbs, sprains, cramps, toothache and many other ills to which the flesh is heir. Try it and it will do you good. It is sold at 25c, 50c and $1 00 per bottle by the Bay State Drug Co., Lynde & Gould, and the proprietor.

O P. Allen,
Palmer, Mass.

Monson News.

Academy 18, Connecticut College 3.

In a fast and exciting game Saturday afternoon Monson Academy defeated the heavy football team of the Connecticut Agricultural College of Storrs, Ct., 18 to 3. The game started with a rush, Monson scoring their three touchdowns in the first period. The remainder of the game was more even and the local team used many substitutes in the last half. Oefinger again starred and showed more football ability than has been shown on a Monson Academy team in many years. The work of the entire Monson team was excellent, especially the playing of Capt. Smith and Bowker. The generalship and judgment of Quarterback Dunbar was the best witnessed on Cushman field this season. The sensation of the game was a 65-yard run for a touchdown by Barnikow, Monson's speedy end, on a delayed forward pass. The other two touchdowns were made by Oefinger and Capt. Smith, the latter kicking all of the goals, making an especially hard kick from the side line. The visitors were inclined to rough it up some. Capt. Howard excelled for the college team. Their only score was made on a drop kick by him from the 20-yard line. His punting was the best witnessed here this season. In a preliminary the Academy Mudgets easily defeated the heavier Palmer grammar school team 26 to 0. The score:

Monson Academy.	Connecticut.
Harper, E. Taylor, l e	r e, Vibert
Atherton, Frye, l t	r t, Kendall
Lechman, Taylor, l g	r g, Ketchman
Francis, c	c, Browning
Elliott, Flynt, r g	l g, Nowell
Bates, r t	l t, Storrs
Barnikow, r e	l e, Geehan, Hines
Dunbar, p b	q b, Dunne
Oefinger, Prendiville, l h b	r h b, Aubry
Smith (capt), r h b	l h b, Howard
Bowker, f b	f b, Scoville

Score, Monson Academy 18, Connecticut 3. Touchdowns, Oefinger, Smith, Barnikow. Goals from touchdowns, Smith 3. Goal from the field, Howard. Referee, Howard. Umpire, Sheridan of Springfield training school. Linemen, Entwhistle, Mathewson. Time, two 8 and two 12-minute periods.

Dorcas Drama Next Week.

The entertainment which the Dorcas society of the Congregational church is to offer next Tuesday evening gives promise of much that is unusual and mirth-provoking. Some of the bright and particular stars among the amateurs of the society are to assume the leading parts in the play, "Maidens All Forlorn." It will be interesting to learn how "Aunt Louisa" manages her three refractory nieces. She has her hands full, but Miss Holmes as "Aunt Louisa" is equal to any emergency. There will be a hearty laugh for all, and after the play Prof. Eldred will amuse with slight-of-hand, etc.; roses will grow from grains of sand, and other miraculous things. Candy, ice cream, etc., will be for sale.

To Present Play.

Court Monson, Foresters of America, are making preparations to present a five-act comedy, "Tony, the Convict," in Memorial hall about the middle of January. The act is being trained by J. P. Connor of Springfield.

Paul Mott has resigned his position with Dr. F. W. Ellis.

Thomas Gavin has returned from a visit in New York City.

Mrs. A. H. Danforth of Springfield called on local friends Thursday.

Miss Elsie Gunn has returned from a visit with relatives in Springfield.

William Cadwell has taken a position as foreman in the Cushman mill.

Alfred B. Noreross has returned from a visit with relatives in Southboro.

James Moran of Bridge street is spending a few days in New York City.

Miss Hazel Aldrich of North Main street is visiting friends in Philadelphia.

Miss Catherine O'Brien has returned from a visit in Webster and Valley Falls, R. I.

William P. Welsh of Elm street is moving into John Kimber's tenement on Washington street.

The work on the bridge and on the extension of the bridge on Pearl street is complete and it is ready for use.

Miss Lillian Barker, who has been visiting Monson friends, has returned to her home in Springfield.

Miss Margaret Connell, who has been visiting relatives in town, has returned to her home in Pittsfield.

An artisian well is being driven on the Arrow Head farm. The work is in charge of a contractor from Easthampton.

Bert Bridges, who has been visiting at the home of Mrs. Lewis Rogers on Reynolds avenue, has returned to Warren.

Prof. James H Tufts of Chicago University will occupy the pulpit in the Congregational church, Sunday morning.

Charles Cooley has resigned his position with the Somerset Woolen Co. and has accepted a position in the hat shop.

William Kennedy has moved his household goods from Pearl street to Mrs. Hannah Lyon's house on South Main street.

Patrick Lyons, who has been confined to his home on South Main street by illness, has returned to his duties at D. F. Pease's store.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Arrow of Pittsfield, who have been visiting at the home of Matthew Green, have returned to their home.

E. H. Pike has moved his household goods from his residence on North Main street to Springfield, where he will make his future home.

There will be a dance at the home of Charles Lawrence in Tray Hollow Saturday evening. Many people from the village are planning to attend.

Peter Mills has moved his family from North Main street. His shoe repairing business has been moved to the shop formerly occupied by C. E. Smith.

Frederick Morris, who has been visiting his parents since his honorable discharge from the navy several weeks ago, has re-enlisted and will return to service Nov. 24.

The T. C. S. C. of the Methodist Episcopal church are planning for a sale and entertainment to be held in the church Tuesday, Dec. 12. Further notice will be given.

The Fortnightly Club will meet next Monday afternoon with Mrs. F. J. Entwistle on Oak street. The meeting will be in charge of Mrs. John Cross and the topic will be "Current Events."

Wilson M. Brainerd has returned from Boston and vicinity, having attended the Harvard-Carlisle football game Saturday and spending Sunday at Tufts College with John Leahy of this town.

Misses Angeline and Anna Driscoll, who spent Sunday with Miss Gertrude Hanley at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. N. P. Hanley on Main street, have returned to their home in Springfield.

J. P. Thacker is moving the building that he recently purchased from the A. H. Danforth estate on Hampden court on to his own property on Hampden avenue. Mr. Thacker is planning to have the building remodeled into a dwelling house.

Ralph Taylor Entwistle will give a musicale in the Universalist church next Wednesday evening. He will be assisted by Mr. J. S. R. Coy of Spencer, pianist, Mrs. A. D. Noreross, soprano, Mr. Harrison G. Taylor and Mr. Henry G. Billings, violinists.

The inspection of the Woman's Relief Corps was held in the Grand Army hall Thursday evening, after which supper was served. Many members of the local corps will accept the invitation to attend the 25th anniversary celebration of the Palmer corps this evening.

The hunting season on partridge, game birds and squirrels closed Wednesday. The hunters report a good season on squirrels, but the birds were very scarce. Many of the local sportsmen are making arrangements to take advantage of the open season on deer next week.

The Current Events Club met Thursday afternoon with Miss E. R. Holmes at her residence on Main street. The study on "The new epoch" was continued. Two papers were read on the works of Michael Angelo, one by Miss Holmes on his paintings and one by Miss Wingate on his sculpture.

There was a good attendance at the meeting of the Dorcas society of the Congregational church in the church parsonage with Mrs. G. A. Andrews Wednesday afternoon. The older members had the pleasure of renewing acquaintance and the newer members of meeting Mrs. N. M. Pratt, wife of Rev. N. M. Pratt, a former pastor, now of Cleveland, Ohio.

The Century club met Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. H. F. Miller on North Main street. Three papers were read, one by Mrs. William Ricketts on "The Orators, Webster, Clay and Calhoun;" one on an "Arctic exploration," by Mrs. H. W. Lancey, and another on "The dawn of national consciousness, 1829 to 1844" by Mrs. Frederick Smith.

Mrs. Rose Wallace was pleasantly surprised by a miscellaneous shower given by about 20 of her friends at the home of Miss Annie Seymour on Main street Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. Wallace was also presented with a chain and pendant, the presentation speech being made by Mrs. George H. Seymour. She also read a very appropriate poem composed by Mrs. Aldrich.

The Current Events club, the Century club and invited friends and the Woman's club of Palmer held a joint meeting at the Quaboag Country clubhouse at North Monson last Friday afternoon. The subject of the meeting was a fine lecture on "Art in lace," by Miss Martha Shannon of Boston, illustrated with stereopticon views. The meeting was well attended, about 100 women being present.

At the meeting of A. A. Gage camp, Sons of Veterans, Tuesday evening, the following officers were nominated: Commander, C. A. Duncan, L. B. Alberty; senior vice commander, R. E. Green, F. J. Flynt, E. F. Harris; junior vice commander, W. O. McEwyan; treasurer, Walter Comer, K. B. Munsell; secretary, A. F. Noyes, A. G. Beckwith; camp council, Morris Moore, W. G. Norton, William Molfett. The election will be held at the next regular meeting.

Academy Notes.

Principal Dewing announced in chapel Wednesday morning that the prudential committee of the Academy, with the consent of the appropriation committee, has decided to award the income of the Hadassah T. Dewey prize speaking fund in future years as follows: To the student attaining the highest average in rhetoricals, a prize of $15; to the second best student, $10. The averages will be taken from the grading of the seven instructors on the three rhetoricals given by each student during the year. In past years this fund was distributed in a prize speaking contest in which the best speakers were selected from the school and declamations were heard by three judges, who awarded two first prizes of $10, one to a boy and one to a girl, and two seconds prize of $5, one to boys and one to girls. In order that the public may still have the opportunity of hearing the best speakers of the school, the ten attaining the highest averages of the year will give one of their selections at public rhetoricals in May.

Somebody Will Lose.

"What is meant by the 'triangle' in modern dramas?"

"When two men love the same woman, or two women love the same man."

"Umph! That isn't a triangle. That's a gamble."

Eternal Feminine.

Lady—Why are you all so worried? Captain—The fact is, madam, we have broken our rudder. Lady—Is that all. Well, the rudder is under water and it won't show. Let's go on.—Toledo Blade.

Useless Effort.

There isn't much use asking humanity to bow before a great sacrifice when they constantly are prostrating themselves before enormous wealth.

Many Children Are Sickly.

Mother Gray's Sweet Powders for children break up Colds in 24 hours, relieve Feverishness, Headache, Stomach Troubles, Teething Disorders, and Destroy Worms. At all druggists, 25c. Sample mailed FREE. Address, Allen S. Olmstead, LeRoy, N. Y.

Thoughtful Child.

A little boy whose grandmother had just died wrote the following letter, which he duly posted: "Dear Angels—We have sent you grandma. Please give her a harp to play, as she is short-winded and cannot blow a trumpet."—Vanity Fair.

For Limit on Donkey Riders.

At the Yarmouth (England) town council it was recently proposed that the donkeys on the sea front should not be allowed to carry persons weighing more than 12½ pounds.

Modern Ethics.

Do not kick a man when he is down. Turn him over and feel in the other pocket.—Galveston News.

MAKES RAPID HEADWAY

Add This Fact to Your Store of Knowledge.

Kidney disease advances so rapidly that many a person is firmly in its grasp before aware of its progress. Prompt attention should be given the slightest symptoms of kidney disorder. If there is a dull pain in the back, headaches, dizzy spells or a tired, worn-out feeling, or if the urine is offensive, irregular and attended with pain, procure a good kidney remedy at once.

Thousands recommend Doan's Kidney Pills. Read the statement below:

Oliver Gervais, 59 West Main St., Ware, Mass., says: "I am only too pleased to verify the testimonial I gave in 1908, telling of my experience with Doan's Kidney Pills. I had pains through my back and loins and the secretions from my kidneys not only passed too frequently, but contained sediment. Doan's Kidney Pills soon made me well."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—DOAN'S—and take no other.

"Fair and Square Credit."

THERE'S NO END OF STYLE TO OUR BIG, HANDSOME EASY COATS FOR MEN'S AND WOMEN'S WEAR.....

HAVE YOU SEEN THEM?

THE WOMEN'S COATS

ALL WOOL MIXTURES in soft shades, grays and browns. Big close-laid shawl collars. Deep handsome cuffs. Elegance in every line $15.00

SNAPPY WIDE WALES—These are the coats with the delicate striped effect obtained without the use of a separate color. Satin lined $16.50

BIG POLO COATS—These are the great, roomy handsome garments of the season. Double-faced goods, plaid effect. Splendid goods $20.00

Swell English Tourist Coats	-	$22.50
Big Tourist or Motor Coats	-	$25.00
Rough-Cloth Reversible Coats	-	$27.50

Those Great Classy Coats for Men

No previous season in men's dress has showed so much snappy originality, style and downright comfort. They are dandy coats, unusual coats, coats to turn and look at and admire the wearer for his good taste in selecting them.

Big Coats, with broad belts.
Great Sweeping Blanket Coats.
Elegant, Convertible Collar Coats.
Handsome Model Dress-up Coats.
Plaid and Plain Black Coats, English Styles, Big and Roomy.

$18.00, $20.00, to $35.00

Coats, Suits, Furs, Hats, Shoes
Credit to Anybody Who's Honest

Benj. Goldstein, Inc.
17-19 Elm St., Court Square Building
Springfield, Mass.

New Line of

Sweaters
Auto Hoods
Scarfs
Aviation Caps
Mufflers
Window Shades

The Famous
Interwoven Hosiery

Hellyar's Bargain Store
Converse House Block, Palmer, Mass.

Tables

Parlor, Library or Sitting Room

Modeled on distinctive lines from the 14-inch top to the largest size Library Table. Built of kiln dried lumber and finished in golden oak, mahogany or mission.

LIBRARY TABLES—33 x 22-inch tops in mahogany finish or quartered sawed oak; built on straight lines, $10 value for $8.50

QUARTERED OAK TABLES—40 x 26-inch tops, full undershelves. Colonial designs, $14 value for $11.90

DOUBLE PEDESTAL BASE TABLES with 42 x 27-inch oval tops, mahogany only, $25 values for $21.25

PARLOR TABLES IN SOLID MAHOGANY, choice of round, square or oval tops, pedestal bases.

Values $11.50, 13.00, 15.00, 18.00, 20.00 and $27.00
Sale Price $9.75, 11.00, 12.75, 15.30, 17.00 and $22.95.

FLINT & BRICKETT
Opp. Court Sq. 439 Main St., Springfield
Agents for the Crawford, Sterling and Stewart Ranges.

Albert Steiger Company
THE WOMAN'S STORE.
Springfield, Mass.

Sale of

Thanksgiving Linens

Many Lots at Special Prices

We're taking this occasion to clear our stock of all broken lines. These we offer in connection with other special values at very low prices. They're all from our own well-selected stocks---perfect in pattern and weave and fitted to add luster to any Thanksgiving feast. Before you buy, investigate these special offerings.

Special Values in Table Linen by the Yard

10 PIECES ALL LINEN DAMASK 70 inches wide, in a good line of patterns—75c value. Special, a yard 59c

15 PIECES ALL-LINEN DAMASK, very fine and in a beautiful line of patterns, 68 and 70 inches wide—A yard 69c and 75c

15 PIECES OF OUR SPECIAL MADE Extra Heavy and Fine Damask, 70 and 72 inches, in a wide range of patterns. Extra value—A yard, 89c and 98c

10 PIECES EXTRA HEAVY DOUBLE Damask, 72 inches wide, in a complete line of new patterns, with Napkins to match—A yard $1.25

OTHER DAMASKS, 72 INCHES wide, at, a yard— $1.50, $1.75 and $2.25

Tray and Table Cloths

IN A LARGE AND COMPREHENSIVE assortment of hemmed, hemstitched and scalloped effects. You'll find a full list of sizes and a wide range of patterns for selection. PRICES 15c, 19c, 25c, 39c, 50c, 75c and up to $2 each.

TABLE CLOTHS IN BEAUTIFUL Mexican Drawn-Work patterns. They are all linen and hand-drawn. We offer them to you at about half regular prices.

45 x 45 at at $2.98
54 x 54 at $3.98

Lunch Sets and Centerpieces

HANDSOME HAND-EMBROIDERED Maderia Luncheon Sets with six 6-inch Doilies, six 10-inch Doilies and one 24-inch Centerpiece. PRICES—$5, $7 and $8 a Set.

200 CLUNY CENTERPIECES IN ONE great lot, worth from 50c to 75c. Your choice, each 29c

20 Per Cent Discount on Pattern Cloths and Napkins

The offerings here are too diverse to permit of special markings, so we group everything here at 20 per cent discount from regular prices. These special values are from broken lines---some slightly soiled from handling---but all unusual values and marked in original figures from which you take 20 per cent off in buying.

Fancy Linens

That include beautiful Cluny, Maderia and Hand-Embroidered effects, together with pretty Japanese drawn-work styles, from a 6-inch Doily to a 72-inch Cloth.

Pattern Cloths

It's an offering of 200 of our prettiest styles, and in sizes 72 x 72, 72 x 90 and 72 x 108. Of course, some of them are slightly soiled, but otherwise are warranted perfect.

An odd lot of 300 dozen Napkins with no cloths to match. The quality is of an unusually high standard.

$3 Long Gloves, Special $1.95

These are 16-button White Glace Kid with pearl clasp and of excellent quality. It is one of those Glove offerings for which this store is famous---others wonder where we get them---but that's our secret. What matter as long as they're here. Special, $1 95

Thorndike
Three Rivers
Bondsville

Many items of interest from these busy villages.

THORNDIKE.

Mrs. C. A. Tabor entertained the members of the Palmer Woman's Club at her home this week.

The funeral of John Sullivan was held Saturday with burial in Holyoke, a mass of requiem being celebrated in Bondsville. The remains were taken to Holyoke by special electric car.

The entertainment to be given in St. Mary's church hall on Thanksgiving night will include vocal solos by local and out of town talent and an entertainment by the children under the direction of Miss Twiss.

Several articles of wearing apparel were stolen from the clothes lines along Church street the past week. The sudden touch of cold weather perhaps was responsible for the theft as the clothing appropriated consisted of underclothing of winter weight. No clue to the person who took the articles has been yet found.

There has been much talk during the past week about the packing company of Brightwood locating in the town of Palmer near the Fuller Crossing. Nothing definite could be learned about the matter. The land of Simon Jorczak is said to be the point of interest. It is hoped that the rumor is true as the industry would be of value to the town in more ways than one.

Buildings are to be erected for the workmen to be employed upon the Hampden railroad. They are being built on land of David Hammond and will consist of a store and quarters for the men. Work will commence at once with a force of 50 men who will continue work during the winter and will be augmented by hundreds of others the coming spring. The work in the vicinity of Mr. Hammond's will be one of the largest jobs on the road, as there is to be a 50-foot cut here. The new road will pass under the tracks of the Boston and Maine road near the Whiting farm and strike the Central Massachusetts tracks at a point north of Hastings' Crossing.

THREE RIVERS.

The Paris Millinery Store offers for sale a fine line of millinery at greatly reduced prices. Will begin Friday, November 17, and continue for 10 days.

Nelson Matte spent Sunday with friends in Ware.

Allen Provost has taken a position in the Palmer Mill.

Henry Winn spent Sunday at his home on Main street.

Samuel Cole has accepted a position in the Wright wire mill.

Wilfred Mart has accepted a position at the Bijou theater.

Mrs. A. Cohen has returned from a short trip to New York city.

Miss Margaret Donahue spent Sunday at the home of Thomas Cody.

Walter Root of Springfield spent Sunday at his home on Main street.

Mrs. N. A. Senton has recovered from her recent attack of the grippe.

Albert Jenks of Amherst spent Sunday at his home on Belchertown road.

Enos Abare of Worcester spent the week-end at his home on Main street.

A gang of men are at work cleaning out the reservoir owned by the Palmer Mill.

Miss Nellie Fogarty of Amherst spent Sunday at her home on Bourne street.

Levi Longey of Worcester spent Sunday with his family on Palmer street.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith of Springfield were the guests of friends here over the week-end.

Miss Irene Ritchie of Springfield spent Sunday at the home of Mrs. T. D. Frame.

Mr. and Mrs. Mose Gervais of Holyoke spent Sunday with relatives in this village.

Miss Nellie Conroy of Springfield spent Sunday at her home on Belchertown street.

Edward Dupraw has been entertaining his brother from Plattsburg during the past week.

Samuel Metcalf of Worcester spent Sunday at the home of John Ritchie of Palmer street.

Adrian Gervais and Romeo Lafave spent the first of the week with friends in Springfield.

Miss Martha A. Buzzell of Springfield was the week-end guest of friends in this village.

Mrs. Fred Freak is ill at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Samuel Mason on Ruggles street.

James Cassells and Moses Smith of Springfield spent Sunday at their respective homes.

John O'Donald has finished his work here and returned to his home in Indian Orchard.

Clinton Frame and a friend from Springfield spent Sunday at his home on Maple street.

Thomas Prendergast and James Wilson have gone to New York for a few days on business.

Misses Susie, Katherine and Maysie Twiss attended the funeral of a relative in Worcester Monday.

Sessions of the Polish evening school were held on Tuesday and Thursday evenings of this week.

Elton and Harold Chamberlain of Maple street spent Saturday with friends in Wilbraham.

Miss Yvonne Sirard has returned to her home in Holyoke after a short visit with friends here.

Samuel Hartley of Hartford, Ct., formerly of this village, was the guest Sunday of friends here.

George Murdock of Gilbertville spent Sunday nt the home of Mrs. William Kuss on Palmer street.

Samuel Cole sang at the moving picture palace, the Scenic Temple, in Gilbertville Wednesday.

Miss Carrie Woodworth of South Hadley was the guest of Miss Carmen Stowe the last of the week.

Fred Moore of Chicopee Falls was the guest Sunday of his brother, George Moore on Springfield street.

Miss Alice Shaw of Palmer was the guest Sunday of her cousin, Miss Rachel Shaw on Main street.

Miss Gertrude Hartnett of Westfield normal spent the week-end at her home at the Quaboag House.

Emile Bengle has returned home from East Longmeadow, where he has held a position for some time.

Ethel Jenks of Amherst was the guest of her mother, Mrs. Bessie Jenks on Belchertown road Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Harris of Lowell were the week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Fenton on Belchertown street.

Mrs. J. J. Foley of Springfield street was called to Worcester the last of the week by the death of her grandson.

Mrs. George Barber and children of Worcester have returned home after a short visit with her parents on School street.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Newell of Springfield were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Newell on High street Sunday.

A. Hatch has resigned his position in the Palmer Mill and accepted one in Athol, to which place he went Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. James Anderson and daughter Marion spent Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. Cleland in Wilbraham.

Mrs. A. Alden and son Elton of Indian Orchard were the week-end guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Willis on Springfield street.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith of Ware are receiving congratulations on the birth of a son. Mrs. Smith was Miss Maggie Gates, formerly of this place.

Mr. and Mrs. George Ryeroft and son of West Warren spent Sunday at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Triekett on Front street.

Mrs. Anthony Allen and daughter of Seymour, Ct., have returned to their home after spending a few days at the home of John O'Connor on Maple street.

Mrs. W. H. Bliss and Mrs. Merrill will return Saturday to their homes after spending a few days as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. P. C. Story on Maple street.

Earl Woods, for the past few years employed as electrician at the Red Bridge power house, has resigned his position to accept a similar one in Millers Falls. He and his mother have moved there the past week.

H. Ellis of Brattleboro, Vt., and Miss Ruby Longey of this village were married in Stafford, Ct., last Thursday. After spending a few days with Mrs. Ellis' parents on Palmer street they left for their future home in Brattleboro, Vt.

The electric cars have resumed their regular run, coming now to the end of the line. During the past few weeks the cars have made it a "guess game" concerning their place of departure. This point changed almost daily, and sometimes oftener. It was an agreeable surprise to the patrons when the cars again returned to the business section of the village.

BONDSVILLE.

POVERTY PARTY.

Members of Golf Club Have Enjoyable Time Tuesday Evening.

A poverty social for members of the Golf club and their families was given in the Company's hall Tuesday evening. The affair was greatly enjoyed by those who attended. Many went in costume. The prize, a fancy dish for the worst dressed lady, was won by Mrs. Michael Sullivan. F. E. Albro and C. H. Banister were pronounced the worst dressed men, and on drawing lots Mr. Banister won the prize, a fancy lead pencil. For stringing pop corn in the shortest time Mrs. C. H. Banister and Mrs. V. C. Faunce won the prizes, an ash tray and a fancy dish; musical game, won by Mrs. C. D. Holden, a picture; ringing the donkey's tail, Mrs. M. R. Sullivan, a picture. Following the social a buffet lunch was served, and later dancing was enjoyed. Music was furnished by Mrs. S. R. Carsley of Palmer and Mrs. V. C. Faunce.

Birthday Party.

Miss Emma Lamb gave a birthday party to ten of her little friends Saturday, it being her ninth birthday. The children passed a pleasant afternoon playing games. Refreshments were served. The small hostess was the recipient of many pretty gifts. The following were present: Dora Heys, Mary Heys, Penrl Lamb, Ethel Kingdon, Lillian Kingdon, Carl Kingdon, Harold Lamb, Madeline Jenkens, Dorothia McVickar and Emma Lamb.

Massie Nadue of Ludlow visited friends here this week.

Fred Buck of Three Rivers was a guest of friends this week.

John O'Neill of Farmington was a guest over Sunday of his family.

Alvertus Morse of Ludlow is a guest this week of Mr. and Mrs. O. A. Parent.

Miss Kathleen Quirk was home over Sunday from Westfield Normal School.

Miss Ora Howes of West Springfield was a guest over Sunday of Miss Alice Banister.

Charlie Langelier had the good fortune to shoot six gray squirrels last Saturday.

Charles Billings of Springfield is a guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Billings.

Miss Marion Albro returned Sunday from a few days spent with friends in Springfield.

Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Reid of Springfield visited Friday with Mr. and Mrs. O. A. Parent.

A. M. Billings has returned from a few days' vacation spent with friends in Williamsburg.

Robert Layman of Northampton was a guest this week of his niece, Mrs. F. E. Albro.

The Ladies' Aid Society will hold a food sale next Friday afternoon in C. D. Holden's store.

Mr. and Mrs. Rollie Terry of Springfield were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Randall.

Misses Mollie and Nellie Mansfield spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Summers in Springfield.

Mrs. Michael Collins and Miss Kate Quirk spent Tuesday with Mr. and Mrs. John Quirk in Ware.

Mrs. Henry Hobson of Palmer was a guest the first of the week of her friend, Mrs. O. A. Parent.

The Epworth League will hold a business meeting and social at the parsonage this evening from 7.30 to 9.10.

Several Odd Fellows visited the lodge in Ware Tuesday evening, and witnessed the working of the first degree.

Miss Margaret Callahan, who is in Wesson Memorial Hospital, is reported as improving as much as could be expected.

Miss Lydia Marsan and friend, Miss Mae Lannigan of Springfield, were guests Sunday of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Adalard Marsan.

The Ladies' Aid Society met Wednesday with Mrs. A. M. Billings with 15 present. The next meeting will be with Mrs. C. H. Collis.

The Thursday evening prayer meetings, which have been interrupted recently, are again resumed, one this week being held in the vestry of the M. E. church.

Mr. and Mrs. John A. Shea returned Sunday from their wedding trip and are spending a few days with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John D. Shea, before going to their new home near the Boston and Maine station.

The Mission Fathers will be at St. Bartholomew's church next week and the following week. Mass will be held at 5 and 7 o'clock a. m., and services at 7.30 in the evening. The services next week will be for women, and the week following for men.

The subject of the sermon at the Methodist church Sunday morning will be "What think ye of Christ?" Sunday school at 11.45, Epworth League service in the vestry at 6. In the evening Rev. C. B. McDuffie of Three Rivers will preach in exchange with the pastor.

The funeral of the late John Sullivan was held Saturday morning from St. Bartholomew's church, Rev. Thomas A. Kennedy officiating. Mr. Sullivan was 60 years old and was well known in this community, as he had been employed for many years as a flag man by the Boston and Maine railroad at the Hastings crossing. He leaves beside his widow, two children.

Value of a Postal Card.

It is a good plan always to have at hand a half-dozen or so postal cards Then when you see an advertisement that interests you, drop a line before your interest wanes, or you forget the name and address. The possible advantages to you of acting promptly are boundless.

Much Sought Gem.

The gem most sought after is the Australian black opal, which is found nowhere else in the world. It appears in limited quantities in the matrix of ironstone and sandstone in the Lightning Ridge district of New South Wales.

Ever Noticed It?

Just when a fellow begins to think the business couldn't possibly go on without him he gets fired.—Puck.

Daily Thought.

He who loves is in the right.—Schiller.

THOUGHT IT A STORY.

Congressman—How did you like that copy of a census I sent you?

Farmer Hayrick—Waal, I've read a little of it, but it ain't very thrilling After I get through the figures I guess it'll be more interesting

In Partnership.

He—"So young March and his father are carrying on the business?" She—"Yes. The old man runs the business while young March does the carrying on."—N. Y. Globe.

Shipwreck Safer.

It is getting so that it is safer to be shipwrecked on the ocean than it is to be a passenger in a skidding automobile.—Syracuse Herald

It Keeps Her Busy.

A girl's life is one continuous effort to create the impression that she wouldn't think of doing things that she's crazy to try

Extraordinary Furniture Sale.

The Adaskin Furniture Company of 234 Main street, Springfield, is holding a fifth anniversary sale. The company has recently made extensive improvements in its store which is now one of the most up-to-date furniture stores in the city. The entire second floor is devoted to parlor and bedroom furniture and rugs. In the right aisle are the dressers, chiffoniers and princess dressers in all kinds of wood and patterns. The parlor sets are in the middle aisle and include a large assortment of designs, among them colonial, Chippendale and those of later periods. These are covered in verona, silk damask, panne plush, velour tapestry or leather. The mission furniture is arranged in another aisle. On the north side of the floor is a large stock of brass bedsteads, in satin finish or polished brass. These are made in various designs, square, round and colonial. On the extreme left is a large stock of other types of metal beds, more than 50 different patterns. These are finished in white, green, blue and oxidized metal. On the north end of the floor is the stock of parlor tables, finished in oak, maple, birdseye maple and circassian walnut. In the middle of the floor are the large rug racks, containing more than 150 patterns of various sizes. On the main floor is large and complete stock of everything that is needed in a house from cellar to attic.

1848 BRIGHAM'S 1911
All Goods Delivered Free In Palmer.

At $20
Double Faced Coats
Worth $25, $27.50 and $30

Taking the balance of the stock of double-faced coats, made by one of our leading New York tailors, we are able to offer for this week the biggest values of the season in these popular garments.

These stylish coats come in handsome browns, grays, blues and greens in plain colors and mixtures, with the reverse cuffs, collars and revers showing in high colors in strong contrast. They include a wide variety of styles, some with regulation collar, others with the big sailor collars and revers, and still others in the popular hooded effects.

Coats made to sell for $25, $27.50, $30—your choice $20

Sale of Suits
At $30
Values Up to $45

For this week we have picked out 50 handsome suits from our regular stock --- suits that have been excellent values up to $45 --- putting them all in at one popular price --- $30.

These suits include fine broadcloths, men's suitings and cheviots in a wide variety of models. They come in all the best colors of the season, including a large showing of handsome black suits, all tailored in true Brigham style. In this lot we have all sizes, the small as well as the extra large sizes.

Suits representing good values up to $45—this week $30

D H Brigham & Co.
Springfield, Mass.

Germs Spread in Skin

Eczema, Psoriasis and other skin troubles are caused by myriads of germs at work in the skin. Unless these germs are promptly destroyed they rapidly multiply, gnawing their way deep into the sensitive tissue. This is what causes that awful itch, and what seemed a mere rash may grow worse and develop into a loathsome and torturing skin disease with its years of misery.

Don't take any chances! Destroy the germs at the beginning of the trouble with that soothing and cleansing wash, the D. D. D. Prescription for Eczema.

A 25c bottle will prove this to you.

We have had experience with many remedies for skin trouble but have never seen such remarkable cures as those from D. D. D. Prescription. Instant relief from the very first application.

We are so confident that D. D. D. will reach your case that it will cost you nothing if the very first full size bottle fails to make good every claim.

If you have skin trouble of any kind, we certainly advise you to drop in and investigate the merits of D. D. D. anyway. We know that D. D. D. will help you.

BAY STATE DRUG CO. (INC.)

Haynes & Company
Always Reliable
Springfield, Mass.

You are always sure of something better at the Haynes Store

That this great store should enjoy unusual purchasing advantages you would naturally expect, and we surely do.

These same advantages we share with those who come to us for clothes, and the thousands of men who wear Haynes Clothes is good proof that Haynes Values are worth coming miles to secure.

Right now we are in the midst of our Overcoat selling, and you will find it a splendid time to select yours.

Overcoats at $12, $15, $18, $20, $22, $25, $28, $30, and $35.

"I am pleased to recommend Chamberlain's Cough Remedy as the best thing I know of and safest remedy for coughs, colds and bronchial trouble," writes Mrs. L. B. Arnold of Denver, Colo. "We have used it repeatedly and it has never failed to give relief." For sale by all dealers.

Card. — We wish to express thanks to our friends and relatives and especially the members of the G. A. R. and Sons of Veterans for their floral offerings and kindness shown us in the recent loss of our father.

Kathryne Foley.
Maude V. Foley.
William J. Foley.

Palmer, Nov. 15, 1911.

DIED.

In Palmer, 12th, John W. Foley, 74.
In Monson, 11th, Kate Harrington, 66, wife of James Gough.
In Belchertown, 15th, Mrs. Mary Hastings, 83.
In Warren, 11th, Patrick Rooney, 75.
In Springfield, 14th, Alice E. Weldon, 29, formerly of Palmer.

TENEMENT TO RENT.
32-tf E. BROWN CO.

WANTED — Plain sewing or work by the day. Inquire at 112 PARK ST., Palmer.

HORSE, Wagon and harness for sale.
31-tf D. F. HOLDEN, Palmer.

WANTED.—Board and room for active elderly lady. P. O. BOX 272, Palmer.

FOX TERRIER PUPS FOR SALE. 17-tf
JAMES BURDICK, Mechanic St. Monson

IF YOU WANT your horse clipped in first-class shape, call on JAMES BURDICK, Monson. 32-tf

TO RENT.—Tenement at corner of South Main and Vaill streets; rent $11 per month. Inquire of DAVID F. DILLON.

VAULTS CLEANED, gardens plowed, ashes and rubbish removed at reasonable prices. W. H. HOUSE, Palmer. 3-tf

FOR SALE.—One two-horse sleigh, one one-horse sleigh and four driving sleighs.
46-tf WHITCOMB & FAULKNER.

WANTED.—Hens, calves and cows. Will pay good price. Notify by postal card.
44-tf E. GOLDBERG, Three Rivers.

UNITED STATES CREAM SEPARATOR for sale; used only one summer. Cost $70, will sell for $25. Can be seen at my store, 3 Church street, GEORGE W. BARNES. 33-1

FOR SALE — Second-hand hot air wood furnace in good condition; pipes and registers with it. Inquire of E. J. FULLER, Fuller's Crossing, on Bondsville line. 33-tf

PETER MILLS is continuing his cobbling business on North Main street, Monson, having moved into an adjoining room in the same building in which he has been located.

CARPET CLEANER. A Richmond Cleaner to rent with or without operator. Best way to clean carpets, rugs or furniture. Write postal or telephone 25-2. FRED McCOMBER, Box 174, Palmer. 40-tf

NOTICE—Pass Book No. 24,910, issued by the Palmer Savings Bank has been lost and an application by the owner for the issuance of a duplicate Pass Book has been filed with the Bank. Any person finding Pass Book No. 24,910 is requested to return it to the PALMER SAVINGS BANK, Palmer, Mass. 33-3

Taxidermy.

Deer heads mounted, average $10 to $12 Workmanship guaranteed. Hides tanned. Rugs, deer-feet and specialties made up to order. Years of experience.

Walter E. Burnham,
Taxidermist,
Arms Block, Greenfield, Mass.

August Peterson,
Monson, Mass.
Cement, Concrete and Stone Work of all kinds at Lowest Prices.

Bernard J. Bancroft
Teacher of Piano.
In Palmer Saturday of each week. Methods rapid and modern. Teaches at pupil's residence. Terms: 50 cents per lesson. Address
442 State St., Springfield.

Teacher of Violin,
Robert J. Wilder.
Palmer, Mass.

Upright Pianos to Rent
$3 to $5 per month
Money paid for rent applied if purchased.
STONE'S STORE,
370 Main St. Palmer

John Winer, Three Rivers
Dealer in Cattle, Beef and Milch Cows, Poultry.
Pays High Prices
P. O. Box 339, Three Rivers

For Sale
8-room cottage, with bath; on car line. Bargain if taken at once.
R. E. Cummings,
Palmer, Mass.

INSURANCE
Of every kind placed at short notice, and all favors duly appreciated.
Yours Truly
S. H. HELLYAR.
Office at store on Main St.

Johnson's Bookstore
BOOKSTORE BUILDING
391 Main St. Springfield

Our Magazine Club List Is Just Out. It Will Save You Money

Over 700 listed. Save money through us on private or club combination subscriptions. Lists free. We'll mail it if you say so.

Books Stationery Pictures
Prompt attention to mail orders

Fraternity Notes.

Palmer lodge of Odd Fellows meets next Wednesday evening.

Court Palmer, Foresters of America, meet next Tuesday evening.

A regular meeting of Palmer Grange is to be held next Friday evening.

A regular meeting of the Order of the Eastern Star will be held this evening.

A meeting of Division 15, A. O. H., will be held Sunday afternoon in Thorndike.

Next Thursday evening is the regular meeting time of Good Cheer Rebekah lodge.

Quaboag council, Royal Arcanum, will hold a regular meeting next Tuesday evening.

Palmer council, Knights of Columbus, holds a regular meeting next Thursday evening.

L. L. Merrick Grand Army post has installed a gas range in the kitchen of Memorial Hall.

The officers of Thomas lodge of Masons will be installed on the evening of the 27th. The installation will be public to Masons and their families and invited friends.

Personal Mention.

Mrs. Robert Grimstone is seriously ill at her home near Palmer Center.

Mrs. R. Collmer and infant daughter of Pine Plains, N. Y., are guests of Mrs. F. L. Bailey of Foster street.

Mrs. H. G. Loomis of Pleasant street has returned from a week's stay with her mother in Providence, R. I.

Superintendent E. D. Atkins of the street railway, with his wife, is visiting his home in Ellenburg Center, N. Y.

Mrs. F. N. Aiken of New Haven, Ct., has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Ellen M. Barnes of Pleasant street this week.

Mrs. David Micott returned Wednesday from the hospital in Springfield, where she has been some time for treatment.

C. A. Chapman, the new secondtriek telegraph operator for the C. V. road, has moved his family from Willimantie to Mrs. William Mason's house on School street.

C. C. Barrett, the new yardmaster for the C. V. road, has moved his family here from Brattleboro, Vt., and is occupying a flat in A. Podrat's new house on South Main street.

Dr. and Mrs. G. A. Moore of Pleasant street are breaking up housekeeping and are selling a portion of their furniture at private sale. They will board through the winter.

Saved Storage Charges.

Young men with meager salaries evolve financial makeshifts abhorrent to the moral and physieal sensibilities of their opulent elders. Said one young sprig of boarding house gentility to another who expeeted to seek new quarters upon his return from a two months' trip on the road:

"What are you going to do with all this personal truck that is cluttering up your room? It will cost you anyhow a dollar a month for storage."

"Not the way I am working things," said the man who was going away. "I have purposely refrained from paying board for four weeks, and the landlady will hold my stuff. Of course I shall square up when I come back and get it again, and in the meantime she will give it free storage."—New York Times.

Loans Without Interest.

In the city of Barcelona. Spain, there is a peculiar pawnbroking establishment bearing the dainty name of "Our Lady of Hope," where loans are made without interest to necessitous persons on the deposit of any articles in pledge. Two-thirds of the value of the deposit is at once advaneed, and the loan is made for six months and a day, but if at the expiration of that period the depositor should declare himself unable to redeem it, after another period of six months the pledges are sold, but if they yield more than the amount advanced the difference is given to the original owner. This institution is very popular. Thousands are every year suitors for the favor thus afforded by "Our Lady of Hope." —Richard Ford. "Gatherings From Spain."

A Composer's Dream.

The "Devil's Sonata" was written by Tartini, Italian musician, under the inspiration of a dream, in which the arch fiend challenged him to a trial of skill. Entranced by the wonderful performance of his visitor, the dreamer upon awakening seized his violin and produced from his general impressions this celebrated composition.

The Virtue of Vanity.

What a hideous place to live in this world would be if women took it upon themselves to be too superior for the use of the powder puff!—London Madame.

There is little danger from a eold or from an attack of the grip exeept when followed by pneumonia, and this never happens when Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is used. This remedy has won its great reputation and extensive sale by its remarkable eures of eolds and ean be relied upon with implieit eonfidenee. For sale by all dealers.

Royal
BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure

Used and praised by the most competent and careful pastry cooks the world over

The only Baking Powder made from Royal Grape Cream of Tartar—made from grapes

Contrary Clues.

"Why was Jack so down on Jim's plans?"

"Because he was up to his tricks."

Wisdom of Loti.

Let us be kind if we wish to be regretted.—Pierre Loti.

Pinless Hat for Wome

A pinless hat for wome oks around the head with hooks eyes.

Invention of Danish Scientist.

An instrument for measuring the nocturnal terrestrial radiation of heat has been invented by a Danish scientist.

A Trifle Mixed.

Gerald—She is a college graduate, I believe. Geraldine—Yes, she is an old maid of arts. Gerald—An old maid of arts? Geraldine—Isn't that what you call a female bachelor of arts?

Never Acquitted.

By the verdict of his own breast no guilty man is acquitted.—Juvenal.

Ocean Always Cold.

The great bulk of the water in the oceans is always cold. Only the surface is ever warm, even in the tropics. The depths know nothing of the heat of the sun or the changes in the seasons.

Nugget of Truth.

A pen may be driven, but a pencil does the best when it is lead.

Clean-up Sale of Monuments

Don't miss this chance of getting one of them. Manufactured from the best granite in the world and guaranteed to be satisfactory.

The lettering and placing on your lot will be executed in the same careful manner which has won commendation from past customers. The prices will be sure to suit you; they cannot be duplicated.

Palmer Granite and Marble Works
W. H. MacLean, Prop.
10 Converse St., rear of High School.

We always have what we advertise. Springfield—Worcester.

Copyright Hart Schaffner & Marx

HERE'S a dignified style in Overcoats for gentlemen; the Chesterfield; one of many good ones we show in fall line. Look them over; Varsity, English box overcoats, Raglan, adjustable collar, ulsterettes; and many others. All good.

Hart Schaffner & Marx

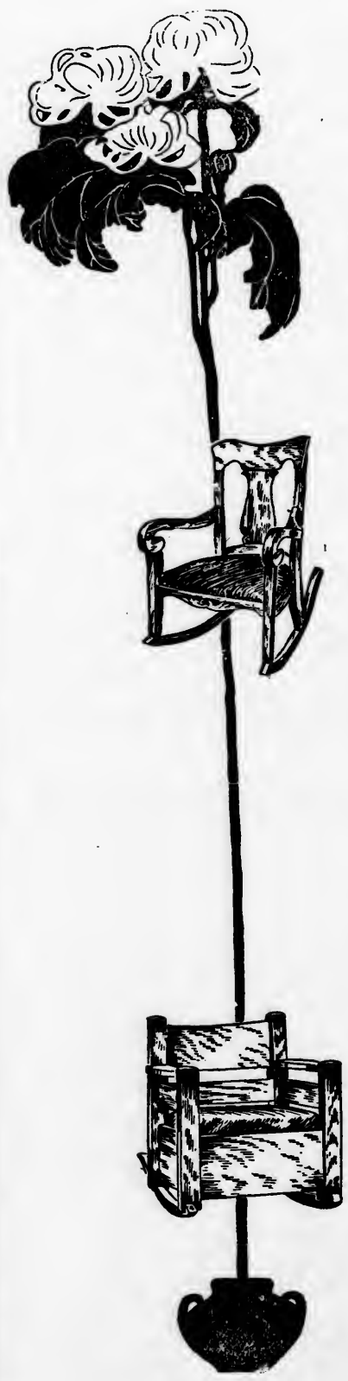
Suits $20 and up
Overcoats $18 and up



This store is the home of Hart Schaffner & Marx clothes

The W. J. Woods Co.
383-385 Main Street,
Springfield, Mass

Fifth Anniversary Sale of Furniture

WELL we certainly are rushed with orders this week since we started this sale. It has been a success right from the first day. Hundreds have taken the opportunity to refurnish their homes; many of the housekeepers to be have placed their orders with us for future delivery.

COME TAKE ADVANTAGE OF THIS SALE. LOOK AND COMPARE

Buffets and Sideboards

We have seventy-eight patterns of Buffets to select from. Some of the finest product in this line is to be found on our floors. At prices ranging from

$11.75 to $98

A very massive Colonial design Mahogany Buffet, large plate mirror, dust-proof drawers, handsome finish. Certainly a beauty for any home. Regular priee $90. Sale Price $68

A Handsomely Carved Genuine Solid Quartered Oak Buffet, with pillar eolumns, large roomy drawers, several of whieh are lined for silverware, Regular priee $48. Sale Priee, $29.50

A Swell Front Quartered Oak Buffet, brass or wood knobs, large and roomy drawers, good-sized Freneh plate mirror. Regular priee $28. Sale Priee, $18.75

Others as low as $11.75.

China Cabinets

Bent Glass End Solid Quartered Oak Cabinets, $11 88

Others at $13.50, $16.75, $18.50, $22 up to $75.

Mattresses

Cotton Felt, Silk Floss, Hair, Rattan, all in the very best of eonstruetion and designs at extremely low priees. We have a 45-pound Hair Mattress, eovered with the best of tieking, with a sewed imperial edge whieh ordinarily sells for $22.50. Sale Priee, $14.85

The Famous Silk Floss Mattresses whieh sell for $13.75 and $15.75 we are selling for $10.75 and $11.75

Cotton Felt Mattresses of well-built layers of eotton. A very serviceable mattress. Sale price, $6.48

We have the Soft Top Mattresses in all sizes as low as $1.98

Now is the time to buy that new Range that you have been waiting to buy for a long time.

If you get a "Household Built to Bake" range into your home, you will realize what a pleasure it is to have easy baking. This eoupon will entitle you to a water front free of eharge with any of the Ranges on sale on our floors.

Free
This coupon entitles you to a Water Front free of charge with every Range purchased.
ADASKIN FURNITURE CO.

Liberal reductions are on the entire line of Ranges.

Rugs

Having purehased at very low figures Tapestry, Axminster, Brussels and Velvet Rugs at the recent mill auetion held in New York, we are ready to offer this wonderful purehase to you at great bargain prices.

We offer a 9 x 12 Axminster Rug in floral or Oriental designs for only $17.85

A 9 x 12 Tapestry Brussels, seamless rug as low as $10.68

The 9 x 12 Velvets in various patterns, only $12.50

Just think of saving from $8 to $12 on each Rug, without any exaggeration.

Never has there been sueh a wonderful bargain before to buy Rugs at sueh bargain priees.

Dressers, Chiffoniers and Princess Dressers

Our display of high-grade Bedroom Furniture is not surpassed anywhere. Handsome Tuna Mahogany, Circassian Walnut, Birdseye Maple, Quartered Oak, ete. These various woods make handsome Bedroom Furniture, and the prices during this sale are very low.

Handsome Colonial design Mahogany Dresser, with large Freneh plate mirror, glass or wood knobs, plenty of drawers. Regular priee $30. Sale Price $23.50

A Bird's-eye Maple Prineess Dresser with large oval Freneh plate mirror, glass knobs. Regular price $21. Sale Priee, $16.50

Chiffoniers of solid oak, with the latest wood knobs. Sale Priee only $4.88

See our large Oak Dressers for $6.88, $8.50. $10 50, $12 75

All marked down from two to six dollars on each Dresser.

Oil Cloths and Linoleums at a Saving of 20 per cent

Blankets and Comforters

800 Blankets and Comforters will be offered at ONE-THIRD OFF THE REGULAR PRICE.

If not ready to receive your purchases we store them FREE OF CHARGE, subject to your order.

Dining Room Tables

A very niee assortment of Round Pedestal Tables. A massive claw foot Solid Oak Pedestal Extension Table, opens up to six feet. Sale Priee, $8.39

A Solid Quartered Oak, 42-ineh Round Top, 9-ineh Pedestal Extension Table with elaw feet, extends to six feet, well finished. Regular price $16.75. Sale Priee, $12 00

A 45-ineh Flush Rim, Solid Quartered Oak, Piano Polish Pedestal Table, with massive base. Regular priee $32. Sale Priee $23.85

Others from $4.88 to $75.

Dining Room Chairs

A Genuine Leather Upholstered, Box Seat, Quartered Oak Dining Chair. Regular priee $2.50. Sale Priee $1.97

A Genuine Leather Slip Seat, Quartered Oak Dining Chair. Only $2.39

Others up to $12.50

Brass Beds

We are showing 62 patterns of Brass Beds at prices in sueh variety to suit every one.

We have a two-ineh Post Brass Bed for $6 88 and from that ranging to $75

Iron Beds

$2.88 gives you a well-eonstrueted metal bed. Brass trimmings, three eoats of enamel goes on this bed as well as on the higher prieed beds.

Ask to see our No. 528 Bed, the bed whieh hundreds of stores throughout the country sell for $8.50. Our Sale Price on this bed is $5 78, in green, white or blue.

Other designs grading up from $2.88 to $18

Parlor Suits

We have devoted several aisles of our vast second floor to the display of Parlor Furniture, both in three and five-piece Suits. Among these we have a Three-pieee Loose Cushion, Mahogany Finish Parlor Suit, handsomely finished, well eonstrueted, whieh we offer during this sale at $19.88

Other Three-piece Suits at $23 $29, $38, $42, $65 up to $180

The Five-pieee Parlor Sets, upholstered in Green Verona, nicely finished frame. Sale Priee $22.50

Others at $29, $35, $46, $52, $63 and $75.

ADASKIN FURNITURE CO.

234 Main St., SPRINGFIELD "Just Above the Arch." You'll Like Trading at Adaskin's

Darina and The Agents

She Makes One Mistake

By MILDRED STEVENS

Copyright by American Press Association, 1911.

Miss Charity Decker tied a knitted "fascinator" over her scanty hair, bundled herself into a long, warm cape and drew on thick woolen mittens.

"Darina!" she called shrilly, and when a girl's slender form had appeared in the kitchen doorway she continued: "I'm going now. Hannibal's been waiting for ten minutes, and I expect that old horse's hoofs are most froze off. I know it's cruelty to animals to keep 'em standing around in the snow like this, but I had to get ready, and I couldn't find my spectacles, and then I lost my handkerchief, and I found it and lost it, and I haven't found it again yet. Why, there it is on the almanac. I was looking to see what the weather is going to be tomorrow"—

The girl laughed softly as she pushed the older woman gently toward the door. "There, Aunt Charity; if you stop and talk much longer the horse's hoofs will freeze off, and Hannibal is looking so impatiently at the door. I won't forget to put the bread in the oven at 11 o'clock, and I'll water the plants and put Toby in the woodshed before I go over to Cousin Sarah's to sleep. And I'll expect you home on the 3 o'clock train tomorrow afternoon without fail—there!"

Miss Charity was on the porch by this time and waving a mittened hand to Hannibal Jones, the stage driver. "I'll be there in a jiffy, Hannibal. I've got to say something more to Darina"—

Darina laughed merrily as she waved a farewell to Miss Charity's gesticulating mittens, and she went back into the house and closed and locked the door. Miss Charity's departure for Greenville, the next village, was an event that had been talked about for a fortnight, ever since her brother's wife had invited her over to the Baptist donation party and to spend one night. She had left a dozen different commands for her grandniece to carry out, and the last and the greatest of these was the one concerning agents of any description.

Charity Decker detested agents. She was scarcely polite when members of that honorable calling knocked insinuatingly at her kitchen door. Her strict orders for the reception of any that might call during her absence had been thoroughly drilled into Darina's understanding and out of the tenderness of her heart the girl hoped that the agents would stay away.

"They are not so plentiful in snowy weather," thought Darina as she rolled out some ginger cookies. "I hope none of them will call, but somehow it does seem as if Little River harbored more canvassers, and—there is one now!"

She popped a pan of cookies in the oven and pushed back her fair hair with a floury hand, leaving a dab of white on the rose of her cheek. She opened the door to find a Syrian rug dealer squatted on the doorstep. Miss Charity's admonitions still rang in her ears.

"No—no—no!" said Darina emphatically in response to his appealing gestures as he displayed his wares. She closed the door and watched him shamble down the path. Her heart leaped with fright as she saw him pause at the gate and make some sort of mark on the white post with a bit of red chalk. Then, with a sly look over his shoulder at the house, he went on his way.

"How dreadful!" thought Darina as she returned to her baking. "Perhaps he has marked the house so he can return tonight and rob us—or perhaps murder."

There was another knock at the door, and Darina took her cookies out of the oven before she tiptoed over to the entrance and peered through the crack in the door curtain. A man with a long handled patent mop impatiently waited on the doorstep.

Darina opened the door.

"Good morning," said the agent courteously. "Are you the lady of the house?"

"Yes," said Darina. "But I do not wish to buy anything today. We have a mop we bought from you last year."

"Very good, ma'am; you cannot need another one now, and you will never unless yours is stolen, for, as I told you last year, when I sold it to you, our mop is practically indestructible. Now, let me show you the best clothes brush you ever saw—there, ma'am—look at that!"

When Darina had finally added a firmly voiced "No, no!" to his monologue he gathered up his wares, disposed them about his person and with a bob of his head was gone.

"I hope he doesn't mark the house," murmured Darina as she watched his hurried departure. But the brush man seemed glad to get away from such an unpromising vicinity and paused to look neither to the right nor left as he hastened down the road. Presently Darina saw him open Cousin Sarah's green gate and enter the yard.

She went back to her cookies, and an hour passed rapidly. Just as she had placed the last panful of crisp dainties on the table another knock came—loud and imperative.

This time the agent was a young man, tall and good looking, muffled to the ears in a thick warm ulster, while a fur cap that rested on his dark head was whipped off as Darina opened the door. He did not carry a bag nor a bundle, but Darina did not doubt that somewhere concealed about his person was a capacious pocket that would hold innumerable samples of something salable—probably subscription books.

"Good morning," he said pleasantly and in a very businesslike manner. "Is Miss Charity Decker at home?"

"No," she said coldly.

"Ah," he said in a disappointed tone. Then, unbuttoning his coat, he thrust a gloved hand into an inner pocket. "I wonder if you"— he was beginning when Darina interrupted him coolly.

"We don't wish to buy a dictionary, thank you."

His hand dropped to his side, and he flushed redly. "I beg your pardon"—he was beginning when Darina's voice, a little sharper this time, brought fire to his brown eyes.

"Or a history of the world or reminiscences of anybody," said Darina heartlessly.

"I'm not canvassing for books," he said grimly.

"Nor a patent mousetrap or a carpet beater or fancy note paper," continued Darina recklessly. "We've got a folding sewing table that turns into a chair"—

"Do I look as if I had a folding sewing table concealed about me?" he demanded scornfully, yet with a smile back of the glitter in his eyes.

"We've got a bread mixer and a patent washer and a freezer"—

"Pray spare me the inventory of your household goods," he said cuttingly. "I may as well tell you as rapidly as I can that"—

"And we don't want to purchase any fruit trees or shrubs this year!" ended Darina breathlessly and rather frightened at her own lack of courtesy.

"All of which is very interesting, madam; but, as a matter of fact, Mr. Joseph Decker of Greenville asked me to stop here for his sister, Miss Charity, and drive her over to his place. There! That's why I'm here!" he ejaculated, in a relieved tone.

Darina's floury little hands flew up to her reddening cheeks. "Oh, I am so sorry! What have I said?" she faltered. "My aunt went to Greenville by train. She left about an hour ago in the station stage."

"Then I may as well drive along," he said, replacing his cap and turning away, his glance lingering in a troubled way on Darina's sweet, tearful face. "You mustn't disturb yourself over that. You see, I was so slow about explaining who I was that no wonder you thought I was a canvasser of some sort. I suppose you're bothered to death with them."

"We are," said Darina fervently, and in a few words she told him of Aunt Charity's last admonition and also of her experience that morning. "I think the brush man scattered my last atom of patience," she explained.

"I don't wonder," he consoled her. "I believe the same fellow called at the parsonage the other day and"—

"The parsonage!" echoed Darina. "Then you must be Mr. Fleck, the new minister at Greenville."

"I am," he smiled, baring his head again. "I believe there is some sort of donation party going on for me tonight, and my sister, who keeps house for me, advised me to keep out of the way. That is how I happened to call for Miss Decker."

"It was very kind of you, indeed, and I am ashamed of the reception I gave you," said Darina. Just as he was passing through the gate to enter the little cutter that awaited him Darina remembered the red mark on the gatepost. Perhaps Mr. Fleck could reassure her as to its meaning. She recollected hearing Miss Charity say that he had been a missionary.

Instantly she was in the gateway explaining her fears. The minister looked at the rude character closely, thought for a moment, and then a smile broke over his face. "I was connected with a mission in Syria for a year, and I learned something of the language. This merely says it is the house of avarice and merchants will do well to pass it by. It is too bad that it is not written in plain English so all your obnoxious agents might be discouraged."

Darina watched him drive away over the sparkling crust of snow, conscious that her heart had thrilled strangely at the clear, compelling glance of his brown eyes. She went back to her baking quite cured of her ill humor and humming softly under her breath.

The next day when Miss Charity returned home and had evolved from her voluminous wrappings into a very small thin old lady she related with much animation the events of the evening before.

"It was the nicest donation party I ever went to, Darina, and I like that young minister. Why, the first thing I'd got there he singled me out and told me about coming here and asked all sorts of questions about us. He's coming to call, and I say it's very kind and attentive, because Little River is out of his parish. They're going to have a sociable at the church next week, and your Uncle Joe says he wants us both to come over for it. Don't you want to go?" Miss Charity beamed proudly at her pretty niece.

"Yes, indeed," said Darina demurely, with a happy light in her blue eyes.

Miss Charity shot a keen glance at the girl. "Of course, you'll wear your rose colored cashmere," she said carelessly.

"Of course," agreed Darina, blushing

Life is larger than morality.

OUT OF THE SAVAGE STATE

By DAVID WALTER CHURCH

Copyright by American Press Association, 1911.

From the time America was discovered to, say, half a century ago there were repeated cases of white children being carried away by Indians and brought up in the tribe. Those that were raised by red men were boys. At any rate, I never read of a girl having received such treatment. Doubtless any girl falling into their hands was killed. Savages are not overburdened with respect for the value of women.

Some forty years ago I was a young lieutenant in the —th U. S. cavalry, and my principal business about that time was fighting Indians. In one of our skirmishes with the Sioux we captured one of the white boys who had been brought up as an Indian. He was a handsome little fellow, tall and straight, about fourteen years old, and his originally white skin from having been exposed had turned brown. He could speak only the Sioux language; could not remember any life but that of an Indian, any father or mother or other relative. When captured he was fighting like a little devil.

The colonel turned him over to me to see if I could discover his identity. I questioned the Indians who had been captured with the boy, but they knew nothing of his antecedents, since they had captured him from another tribe when he was about four years old. I then questioned the boy himself—through an interpreter—and found that he had once been shown the clothes in which he had been captured and some trinkets that were taken from those to whom he had belonged. These were a pocketbook, a gold watch and chain and various other things the boy could not remember. They had been kept by an old squaw, who received them at the boy's second capture from another squaw, to whom they had been given by the chief of the tribe who had taken the baby from his parents.

Having reported this to the colonel, he directed me to ride under a flag of truce to the main body of the Sioux, secure the articles and bring them back if possible. He authorized me to pay $50 for them, if necessary. I went to the Sioux camp, purchased the articles for a song and brought them back with me.

Besides the watch and the pocketbook was a tintype of a baby, and a resemblance could be traced between it and the boy. There were also some lace and a bunch of keys on a silver ring. I examined the contents of the pocketbook. It was a long leather one such as is used to carry unfolded bills. If there had been any bills in it they were not there when I looked into it. There were papers the use of which were very plain to me, but would mean nothing to an Indian. For instance, there was a deed to a lot in the county of Cook, state of Illinois. There were a draft on a bank in San Francisco and two little books that I recognized as savings bank books.

I reported the find to the colonel, and he forwarded my report to Washington. After a long period, during which we kept the boy—much against his will—at Fort G., to which we returned after the campaign, the colonel received an order to detail some one to take the boy to the places indicated by the deed and the savings bank books, with a view to learning who he was. The colonel gave me the job.

Looking on the map of Illinois, I discovered that Cook county was the site of Chicago. One of the bank books indicated an account in a bank at Peoria and another in Quincy, both in the same state.

I set off in company with the boy, who by this time had learned a little English, and on reaching Chicago found the lot in question to be in the heart of the city. The deed was in the name of Edgar Kyle. This also was the name on the savings bank books and the draft on San Francisco. The draft was for $3,000, the accounts in the savings banks amounted to an aggregate of $6,743, and the lot in Chicago had within a few years become worth about $100,000.

Pursuing my investigations, I discovered that Edgar Kyle some twelve or thirteen years before had emigrated or started in a plains schooner for California with his wife and baby, but had never been heard from after leaving the Missouri river.

I felt very sure that they had been murdered by Indians, their baby carried off, that I now had him under my care, and he was doubtless heir to a very good property. But I saw very little hope of his possessing it.

On his baby clothing were the initial letters "E. K.," and on this evidence I collected the draft and the amounts in the savings banks for him. With this as a starter I succeeded in having the court of chancery appoint a guardian for him, and proceedings were begun to secure the lot, which had been bought in under a foreclosure of a mortgage for $2,500. A flaw in the foreclosure was discovered which enabled young Kyle's guardian to recover the property for him by paying the mortgage with interest.

Meanwhile Kyle was being educated and is now a prominent resident of a western city. He still holds the Chicago lot, which is worth three-quarters of a million. He says his boyhood, passed with the Indians, now seems to him like a weird dream, though for several years after becoming civilized he often had longings to return to a savage life. But realizing that a better life was before him he resisted and now rejoices that he did.

The way that wins is hard.

SHE SUFFERED FIVE YEARS

Finally Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Erie, Pa. — "I suffered for five years from female troubles and at last was almost helpless. I went to three doctors and they did me no good, so my sister advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and when I had taken only two bottles I could see a big change, so I took six bottles and I am now strong and well again. I don't know how to express my thanks for the good it has done me and I hope all suffering women will give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. It was worth its weight in gold."—Mrs. J. P. ENDLICH, R. F. D. No. 7, Erie, Pa.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, contains no narcotic or harmful drugs, and to-day holds the record for the largest number of actual cures of female diseases we know of, and thousands of voluntary testimonials are on file in the Pinkham laboratory, from women who have been cured from almost every form of female complaints, such as inflammation, ulceration, displacements, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, indigestion and nervous prostration. Every suffering woman owes it to herself to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial.

Without trying it no woman ought to say this medicine will not help her case. m

VIOLIN AND PIANO LESSONS

Given by

Julia A. Allen, Palmer, Mass.

Orders promptly filled for Music, Violins, Strings, etc.

Choosing Silver

Artistic designs, correct style, brilliant finish, combined with honest value, make

1847 ROGERS BROS. XS TRIPLE

silverware the choice of discriminating purchasers. This name to-day stands for the heaviest grade of plate and exquisite beauty of patterns, assuring long years of service and satisfaction. Its remarkable durability has won it the popular title

"Silver Plate that Wears."

Sold by leading dealers everywhere. Send for catalogue "C-1," showing all patterns.

Meriden Britannia Co., International Silver Co., Successor, Meriden, Conn.

Palmer Savings Bank,

Palmer, Mass.

Officers.

H. G. LOOMIS, President.
R. C. NEWELL, 1st Vice President.
W. E. STONE, 2d Vice President.
C. F. SMITH, 3d Vice President.
GEORGE A. RICE, Clerk.

Auditors.

W. E. Stone, E. B. Taylor.
C. A. LeGro.

Board of Investment.

H. G. Loomis. W. E. Stone. C. F. Smith.
H. E. W. Clark. E. E. Hobson

Trustees.

H. G. Loomis. W. E. Stone. J. O. Hamilton.
H. E. W. Clark. G. D. Mooers. L. J. Potter.
R. C. Newell. L. R. Holden. C. L. Wald.
Geo. S. Holden. C. E. Fuller. E. B. Taylor.
M. J. Dillon. C. F. Smith. C. A. LeGro.

Treasurer.

C. L. Wald.

Safe Deposit Boxes for rent.

Banking Hours: 9 a. m to 3 p. m. Saturday, 9 a. m. to 12 m. Friday Evening, 7.30 to 9.

The Antalgica

Or Vegetable Pain Reliever

was introduced to the public in 1848, since which time thousands of bottles have been sold each year to an appreciative public, which is a good evidence of its merits. It is adapted to so many ailments it should be in every household, for it cures all kinds of pains both internal and external. For Bronchial affections it is unrivaled by any article in the market. It is a sure cure for Cholera Morbus and Dysentery, if taken in season, also for Coughs. It is an effective remedy for rheumatic affections, stiff joints, swelled limbs, sprains, cramps, toothache and many other ills to which the flesh is heir. Try it and it will do you good. It is sold at 25c, 50c and $1 00 per bottle by the Bay State Drug Co., Lynde & Gould, and the proprietor.

O P. Allen,
Palmer, Mass.

Here are the Helps that Cooks have wanted

Crawford Ranges

supply them—no others can!

The Single Damper (patented); one motion—push the knob to "kindle," "bake" or "check"—the range does the rest. Damper mistakes impossible.

The Ash Hod in the base (patented). The ashes fall through a chute into a Hod, all of them, making their removal safe, easy, cleanly. The Coal Hod is alongside, out of the way.

The Oven has cup-joint heat flues that heat it in every part alike. No "cold corners," no "scorching spots."

The Fire Box and Patented Grates enable a small fire to do a large baking.

Ask the Crawford agent to show you. Write us for circulars.

Walker & Pratt Mfg. Co.
31-35 Union St., Boston

Whitcomb & Faulkner, Palmer Agents

An Innovation in Oil Heaters

The Perfection Smokeless Oil Heater, with its drums enameled in turquoise, is an ornament to any room, whether in the country or city home.

No home is quite complete without a Perfection Oil Heater. It is a necessity in the fall and spring, when it is too warm to start the regular heating apparatus, and too cool to be without heat. In the midst of winter it is often convenient as an auxiliary heater, as there are always some cold corners in a house.

The enameled heater always presents a nice appearance, as the enamel will not tarnish or burn off. It is not an "enamel paint," but it is the same as the enamel of your cooking utensils

The Perfection is the most reliable and convenient portable heating device you can find. An automatically-locking flame spreader prevents turning the wick high enough to smoke.

PERFECTION SMOKELESS OIL HEATER

Dealers everywhere. Ask yours to show you the Perfection Heater enameled; or write for descriptive circular to any agency of

Standard Oil Company
(Incorporated)

Stiff Neck Relieved

For any stiffness or lameness Sloan's Liniment gives relief at once. It acts like massage—quickens the blood and limbers up lame muscles and joints. When applied immediately after violent exercise it prevents stiffness.

Here's Proof

"I am using your liniment for stiffness. I have bought two bottles of it and it is the best I ever saw."
Mrs. MARY CURRY, Milltown, Ga.

"I had a severe pain between my shoulders, and noticing your advertisement in the street cars I got a bottle which quickly relieved me."
R. D. BURGOYNE, Maysville, Ky.

SLOAN'S LINIMENT

is an excellent antiseptic remedy for sore throat, cuts and bruises. Very penetrating—needs no rubbing. Sold by all dealers.

Price 25c., 50c. and $1.00.

Sloan's book on Horses, Cattle, Hogs and Poultry sent free. Address

DR. EARL S. SLOAN, BOSTON, MASS.

Monson News.

Academy 18, Connecticut College 3.

In a fast and exciting game Saturday afternoon Monson Academy defeated the heavy football team of the Connecticut Agricultural College of Storrs, Ct., 18 to 3. The game started with a rush, Monson scoring their three touchdowns in the first period. The remainder of the game was more even and the local team used many substitutes in the last half. Oefinger again starred and showed more football ability than has been shown on a Monson Academy team in many years. The work of the entire Monson team was excellent, especially the playing of Capt. Smith and Bowker. The generalship and judgment of Quarterback Dunbar was the best witnessed on Cushman field this season. The sensation of the game was a 65-yard run for a touchdown by Barnikow, Monson's speedy end, on a delayed forward pass. The other two touchdowns were made by Oefinger and Capt. Smith, the latter kicking all of the goals, making an especially hard kick from the side line. The visitors were inclined to rough it up some. Capt. Howard excelled for the college team. Their only score was made on a drop kick by him from the 20-yard line. His punting was the best witnessed here this season. In a preliminary the Academy Mudgets easily defeated the heavier Palmer grammar school team 26 to 0. The score:

Monson Academy.	Connecticut.
Harper, E. Taylor, l e	r e, Vibert
Atherton, Frye, l t	r t, Kendall
Lechman, Taylor, l g	r g, Ketchman
Francis, c	c, Browning
Elliott, Flynt, r g	l g, Nowell
Bates, r t	l t, Storrs
Barnikow, r e	l e, Geehan, Hines
Dunbar, p b	q b, Dunne
Oefinger, Prendiville, l h b	r h b, Aubry
Smith (capt), r h b	l h b, Howard
Bowker, f b	f b, Scoville

Score. Monson Academy 18, Connecticut 3. Touchdowns. Oefinger, Smith, Barnikow. Goals from touchdowns. Smith 3. Goal from the field, Howard. Referee, Howard. Umpire, Sheridan of Springfield training school. Linemen, Entwhistle, Mathewson. Time, two 8 and two 12-minute periods.

Dorcas Drama Next Week.

The entertainment which the Dorcas society of the Congregational church is to offer next Tuesday evening gives promise of much that is unusual and mirth-provoking. Some of the bright and particular stars among the amateurs of the society are to assume the leading parts in the play, "Maidens All Forlorn." It will be interesting to learn how "Aunt Louisa" manages her three refractory nieces. She has her hands full, but Miss Holmes as "Aunt Louisa" is equal to any emergency. There will be a hearty laugh for all, and after the play Prof. Eldred will amuse with slight-of-hand, etc.; roses will grow from grains of sand, and other miraculous things. Candy, ice cream, etc., will be for sale.

To Present Play.

Court Monson, Foresters of America, are making preparations to present a five-act comedy, "Tony, the Convict," in Memorial hall about the middle of January. The act is being trained by J. P. Connor of Springfield.

Paul Mott has resigned his position with Dr. F. W. Ellis.

Thomas Gavin has returned from a visit in New York City.

Mrs. A. H. Danforth of Springfield called on local friends Thursday.

Miss Elsie Gunn has returned from a visit with relatives in Springfield.

William Cadwell has taken a position as foreman in the Cushman mill.

Alfred B. Norcross has returned from a visit with relatives in Southboro.

James Moran of Bridge street is spending a few days in New York City.

Miss Hazel Aldrich of North Main street is visiting friends in Philadelphia.

Miss Catherine O'Brien has returned from a visit in Webster and Valley Falls, R. I.

William P. Welsh of Elm street is moving into John Kimber's tenement on Washington street.

The work on the bridge and on the extension of the bridge on Pearl street is complete and it is ready for use.

Miss Lillian Barker, who has been visiting Monson friends, has returned to her home in Springfield.

Miss Margaret Connell, who has been visiting relatives in town, has returned to her home in Pittsfield.

An artisian well is being driven on the Arrow Head farm. The work is in charge of a contractor from Easthampton.

Bert Bridges, who has been visiting at the home of Mrs. Lewis Rogers on Reynolds avenue, has returned to Warren.

Prof. James H. Tufts of Chicago University will occupy the pulpit in the Congregational church, Sunday morning.

Charles Cooley has resigned his position with the Somerset Woolen Co. and has accepted a position in the hat shop.

William Kennedy has moved his household goods from Pearl street to Mrs. Hannah Lyon's house on South Main street.

Patrick Lyons, who has been confined to his home on South Main street by illness, has returned to his duties at D. F. Pease's store.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Arrow of Pittsfield, who have been visiting at the home of Matthew Green, have returned to their home.

E. H. Pike has moved his household goods from his residence on North Main street to Springfield, where he will make his future home.

There will be a dance at the home of Charles Lawrence in Tray Hollow Saturday evening. Many people from the village are planning to attend.

Peter Mills has moved his family from North Main street. His shoe repairing business has been moved to the shop formerly occupied by C. E. Smith.

Frederick Morris, who has been visiting his parents since his honorable discharge from the navy several weeks ago, has re-enlisted and will return to service Nov. 24.

The T. C. S. C. of the Methodist Episcopal church are planning for a sale and entertainment to be held in the church Tuesday, Dec. 12. Further notice will be given.

The Fortnightly Club will meet next Monday afternoon with Mrs. F. J. Entwistle on Oak street. The meeting will be in charge of Mrs. John Cross and the topic will be "Current Events."

Wilson M. Brainerd has returned from Boston and vicinity, having attended the Harvard-Carlisle football game Saturday and spending Sunday at Tufts College with John Leahy of this town.

Misses Angeline and Anna Driscoll, who spent Sunday with Miss Gertrude Hanley at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. N. P. Hanley on Main street, have returned to their home in Springfield.

J. P. Thacker is moving the building that he recently purchased from the A. H. Danforth estate on Hampden court on to his own property on Hampden avenue. Mr. Thacker is planning to have the building remodeled into a dwelling house.

Ralph Taylor Entwistle will give a musicale in the Universalist church next Wednesday evening. He will be assisted by Mr. J. S. R. Coy of Spencer, pianist, Mrs. A. D. Norcross, soprano, Mr. Harrison G. Taylor and Mr. Henry G. Billings, violinists.

The inspection of the Woman's Relief Corps was held in the Grand Army hall Thursday evening, after which supper was served. Many members of the local corps will accept the invitation to attend the 25th anniversary celebration of the Palmer corps this evening.

The hunting season on partridge, game birds and squirrels closed Wednesday. The hunters report a good season on squirrels, but the birds were very scarce. Many of the local sportsmen are making arrangements to take advantage of the open season on deer next week.

The Current Events Club met Thursday afternoon with Miss E. R. Holmes at her residence on Main street. The study on "The new epoch" was continued. Two papers were read on the works of Michael Angelo, one by Miss Holmes on his paintings and one by Miss Wingate on his sculpture.

There was a good attendance at the meeting of the Dorcas society of the Congregational church in the church parsonage with Mrs. G. A. Andrews Wednesday afternoon. The older members had the pleasure of renewing acquaintance and the newer members of meeting Mrs. N. M. Pratt, wife of Rev. N. M. Pratt, a former pastor, now of Cleveland, Ohio.

The Century club met Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. H. F. Miller on North Main street. Three papers were read, one by Mrs. William Ricketts on "The Orators, Webster, Clay and Calhoun;" one on an "Arctic exploration," by Mrs. H. W. Lancey, and another on "The dawn of national consciousness, 1829 to 1844" by Mrs. Frederick Smith.

Mrs. Rose Wallace was pleasantly surprised by a miscellaneous shower given by about 20 of her friends at the home of Miss Annie Seymour on Main street Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. Wallace was also presented with a chain and pendant, the presentation speech being made by Mrs. George H. Seymour. She also read a very appropriate poem composed by Mrs. Aldrich.

The Current Events club, the Century club and invited friends and the Woman's club of Palmer held a joint meeting at the Quaboag Country clubhouse at North Monson last Friday afternoon. The subject of the meeting was a fine lecture on "Art in lace," by Miss Martha Shannon of Boston, illustrated with stereopticon views. The meeting was well attended, about 100 women being present.

At the meeting of A. A. Gage camp, Sons of Veterans, Tuesday evening, the following officers were nominated: Commander, C. A. Duncan, L. B. Alberty; senior vice commander, R. E. Green, F. J. Flynt, E. F. Harris; junior vice commander, W. O. McEwyan; treasurer, Walter Comer, K. B. Munsell; secretary, A. F. Noyes, A. G. Beckwith; camp council, Morris Moore, W. G. Norton, William Moffett. The election will be held at the next regular meeting.

Academy Notes.

Principal Dewing announced in chapel Wednesday morning that the prudential committee of the Academy, with the consent of the appropriation committee, has decided to award the income of the Hadassah T. Dewey prize speaking fund in future years as follows: To the student attaining the highest average in rhetoricals, a prize of $15; to the second best student, $10. The averages will be taken from the grading of the seven instructors on the three rhetoricals given by each student during the year. In past years this fund was distributed in a prize speaking contest in which the best speakers were selected from the school and declamations were heard by three judges, who awarded two first prizes of $10, one to a boy and one to a girl, and two seconds prize of $5, one to boys and one to girls. In order that the public may still have the opportunity of hearing the best speakers of the school, the ten attaining the highest averages of the year will give one of their selections at public rhetoricals in May.

Somebody Will Lose.

"What is meant by the 'triangle' in modern dramas?"

"When two men love the same woman, or two women love the same man."

"Umph! That isn't a triangle. That's a gamble."

Eternal Feminine.

Lady—Why are you all so worried? Captain—The fact is, madam, we have broken our rudder. Lady—Is that all. Well, the rudder is under water and it won't show. Let's go on.—Toledo Blade.

Useless Effort.

There isn't much use asking humanity to bow before a great sacrifice when they constantly are prostrating themselves before enormous wealth.

Many Children Are Sickly.

Mother Gray's Sweet Powders for children break up Colds in 24 hours, relieve Feverishness, Headache, Stomach Troubles, Teething Disorders, and Destroy Worms. At all druggists, 25c. Sample mailed FREE. Address, Allen S. Olmstead, LeRoy, N. Y.

Thoughtful Child.

A little boy whose grandmother had just died wrote the following letter, which he duly posted: "Dear Angels—We have sent you grandma. Please give her a harp to play, as she is short-winded and cannot blow a trumpet."—Vanity Fair.

For Limit on Donkey Riders.

At the Yarmouth (England) town council it was recently proposed that the donkeys on the sea front shou'd not be allowed to carry persons weighing more than 12st pounds.

Modern Ethics.

Do not kick a man when he is down. Turn him over and feel in the other pocket.—Galveston News.

MAKES RAPID HEADWAY

Add This Fact to Your Store of Knowledge.

Kidney disease advances so rapidly that many a person is firmly in its grasp before aware of its progress. Prompt attention should be given the slightest symptons of kidney disorder. If there is a dull pain in the back, headaches, dizzy spells or a tired, worn-out feeling, or if the urine is offensive, irregular and attended with pain, procure a good kidney remedy at once.

Thousands recommend Doan's Kidney Pills. Read the statement below:

Oliver Gervais, 59 West Main St., Ware, Mass., says: "I am only too pleased to verify the testimonial I gave in 1908, telling of my experience with Doan's Kidney Pills. I had pains through my back and loins and the secretions from my kidneys not only passed too frequently, but contained sediment. Doan's Kidney Pills soon made me well."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—DOAN'S—and take no other.

"Fair and Square Credit."

THERE'S NO END OF STYLE TO OUR BIG, HANDSOME EASY COATS FOR MEN'S AND WOMEN'S WEAR.....

HAVE YOU SEEN THEM?

THE WOMEN'S COATS

ALL WOOL MIXTURES in soft shades, grays and browns. Big close-laid shawl collars. Deep handsome cuffs. Elegance in every line $15.00

SNAPPY WIDE WALES—These are the coats with the delicate striped effect obtained without the use of a separate color. Satin lined $16.50

BIG POLO COATS—These are the great, roomy handsome garments of the season. Double-faced goods, plaid effect. Splendid goods $20.00

Swell English Tourist Coats - $22.50
Big Tourist or Motor Coats - $25.00
Rough-Cloth Reversible Coats - $27.50

Those Great Classy Coats for Men

No previous season in men's dress has showed so much snappy originality, style and downright comfort. They are dandy coats, unusual coats, coats to turn and look at and admire the wearer for his good taste in selecting them.

Big Coats, with broad belts.
Great Sweeping Blanket Coats.
Elegant, Convertible Collar Coats.
Handsome Model Dress-up Coats.
Plaid and Plain Black Coats, English Styles, Big and Roomy.

$18.00, $20.00, to $35.00

Coats, Suits, Furs, Hats, Shoes
Credit to Anybody Who's Honest

Benj. Goldstein, Inc.
17-19 Elm St., Court Square Building
Springfield, Mass.

New Line of
Sweaters
Auto Hoods
Scarfs
Aviation Caps
Mufflers
Window Shades

The Famous
Interwoven Hosiery

Hellyar's Bargain Store
Converse House Block, Palmer, Mass.

Tables

Parlor, Library or Sitting Room

Modeled on distinctive lines from the 14-inch top to the largest size Library Table. Built of kiln dried lumber and finished in golden oak, mahogany or mission.

LIBRARY TABLES—33 x 22-inch tops in mahogany finish or quartered sawed oak; built on straight lines, $10 value for $8.50

QUARTERED OAK TABLES—40 x 26-inch tops, full undershelves. Colonial designs, $14 value for $11.90

DOUBLE PEDESTAL BASE TABLES with 42 x 27-inch oval tops, mahogany only, $25 values for $21.25

PARLOR TABLES IN SOLID MAHOGANY, choice of round, square or oval tops, pedestal bases.

Values $11.50, 13.00, 15.00, 18.00, 20.00 and $27.00
Sale Price $9.75, 11.00, 12.75, 15.30, 17.00 and $22.95.

FLINT & BRICKETT
Opp. Court Sq 439 Main St., Springfield
Agents for the Crawford, Sterling and Stewart Ranges.

Albert Steiger Company
THE WOMAN'S STORE.
Springfield, Mass.

Sale of
Thanksgiving Linens
Many Lots at Special Prices

We're taking this occasion to clear our stock of all broken lines. These we offer in connection with other special values at very low prices. They're all from our own well-selected stocks---perfect in pattern and weave and fitted to add luster to any Thanksgiving feast. Before you buy, investigate these special offerings.

Special Values in Table Linen by the Yard

10 PIECES ALL LINEN DAMASK 70 inches wide, in a good line of patterns—75c value. Special, a yard 59c

15 PIECES ALL-LINEN DAMASK, very fine and in a beautiful line of patterns, 68 and 70 inches wide—A yard 69c and 75c

15 PIECES OF OUR SPECIAL MADE Extra Heavy and Fine Damask, 70 and 72 inches, in a wide range of patterns. Extra value—A yard, 89c and 98c

10 PIECES EXTRA HEAVY DOUBLE Damask, 72 inches wide, in a complete line of new patterns, with Napkins to match—A yard $1.25

OTHER DAMASKS, 72 INCHES wide, at, a yard—
$1.50, $1.75 and $2.25

Tray and Table Cloths

IN A LARGE AND COMPREHENSIVE assortment of hemmed, hemstitched and scalloped effects. You'll find a full list of sizes and a wide range of patterns for selection. PRICES 15c, 19c, 25c, 39c, 50c, 75c and up to $2 each.

TABLE CLOTHS IN BEAUTIFUL Mexican Drawn-Work patterns. They are all linen and hand-drawn. We offer them to you at about half regular prices.

45 x 45 at at $2.98
54 x 54 at $3.98

Lunch Sets and Centerpieces

HANDSOME HAND-EMBROIDERED Maderia Luncheon Sets with six 6-inch Doilies, six 10-inch Doilies and one 24-inch Centerpiece. PRICES—$5, $7 and $8 a Set.

200 CLUNY CENTERPIECES IN ONE great lot, worth from 50c to 75c. Your choice, each 29c

20 Per Cent Discount on Pattern Cloths and Napkins

The offerings here are too diverse to permit of special markings, so we group everything here at 20 per cent discount from regular prices. These special values are from broken lines---some slightly soiled from handling---but all unusual values and marked in original figures from which you take 20 per cent off in buying.

Fancy Linens

That include beautiful Cluny, Maderia and Hand-Embroidered effects, together with pretty Japanese drawn-work styles, from a 6-inch Doily to a 72-inch Cloth.

Pattern Cloths

It's an offering of 200 of our prettiest styles, and in sizes 72 x 72, 72 x 90 and 72 x 108. Of course, some of them are slightly soiled, but otherwise are warranted perfect.

An odd lot of 300 dozen Napkins with no cloths to match. The quality is of an unusually high standard.

$3 Long Gloves, Special $1.95

These are 16-button White Glace Kid with pearl clasp and of excellent quality. It is one of those Glove offerings for which this store is famous---others wonder where we get them---but that's our secret. What matter as long as they're here. Special, $1 95

Thorndike
Three Rivers
Bondsville

Many items of interest from these busy villages.

THORNDIKE.

Mrs. C. A. Tabor entertained the members of the Palmer Woman's Club at her home this week.

The funeral of John Sullivan was held Saturday with burial in Holyoke, a mass of requiem being celebrated in Bondsville. The remains were taken to Holyoke by special electric car.

The entertainment to be given in St. Mary's church hall on Thanksgiving night will include vocal solos by local and out of town talent and an entertainment by the children under the direction of Miss Twiss.

Several articles of wearing apparel were stolen from the clothes lines along Church street the past week. The sudden touch of cold weather perhaps was responsible for the theft as the clothing appropriated consisted of underclothing of winter weight. No clue to the person who took the articles has been yet found.

There has been much talk during the past week about the packing company of Brightwood locating in the town of Palmer near the Fuller Crossing. Nothing definite could be learned about the matter. The land of Simon Jorezak is said to be the point of interest. It is hoped that the rumor is true as the industry would be of value to the town in more ways than one.

Buildings are to be erected for the workmen to be employed upon the Hampden railroad. They are being built on land of David Hammond and will consist of a store and quarters for the men. Work will commence at once with a force of 50 men who will continue work during the winter and will be augmented by hundreds of others the coming spring. The work in the vicinity of Mr. Hammond's will be one of the largest jobs on the road, as there is to be a 50-foot cut here. The new road will pass under the tracks of the Boston and Maine road near the Whiting farm and strike the Central Massachusetts tracks at a point north of Hastings' Crossing.

THREE RIVERS.

The Paris Millinery Store offers for sale a fine line of millinery at greatly reduced prices. Will begin Friday, November 17, and continue for 10 days.

Nelson Matte spent Sunday with friends in Ware.

Allen Provost has taken a position in the Palmer Mill.

Henry Winn spent Sunday at his home on Main street.

Samuel Cole has accepted a position in the Wright wire mill.

Wilfred Mart has accepted a position at the Bijou theater.

Mrs. A. Cohen has returned from a short trip to New York city.

Miss Margaret Donahue spent Sunday at the home of Thomas Cody.

Walter Root of Springfield spent Sunday at his home on Main street.

Mrs. N. A. Senton has recovered from her recent attack of the grippe.

Albert Jenks of Amherst spent Sunday at his home on Belchertown road.

Enos Abare of Worcester spent the week-end at his home on Main street.

A gang of men are at work cleaning out the reservoir owned by the Palmer Mill.

Miss Nellie Fogarty of Amherst spent Sunday at her home on Bourne street.

Levi Longey of Worcester spent Sunday with his family on Palmer street.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith of Springfield were the guests of friends here over the week-end.

Miss Irene Ritchie of Springfield spent Sunday at the home of Mrs. T. D. Frame.

Mr. and Mrs. Mose Gervais of Holyoke spent Sunday with relatives in this village.

Miss Nellie Conroy of Springfield spent Sunday at her home on Belchertown street.

Edward Dupraw has been entertaining his brother from Plattsburg during the past week.

Samuel Metcalf of Worcester spent Sunday at the home of John Ritchie of Palmer street.

Adrian Gervais and Romeo Lafave spent the first of the week with friends in Springfield.

Miss Martha A. Buzzell of Springfield was the week-end guest of friends in this village.

Mrs. Fred Freak is ill at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Samuel Mason on Ruggles street.

James Cassells and Moses Smith of Springfield spent Sunday at their respective homes.

John O'Donald has finished his work here and returned to his home in Indian Orchard.

Clinton Frame and a friend from Springfield spent Sunday at his home on Maple street.

Thomas Prendergast and James Wilson have gone to New York for a few days on business.

Misses Susie, Katherine and Maysie Twiss attended the funeral of a relative in Worcester Monday.

Sessions of the Polish evening school were held on Tuesday and Thursday evenings of this week.

Elton and Harold Chamberlain of Maple street spent Saturday with friends in Wilbraham.

Miss Yvonne Sirard has returned to her home in Holyoke after a short visit with friends here.

Samuel Hartley of Hartford, Ct., formerly of this village, was the guest Sunday of friends here.

George Murdock of Gilbertville spent Sunday at the home of Mrs. William Kuss on Palmer street.

Samuel Cole sang at the moving picture palace, the Scenic Temple, in Gilbertville Wednesday.

Miss Carrie Woodworth of South Hadley was the guest of Miss Carmen Stowe the last of the week.

Fred Moore of Chicopee Falls was the guest Sunday of his brother, George Moore on Springfield street.

Miss Alice Shaw of Palmer was the guest Sunday of her cousin, Miss Rachel Shaw on Main street.

Miss Gertrude Hartnett of Westfield normal spent the week-end at her home at the Quaboag House.

Emile Beugle has returned home from East Longmendow, where he has held a position for some time.

Ethel Jenks of Amherst was the guest of her mother, Mrs. Bessie Jenks on Belchertown road Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Harris of Lowell were the week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Fenton on Belchertown street.

Mrs. J. J. Foley of Springfield street was called to Worcester the last of the week by the death of her grandson.

Mrs. George Barber and children of Worcester have returned home after a short visit with her parents on School street.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Newell of Springfield were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Newell on High street Sunday.

A. Hatch has resigned his position in the Palmer Mill and accepted one in Athol, to which place he went Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. James Anderson and daughter Marion spent Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. Cleland in Wilbraham.

Mrs. A. Alden and son Elton of Indian Orchard were the week-end guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Willis on Springfield street.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith of Ware are receiving congratulations on the birth of a son. Mrs. Smith was Miss Maggie Gates, formerly of this place.

Mr. and Mrs. George Ryeroft and son of West Warren spent Sunday at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Trickett on Front street.

Mrs. Anthony Allen and daughter of Seymour, Ct., have returned to their home after spending a few days at the home of John O'Connor on Maple street.

Mrs. W. H. Bliss and Mrs. Merrill will return Saturday to their homes after spending a few days as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. P. C. Story on Maple street.

Earl Woods, for the past few years employed as electrician at the Red Bridge power house, has resigned his position to accept a similar one in Millers Falls. He and his mother have moved there the past week.

H. Ellis of Brattleboro, Vt., and Miss Ruby Longey of this village were married in Stafford, Ct., last Thursday. After spending a few days with Mrs. Ellis' parents on Palmer street they left for their future home in Brattleboro, Vt.

The electric cars have resumed their regular run, coming now to the end of the line. During the past few weeks the cars have made it a "guess game" concerning their place of departure. This point changed almost daily, and sometimes oftener. It was an agreeable surprise to the patrons when the cars again returned to the business section of the village.

BONDSVILLE.

POVERTY PARTY.

Members of Golf Club Have Enjoyable Time Tuesday Evening.

A poverty social for members of the Golf club and their families was given in the Company's hall Tuesday evening. The affair was greatly enjoyed by those who attended. Many went in costume. The prize, a fancy dish for the worst dressed lady, was won by Mrs. Michael Sullivan. F. E. Albro and C. H. Banister were pronounced the worst dressed men, and on drawing lots Mr. Banister won the prize, a fancy lead pencil. For stringing pop corn in the shortest time Mrs. C. H. Banister and Mrs. V. C. Faunce won the prizes, an ash tray and a fancy dish; musical game, won by Mrs. C. D. Holden, a picture; ringing the donkey's tail, Mrs. M. R. Sullivan, a picture. Following the social a buffet lunch was served, and later dancing was enjoyed. Music was furnished by Mrs. S. R. Carsley of Palmer and Mrs. V. C. Faunce.

Birthday Party.

Miss Emma Lamb gave a birthday party to ten of her little friends Saturday, it being her ninth birthday. The children passed a pleasant afternoon playing games. Refreshments were served. The small hostess was the recipient of many pretty gifts. The following were present: Dora Heys, Mary Heys, Pearl Lamb, Ethel Kingdon, Lillian Kingdon, Carl Kingdon, Harold Lamb, Madeline Jenkens, Dorothia McVickar and Emma Lamb.

Massie Nadue of Ludlow visited friends here this week.

Fred Buck of Three Rivers was a guest of friends this week.

John O'Neill of Farmington was a guest over Sunday of his family.

Alvertus Morse of Ludlow is a guest this week of Mr. and Mrs. O. A. Parent.

Miss Kathleen Quirk was home over Sunday from Westfield Normal School.

Miss Ora Howes of West Springfield was a guest over Sunday of Miss Alice Banister.

Charlie Langelier had the good fortune to shoot six gray squirrels last Saturday.

Charles Billings of Springfield is a guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Billings.

Miss Marion Albro returned Sunday from a few days spent with friends in Springfield.

Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Reid of Springfield visited Friday with Mr. and Mrs. O. A. Parent.

A. M. Billings has returned from a few days' vacation spent with friends in Williamsburg.

Robert Layman of Northampton was a guest this week of his niece, Mrs. F. E. Albro.

The Ladies' Aid Society will hold a food sale next Friday afternoon in C. D. Holden's store.

Mr. and Mrs. Rollie Terry of Springfield were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Randall.

Misses Mollie and Nellie Mansfield spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Summers in Springfield.

Mrs. Michael Collins and Miss Kate Quirk spent Tuesday with Mr. and Mrs. John Quirk in Ware.

Mrs. Henry Hobson of Palmer was a guest the first of the week of her friend, Mrs. O. A. Parent.

The Epworth League will hold a business meeting and social at the parsonage this evening from 7.30 to 9.10.

Several Odd Fellows visited the lodge in Ware Tuesday evening, and witnessed the working of the first degree.

Miss Margaret Callahan, who is in Wesson Memorial Hospital, is reported as improving as much as could be expected.

Miss Lydia Marsan and friend, Miss Mae Lannigan of Springfield, were guests Sunday of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Adalard Marsan.

The Ladies' Aid Society met Wednesday with Mrs. A. M. Billings with 15 present. The next meeting will be with Mrs. C. H. Collis.

The Thursday evening prayer meetings, which have been interrupted recently, are again resumed, one this week being held in the vestry of the M. E. church.

Mr. and Mrs. John A. Shea returned Sunday from their wedding trip and are spending a few days with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John D. Shea, before going to their new home near the Boston and Maine station.

The Mission Fathers will be at St. Bartholomew's church next week and the following week. Mass will be held at 5 and 7 o'clock a. m., and services at 7.30 in the evening. The services next week will be for women, and the week following for men.

The subject of the sermon at the Methodist church Sunday morning will be "What think ye of Christ?" Sunday school at 11.45, Epworth League service in the vestry at 6. In the evening Rev. C. B. McDuffie of Three Rivers will preach in exchange with the pastor.

The funeral of the late John Sullivan was held Saturday morning from St. Bartholomew's church, Rev. Thomas A. Kennedy officiating. Mr. Sullivan was 60 years old and was well known in this community, as he had been employed for many years as a flag man by the Boston and Maine railroad at the Hastings crossing. He leaves beside his widow, two children.

Value of a Postal Card.

It is a good plan always to have at hand a half-dozen or so postal cards Then when you see an advertisement that interests you, drop a line before your interest wanes, or you forget the name and address. The possible advantages to you of acting promptly are boundless.

Much Sought Gem.

The gem most sought after is the Australian black opal, which is found nowhere else in the world. It appears in limited quantities in the matrix of ironstone and sandstone in the Lightning Ridge district of New South Wales.

Ever Noticed It?

Just when a fellow begins to think the business couldn't possibly go on without him he gets fired.—Puck.

Daily Thought.

He who loves is in the right.—Schiller.

THOUGHT IT A STORY.

Congressman—How did you like that copy of a census I sent you?

Farmer Hayrick—Waal, I've read a little of it, but it ain't very thrilling. After I get through the figures I guess it'll be more interesting

In Partnership.

He—"So young March and his father are carrying on the business?" She—"Yes. The old man runs the business while young March does the carrying on."—N Y Globe.

Shipwreck Safer.

It is getting so that it is safer to be shipwrecked on the ocean than it is to be a passenger in a skidding automobile.—Syracuse Herald

It Keeps Her Busy.

A girl's life is one continuous effort to create the impression that she wouldn't think of doing things that she's crazy to try

Extraordinary Furniture Sale.

The Adaskin Furniture Company of 234 Main street, Springfield, is holding a fifth anniversary sale. The company has recently made extensive improvements in its store which is now one of the most up-to-date furniture stores in the city. The entire second floor is devoted to parlor and bedroom furniture and rugs. In the right aisle are the dressers, chiffoniers and princess dressers in all kinds of wood and patterns. The parlor sets are in the middle aisle and include a large assortment of designs, among them colonial, Chippendale and those of later periods. These are covered in verona, silk damask, panne plush, velour tapestry or leather. The mission furniture is arranged in another aisle. On the north side of the floor is a large stock of brass bedsteads, in satin finish or polished brass. These are made in various designs, square, round and colonial. On the extreme left is a large stock of other types of metal beds, more than 50 different patterns. These are finished in white, green, blue and oxidized metal. On the north end of the floor is the stock of parlor tables, finished in oak, maple, birdseye maple and circassian walnut. In the middle of the floor are the large rug racks, containing more than 150 patterns of various sizes. On the main floor is large and complete stock of everything that is needed in a house from cellar to attic.

1848 BRIGHAM'S 1911
All Goods Delivered Free In Palmer.

At $20
Double Faced Coats
Worth $25, $27.50 and $30

Taking the balance of the stock of double-faced coats, made by one of our leading New York tailors, we are able to offer for this week the biggest values of the season in these popular garments.

These stylish coats come in handsome browns, grays, blues and greens in plain colors and mixtures, with the reverse cuffs, collars and revers showing in high colors in strong contrast. They include a wide variety of styles, some with regulation collar, others with the big sailor collars and revers, and still others in the popular hooded effects.

Coats made to sell for $25, $27.50, $30—your choice $20

Sale of Suits
At $30
Values Up to $45

For this week we have picked out 50 handsome suits from our regular stock --- suits that have been excellent values up to $45 --- putting them all in at one popular price --- $30.

These suits include fine broadcloths, men's suitings and cheviots in a wide variety of models. They come in all the best colors of the season, including a large showing of handsome black suits, all tailored in true Brigham style. In this lot we have all sizes, the small as well as the extra large sizes.

Suits representing good values up to $45—this week $30

D H Brigham & Co.
Springfield, Mass.

Germs Spread in Skin

Eczema, Psoriasis and other skin troubles are caused by myriads of germs at work in the skin. Unless these germs are promptly destroyed they rapidly multiply, gnawing their way deep into the sensitive tissue. This is what causes that awful itch, and what seemed a mere rash may grow worse and develop into a loathsome and torturing skin disease with its years of misery.

Don't take any chances! Destroy the germs at the beginning of the trouble with that soothing and cleansing wash, the D. D. D. Prescription for Eczema. A 25c bottle will prove this to you.

We have had experience with many remedies for skin trouble but have never seen such remarkable cures as those from D. D. D. Prescription. Instant relief from the very first application.

We are so confident that D. D. D. will reach your case that it will cost you nothing if the very first full size bottle fails to make good every claim.

If you have skin trouble of any kind, we certainly advise you to drop in and investigate the merits of D. D. D. anyway. We know that D. D. D. will help you.

BAY STATE DRUG CO. (INC.)

Haynes & Company
Always Reliable
Springfield, Mass.

You are always sure of something better at the Haynes Store

That this great store should enjoy unusual purchasing advantages you would naturally expect, and we surely do.

These same advantages we share with those who come to us for clothes, and the thousands of men who wear Haynes Clothes is good proof that Haynes Values are worth coming miles to secure.

Right now we are in the midst of our Overcoat selling, and you will find it a splendid time to select yours.

Overcoats at $12, $15, $18, $20, $22, $25, $28, $30, and $35.

The Palmer Journal.

VOLUME LXII. PALMER, MASS., FRIDAY EVENING, DECEMBER 1, 1911. NUMBER 35.

Burglars Captured At Three Rivers.

Woman's Action Results in Seizure of Two Men In Sam Weiner's Store. Officer Sullivan Takes Them at Muzzle of Revolver.

Prompt and fearless action on the part of Mrs. Clinton Barber of Three Rivers about 1 o'clock this morning resulted in the capture of two burglars in the store of Sam Weiner on Main street in that village. It was their first attempt at helping themselves to the property of other people, and is likely to be the last for some time.

It was only a few minutes before 1 when Mrs. Barber, who lives in the house next to the store, heard a sound of breaking glass in the side window. She spoke to her husband and he got up to investigate. He was just in time to see two men crawl into the window of the store. Quickly getting into his clothes he hunted up Officer Michael Sullivan and told him what he had seen. He in turn secured the assistance of Daniel Dunn and Thomas Pendergast and the quartet returned to the scene of the break. An attempt was made to get Mr. Weiner, who lives in a house just back of his store, and have him to open the door, but he could not be roused. Stationing two men at the front of the store and another at the rear, Officer Sullivan himself waited at the window where the men went in. After a little a head appeared and a man started to come out. A gun was poked into his face, a flashlight turned on him and he was ordered to throw up hands. He failed to do this, but instead dropped back into the store. In order to get out the men had to use a step ladder, and as the second man was close behind the first he was knocked off the ladder back into the store. As they showed no further intention of coming out Officer Sullivan went in after them. An order to throw up their hands, backed by the business end of a good sized revolver pointed directly at them had the desired effect and in a moment he had the nippers on both.

Police Officer Michael Sullivan.

Investigation showed that they had two dress suit cases packed full of goods, including a quantity of jewelry and other small wares. In addition each had on a warm overcoat taken from the stock in the store, and other articles of wearing apparel. The men gave the names of Charlie Georgie and Frank Lavidsky. The former is an Italian about 26 years old, while the latter is a Pole aged about 19; he lived in Three Rivers about four years ago and recognized Officer Sullivan when he got a good look at him. The men said they arrived in Springfield from New York yesterday afternoon; they were without money and were shy on clothing for the winter. It was suggested that they try to help themselves at some place, and Lavidsky led the way to Three Rivers. They rode to Wilbraham on a freight train and hiked it over the hills to Three Rivers, arriving about 12.30.

In the district court this morning both pleaded guilty to a charge of breaking and entering, and were bound over to the grand jury. In the course of his examination Georgie regretted the lack of a revolver, which he would have used on the officer, he said, if he had possessed one.

Death of Mrs. Frances W. Dimock.

Mrs. Frances W. Dimock, 84, died at her home on Park street Sunday afternoon. She was the daughter of Rev. Ambrose and Sarah Day, and was born in Westfield, April 15, 1827, one of a family of 10 children. She married Lyman Dimock of Huntington, who was prominent in public affairs, representing Palmer in the Legislature in 1869, and being a member of the governor's council from the western district. Mr. and Mrs. Dimock came to Palmer in 1863, and Mr. Dimock engaged in the shoe business on Main street. He died in February, 1895. Mrs. Dimock was a member of the Second Baptist church, with which she united soon after coming to town. She was an active worker in the church and Sunday school, and a regular attendant until her last illness. She was deeply interested in the building of the new edifice and a generous contributor. She leaves one sister, Mrs. Helen A. Holt of Somerville, and several nieces and nephews. The funeral was held Wednesday morning in the Baptist church, Rev. C. W. Williams officiating. The body was taken on the noon train to Westfield for burial.

Public Installation.

Thomas Lodge of Masons Entertains Friends Monday Evening.

The officers of Thomas lodge of Masons were publicly installed Monday evening, Clarence A. Brodeur of Westfield, past grand warden of the grand lodge, acting as installing officer, and Byram Woodhead being marshall. The exercises were interspersed with musical selections by C. A. Hanson of Worcester, violinist; Miss Mary E. Dolbear, pianist; J. M. Warner of Northampton, vocalist. At the close of the installation the retiring master, Joseph F. Davis, was presented with a gold past master's jewel. A collation was served. The officers for the ensuing year are: Worshipful master, Charles L. Waid; senior warden, Charles M. Kempton; junior warden, Lee J. Gray; treasurer, Walter L. Shaw; secretary, James T. Campbell; chaplain, David L. Bodfish; marshal, Emerson J. Loy; senior deacon, Harrie M. Howe; junior deacon, Clifton H. Hobson; senior sentinel, Lewis E. Royce; junior sentinel, William J. Gillis; inside sentinel, Freeman A. Smith; organist, Byram Woodhead; tyler, James Knox.

Coffee Party To-night.

The annual coffee party of St. Mary's parish of Thorndike will be held this evening. These occasions have come to be looked forward to by a large number as well worth attending, and the program this evening should attract a sizable audience. There will be two short dramas by women, vocal solos by Miss Mary V. Lyons of Thorndike, Miss Elizabeth Riddle of Three Rivers and Miss Nolan of Holyoke; readings by Miss Marie Dullihan of Thorndike and piano and violin solos by Miss Florence Sampson and Miss Kate Holden of Thorndike.

Men's League Holds Big Brother Night.

The Men's League of the Congregational church held a Big Brother night Monday, inviting all boys over 16 to be present. A large number availed themselves of the privilege, and all seemed to enjoy the program provided for their entertainment. There was singing, story telling by Superintendent of Schools Clifton H. Hobson and Louis E. Chandler, an excellent paper by Dr. H. C. Cheney and an address on "Playing the game" by Prof. Cheney of the Springfield Y. M. C. A. training school, after which lunch was served.

Zindl—Burdick.

William H. Burdick of Palmer and Miss Frances Loretta Zindl of Monson were united in marriage at the home of Mrs. Martha D. Burdick on Central street yesterday afternoon at 4.30. Rev. F. S. Brewer performed the ceremony in the presence of a number of relatives and friends. A dinner was served after the ceremony.

Beginning next Monday morning two cars will be run for the accommodation of the high school pupils, one leaving Bondsville at 7.35 and the other leaving Three Rivers about the same time. Heretofore one car has been carrying the pupils running to Bondsville, thence to Three Rivers, Thorndike, and Palmer. The change will be greatly appreciated.

The Palmer Historical Society will hold its regular meeting next Tuesday evening at 7.30 o'clock in the reference room of the public library. Clifton H. Hobson, superintendent of schools, will give an address on "Some present day school problems." The public is cordially invited.

BOUGHT BOOZE SUNDAY.

Statement Made in District Court Case Monday.

LICENSE COMMISSIONERS NOTIFIED.

Will Hold Meeting This Evening. Much Public Interest in Outcome Of Matter.

Officers Bills, Thomas and Crimmins were called to Water street between 11 and 12 Sunday morning to quell a disturbance which had assumed sizable proportions. They arrested Charles Kowalczyk, Steve Kowalczyk and Alexander Lif, and in the district court Monday morning they were charged with disturbing the peace. All pleaded guilty. In the course of the examination of the cases testimony was offered to the effect that the row was the result of too much beer and whisky, which had been purchased that forenoon at the Weeks House. The witness stated that all had "chipped in" the necessary finds, after which he took the money and procured the liquids.

Associate Justice David F. Dillon, who was on the bench in the absence of Judge Kenefick, suggested to Clerk of Courts Fitch that, as none of the license commissioners were in court it might be well to acquaint them with the nature of the testimony given, and this was done, a letter being sent to Chairman Oakes of the license commission.

The two Kowalczyks were each given 30 days in the house of correction, and Lif was fined $15, which he paid.

The license commissioners are to hold a meeting this evening, at which time the matter will be considered. There is much public comment on the situation, and the result of to-night's meeting will be awaited with interest.

Number of Deer Shot.

Is 65 in Hampden County, 187 in State. Palmer's score 17.

The reports for the deer season last week are in, and show that a total of 1201 were killed in the state. Of this number 187 were killed in Hampden county, and 65 of these in the district in charge of Deputy Fish and Game Commissioner John F. Luman of Palmer. The number reported wounded but not killed is 41 for the entire state.

The following were lucky enough to secure deer within a radius of 20 miles of Palmer:

Palmer, 17—William Caldwell, P. A. Forte, J. G. Randlett, Thomas Murphy, Otis Wallace, Fred Mumford, H. W. Matthews, Leo Goodreau, Nelson Freak, Leo Phillips, John Caldwell, George Authier, William Smith, S. Galbraithe, Louis Sird, Lewis Wallace, Mr. Patnode.

Brimfield, 16—Mr. Bowers, Charles Fuller, Mr. Stevens, Mr. Marsh, Mr. Jordan, William Spooner, Homer Booth, Howard Booth, Mr. Wesson, Bert Lawson, Frank Wells, George Lane, Robert Chaffee, George Blashfield, Robert Sherman, W. E. Bedell.

Monson, 7—George M. Morris, James Bowler, Homer Bradway, Patrick Cahill, John McCarthy, Edward Burleigh, Ray Calkins.

Warren, 10—George Normandie, Timothy Lyons, Edward Sullivan, Albert Rice, Otto Reime, Charles Reime, Raymond Moore, Herbert Bagley, Edward Maher, Fred Hubert.

Sturbridge, 4—Frank Julian, Don Simons, Harry Vinton, Wiles Aubbell.

Wales, 3—Henry Maynard, Harry Fenton, Mr. Gale.

West Brookfield, 4—Wallace Tucker, Daniel McRevery, Bugsbee brothers.

Southbridge, 2—George Andrews, Ralph Basnor.

Death of John N. Lacey.

Former Resident Passes Away at Home in Arlington.

John N. Lacey, 75, died on Wednesday evening of last week at his home in Arlington from an attack of heart trouble, from which he had suffered for some time.

Mr. Lacey was born in Springfield, but will be remembered by many as a resident for years of Palmer; he lived on South Main street and occupied a position at the state primary school, a state institution which cared for neglected children, located on the grounds now occupied by the epileptic hospital. He removed some years ago to the eastern part of the state, where for 20 years he held the position of steward at the Danvers Insane Hospital, resigning in July of last year. He is survived by his wife, one daughter and a son, Edward N. Lacey, who is a member of the school committee of Arlington. The funeral was held Saturday in Enfield.

H. A. McFARLAND DEAD.

Long-time Resident of the Town Of Wales.

WELL KNOWN IN EASTERN HAMPDEN.

Associate Justice of District Court. One Of Largest Local Real Estate Owners.

Herbert A. McFarland, associate justice of the District Court of Eastern Hampden at Palmer, and one of the leading citizens of the town of Wales, died at his home Sunday afternoon after an illness of less than a week.

Mr. McFarland was born April 14, 1840, in Sturbridge, the son of Marshall and Lorinda McFarland. His mother died when he was but eight years old, and the next five years of his life were spent in the town of Holland. His education was obtained in the schools of that town and in the Hitchcock Free Academy at Brimfield, and at the age of 18 he began teaching school winters and working summers for his uncle. At the age of 28 he took up his residence in Wales. He was at first bookkeeper and paymaster for Elijah Shaw, who operated six mills, and he held the position for ten years. Farming attracted him then, and he followed this occupation for the remainder of his life. He gradually acquired land in Wales, Brimfield and Holland, becoming one of the largest real estate owners in the eastern part of the county.

In 1885 Mr. McFarland was appointed a justice with authority to issue warrants, and in 1896 was made associate justice of the district court. He was not a member of the bar, but thoroughly acquainted himself with his duties and performed them with rare judgment. He was made secretary of the Wales Savings Bank when it was incorporated in 1870, and in 1880 was made secretary and treasurer, holding the position at the time of his death.

Mr. McFarland held all the positions in the gift of the town, and for 30 years was a member of the school committee. He served in the House branch of the Legislature in 1890 and 1891, and for 40 years was a member of the Republican town committee, acting as chairman the greater part of the time. He became a member of the Congregational church in Holland in early life, but in Wales was an attendant at and active in the work of the Baptist church, serving as superintendent of the Sunday school for twelve years and as a teacher for 45. He leaves a widow and a sister, Mrs. C. S. Whitcomb of Springfield.

The funeral was held Wednesday afternoon from the Baptist church in Wales, preceded by a prayer at the house. The service at the church was conducted by Rev. Charles T. Holt, assisted by Rev. Mr. Lovering, pastor of the Congregational church in Holland. There were vocal selections by Mrs. G. H. Rogers of West Springfield, whose husband was formerly a pastor of the Wales Methodist church. Many were present at the church services from the surrounding towns. There were numerous beautiful floral tributes. Burial was in the Laurel Hill cemetery.

Former Resident Dies in Kansas.

Word has been received of the death November 12 of Mrs. Abby M. Cundall, widow of the late William S. Cundall, in Blue Rapids, Kansas, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. J. E. Hubbard, at the advanced age of 91 years, five months and 14 days. Mr. and Mrs. Cundall resided for many years in South Belchertown, and the body was brought back to that place and laid beside those of her husband and children in the family burial lot. Mrs. Cundall leaves besides Mrs. Hubbard, another daughter, Mrs. L. M. Tenney of Marlboro.

Fraternity Notes.

Palmer lodge of Odd Fellows meet next Wednesday evening.

The firemen hold their regular meeting next Monday evening.

Court Palmer, Foresters of America, meet next Tuesday evening.

Division 15, A. O. H., meeting in Thorndike Sunday afternoon.

Palmer aerie of Eagles holds a regular meeting Thursday evening of next week.

Cyrus W. Cross camp, Sons of Veterans, hold a regular meeting next Wednesday evening.

The annual meeting of Quaboag council, Royal Arcanum, will be held next Tuesday evening.

School Attendance Shows Improvement.

Tardiness Eliminated. Children's Diseases Prevent Better Showing. Bondsville School Leads. Three Rivers Room Highest.

The attendance in the public schools for the month which closed on Friday, November 24, is given below. During the month there has been considerable illness, particularly in the lower grades, as a glance at the percentages of attendance in grades I and II in nearly all of the schools in town will indicate. The usual children's diseases have made their appearance. Particular attention is being given to the matter of tardiness, and a slow, but apparently steady improvement is noted. The number of tardy cases in the village schools is being reduced considerably, there being only 27 out of an enrollment of 1189 pupils. The tardy cases in the districts still continue, as the 31 cases charged against them, with an enrollment of only 110, will attest. Time, persistence, and patience will overcome this school evil.

The Bondsville school has the best average of the month, with a per cent of 97.14 and only one tardy case, a remarkably good showing. The room having the best attendance is grades 8 and 9 of Three Rivers, with a per cent of 99.58 and no tardy markes. Grades 6 and 7 and grades 8 and 9 of Bondsville are next; the former has a per cent of 99.11 and no tardy cases, while the latter has a per cent of 99.1 and no tardy cases. The records are unusually good.

	Enrollment	Average Membership	Average Attendance	Per cent	Tardy	Perfect Attendance
High School	146	145.25	142.3	96.59	14	96
PALMER GRAMMAR SCHOOL.
Grade 9	33	33.	32.37	98.1	0	28
8	33	33.	32.67	97.19	0	27
7	35	34.25	33.47	97.72	1	25
6	43	43.	41 10	95.69	0	28
5	52	51.25	49.95	97.46	0	39
4	48	48.	44.77	93.2	1	24
3	48	47.25	43.60	92.27	1	25
2	44	42.35	37.02	87.41	1	15
1 and 2	49	45.	39.37	87.	4	9
1	44	40.42	35.37	87.5	1	15
	429	417.52	390.73	93.58	9	233
THORNDIKE GRAMMAR SCHOOL.
Grade 8 and 9	27	27.	26.7	98.89	0	21
6 and 7	34	34.	33.35	98.08	1	25
4 and 5	37	35.65	34 15	95.79	1	24
3 and 4	31	30.7	30.05	97.88	0	23
2	37	35.75	33.32	93.2	3	19
1	46	39.7	34.42	86.71	0	13
	212	202.80	191.99	95.09	5	125
THREE RIVERS GRAMMAR SCHOOL.
Grade 8 and 9	24	24.	23.9	99.58	0	22
6 and 7	46	46.	44.97	97.77	3	31
5	33	33.	32.	96.96	1	24
4	43	43.	42.5	98.8	0	35
3	38	37.95	37.4	98.55	1	31
2	38	37.35	32.62	87.35	1	18
1 and 2	42	42.	40.32	96.01	4	19
1	44	42.85	37.12	86.48	2	21
	308	306.15	290.84	95.19	12	201
BONDSVILLE GRAMMAR SCHOOL.
Grade 8 and 9	20	20.	19.82	99.1	0	15
6 and 7	34	34.	33.7	99.11	0	25
4 and 5	36	36.	35.2	97.77	0	30
3 and 4	47	47.	44.85	95.42	0	25
2	50	49.4	48.15	97.47	0	31
1	53	50.95	47.88	93.97	1	25
	240	237.35	229.6	97.14	1	151
DISTRICTS.
Wire Mill	46	45.2	44.07	97.58	9	29
Palmer Center	27	26.6	26.3	98.8	1	22
Forest Lake	19	19.	13.95	73.42	3	3
Shorley	18	16.	14.	87.5	19	7
	110	106.8	98.32	89.32	32	61

SUMMARY.

	1911	1910	1911	1910	1911	1910	1911	1911	1910	1911	1910
High	146	132	145.25	129.9	140.3	126.8	96.59	97.6	14	25	96	80
Palmer Gram.	429	396	417.52	386.64	390.73	359.21	93.58	94.89	9	12	233	235
Thorn. Gram.	212	202	202.8	198.14	191.99	190.66	95.09	96.18	5	15	125	127
Three R. Gram.	308	306	306.15	299.18	290.84	290.05	95.19	97.13	12	19	201	221
Bond. Gram.	240	222	237.35	218.16	229.6	206.13	97.14	94.94	1	1	151	135
Districts	110	108	106.8	105.48	98.32	100.64	89.32	94.85	32	10	61	51
Total	1445	1366	1415.87	1337.50	1341.78	1273.49	94.48	95.93	73	82	867	849

Streets Must Be Cared For.

Auto Travel Responsible For Bad Conditions. Macadam Suggested.

It is not unlikely that the town will have to confront at the annual meeting next spring the question of what will be done with the streets of the town—particularly in the Depot village—which are used by the autos which pass through in such large numbers. Particularly annoying to autoists is that section of Park street between Thorndike street and the beginning of the state road near the Boston and Albany freight house. In wet weather this is badly cut up by the heavy touring cars, and on drying out the surface is left so uneven that it cannot be negotiated at any greater speed than a mere crawl with safety to the cars. During the summer a large number of cars have taken Central street in getting between Main and Park streets, and the section between Pleasant and Park is in almost as bad a condition as is Park street. South Main is another street which needs something done to it, either in the way of grading so as to carry off the water or both grading and hardening. It is a question whether, in order to keep the streets most used by autos in good condition—especially the streets used by the Boston—New York travel—it will not be necessary to macadamize them. Such streets as are already surfaced in this way seem to be standing the wear well.

No Wounded Deer So Far.

In spite of the numerous hunters who during the open season on deer last week fired at animals and failed to stop them, no wounded deer have been found or heard of, although the deputy fish and game commissioners have been on the search for them all this week. They ask that if any such animals are known the information be forwarded to them at once, so they may put an end to their sufferings. The fact that only shutguns were allowed in hunting is probably the reason for the scarcity of wounded animals.

Original.

The Gossip.

She said she was in a hurry
And she couldn't stay at all;
Then she leaned against the doorway
And she leaned against the wall;
She talked about the weather
And the fashions at the store;
She talked and talked and talked and talked,
And then she talked some more.

But really, she "must be going;"
Oh, no, she couldn't stay!
She held the door wide open,
And still she talked away
About the latest wedding,
And the newest fashion hat,
The scandal down at Jones's;
Oh, she talked of this and that.

Then, "goodbye," she "must be going,"
She would call some other day;
She had a few more calls to make,
But still found things to say
About the newest neighbors
And the dress goods at the store;
She talked and talked and talked and talked
And then she talked some more.

But, really, time was precious
And this her busy day.
Just then she caught her second wind
And still she talked away
About anything and everything,
The high price of coal and rent.
She talked and talked, but thank God, at last
She said, goodbye, and went.

Harry Earle Dixon.

Premiums Being Paid.

Treasurer Cummings has been sending out checks this week for the premiums awarded at the annual fair of the Eastern Hampden Agricultural Society in October. The rain of the last day caused a deficit in the receipts of the society, and it has taken a little time in which to make arrangements for the necessary funds. All bills and premiums have been paid in full.

Red Men Entertained.

The attendants at the meeting of Tockwotton tribe of Red Men Tuesday evening were treated to a musical entertainment prepared by Dr. G. A. Moore. There were solos and duetts by Dr. Moore and E. E. Brooks, with Ralph Entwistle as accompanist, the latter also rendering several pleasing piano solos. A social and smoke-talk followed.

A Turn of the Earth.

A Case of a Modern Miracle.

By JEFFERSON PORT.

Copyright by American Press Association, 1911.

It was a desolate country which Clarence Ives was traversing with laggard feet. Six weeks before he had started from Ensenada with two pack mules and a prospecting outfit. Now the mules were heaps of bleaching bones among the ragged Lower California hills, and the vultures had sailed away to other banquets. Ives wondered if they would come back to quarrel over his remains before long.

Ahead of him was a Golconda of riches—of course! Had not that half breed Mexican, Felipe Ordero, filled his ears with tales of the gold to be picked up in that canyon down in Lower California? True it was that Felipe had not been to the country beyond Ensenada, but his story sounded reasonable, and he had substantiated his assertions with a rude map of the country which had descended to him from his grandfather, who had been a man of many adventures.

Ives wished success in this adventure. He had been the owner of a prosperous vineyard and had lost his year's crop by a mysterious fire which had swept down and obliterated every vine on his acres. There was a mortgage on his ranch, and it was held by the man whose daughter he wanted to marry.

"If you can pull yourself out of this hole, Clarence," Norman Royce said grimly, "I'll cut a carload of orange blossoms and you can engage the padre. If you can't make good what's the use of your marrying Cora now and entangling her in the meshes of your difficulties—eh?"

Clarence Ives had thrust out his determined chin and informed Papa Royce that one year from that date he would call upon him to deliver Cora into his arms. In the meantime he shut up his ranch house, bade farewell to his pretty, loyal sweetheart and set forth on this expedition into Lower California after gold—a wild adventure into a wild, uninhabited country, undertaken by a man whose greatest assets were youth and courage and the love of a woman.

The mules, one after the other, had each broken a leg among the crevices of the foothills. That was why Clarence was trudging along, weary, spiritless, with now and then a reference to the old map he had received from the half breed.

Near nightfall he came to the entrance of a rocky canyon. Scrubby chestnuts and pecans clothed the rim of the cuplike inclosure. Across one end a small stream of sweet, pure water meandered and was lost among the rocks. Near the stream was a patch of coarse green grass, and here Clarence made his little camp.

After supper he compared his map with the canyon and grew dizzy when he realized that this must indeed be the treasure house of which Felipe had told him. To verify this belief he searched the beetling rock that hung over the source of the spring and was rewarded for his effort by finding rudely carved thereon the image of a serpent placed there a hundred years ago to guard the spring.

"Hooray!" yelled Clarence excitedly, and the echo was borne back and forth across the rocky canyon until it seemed to fall at his feet in a frightened whisper.

When a new day dawned he was refreshed and set about delving among the rocks at the head of the stream where the map indicated that gold nuggets might be found.

Day after day passed in a monotonous succession of disappointments.

At last, after three weeks of delving in the rocky soil, he lifted his pick and threw it far from him with a bitter exclamation. Then, because he recollected that other treasure seekers had found gold many times when on the verge of abandoning their projects, he sought his pick once more and again applied himself to the task, but it was only a dying spurt of ambition, and at sunset he once more tossed the implement aside and flung himself on the ground in bitter despair.

He had staked his future and Cora's on the rare smile of the goddess of fortune, and she had chosen to frown upon him.

"I've paid my tribute to labor," he said grimly after awhile. He surveyed his bruised and blistered hands and the turmoil of rocks and earth he had tossed up in the canyon. He took stock of his scanty store of provisions and packed them together. Then he turned his back on the canyon and rounded the rocky entrance and climbed the heights to the fringe of chestnuts and pecans.

He made his way through the grove of nut trees and was once more on a certain rocky trail when it occurred to him that night was drawing in and he must make camp until morning. So he returned to the nut grove, ate a scanty meal and threw himself on the warm ground and went to sleep, sore at heart and bitter with the whole world.

It was just before dawn that he awoke to a strange rocking motion. Birds were twittering excitedly among the trees; the gray of coming day was in the sky, and something else—something strangely electric—was shaking the earth beneath him until he staggered to his feet sick and dizzy with the sensation.

He heard the crash of rocks in the canyon below; he heard strange rumblings beneath him, and that which he had thought was solid earth suddenly heaved upward and threw him, together with the little nut grove, slipping and tumbling and finally crashling down the sides of the rocky canyon.

The rocks of the canyon had heaved and ground themselves together into new shapes, and when Clarence fell among them his body was cradled among the thick branches of the trees that had fallen with him, and altogether were wedged among a new formation of rocks near the little stream. Consciousness left him at this time.

When he awoke it was high noon and the sun poured fiercely on his unsheltered face. He moved and found that beyond severe bruises he was unharmed. He climbed out of the labyrinth of twisted branches and looked about him at a strangely transformed canyon. The earthquake had riven the earth in a dozen places; had tossed huge rocks aside as if they were the merest pebbles; had diverted the little stream in a new bed.

Clarence Ives stared and stared again at the place where the huge beetling rock had stood guard over the head of the stream. The rock with the serpent carved upon it had tumbled over, disclosing beneath it a deep indentation of the earth. Here something glittered in the rays of the sun, and Clarence scrambled over rocks and trees until he hung breathlessly over this storehouse of golden treasure.

Nuggets of pure gold, rubbed smooth by the grinding process of water and rock, were pocketed here. Nature had opened her storehouse for him after all, and she was a liberal dame when she chose to give bounty. Feverishly he filled one of his empty canvas food sacks with the precious lumps, and when not one remained in the cavity he turned away, satisfied a fortune was his.

There in the canyon, torn and ragged with the effects of the earthquake, the man flung himself upon his knees and gave thanks to the one who had directed the earth to open for him. To Clarence Ives it was a greater miracle than those which he had read about in the Bible.

He was to witness a still greater miracle before he left the canyon. He had secured his bag of precious metal and had searched for and discovered his provisions, which had slipped down the canyon walls with him in the shock of the quake, and he was just leaving the canyon for the second time when once more the earth trembled.

The rocks ground together, the trees shivered, and then, as earlier that day, there was a violent tearing sound, and he saw the earth beneath the recumbent serpent rock burst upward and precipitate the rock back into its former bed from which he had rescued his golden store. After a few faint shiverings the earth ceased turning in her bed and was still.

Awed by what he had seen, Ives struck the backward trail, witnessing many evidences of the disturbance as he made his way toward Ensenada. His progress was slow on account of the weight of gold, and he was wary of wandering prospectors or stray bands of half breeds, but he had little to fear, for the earth shocks had driven them panic stricken into the town.

Then one afternoon as he neared the last few miles before he should reach Ensenada and a semblance of civilization he saw coming toward him a little party mounted on wiry horses. He scanned them closely, wondering at their identity, hoping he might be able to purchase additions to his depleted store of food.

They came within range of recognition. First he recognized Felipe Ordero's sloping shoulders, over which curled a streamer of cigarette smoke; then the large, bulky form of Norman Royce, red complexioned, gray haired, anxious eyed until he saw the worn face of the pedestrian. Behind Norman Royce rode a girl, her pale face shaded by a large felt hat.

"Ah, the Senor Ives!" ejaculated Felipe, and he fell back to permit Norman and his daughter to see the young prospector.

"Good heavens, boy, you are safe! I'm thankful to see you alive!" burst forth Norman as he dismounted and grasped the hand of the amazed prospector. "We read about the earthquake and that it was reported a great many miners had been entombed. Well, of course we didn't know where you were then, you were so secretive, but Felipe here came to me and told me of your search after his grandfather's gold mine, and Cora gave me no peace until I consented to come down here to Lower California and dig you out." He laughed with tears in his eyes.

"Father," cried Cora, who was holding the other hand of her lover, "it was your own suggestion. You blamed yourself for driving Clarence away on a wild goose chase for a fortune when you wanted him to stay right there."

"Well," admitted the older man, "we've got him. Now, Clarence, you come back to the ranch and take hold with me. I'll get that carload of orange blossoms, and Cora seems willing to take a chance on your future success."

Clarence thrust one hand deep in his treasure bag and tossed a golden nugget into Felipe's astonished hands. Then he handed the bag to his future father-in-law.

"I went on a wild goose chase, all right," he grinned, "and I found the wild goose and the nest where she had laid the golden eggs."

Honesty is the best of policy.

Painting Watch Hands.

Near the jeweler's front window sat a young woman painting with an exceedingly delicate brush.

"She is painting the hands on the black open-faced watches," the jeweler said. "A lot of people who buy black watches complain that they cannot see the gold hands against the black background. It has never occurred to the managers to make the watches in the first place with white hands, so when the customer's requests it the young woman paints the hands white."

No More Pudding.

Margaret, a little girl of four, was visiting her grandparents. There were a number of aunts who were somewhat careful of her looks as well as morals. When ready to go home Margaret said: "When I get home I'm not going to wash my feet, I'm not going to say my prayers, and I am not going to put pudding on my face."

COMMISSIONER'S SALE OF REAL ESTATE.

Pursuant to and by virtue of a warrant issued by the Probate Court for the County of Hampden, dated the first day of November, A. D. 1911, ordering the undersigned commissioner to make sale and conveyance of the Real Estate formerly of Caroline A. Kurtz, late of Palmer, in said County of Hampden, deceased, intestate, for the purpose of distribution among tenants in common, as in said warrant set forth, will be sold at public auction on the premises, on Saturday, the ninth day of December, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, the real estate hereinafter described:

A certain parcel of land, with the buildings thereon, situate in the Depot Village of Palmer, in said County, and bounded as follows to wit: — Beginning at a point in the westerly line of South Main street at the southeasterly corner of land formerly of Enos Calkins and running thence southeasterly on said street about 80 feet to Vaill street; thence southwesterly on said Vaill street about 140 feet to land of Michael Barrett; thence northwesterly along land of said Barrett about 80 feet to land formerly of said Calkins; thence northeasterly along land formerly of said Calkins to the place of beginning. Being the same premises conveyed to Caroline A. Kurtz by Mary F. Clark by deed dated December 20, 1881, and recorded with Hampden County Registry of Deeds, book 374, page 467.

Two hundred dollars must be paid in cash by purchaser at the time and place of sale as earnest money. Other terms will be made known at the time of sale. 34-3

ROY E. CUMMINGS, Commissioner.

Mrs. Rose

Late of New York City.

Hair Goods Made to Order and Remodeled.
Complexion and Scalp Treatment—Facials, Shampooing and Manicuring.

Hours: 9 to 5. Appointments made.

Telephone 49-11.

17 Thorndike Street, Palmer, Mass.

Dining Room Specials

EXTREME PRICE CONCESSIONS ON GOOD GRADE PIECES JUST TO STIMULATE BUSINESS FOR THE WEEK ONLY

Buffets
Of golden oak or early English, 44 x 20 top, full width closet and linen drawer, back has French plate mirror. $18.00 value $15.30

Ex. Tables
Of solid oak, golden or early English finish, 44-inch round top, opens to 6 feet, sets on a square or claw feet pedestal. Regularly $22. Now $18.70

China Closets
Of golden quartered oak, oval ends and door, three adjustable shelves and one mirror in back. Regularly $24.00 — This week price $20.40

Dining Chairs
Of quartered oak, panel back and French legs, full box frame with slip seat, in genuine leather Regularly $3.25 at $2.85

FLINT & BRICKETT

Opp. Court Sq. 439 Main St., Springfield.

Complete House Furnishers.

W. D. Kinsman Co.,

SPRINGFIELD.

Shop Early

Do Your Gift Buying Now

We are now ready for Christmas gift seekers with our store brim full of the choicest and best of all holiday merchandise.

Merry Price News for Saturday

Remarkable Coat Special

For Saturday Only, $12.98

The smartest season's models, made of the best materials in the most acceptable styles with shawl collar and deep cuffs to match, closing high at the neck. Also the popular polo styles with patch pockets, double-breasted effects and plain tailored models. Colors, blue, black, gray, tan and mixtures.

Saturday Special $12.98

Splendid Serge Dresses, $4.98

Another shipment of these Serge Dresses made of fine quality serge with pointed collar and cuffs in messaline or corduroy in contrasting colors. The skirt has panel back and is tastefully trimmed with buttons.

Saturday Special, $4.98

Splendid Suits Attractively Priced at $16.75

Dressy Suits of refined taste and in mannish type of broadcloth and novelty mixtures and wide wale serges. Coats are plain tailored with Skinner's satin lining to match, and skirts with either loose panel or plain models.

Saturday Special, $16.75

W. D. Kinsman Co., Springfield

Springfield Meekins, Packard & Wheat Massachusetts

We Personally Guarantee the Absolute and Literal Truth of Every Statement Made in This Advertisement.

A. A. PACKARD. W. G. WHEAT.

Shop Early

Buy your Christmas presents EARLY—early in the day, early in the month. That will be the biggest gift of the holidays to the workers behind the counters and on the delivery wagons.

Our Christmas Storeroom

For the convenience of our patrons who appreciate the wisdom of early shopping we have fitted up a special Christmas storeroom where Holiday purchases will be stored at our risk until wanted.

Three Weeks to Christmas

Just three short weeks to Christmas. The time between Thanksgiving and Christmas is shorter than ever this year and it behooves you now to begin your Christmas shopping. We have done our part by gathering together earlier than ever before the largest and most interesting exposition of beautiful Christmas merchandise we have ever displayed. This great Holiday stock represents the very choicest productions of the world's leading manufacturers—beautiful practical gifts brought out expressly for the Holiday trade. In all departments of the store you will find these Christmas stocks, all fresh and new and in the most complete assortments of the entire Holiday season.

Hundreds of Different Designs in Chairs Just Made for Christmas

Christmas shoppers are growing more sensible every year and as the desire for practical gifts increases beautiful furniture for the home comes up in greater demand each year. In our departments of chairs and rockers we always make special preparation for Christmas and this year we show an almost endless variety of chairs appropriate for gift making in the widest range of prices, from the most inexpensive rocker to the most sumptuous pieces in solid mahogany and finest morocco leather.

Wood Seat Rockers
Attractive new designs in arm rockers, in quartered oak and mahogany finish, made with saddle seat in a big variety of new patterns. Special values at — $3.25, 4.50 and 5.00

Inlaid Rockers
Beautiful parlor chairs and rockers with mahogany panel back, richly inlaid with fancy woods. Special values at — $5.25, 6.00, 7.75 and 9.25

Roman Chairs
Stately Roman chairs and rockers for the parlor or reception room in beautiful design, richly carved, in mahogany finish and solid mahogany. Special values at $13, 15.00, 19.00 and 22.50

Solid Mahogany Chairs
Beautiful Colonial reproductions in the finest of solid mahogany, some plain, others magnificently hand carved. Special values at $11, 12.50, 16.00, 17.00 and up to 40.00

Leather Seat Chairs
Library arm rockers, in mahogany or golden oak with spring seats upholstered in best quality leather. Special values at $7.25, 7.75, 9.00 and 11.00

Upholstered Mahogany Chairs
Beautiful chairs in solid mahogany with seats upholstered in fine haircloth and tapestry — chairs suitable for either library or parlor —at $20, 21.00, 26.00, 29.00, 35.00 and up to 40.00

English Wing Chairs
Reproductions of the artistic English wing chairs and rockers in solid mahogany with seat and back in finest quality of cane—at $20, 26.50, 32.00 and 35.50

Rush Bottom Chairs
Colonial reproductions in finest of solid mahogany with rush bottom seats in a variety of choice patterns, in both chairs and rockers—at $12, 13.00, 14.50, 16.00, and up to $33.

Overstuffed Chairs
Turkish overstuffed easy chairs, allover upholstered in fine figured tapestry, with big broad arms and spring seat. Special values at $30 and $40

Willow Furniture
The genuine German willow furniture, upholstered in cretonne in a variety of artistic new shapes and patterns in the natural and stained finish at $5, 6.50, 10.50, 13.50, 14.50 and up.

Reedcraft Furniture
The popular Reedcraft furniture, in the new baronial brown, upholstered in fine cretonnes in harmonizing colors. Chairs and rockers at $8.75, 12.00, 14.75, 18.00 and up

Crex Furniture
The handsome durable Crex furniture, made of the American prairie grass, in the new baronial finish, in a great variety of attractive patterns, unlike any other urniture — at $4.25, 4.75, 7.00, 9.00 and up to $23.

Rattan Rockers
Chairs and rockers in the popular Reed and Rattan, in new and graceful shapes. Special values at $3, $4.50, $5, $6 and up to $10

Turkish Leather Chairs
Turkish overstuffed arm chairs and rockers, fully upholstered in best quality leather, with double platform springs — the acme of luxury for the library — at $38, $42, $44 and $48

Leather Easy Chairs
Comfortable easy chairs for the library, with mahogany or golden oak frames, upholstered in good quality leather. At $23, $26, $32 and $38

English Club Chairs
English Club chairs and rockers, upholstered in genuine Morocco leather, with down filled loose cushion seats — the very finest chairs made in the world—at $80, $120, $127 and $132

Mission Rockers
Mission rockers in fumed quartered oak, with cushion seats, upholstered in best quality Spanish leather. Special values at $6, $8, $11, $13 and $15

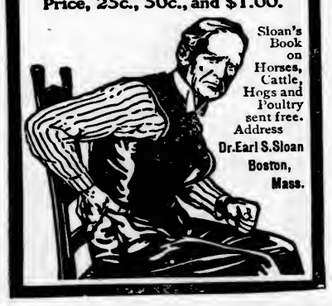
Meekins, Packard & Wheat

Springfield, Massachusetts

Relieves Backache Instantly

Sloan's Liniment is a great remedy for backache. It penetrates and relieves the pain instantly—no rubbing necessary—just lay it on lightly.

Here's Proof.



"I had my back hurt in the Boer War and in San Francisco two years ago I was hit by a street car in the same place. I tried all kinds of dope without success. Two weeks ago I saw your liniment in a drug store and got a bottle to try. The first application caused instant relief, and now except for a little stiffness, I am almost well."
FLETCHER NORMAN.
Whittier, Calif.

SLOAN'S LINIMENT

is the best remedy for rheumatism, neuralgia, sore throat and sprains.

Miss E. Rim of Brooklyn, N.Y., writes: "Sloan's Liniment is the best for rheumatism. I have used six bottles of it and it is grand."

Sold by all Dealers.
Price, 25c., 50c., and $1.00.

Sloan's Book on Horses, Cattle, Hogs and Poultry sent free. Address
Dr. Earl S. Sloan
Boston, Mass.

O'Connor's Barber Shop

PALMER, MASS.

Just across the street from the Waiting Room.
(On Corner going to Depot.)

4 Chairs, No Long Waits

Everything absolutely clean.

Shavers' Supplies For Sale

Razors Honed and Handles Put On. Why pay more? We warrant our Razors at $1.50. Each one is tried, so we know what we sell you.

Central Vermont Railway Co.

SOUTHERN DIVISION.

CORRECTED TO OCTOBER 1, 1911.

Trains Leave Palmer Going South:

7.25 a. m. Passenger for New London. Due Stafford 7.58 a. m., Willimantic 8.50 a. m., Norwich 9.27 a. m., New London 10.00 a. m.

9.55 a. m. Mail for New London. Due Stafford 10.31 a. m., Willimantic 11.17 a. m., Norwich 11.52 a. m., New London 12.20 p. m.

1.25 p. m. Passenger for New London. Due Stafford 2.03 p. m., Willimantic 3.08 p. m., Norwich 3.43 p. m., New London 4.10 p. m.

6.30 p. m. Steamboat train for New London and New York. Due Stafford 7.10 p. m., Willimantic 7.55 p. m., Norwich 8.30 p. m., New London 9.00 p. m., New York City via Norwich Line, Pier 70, East River, 5.45 a. m., Pier 40, North River 7.00 a. m., following morning.

Above trains connect at Willimantic and New London east and west for points on the N. Y. N. H. & H. R.R.

Trains Leave Palmer Going North.

7.30 a. m. Mail. Due Amherst 8.15 a. m., Millers Falls 9.00 a. m., Brattleboro 10.00 a. m.

12.10 p. m. Express. Due Amherst 12.55 p. m., Millers Falls 1.20 p. m., Brattleboro 2.07 p. m.

5.30 p. m. Due Amherst 6.16 p. m., Millers Falls 6.50 p. m., Brattleboro 8.00 p. m.

These trains cannot connect at Millers Falls with trains east and west on the B. & M., and at Brattleboro with express trains for White River Junction and Montreal and points west thereof.

These trains run week days only.

SUBJECT TO CHANGE WITHOUT NOTICE.

J. W. HANLEY, General Passenger Agent.

McCall's Magazine and McCall Patterns

For Women

Have More Friends than any other magazine or patterns. McCall's is the reliable Fashion Guide monthly in one million one hundred thousand homes. Besides showing all the latest designs of McCall Patterns, each issue is brimful of sparkling short stories and helpful information for women.

Save Money and Keep in Style by subscribing for McCall's Magazine at once. Costs only 50 cents a year, including any one of the celebrated McCall Patterns free.

McCall Patterns Lead all others in style, fit, simplicity, economy and number sold. More dealers sell McCall Patterns than any other two makes combined. None higher than 15 cents. Buy from your dealer, or by mail from

McCALL'S MAGAZINE
236-246 W. 37th St., New York City

NOTE—Sample Copy, Premium Catalogue and Pattern Catalogue free, on request.

OVER 65 YEARS' EXPERIENCE

PATENTS

TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &C.

Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. HANDBOOK on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents.

Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the Scientific American.

A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.

MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

A Compromise

By ELMER WENTWORTH

Copyright by American Press Association, 1911.

Bob Brackett, a lone bachelor, needed some articles with which to decorate his room. He inquired of a lady friend where such things were to be had, and she recommended the Woman's Exchange. Bob went there and made his purchases.

The same evening on returning from business he found them all in his room. Opening the package, he put a bureau scarf in its place, a centerpiece on his table under his reading lamp and a scented mouchoir case on his dresser. Then he sat down in his easy chair and surveyed the scene.

"By Jove," he exclaimed, "one would think a woman had done it all! What a feminine appearance the room has! There's everything a woman would provide—that is, everything except pillowshams. Pillowshams I'll never have. They're well named. They're a sham indeed—put on in the morning to look pretty, taken off at night, folded up and laid where they won't be stepped on. Of all the confounded feminine nonsense I ever heard of pillowshams are the worst. If ever I'm married there's one thing my wife shall never indulge in or force me to indulge in—pillowshams. Confound them!

Bob went to bed leaving a fire burning in the grate that illuminated his room and lay awake enjoying his newly acquired decorations.

"I can almost fancy myself married," he said. "and a nice little girl keeping house in this very room with me. It's one of a suit, and I could have the whole. Just think of coming home for dinner instead of stopping at a cheap restaurant, finding wifey at the door ready to throw her arms around my neck; dinner ready; with my arm around her waist we go into the dining room and while we eat talk over what has passed during the day.

"Dinner finished, we go into the living room. I light a cigar, we read and chat, and so spend the evening.

"Good gracious!" he exclaimed. "I've forgotten to put a handkerchief in my nightshirt pocket."

He got out of bed and went to the bureau where he had left his mouchoir case and felt for a handkerchief. The size he used at night was on the bottom of the pile, and with it he pulled out a slip of paper, which floated to the floor. Picking it up, he took it to the fireplace and saw by the light something written on it in a feminine hand. It read:

If my work falls into the hands of a bachelor this is to inform him that single blessedness and making my living at such work as this don't suit me. Marriage is the natural lot of both sexes, and I don't see why a woman shouldn't seek a husband as well as a man seek a wife. I am twenty years old, have a pliable disposition and believe that the husband should lead, having his own way in everything. Miss Williamson of the Woman's Exchange has my address. I have authorized her to give it to any gentlemanlike young man who calls for it.

"Well, now, I like that!" exclaimed Bob. "What a lot of practical sense in it! And she'll let her husband have his own way about everything! Splendid! If fate throws us together there's one thing there'll be no trouble about—the pillowshams. She can have her own way about everything else."

Bob went to sleep dreaming of how the place would look if something came of this slip of paper and the very next day went again to the Woman's Exchange for a feminine article with a soul, a body, and a living body at that.

Three months from that date Bob Brackett and Louise Harwood, a very lovely girl—at least Bob thought she was—were married and went to live in his room till the other rooms in the suit became vacant and they could rent the whole. After a short wedding trip they returned to the apartment, and the bride began to survey it with a critical eye.

"Wouldn't you think," asked Bob, "that a woman had fixed it up?"

"Well, yes, so far as it goes."

"What's wanting?"

"Well, some curtains to the windows for one thing."

"That's so. I never thought of them. What else?"

"Those pillows should be covered."

"With what?"

"Shams."

"Louise," said the husband, squaring himself, "if there's any one thing I always detested it's pollowshams. No pillowshams for me, thank you."

"But you wouldn't have the pillows perfectly bare, would you?"

"Put on cases of the finest brussels lace if you like, but when you get 'em on keep 'em on. I don't propose to take a sham off my pillow every night, fold it up and put it somewhere."

"I'll do all that."

"Nobody'll do it. I've sworn no shams shall be on my bed."

After six months' squabbling over the pillowshams and a frequent reminder to the wife that he should have his own way in everything he proposed a compromise. He was proceeding to propose some kind of a pillowcase that would look well, but would not be injured by being used to lay one's head on. But before he could do so his wife interrupted him, saying:

"All right. We'll compromise."

"Well?" said the husband inquiringly.

"We'll compromise on pillowshams."

There was a pause, after which the husband remarked, "I give it up."

Friendship is love without his wings.

HOLLAND.

Rev. Mr. Lovering is spending two weeks' vacation in Carlisle.

James Roberts died Sunday morning after an illness of pneumonia.

The schools closed last Friday for a week's vacation. Miss Fuller went to her home in Monson.

NORTH WILBRAHAM.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Fuller and daughter Dorothy of Hopkinton spent Thanksgiving with Mrs. Anne Fuller.

Mr. and Mrs. David Griswold entertained at their home Friday evening a few friends from Chicopee Falls and North Wilbraham, in honor of their guest, H. W. Osborn of Rutland, Vt.

BRIMFIELD.

The Academy orchestra has organized for the year and is holding weekly rehearsals under the direction of Principal Kenney. It is composed as follows: LeRoy Jarrett, Earl Doyle, first violins; William Mellahy, James Kerby, second violins; Maude Locke of the class of 1911, Bernard Maloney, cornets; Principal George F. Kenney, 'cello; Mrs. Kenney, zylophone; Earle Jarrett, piano.

BELCHERTOWN.

Lewis Dodge has been appointed janitor of the Center school.

The district schools closed Friday for the Thanksgiving recess. The Center schools closed Wednesday.

Miss Alice Ransom has resigned her position in Northampton and returned to her home in Belchertown.

Clifton Witt has been appointed teacher in the district school, to take the place of Roland Shaw, recently resigned.

News was received in town Sunday of the death of Mrs. Serwin, mother of Mrs. S. W. Perry, at the family home in Warwick, N. Y. Mrs. Serwin has been seriously ill for several months, Mrs. Perry caring for her.

HAMPDEN.

Albert F. Ballard has moved into his new house.

Miss Elizabeth Sessions has gone to Columbus, O.

The following committees have been appointed to arrange for the annual chicken pie supper to be served by the women of the Congregational church next Friday evening: Soliciting, Mrs. M. H. Warren, Miss Esther Burleigh, Mrs. Lucius Burleigh; kitchen, Mrs. John and Mrs. Ralph Isham; ice-cream, Mrs. Lucius and Miss Inez Burleigh; coffee, Mrs. Albert Ballard; serving, Miss Grace Pease, Mrs. C. I. Burleigh, Mrs. W. J. Sessions; table, Mrs. Ernest Howlett, Mrs. F. J. Kenworthy, Miss Seraph Bliss; reception, Mrs. M. H. Warren, Mrs. Seraph Bliss, Mrs. Olive Thresher, Miss Phebe Beebe.

WALES.

Death of Mrs. Sarah Thompson.

Mrs. Sarah Thompson, 85, who fell from a piazza and was seriously hurt a few days ago, died at her home Monday evening at 8. She was the widow of Charles M. Thompson, who died several years ago. Mrs. Thompson was born in Wales, being the daughter of James Dimmick. She was married to Mr. Thompson over 50 years ago and always made her home in Wales. She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. E. A. Clark of Palmer and Mrs. Hattie Parker of Springfield, and two sons, William J. Thompson of Springfield and Charles G. Thompson of Wales. She also leaves four brothers, Ezekiel Dimmick of Rockville, Ct., George W. Dimmick of Wales, and Monroe and Willard Dimmick of Stafford, Ct.

WARE.

Eli Foisy, 23, son of Hormisdas Foisy of High street, and Miss Cerenie Couture, 17, daughter of Thomas Couture of Vernon street, left town together Friday night. Mr. Couture made a complaint to Officer Dennis when he missed his daughter, and asked that she be apprehended. She returned Saturday, however, stating that she and Foisy had gone to Pawtucket, R. I., where they had attempted to have the marriage ceremony performed, but were unsuccessful. Foisy returned later and was arrested Sunday on a charge for abduction on complaint of the girl's father. He appeared in the district court Monday morning, was found guilty and sentenced to three months in the county jail. Sentence was suspended however after the girl's parents relented and allowed the couple to get married, the ceremony taking place Tuesday morning. Foisy was placed on probation for a year.

The trouble with the harem skirt, it will bag at the knees.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

F. J. CHENEY, & CO., Toledo, Ohio.

Sold by Druggists, 75c.
Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

Forbes & Wallace | Forbes & Wallace | Forbes & Wallace

MAIL ORDERS Promptly and Carefully Filled.

The

Forbes & Wallace Store

Will This Year More Positively Than Ever Before Stand Out As

Pre-Eminently the Favorite Christmas Trading Center for All Western New England.

More than 50,000 square feet of the new space provided by the rebuilding will be available for the Christmas displays. Work on the building has been stopped until after Christmas and we shall bend all our energies to making the holiday trading at this store easy, pleasant and satisfactory.

As a result of the increased space we are able to show finer displays than ever before. The stocks have been arranged more conveniently for easy and comfortable selection. And we have still further perfected our service in many ways.

The Christmas stocks are ready NOW and Now is the best time to make selections, for many of the most desirable things are of the choice one-of-a-kind sort which are picked up by the early buyers and cannot be duplicated.

Forbes & Wallace

Springfield, - - - - - - - - - - Mass.

GIBRALTAR NEVER IS ASLEEP

Guns of the Great Fortress Are Kept Trained Constantly on the Surrounding Waters.

While it has always been known that Gibraltar, which belongs to Great Britain, is one of the world's strongest forts for both defense and offense, it seems incredible that an immense fleet could be sent to the bottom before getting within five miles of Gibraltar. Not even a torpedo boat could succeed in entering the bay unobserved on the blackest night. The most eminent naval experts are of the opinion that this world's greatest fortress is almost impregnable.

Gibraltar never sleeps. By day and night two perfectly equipped signal stations, proudly flaunting Britain's flag of ownership, sweep the seas around to a distance of 15 miles on a clear day, instantly reporting the coming and going of each vessel.

Modern "needle" guns, the finest in Europe, are installed on all the most prominent points. They are unreachable from the sea, even as they are indiscernible, owing to the skill with which they are planted and draped to match the surrounding vegetation, while huge screens drop automatically before them as each shell is fired. They have a range of 15 miles and could drop shells on Ceuta, in Africa, opposite, quite comfortably.

One gun weighs 110 tons and is capable of throwing a shell weighing three-quarters of a ton. In that marvel of engineering under great difficulties, the galleries, are concealed guns for every day in the year.

These galleries are divided into three sections, entry to which is guarded, while one is closed even to high officers, containing preserved stores, munitions of war, rain water (for Gibraltar has no springs) and a complete condensing plant—all calculated to outlast a siege of seven years.

The firing is the most mathematically perfect imaginable. The surrounding waters are mapped out into squares, upon which certain guns are kept ready trained, so that it is almost impossible to miss.

She Knew What to Do.

A North side matron, directing an electric coupe for the first time, ventured far out on the South side and punctured a tire. She drove home on the rim and came in for a scientific treatise on tires from her husband.

"Never drive the electric with a busted tire," said he. "It will ruin the tire, and tires cost money."

Another puncture followed a few days later, but this time she was not far from home.

Also this time she did not drive the rest of the way.

She sat in her chariot and six boys pushed her home.—Chicago Post.

Cannel Coal for Open Grates.

English quality Bostonia cannel coal, especially adapted for open grates and quick fires, of unusually good quality. Try it.

Juanita Forge Coal.

Guaranteed to be the best forge coal mined. Blacksmiths are requested to give it a trial.

Feiner Charcoal.

I have the wholesale agency for Palmer, Monson, Ware and Wilbraham.

W. F. Fillmore, Palmer

A Warm Bathroom

PERFECTION SMOKELESS OIL HEATER

Every mother should be careful that the children take their baths in a warm room. The chill of a cold room is dangerous after coming out of the hot water.

A Perfection Smokeless Oil Heater brings bathroom or bedroom to just the degree of warmth you want in five or ten minutes. All you have to do is to touch a match.

The Perfection Heater burns nine hours on one filling and is always ready for use. You can move it anywhere it is needed. There is no waste of fuel and heat warming unoccupied rooms. Just the heat you want, when and where you want it.

The Perfection is fitted with an automatic-locking flame spreader that prevents the wick being turned high enough to smoke and is easy to remove and drop back when cleaning.

Drums finished either in turquoise-blue enamel or plain steel; light and ornamental, yet strong and durable—suitable for any room in any house.

Dealers everywhere; or write to any agency of the

Standard Oil Company
(Incorporated)

THE PALMER JOURNAL

Published

EVERY FRIDAY EVENING

13-15 Central Street, Masonic Block.

PALMER, MASS.

The Palmer Journal Company,

LOUIS E. CHANDLER,

Editor and Manager.

Terms of subscription—Two dollars a year; a discount of 25 cents to those who pay in advance. Six months, $1.00; three months, 50 cents; single copies, 5 cents. Subscriptions continued until notified.

Entered at Post Office as second-class matter.

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 1, 1911.

Do your Christmas shopping early, to help the clerks. Send your Christmas mail packages early — they'll stand a good deal better chance of getting through unerushed and without delay.

With Beattie executed down in Virginia and Spencer convicted in Springfield, Richeson down in Boston might reasonably be expected to have a few gloomy forebodings — provided he is allowed to read the newspapers.

The deer shooting season for 1911 is over, and the pretty animals may now proceed to increase and multiply for the destruction of the fruit grower's tender trees with no fear of harm except from the owner of the trees during meal time.

Governor Foss, like Br'er Rabbit, he lay low and doan' say nuffin, when the matter of a presidential nomination is suggested, but it is quiet likely that he has his ear to the ground and is perfectly willing to be the goat if the demand is made of him.

District Attorney Callahan, in his conduct of the Spencer murder trial in Springfield, fully justified the faith which placed him in his official position. He proved a careful, painstaking, capable, calm servant of the public, and further strengthened his already firm position with the Eastern Hampden citizens.

The postal authorities, after changing minds several times, have at last ruled that letters addressed to Santa Claus may be delivered to responsible charities or persons. In this way the faith of many a youngster in this time-honored saint will remain unshaken for a while longer, at least, and make their lives brighter for a time, for the letters so delivered will have their requests granted as far as possible.

The verdict in the Spencer murder trial in Springfield eased a tension which had grown more and more strained as the trial proceeded. Especially in the homes of Springfield was a large measure of relief felt. There has been much of invection against this man and he deserved it all, but it must be remembered that he was not on trial for his other crimes, only for the killing of Miss Blackstone: that was admitted, the only question being whether he was or was not sane at the time—that is, whether he understood between right and wrong. That has been decided after a trial than which nothing could be more impartial, and the verdict is likely to stand.

There has been much talk since election that if this or that man had been the candidate instead of Frothingham the Republicans would have elected the head of the ticket, and the claim was made to the Journal this week that had the influence of the 1200 ministers who signed the White letter been given to him as a candidate he would have been elected. That is possibly true, provided that all other conditions and influences remained exactly as they were. But with every change on the political chessboard comes new combinations and shifts of votes, and no living man can tell which side will be the gainer. It's a good deal like the arithmetic problems of years ago, "Did he win or lose, and how much?"

Robbed of His Deer.

Hard Luck of Palmer Hunter on Last Day of Open Season.

Eugene Chaudonette, living in the Forest Lake district, was unfortunate enough to have a deer taken away from him by force after he had shot it last week, He hunted in the section about Forest Lake last Saturday, and in the afternoon shot a doe. It was after dark before he got home, and as he was proceeding with the animal on his shoulders he was met by two men, neither of whom he knew. Both had guns in their hands; as they came close to him they pointed their guns in his direction and told him to drop the deer and get out of that section as fast as he could. As a pair of guns seemed a good argument he accepted their advice and left them the animal he had secured.

The stock of the George L. Emmons Co. was sold at auction at noon to-day to H. L. Jones of Huntington, who intends to continue the business.

LOCAL NOTICES.

Electric wiring, etc. 'Phone Moulton, 122-21 Monson.

For all coughs use our Mentholated Pine Expectorant, 25c at Kinsley's Pharmacy, 357 Main St., Cor. Central. The Old Corner Drug Store.

PALMER NEWS.

Burglars Were Hungry.

Helped Themselves to Food, But Didn't Go Into House.

When the family of J. H. Shaw of Chestnut street arose this morning it was found that the supplies left in the pantry last night had disappeared in a mysterious manner. The pantry window was open, propped up with a stick, and pies, cake, and various other eatables which had been left within reach of the window the night before, gone. A little search disclosed the empty dishes in a wagon near by. Under the window were numerous burned matches, but no clew to the self-invited boarders. Evidently they did not enter the room, as a turkey and other good things at the farther end of the room were unmolested.

Small Fire This Afternoon.

The firemen were called out about 2.30 this afternoon for a blaze in the third floor of the Barton house on South Main street. There was not very much fire however, and a stream from the chemical tank on the auto truck soon had it out.

D. E. Dunn has moved from Pine street to Park street, near Pearl.

Henry Greenwood has moved his family from Park street to South Main street.

Ivan Brouillette has moved his family into his new house, which he recently built, on South Main street.

Because of the lack of a quorum, the meeting of the school committee Tuesday evening was postponed until a later date.

A quarterly meeting of the Young Men's Library Association will be held in the reference room of the library next Monday evening at 7.30.

The deciding game in the pool tournament of the Palmer Business and Social Club, scheduled for Tuesday evening, was postponed for two weeks until the annual meeting of the club.

In the district court this morning William Harvey, an old sailor, pleaded guilty to vagrancy, but on his plea for leniency and a promise to go to his sister in Rhode Island, he was allowed to depart.

A union Thanksgiving service was held in the Universalist church yesterday morning. Rev. C. W. Williams, pastor of the Baptist church, preached the sermon. There was a good attendance.

Dr. H. C. Cheney, J. F. Foley, H. W. Holbrook, Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Brainerd, Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Flynt and Mr. and Mrs. B. E. Loring attended the Harvard-Yale football game at Cambridge last Saturday.

The social evening of the Palmer Woman's Club, which was to have been held this evening at the home of Mrs. George Holden on Central street, has been postponed until Wednesday, December 6, on account of the holiday.

Among the Churches.

Rev. Otto S. Raspe, pastor of St. Paul's church, will take for his subject next Sunday, "The World for Christmas."

The pulpit of the Advent chapel will be supplied Sunday by Rev. A. C. Johnson of Westfield, who will preach at 3 in the afternoon, following Sunday school at 2 o'clock.

"The prayer of Habakkuk" will be the subject of the sermon at the Baptist church next Sunday morning. Bible school at 12, Y. P. S. C. E. at 6.15. Evening worship at 7, the last sermon in the series on Elijah is "Elijah's last great journey:" All are invited; good music; come early.

Services as usual in the Congregational church Sunday. Morning worship at 10.45, with sermon by the pastor. Sunday school at 12, Christian Endeavor at 6; subject, "Lessons from the life of Paul." Evening worship at 7, with sermon on "The Second Isaiah." Special music, consisting of a cornet solo.

Power of Human Nature.

After all, whatever is an element of power, if it is properly extracted and applied, is at his command, without question, who can successfully use it But in trying to influence people, put human nature under what you do. Remembering what we, ourselves, like and want is to foresee fairly well what the great public will respond to. And there can be little guesswork in getting at this.

Banish Fear by Trust.

Fear not, but trust in Providence wherever thou mayst be.—Thomas Haynes Bayly.

When your feet are wet and cold, and your body chilled through from exposure, take a big dose of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, bathe your feet in hot water before going to bed, and you are almost certain to ward off a severe cold. For sale by all dealers.

Personal Mention.

R. W. Clement is spending a few days at his home in Derry, N. H.

Mrs. Nye of Cataumet is visiting her daughter, Mrs. H. C. Cheney of Main street.

Thomas Blanchard has returned from Hot Springs, much improved in health.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Breckenridge and son of New York are guests of friends in town.

Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Waite of Squier street spent Thanksgiving with friends in Springfield.

Louis Green of South Main street has returned from a business trip of two weeks in Maine.

Otto Butts of Concord, N. H., spent Thanksgiving with his brother, John Butts, of Park street.

Miss Katharine Riley of Stafford spent the holiday with Mrs. Horace Todd on South Main street.

Mrs. H. W. Taylor of Worcester is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Thompson of Central street.

Miss Alta Burgess of the wire mill district is visiting friends in New York and New Jersey for a few weeks.

N. W. Chandler of New York was a guest yesterday of his brother, L. E. Chandler of North Main street.

Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Reed of Warren were entertained yesterday by Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Keith of Park street.

Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Northrop of Central street are visiting friends in Brookline, Mass., and Milford, N. H.

Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Quimby spent the holiday with her mother, Mrs. E. G. Hastings on North Main street.

Misses Hazel and Beatrice Dillon of Central street are guests of their sister, Mrs. John Gibbons in Hackensack, N. J.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Brooks and daughter Doris of Spring street spent Thanksgiving with relatives in Pittsfield.

Mrs. Elizabeth Heery and Edward Heery of Boston are guests of Miss Katherine Feeney on South Main street.

Rev. Otto S. Raspe was called to Morrisville, Vt., the first of the week to attend the funeral of a former parishioner.

Mr. and Mrs. F. I. Brown of South Main street have closed their house and will spend the winter with their daughter in Springfield.

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Call of Springfield spent Thanksgiving with Mrs. Call's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Fitch of Central street.

Miss Maude Fitzgerald, a teacher in the public schools in Keene, N. H., is the guest of her sister, Miss Molly Fitzgerald of Main street.

Mr. and Mrs. Lucius F. Eaton of Stafford Springs, Ct., are guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel J. Ramsden of South Main street.

Prof. George Hamlin, formerly connected with Orono College, Maine, now retired, was a guest yesterday of Louis Green of South Main street.

Mrs. L. A. Hitchcock of Squier street entertained Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Park and Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Griffin and family of Springfield over the holiday.

Miss Margaret Sargent of Worcester and Mrs. C. Coates of Springfield were the guests Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. D. E. O'Connor at the Nassowanno House.

Miss Carrie Fish of Meriden, Ct., and Miss Pearl Fish of Montclair, N. J., are spending a few days with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fish of Walnut street.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Wing of Holyoke, Miss Lillian Miller of Belchertown, Miss Bessie Myers and Newton C. Wing of East Orange, N. J., were guests of Mrs. Abbie J. Wing of Central street Thanksgiving Day.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Shaw of Chestnut street entertained the following guests at their home yesterday: Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Shaw and son Frank of Chicopee, Mrs. Strong and Miss Jennie Blair of Springfield and Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Webster of Thorndike street.

Clayton E. Maxwell of Lawrence spent Thanksgiving with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Maxwell on Maple street; George Briggs of Wilbraham, Mrs. P. E. Powers of Monson and Calvin Moulton of Springfield were also guests at the same place over the holiday.

An Author's Confession.

Although his book had made a hit,
Original in thought and diction,
The man who wrote the ads for it
Composed the more ingenious fiction.

An Infant Cuvier.

Miss Griggs easily induced the wealthy Mrs. May to let her son Freddie join the vacation class in natural history that she was organizing for children.

"I'm sure he'll love it!" said Mrs. May, with surprising enthusiasm. "And you will find that he knows a lot about natural history already."

"Indeed! That is very pleasant," murmured Miss Griggs, vaguely, for she was not prepared for scientific attainments in a spoiled boy of five.

"Yes," said Mrs. May, complacently, "ever since Freddie was a baby the chef has made all his blanc-mange in the shape of rabbits and squirrels, and only lately he has begun to make him marshmallow frogs and chickens and turtles, and Freddie simply worships thm—you can't get him to touch anything in a plain mold!

"I am sure," concluded Mrs. May, "that you will find Freddie very advanced for his age."—Youth's Companion.

When you have a cold get a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It will soon fix you up all right and will ward off any tendency toward pneumonia. This remedy contains no opium or other narcotic and may be given as confidently to a baby as to an adult. Sold by all dealers.

Low Prices for Shoe Repairing

See these prices for machine work:

Men's shoes, half soled and heeled, sewed, $1 00

Men's shoes, full soled and heeled, sewed, 1.50

Ladies' Shoes, soled and heeled, sewed, .85

Better than hand work and much quicker. Satisfaction guaranteed.

H. Platkin,

Bridge St., Palmer.

Palmer Trucking Co.

Successors to S. H. Brown.

Trucking and Jobbing of all kinds.

Piano Moving.

Dealers in Spring Water Ice.

Orders solicited, prompt attention guaranteed.

F. M. Ralton, Manager.

Office, South Main street.

Telephone connection.

See her Smile!

If you Are a man Give your wife or daughter the material for a suit, skirt or waist and see how delighted she will be with the gift and your thoughtfulness.

If you are a wife and mother Get the material and make it up for your daughter.

Ridgewood Cloths For Christmas Gifts

Stylish, high quality woolens and worsteds in a pleasing variety of styles, patterns, weaves and colors, direct from the mills at prices that will allure you. Send for samples and order by mail or visit our factory salesroom.

Ridgewood Mills,

666 Main St., Holyoke, Mass.

Empty Christmas Boxes

A large assortment of sizes and shapes suitable for jewelry, gloves, handkerchiefs, neckties, etc.

Dennison's Goods

and all materials for making of Xmas gifts at home.

Lynde & Gould

Palmer, Mass.

Druggists, Stationers and Newsdealers

We Are Showing

The newest, nobbiest wood-burning stove in the market in our stove department. It is a CRAWFORD elegant nickel finish, and can be used as an open fire place. Has two covers on top on which to do cooking. Has back da nper on pipe and two drafts in front. Must be seen to be appreciated.

Price, $16.50

Blake Steel Traps

In all sizes for trappers.

5A Horse Blankets

For street and stable use. We have them at all prices and qualities and know absolutely that we have the largest stock in this section from which you can make a selection.

Whitcomb & Faulkner,

All Cars Stop in Front of the Door.

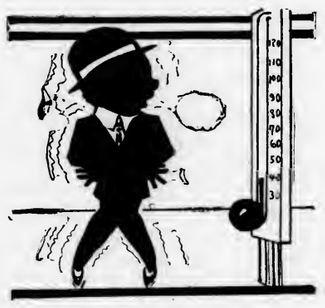
Main Street, Palmer, Mass.

Telephone

I Have an Elegant Line

Of Ladies' Fur, Caracul and Cloth Coats at very popular prices.

My Ladies' Suits are up-to-date and made of the best of fabrics, and the Furs, Skirts, Dress and Shirtwaists, complete a very fine showing of ladies' wearing apparel.



I also have an elegant assortment of Girls' Coats, both in cloth and caracul, which cannot be beat.

My men's and boys' line of Suits and Overcoats cannot be excelled at the price.

A visit to my store will be greatly appreciated.

M. Ecker, Palmer, Mass.

P. O. Block. Up one flight.

Overcoats

Remember the cold blasts of December are on the way. Be true to yourself, get what you pay for. Try one of our Overcoats at $15. Satisfactory in style, fit and wear or your money back. We have a fine line of Grays and Browns with plaid backs, $12 to $18.

C. K. Gamwell,

Clothier and Furnisher,

Palmer, Mass.

Are You Interested in Parlor Stoves?

The GLENWOOD base burner does the best work. The E. Brown Co. handle this line. also carry a full stock of

Modern Hardware at Very Low Prices

E. Brown Co., Agents, Palmer, Mass.

The Palmer Journal.

VOLUME LXII. PALMER, MASS., FRIDAY EVENING, DECEMBER 1, 1911. NUMBER 35.

Burglars Captured At Three Rivers.

Woman's Action Results in Seizure of Two Men In Sam Weiner's Store. Officer Sullivan Takes Them at Muzzle of Revolver.

Prompt and fearless action on the part of Mrs. Clinton Barber of Three Rivers about 1 o'clock this morning resulted in the capture of two burglars in the store of Sam Weiner on Main street in that village. It was their first attempt at helping themselves to the property of other people, and is likely to be the last for some time.

It was only a few minutes before 1 when Mrs. Barber, who lives in the house next to the store, heard a sound of breaking glass in the side window. She spoke to her husband and he got up to investigate. He was just in time to see two men crawl into the window of the store. Quickly getting into his clothes he hunted up Officer Michael Sullivan and told him what he had seen. He in turn secured the assistance of Daniel Dunn and Thomas Pendergast and the quartet returned to the scene of the break. An attempt was made to get Mr. Weiner, who lives in a house just back of his store, and have him to open the door, but he could not be roused. Stationing two men at the front of the store and another at the rear, Officer Sullivan himself waited at the window where the men went in. After a little a head appeared and a man started to come out. A gun was poked into his face, a flashlight turned on him and he was ordered to throw up hands. He failed to do this, but instead dropped back into the store. In order to get out the men had to use a step ladder, and as the second man was close behind the first he was knocked off the ladder back into the store. As they showed no further intention of coming out Officer Sullivan went in after them. An order to throw up their hands, backed by the business end of a good sized revolver pointed directly at them had the desired effect and in a moment he had the nippers on both.

Police Officer Michael Sullivan.

Investigation showed that they had two dress suit cases packed full of goods, including a quantity of jewelry and other small wares. In addition each had on a warm overcoat taken from the stock in the store, and other articles of wearing apparel. The men gave the names of Charlie Georgie and Frank Lavidsky. The former is an Italian about 26 years old, while the latter is a Pole aged about 19; he lived in Three Rivers about four years ago and recognized Officer Sullivan when he got a good look at him. The men said they arrived in Springfield from New York yesterday afternoon; they were without money and were shy on clothing for the winter. It was suggested that they try to help themselves at some place, and Lavidsky led the way to Three Rivers. They rode to Wilbraham on a freight train and hiked it over the hills to Three Rivers, arriving about 12.30.

In the district court this morning both pleaded guilty to a charge of breaking and entering, and were bound over to the grand jury. In the course of his examination Georgie regretted the lack of a revolver, which he would have used on the officer, he said, if he had possessed one.

Death of Mrs. Frances W. Dimock.

Mrs. Frances W. Dimock, 84, died at her home on Park street Sunday afternoon. She was the daughter of Rev. Ambrose and Sarah Day, and was born in Westfield, April 15, 1827, one of a family of 10 children. She married Lyman Dimock of Huntington, who was prominent in public affairs, representing Palmer in the Legislature in 1869, and being a member of the governor's council from the western district. Mr. and Mrs. Dimock came to Palmer in 1863, and Mr. Dimock engaged in the shoe business on Main street. He died in February, 1895. Mrs. Dimock was a member of the Second Baptist church, with which she united soon after coming to town. She was an active worker in the church and Sunday school, and a regular attendant until her last illness. She was deeply interested in the building of the new edifice and a generous contributor. She leaves one sister, Mrs. Helen A. Holt of Somerville, and several nieces and nephews. The funeral was held Wednesday morning in the Baptist church, Rev. C. W. Williams officiating. The body was taken on the noon train to Westfield for burial.

Public Installation.

Thomas Lodge of Masons Entertains Friends Monday Evening.

The officers of Thomas lodge of Masons were publicly installed Monday evening, Clarence A. Brodeur of Westfield, past grand warden of the grand lodge, acting as installing officer, and Byram Woodhead being marshall. The exercises were interspersed with musical selections by C. A. Hanson of Worcester, violinist; Miss Mary E. Dolbear, pianist; J. M. Warner of Northampton, vocalist. At the close of the installation the retiring master, Joseph F. Davis, was presented with a gold past master's jewel. A collation was served. The officers for the ensuing year are: Worshipful master, Charles L. Waid; senior warden, Charles M. Kempton; junior warden, Lee J. Gray; treasurer, Walter L. Shaw; secretary, James T. Campbell; chaplain, David L. Bodfish; marshal, Emerson J. Loy; senior deacon, Harrie M. Howe; junior deacon, Clifton H. Hobson; senior sentinel, Lewis E. Royce; junior sentinel, William J. Gillis; inside sentinel, Freeman A. Smith; organist, Byram Woodhead; tyler, James Knox.

Coffee Party To-night.

The annual coffee party of St. Mary's parish of Thorndike will be held this evening. These occasions have come to be looked forward to by a large number as well worth attending, and the program this evening should attract a sizable audience. There will be two short dramas by women, vocal solos by Miss Mary V. Lyons of Thorndike, Miss Elizabeth Riddle of Three Rivers and Miss Nolan of Holyoke; readings by Miss Marie Dullihan of Thorndike and piano and violin solos by Miss Florence Sampson and Miss Kate Holden of Thorndike.

Men's League Holds Big Brother Night.

The Men's League of the Congregational church held a Big Brother night Monday, inviting all boys over 16 to be present. A large number availed themselves of the privilege, and all seemed to enjoy the program provided for their entertainment. There was singing, story telling by Superintendent of Schools Clifton H. Hobson and Louis E. Chandler, an excellent paper by Dr. H. C. Cheney and an address on "Playing the game" by Prof. Cheney of the Springfield Y. M. C. A. training school, after which lunch was served.

Zindl—Burdick.

William H. Burdick of Palmer and Miss Frances Loretta Zindl of Monson were united in marriage at the home of Mrs. Martha D. Burdick on Central street yesterday afternoon at 4.30. Rev. F. S. Brewer performed the ceremony in the presence of a number of relatives and friends. A dinner was served after the ceremony.

Beginning next Monday morning two cars will be run for the accommodation of the high school pupils, one leaving Bondsville at 7.35 and the other leaving Three Rivers about the same time. Heretofore one car has been carrying the pupils running to Bondsville, thence to Three Rivers, Thorndike, and Palmer. The change will be greatly appreciated.

The Palmer Historical Society will hold its regular meeting next Tuesday evening at 7.30 o'clock in the reference room of the public library. Clifton H. Hobson, superintendent of schools, will give an address on "Some present day school problems." The public is cordially invited.

BOUGHT BOOZE SUNDAY.

Statement Made in District Court Case Monday.

LICENSE COMMISSIONERS NOTIFIED.

Will Hold Meeting This Evening. Much Public Interest in Outcome Of Matter.

Officers Bills, Thomas and Crummins were called to Water street between 11 and 12 Sunday morning to quell a disturbance which had assumed sizable proportions. They arrested Charles Kowalczyk, Steve Kowalczyk and Alexander Lif, and in the district court Monday morning they were charged with disturbing the peace. All pleaded guilty. In the course of the examination of the cases testimony was offered to the effect that the row was the result of too much beer and whisky, which had been purchased that forenoon at the Weeks House. The witness stated that all had "chipped in" the necessary finds, after which he took the money and procured the liquids.

Associate Justice David F. Dillon, who was on the bench in the absence of Judge Kenefick, suggested to Clerk of Courts Fitch that, as none of the license commissioners were in court it might be well to acquaint them with the nature of the testimony given, and this was done, a letter being sent to Chairman Oakes of the license commission.

The two Kowalczyks were each given 30 days in the house of correction, and Lif was fined $15, which he paid.

The license commissioners are to hold a meeting this evening, at which time the matter will be considered. There is much public comment on the situation, and the result of to-night's meeting will be awaited with interest.

Number of Deer Shot.

Is 65 in Hampden County, 187 in State. Palmer's score 17.

The reports for the deer season last week are in, and show that a total of 1201 were killed in the state. Of this number 187 were killed in Hampden county, and 65 of these in the district in charge of Deputy Fish and Game Commissioner John F. Luman of Palmer. The number reported wounded but not killed is 41 for the entire state.

The following were lucky enough to secure deer within a radius of 20 miles of Palmer:

Palmer, 17—William Caldwell, P. A. Forte, J. G. Randlett, Thomas Murphy, Otis Wallace, Fred Mumford, H. W. Matthews, Leo Goodreau, Nelson Freak, Leo Phillips, John Caldwell, George Authier, William Smith, S. Galbraithe, Louis Sird, Lewis Wallace, Mr. Patnode.

Brimfield, 16—Mr. Bowers, Charles Fuller, Mr. Stevens, Mr. Marsh, Mr. Jordan, William Spooner, Homer Booth, Howard Booth, Mr. Wesson, Bert Lawson, Frank Wells, George Lane, Robert Chaffee, George Blashfield, Robert Sherman, W. E. Bedell.

Monson, 7—George M. Morris, James Bowler, Homer Bradway, Patrick Cahill, John McCarthy, Edward Burleigh, Ray Calkins.

Warren, 10—George Normandie, Timothy Lyons, Edward Sullivan, Albert Rice, Otto Reime, Charles Reime, Raymond Moore, Herbert Bagley, Edward Maher, Fred Hubert.

Sturbridge, 4—Frank Julian, Don Simons, Harry Vinton, Wiles Aubbell.

Wales, 3—Henry Maynard, Harry Fenton, Mr. Gale.

West Brookfield, 4—Wallace Tucker, Daniel McRevery, Bugsbee brothers.

Southbridge, 2—George Andrews, Ralph Basnor.

Death of John N. Lacey.

Former Resident Passes Away at Home In Arlington.

John N. Lacey, 75, died on Wednesday evening of last week at his home in Arlington from an attack of heart trouble, from which he had suffered for some time.

Mr. Lacey was born in Springfield, but will be remembered by many as a resident for years of Palmer; he lived on South Main street and occupied a position at the state primary school, a state institution which cared for neglected children, located on the grounds now occupied by the epileptic hospital. He removed some years ago to the eastern part of the state, where for 20 years he held the position of steward at the Danvers Insane Hospital, resigning in July of last year. He is survived by his wife, one daughter and a son, Edward N. Lacey, who is a member of the school committee of Arlington. The funeral was held Saturday in Enfield.

H. A. McFARLAND DEAD.

Long-time Resident of the Town Of Wales.

WELL KNOWN IN EASTERN HAMPDEN.

Associate Justice of District Court. One Of Largest Local Real Estate Owners.

Herbert A. McFarland, associate justice of the District Court of Eastern Hampden at Palmer, and one of the leading citizens of the town of Wales, died at his home Sunday afternoon after an illness of less than a week.

Mr. McFarland was born April 11, 1840, in Sturbridge, the son of Marshall and Lorinda McFarland. His mother died when he was but eight years old, and the next five years of his life were spent in the town of Holland. His education was obtained in the schools of that town and in the Hitchcock Free Academy at Brimfield, and at the age of 18 he began teaching school winters and working summers for his uncle. At the age of 28 he took up his residence in Wales. He was at first bookkeeper and paymaster for Elijah Shaw, who operated six mills, and he held the position for ten years. Farming attracted him then, and he followed this occupation for the remainder of his life. He gradually acquired land in Wales, Brimfield and Holland, becoming one of the largest real estate owners in the eastern part of the county.

In 1885 Mr. McFarland was appointed a justice with authority to issue warrants, and in 1896 was made associate justice of the district court. He was not a member of the bar, but thoroughly acquainted himself with his duties and performed them with rare judgment. He was made secretary of the Wales Savings Bank when it was incorporated in 1870, and in 1880 was made secretary and treasurer, holding the position at the time of his death.

Mr. McFarland held all the positions in the gift of the town, and for 30 years was a member of the school committee. He served in the House branch of the Legislature in 1890 and 1891, and for 40 years was a member of the Republican town committee, acting as chairman the greater part of the time. He became a member of the Congregational church in Holland in early life, but in Wales was an attendant at and active in the work of the Baptist church, serving as superintendent of the Sunday school for twelve years and as a teacher for 45. He leaves a widow and a sister, Mrs. C. S. Whitcomb of Springfield.

The funeral was held Wednesday afternoon from the Baptist church in Wales, preceded by a prayer at the house. The service at the church was conducted by Rev. Charles T. Holt, assisted by Rev. Mr. Lovering, pastor of the Congregational church in Holland. There were vocal selections by Mrs. G. H. Rogers of West Springfield, whose husband was formerly a pastor of the Wales Methodist church. Many were present at the church services from the surrounding towns. There were numerous beautiful floral tributes. Burial was in the Laurel Hill cemetery.

Former Resident Dies In Kansas.

Word has been received of the death November 12 of Mrs. Abby M. Cundall, widow of the late William S. Cundall, in Blue Rapids, Kansas, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. J. E. Hubbard, at the advanced age of 91 years, five months aad 14 days. Mr. and Mrs. Cundall resided for many years in South Belchertown, and the body was brought back to that place and laid beside those of her husband and children in the family burial lot. Mrs. Cundall leaves besides Mrs. Hubbard, another daughter, Mrs. L. M. Tenney of Marlboro.

Fraternity Notes.

Palmer lodge of Odd Fellows meet next Wednesday evening.

The firemen hold their regular meeting next Monday evening.

Court Palmer, Foresters of America, meet next Tuesday evening.

Division 15, A. O. H., meeting in Thorndike Sunday afternoon.

Palmer aerie of Eagles holds a regular meeting Thursday evening of next week.

Cyrus W. Cross camp, Sons of Veterans, hold a regular meeting next Wednesday evening.

The annual meeting of Quaboag council, Royal Arcanum, will be held next Tuesday evening.

School Attendance Shows Improvement.

Tardiness Eliminated. Children's Diseases Prevent Better Showing. Bondsville School Leads. Three Rivers Room Highest.

The attendance in the public schools for the month which closed on Friday, November 24, is given below. During the month there has been considerable illness, particularly in the lower grades, as a glance at the percentages of attendance in grades I and II in nearly all of the schools in town will indicate. The usual children's diseases have made their appearance. Particular attention is being given to the matter of tardiness, and a slow, but apparently steady improvement is noted. The number of tardy cases in the village schools is being reduced considerably, there being only 27 out of an enrollment of 1189 pupils. The tardy cases in the districts still continue, as the 31 cases charged against them, with an enrollment of only 110, will attest. Time, persistence, and patience will overcome this school evil.

The Bondsville school has the best average of the month, with a per cent of 97.44 and only one tardy case, a remarkably good showing. The room having the best attendance is grades 8 and 9 of Three Rivers, with a per cent of 99.58 and no tardy marks. Grades 6 and 7 and grades 8 and 9 of Bondsville are next; the former has a per cent of 99.11 and no tardy cases, while the latter has a per cent of 99.1 and no tardy cases. The records are unusually good.

	Enrollment	Average Membership	Average Attendance	Per cent	Tardy	Perfect Attendance
High School	146	145.25	142.3	96.59	14	96
PALMER GRAMMAR SCHOOL.
Grade 9	33	33.	32.37	98.1	0	28
8	33	33.	32.07	97.19	0	27
7	35	34.25	33.47	97.72	1	25
6	43	43.	41 10	95.60	0	26
5	52	51.25	49.95	97.46	0	39
4	48	48.	46.2	93.2	1	24
3	48	47.25	43.60	92.27	1	25
2	44	42.35	37.02	87.41	1	15
1 and 2	49	45.	41.	87.	4	9
1	44	40.42	35.37	87.5	1	15
	429	417.52	390.73	93.58	9	233
THORNDIKE GRAMMAR SCHOOL.
Grade 8 and 9	27	27.	26.7	98.89	0	21
6 and 7	34	34.	33.35	98.08	1	25
4 and 5	37	35.65	34 15	95.79	1	24
3 and 4	31	30.7	30.05	97.88	0	23
2	37	35.75	33.32	93.2	3	19
1	46	39.7	34.42	86.71	0	13
	212	202.80	191.99	95.09	5	125
THREE RIVERS GRAMMAR SCHOOL.
Grade 8 and 9	24	24.	23.9	99.58	0	22
6 and 7	46	46.	44.97	97.77	3	31
5	33	33.	32.	96.96	1	24
4	43	43.	42.5	98.8	0	35
3	38	37.95	37.4	98.55	1	31
2	38	37.35	32.62	87.35	1	18
1 and 2	42	42.	40.32	96.01	4	19
1	44	42.85	37.12	86.48	2	21
	308	306.15	290.84	95.19	12	201
BONDSVILLE GRAMMAR SCHOOL.
Grade 8 and 9	20	20.	19.82	99.1	0	15
6 and 7	34	34.	33.7	99.11	0	25
4 and 5	36	36.	35.2	97.77	0	30
3 and 4	47	47.	44.85	95.42	0	25
2	50	49.4	48.15	97.47	0	31
1	53	50.95	47.88	93.97	1	25
	240	237.35	229.6	97.14	1	151
DISTRICTS.
Wire Mill	46	45.2	44.07	97.58	9	29
Palmer Center	27	26.6	26.3	98.8	1	22
Forest Lake	19	19.	13.95	73.42	3	3
Shorley	18	16.	14.	87.5	19	7
	110	106.8	98.32	89.32	32	61

SUMMARY.

	1911	1910	1911	1910	1911	1910	1911	1910	1911	1910	1911	1910
High	146	132	145.25	129.9	140.3	126.8	96.59	97.6	14	25	96	80
Palmer Gram.	429	396	417.52	386.64	390.73	359.21	93.58	94.89	9	12	233	235
Thorn. Gram.	212	202	202.8	198.14	191.99	190.66	95.09	96.18	5	15	125	127
Three R. Gram.	308	306	306.15	299.18	290.84	290.05	95.19	97.13	12	19	201	221
Bond. Gram.	240	222	237.35	218.16	229.6	206.13	97.14	94.94	1	1	151	135
Districts	110	108	106.8	105.48	98.32	100.64	89.32	94.85	32	10	61	51
Total	1445	1366	1415.87	1337.50	1341.78	1273.49	94.48	95.93	73	82	867	849

Streets Must Be Cared For.

Auto Travel Responsible For Bad Conditions. Macadam Suggested.

It is not unlikely that the town will have to confront at the annual meeting next spring the question of what will be done with the streets of the town—particularly in the Depot village—which are used by the autos which pass through in such large numbers. Particularly annoying to autoists is that section of Park street between Thorndike street and the beginning of the state road near the Boston and Albany freight house. In wet weather this is badly cut up by the heavy touring cars, and on drying out the surface is left so uneven that it cannot be negotiated at any greater speed than a mere crawl with safety to the cars. During the summer a large number of cars have taken Central street in getting between Main and Park streets, and the section between Pleasant and Park is in almost as bad a condition as is Park street. South Main is another street which needs something done to it, either in the way of grading so as to carry off the water or both grading and hardening. It is a question whether, in order to keep the streets most used by autos in good condition—especially the streets used by the Boston—New York travel—it will not be necessary to macadamize them. Such streets as are already surfaced in this way seem to be standing the wear well.

No Wounded Deer So Far.

In spite of the numerous hunters who during the open season on deer last week fired at animals and failed to stop them, no wounded deer have been found or heard of, although the deputy fish and game commissioners have been on the search for them all this week. They ask that if any such animals are known the information be forwarded to them at once, so they may put an end to their sufferings. The fact that only shutguns were allowed in hunting is probably the reason for the scarcity of wounded animals.

Original.

The Gossip.

She said she was in a hurry
And she couldn't stay at all;
Then she leaned against the doorway
And she leaned against the wall;
She talked about the weather
And the fashions at the store:
She talked and talked and talked and talked,
And then she talked some more.

But really, she "must be going;"
Oh, no, she couldn't stay!
She held the door wide open,
And still she talked away
About the latest wedding,
And the newest fashion hat,
The scandal down at Jones's;
Oh, she talked of this and that.

Then, "goodbye," she "must be going,"
She would call some other day;
She had a few more calls to make,
But still found things to say
About the newest neighbors
And the dress goods at the store;
She talked and talked and talked and talked
And then she talked some more.

But, really, time was precious
And this her busy day.
Just then she caught her second wind
And still she talked away
About anything and everything,
The high price of coal and rent.
She talked and talked, but thank God, at last
She said, goodbye, and went.

Harry Earle Dixon.

Premiums Being Paid.

Treasurer Cummings has been sending out checks this week for the premiums awarded at the annual fair of the Eastern Hampden Agricultural Society in October. The rain of the last day caused a deficit in the receipts of the society, and it has taken a little time in which to make arrangements for the necessary funds. All bills and premiums have been paid in full.

Red Men Entertained.

The attendants at the meeting of Tockwotton tribe of Red Men Tuesday evening were treated to a musical entertainment prepared by Dr. G. A. Moore. There were solos and duetts by Dr. Moore and E. E. Brooks, with Ralph Entwistle as accompanist, the latter also rendering several pleasing piano solos. A social and smoke-talk followed.

A Turn of the Earth.

A Case of a Modern Miracle.

By JEFFERSON PORT.

Copyright by American Fress Association, 1911.

It was a desolate country which Clarence Ives was traversing with laggard feet. Six weeks before he had started from Ensenada with two pack mules and a prospecting outfit. Now the mules were heaps of bleaching bones among the ragged Lower California hills, and the vultures had sailed away to other banquets. Ives wondered if they would come back to quarrel over his remains before long.

Ahead of him was a Golconda of riches—of course! Had not that half breed Mexican, Felipe Ordero, filled his ears with tales of the gold to be picked up in that canyon down in Lower California? True it was that Felipe had not been to the country beyond Ensenada, but his story sounded reasonable, and he had substantiated his assertions with a rude map of the country which had descended to him from his grandfather, who had been a man of many adventures.

Ives wished success in this adventure. He had been the owner of a prosperous vineyard and had lost his year's crop by a mysterious fire which had swept down and obliterated every vine on his acres. There was a mortgage on his ranch, and it was held by the man whose daughter he wanted to marry.

"If you can pull yourself out of this hole, Clarence," Norman Royce said grimly, "I'll cut a carload of orange blossoms and you can engage the padre. If you can't make good what's the use of your marrying Cora now and entangling her in the meshes of your difficulties—eh?"

Clarence Ives had thrust out his determined chin and informed Papa Royce that one year from that date he would call upon him to deliver Cora into his arms. In the meantime he shut up his ranch house, bade farewell to his pretty, loyal sweetheart and set forth on this expedition into Lower California after gold—a wild adventure into a wild, uninhabited country, undertaken by a man whose greatest assets were youth and courage and the love of a woman.

The mules, one after the other, had each broken a leg among the crevices of the foothills. That was why Clarence was trudging along, weary, spiritless, with now and then a reference to the old map he had received from the half breed.

Near nightfall he came to the entrance of a rocky canyon. Scrubby chestnuts and pecans clothed the rim of the cuplike inclosure. Across one end a small stream of sweet, pure water meandered and was lost among the rocks. Near the stream was a patch of coarse green grass, and here Clarence made his little camp.

After supper he compared his map with the canyon and grew dizzy when he realized that this must indeed be the treasure house of which Felipe had told him. To verify this belief he searched the beetling rock that hung over the source of the spring and was rewarded for his effort by finding rudely carved thereon the image of a serpent placed there a hundred years ago to guard the spring.

"Hooray!" yelled Clarence excitedly, and the echo was borne back and forth across the rocky canyon until it seemed to fall at his feet in a frightened whisper.

When a new day dawned he was refreshed and set about delving among the rocks at the head of the stream where the map indicated that gold nuggets might be found.

Day after day passed in a monotonous succession of disappointments.

At last, after three weeks of delving in the rocky soil, he lifted his pick and threw it far from him with a bitter exclamation. Then, because he recollected that other treasure seekers had found gold many times when on the verge of abandoning their projects, he sought his pick once more and again applied himself to the task, but it was only a dying spurt of ambition, and at sunset he once more tossed the implement aside and flung himself on the ground in bitter despair.

He had staked his future and Cora's on the rare smile of the goddess of fortune, and she had chosen to frown upon him.

"I've paid my tribute to labor," he said grimly after awhile. He surveyed his bruised and blistered hands and the turmoil of rocks and earth he had tossed up in the canyon. He took stock of his scanty store of provisions and packed them together. Then he turned his back on the canyon and rounded the rocky entrance and climbed the heights to the fringe of chestnuts and pecans.

He made his way through the grove of nut trees and was once more on a certain rocky trail when it occurred to him that night was drawing in and he must make camp until morning. So he returned to the nut grove, ate a scanty meal and threw himself on the warm ground and went to sleep, sore at heart and bitter with the whole world.

It was just before dawn that he awoke to a strange rocking motion. Birds were twittering excitedly among the trees; the gray of coming day was in the sky, and something else—something strangely electric—was shaking the earth beneath him until he staggered to his feet sick and dizzy with the sensation.

He heard the crash of rocks in the canyon below; he heard strange rumblings beneath him, and that which he had thought was solid earth suddenly heaved upward and threw him, together with the little nut grove, slipping and tumbling and finally crashing down the sides of the rocky canyon.

The rocks of the canyon had heaved and ground themselves together into new shapes, and when Clarence fell among them his body was cradled among the thick branches of the trees that had fallen with him, and altogether were wedged among a new formation of rocks near the little stream. Consciousness left him at this time.

When he awoke it was high noon and the sun poured fiercely on his unsheltered face. He moved and found that beyond severe bruises he was unharmed. He climbed out of the labyrinth of twisted branches and looked about him at a strangely transformed canyon. The earthquake had riven the earth in a dozen places; had tossed huge rocks aside as if they were the merest pebbles; had diverted the little stream in a new bed.

Clarence Ives stared and stared again at the place where the huge beetling rock had stood guard over the head of the stream. The rock with the serpent carved upon it had tumbled over, disclosing beneath it a deep indentation of the earth. Here something glittered in the rays of the sun, and Clarence scrambled over rocks and trees until he hung breathlessly over this storehouse of golden treasure.

Nuggets of pure gold, rubbed smooth by the grinding process of water and rock, were pocketed here. Nature had opened her storehouse for him after all, and she was a liberal dame when she chose to give bounty. Feverishly he filled one of his empty canvas food sacks with the precious lumps, and when not one remained in the cavity he turned away, satisfied a fortune was his.

There in the canyon, torn and ragged with the effects of the earthquake, the man flung himself upon his knees and gave thanks to the one who had directed the earth to open for him. To Clarence Ives it was a greater miracle than those which he had read about in the Bible.

He was to witness a still greater miracle before he left the canyon. He had secured his bag of precious metal and had searched for and discovered his provisions, which had slipped down the canyon walls with him in the shock of the quake, and he was just leaving the canyon for the second time when once more the earth trembled.

The rocks ground together, the trees shivered, and then, as earlier that day, there was a violent tearing sound, and he saw the earth beneath the recumbent serpent rock burst upward and precipitate the rock back into its former bed from which he had rescued his golden store. After a few faint shiverings the earth ceased turning in her bed and was still.

Awed by what he had seen, Ives struck the backward trail, witnessing many evidences of the disturbance as he made his way toward Ensenada. His progress was slow on account of the weight of gold, and he was wary of wandering prospectors or stray bands of half breeds, but he had little to fear, for the earth shocks had driven them panic stricken into the town.

Then one afternoon as he neared the last few miles before he should reach Ensenada and a semblance of civilization he saw coming toward him a little party mounted on wiry horses. He scanned them closely, wondering at their identity, hoping he might be able to purchase additions to his depleted store of food.

They came within range of recognition. First he recognized Felipe Ordero's sloping shoulders, over which curled a streamer of cigarette smoke; then the large, bulky form of Norman Royce, red complexioned, gray haired, anxious eyed until he saw the worn face of the pedestrian. Behind Norman Royce rode a girl, her pale face shaded by a large felt hat.

"Ah, the Senor Ives!" ejaculated Felipe, and he fell back to permit Norman and his daughter to see the young prospector.

"Good heavens, boy, you are safe! I'm thankful to see you alive!" burst forth Norman as he dismounted and grasped the hand of the amazed prospector. "We read about the earthquake and that it was reported a great many miners had been entombed. Well, of course we didn't know where you were then, you were so secretive, but Felipe here came to me and told me of your search after his grandfather's gold mine, and Cora gave me no peace until I consented to come down here to Lower California and dig you out." He laughed with tears in his eyes.

"Father," cried Cora, who was holding the other hand of her lover, "it was your own suggestion. You blamed yourself for driving Clarence away on a wild goose chase for a fortune when you wanted him to stay right there."

"Well," admitted the older man, "we've got him. Now, Clarence, you come back to the ranch and take hold with me. I'll get that carload of orange blossoms, and Cora seems willing to take a chance on your future success."

Clarence thrust one hand deep in his treasure bag and tossed a golden nugget into Felipe's astonished hands. Then he handed the bag to his future father-in-law.

"I went on a wild goose chase, all right," he grinned, "and I found the wild goose and the nest where she had laid the golden eggs."

Honesty is the best of policy.

Painting Watch Hands.

Near the jeweler's front window sat a young woman painting with an exceedingly delicate brush.

"She is painting the hands on the black open-faced watches," the jeweler said. "A lot of people who buy black watches complain that they cannot see the gold hands against the black background. It has never occurred to the managers to make the watches in the first place with white hands, so when the customer's requests it the young woman paints the hands white."

No More Pudding.

Margaret, a little girl of four, was visiting her grandparents. There were a number of aunts who were somewhat careful of her looks as well as morals. When ready to go home Margaret said: "When I get home I'm not going to wash my feet, I'm not going to say my prayers, and I am not going to put pudding on my face."

COMMISSIONER'S SALE OF REAL ESTATE.

Pursuant to and by virtue of a warrant issued by the Probate Court for the County of Hampden, dated the first day of November, A. D. 1911, ordering the undersigned commissioner to make sale and conveyance of the real estate formerly of Caroline A. Kurtz, late of Palmer, in said County of Hampden, deceased, intestate, for the purpose of distribution among tenants in common, as in said warrant set forth, will be sold at public auction on the premises, on Saturday, the ninth day of December, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, the real estate hereinafter described:

A certain parcel of land, with the buildings thereon, situate in the Depot Village of Palmer, in said County, and bounded as follows to wit:—Beginning at a point in the westerly line of South Main street at the southeasterly corner of land formerly of Enos Calkins and running thence southeasterly on said street about 80 feet to Vaill street; thence southwesterly on said Vaill street about 140 feet to land of Michael Barrett; thence northwesterly along land of said Barrett about 80 feet to land formerly of said Calkins; thence northeasterly along land formerly of said Calkins to the place of beginning. Being the same premises conveyed to Caroline A. Kurtz by Mary F. Clark by deed dated December 20, 1881, and recorded with Hampden County Registry of Deeds, book 374, page 467.

Two hundred dollars must be paid in cash by purchaser at the time and place of sale as earnest money. Other terms will be made known at the time of sale. 34-3

ROY E. CUMMINGS,
Commissioner.

Mrs. Rose

Late of New York City.

Hair Goods Made to Order and Remodeled.
Complexion and Scalp Treatment—Facials, Shampooing and Manicuring.

Hours: 9 to 5. Appointments made.

Telephone 49-11.

17 Thorndike Street, Palmer, Mass.

Dining Room Specials

EXTREME PRICE CONCESSIONS ON GOOD GRADE PIECES JUST TO STIMULATE BUSINESS FOR THE WEEK ONLY

Buffets
Of golden oak or early English, 44 x 20 top, full width closet and linen drawer, back has French plate mirror. $18.00 value $15.30

Ex. Tables
Of solid oak, golden or early English finish, 44-inch round top, opens to 6 feet, sets on a square or claw feet pedestal. Regularly $22. Now $18.70

China Closets
Of golden quartered oak, oval ends and door, three adjustable shelves and one mirror in back. Regularly $24.00—This week price $20.40

Dining Chairs
Of quartered oak, panel back and French legs, full box frame with slip seat, in genuine leather Regularly $3.25 at $2.85

FLINT & BRICKETT

Opp. Court Sq. 439 Main St., Springfield.

Complete House Furnishers.

Springfield Meekins, Packard & Wheat Massachusetts

We Personally Guarantee the Absolute and Literal Truth of Every Statement Made in This Advertisement.

A. A. PACKARD. W. G. WHEAT.

Shop Early

Buy your Christmas presents EARLY—early in the day, early in the month. That will be the biggest gift of the holidays to the workers behind the counters and on the delivery wagons.

Our Christmas Storeroom

For the convenience of our patrons who appreciate the wisdom of early shopping we have fitted up a special Christmas storeroom where Holiday purchases will be stored at our risk until wanted.

Three Weeks to Christmas

Just three short weeks to Christmas. The time between Thanksgiving and Christmas is shorter than ever this year and it behooves you now to begin your Christmas shopping. We have done our part by gathering together earlier than ever before the largest and most interesting exposition of beautiful Christmas merchandise we have ever displayed. This great Holiday stock represents the very choicest productions of the world's leading manufacturers—beautiful practical gifts brought out expressly for the Holiday trade. In all departments of the store you will find these Christmas stocks, all fresh and new and in the most complete assortments of the entire Holiday season.

Hundreds of Different Designs in Chairs Just Made for Christmas

Christmas shoppers are growing more sensible every year and as the desire for practical gifts increases beautiful furniture for the home comes up in greater demand each year. In our departments of chairs and rockers we always make special preparation for Christmas and this year we show an almost endless variety of chairs appropriate for gift making in the widest range of prices, from the most inexpensive rocker to the most sumptuous pieces in solid mahogany and finest morocco leather.

Wood Seat Rockers
Attractive new designs in arm rockers, in quartered oak and mahogany finish, made with saddle seat in a big variety of new patterns. Special values at— $3.25, 4.50 and 5.00

Inlaid Rockers
Beautiful parlor chairs and rockers with mahogany panel back, richly inlaid with fancy woods. Special values at— $5.25, 6.00, 7.75 and 9.25

Roman Chairs
Stately Roman chairs and rockers for the parlor or reception room in beautiful design, richly carved, in mahogany finish and solid mahogany. Special values at $13, 15.00, 19.00 and 22.50

Solid Mahogany Chairs
Beautiful Colonial reproductions in the finest of solid mahogany, some plain, others magnificently hand carved. Special values at $11, 12.50, 16.00, 17.00 and up to 40.00

Leather Seat Chairs
Library arm rockers, in mahogany or golden oak with spring seats upholstered in best quality leather. Special values at $7.25, 7.75, 9.00 and 11.00

Upholstered Mahogany Chairs
Beautiful chairs in solid mahogany with seats upholstered in fine haircloth and tapestry—chairs suitable for either library or parlor—at $20, 21.00, 26.00, 29.00, 35.00 and up to 40.00

English Wing Chairs
Reproductions of the artistic English wing chairs and rockers in solid mahogany with seat and back in finest quality of cane—at $20, 26.50, 32.00 and 35.50

Rush Bottom Chairs
Colonial reproductions in finest of solid mahogany with rush bottom seats in a variety of choice patterns, in both chairs and rockers—at $12, 13.00, 14.50, 16.00, and up to $33.

Overstuffed Chairs
Turkish overstuffed easy chairs, allover upholstered in fine figured tapestry, with big broad arms and spring seat. Special values at $30 and $40

Willow Furniture
The genuine German willow furniture, upholstered in cretonne in a variety of artistic new shapes and patterns in the natural and stained finish at $5, 6.50, 10.50, 13.50, 14.50 and up.

Reedcraft Furniture
The popular Reedcraft furniture, in the new baronial brown, upholstered in fine cretonnes in harmonizing colors. Chairs and rockers at $8.75, 12.00, 14.75, 18.00 and up

Crex Furniture
The handsome durable Crex furniture, made of the American prairie grass, in the new baronial finish, in a great variety of attractive patterns, unlike any other urniture—at $4.25, 4.75, 7.00, 9.00 and up to $23.

Rattan Rockers
Chairs and rockers in the popular Reed and Rattan, in new and graceful shapes. Special values at $3, $4.50, $5, $6 and up to $10

Turkish Leather Chairs
Turkish overstuffed arm chairs and rockers, fully upholstered in best quality leather, with double platform springs—the acme of luxury for the library—at $38, $42, $44 and $48

Leather Easy Chairs
Comfortable easy chairs for the library, with mahogany or golden oak frames, upholstered in good quality leather. At $23, $26, $32 and $38

English Club Chairs
English Club chairs and rockers, upholstered in genuine Morocco leather, with down filled loose cushion seats—the very finest chairs made in the world—at $80, $120, $127 and $132

Mission Rockers
Mission rockers in fumed quartered oak, with cushion seats, upholstered in best quality Spanish leather. Special values at $6, $8, $11, $13 and $15

Meekins, Packard & Wheat
Springfield, Massachusetts

W. D. Kinsman Co.,
SPRINGFIELD.

Shop Early
Do Your Gift Buying Now

We are now ready for Christmas gift seekers with our store brim full of the choicest and best of all holiday merchandise.

Merry Price News for Saturday
Remarkable Coat Special
For Saturday Only, $12.98

The smartest season's models, made of the best materials in the most acceptable styles with shawl collar and deep cuffs to match, closing high at the neck. Also the popular polo styles with patch pockets, double-breasted effects and plain tailored models. Colors, blue, black, gray, tan and mixtures.

Saturday Special $12.98

Splendid Serge Dresses, $4.98

Another shipment of these Serge Dresses made of fine quality serge with pointed collar and cuffs in messaline or corduroy in contrasting colors. The skirt has panel back and is tastefully trimmed with buttons.

Saturday Special, $4.98

Splendid Suits Attractively Priced at $16.75

Dressy Suits of refined taste and in mannish type of broadcloth and novelty mixtures and wide wale serges. Coats are plain tailored with Skinner's satin lining to match, and skirts with either loose panel or plain models.

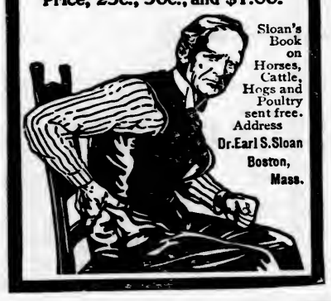
Saturday Special, $16.75

W. D. Kinsman Co., Springfield

Relieves Backache Instantly

Sloan's Liniment is a great remedy for backache. It penetrates and relieves the pain instantly—no rubbing necessary—just lay it on lightly.

Here's Proof.



"I had my back hurt in the Boer War and in San Francisco two years ago I was hit by a street car in the same place. I tried all kinds of dope without success. Two weeks ago I saw your liniment in a drug store and got a bottle to try. The first application caused instant relief, and now except for a little stiffness, I am almost well."
FLETCHER NORMAN,
Whittier, Calif.

SLOAN'S LINIMENT

is the best remedy for rheumatism, neuralgia, sore throat and sprains.

Miss E. Rim of Brooklyn, N.Y., writes: "Sloan's Liniment is the best for rheumatism. I have used six bottles of it and it is grand."

Sold by all Dealers.
Price, 25c., 50c., and $1.00.

Sloan's Book on Horses, Cattle, Hogs and Poultry sent free. Address
Dr. Earl S. Sloan
Boston, Mass.

O'Connor's Barber Shop

PALMER, MASS.

Just across the street from the Waiting Room.
(On Corner going to Depot.)

4 Chairs, No Long Waits
Everything absolutely clean.

Shavers' Supplies For Sale

Razors Honed and Handles Put On. Why pay more? We warrant our Razors at $1.50. Each one is tried, so we know what we sell you.

Central Vermont Railway Co.

SOUTHERN DIVISION.

CORRECTED TO OCTOBER 1, 1911.

Trains Leave Palmer Going South:

7.25 a. m. Passenger for New London. Due Stafford 7.58 a. m., Willimantic 8.50 a. m., Norwich 9.27 a. m., New London 10.00 a. m.
9.55 a. m. Mail for New London. Due Stafford 10.31 a. m., Willimantic 11.17 a. m., Norwich 11.52 a. m., New London 12.20 p. m.
1.25 p. m. Passenger for New London. Due Stafford 2.03 p. m., Willimantic 3.08 p. m., Norwich 3.43 p. m., New London 4.10 p. m.
6.30 p. m. Steamboat train for New London and New York. Due Stafford 7.10 p. m., Willimantic 7.55 p. m., Norwich 8.30 p. m., New London 9.00 p. m., New York City via Norwich Line, Pier 70, East River, 5.45 a. m., Pier 40, North River 7.00 a. m., following morning.

Above trains connect at Willimantic and New London east and west for points on the N. Y. N. H. & H. R.R.

Trains Leave Palmer Going North.

7.30 a. m. Mail. Due Amherst 8.15 a. m., Millers Falls 9.00 a. m., Brattleboro 10.00 a. m.
12.10 p. m. Express. Due Amherst 12.55 p. m., Millers Falls 1.20 p. m., Brattleboro 2.07 p. m.
5.30 p. m. Due Amherst 6.16 p. m., Millers Falls 6.50 p. m., Brattleboro 8.00 p. m.

These trains cannot connect at Millers Falls with trains east and west on the B. & M., and at Brattleboro with express trains for White River Junction and Montreal and points west thereof.

These trains run week days only.

SUBJECT TO CHANGE WITHOUT NOTICE.

J. W. HANLEY, General Passenger Agent.

McCall's Magazine and McCall Patterns

For Women

Have More Friends than any other magazine or patterns. McCall's is the reliable Fashion Guide monthly in one million one hundred thousand homes. Besides showing all the latest designs of McCall Patterns, each issue is brimful of sparkling short stories and helpful information for women.

Save Money and Keep in Style by subscribing for McCall's Magazine at once. Costs only 50 cents a year, including any one of the celebrated McCall Patterns free.

McCall Patterns Lead all others in style, fit, simplicity, economy and number sold. More dealers sell McCall Patterns than any other two makes combined. None higher than 15 cents. Buy from your dealer, or by mail from

McCALL'S MAGAZINE
236-246 W. 37th St., New York City

NOTE—Sample Copy, Premium Catalogue and Pattern Catalogue free, on request.

OVER 65 YEARS' EXPERIENCE

PATENTS

TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &C.

Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. HANDBOOK on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents.
Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the Scientific American.

A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.

MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

A Compromise

By ELMER WENTWORTH

Copyright by American Press Association, 1911.

Bob Brackett, a lone bachelor, needed some articles with which to decorate his room. He inquired of a lady friend where such things were to be had, and she recommended the Woman's Exchange. Bob went there and made his purchases.

The same evening on returning from business he found them all in his room. Opening the package, he put a bureau scarf in its place, a centerpiece on his table under his reading lamp and a scented mouchoir case on his dresser. Then he sat down in his easy chair and surveyed the scene.

"By Jove," he exclaimed, "one would think a woman had done it all! What a feminine appearance the room has! There's everything a woman would provide—that is, everything except pillowshams. Pillowshams I'll never have. They're well named. They're a sham indeed—put on in the morning to look pretty, taken off at night, folded up and laid where they won't be stepped on. Of all the confounded feminine nonsense I ever heard of pillowshams are the worst. If ever I'm married there's one thing my wife shall never indulge in or force me to indulge in—pillowshams. Confound them!

Bob went to bed leaving a fire burning in the grate that illuminated his room and lay awake enjoying his newly acquired decorations.

"I can almost fancy myself married," he said, "and a nice little girl keeping house in this very room with me. It's one of a suit, and I could have the whole. Just think of coming home for dinner instead of stopping at a cheap restaurant, finding wifey at the door ready to throw her arms around my neck; dinner ready; with my arm around her waist we go into the dining room and while we eat talk over what has passed during the day.

"Dinner finished, we go into the living room. I light a cigar, we read and chat, and so spend the evening.

"Good gracious!" he exclaimed. "I've forgotten to put a handkerchief in my nightshirt pocket."

He got out of bed and went to the bureau where he had left his mouchoir case and felt for a handkerchief. The size he used at night was on the bottom of the pile, and with it he pulled out a slip of paper, which floated to the floor. Picking it up, he took it to the fireplace and saw by the light something written on it in a feminine hand. It read:

If my work falls into the hands of a bachelor this is to inform him that single blessedness and making my living at such work as this don't suit me. Marriage is the natural lot of both sexes, and I don't see why a woman shouldn't seek a husband as well as a man seek a wife. I am twenty years old, have a pliable disposition and believe that the husband should lead, having his own way in everything. Miss Williamson of the Woman's Exchange has my address. I have authorized her to give it to any gentlemanlike young man who calls for it.

"Well, now, I like that!" exclaimed Bob. "What a lot of practical sense in it! And she'll let her husband have his own way about everything! Splendid! If fate throws us together there's one thing there'll be no trouble about—the pillowshams. She can have her own way about everything else."

Bob went to sleep dreaming of how the place would look if something came of this slip of paper and the very next day went again to the Woman's Exchange for a feminine article with a soul, a body, and a living body at that.

Three months from that date Bob Brackett and Louise Harwood, a very lovely girl—at least Bob thought she was—were married and went to live in his room till the other rooms in the suit became vacant and they could rent the whole. After a short wedding trip they returned to the apartment, and the bride began to survey it with a critical eye.

"Wouldn't you think," asked Bob, "that a woman had fixed it up?"

"Well, yes, so far as it goes."

"What's wanting?"

"Well, some curtains to the windows for one thing."

"That's so. I never thought of them. What else?"

"Those pillows should be covered."

"With what?"

"Shams."

"Louise," said the husband, squaring himself, "if there's any one thing I always detested it's pollowshams. No pillowshams for me, thank you."

"But you wouldn't have the pillows perfectly bare, would you?"

"Put on cases of the finest brussels lace if you like, but when you get 'em on keep 'em on. I don't propose to take a sham off my pillow every night, fold it up and put it somewhere."

"I'll do all that."

"Nobody'll do it. I've sworn no shams shall be on my bed."

After six months' squabbling over the pillowshams and a frequent reminder to the wife that he should have his own way in everything he proposed a compromise. He was proceeding to propose some kind of a pillowcase that would look well, but would not be injured by being used to lay one's head on. But before he could do so his wife interrupted him, saying:

"All right. We'll compromise."

"Well?" said the husband inquiringly.

"We'll compromise on pillowshams."

There was a pause, after which the husband remarked, "I give it up."

Friendship is love without his wings.

HOLLAND.

Rev. Mr. Lovering is spending two weeks' vacation in Carlisle.

James Roberts died Sunday morning after an illness of pneumonia.

The schools closed last Friday for a week's vacation. Miss Fuller went to her home in Monson.

NORTH WILBRAHAM.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Fuller and daughter Dorothy of Hopkinton spent Thanksgiving with Mrs. Anne Fuller.

Mr. and Mrs. David Griswold entertained at their home Friday evening a few friends from Chicopee Falls and North Wilbraham, in honor of their guest, H. W. Osborn of Rutland, Vt.

BRIMFIELD.

The Academy orchestra has organized for the year and is holding weekly rehearsals under the direction of Principal Kenney. It is composed as follows: LeRoy Jarrett, Earl Doyle, first violins; William Mellahy, James Kerby, second violins; Maude Locke of the class of 1911, Bernard Maloney, cornets; Principal George F. Kenney, 'cello; Mrs. Kenney, zylophone; Earle Jarrett, piano.

BELCHERTOWN.

Lewis Dodge has been appointed janitor of the Center school.

The district schools closed Friday for the Thanksgiving recess. The Center schools closed Wednesday.

Miss Alice Ransom has resigned her position in Northampton and returned to her home in Belchertown.

Clifton Witt has been appointed teacher in the district school, to take the place of Roland Shaw, recently resigned.

News was received in town Sunday of the death of Mrs. Serwin, mother of Mrs. S. W. Perry, at the family home in Warwick, N. Y. Mrs. Serwin has been seriously ill for several months, Mrs. Perry caring for her.

HAMPDEN.

Albert F. Ballard has moved into his new house.

Miss Elizabeth Sessions has gone to Columbus, O.

The following committees have been appointed to arrange for the annual chicken pie supper to be served by the women of the Congregational church next Friday evening: Soliciting, Mrs. M. H. Warren, Miss Esther Burleigh, Mrs. Lucius Burleigh; kitchen, Mrs. John and Mrs. Ralph Isham; icecream, Mrs. Lucius and Miss Inez Burleigh; coffee, Mrs. Albert Ballard; serving, Miss Grace Pease, Mrs. C. I. Burleigh, Mrs. W. J. Sessions; table, Mrs. Ernest Howlett, Mrs. F. J. Kenworthy, Miss Seraph Bliss; reception, Mrs. M. H. Warren, Mrs. Seraph Bliss, Mrs. Olive Thresher, Miss Phebe Beebe.

WALES.

Death of Mrs. Sarah Thompson.

Mrs. Sarah Thompson, 85, who fell from a piazza and was seriously hurt a few days ago, died at her home Monday evening at 8. She was the widow of Charles M. Thompson, who died several years ago. Mrs. Thompson was born in Wales, being the daughter of James Dimmick. She was married to Mr. Thompson over 50 years ago and always made her home in Wales. She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. E. A. Clark of Palmer and Mrs. Hattie Parker of Springfield, and two sons, William J. Thompson of Springfield and Charles G. Thompson of Wales. She also leaves four brothers, Ezekiel Dimmick of Rockville, Ct., George W. Dimmick of Wales, and Monroe and Willard Dimmick of Stafford, Ct.

WARE.

Eli Foisy, 23, son of Hormisdas Foisy of High street, and Miss Cerenie Couture, 17, daughter of Thomas Couture of Vernon street, left town together Friday night. Mr. Couture made a complaint to Officer Dennis when he missed his daughter, and asked that she be apprehended. She returned Saturday, however, stating that she and Foisy had gone to Pawtucket, R. I., where they had attempted to have the marriage ceremony performed, but were unsuccessful. Foisy returned later and was arrested Sunday on a charge for abduction on complaint of the girl's father. He appeared in the district court Monday morning, was found guilty and sentenced to three months in the county jail. Sentence was suspended however after the girl's parents relented and allowed the couple to get married, the ceremony taking place Tuesday morning. Foisy was placed on probation for a year.

The trouble with the harem skirt, it will bag at the knees.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, Ohio.

Sold by Druggists, 75c.
Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

Forbes & Wallace | Forbes & Wallace | Forbes & Wallace

MAIL ORDERS Promptly and Carefully Filled.

The

Forbes & Wallace Store

Will This Year More Positively Than Ever Before Stand Out As

Pre-Eminently the Favorite Christmas Trading Center for All Western New England.

More than 50,000 square feet of the new space provided by the rebuilding will be available for the Christmas displays. Work on the building has been stopped until after Christmas and we shall bend all our energies to making the holiday trading at this store easy, pleasant and satisfactory.

As a result of the increased space we are able to show finer displays than ever before. The stocks have been arranged more conveniently for easy and comfortable selection. And we have still further perfected our service in many ways.

The Christmas stocks are ready NOW and Now is the best time to make selections, for many of the most desirable things are of the choice one-of-a-kind sort which are picked up by the early buyers and cannot be duplicated.

Forbes & Wallace

Springfield, - - - - - - - - - - Mass.

GIBRALTAR NEVER IS ASLEEP

Guns of the Great Fortress Are Kept Trained Constantly on the Surrounding Waters.

While it has always been known that Gibraltar, which belongs to Great Britain, is one of the world's strongest forts for both defense and offense, it seems incredible that an immense fleet could be sent to the bottom before getting within five miles of Gibraltar. Not even a torpedo boat could succeed in entering the bay unobserved on the blackest night. The most eminent naval experts are of the opinion that this world's greatest fortress is almost impregnable.

Gibraltar never sleeps. By day and night two perfectly equipped signal stations, proudly flaunting Britain's flag of ownership, sweep the seas around to a distance of 15 miles on a clear day, instantly reporting the coming and going of each vessel.

Modern "needle" guns, the finest in Europe, are installed on all the most prominent points. They are unreachable from the sea, even as they are indiscernible, owing to the skill with which they are planted and draped to match the surrounding vegetation, while huge screens drop automatically before them as each shell is fired. They have a range of 15 miles and could drop shells on Ceuta, in Africa, opposite, quite comfortably.

One gun weighs 110 tons and is capable of throwing a shell weighing three-quarters of a ton. In that marvel of engineering under great difficulties, the galleries, are concealed guns for every day in the year.

These galleries are divided into three sections, entry to which is guarded, while one is closed even to high officers, containing preserved stores, munitions of war, rain water (for Gibraltar has no springs) and a complete condensing plant—all calculated to outlast a siege of seven years.

The firing is the most mathematically perfect imaginable. The surrounding waters are mapped out into squares, upon which certain guns are kept ready trained, so that it is almost impossible to miss.

She Knew What to Do.

A North side matron, directing an electric coupe for the first time, ventured far out on the South side and punctured a tire. She drove home on the rim and came in for a scientific treatise on tires from her husband.

"Never drive the electric with a busted tire," said he. "It will ruin the tire, and tires cost money."

Another puncture followed a few days later, but this time she was not far from home.

Also this time she did not drive the rest of the way.

She sat in her chariot and six boys pushed her home.—Chicago Post.

Cannel Coal for Open Grates.

English quality Bostonia cannel coal, especially adapted for open grates and quick fires, of unusually good quality. Try it.

Juanita Forge Coal.

Guaranteed to be the best forge coal mined. Blacksmiths are requested to give it a trial.

Feiner Charcoal.

I have the wholesale agency for Palmer, Monson, Ware and Wilbraham.

W. F. Fillmore, Palmer

A Warm Bathroom

PERFECTION SMOKELESS OIL HEATER

Every mother should be careful that the children take their baths in a warm room. The chill of a cold room is dangerous after coming out of the hot water.

A Perfection Smokeless Oil Heater brings bathroom or bedroom to just the degree of warmth you want in five or ten minutes. All you have to do is to touch a match.

The Perfection Heater burns nine hours on one filling and is always ready for use. You can move it anywhere it is needed. There is no waste of fuel and heat warming unoccupied rooms. Just the heat you want, when and where you want it.

The Perfection is fitted with an automatic-locking flame spreader that prevents the wick being turned high enough to smoke and is easy to remove and drop back when cleaning.

Drums finished either in turquoise-blue enamel or plain steel; light and ornamental, yet strong and durable—suitable for any room in any house.

Dealers everywhere; or write to any agency of the

Standard Oil Company
(Incorporated)

THE PALMER JOURNAL

Published

EVERY FRIDAY EVENING

13-15 Central Street, Masonic Block.

PALMER, MASS.

The Palmer Journal Company,

LOUIS E. CHANDLER,

Editor and Manager.

Terms of subscription—Two dollars a year; a discount of 25 cents to those who pay in advance. Six months, $1.00; three months, 50 cents; single copies, 5 cents. Subscriptions continued until notified.

Entered at Post Office as second-class matter.

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 1, 1911.

Do your Christmas shopping early, to help the clerks. Send your Christmas mail packages early — they'll stand a good deal better chance of getting through uncrushed and without delay.

With Beattie executed down in Virginia and Spencer convicted in Springfield, Richeson down in Boston might reasonably be expected to have a few gloomy forebodings — provided he is allowed to read the newspapers.

The deer shooting season for 1911 is over, and the pretty animals may now proceed to increase and multiply for the destruction of the fruit grower's tender trees with no fear of harm except from the owner of the trees during meal time.

Governor Foss, like Br'er Rabbit, he lay low and doan' say nuffin, when the matter of a presidential nomination is suggested, but it is quiet likely that he has his ear to the ground and is perfectly willing to be the goat if the demand is made of him.

District Attorney Callahan, in his conduct of the Spencer murder trial in Springfield, fully justified the faith which placed him in his official position. He proved a careful, painstaking, capable, calm servant of the public, and further strengthened his already firm position with the Eastern Hampden citizens.

The postal authorities, after changing minds several times, have at last ruled that letters addressed to Santa Claus may be delivered to responsible charities or persons. In this way the faith of many a youngster in this time-honored saint will remain unshaken for a while longer, at least, and make their lives brighter for a time, for the letters so delivered will have their requests granted as far as possible.

The verdict in the Spencer murder trial in Springfield eased a tension which had grown more and more strained as the trial proceeded. Especially in the homes of Springfield was a large measure of relief felt. There has been much of invection against this man and he deserved it all, but it must be remembered that he was not on trial for his other crimes, only for the killing of Miss Blackstone: that was admitted, the only question being whether he was or was not sane at the time — that is, whether he understood between right and wrong. That has been decided after a trial than which nothing could be more impartial, and the verdict is likely to stand.

There has been much talk since election that if this or that man had been the candidate instead of Frothingham the Republicans would have elected the head of the ticket, and the claim was made to the Journal this week that had the influence of the 1200 ministers who signed the White letter been given to him as a candidate he would have been elected. That is possibly true, provided that all other conditions and influences remained exactly as they were. But with every change on the political chessboard comes new combinations and shifts of votes, and no living man can tell which side will be the gainer. It's a good deal like the arithmetic problems of years ago, "Did he win or lose, and how much?"

Robbed of His Deer.

Hard Luck of Palmer Hunter on Last Day of Open Season.

Eugene Chaudonette, living in the Forest Lake district, was unfortunate enough to have a deer taken away from him by force after he had shot it last week, He hunted in the section about Forest Lake last Saturday, and in the afternoon shot a doe. It was after dark before he got home, and as he was proceeding with the animal on his shoulders he was met by two men, neither of whom he knew. Both had guns in their hands; as they came close to him they pointed their guns in his direction and told him to drop the deer and get out of that section as fast as he could. As a pair of guns seemed a good argument he accepted their advice and left them the animal he had secured.

The stock of the George L. Emmons Co. was sold at auction at noon to-day to H. L. Jones of Huntington, who intends to continue the business.

LOCAL NOTICES.

Electric wiring, etc. 'Phone Moulton, 122-21 Monson.

For all cougha use our Mentholated Pine Expectorant, 25c at Kinsley's Pharmacy, 357 Main St., Cor. Central. The Old Corner Drug Store.

PALMER NEWS.

Burglars Were Hungry.

Helped Themselves to Food, But Didn't Go Into House.

When the family of J. H. Shaw of Chestnut street arose this morning it was found that the supplies left in the pantry last night had disappeared in a mysterious manner. The pantry window was open, propped up with a stick, and pies, cake, and various other eatables which had been left within reach of the window the night before, gone. A little search disclosed the empty dishes in a wagon near by. Under the window were numerous burned matches, but no clew to the self-invited boarders. Evidently they did not enter the room, as a turkey and other good things at the farther end of the room were unmolested.

Small Fire This Afternoon.

The firemen were called out about 2.30 this afternoon for a blaze in the third floor of the Barton house on South Main street. There was not very much fire however, and a stream from the chemical tank on the auto truck soon had it out.

D. E. Dunn has moved from Pine street to Park street, near Pearl.

Henry Greenwood has moved his family from Park street to South Main street.

Ivan Brouillette has moved his family into his new house, which he recently built, on South Main street.

Because of the lack of a quorum, the meeting of the school committee Tuesday evening was postponed until a later date.

A quarterly meeting of the Young Men's Library Association will be held in the reference room of the library next Monday evening at 7.30.

The deciding game in the pool tournament of the Palmer Business and Social Club, scheduled for Tuesday evening, was postponed for two weeks until the annual meeting of the club.

In the district court this morning William Harvey, an old sailor, pleaded guilty to vagrancy, but on his plea for leniency and a promise to go to his sister in Rhode Island, he was allowed to depart.

A union Thanksgiving service was held in the Universalist church yesterday morning. Rev. C. W. Williams, pastor of the Baptist church, preached the sermon. There was a good attendance.

Dr. H. C. Cheney, J. F. Foley, H. W. Holbrook, Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Brainerd, Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Flynt and Mr. and Mrs. B. E. Loring attended the Harvard-Yale football game at Cambridge last Saturday.

The social evening of the Palmer Woman's Club, which was to have been held this evening at the home of Mrs. George Holden on Central street, has been postponed until Wednesday, December 6, on account of the holiday.

Among the Churches.

Rev. Otto S. Raspe, pastor of St. Paul's church, will take for his subject next Sunday, "The World for Christmas."

The pulpit of the Advent chapel will be supplied Sunday by Rev. A. C. Johnson of Westfield, who will preach at 3 in the afternoon, following Sunday school at 2 o'clock.

"The prayer of Habakkuk" will be the subject of the sermon at the Baptist church next Sunday morning. Bible school at 12, Y. P. S. C. E. at 6.15. Evening worship at 7, the last sermon in the series on Elijah is "Elijah's last great journey:" All are invited; good music; come early.

Services as usual in the Congregational church Sunday. Morning worship at 10.45, with sermon by the pastor. Sunday school at 12, Christian Endeavor at 6; subject, "Lessons from the life of Paul." Evening worship at 7, with sermon on "The Second Isaiah." Special music, consisting of a cornet solo.

Power of Human Nature.

After all, whatever is an element of power, if it is properly extracted and applied, is at his command, without question, who can successfully use it But in trying to influence people, put human nature under what you do. Remembering what we, ourselves, like and want is to foresee fairly well what the great public will respond to. And there can be little guesswork in getting at this.

Banish Fear by Trust.

Fear not, but trust in Providence wherever thou mayst be.—Thomas Haynes Bayly.

When your feet are wet and cold, and your body chilled through from exposure, take a big dose of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, bathe your feet in hot water before going to bed, and you are almost certain to ward off a severe cold. For sale by all dealers.

Personal Mention.

R. W. Clement is spending a few days at his home in Derry, N. H.

Mrs. Nye of Cataumet is visiting her daughter, Mrs. H. C. Cheney of Main street.

Thomas Blanchard has returned from Hot Springs, much improved in health.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Breckenridge and son of New York are guests of friends in town.

Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Waite of Squier street spent Thanksgiving with friends in Springfield.

Louis Green of South Main street has returned from a business trip of two weeks in Maine.

Otto Butts of Concord, N. H., spent Thanksgiving with his brother, John Butts, of Park street.

Miss Katharine Riley of Stafford spent the holiday with Mrs. Horace Todd on South Main street.

Mrs. H. W. Taylor of Worcester is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Thompson of Central street.

Miss Alta Burgess of the wire mill district is visiting friends in New York and New Jersey for a few weeks.

N. W. Chandler of New York was a guest yesterday of his brother, L. E. Chandler of North Main street.

Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Reed of Warren were entertained yesterday by Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Keith of Park street.

Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Northrop of Central street are visiting friends in Brookline, Mass., and Milford, N. H.

Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Quimby spent the holiday with her mother, Mrs. E. G. Hastings on North Main street.

Misses Hazel and Beatrice Dillon of Central street are guests of their sister, Mrs. John Gibbons in Hackensack, N. J.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Brooks and daughter Doris of Spring street spent Thanksgiving with relatives in Pittsfield.

Mrs. Elizabeth Heery and Edward Heery of Boston are guests of Miss Katherine Feeney on South Main street.

Rev. Otto S. Raspe was called to Morrisville, Vt., the first of the week to attend the funeral of a former parishioner.

Mr. and Mrs. F. I. Brown of South Main street have closed their house and will spend the winter with their daughter in Springfield.

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Call of Springfield spent Thanksgiving with Mrs. Call's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Fitch of Central street.

Miss Maude Fitzgerald, a teacher in the public schools in Keene, N. H., is the guest of her sister, Miss Molly Fitzgerald of Main street.

Mr. and Mrs. Lucius F. Eaton of Stafford Springs, Ct., are guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel J. Ramsden of South Main street.

Prof. George Hamlin, formerly connected with Orono College, Maine, now retired, was a guest yesterday of Louis Green of South Main street.

Mrs. L. A. Hitchcock of Squier street entertained Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Park and Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Griffin and family of Springfield over the holiday.

Miss Margaret Sargent of Worcester and Mrs. C. Coates of Springfield were the guests Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. D. E. O'Connor at the Nassowanno House.

Miss Carrie Fish of Meriden, Ct., and Miss Pearl Fish of Montclair, N. J., are spending a few days with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fish of Walnut street.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Wing of Holyoke, Miss Lillian Miller of Belchertown, Miss Bessie Myers and Newton C. Wing of East Orange, N. J., were guests of Mrs. Abbie J. Wing of Central street Thanksgiving Day.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Shaw of Chestnut street entertained the following guests at their home yesterday: Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Shaw and son Frank of Chicopee, Mrs. Strong and Miss Jennie Blair of Springfield and Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Webster of Thorndike street.

Clayton E. Maxwell of Lawrence spent Thanksgiving with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Maxwell on Maple street; George Briggs of Wilbraham, Mrs. P. E. Powers of Monson and Calvin Moulton of Springfield were also guests at the same place over the holiday.

An Author's Confession.

Although his book had made a hit,
Original in thought and diction,
The man who wrote the ads for it
Composed the more ingenious fiction.

An Infant Cuvier.

Miss Griggs easily induced the wealthy Mrs. May to let her son Freddie join the vacation class in natural history that she was organizing for children.

"I'm sure he'll love it!" said Mrs. May, with surprising enthusiasm. "And you will find that he knows a lot about natural history already."

"Indeed! That is very pleasant," murmured Miss Griggs, vaguely, for she was not prepared for scientific attainments in a spoiled boy of five.

"Yes," said Mrs. May, complacently, "ever since Freddie was a baby the chef has made all his blanc-mange in the shape of rabbits and squirrels, and only lately he has begun to make him marshmallow frogs and chickens and turtles, and Freddie simply worships thm—you can't get him to touch anything in a plain mold!

"I am sure," concluded Mrs. May, "that you will find Freddie very advanced for his age."—Youth's Companion.

When you have a cold get a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It will soon fix you up all right and will ward off any tendency toward pneumonia. This remedy contains no opium or other narcotic and may be given as confidently to a baby as to an adult. Sold by all dealers.

Low Prices for Shoe Repairing

See these prices for machine work:

Men's shoes, half soled and heeled, sewed, $1 00
Men's shoes, full soled and heeled, sewed, 1.50
Ladies' Shoes, soled and heeled, sewed, .85

Better than hand work and much quicker. Satisfaction guaranteed.

H. Platkin,
Bridge St., Palmer.

Palmer Trucking Co.

Successors to S. H. Brown.

Trucking and Jobbing of all kinds.

Piano Moving.

Dealers in Spring Water Ice.

Orders solicited, prompt attention guaranteed.

F. M. Ralton, Manager.

Office, South Main street.

Telephone connection.

See her Smile!

If you Are a man

Give your wife or daughter the material for a suit, skirt or waist and see how delighted she will be with the gift and your thoughtfulness.

If you are a wife and mother

Get the material and make it up for your daughter.

Ridgewood Cloths For Christmas Gifts

Stylish, high quality woolens and worsteds in a pleasing variety of styles, patterns, weaves and colors, direct from the mills at prices that will allure you. Send for samples and order by mail or visit our factory salesroom.

Ridgewood Mills,
666 Main St., Holyoke, Mass.

Empty Christmas Boxes

A large assortment of sizes and shapes suitable for jewelry, gloves, handkerchiefs, neckties, etc.

Dennison's Goods

and all materials for making of Xmas gifts at home.

Lynde & Gould
Palmer, Mass.
Druggists, Stationers and Newsdealers

We Are Showing

The newest, nobbiest wood-burning stove in the market in our stove department. It is a CRAWFORD elegant nickel finish, and can be used as an open fire place. Has two covers on top on which to do cooking. Has back da nper on pipe and two drafts in front. Must be seen to be appreciated.

Price, $16.50

Blake Steel Traps

In all sizes for trappers.

5A Horse Blankets

For street and stable use. We have them at all prices and qualities and know absolutely that we have the largest stock in this section from which you can make a selection.

Whitcomb & Faulkner,

All Cars Stop in Front of the Door.

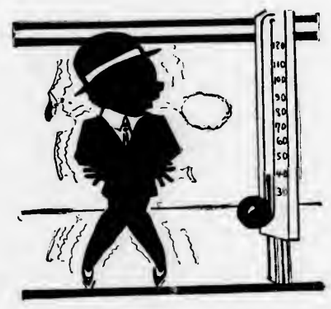
Main Street, Palmer, Mass.

Telephone

I Have an Elegant Line

Of Ladies' Fur, Caracul and Cloth Coats at very popular prices.

My Ladies' Suits are up-to-date and made of the best of fabrics, and the Furs, Skirts, Dress and Shirtwaists, complete a very fine showing of ladies' wearing apparel.



I also have an elegant assortment of Girls' Coats, both in cloth and caracul, which cannot be beat.

My men's and boys' line of Suits and Overcoats cannot be excelled at the price.

A visit to my store will be greatly appreciated.

M. Ecker, Palmer, Mass.

P. O. Block. Up one flight.

Overcoats

Remember the cold blasts of December are on the way. Be true to yourself, get what you pay for. Try one of our Overcoats at $15. Satisfactory in style, fit and wear or your money back. We have a fine line of Grays and Browns with plaid backs, $12 to $18.

C. K. Gamwell,

Clothier and Furnisher,

Palmer, Mass.

Are You Interested in Parlor Stoves?

The GLENWOOD base burner does the best work. The E. Brown Co. handle this line. also carry a full stock of

Modern Hardware at Very Low Prices

E. Brown Co., Agents, Palmer, Mass.

MARRIED.

In Palmer, Nov. 29, by Rev. F. S. Brewer, William H. Burdick of Palmer and Frances L. Zindl of Monson.

In Thorndike, 29th, by Rev. P. J. Griffin, William Smith of Palmer and Louise Longtine of Thorndike.

In Thorndike, 29th, by Rev. P. J. Griffin, William Smith of Springfield and Mildred Smith of Thorndike.

In Monson, Nov. 29, by Rev. G. A. Andrews, John Anderson and Lydia J. Stewart.

DIED.

In Palmer, 26th, Mrs. Frances W. Dimock, 84.
In Wales, 27th, Mrs. Sara Thompson, 85.
In Monson, 25th, Mrs. Emma K. Harris, 63.
In Ware, Nov. 29, Edward J. McBride, 47.
In Wales, Nov. 26, Herbert, A. McFarland, 71.
In Arlington, Nov. 22, John N. Lacey, 75, a former resident of Palmer.

TENEMENT TO RENT. 32-tf E. BROWN CO.

FOX TERRIER PUPS FOR SALE. 17-tf JAMES BURDICK, Mechanic St. Monson

TO RENT.—Tenement at corner of South Main and Vaill streets; rent $11 per month. Inquire of DAVID F. DILLON.

IF YOU WANT your horse clipped in first-class shape, call on JAMES BURDICK, Monson. 32-tf

TO RENT.—Downstairs tenement in my double house on Walnut street, after December 15. W. E. McDONALD.

VAULTS CLEANED, gardens plowed, ashes and rubbish removed at reasonable prices. W. H. HOUSE, Palmer. 3-tf

FOR SALE.—One two-horse sleigh, one one-horse sleigh and four driving sleighs. 46-tf WHITCOMB & FAULKNER.

WANTED.—Hens, calves and cows. Will pay good price. Notify by postal card. 44-tf E. GOLDBERG, Three Rivers.

WANTED—Men to handle a good paying line. Exclusive territory. BROWN BROTHERS COMPANY, 35-1 Rochester, N. Y.

FOR SALE—Second-hand hot air wood furnace in good condition; pipes and registers with it. Inquire of E. J. FULLER, Fuller's Crossing, on Bondsville line. 33-tf

CARPET CLEANER. A Richmond Cleaner to rent with or without operator. Best way to clean carpets, rugs or furniture. Write postal or telephone 25-2. FRED McCOMBER, Box 174, Palmer. 40-tf

NOTICE—Pass Book No. 24,910, issued by the Palmer Savings Bank has been lost and an application by the owner for the issuance of a duplicate Pass Book has been filed with the Bank. Any person finding Pass Book No. 24,910 is requested to return it to the PALMER SAVINGS BANK, Palmer, Mass. 33-3

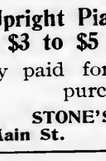
W. B. T. Smith,
Physician and Surgeon,
Office and residence, So. High Street,
BONDSVILLE, MASS.
Office Hours 7-9 a. m. 12.30-2 p. m. 6.30-8 p. m.
Tel. 104—5.

Notice to Piano Owners.
Mr. J. Frank Normand, Piano Tuner and Repairer. Nearly 20 years' experience on all makes of pianos. Over fifty satisfied piano owners to refer to in Palmer, Monson and vicinity. Orders left at Journal office or mailed to 800 Main street, Worcester, Mass., will receive prompt attention.

August Peterson,
Monson, Mass.
Cement, Concrete and Stone Work of all kinds at Lowest Prices.

Teacher of Violin,
Robert J. Wilder.
Palmer, Mass.

Upright Pianos to Rent
$3 to $5 per month
Money paid for rent applied if purchased.
STONE'S STORE,
370 Main St. Palmer



John Winer, Three Rivers
Dealer in Cattle, Beef and Milch Cows, Poultry.
Pay High Prices
P. O. Box 339, Three Rivers

For Sale
8-room cottage, with bath; on car line. Bargain if taken at once.
R. E. Cummings,
Palmer, Mass.

INSURANCE
Of every kind placed at short notice, and all favors duly appreciated.
Yours Truly
S. H. HELLYAR
Office at store on Main St.

VIOLIN AND PIANO LESSONS
Given by
Julia A. Allen, Palmer, Mass.
Orders promptly filled for Music, Violins, Strings, etc.

Bernard J. Bancroft
Teacher of Piano.
In Palmer Saturday of each week. Methods rapid and modern. Teaches at pupil's residence. Terms: 50 cents per lesson. Address
442 State St., Springfield.

Johnson's Bookstore
BOOKSTORE BUILDING
391 Main St. Springfield

Now Bring All the Children to Johnson's
It's easier to handle the little folks before the crowds get so big, and we have a toyland that will go right to their fairyland hearts. The old folks will enjoy it too, so all come.
Books Stationery Pictures
Prompt attention to mail orders

A Contemptible Trick.

Showing That There Are More Ways Than One of Interfering With a Woman's Intentions.

By F. A. MITCHEL.

Copyright by American Press Association, 1911.

Left an orphan when I was a very little girl, I was brought up by a maiden aunt, a woman of considerable brain and will power. I had hardly been settled in her house before she laid out a course for me to pursue.

"I shall give you a good education," she said, "and an education is a foundation on which a woman may build a career as well as a man. I'm not going to educate you that you may occupy a subordinate position in some man's office; not going to make a stenographer of you to take down some man's dictation—no man ever dictated to me. I shall give you a profession. But when you have been graduated I shall expect you to practice. It is not my intention to spend money on you to be thrown away. I don't propose that after giving you a profession some man shall come along, talk a lot of nonsense to you and render all I have spent on you abortive. If a woman is going to be a lawyer or a doctor she must begin by putting all notions of love and marriage out of her head."

Considering that my aunt made this announcement to me when I was but twelve years old, it is not to be expected that it made any other impression on me than that I was to follow the path she laid down for me. It evidently did not occur to her that I was rather young to agree when grown to place myself in opposition to nature's laws. Nevertheless, she accepted my promise that I would repay her kindness in educating me by making myself the old maid she was herself and spend my life listening to people tell about their aches and pains instead of hearing the prattle of my own children.

Nevertheless, my aunt was a good woman despite her crankiness. She took admirable care of me, and when I became old enough to choose a profession I selected medicine. My aunt died shortly after I had received my diploma and left me a legacy sufficient to give me a start in my profession. The last thing she said to me was: "Remember your promise. You will be sorely tempted because you are very good looking. Men will try to draw you away from the path of duty, but you must not listen to them. What they will want of you is to make you a slave. Be constantly on your guard."

As to the temptation, my aunt was right.

My being thrown into a field of labor where I met many men, some of whom were intelligent and attractive, was probably the cause of my receiving a number of proposals. But I set myself resolutely to carry out my aunt's intentions regarding me, feeling bound in honor to do so. I refused all my suitors, devoting myself exclusively to my practice. I found it impossible to keep the fact that I was pledged to celibacy from being known, and I believe that for this reason I was especially sought in marriage. Nothing is so desirable as that which is impossible to obtain.

I practiced two years and resisted all temptations to marry. One day an old lady came to see me and begged that I would make a diagnosis of a trouble that was afflicting her son. She said she believed there was something on her son's mind that he would not confide to his medical attendant. A man, she said, would be more likely to give his confidence in certain matters to a woman than one of his own sex. The invalid had been a trifler in love affairs, and she was not sure but that he had been caught in his own trap. If she could be sure of this she might possibly find a remedy.

There was something winning in the old lady's solicitude lest her boy might be getting his just deserts. I was amused at the absurdity of a man having to call in a woman physician to cure him of a possible love malady. I did not attend men patients as a rule, partly because I had cured one man and he had given me his heart in addition to my fee. But since this dear old lady's invalid son was suspected to be already in love, even to the breaking down of his health, I saw no reason why I should not oblige her. So I promised to at least make one visit.

I found a fine looking young fellow some twenty-eight years old, six feet high and muscular. As I entered the room where he was lounging he looked up at me with a captivating smile that he had evidently inherited from his mother. There was an unconscious strength about him that in a man is especially attractive to a woman. I did not wonder that he had fallen into gallantry and could not but have some sympathy for him that he was suffering the penalty. His mother withdrew and I began to question him professionally, though I only asked him how he felt and to what cause he attributed his ailment; then I said to him frankly:

"You are not ill; you think you are."

"I know it."

"I can't at present determine whether your trouble is mental or nervous. If there is anything on your mind you had better tell me. I can do nothing for you till I know the cause of your malady."

"I am only too glad to make a confidant of you, doctor. I am in love."

"In that case you must be your own physician. I can do nothing for you."

"But suppose this love is breaking me down."

"Nonsense."

"I told my mother that you would take that view of the case. My life is worth nothing to me or any one else except my mother. I implore you to try to do something for me for her sake."

"I will. My prescription is plenty of outdoor exercise and mental occupation. Whenever the image of this unattainable girl comes up before you drive it out."

"I can't."

"There is no such word as can't." I arose to go.

"Will you come again?" he asked ruefully.

There was something both amusing and fascinating in this great hulk of a man clinging to me to save him from himself. Nevertheless, I knew of no antedote for love and had no mind to waste my time dancing attendance on a man whose only ailment was his devotion to some girl who didn't happen to fancy him. But I was obliged to confess to myself that there was something as attractive as ludicrous in it. The fond mother, who had probably been listening, at this point came in and said:

"Of course the doctor will come again. She will not leave you to suffer."

"Not if I can be of service."

As I went out the patient followed me with his handsome, melancholy eyes, full of a longing that I could have understood had I been the girl who was torturing him. But under the circumstances it was very puzzling. Before leaving I questioned his mother with a view of determining if there was any hereditary cause that would account for his condition, but she said all her ancestors on both sides had been healthy in mind and body.

I was at the time much interested in mental effects upon the body. I was sure that this young man's unrequited love had brought him into one of those conditions that are so puzzling to physicians. I told his mother this and advised her to attempt a removal of the fundamental cause. When she asked me how to do this I suggested throwing her son and some fascinating woman, other than the one he loved, together. He would likely transfer his love and this would effect a cure. She promised to think about it, but seemed to consider it rather an impracticable expedient.

A week later she called at my office, evidently very much troubled. She said her son was no better; indeed, if there had been any change since my visit it was for the worse.

"I have thought of your plan, doctor," she said, "of substituting another love, but I know of no one who I believe would be able to draw my son away from his infatuation. I named every girl of his acquaintance to him, asking if there was one he would like to have visit him, and he refused to see any of them. "I wouldn't mind seeing my doctor," he said, "as often as she will call."

And what did the poor old mother do, with tears in her eyes, but beg me to make an attempt to substitute myself in her son's affections for the woman he loved. I argued that even if successful I would only be replacing one cause by a similar one. She declared that instead the infatuation would be broken and her son would recover his health.

There was a professional problem involved—a problem as to the effect of mental causes of physical ailments. This and the mother's pleadings prevailed. I would cure the young man if I could, and after his cure—well, after that he must get on as best he could without me.

I visited him at intervals. I played no coquettish pranks upon him. I simply attempted to divert his mind by being as agreeable to him as I could. I chose those subjects for chat in which he was interested and found him in certain lines intellectually my superior. After every call I was rewarded for my pains by his doting mother, who assured me that all was going well and her son was steadily improving. Of course I looked forward with misgivings to the day when my patient would be cured of one love to be tortured by another, but possibly a third or a fourth might so dilute the poison that the physical effect would be neutralized.

A result occurred that I had not calculated upon. While I was winning my patient's love he was winning mine. I awakened finally to the fact that my pledge to my aunt must either be broken or I would become some doctor's patient for the same disease of which I had cured my own.

Nevertheless I determined not to yield. I would not find a substitute, as I had recommended to him, but I would cease to see him. But he would not cease to see me. He followed me relentlessly. I fought him for ten months, then surrendered.

On the day my husband and I returned from our wedding trip he gave me evidence of the value of my aunt's warning.

"Sweetheart," he said, "do you know that the illness which brought us together was all a put up job on you?"

"What do you mean?" I exclaimed, opening my eyes.

"One day I heard some sawbones talking about you and your pledge to devote yourself to your profession and not to marry."

"Well?"

"You know the rest."

As soon as I could get my breath I hissed, "It was a mean, contemptible"—

A kiss stopped the rest.

Sewers.

The sewers of the largest 157 cities of the United States if laid end to end would girdle the earth at the equator.

OLD CHINESE ROLLS FOUND

Thousands of Manuscripts on Silk Discovered in Grottos by a French Explorer.

Paul Pelliot, the young French explorer of Chinese Turkestan, found in caverns at Tuan-Huang silk rolls which are Chinese manuscripts, some of them embroidered by artists who seem to have stepped out of "The Arabian Nights." These rolls have been immured in these grottos for nine hundred years, and when deciphered and translated will tell the story of a civilization that flourished over a thousand years ago and is dead.

The explorer brought back five thousand rolls; but as there are five hundred grottos, he believes many more libraries will be found.

In the last few years archaeologists at work in the Mediterranean island of Crete have unearthed ruins and pottery which prove that civilized people inhabited Greece as far back as the year 2600 B. C. The system of drainage in the prehistoric city of Gnossus, in Crete, is more sanitary than any found in any historic age anywhere on earth until the nineteenth century.

The life of the human race upon this planet is being traced further and further back. The earliest known civilization is being found to have been preceded by one still earlier. One curtain of the past upraised reveals another curtain which the scientists are certain conceals still more secrets.—Minneapolis Journal.

Rare Diseased Plant.

An exceedingly rare but occasionally found plant is the Cattleya labiata alba. It is a diseased plant, whose exquisite bloom is snow white. Properly packed, orchids will stand from forty to fifty days' confinement and remain in a healthy condition.

She Knew Harry.

"Now, Harry, go to Smith's, the grocer, and get a pound of the best syrup," said his mother, and she handed the young hopeful a couple of good-sized jugs. When the boy had gone the vicar's wife said:

"You didn't tell him to get anything in the other jug. Is he going to leave it at the shop?"

"No, ma'am; he's going to bring it back here again."

"But why send two jugs to get a pound of syrup?"

"Well, you see, it's this way. If he has a jug in each hand, he can't go dipping his finger in the syrup and eating it as he comes along."

If You Are a Trifle Sensitive

About the size of your shoes it's some satisfaction to know that many people can wear shoes a size smaller by shaking Allen's Foot-Ease into them. Just the thing for Patent Leather Shoes, and for breaking in New Shoes. Sold everywhere, 25c. Sample FREE. Address, Allen S. Olmstead, LeRoy, N. Y.

Bay State Drug Co.
Palmer

Apollo Chocolates
30 cents
Regular 60c 1-lb. boxes.

Special for Saturday, Dec. 2

Largest and Best Equipped Drug Store Between Worcester and Springfield

Monkeys and Gum.

In tropical countries the natives have many unique ways of catching monkeys. One of them, as explained by a traveler, is this: The hunters walk about in short boots in sight of the monkeys. Then they take the boots off, place some gum in the bottoms and leave them on the ground, withdrawing themselves to a great distance. Presently the monkeys come down from the trees and try on the boots and when the hunters come after them the boots stick to the feet of the monkeys and they are unable to climb. Thus the imitative little animals are captured.

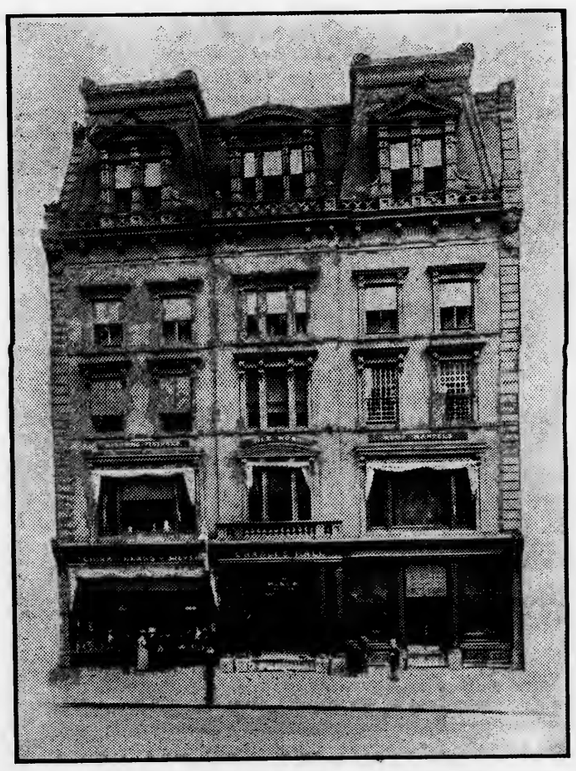
Two of a Kind.

"I find that my husband has been having the office boy call me up every day and mumble terms of endearment. That's a nice way to fool his wife. He's been going to the ball game."

"How is it that you didn't catch on to the voice?"

"Well, I'm busy at bridge every ... and I've been having the cook answer the telephone."

He Called It Luck.



Michael Meehan was the proud possessor of a brand new silk high hat. At the wake of his dearest enemy he had guarded it carefully, and as a consequence was strolling home with the tile unscathed. As he passed the site of a building operation, a woman acquaintance nodded pleasantly. With an ostentatious wave of the hat, which exhibited it to excellent advantage, Michael bowed. At the same moment a brick sailed down from an upper floor and bounced from his bared skull. Upon coming to, he inquired anxiously for the hat. A bystander restored it unharmed. Mike felt the egg-size lump on his head occasioned by the impact of the brick, and then regarded his undamaged tile. "B'gorry," he sighed in satisfaction, "it's lucky it is I saw the loidy in toime!"—Lippincott's Magazine.

Largest Flower.

The world's largest flower is said to be the rafflesia, a native of Sumatra, the petals of which surround a cup nearly a foot wide.

Charles Hall, Springfield, Mass.

Five Floors of Fine Merchandise

The Hall Building 311-313 Main St.

The Christmas Gift Store.

Unusual Merchandise—Larger Stocks—Complete Assortments—Splendid Service—Reasonable Prices Summon You to do your Christmas Shopping here.

Nowhere in Western Massachusetts will you find a better place to buy your Christmas gifts. The articles are known to be the best kind of Gift things made in Europe and America. The prices cover an extensive range and just as distinctive things are offered at 25c, 50c and $1 as at higher figures. The lines most interesting now are—

Sterling Silverware—China—Glass—Pottery---Lamps---Clocks---Plated Silver---Jewelry from Vienna and Florence---Antique and Fine Modern Furniture---Foreign Embroidery and Other Fabrics---a New Toy Department---German Playthings and Toys---a new Foreign Fabric Room---larger assortments of Imported Jewelry.

You are welcome to use the Tea Room with its easy chairs, desks and dressing room, and luncheon service.

If you will bring in this advertisement, you will get free a quaint little Florentine Bridge Score.

Thorndike
Three Rivers
Bondsville

Many items of interest from these busy villages.

THORNDIKE.

Smith—Smith.

A pretty wedding took place at St. Mary's church Wednesday morning, when Miss Mildred Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hanlon of Main street, was united in marriage to William Smith of Springfield, Rev. P. J. Griffin officiating. A large number of friends and relatives were present. A wedding breakfast was served at the bride's home following the ceremony. There was a profusion of wedding gifts. After a wedding tour they will reside in Springfield.

Longtine—Smith.

Miss Louise Longtine and William Smith of Palmer were united in marriage by Rev. P. J. Griffin at noon Wednesday at the parochial residence. Miss Anna Longtine of Springfield, a sister of the bride, was bridesmaid, and Daniel Harrington of Palmer was best man. After a short wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Smith will reside on South Main street, Palmer, where the groom is employed by the street railway company.

The work on the Main street sewer is progressing rapidly and is fast nearing completion.

Mr. O'Connor of South Hadley Falls was a guest of his daughter, Mrs. Katherine T. Loftus, Wednesday.

An anniversary mass of requiem for the late Rev. F. J. Lynch, a former pastor of St. Mary's church, was held yesterday morning, Rev. P. J. Griffin officiating.

Three persons who were engaged at work upon the Main street sewer were buried Tuesday by the falling of the earth. They were soon rescued from their position by other workmen.

Several Thorndike friends of John T. Moran, a former Thorndike boy, who is at Poli's Theater in Springfield this week with a troupe of Japanese performers, have attended the performances this week.

THREE RIVERS.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Senecal spent Sunday in town.

Samuel Cole spent Sunday with friends in Palmer.

Miss Mary McCullough has recovered from her recent illness.

Albert Senecal spent the last of the week with friends in Ware.

Henry Winn spent Sunday at his home on East Main street.

John Ritchie was the guest over Sunday of relatives in Ware.

William Riddle of Palmer street has been ill at his home the past week.

Gustave Eckhert has recovered from his recent illness at the Wenimesset.

Raymond Richardson of Holyoke was the guest of Peter Manzer Sunday.

Thomas Connor of Springfield spent Sunday at his home on Palmer street.

Robert L. Geer spent the latter part of the week with friends in Worcester.

Ovila Worzard cut a deep gash in one of his hands and is unable to be at work.

Dr. and Mrs. S. O. Miller spent the last of the week with friends in Fitchburg.

Alvarez Boissy of Holyoke spent the last of the week at his home on Main street.

Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Willis and son Milton spent Sunday with relatives in Springfield.

Miss Cora Cleland visited Monday at the home of her sister, Mrs. James Anderson.

W. A. Purdy spent the first of the week at the home of his father in Syracuse, N. Y.

Mr. and Mrs. Pembroke Pierce are spending a few days with friends in Connecticut.

Miss Nellie Conroy of Springfield spent Sunday at her home on Belchertown street.

Wilson Clarke of Gilbertville spent the last of the week at his home on Palmer street.

Raymond Warriner of Springfield spent Thanksgiving day at his home on Maple street.

James Cassells of West Springfield spent Sunday with his family on Belchertown street.

Moses Smith of West Springfield spent the last of the week with his family on Palmer street.

Charles Tracy of Springfield was the week-end guest of his mother at her home on Bourne street.

William and John Riddle of Ware spent Sunday at the home of John Riddle on Palmer street.

Irving Allen of Worcester spent Thursday at the home of his father, J. E. Allen on Maple street.

Mrs. Joseph Noonan of Springfield was the guest of her mother on Belchertown street the first of the week.

Miss Martha A. Buzzell of Springfield spent the week-end with Miss Anna Murdock on East Main street.

Rev. C. B. MacDuffee of the Union church preached at the Silver street chapel Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Matthew Horgan of Holyoke spent the last of the week with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Horgan on Main street.

Miss Webb of Springfield was the guest Thursday at the home of her sister, Mrs. A. W. Warriner on Maple street.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Foley of Palmer spent Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Hartnett at the Quaboag Hotel.

Misses Ora Henrichon and Elizabeth Murphy of Ware were the guests of Mrs. M. Murphy on Main street over Sunday.

Several of the young people of the Union church Sunday school are rehearsing for a missionary concert which is to be given in the near future.

Mr. and Mrs. Chamberlain of Woodstock, Ct., and daughter, Miss Pearl, of Northfield Seminary spent Thursday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. K. Chamberlain.

Wenimesset Tribe of Red Men held a reception Tuesday evening for those who assisted at their fair in October. Dancing was in order and a good time was reported by all.

Wenimesset Tribe, I. O. R. M., of this place attended a meeting of the Ossemaquin Tribe of Springfield one evening recently and presented to them the travelling tomahawk. Members of several other tribes were present and among the speakers of the evening was Sachem P. C. Daley of Wenimesset Tribe.

A union Thanksgiving service was held in the Union church Sunday morning at 10 o'clock. Members of the Methodist church in Bondsville, also the Congregational church in Thorndike were in attendance. Rev. Mr Gorst of Thorndike preached the Thanksgiving sermon. Prayer meeting was held in the vestry at 7.30 o'clock.

BONDSVILLE.

Will Have Christmas Tree.

A business meeting of the Sunday school was held directly after the Sunday school session Sunday. It was voted to have a Christmas tree and an entertainment Saturday evening, December 23, at 6.30 o'clock. The following committees were chosen: Christmas tree, Rev. W. H. Upham: entertainment, Mrs. W. H. Upham, Mrs. Fred Collis, Mrs. C. H. Banister, Miss Gladys Morse; committee for presents, Mrs. Samuel Stewart, Mrs. Emerson Loy, Mrs. W. H. Morse.

Great Aim of Bondsville Hunter.

Joseph Parduci, the fruit merchant of Bondsville, while out hunting the past week had the unusual luck of shooting his valuable hunting dog, "Lizzie." He said he was going through some heavy underbrush when he got his eye on a rabbit, and just as he fired the dog came within the range of the gun. The dog had one rib broken, but after a few weeks' rest will be about the same as usual.

Miss Mary Heys spent Saturday with friends in Chicopee.

Mrs. John Heys went Monday to the hospital in Boston for treatment.

Mrs. Warren Fisherdick of Amherst called on relatives and friends Monday.

Miss Ora Parent is spending a few days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. A. Parent.

Mrs. John Boyle of New York is spending the week with her sister, Mrs. James Fitzgerald.

J. J. Conway and E. J. Loy attended the Harvard--Yale football game in Boston Saturday.

The schools closed Wednesday night for the Thanksgiving recess. They will re-open Monday.

Miss Alice Banister spent Thanksgiving day with H. D. Geer and family in South Belchertown.

Mrs. Daniel Kelleher of Springfield visited Sunday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Griffin.

John Costello, who is being treated for blood poisoning in a hospital in Springfield, is improving.

Gordon Parent of Ludlow is spending the week with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. O. A. Parent.

Miss Geneva Billings will spend the last of the week with relatives in Chicopee Falls and Westfield.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Randall entertained their mother, Mrs. Theodore Randall of Springfield recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene White of Springfield were week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Collis.

Miss Mary Manning of Springfield spent a few days this week with her grandmother, Mrs. Julia Quirk.

Mr. and Mrs. Olin Parent and family were entertained Thanksgiving Day at Mr. and Mrs. George Moulton's.

Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Albro and children spent Thanksgiving with Mr. and Mrs. T. D. Potter in Springfield.

William Davis, who has been ill with rheumatism for several weeks, is able to take up his work once more.

William Albro of Springfield Tech School came last night to spend the week-end vacation with his parents.

Mrs. Archie Sterling and son returned Monday from several weeks spent with relatives in West Warren.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Glaccum of Brooklyn, N. Y., were guests over Thanksgiving of Mrs. Patrick Fenton.

Mrs. Samuel Beauregard and daughter were guests Sunday of her parents, Mr. and Richard Thomas in Three Rivers.

John O'Neill, who accepted a position in Farmingville a few weeks ago, moved his household goods from here Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Collis and their guests, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene White, spent Sunday in Belchertown with relatives.

Miss Margaret Callahan has returned from the hospital in Springfield and is recovering rapidly from her recent operation.

Mrs. Ceilan Polly of Pittsfield was a recent guest of her cousins, Mrs. Julia McKendrick and Miss Nettie McKendrick.

Miss Kathleen Quirk of Westfield Normal School spent the Thanksgiving vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Quirk.

Mr. and Mrs. V. C. Faunce entertained over Thanksgiving Mr. and Mrs. Faunce and two daughters of Fall River, and their mother.

Miss Agnes Carmody of the normal school in Westfield will spend the week-end with her mother, Mrs. Bridget Carmody, at her home here.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Banister and son Leslie spent Thanksgiving Day with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Banister, in West Brookfield.

George Moulton Jr. of the Massachusetts College of Chemistry, Boston, spent the week-end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Moulton.

The Boston Duck Co. is building an iron fence back of the mill. This fence, which is nine feet high, will be a great protection to their mill property.

A hearing will be held by the selectmen on December 14 on the petition of the telephone company for the privilege of erecting two poles on Depot street.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Morse and daughter Gladys went Wednesday to Enfield to spend the Thanksgiving vacation with Mr. and Mrs. L. P. Webber.

Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Holden entertained Thanksgiving Mr. and Mrs. George Bray of Stafford and Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Rodman of Stafford Springs, Ct.

Mr. and Mrs. O. A. Parent and daughter, Miss Ora, spent Thanksgiving Day with a family gathering at Mr. and Mrs. Charles Walker's in Springfield.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew C. Cordner of Longmeadow were guests this week of Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Bond. Mr. Cordner has just returned from an extended Western trip.

The Ladies' Aid Society will meet next Wednesday with Mrs. Charles Collis. These ladies will serve; Mrs. V. C. Faunce, Mrs. C. D. Holden, Mrs. E. J. Loy, Mrs. Adalard Marsan, Mrs. W. H. McVickar.

William Magee of the school of accountancy and finance in Boston spent the Thanksgiving recess with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Christopher Magee, who also entertained their son, Christopher Jr. of Springfield.

The mission for the men at St. Bartholomew's church, which has been held during the week, will end Sunday. Both this week and last services have been faithfully attended and very much enjoyed by the attendants. Rev. Father Moore is a very eloquent and impressive speaker.

PROSPERITY OF THE NAVAJOS

They Have Ample Pasturage and Make Money by Their Silver Work.

The Navajos are today by long adds the most prosperous Indians in America. Their vast reserve offers ample pastureage for their sheep and ponies, and though their flocks are a scrub lot, yielding little more than fifty to seventy cents a head in wool on the average, still it costs nothing to keep sheep and goats. Both furnish a supply of meat. The hides fetch ready money. So do the wool and the blankets. And the Navajos are the finest silversmiths in America. Formerly, they obtained their supply of raw bullion from the Spaniards, but today they melt and hammer down United States currency into butterfly brooches and snake bracelets and leather belts with the 50-cent coins changed into flower blossoms with a turquoise center. Ten-cent pieces and quarters are transformed into necklaces of silver beads or buttons for shirt and moccasins. If you buy these things in the big western cities they are as costly as Chinese or Hindu silver, but on the reserve there is a very simple way of computing the value. First take the value of the coin from which the silver ornament is made. Add a dollar for the silversmith's labor, and also add whatever the value of the turquoise happens to be and you have the price for which true Navajo silverwork can be bought out on the reserve.—Travel Magazine.

Fully Covered.

"I want to get insured
"Yes—fire or life?"
"Both—I've got a wooden leg."

The quicker a cold is gotten rid of the less the danger from pneumonia and other serious diseases. Mr. B.W. L. Hall of Waverly, Va., says: "I firmly believe Chamberlain's Cough Remedy to be absolutely the best preparation on the market for colds. I have recommended it to my friends and they all agree with me." For sale by all dealers.

A Consignment of Wine

By J. B. PAGE

Copyright by American Press Association, 1911.

I was born in Madrid, Spain, and my father was a wine merchant there. Having more fancy for an out of door life than a counting room, I persuaded him to give me a position in his business of buyer. I traveled through the grape growing districts and bought wine at the vineyards.

One day I was traveling on horseback over the southern slope of the mountains when I heard a voice:

"Halt!"

The first idea that came into my head was that I was stopped by a brigand, and I was right.

"I must trouble you, senor, to clasp your hands on the top of your head."

A brigand jumped over a wall and, holding a gun in the hollow of his arm, came toward me. He wore the costume of the country, which is picturesque, and had a devil may care way with him. He asked me to hand him a weapon I carried at my hip, keeping me covered meanwhile and his eye fixed on mine, that he might detect in time any indication of a purpose to use it. As soon as he had possession of it he told me to proceed, conducting me to a camp where a dozen men were lounging.

From papers on my person the brigands discovered that I was the son of a rich wine merchant in Madrid and resolved to demand a large ransom for my return. The man who captured me went out in search of some one to carry the message to my father and returned with a peasant girl about twenty years of age. I wrote a note to my father, giving an account of my capture, informing him of the amount that must be paid for my release. If it were not sent by the girl I would be killed. I requested that she be well paid for carrying the message. Before she departed I heard the captain of the band tell her that if she in any way aided in an attempt to rescue me or in an attack on the band she and all her family would be killed.

I knew nothing that was passing in her mind and supposed that she would not dare to give any information that would jeopardize the brigands. I knew my father would pay the ransom, though the amount was so large that it might ruin him financially. But I was very much deceived by the girl. The day after her departure, at 2 o'clock in the morning, the only sentinel of the camp was stabbed in the back and every sleeping brigand jumped upon by a soldier and pinioned before he could use a weapon. The band had long been the terror of that region, and the girl had resolved to risk the sacrifice of herself and her family to rid the country of them. She knew every foot of ground about their camp and had guided the soldiers, enabling them to surprise the brigands. They were taken to the capital, tried and every one of them executed.

This was just before one of those revolutions by which my country has been so often disturbed. The uprising was unsuccessful, and the government determined to strike such terror into the revolutionists that they would not repeat the attempt. One morning a girl came to see me whom I at once recognized as Pepita, who had been instrumental in destroying the brigands.

The girl told me that her betrothed, Jose Sanchez, had been implicated in the revolution and had been taken in arms against the government. He had been in prison in Madrid and she had by a ruse effected his escape. But she was unable to get him out of the capital. Every exit was closely guarded, and as Sanchez had been one of the ringleaders in the rebellion the government was making every effort to recapture him. Pepita begged me to aid him to leave the city.

"Where is he now?" I asked.

"Hiding in a sewer."

"Can you bring him to our storehouse tonight?"

"I can try."

That night I went to the storehouse, and Sanchez, disguised in Pepita's frock and headgear, which partly covered his face, came in. I had everything arranged. The vehicle by which I proposed to take him past the guards was a wine cask. I had one prepared for him and in the morning put him into it with sufficient provisions to guard against hunger. A team was driven up to the storehouse and loaded with a number of casks of port wine. One of the casks contained the living body of Jose Sanchez. I rolled it on to the wagon myself, that its contents should not be injured. Then I got up beside the driver, and we started to carry the wine out of the city.

On arriving at the post, where all persons going out were critically examined, the officer scrutinized me and the driver critically. He even thumped on the casks that he might judge by the sound whether they contained liquid or solid substances. But I had prepared for this. "Give me a cup," I said, "and I will convince you that there is wine inside the casks, and the very best." This pleased him, and he produced a cup. I took a spigot from my pocket and, drawing wine, gave it to him. I filled him full and all the guard besides. He had sounded most of the casks, but the libation stopped him, and after drawing a few gallons to leave behind we were permitted to go on.

I shipped the casks to France, going with them all the way, and liberated the prisoner on the other side of the border.

Sweet is revenge, especially to women.

S. H. Wright
64 Pleasant Street,
Lock and Gunsmith.
Light Repairing of every Description.
Locks, Keys, Guns, Pistols, Shears, Lawn Mowers, Skates, Sewing Machines, Saw Filing, Clocks, Pattern Making, Etc.

For Sale.
My residence on North Main street. 20 rooms and ground level basement—more room than I need. Steam heat, electric lights, bath. Can easily be made into two tenements.
Louis E. Chandler.

1848 BRIGHAM'S 1911
All Goods Delivered Free in Palmer.

Unprecedented
SUIT SALE
Special Purchase of
150 Brand New Suits
At Lowest Prices of the Season.

Here is one of the most important announcements ever made from the Suit Department.

We have just bought from one of our leading New York houses 150 high-grade tailored suits, made up to our exact specifications — regular Brigham suits, in every last detail.

To use up the balance of his stock of materials this manufacturer was willing to make these suits at less than cost and we therefore own them at prices way below regular values.

These suits we have had made in the very latest and best selling models of the season and they include all the most popular fabrics --- the stylish rough materials in plain colors and mixtures, as well as the fine broadcloths, serges and cheviots. All suits are made and finished in the very best manner, with guaranteed satin lining and interlining.

With these beautiful new suits we shall include about 100 additional suits chosen from our own stock, all marked at corresponding reductions, making a magnificent assortment to select from.

Four Bargain Lots.

These 250 suits we have grouped in these four bargain lots:

At $15—Regular $22.50 and $25 Values
At $20—Regular $27.50 and $30 Values
At $25— the biggest lot of all---Regular $35 and $40 Values.
At $30—Regular $42.50 and $45 Values

D. H. Brigham & Co.,
Springfield, Mass.

"Fair and Square Credit."

This Talk Concerns the Men As Well as the Women.

If You Want a Winter Coat And Haven't the Ready Money

Here Is a Proposition:

(This talk, by the way, is for the kind of men and women who KNOW what a right price is, and who simply want credit exactly as it is given in so many "cash" stores to people whom they know have money.)

Our proposition is this—We will give credit to any man or woman who will treat us squarely (who is honest), and we will not charge one penny more than is charged for goods of equal merit at any cash store in this city. This is a broad statement, we are perfectly well aware of that, but, nevertheless, it is a fact. Our prices are NO HIGHER. You can prove it for yourself by doing a little shopping, and we shall be more than glad to show you the goods.

We Have a Splendid Stock

This year's Coats, for Men and Women, are the handsomest garments seen in years, and no finer models are shown, and none better made, than we show here. Every thing in cloth, from the snappy rough Tweeds to the dressiest cloths made. Everything in designs from the great, loose, handsome belted coats to the elegant, close-fitting formal coats for formal occasions. And our Suits are just as varied in range of style.

A fine double store, carrying men's and women's clothing, hats and shoes; one of the oldest and soundest concerns in the city.

Benjamin Goldstein, Inc.
17-19 Elm St. Court Square Theater Building
Springfield, Mass.

"We'll Trust Anybody Who Is Honest."

Monson News.

Holiday Visitors.

Among those who spent the holiday in town were the following: Miss Mildred Cushman of the Boston school of science with her mother, Mrs. George Cushman of High street; Earl Hale of Boston with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Hale of Harrison avenue; Miss Mary Robbins of Boston with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. Robbin on South Main street; Mortimer Duggan of Mystic, Ct., with his father, Nicholas Duggan of Main street; Lieut. Ralph C. Needham of the U. S. navy and Harry Needham of Baltimore, Md., with Mr. and Mrs. William Needham of Fountain street; Miss Lulu Vaille of Plymouth with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Vaille on East Hill; William Hanson of Holyoke with his mother on Hampden avenue; Frances Burt of Amherst at the home of E. E. Thompson on Green street; Dr. J. M. Murphy of Brockton with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John F. Murphy of Park avenue; Mrs. Fritz W. Baldwin of Brookline with Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Ellis; Joseph Kerrigan of Boston university, John Leahy of Tufts and Robert Fay of Mass. Agricultural college.

Celebrate Fortieth Wedding Anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilson M. Tucker of Granite street celebrated their 40th wedding anniversary in a quiet manner at their home yesterday; only immediate relatives were present. Several letters and telegrams of congratulation and a shower of post cards were received. Many presents were received in honor of the occasion. Mr. and Mrs. Tucker were married in Longmeadow by Rev. J. W. Hardy, Mrs. Tucker was formerly Celia Burt. Mr. and Mrs. Tucker have always resided in Monson. Mr. Tucker has conducted a profitable agricultural and dairy business. He is a trustee of Monson Academy and a member of the Eastern Hampden Agricultural society. Of the four children born to them, three are living, George of Caldwell, Idaho, Mrs. J. M. Fitzgerald of Albany, N. Y., and Miss Marion at home; there are also three grandchildren.

Death of Mrs. Emma Harris.

Mrs. Emma Harris, 63, died at her home on Main street last Saturday morning of pneumonia after an illness of but three days. Mrs. Harris was born in Monson in what is known as the Butler district on April 14, 1848, and had spent nearly all her life in this town, living for a short time in Wales, where in 1872 she was married to the late Silas N. Harris, of that town. She is survived by three children, Mrs. F. J. Flynt, Mrs. W. O. McEwen and Elmer S. Harris, all of this town; also a brother and two sisters, William King of Palmer and Mrs. Zina Harris and Mrs. Mary Trumble, both of Monson. She was a member of the Woman's Relief Corps. The funeral was held from her late home Tuesday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock, Rev. Abram Conklin officiating. Burial was in No. 1 cemetery.

Silver Wedding Anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar R. Sisson of South Main street celebrated their silver wedding anniversary at their home yesterday. Several relatives and friends were present, the event being a pleasing and enjoyable one. An old-fashioned turkey dinner was served, the diningroom being very prettily decorated for the occasion. A number of guests were received during the afternoon and in the evening a lunch was served. Mr. and Mrs. F. O. Bardwell catered. Mr. and Mrs. Sisson were married in North Adams by Rev. Alfred Hammett. Mrs. Sisson was formerly Miss Jennie Blanchard of this town. Mr. Sisson is a very popular man of the town, having served on the board of selectmen and has held various other town offices.

Btewart—Anderson.

Miss Trychie Stewart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Hartley of Wilbraham road, and John Anderson of this town were quietly married at the home of the bride yesterday morning. The ceremony was performed by Rev. G. A. Andrews, pastor of the Congregational church. Only immediate relatives attended. The couple were unattended. The bride wore a traveling suit of blue serge and a picture hat. A reception followed the ceremony. After a short wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Anderson will reside with the bride's parents on the Fair View farm.

E. J. Lyons has returned from a business trip to Boston.

Martin Dugan of Stafford Springs is visiting Monson friends.

Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Potter spent Sunday with friends in Springfield.

Mrs. Sarah Oldham and daughter Alice are visiting relatives in Worcester.

Henry G. Rogers of Lincoln street has returned from a visit in Hampden.

The King's Daughters meet this evening at 7.45 with Mrs. D. B. Needham.

Harrison Howe has left for Tampa, and will spend the winter in St. Petersburg, Fla.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Bliss of Pease avenue have returned from a visit in Springfield.

George Leonard has returned to Boston after visiting his family on South Main street.

F. Nutting of Springfield was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Orcutt over Sunday.

Miss Gladys Lull of Lincoln street is home from the Boston Conservatory for the Thanksgiving vacation.

Dr. Oscar L. Tompson and family have returned to their home in Boston after visiting relatives in town.

Thomas L. Locke of Vancouver, B. C., is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Locke of South Monson.

Dr. and Mrs. Andrew Coleman spent Thanksgiving with Mrs. Coleman's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Gavin.

Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Grady of Pittsfield and Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Heffernan of Worcester were in town over the holiday.

Miss Elsie Alden, who has been visiting at her home in Belchertown, has returned to her work at the Squier Lumber Co.

Joseph Perrin has returned to work for the Crescent Worsted Company after a long rest owing to his having lost a finger at a fire.

William Linnehan of Hartford and Miss Helen Fox of West Brookfield spent Thanksgiving with Mrs. T. M. Lynch of Park avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Aldrich have returned from their wedding trip and are with Mrs. Aldrich's parents, Mr. and Mrs. David Broadfoot.

A business meeting of the trustees of the Methodist church will be held this evening at the parsonage. The meeting will be followed by a social hour.

Grade seven of the State street school is the happy possessor of a new piano. It was purchased from the profits of the annual school entertainments.

Mrs. J. L. Sweiger, who has been visiting in Columbus, Ohio, has returned to Monson and is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Park on Washington street.

A party consisting of Miss Mary Murphy, Miss Sadie Lyons, Miss Julia Moran, Miss Grace Locke, L. F. Moran and Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Colleton spent Sunday with friends in Springfield.

The annual union Thanksgiving service was held Sunday evening at the Congregational church at 5 o'clock. Rev. F. W. McConnell of the Methodist Episcopal church occupied the pulpit.

The funeral of Louis Packard, who died at his home on Tobey avenue last Thursday night, was held Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock, Rev. G. A. Andrews officiating. Burial was in No. 1 cemetery.

Bert Anderson, who recently bought G. L. Keeney's drug store on Main street, has moved his household goods from Springfield to the E. E. Thompson house on Lincoln street, where he will make his home.

The Ladies' Benevolent Society of the Methodist church will hold a social in the church vestry next Tuesday. The young people of the parish are rehearsing an entertainment to be presented at that time.

Day Spring lodge of Masons has elected the following officers for the ensuing year: W. M., N. P. Dempsey; S. W., E. R. Sisson; J. W., A. H. Orcutt; treasurer, R. F. Bradway; secretary, N. A. Bugbee.

The Green street school held a concert hour in Miss Collis' room Tuesday morning. It proved to be so enjoyable and profitable that Miss Cantwell has decided to hold similar concerts in each building once a month.

The Dorcas Society will hold a sale of calendars, blotters and Christmas cards on Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Rufus P. Cushman on Main street. Tea will be served in colonial style during the afternoon.

The work on the new gothic tower on St. Patrick's church, which has been under construction since the middle of July, is nearly completed. The buttress and the four pinnacles which rise to a height of 88 feet from the ground have been finished.

The town basketball team started the season with a rush, when they were easy victors over the Springfield Independents in Memorial Hall last night, winning by the score of 55 to 26. Clancy, a new man, was a star performer. Durkin played his usual good game.

The Men's Club of the Congregational church have elected the following officers: President, Rev. G. A. Andrews; vice president, H. F. Dewey; secretary, Wilson Brainard; treasurer, F. C. Flynt; executive committee, F. E. Severy, F. S. Homer and C. C. Keep.

The funeral of Mrs. Margaret A. Maguire, wife of John C. Maguire, who died at her home on High street last Friday morning, was held from her late home Monday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock. Rev. G. A. Andrews, pastor of the Congregational church, officiated. Burial was in No 1 cemetery.

The Ladies' Benevolent Society of the M. E. church will serve a hash supper next Tuesday evening from 6 to 8, followed by an entertainment consisting of a play entitled, "A double deception," under the direction of Mrs. F. W. McConnell, with the following to take part: Mrs. Guy Pelton, Helen M. Needham, Gladys Moore, William Moffett and Guy Pelton.

Many Children Are Sickly.

Mother Gray's Sweet Powders for children break up Colds in 24 hours, relieve Feverishness, Headache, Stomach Troubles, Teething Disorders, and Destroy Worms. At all druggists, 25c. Sample mailed FREE. Address, Allen S. Olmstead, LeRoy, N. Y.

ROYAL
Baking Powder

Absolutely Pure

Makes Home Baking Easy

With minimum trouble and cost biscuit, cake and pastry are made fresh, clean and greatly superior to the ready-made, dry, found-in-the-shop variety, and danger of alum food is avoided.

NEW USE FOR THE SCHOOLS

Plan Is Put Forward to Utilize Some of the Sixty Per Cent. Waste Time.

The American school plant is valued at more than $1,000,000,000, and as used for school purposes alone utilizes but thirty-nine per cent. of the time which could be given to the needs of the community. This, according to the National Magazine, represents a total loss of school plants to the country of more than $30,000,000 every year.

An active movement is now taking place to turn school property during the summer months into children's playgrounds and places of amusement and to make them the center of recreation, of political and social life, the same as in country places, where they serve many purposes, oftentimes even for church services.

Evening schools, free lectures, indoor sports, folk dances, civic and educational meetings and gymnastic exercises are among the things mentioned for which school plants should be utilized. It is proposed by some to have the schoolhouses opened every day of the week, Sundays included, so that the community may get the greatest possible benefit from them.

If this movement grows pupils will no longer find after vacation a musty smelling deserted building, but rather one which has been in use every day in the year by those who love to give the public every possible advantage of the buildings provided for public purposes.

WELSH HOME LIFE UNIFORM

There Is No Upper Middle Class and and Shop Keepers Are Usually the Leaders.

The student of Welsh life and character who encounters almost any village in North Wales will be able to acquire a full knowledge of his subject without traveling a mile further. For Welsh life has a certain quality of uniformity which is not found in the other constituent peoples of the empire.

Practically there is no upper middle class in Wales. A few rich middle-class Welsh families there are, but these, even if they keep up a Welsh home, usually draw their wealth and spend it beyond the Welsh border. If, however, the visitor wishes to know who controls public opinion, who sits on the district and county councils, or even who represents the division in the house of commons, he had much better regard the names painted over the shop fronts than try to discover the identity of the occupants of the lavish red brick villa which looks down into the village from its place on the hillside. The owner of the villa, as likely as not, will be found to be an Englishman—a retired Manchester contton spinner or a shipowner from Liverpool.

"I had been troubled with constipation for two years and tried all of the best physicians in Bristol, Tenn., and they could do nothing for me," writes Thos. E. Williams, Middleboro, Ky. "Two packages of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets cured me." For sale by all dealers.

"THE LINEN STORE"

Frank K. Confield, Prop.

FANCY LINENS,
TOWELS AND
HANDKERCHIEFS
FOR
CHRISTMAS LINENS,

Our stocks are displayed so that you can inspect the various articles at your leisure and make careful selections.

"THE LINEN STORE"
121 State St. 121 State St.

LIVES AND WRITINGS UNLIKE

Men of Letters Often Have Described Best That Which They Never Have Experienced.

Finally, a man of genius, when he writes a book, and "all the good comes rushing into his soul," is in an abnormal state, and hence, the lives of men of letters have often been in glaring contrast to their writings. Montaigne tells us that he always observed super-celestial opinions to be accompanied with subterranean morals; on the other hand, the most latitudinarian professors of epicureanism have often lived like anchorites or trappists. Some of the best sea songs have been written by men who never snuffed a salt water breeze; stirring war songs have been written by timid men and women who would have shrieked at the sight of a mouse; and hymns steeped in the very spirit of devotion have been written by men of doubtful morality, who were never less at home than in a Christian church. Charles Lamb was ready to wager that Milton's morning hymn in Paradise was penned at midnight; and we know positively that Thompson, who sang the praises of early rising in the "Seasons," used to lie abed till noon. Sir Richard Steele could discourse eloquently on temperance—when he was not drunk; Woodworth, in his "Old Oaken Bucket," sang the praise of cold water under the inspiration of brandy. Doctor Johnson, who wrote so well on politeness, interrupted his opponents with "You lie, sir!" "You are a vile Whig, sir!" Burns was a compound of "dirt and deity;" Rousseau, who was always filling people's eyes with tears, betrayed and slandered his benefactors in turn, and sent his children to the foundlings hospital. When Moore proposed to Scott to go and see Melrose Abbey, as Sir Walter had described it, by moonlight, "Pooh, pooh," said Scott, "you don't suppose I ever saw it by moonlight!"—William Matthews.

Those Undesired Wrinkles.

An habitual expression of inquiry is to blame for permanent lines across the forehead. Then there is another muscle whose office is to draw down the eyebrows. It does its piece of work—and what we speak of is a frown. The permanency of this expression is not in keeping with a happy nature, and is one of the least desired lines.

Every family has need of a good, reliable liniment. For sprains, bruises, soreness of the musles and rheumatic pains there is none better than Chamberlain's. Sold by all dealers.

WHEN HER BACK ACHES

A Woman Finds All Her Energy and Ambition Slipping Away.

Palmer women know how the aches and pains that come when the kidneys fail make life a burden. Backache, hip pains, headaches, dizzy spells, distressing urinary troubles, all tell of sick kidneys and warn you of the stealthy approach of dropsy or Bright's disease. Doan's Kidney Pills are for the kidneys only. They attack kidney diseases by striking at the cause. Here's proof of it in a Palmer woman's words:

Mrs. A. Sherman, 24 Park St., Palmer, Mass., says: "All I said in praise of Doan's Kidney Pills when I publicly recommended them in August, 1908, still holds good. It would be hard to fully describe the misery I endured from kidney complaint. I was rarely free from a dull bearing-down pain in my back and I was subject to chills and dizzy spells. My head ached, my appetite was poor and I had a feeling of languor. When I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised, I obtained a box at Lynde & Gould's Drug Store and they helped me from the first. As I continued taking them I steadily grew better until my trouble was a thing of the past."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name — DOAN'S — and take no other.

An Epileptic Patient Missing.

On October 6, Joseph Lupien disappeared from the Palmer Fair Grounds, and since has not been heard from. He is of French origin, complexion dark, aged 23 years, height 5 ft. 5 in., stooping posture, eyes blue, nose crooked to one side of face. It is probable that he has obtained work on some farm. Any information as to his whereabouts direct to MONSON STATE HOSPITAL, Palmer, Mass

Two Educations.

We all have two educations, one from others, and another, and the most valuable, which we give ourselves. It is the last which fixes our grade in society and eventually our actual conditions in this life, and the color of our fate hereafter. All the professors and teachers in the world cannot make you a wise or good man without your own co-operation; and if such you are determined to be, the want of them will not prevail.—John Randolph.

Eye Strain.

Of all the misfortunes that could befall a human being, the loss of sight is probably the greatest, and yet no organ of the body is so constantly abused as the eye. The trouble is that the possessor of the normal eye does not take into consideration that in all near work, as in reading, writing, sewing, etc., the eye is actively engaged as well as the hands and brain, and that the eye only is at rest when looking into space or when closed.

Clean-up Sale of Monuments

Don't miss this chance of getting one of them. Manufactured from the best granite in the world and guaranteed to be satisfactory.

The lettering and placing on your lot will be executed in the same careful manner which has won commendation from past customers. The prices will be sure to suit you; they cannot be duplicated.

Palmer Granite and Marble Works

W. H. MacLean, Prop.

10 Converse St., rear of High School.

New Line of

Sweaters
Auto Hoods
Scarfs
Aviation Caps
Mufflers
Window Shades

The Famous
Interwoven Hosiery

Hellyar's Bargain Store

Converse House Block, Palmer, Mass.

HAYNES & CO.

Always Reliable

Springfield Massachusetts

It's Time Well Spent

Coming to the Haynes Store for your Suit and Overcoat and, in fact, all the other wearables you need.

Not only will you find values here that are not to be found in your own town, but there are thousands of both Suits and Overcoats to choose from and a satisfactory selection is assured.

The choicest products of the country's best clothes makers—clothes that it will please you to wear and ones that will give you the satisfactory wear you like to receive.

Suits and Overcoats at $12, $15, $16.50, $18, $20, $22, $25 and $30.

We prepay express on mail orders.

Thanksgiving

"For the sunshine and the rain,
For the dew and for the shower,
For the yellow, ripened grain,
And the golden harvest hour,
We bless Thee, oh, our God!

"For the heat and the shade,
For the gladness and the grief,
For the tender, sprouting blade,
And for the nodding sheaf,
We bless Thee, oh, our God!

"For the hope and for the fear,
For the storm and for the peace,
For the trembling and the cheer,
And for the glad increase,
We bless Thee, oh, our God!

"Our hands have tilled the sod,
And the torpid seed have sown;
But the quickening was of God,
And the praise be His alone.
We bless Thee, oh, our God!"

Winnie's Thanksgiving

By Donald Allen

IF I was a girl, I wouldn't go walking too far," said old Uncle Robert, as a girl of twenty passed him on her way down to the gate of the farm house.

"And why not?" she asked, as she almost came to a pause.

"Well, according to my idea, it's going to rain and snow and blow and hail, and when the storm does break, she's going to be a buster."

"I wanted to go to the postoffice to mail a letter."

"It's three miles there and back, and if I was you I'd put it off. Mebbe somebody'll be passing that you can send by. Tomorror's Thanksgiving, you know, and we are going to have the awfulest, biggest, nicest dinner anybody ever sat down to. It's in your honor, you know. There'll be a turkey, a duck and a chicken; there'll be cranberry sass, pumpkin pies, currant jell, sweet cider and apple dumplins; there'll be—"

"I think I'll just walk a little ways, anyhow," said the girl, as she opened the gate and passed down the highway toward the village and the railroad depot.

"And if you come home as wet as a hen don't say I didn't warn ye. It's going to come, and it's going to be a buster."

Half an hour later a middle-aged woman with a motherly face and voice came out on the steps and asked:

"Pa, do you reckon it's goin' to storm?"

"Sure as ducks."

"Where's Minnie?"

"O, she's gone for a santer. I give her warning. What's she wantin' to mail a letter for? I hain't mailed a letter nor got one in twenty years, and I guess I'm about as well off as must folks. I was going to ask her but forgot it."

"Don't you ask her a word about it," cautioned the wife as she came down to him. "I guess Minnie's got something on her mind, but it hain't none o' your business."

"Something on her mind, eh? That's funny. Didn't know that girls ever had anything on their minds except new clothes. Is that why she come visiting us all of a sudden?"

"None o' your business! I guess my own sister's daughter can come and see me any time she takes a notion, and that without writing ahead. What's on her mind, as nigh as I can make out, is about a young man. They are engaged, and they've had a falling out, and she's sorter run away from him to find out if he really cares for her."

"And she's got scared about it and has written him a letter to tell where she is?" queried the husband.

"Go on! It's probably a letter to her ma, though I didn't see it nor ask. I hope she didn't start for town. It's going to storm for sure, and there hain't but one house on the road where she could find shelter. Look down the road and see if you can see her."

"Can't see hide nor hair of any girl," reported Uncle Robert after going out to the highway and taking a long look.

An hour later, with both uncle and aunt fidgeting about their girl visitor, the gray afternoon had become twilight. In 15 minutes there was cold rain and lively hail, and Uncle Robert was blown into the kitchen.

Miss Minnie had reached town and mailed her letter and started back again when the storm broke. Before it came she thought she could make out a human figure on the road ahead of her, but wasn't sure.

The very first gust picked her up and turned her around and deposited her under a roadside tree. She remained there until the gale began to whip the branches off, and then let go her hold and ran for it.

She hadn't gone a quarter of a mile when, as she crouched and covered her face, she was struck by a falling limb and knew no more.

It was the dim sight of the girl and the scream she uttered when hit, that sent the man who was clinging to the roadside fence back into the highway. He bent over the unconscious form and picked it up and staggered back to the fence and followed it until he saw a light and found the gate of a farmhouse.

His lusty calls for help soon brought out a man, and the senseless burden was carried into the house and received by a woman.

"I don't know who she is, but I found her in the road," explained her rescuer. "There is blood on her hair, and I think she was struck down."

"We'll do all we can," replied the man and woman together, "but you mustn't look for much. We are mighty poor folks. We hain't got no camphor nor whisky, and as for getting a doctor out from town—it can't be done tonight."

The girl was carried into the only bedroom and laid on the only bed, and when her wet clothing had been removed and she was between the sheets, the woman got a cloth and a basin of water and washed away the blood and whispered to the stranger:

"I don't think she's bad hurt. She's just fainted away with the scare of it. When she opens her eyes I'll tell her to go to sleep, and she'll be all right in the morning."

"Do you think it's some young lady from the village?" asked the stranger of the farmer as they talked in whispers in the outer room.

"No, I don't reckon so. I reckon it's that new girl that arrived at Turner's a few days ago. I saw her going towards the village two hours ago."

"Arrived at Turner's! Say, man, are you sure? Is it a strange girl to the neighborhood?"

"I've heard say it was Uncle Bob's niece, and that she come from the city. What ails you, stranger? Does this storm upset you?"

It wasn't the storm. Percy Kincaid had quarreled with the girl he loved and had asked to be his wife. It was about nothing, almost, as most lovers' quarrels are, but pride on either side held off a reconciliation until the lover finally learned that Miss Minnie had gone on a journey and left no word for him.

She was going to spend Thanksgiving week in the country. Within two days she had relented; within three he was making every effort to locate her, that he might patch up a peace.

He had succeeded. He was going to throw himself on her mercy and ask Uncle Robert for a place at his Thanksgiving table.

The storm grew fiercer as the night advanced. When another day came even the cattle could not face the storm nor man move from his door. It was Thanksgiving day. At Uncle Robert's there was a feast to be spread;

"I don't believe they'd eat a single mouthful."

at Bradley's there was hardly better than poorhouse fare.

But the victim of the accident was no longer in bed, and the rescuer no longer cared about the weather, and the farmer folks looked at each other and smiled and whispered:

"Even if we had turkey and cranberry sauce I don't believe they'd eat a single mouthful. They've just sorter found each other and are tickled to death."

And when at last they could make their way to Turner's, and Uncle Bob stuttered and Aunt Harriet cried for joy, Miss Minnie asked in a way that was almost heartless:

"Why do you take on so? I never had such a lovely Thanksgiving in all my life!"

Honor Belongs to Pilgrim Fathers.

Long before the advent of the Pilgrims in Massachusetts all rituals contained expressions of gratitude to God for his mercies. In that of the Church of England special prayers were provided for the Sunday service This service, however, must be carefully distinguished from the Thanksgiving day of the Pilgrim fathers. Failure to make this distinction has led to the groundless claim that the Popham colonists were "the first to keep Thanksgiving day" in America. The service at Monhegan, on which this claim is based, was the regular Sunday service of the Church of England; and while it had an element of thanksgiving, the day can in nowise be regarded as a Thanksgiving day as that term is understood. Cotemporary evidence refutes all claim to the contrary.

Anomaly Frequently Noticed.

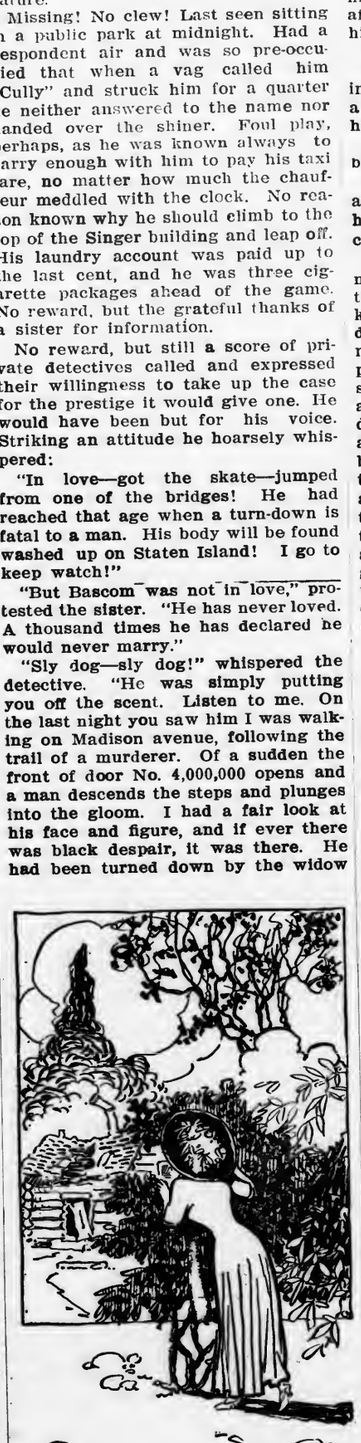
The worst men often give the best advice.—Bailey.

Playing the Hermit

By Lawrence Alfred Clay

Bascom Hayes was missing. His sister and her husband, with whom he lived, said he was—his club friends said the same thing—the public press announced that he had vanished off the face of the earth without leaving so much as a trail of dust behind.

And who was Bascom Hayes to be missing and have whistles blown and horns tooted and private detectives set on edge? Just an old bachelor with a comfortable income, complacent in his nature and lazy and unambitious by nature.



Missing! No clew! Last seen sitting in a public park at midnight. Had a despondent air and was so pre-occupied that when a vag called him "Cully" and struck him for a quarter he neither answered to the name nor handed over the shiner. Foul play, perhaps, as he was known always to carry enough with him to pay his taxi fare, no matter how much the chauffeur meddled with the clock. No reason known why he should climb to the top of the Singer building and leap off. His laundry account was paid up to the last cent, and he was three cigarette packages ahead of the game. No reward, but the grateful thanks of a sister for information.

No reward, but still a score of private detectives called and expressed their willingness to take up the case for the prestige it would give one. He would have been but for his voice. Striking an attitude he hoarsely whispered:

"In love—got the skate—jumped from one of the bridges! He had reached that age when a turn-down is fatal to a man. His body will be found washed up on Staten Island! I go to keep watch!"

"But Bascom was not in love," protested the sister. "He has never loved. A thousand times he has declared he would never marry."

"Sly dog—sly dog!" whispered the detective. "He was simply putting you off the scent. Listen to me. On the last night you saw him I was walking on Madison avenue, following the trail of a murderer. Of a sudden the front of door No. 4,000,000 opens and a man descends the steps and plunges into the gloom. I had a fair look at his face and figure, and if ever there was black despair, it was there. He had been turned down by the widow

The Widow Took a Long Look.

who lives there. That man was your brother. He had got it bad and could not survive the shock!"

"I can't believe it," replied the sister.

"Go to the house and interview the widow. Nice little lady, but she was toying with your brother's heart-strings. Go charge her with it and you will bring the guilty blush to her face."

The sister decided not to do any such thing. She saw several embarrassing objections to that line of conduct. Neither did she believe that her brother had committed suicide, but she was willing that the detective should patrol the beaches of Staten Island at his own expense.

"'Tis done!" he whispered. "I charge you nothing for finding the sad remains, but when I arrive here with them on a truck you can tender me a small sum in payment."

There was a little widow living at No. 4,000,000 on the avenue named and the detective in mousing around had seen a man leave the house at a late hour. He didn't know whether the man was the widow's grandfather, father, uncle or brother, but he called him Bascom Gray. The little widow also knew that Mr. Gray was missing. She heard of it orally, and she read in the papers. She also knew just why he was missing, but she wasn't chasing around to volunteer information. Widows know when to keep quiet. Besides, after several days had gone by she received a letter from a friend in the country containing news that relieved her mind considerably and brought a smile to her face and a plan to her mind.

"I wish you were here," wrote the correspondent. "We have a romantic mystery on hand. There's an old log house in the woods half a mile down the road. It has not been occupied for years, and is sadly out of repair, but behold! a hermit came a day or two ago to take up his quarters. No old rags! No venerable whiskers! Middle-aged and decently dressed, and they say he spends most of his time mooning and sighing. Lives mostly on turnips, I guess, and sleeps on a brush bed. Uncle Jim was over see him yesterday, but could not get much out of him. Seems to be some one who has been disappointed in love, and thinks the world has gone to smash. Hurry down and help us to solve the mystery by finding the guilty party who gave him the shake."

The widow smiled and nodded as she read the letter. She even said to herself: "Yes, that would be just like him." Then she went to packing so as to leave for the country sooner than she had planned for. She started, arrived, and was welcomed. She had scarcely hugged her friend when she was greeted with:

"The hermit is there yet. We heard him crooning a love song last night, after stealing onions and turnips for his supper."

"Some escaped lunatic, probably."

"Oh, no, he can't be. He's just breaking his heart over some woman. What a wicked wretch she must be to drive him out of the world in this way!"

"Y-e-s. And what a ninny he must be to have been driven."

"Now, then, hurry up and change and get lunch and we'll go over to the hut. Perhaps we can encourage and console him."

An hour later the widow announced that she was going to see the hermit. She might or might not know him, but she had an idea she did. There was considerable argument about her going alone, but she prevailed, and got directions and started off. It was an ideal place for a hermit. The woods and brush were dense, the old house almost roofless, and a more lonely spot could not have been found for ten miles around. From the shelter a brush the widow took a long look. Only a woodpecker was to be seen and heard, and he was certainly a dejected looking bird. After a time an advance was made to the gaping doorway, and the hermit of the wilderness was made out to be seated in a dark corner with his head on his knees.

"Bascom, come out!"

The figure never stirred.

"Come out, I say!"

"Who—what?"

"Come out and don't play the ninny."

"Is it you, Nina?" was asked in a mournful voice as a disheveled figure arose and came to the door.

"Of course it is. Come along!"

"It's too late!"

"Too late, nothing!"

And she took the hermit's hand and led him to a little glade and sat him down and seated herself beside him and said:

"All I said that night was that a man with your money and brains ought to do something to make yourself known to the world, and you became angry and took your departure."

"But you—you intimated—"

"Yes, but that's all passed. You have done something, and that's all I asked. You are in all the papers. You are the talk of the town. You are being searched for. Bascom, no woman wants to marry a nonentity. You are not one. You have made a fool of yourself and we'll be married as soon as you wish!"

A Bashful Couple.

Arthur had never kept company with a girl, nor had Maria ever "received attentions," but by some miracle they now found themselves together, riding on a lonesome country road

Conversation was at a standstill The old nag stumped along with his head hung low, and would not hurry Not a man or a house was in sight not a sound could be heard. The silence was intense and oppressive. Maria scanned the fringe of ragweed on her side of the road. Arthur peered hopefully into the hazel brush on his side.

A half-grown rabbit sprang from somewhere, and with a dozen leaps was gone.

"Do you like rabbit?" asked Maria, impulsively.

"Yes," replied the swain, quickly. And there he stopped. His mouth hung wide open, but not another word occurred to him.

He blushed. He remembered there was not a house nor a man in sight. He strained his eyes at the fringe of hazel brush. The silence intensified, and bore down like a palpable weight. Then Arthur drew in a sharp breath, pulled himself together resolutely, and glanced toward his friend.

"And my!" he said. "And my! Ain't the gravy good?"—Youth's Companion.

HOW MANY STARS IN FLAG?

Wide Guesses Made by Veterans Who Had Fought Under It—Do You Know?

At a recent state encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic a newspaper in the city where the meeting was held decided to find out the veterans' ideas as to the number of stars which should be in the United States flag at the present time. The results of the paper's endeavors were interesting. Thirty-one veterans were questioned and 12 different answers were received. The veterans' guesses ranged all the way from 30 to 50.

One soldier, whose answer was not counted as it was palpably wrong, said that there were 12 stars at the present time in our flag. This soldier had served in a large number of fights in his four years in the United States army in the Civil war and had been attending encampments regularly since they had been inaugurated. He seemed to make his guess in perfect good faith.

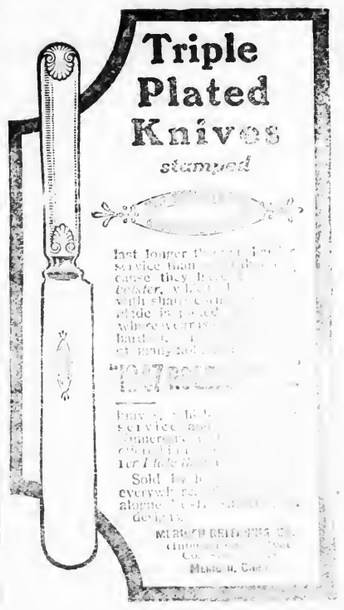
Many of the veterans said they remembered how many stars there were in the flag at the time of the memorable conflict, but they had somehow lost track since being mustered out. One old soldier said he knew there were 47 stars in the flag some time ago. 'But," he said, 'I don't know how many there are now since we've taken in Cuba."

Of the 12 different answers received, nine veterans said they thought there were 45 stars in the flag now. Among the men who favored this number was the retiring department commander of the G. A. R. The other answers went like this: Six were for 48 stars, three for 47, three for 46, two for 49, two for 42, one for 40, and one each for 30, 32, 50, 38 and 63.

Which of these numbers is correct? How many stars are there in our flag?

The Martinet.

"The martinet never succeeds. A typical martinet was the well-known one who, having ordered his men to change their shirts, and then having learned that they had no shirts to change, said in that event they must change shirts with each other. I heard yesterday of still another type of martinet."



The speaker was Col. Hugh Lenox Scott of West Point. He continued:

"This chap, a captain, strode up to one of his men and said with a fearful frown:

"'Who's the idiot that ordered you to leave that mess of empty meat cans right here in front of headquarters?'

"'It was the colonel, sir,' the man replied.

"'Very well, then,' said the captain sharply; 'let it stay there. And your leave's stopped for a week, my man, for calling your colonel an idiot.'"

Palmer Savings Bank,
Palmer, Mass.

Officers.
H. G. LOOMIS, President.
R. C. NEWELL, 1st Vice President.
W. E. STONE, 2d Vice President.
C. F. SMITH, 3d Vice President.
GEORGE A. RICE, Clerk.

Auditors.
W. E. Stone. E. B. Taylor.
C. A. Ledro.

Board of Investment.
H. G. Loomis. W. E. Stone. C. F. Smith.
H. E. W. Clark. E. E. Hobson

Trustees.
H. G. Loomis. W. E. Stone. J. O. Hamilton.
H. E. W. Clark. G. D. Mooers. L. J. Potter.
R. C. Newell. L. R. Holden. C. L. Wald.
Geo. S. Holden. C. E. Fuller. E. B. Taylor.
M. J. Dillon. C. F. Smith. C. A. Ledro.

Treasurer.
C. L. Wald.

Safe Deposit Boxes for rent.

Banking Hours: 9 a. m. to 3 p. m. Saturday, 9 a. m. to 12 m. Friday Evening, 7.30 to 9.

PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM
Cleanses and beautifies the hair. Promotes a luxuriant growth. Never Fails to Restore Gray Hair to its Youthful Color. Cures scalp diseases & hair falling. 50c. and $1.00 at Druggists

The Antalgica

Or Vegetable Pain Restorer

was introduced to the public in 1848, since which time thousands of bottles have been sold each year to an appreciative public, which is a good evidence of its merits. It is adapted to so many ailments it should be in every household, for it cures all kinds of pains both internal and external. For Bronchial affections it is unrivaled by any article in the market. It is a sure cure for Cholera Morbus and Dysentery, if taken in season, also for Coughs. It is an effective remedy for rheumatic affections, stiff joints, swelled limbs, sprains, cramps, toothache and many other ills to which the flesh is heir. Try it and it will do you good. It is sold at 25c, 50c and $1 00 per bottle by the Bay State Drug Co., Lynde & Gould, and the proprietor.

O. P. Allen,
Palmer, Mass.

Some Women Dread Baking Day-Others Use A Glenwood

The Glenwood Ash Chute

Bottles up all the dust and ashes and conveys them via pipe to a Tight Ash Receiver in cellar. See the Plain Cabinet Glenwood Range.

"Makes Cooking Easy"

Large Copper Reservoir on end.

The E. Brown Co., Palmer

MARRIED.

In Palmer, Nov. 29, by Rev. F. S. Brewer, William H. Burdick of Palmer and Frances L. Zindl of Monson.
In Thorndike, 29th, by Rev. P. J. Griffin, William Smith of Palmer and Louise Longtine of Thorndike.
In Thorndike, 29th, by Rev. P. J. Griffin, William Smith of Springfield and Mildred Smith of Thorndike.
In Monson, Nov. 29, by Rev. G. A. Andrews, John Anderson and Lydia J. Stewart.

DIED.

In Palmer, 26th, Mrs. Frances W. Dimock, 84.
In Wales, 27th, Mrs. Sara Thompson, 85.
In Monson, 25th, Mrs. Emma K. Harris, 63.
In Ware, Nov. 29, Edward J. McBride, 47.
In Wales, Nov. 26, Herbert, A. McFarland, 71.
In Arlington, Nov. 22, John N. Lacey, 75, a former resident of Palmer.

TENEMENT TO RENT. 32-tf E. BROWN CO.

FOX TERRIER PUPS FOR SALE. 17-tf JAMES BURDICK, Mechanic St. Monson

TO RENT.—Tenement at corner of South Main and Vaill streets; rent $11 per month. Inquire of DAVID F. DILLON.

IF YOU WANT your horse clipped in first-class shape, call on JAMES BURDICK, Monson. 32-tf

TO RENT.—Downstairs tenement in my double house on Walnut street, after December 15. W. E. McDONALD.

VAULTS CLEANED, gardens plowed, ashes and rubbish removed at reasonable prices. W. H. HOUSE, Palmer. 3-tf

FOR SALE.—One two-horse sleigh, one one-horse sleigh and four driving sleighs. 46-tf WHITCOMB & FAULKNER.

WANTED.—Hens, calves and cows. Will pay good price. Notify by postal card. 44-tf E. GOLDBERG, Three Rivers.

WANTED—Men to handle a good paying line. Exclusive territory. BROWN BROTHERS COMPANY, 35-1 Rochester, N. Y.

FOR SALE—Second-hand hot air wood furnace in good condition; pipes and registers with it. Inquire of E. J. FULLER, Fuller's Crossing, on Bondsville line. 33-tf

CARPET CLEANER. A Richmond Cleaner to rent with or without operator. Best way to clean carpets, rugs or furniture. Write postal or telephone 25-2. FRED McCOMBER, Box 174, Palmer. 40-tf

NOTICE—Pass Book No. 24,910, issued by the Palmer Savings Bank has been lost and an application by the owner for the issuance of a duplicate Pass Book has been filed with the Bank. Any person finding Pass Book No. 24,910 is requested to return it to the PALMER SAVINGS BANK, Palmer, Mass. 33-3

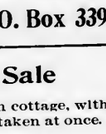
W. B. T. Smith,
Physician and Surgeon,
Office and residence, So. High Street,
BONDSVILLE, MASS.
Office Hours 7-9 a. m. 12.30-2 p. m. 6.30-8 p. m.
Tel. 104—5.

Notice to Piano Owners.
Mr. J. Frank Normand, Piano Tuner and Repairer. Nearly 20 years' experience on all makes of pianos. Over fifty satisfied piano owners to refer to in Palmer, Monson and vicinity. Orders left at Journal office or mailed to 800 Main street, Worcester, Mass., will receive prompt attention.

August Peterson,
Monson, Mass.
Cement, Concrete and Stone Work of all kinds at Lowest Prices.

Teacher of Violin,
Robert J. Wilder.
Palmer, Mass.

Upright Pianos to Rent
$3 to $5 per month
Money paid for rent applied if purchased.
STONE'S STORE,
370 Main St. Palmer



John Winer, Three Rivers
Dealer in Cattle, Beef and Milch Cows, Poultry.
Pay High Prices
P. O. Box 339, Three Rivers

For Sale
8-room cottage, with bath: on car line. Bargain if taken at once.
R. E. Cummings,
Palmer, Mass.

INSURANCE
Of every kind placed at short notice, and all favors duly appreciated.
Yours Truly
S. H. HELLYAR
Office at store on Main St.

VIOLIN AND PIANO LESSONS
Given by
Julia A. Allen, Palmer, Mass.
Orders promptly filled for Music, Violins, Strings, etc.

Bernard J. Bancroft
Teacher of Piano.
In Palmer Saturday of each week. Methods rapid and modern. Teaches at pupil's residence. Terms: 50 cents per lesson. Address
442 State St., Springfield.

Johnson's Bookstore
BOOKSTORE BUILDING
391 Main St. Springfield

Now Bring All the Children to Johnson's
It's easier to handle the little folks before the crowds get so big, and we have a toyland that will go right to their fairyland hearts. The old folks will enjoy it too, so all come.
Books Stationery Pictures
Prompt attention to mail orders

A Contemptible Trick.

Showing That There Are More Ways Than One of Interfering With a Woman's Intentions.

By F. A. MITCHEL.

Copyright by American Press Association, 1911.

Left an orphan when I was a very little girl, I was brought up by a maiden aunt, a woman of considerable brain and will power. I had hardly been settled in her house before she laid out a course for me to pursue.

"I shall give you a good education," she said, "and an education is a foundation on which a woman may build a career as well as a man. I'm not going to educate you that you may occupy a subordinate position in some man's office; not going to make a stenographer of you to take down some man's dictation—no man ever dictated to me. I shall give you a profession. But when you have been graduated I shall expect you to practice. It is not my intention to spend money on you to be thrown away. I don't propose that after giving you a profession some man shall come along, talk a lot of nonsense to you and render all I have spent on you abortive. If a woman is going to be a lawyer or a doctor she must begin by putting all notions of love and marriage out of her head."

Considering that my aunt made this announcement to me when I was but twelve years old, it is not to be expected that it made any other impression on me than that I was to follow the path she laid down for me. It evidently did not occur to her that I was rather young to agree when grown to place myself in opposition to nature's laws. Nevertheless, she accepted my promise that I would repay her kindness in educating me by making myself the old maid she was herself and spend my life listening to people tell about their aches and pains instead of hearing the prattle of my own children.

Nevertheless, my aunt was a good woman despite her crankiness. She took admirable care of me, and when I became old enough to choose a profession I selected medicine. My aunt died shortly after I had received my diploma and left me a legacy sufficient to give me a start in my profession. The last thing she said to me was: "Remember your promise. You will be sorely tempted because you are very good looking. Men will try to draw you away from the path of duty, but you must not listen to them. What they will want of you is to make you a slave. Be constantly on your guard."

As to the temptation, my aunt was right.

My being thrown into a field of labor where I met many men, some of whom were intelligent and attractive, was probably the cause of my receiving a number of proposals. But I set myself resolutely to carry out my aunt's intentions regarding me, feeling bound in honor to do so. I refused all my suitors, devoting myself exclusively to my practice. I found it impossible to keep the fact that I was pledged to celibacy from being known, and I believe that for this reason I was especially sought in marriage. Nothing is so desirable as that which is impossible to obtain.

I practiced two years and resisted all temptations to marry. One day an old lady came to see me and begged that I would make a diagnosis of a trouble that was afflicting her son. She said she believed there was something on her son's mind that he would not confide to his medical attendant. A man, she said, would be more likely to give his confidence in certain matters to a woman than one of his own sex. The invalid had been a trifler in love affairs, and she was not sure but that he had been caught in his own trap. If she could be sure of this she might possibly find a remedy.

There was something winning in the old lady's solicitude lest her boy might be getting his just deserts. I was amused at the absurdity of a man having to call in a woman physician to cure him of a possible love malady. I did not attend men patients as a rule, partly because I had cured one man and he had given me his heart in addition to my fee. But since this dear old lady's invalid son was suspected to be already in love, even to the breaking down of his health, I saw no reason why I should not oblige her. So I promised to at least make one visit.

I found a fine looking young fellow some twenty-eight years old, six feet high and muscular. As I entered the room where he was lounging he looked up at me with a captivating smile that he had evidently inherited from his mother. There was an unconscious strength about him that in a man is especially attractive to a woman. I did not wonder that he had fallen into gallantry and could not but have some sympathy for him that he was suffering the penalty. His mother withdrew and I began to question him professionally, though I only asked him how he felt and to what cause he attributed his ailment; then I said to him frankly:

"You are not ill; you think you are."

"I know it."

"I can't at present determine whether your trouble is mental or nervous. If there is anything on your mind you had better tell me. I can do nothing for you till I know the cause of your malady."

"I am only too glad to make a confidant of you, doctor. I am in love."

"In that case you must be your own physician. I can do nothing for you."

"But suppose this love is breaking me down."

"Nonsense."

"I told my mother that you would take that view of the case. My life is worth nothing to me or any one else except my mother. I implore you to try to do something for me for her sake."

"I will. My prescription is plenty of outdoor exercise and mental occupation. Whenever the image of this unattainable girl comes up before you drive it out."

"I can't."

"There is no such word as can't." I arose to go.

"Will you come again?' he asked ruefully.

There was something both amusing and fascinating in this great hulk of a man clinging to me to save him from himself. Nevertheless, I knew of no antedote for love and had no mind to waste my time dancing attendance on a man whose only ailment was his devotion to some girl who didn't happen to fancy him. But I was obliged to confess to myself that there was something as attractive as ludicrous in it. The fond mother, who had probably been listening, at this point came in and said:

"Of course the doctor will come again. She will not leave you to suffer."

"Not if I can be of service."

As I went out the patient followed me with his handsome, melancholy eyes, full of a longing that I could have understood had I been the girl who was torturing him. But under the circumstances it was very puzzling. Before leaving I questioned his mother with a view of determining if there was any hereditary cause that would account for his condition, but she said all her ancestors on both sides had been healthy in mind and body.

I was at the time much interested in mental effects upon the body. I was sure that this young man's unrequited love had brought him into one of those conditions that are so puzzling to physicians. I told his mother this and advised her to attempt a removal of the fundamental cause. When she asked me how to do this I suggested throwing her son and some fascinating woman, other than the one he loved, together. He would likely transfer his love and this would effect a cure. She promised to think about it, but seemed to consider it rather an impracticable expedient.

A week later she called at my office, evidently very much troubled. She said her son was no better; indeed, if there had been any change since my visit it was for the worse.

"I have thought of your plan, doctor," she said, "of substituting another love, but I know of no one who I believe would be able to draw my son away from his infatuation. I named every girl of his acquaintance to him, asking if there was one he would like to have visit him, and he refused to see any of them. "I wouldn't mind seeing my doctor," he said. "as often as she will call."

And what did the poor old mother do, with tears in her eyes, but beg me to make an attempt to substitute myself in her son's affections for the woman he loved. I argued that even if successful I would only be replacing one cause by a similar one. She declared that instead the infatuation would be broken and her son would recover his health.

There was a professional problem involved—a problem as to the effect of mental causes of physical ailments. This and the mother's pleadings prevailed. I would cure the young man if I could, and after his cure—well, after that he must get on as best he could without me.

I visited him at intervals. I played no coquettish pranks upon him. I simply attempted to divert his mind by being as agreeable to him as I could. I chose those subjects for chat in which he was interested and found him in certain lines intellectually my superior. After every call I was rewarded for my pains by his doting mother, who assured me that all was going well and her son was steadily improving. Of course I looked forward with misgivings to the day when my patient would be cured of one love to be tortured by another, but possibly a third or a fourth might so dilute the poison that the physical effect would be neutralized.

A result occurred that I had not calculated upon. While I was winning my patient's love he was winning mine. I awakened finally to the fact that my pledge to my aunt must either be broken or I would become some doctor's patient for the same disease of which I had cured my own.

Nevertheless I determined not to yield. I would not find a substitute, as I had recommended to him, but I would cease to see him. But he would not cease to see me. He followed me relentlessly. I fought him for ten months, then surrendered.

On the day my husband and I returned from our wedding trip he gave me evidence of the value of my aunt's warning.

"Sweetheart," he said, "do you know that the illness which brought us together was all a put up job on you?"

"What do you mean?" I exclaimed, opening my eyes.

"One day I heard some sawbones talking about you and your pledge to devote yourself to your profession and not to marry."

"Well?"

"You know the rest."

As soon as I could get my breath I hissed, "It was a mean, contemptible"—

A kiss stopped the rest.

Sewers.

The sewers of the largest 157 cities of the United States if laid end to end would girdle the earth at the equator.

OLD CHINESE ROLLS FOUND

Thousands of Manuscripts on Silk Discovered In Grottos by a French Explorer.

Paul Pelliot, the young French explorer of Chinese Turkestan, found in caverns at Tuan-Huang silk rolls which are Chinese manuscripts, some of them embroidered by artists who seem to have stepped out of "The Arabian Nights." These rolls have been immured in these grottos for nine hundred years, and when deciphered and translated will tell the story of a civilization that flourished over a thousand years ago and is dead.

The explorer brought back five thousand rolls; but as there are five hundred grottos, he believes many more libraries will be found

In the last few years archaeologists at work in the Mediterranean island of Crete have unearthed ruins and pottery which prove that civilized people inhabited Greece as far back as the year 2600 B. C. The system of drainage in the prehistoric city of Gnossus, in Crete, is more sanitary than any found in any historic age anywhere on earth until the nineteenth century.

The life of the human race upon this planet is being traced further and further back. The earliest known civilization is being found to have been preceded by one still earlier. One curtain of the past upraised reveals another curtain which the scientists are certain conceals still more secrets.—Minneapolis Journal.

Rare Diseased Plant.

An exceedingly rare but occasionally found plant is the Cattleya libiata alba. It is a diseased plant, whose exquisite bloom is snow white. Properly packed, orchids will stand from forty to fifty days' confinement and remain in a healthy condition.

She Knew Harry.

"Now, Harry, go to Smith's, the grocer, and get a pound of the best syrup," said his mother, and she handed the young hopeful a couple of good-sized jugs. When the boy had gone the vicar's wife said:

"You didn't tell him to get anything in the other jug. Is he going to leave it at the shop?"

"No, ma'am; he's going to bring it back here again."

"But why send two jugs to get a pound of syrup?"

"Well, you see, it's this way. If he has a jug in each hand, he can't go dipping his finger in the syrup and eating it as he comes along."

If You Are a Trifle Sensitive

About the size of your shoes it's some satisfaction to know that many people can wear shoes a size smaller by shaking Allen's Foot-Ease into them. Just the thing for Patent Leather Shoes, and for breaking in New Shoes. Sold everywhere, 25c. Sample FREE. Address, Allen S. Olmstead, LeRoy, N. Y.

Bay State Drug Co.
Palmer

Apollo Chocolates
30 cents
Regular 60c 1-lb. boxes.

Special for Saturday, Dec. 2

Largest and Best Equipped Drug Store Between Worcester and Springfield

Monkeys and Gum.

In tropical countries the natives have many unique ways of catching monkeys. One of them, as explained by a traveler, is this: The hunters walk about in short boots in sight of the monkeys. Then they take the boots off, place some gum in the bottoms and leave them on the ground, withdrawing themselves to a great distance. Presently the monkeys come down from the trees and try on the boots and when the hunters come after them the boots stick to the feet of the monkeys and they are unable to climb. Thus the imitative little animals are captured.

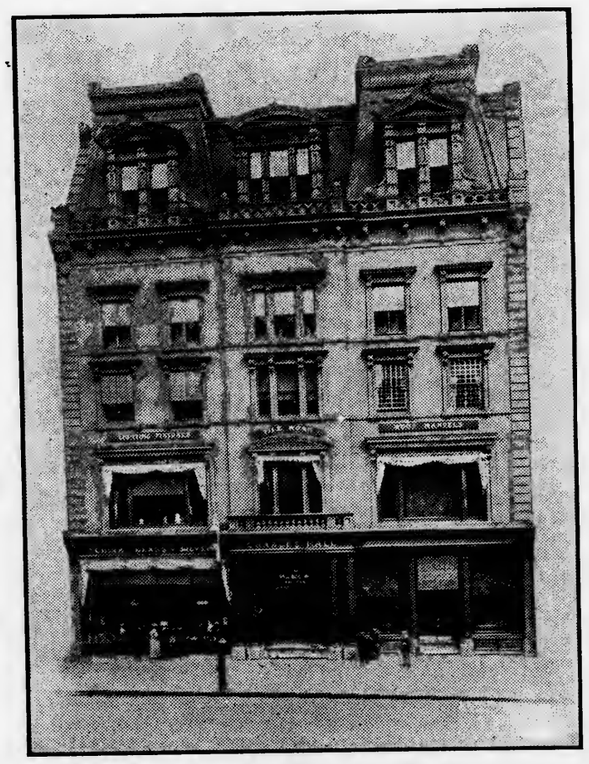
Two of a Kind.

"I find that my husband has been having the office boy call me up every day and mumble terms of endearment. That's a nice way to fool his wife. He's been going to the ball game."

"How is it that you didn't catch on to the voice?"

"Well, I'm busy at bridge every [illegible] and I've been having the cook answer the telephone."

He Called It Luck.



Michael Meehan was the proud possessor of a brand new silk high hat. At the wake of his dearest enemy he had guarded it carefully, and as a consequence was strolling home with the tile unscathed. As he passed the site of a building operation, a woman acquaintance nodded pleasantly. With an ostentatious wave of the hat, which exhibited it to excellent advantage, Michael bowed. At the same moment a brick sailed down from an upper floor and bounced from his bared skull. Upon coming to, he inquired anxiously for the hat. A bystander restored it unharmed. Mike felt the egg-size lump on his head occasioned by the impact of the brick, and then regarded his undamaged tile. "B'gorry," he sighed in satisfaction, "it's lucky it is I saw the loidy in toime!"—Lippincott's Magazine.

Largest Flower.

The world's largest flower is said to be the rafflesia, a native of Sumatra, the petals of which surround a cup nearly a foot wide.

Charles Hall, Springfield, Mass.

Five Floors of Fine Merchandise

The Hall Building 311-313 Main St.

The Christmas Gift Store.

Unusual Merchandise—Larger Stocks—Complete Assortments—Splendid Service—Reasonable Prices Summon You to do your Christmas Shopping here.

Nowhere in Western Massachusetts will you find a better place to buy your Christmas gifts. The articles are known to be the best kind of Gift things made in Europe and America. The prices cover an extensive range and just as distinctive things are offered at 25c, 50c and $1 as at higher figures. The lines most interesting now are—

Sterling Silverware—China—Glass—Pottery---Lamps---Clocks---Plated Silver---Jewelry from Vienna and Florence---Antique and Fine Modern Furniture---Foreign Embroidery and Other Fabrics---a New Toy Department---German Playthings and Toys---a new Foreign Fabric Room---larger assortments of Imported Jewelry.

You are welcome to use the Tea Room with its easy chairs, desks and dressing room, and luncheon service.

If you will bring in this advertisement, you will get free a quaint little Florentine Bridge Score.

Thorndike
Three Rivers
Bondsville

Many items of interest from these busy villages.

THORNDIKE.

Smith–Smith.

A pretty wedding took plaee at St. Mary's church Wednesday morning, when Miss Mildred Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hanlon of Main street, was united in marriage to William Smith of Springfield, Rev. P. J. Griffin officiating. A large number of friends and relatives were present. A wedding breakfast was served at the bride's home following the ceremony. There was a profusion of wedding gifts. After a wedding tour they will reside in Springfield.

Longtine–Smith.

Miss Louise Longtine and William Smith of Palmer were united in marriage by Rev. P. J. Griffin at noon Wednesday at the parochial residence. Miss Anna Longtine of Springfield, a sister of the bride, was bridesmaid, and Daniel Harrington of Palmer was best man. After a short wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Smith will reside on South Main street, Palmer, where the groom is employed by the street railway company.

The work on the Main street sewer is progressing rapidly and is fast nearing completion.

Mr. O'Connor of South Hadley Falls was a guest of his daughter, Mrs. Katherine T. Loftus, Wednesday.

An anniversary mass of requiem for the late Rev. F. J. Lynch, a former pastor of St. Mary's church, was held yesterday morning, Rev. P. J. Griffin officiating.

Three persons who were engaged at work upon the Main street sewer were buried Tuesday by the falling of the earth. They were soon rescued from their position by other workmen.

Several Thorndike friends of John T. Moran, a former Thorndike boy, who is at Poli's Theater in Springfield this week with a troupe of Japanese performers, have attended the performances this week.

THREE RIVERS.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Senecal spent Sunday in town.

Samuel Cole spent Sunday with friends in Palmer.

Miss Mary McCullough has recovered from her recent illness.

Albert Senecal spent the last of the week with friends in Ware.

Henry Winn spent Sunday at his home on East Main street.

John Ritchie was the guest over Sunday of relatives in Ware.

William Riddle of Palmer street has been ill at his home the past week.

Gustave Eckhert has recovered from his recent illness at the Wenimesset.

Raymond Richardson of Holyoke was the guest of Peter Manzer Sunday.

Thomas Connor of Springfield spent Sunday at his home on Palmer street.

Robert L. Geer spent the latter part of the week with friends in Worcester.

Ovila Worzard cut a deep gash in one of his hands and is unable to be at work.

Dr. and Mrs. S. O. Miller spent the last of the week with friends in Fitchburg.

Alvarez Boissy of Holyoke spent the last of the week at his home on Main street.

Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Willis and son Milton spent Sunday with relatives in Springfield.

Miss Cora Cleland visited Monday at the home of her sister, Mrs. James Anderson.

W. A. Purdy spent the first of the week at the home of his father in Syracuse, N. Y.

Mr. and Mrs. Pembroke Pieree are spending a few days with friends in Connecticut.

Miss Nellie Conroy of Springfield spent Sunday at her home on Belchertown street.

Wilson Clarke of Gilbertville spent the last of the week at his home on Palmer street.

Raymond Warriner of Springfield spent Thanksgiving day at his home on Maple street.

James Cassells of West Springfield spent Sunday with his family on Belchertown street.

Moses Smith of West Springfield spent the last of the week with his family on Palmer street.

Charles Tracy of Springfield was the week-end guest of his mother at her home on Bourne street.

William and John Riddle of Ware spent Sunday at the home of John Riddle on Palmer street.

Irving Allen of Worcester spent Thursday at the home of his father, J. E. Allen on Maple street.

Mrs. Joseph Noonan of Springfield was the guest of her mother on Belchertown street the first of the week.

Miss Martha A. Buzzell of Springfield spent the week-end with Miss Anna Murdock on East Main street.

Rev. C. B. MacDuffee of the Union church preached at the Silver street chapel Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Matthew Horgan of Holyoke spent the last of the week with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Horgan on Main street.

Miss Webb of Springfield was the guest Thursday at the home of her sister, Mrs. A. W. Warriner on Maple street.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Foley of Palmer spent Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Hartnett at the Quaboag Hotel.

Misses Ora Henrichon and Elizabeth Murphy of Ware were the guests of Mrs. M. Murphy on Main street over Sunday.

Several of the young people of the Union church Sunday school are rehearsing for a missionary concert which is to be given in the near future.

Mr. and Mrs. Chamberlain of Woodstock, Ct., and daughter, Miss Pearl, of Northfield Seminary spent Thursday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. K. Chamberlain.

Wenimesset Tribe of Red Men held a reception Tuesday evening for those who assisted at their fair in October. Dancing was in order and a good time was reported by all.

Wenimesset Tribe, I. O. R. M., of this place attended a meeting of the Ossemaquin Tribe of Springfield one evening reeently and presented to them the travelling tomahawk. Members of several other tribes were present and among the speakers of the evening was Sachem P. C. Daley of Wenimesset Tribe.

A union Thanksgiving service was held in the Union church Sunday morning at 10 o'clock. Members of the Methodist church in Bondsville, also the Congregational church in Thorndike were in attendance. Rev. Mr Gorst of Thorndike preached the Thanksgiving sermon. Prayer meeting was held in the vestry at 7.30 o'clock.

BONDSVILLE.

Will Have Christmas Tree.

A business meeting of the Sunday school was held directly after the Sunday school session Sunday. It was voted to have a Christmas tree and an entertainment Saturday evening, December 23, at 6.30 o'clock. The following committees were chosen: Christmas tree, Rev. W. H. Upham: entertainment, Mrs. W. H. Upham, Mrs. Fred Collis, Mrs. C. H. Banister, Miss Gladys Morse; committee for presents, Mrs. Samuel Stewart, Mrs. Emerson Loy, Mrs. W. H. Morse.

Great Aim of Bondsville Hunter.

Joseph Parduei, the fruit merchant of Bondsville, while out hunting the past week had the unusual luck of shooting his valuable hunting dog, "Lizzie." He said he was going through some heavy underbrush when he got his eye on a rabbit, and just as he fired the dog came within the range of the gun. The dog had one rib broken, but after a few weeks' rest will be about the same as usual.

Miss Mary Heys spent Saturday with friends in Chicopee.

Mrs. John Heys went Monday to the hospital in Boston for treatment.

Mrs. Warren Fisherdick of Amherst called on relatives and friends Monday.

Miss Ora Parent is spending a few days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. A. Parent.

Mrs. John Boyle of New York is spending the week with her sister, Mrs. James Fitzgerald.

J. J. Conway and E. J. Loy attended the Harvard--Yale football game in Boston Saturday.

The schools closed Wednesday night for the Thanksgiving recess. They will re-open Monday.

Miss Alice Banister spent Thanksgiving day with H. D. Geer and family in South Belchertown.

Mrs. Daniel Kelleher of Springfield visited Sunday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Griffin.

John Costello, who is being treated for blood poisoning in a hospital in Springfield, is improving.

Gordon Parent of Ludlow is spending the week with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. O. A. Parent.

Miss Geneva Billings will spend the last of the week with relatives in Chicopee Falls and Westfield.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Randall entertained their mother, Mrs. Theodore Randall of Springfield recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene White of Springfield were week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Collis.

Miss Mary Manning of Springfield spent a few days this week with her grandmother, Mrs. Julia Quirk.

Mr. and Mrs. Olin Parent and family were entertained Thanksgiving Day at Mr. and Mrs. George Moulton's.

Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Albro and children spent Thanksgiving with Mr. and Mrs. T. D. Potter in Springfield.

William Davis, who has been ill with rheumatism for several weeks, is able to take up his work once more.

William Albro of Springfield Tech School came last night to spend the week-end vacation with his parents.

Mrs. Archie Sterling and son returned Monday from several weeks spent with relatives in West Warren.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Glaccum of Brooklyn, N. Y., were guests over Thanksgiving of Mrs. Patrick Fenton.

Mrs. Samuel Beauregard and daughter were guests Sunday of her parents, Mr. and Richard Thomas in Three Rivers.

John O'Neill, who aeeepted a position in Farmingville a few weeks ago, moved his household goods from here Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Collis and their guests, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene White, spent Sunday in Belchertown with relatives.

Miss Margaret Callahan has returned from the hospital in Springfield and is recovering rapidly from her recent operation.

Mrs. Ceilan Polly of Pittsfield was a recent guest of her cousins, Mrs. Julia McKendrick and Miss Nettie McKendrick.

Miss Kathleen Quirk of Westfield Normal School spent the Thanksgiving vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Quirk.

Mr. and Mrs. V. C. Faunce entertained over Thanksgiving Mr. and Mrs. Faunce and two daughters of Fall River, and their mother.

Miss Agnes Carmody of the normal school in Westfield will spend the week-end with her mother, Mrs. Bridget Carmody, at her home here.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Banister and son Leslie spent Thanksgiving Day with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Banister, in West Brookfield.

George Moulton Jr. of the Massachusetts College of Chemistry, Boston, spent the week-end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Moulton.

The Boston Duck Co. is building an iron fence back of the mill. This fence, which is nine feet high, will be a great protection to their mill property.

A hearing will be held by the selectmen on December 14 on the petition of the telephone company for the privilege of erecting two poles on Depot street.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Morse and daughter Gladys went Wednesday to Enfield to spend the Thanksgiving vacation with Mr. and Mrs. L. P. Webber.

Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Holden entertained Thanksgiving Mr. and Mrs. George Bray of Stafford and Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Rodman of Stafford Springs, Ct.

Mr. and Mrs. O. A. Parent and daughter, Miss Ora, spent Thanksgiving Day with a family gathering at Mr. and Mrs. Charles Walker's in Springfield.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew C. Cordner of Longmeadow were guests this week of Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Bond. Mr. Cordner has just returned from an extended Western trip.

The Ladies' Aid Society will meet next Wednesday with Mrs. Charles Collis. These ladies will serve; Mrs. V. C. Faunce, Mrs. C. D. Holden, Mrs. E. J. Loy, Mrs. Adalard Marsan, Mrs. W. H. McVickar.

William Magee of the school of accountancy and finance in Boston spent the Thanksgiving recess with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Christopher Magee, who also entertained their son, Christopher Jr. of Springfield.

The mission for the men at St. Bartholomew's church, which has been held during the week, will end Sunday. Both this week and last services have been faithfully attended and very much enjoyed by the attendants. Rev. Father Moore is a very eloquent and impressive speaker.

PROSPERITY OF THE NAVAJOS

They Have Ample Pasturage and Make Money by Their Silver Work.

The Navajos are today by long adds the most prosperous Indians in America. Their vast reserve offers ample pastureage for their sheep and ponies, and though their flocks are a scrub lot, yielding little more than fifty to seventy cents a head in wool on the average, still it costs nothing to keep sheep and goats. Both furnish a supply of meat. The hides fetch ready money. So do the wool and the blankets. And the Navajos are the finest silversmiths in America. Formerly, they obtained their supply of raw bullion from the Spaniards, but today they melt and hammer down United States currency into butterfly brooches and snake bracelets and leather belts with the 50-cent coins changed into flower blossoms with a turquoise center. Ten-cent pieces and quarters are transformed into necklaces of silver beads or buttons for shirt and moccasins. If you buy these things in the big western cities they are as costly as Chinese or Hindu silver, but on the reserve there is a very simple way of computing the value. First take the value of the coin from which the silver ornament is made. Add a dollar for the silversmith's labor, and also add whatever the value of the turquoise happens to be and you have the price for which true Navajo silverwork can be bought out on the reserve.—Travel Magazine.

Fully Covered.

"I want to get insured
"Yes—fire or life?"
"Both—I've got a wooden leg."

The quicker a cold is gotten rid of the less the danger from pneumonia and other serious diseases. Mr. B.W. L. Hall of Waverly, Va., says: "I firmly believe Chamberlain's Cough Remedy to be absolutely the best preparation on the market for colds. I have recommended it to my friends and they all agree with me." For sale by all dealers.

A Consignment of Wine

By J. B. PAGE

Copyright by American Press Association, 1911.

I was born in Madrid, Spain, and my father was a wine merchant there. Having more fancy for an out of door life than a counting room, I persuaded him to give me a position in his business of buyer. I traveled through the grape growing districts and bought wine at the vineyards.

One day I was traveling on horseback over the southern slope of the mountains when I heard a voice:

"Halt!"

The first idea that came into my head was that I was stopped by a brigand, and I was right.

"I must trouble you, senor, to clasp your hands on the top of your head."

A brigand jumped over a wall and, holding a gun in the hollow of his arm, came toward me. He wore the costume of the country, which is picturesque, and had a devil may care way with him. He asked me to hand him a weapon I carried at my hip, keeping me covered meanwhile and his eye fixed on mine, that he might detect in time any indication of a purpose to use it. As soon as he had possession of it he told me to proceed, conducting me to a camp where a dozen men were lounging.

From papers on my person the brigands discovered that I was the son of a rich wine merchant in Madrid and resolved to demand a large ransom for my return. The man who captured me went out in search of some one to carry the message to my father and returned with a peasant girl about twenty years of age. I wrote a note to my father, giving an account of my capture, informing him of the amount that must be paid for my release. If it were not sent by the girl I would be killed. I requested that she be well paid for carrying the message. Before she departed I heard the captain of the band tell her that if she in any way aided in an attempt to rescue me or in an attack on the band she and all her family would be killed.

I knew nothing that was passing in her mind and supposed that she would not dare to give any information that would jeopardize the brigands. I knew my father would pay the ransom, though the amount was so large that it might ruin him financially. But I was very much deceived by the girl. The day after her departure, at 2 o'clock in the morning, the only sentinel of the camp was stabbed in the back and every sleeping brigand jumped upon by a soldier and pinioned before he could use a weapon. The band had long been the terror of that region, and the girl had resolved to risk the sacrifice of herself and her family to rid the country of them. She knew every foot of ground about their camp and had guided the soldiers, enabling them to surprise the brigands. They were taken to the capital, tried and every one of them executed.

This was just before one of those revolutions by which my country has been so often disturbed. The uprising was unsuccessful, and the government determined to strike such terror into the revolutionists that they would not repeat the attempt. One morning a girl came to see me whom I at once recognized as Pepita, who had been instrumental in destroying the brigands.

The girl told me that her betrothed, Jose Sanchez, had been implicated in the revolution and had been taken in arms against the government. He had been in prison in Madrid and she had by a ruse effected his escape. But she was unable to get him out of the capital. Every exit was closely guarded, and as Sanchez had been one of the ringleaders in the rebellion the government was making every effort to recapture him. Pepita begged me to aid him to leave the city.

"Where is he now?" I asked.

"Hiding in a sewer."

"Can you bring him to our storehouse tonight?"

"I can try."

That night I went to the storehouse, and Sanchez, disguised in Pepita's frock and headgear, which partly covered his face, came in. I had everything arranged. The vehicle by which I proposed to take him past the guards was a wine cask. I had one prepared for him and in the morning put him into it with sufficient provisions to guard against hunger. A team was driven up to the storehouse and loaded with a number of casks of port wine. One of the casks contained the living body of Jose Sanchez. I rolled it on to the wagon myself, that its contents should not be injured. Then I got up beside the driver, and we started to carry the wine out of the city.

On arriving at the post, where all persons going out were critically examined, the officer scrutinized me and the driver critically. He even thumped on the casks that he might judge by the sound whether they contained liquid or solid substances. But I had prepared for this. "Give me a cup," I said, "and I will convince you that there is wine inside the casks, and the very best." This pleased him, and he produced a cup. I took a spigot from my pocket and, drawing wine, gave it to him. I filled him full and all the guard besides. He had sounded most of the casks, but the libation stopped him, and after drawing a few gallons to leave behind we were permitted to go on.

I shipped the casks to France, going with them all the way, and liberated the prisoner on the other side of the border.

Sweet is revenge, especially to women.

S. H. Wright
64 Pleasant Street,
Lock and Gunsmith.
Light Repairing of every Description.
Locks, Keys, Guns, Pistols, Shears, Lawn Mowers, Skates, Sewing Machines, Saw Filing, Clocks, Pattern Making, Etc.

For Sale.
My residence on North Main street. 20 rooms and ground level basement—more room than I need. Steam heat, electric lights, bath. Can easily be made into two tenements.
Louis E. Chandler.

1848 BRIGHAM'S 1911
All Goods Delivered Free In Palmer.

Unprecedented
SUIT SALE
Special Purchase of
150 Brand New Suits
At Lowest Prices of the Season.

Here is one of the most important announcements ever made from the Suit Department.

We have just bought from one of our leading New York houses 150 high-grade tailored suits, made up to our exact specifications — regular Brigham suits, in every last detail.

To use up the balance of his stock of materials this manufacturer was willing to make these suits at less than cost and we therefore own them at prices way below regular values.

These suits we have had made in the very latest and best selling models of the season and they include all the most popular fabrics --- the stylish rough materials in plain colors and mixtures, as well as the fine broadcloths, serges and cheviots. All suits are made and finished in the very best manner, with guaranteed satin lining and interlining.

With these beautiful new suits we shall include about 100 additional suits chosen from our own stock, all marked at corresponding reductions, making a magnificent assortment to select from.

Four Bargain Lots.

These 250 suits we have grouped in these four bargain lots:

At $15—Regular $22.50 and $25 Values

At $20—Regular $27.50 and $30 Values

At $25— the biggest lot of all---Regular $35 and $40 Values.

At $30—Regular $42.50 and $45 Values

D. H. Brigham & Co.,
Springfield, Mass.

"Fair and Square Credit."

This Talk Concerns the Men As Well as the Women.

If You Want a Winter Coat And Haven't the Ready Money

Here Is a Proposition:

(This talk, by the way, is for the kind of men and women who KNOW what a right price is, and who simply want credit exactly as it is given in so many "eash" stores to people whom they know have money.)

Our proposition is this—We will give credit to any man or woman who will treat us squarely (who is honest), and we will not charge one penny more than is charged for goods of equal merit at any cash store in this city. This is a broad statement, we are perfectly well aware of that, but, nevertheless, it is a fact. Our prices are NO HIGHER. You can prove it for yourself by doing a little shopping, and we shall be more than glad to show you the goods.

We Have a Splendid Stock

This year's Coats, for Men and Women, are the handsomest garments seen in years, and no finer models are shown, and none better made, than we show here. Everything in cloth, from the snappy rough Tweeds to the dressiest cloths made. Everything in designs from the great, loose, handsome belted coats to the elegant, close-fitting formal coats for formal occasions. And our Suits are just as varied in range of style.

A fine double store, carrying men's and women's clothing, hats and shoes; one of the oldest and soundest concerns in the city.

Benjamin Goldstein, Inc.
17-19 Elm St. Court Square Theater Building
Springfield, Mass.

"We'll Trust Anybody Who Is Honest."

Monson News.

Holiday Visitors.

Among those who spent the holiday in town were the following: Miss Mildred Cushman of the Boston school of science with her mother, Mrs. George Cushman of High street; Earl Hale of Boston with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Hale of Harrison avenue; Miss Mary Robbins of Boston with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. Robbin on South Main street; Mortimer Duggan of Mystic, Ct., with his father, Nicholas Duggan of Main street; Lieut. Ralph C. Needham of the U. S. navy and Harry Needham of Baltimore, Md., with Mr. and Mrs. William Needham of Fountain street; Miss Lulu Vaille of Plymouth with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Vaille on East Hill; William Hanson of Holyoke with his mother on Hampden avenue; Frances Burt of Amherst at the home of E. E. Thompson on Green street; Dr. J. M. Murphy of Brockton with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John F. Murphy of Park avenue; Mrs. Fritz W. Baldwin of Brookline with Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Ellis; Joseph Kerrigan of Boston university, John Leahy of Tufts and Robert Fay of Mass. Agricultural college.

Celebrate Fortieth Wedding Anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilson M. Tucker of Granite street celebrated their 40th wedding anniversary in a quiet manner at their home yesterday; only immediate relatives were present. Several letters and telegrams of congratulation and a shower of post cards were received. Many presents were received in honor of the occasion. Mr. and Mrs. Tucker were married in Longmeadow by Rev. J. W. Hardy, Mrs. Tucker was formerly Celia Burt. Mr. and Mrs. Tucker have always resided in Monson. Mr. Tucker has conducted a profitable agricultural and dairy business. He is a trustee of Monson Academy and a member of the Eastern Hampden Agricultural society. Of the four children born to them, three are living, George of Caldwell, Idaho, Mrs. J. M. Fitzgerald of Albany, N. Y., and Miss Marion at home; there are also three grandchildren.

Death of Mrs. Emma Harris.

Mrs. Emma Harris, 63, died at her home on Main street last Saturday morning of pneumonia after an illness of but three days. Mrs. Harris was born in Monson in what is known as the Butler district on April 14, 1848, and had spent nearly all her life in this town, living for a short time in Wales, where in 1872 she was married to the late Silas N. Harris, of that town. She is survived by three children, Mrs. F. J. Flynt, Mrs. W. O. McEwen and Elmer S. Harris, all of this town; also a brother and two sisters, William King of Palmer and Mrs. Zina Harris and Mrs. Mary Trumble, both of Monson. She was a member of the Woman's Relief Corps. The funeral was held from her late home Tuesday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock, Rev. Abram Conklin officiating. Burial was in No. 1 cemetery.

Silver Wedding Anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar R. Sisson of South Main street celebrated their silver wedding anniversary at their home yesterday. Several relatives and friends were present, the event being a pleasing and enjoyable one. An old-fashioned turkey dinner was served, the diningroom being very prettily decorated for the occasion. A number of guests were received during the afternoon and in the evening a lunch was served. Mr. and Mrs. F. O. Bardwell catered. Mr. and Mrs. Sisson were married in North Adams by Rev. Alfred Hammett. Mrs. Sisson was formerly Miss Jennie Blanchard of this town. Mr. Sisson is a very popular man of the town, having served on the board of selectmen and has held various other town offices.

Btewart—Anderson.

Miss Trychie Stewart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Hartley of Wilbraham road, and John Anderson of this town were quietly married at the home of the bride yesterday morning. The ceremony was performed by Rev. G. A. Andrews, pastor of the Congregational church. Only immediate relatives attended. The couple were unattended. The bride wore a traveling suit of blue serge and a picture hat. A reception followed the ceremony. After a short wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Anderson will reside with the bride's parents on the Fair View farm.

E. J. Lyons has returned from a business trip to Boston.

Martin Dugan of Stafford Springs is visiting Monson friends.

Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Potter spent Sunday with friends in Springfield.

Mrs. Sarah Oldham and daughter Alice are visiting relatives in Worcester.

Henry G. Rogers of Lincoln street has returned from a visit in Hampden.

The King's Daughters meet this evening at 7.45 with Mrs. D. B. Needham.

Harrison Howe has left for Tampa, and will spend the winter in St. Petersburg, Fla.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Bliss of Pease avenue have returned from a visit in Springfield.

George Leonard has returned to Boston after visiting his family on South Main street.

F. Nutting of Springfield was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Orcutt over Sunday.

Miss Gladys Lull of Lincoln street is home from the Boston Conservatory for the Thanksgiving vacation.

Dr. Oscar L. Tompson and family have returned to their home in Boston after visiting relatives in town.

Thomas L. Locke of Vancouver, B. C., is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Locke of South Monson.

Dr. and Mrs. Andrew Coleman spent Thanksgiving with Mrs. Coleman's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Gavin.

Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Grady of Pittsfield and Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Heffernan of Worcester were in town over the holiday.

Miss Elsie Alden, who has been visiting at her home in Belchertown, has returned to her work at the Squier Lumber Co.

Joseph Perrin has returned to work for the Crescent Worsted Company after a long rest owing to his having lost a finger at a fire.

William Linnehan of Hartford and Miss Helen Fox of West Brookfield spent Thanksgiving with Mrs. T. M. Lynch of Park avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Aldrich have returned from their wedding trip and are with Mrs. Aldrich's parents, Mr. and Mrs. David Broadfoot.

A business meeting of the trustees of the Methodist church will be held this evening at the parsonage. The meeting will be followed by a social hour.

Grade seven of the State street school is the happy possessor of a new piano. It was purchased from the profits of the annual school entertainments.

Mrs. J. L. Sweiger, who has been visiting in Columbus, Ohio, has returned to Monson and is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Park on Washington street.

A party consisting of Miss Mary Murphy, Miss Sadie Lyons, Miss Julia Moran, Miss Grace Locke, L. F. Moran and Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Colleton spent Sunday with friends in Springfield.

The annual union Thanksgiving service was held Sunday evening at the Congregational church at 5 o'clock. Rev. F. W. McConnell of the Methodist Episcopal church occupied the pulpit.

The funeral of Louis Packard, who died at his home on Tobey avenue last Thursday night, was held Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock, Rev. G. A. Andrews officiating. Burial was in No. 1 cemetery.

Bert Anderson, who recently bought G. L. Keeney's drug store on Main street, has moved his household goods from Springfield to the E. E. Thompson house on Lincoln street, where he will make his home.

The Ladies' Benevolent Society of the Methodist church will hold a social in the church vestry next Tuesday. The young people of the parish are rehearsing an entertainment to be presented at that time.

Day Spring lodge of Masons has elected the following officers for the ensuing year: W. M., N. P. Dempsey; S. W., E. R. Sisson; J. W., A. H. Orcutt; treasurer, R. F. Bradway; secretary, N. A. Bugbee.

The Green street school held a concert hour in Miss Collis' room Tuesday morning. It proved to be so enjoyable and profitable that Miss Cantwell has decided to hold similar concerts in each building once a month.

The Dorcas Society will hold a sale of calendars, blotters and Christmas cards on Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Rufus P. Cushman on Main street. Tea will be served in colonial style during the afternoon.

The work on the new gothic tower on St. Patrick's church, which has been under construction since the middle of July, is nearly completed. The buttress and the four pinnacles which rise to a height of 88 feet from the ground have been finished.

The town basketball team started the season with a rush, when they were easy victors over the Springfield Independents in Memorial Hall last night, winning by the score of 55 to 26. Clancy, a new man, was a star performer. Durkin played his usual good game.

The Men's Club of the Congregational church have elected the following officers: President, Rev. G. A. Andrews; vice president, H. F. Dewey; secretary, Wilson Brainard; treasurer, F. C. Flynt; executive committee, F. E. Severy, F. S. Homer and C. C. Keep.

The funeral of Mrs. Margaret A. Maguire, wife of John C. Maguire, who died at her home on High street last Friday morning, was held from her late home Monday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock. Rev. G. A. Andrews, pastor of the Congregational church, officiated. Burial was in No 1 cemetery.

The Ladies' Benevolent Society of the M. E. church will serve a hash supper next Tuesday evening from 6 to 8, followed by an entertainment consisting of a play entitled, "A double deception," under the direction of Mrs. F. W. McConnell, with the following to take part: Mrs. Guy Pelton, Helen M. Needham, Gladys Moore, William Moffett and Guy Pelton.

Many Children Are Sickly.

Mother Gray's Sweet Powders for children break up Colds in 24 hours, relieve Feverishness, Headache, Stomach Troubles, Teething Disorders, and Destroy Worms. At all druggists, 25c. Sample mailed FREE. Address, Allen S. Olmstead, LeRoy, N. Y.

ROYAL
Baking Powder

Absolutely Pure

Makes Home Baking Easy

With minimum trouble and cost biscuit, cake and pastry are made fresh, clean and greatly superior to the ready-made, dry, found-in-the-shop variety, and danger of alum food is avoided.

NEW USE FOR THE SCHOOLS

Plan Is Put Forward to Utilize Some of the Sixty Per Cent. Waste Time.

The American school plant is valued at more than $1,000,000,000, and as used for school purposes alone utilizes but thirty-nine per cent. of the time which could be given to the needs of the community. This, according to the National Magazine, represents a total loss of school plants to the country of more than $30,000,000 every year.

An active movement is now taking place to turn school property during the summer months into children's playgrounds and places of amusement and to make them the center of recreation, of political and social life, the same as in country places, where they serve many purposes, oftentimes even for church services.

Evening schools, free lectures, indoor sports, folk dances, civic and educational meetings and gymnastic exercises are among the things mentioned for which school plants should be utilized. It is proposed by some to have the schoolhouses opened every day of the week, Sundays included, so that the community may get the greatest possible benefit from them.

If this movement grows pupils will no longer find after vacation a musty smelling deserted building, but rather one which has been in use every day in the year by those who love to give the public every possible advantage of the buildings provided for public purposes.

WELSH HOME LIFE UNIFORM

There Is No Upper Middle Class and and Shop Keepers Are Usually the Leaders.

The student of Welsh life and character who encounters almost any village in North Wales will be able to acquire a full knowledge of his subject without traveling a mile further. For Welsh life has a certain quality of uniformity which is not found in the other constituent peoples of the empire.

Practically there is no upper middle class in Wales. A few rich middle-class Welsh families there are, but these, even if they keep up a Welsh home, usually draw their wealth and spend it beyond the Welsh border. If, however, the visitor wishes to know who controls public opinion, who sits on the district and county councils, or even who represents the division in the house of commons, he had much better regard the names painted over the shop fronts than try to discover the identity of the occupants of the lavish red brick villa which looks down into the village from its place on the hillside. The owner of the villa, as likely as not, will be found to be an Englishman—a retired Manchester contton spinner or a shipowner from Liverpool.

"I had been troubled with constipation for two years and tried all of the best physicians in Bristol, Tenn., and they could do nothing for me," writes Thos. E. Williams, Middleboro, Ky. "Two packages of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets cured me." For sale by all dealers.

"THE LINEN STORE"

Frank K. Confield, Prop.

FANCY LINENS,
TOWELS AND
HANDKERCHIEFS
FOR CHRISTMAS LINENS,

Our stocks are displayed so that you can inspect the various articles at your leisure and make careful selections.

"THE LINEN STORE"
121 State St. 121 State St.

LIVES AND WRITINGS UNLIKE

Men of Letters Often Have Described Best That Which They Never Have Experienced.

Finally, a man of genius, when he writes a book, and "all the good comes rushing into his soul," is in an abnormal state, and hence, the lives of men of letters have often been in glaring contrast to their writings. Montaigne tells us that he always observed super-celestial opinions to be accompanied with subterranean morals; on the other hand, the most latitudinarian professors of epicureanism have often lived like anchorites or trappists. Some of the best sea songs have been written by men who never snuffed a salt water breeze; stirring war songs have been written by timid men and women who would have shrieked at the sight of a mouse; and hymns steeped in the very spirit of devotion have been written by men of doubtful morality, who were never less at home than in a Christian church. Charles Lamb was ready to wager that Milton's morning hymn in Paradise was penned at midnight; and we know positively that Thompson, who sang the praises of early rising in the "Seasons," used to lie abed till noon. Sir Richard Steele could discourse eloquently on temperance—when he was not drunk; Woodworth, in his "Old Oaken Bucket," sang the praise of cold water under the inspiration of brandy. Doctor Johnson, who wrote so well on politeness, interrupted his opponents with "You lie, sir!" "You are a vile Whig, sir!" Burns was a compound of "dirt and deity;" Rousseau, who was always filling people's eyes with tears, betrayed and slandered his benefactors in turn, and sent his children to the foundlings hospital. When Moore proposed to Scott to go and see Melrose Abbey, as Sir Walter had described it, by moonlight, "Pooh, pooh," said Scott, "you don't suppose I ever saw it by moonlight!"—William Matthews.

Those Undesired Wrinkles.

An habitual expression of inquiry is to blame for permanent lines across the forehead. Then there is another muscle whose office is to draw down the eyebrows. It does its piece of work—and what we speak of is a frown. The permanency of this expression is not in keeping with a happy nature, and is one of the least desired lines.

Every family has need of a good, reliable liniment. For sprains, bruises, soreness of the musles and rheumatic pains there is none better than Chamberlain's. Sold by all dealers.

WHEN HER BACK ACHES

A Woman Finds All Her Energy and Ambition Slipping Away.

Palmer women know how the aches and pains that come when the kidneys fail make life a burden. Backache, hip pains, headaches, dizzy spells, distressing urinary troubles, all tell of sick kidneys and warn you of the stealthy approach of dropsy or Bright's disease. Doan's Kidney Pills are for the kidneys only. They attack kidney diseases by striking at the cause. Here's proof of it in a Palmer woman's words:

Mrs. A. Sherman, 24 Park St., Palmer, Mass., says: "All I said in praise of Doan's Kidney Pills when I publicly recommended them in August, 1908, still holds good. It would be hard to fully describe the misery I endured from kidney complaint. I was rarely free from a dull bearing-down pain in my back and I was subject to chills and dizzy spells. My head ached, my appetite was poor and I had a feeling of languor. When I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised, I obtained a box at Lynde & Gould's Drug Store and they helped me from the first. As I continued taking them I steadily grew better until my trouble was a thing of the past."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name — DOAN'S — and take no other.

An Epileptic Patient Missing.

On October 6, Joseph Lupien disappeared from the Palmer Fair Grounds, and since has not been heard from. He is of French origin, complexion dark, aged 23 years, height 5 ft. 5 in., stooping posture, eyes blue, nose crooked to one side of face. It is probable that he has obtained work on some farm. Any information as to his whereabouts direct to MONSON STATE HOSPITAL, Palmer, Mass

Two Educations.

We all have two educations, one from others, and another, and the most valuable, which we give ourselves. It is the last which fixes our grade in society and eventually our actual conditions in this life, and the color of our fate hereafter. All the professors and teachers in the world cannot make you a wise or good man without your own co-operation; and if such you are determined to be, the want of them will not prevail.—John Randolph.

Eye Strain.

Of all the misfortunes that could befall a human being, the loss of sight is probably the greatest, and yet no organ of the body is so constantly abused as the eye. The trouble is that the possessor of the normal eye does not take into consideration that in all near work, as in reading, writing, sewing, etc., the eye is actively engaged as well as the hands and brain, and that the eye only is at rest when looking into space or when closed.

Clean-up Sale of Monuments

Don't miss this chance of getting one of them. Manufactured from the best granite in the world and guaranteed to be satisfactory.

The lettering and placing on your lot will be executed in the same careful manner which has won commendation from past customers. The prices will be sure to suit you; they cannot be duplicated.

Palmer Granite and Marble Works

W. H. MacLean, Prop.

10 Converse St., rear of High School.

New Line of

Sweaters
Auto Hoods
Scarfs
Aviation Caps
Mufflers
Window Shades

The Famous
Interwoven Hosiery

Hellyar's Bargain Store

Converse House Block, Palmer, Mass.

HAYNES & CO.

Always Reliable

Springfield Massachusetts

It's Time Well Spent

Coming to the Haynes Store for your Suit and Overcoat and, in fact, all the other wearables you need.

Not only will you find values here that are not to be found in your own town, but there are thousands of both Suits and Overcoats to choose from and a satisfactory selection is assured.

The choicest products of the country's best clothes makers—clothes that it will please you to wear and ones that will give you the satisfactory wear you like to receive.

Suits and Overcoats at $12, $15, $16.50, $18, $20, $22, $25 and $30.

We prepay express on mail orders.

Thanksgiving

"For the sunshine and the rain,
For the dew and for the shower,
For the yellow, ripened grain,
And the golden harvest hour,
We bless Thee, oh, our God!

"For the heat and the shade,
For the gladness and the grief,
For the tender, sprouting blade,
And for the nodding sheaf,
We bless Thee, oh, our God!

"For the hope and for the fear,
For the storm and for the peace,
For the trembling and the cheer,
And for the glad increase,
We bless Thee, oh, our God!

"Our hands have tilled the sod,
And the torpid seed have sown;
But the quickening was of God,
And the praise be His alone.
We bless Thee, oh, our God!"

Winnie's Thanksgiving

By Donald Allen

"IF I was a girl, I wouldn't go walking too far," said old Uncle Robert, as a girl of twenty passed him on her way down to the gate of the farm house.

"And why not?" she asked, as she almost came to a pause.

"Well, according to my idea, it's going to rain and snow and blow and hail, and when the storm does break, she's going to be a buster."

"I wanted to go to the postoffice to mail a letter."

"It's three miles there and back, and if I was you I'd put it off. Mebbe somebody'll be passing that you can send by. Tomorror's Thanksgiving, you know, and we are going to have the awfulest, biggest, nicest dinner anybody ever sat down to. It's in your honor, you know. There'll be a turkey, a duck and a chicken; there'll be cranberry sass, pumpkin pies, currant jell, sweet cider and apple dumplins; there'll be—"

"I think I'll just walk a little ways, anyhow," said the girl, as she opened the gate and passed down the highway toward the village and the railroad depot.

"And if you come home as wet as a hen don't say I didn't warn ye. It's going to come, and it's going to be a buster."

Half an hour later a middle-aged woman with a motherly face and voice came out on the steps and asked:

"Pa, do you reckon it's goin' to storm?"

"Sure as ducks."

"Where's Minnie?"

"O, she's gone for a santer. I give her warning. What's she wantin' to mail a letter for? I hain't mailed a letter nor got one in twenty years, and I guess I'm about as well off as most folks. I was going to ask her but forgot it."

"Don't you ask her a word about it," cautioned the wife as she came down to him. "I guess Minnie's got something on her mind, but it hain't none o' your business."

"Something on her mind, eh? That's funny. Didn't know that girls ever had anything on their minds except new clothes. Is that why she come visiting us all of a sudden?"

"None o' your business! I guess my own sister's daughter can come and see me any time she takes a notion, and that without writing ahead. What's on her mind, as nigh as I can make out, is about a young man. They are engaged, and they've had a falling out, and she's sorter run away from him to find out if he really cares for her."

"And she's got scared about it and has written him a letter to tell where she is?" queried the husband.

"Go on! It's probably a letter to her ma, though I didn't see it nor ask. I hope she didn't start for town. It's going to storm for sure, and there hain't but one house on the road where she could find shelter. Look down the road and see if you can see her."

"Can't see hide nor hair of any girl," reported Uncle Robert after going out to the highway and taking a long look.

An hour later, with both uncle and aunt fidgeting about their girl visitor, the gray afternoon had become twilight. In 15 minutes there was cold rain and lively hail, and Uncle Robert was blown into the kitchen.

Miss Minnie had reached town and mailed her letter and started back again when the storm broke. Before it came she thought she could make out a human figure on the road ahead of her, but wasn't sure.

The very first gust picked her up and turned her around and deposited her under a roadside tree. She remained there until the gale began to whip the branches off, and then let go her hold and ran for it.

She hadn't gone a quarter of a mile when, as she crouched and covered her face, she was struck by a falling limb and knew no more.

It was the dim sight of the girl and the scream she uttered when hit, that sent the man who was clinging to the roadside fence back into the highway. He bent over the unconscious form and picked it up and staggered back to the fence and followed it until he saw a light and found the gate of a farmhouse.

His lusty calls for help soon brought out a man, and the senseless burden was carried into the house and received by a woman.

"I don't know who she is, but I found her in the road," explained her rescuer. "There is blood on her hair, and I think she was struck down."

"We'll do all we can," replied the man and woman together, "but you mustn't look for much. We are mighty poor folks. We hain't got no camphor nor whisky, and as for getting a doctor out from town—it can't be done tonight."

The girl was carried into the only bedroom and laid on the only bed, and when her wet clothing had been removed and she was between the sheets, the woman got a cloth and a basin of water and washed away the blood and whispered to the stranger:

"I don't think she's bad hurt. She's just fainted away with the scare of it. When she opens her eyes I'll tell her to go to sleep, and she'll be all right in the morning."

"Do you think it's some young lady from the village?" asked the stranger of the farmer as they talked in whispers in the outer room.

"No, I don't reckon so. I reckon it's that new girl that arrived at Turner's a few days ago. I saw her going towards the village two hours ago."

"Arrived at Turner's! Say, man, are you sure? Is it a strange girl to the neighborhood?"

"I've heard say it was Uncle Bob's niece, and that she come from the city. What ails you, stranger? Does this storm upset you?"

It wasn't the storm. Percy Kincaid had quarreled with the girl he loved and had asked to be his wife. It was about nothing, almost, as most lovers' quarrels are, but pride on either side held off a reconciliation until the lover finally learned that Miss Minnie had gone on a journey and left no word for him.

She was going to spend Thanksgiving week in the country. Within two days she had relented; within three he was making every effort to locate her, that he might patch up a peace.

He had succeeded. He was going to throw himself on her mercy and ask Uncle Robert for a place at his Thanksgiving table.

The storm grew fiercer as the night advanced. When another day came even the cattle could not face the storm nor man move from his door. It was Thanksgiving day. At Uncle Robert's there was a feast to be spread;

"I don't believe they'd eat a single mouthful."

at Bradley's there was hardly better than poorhouse fare.

But the victim of the accident was no longer in bed, and the rescuer no longer cared about the weather, and the farmer folks looked at each other and smiled and whispered:

"Even if we had turkey and cranberry sauce I don't believe they'd eat a single mouthful. They've just sorter found each other and are tickled to death."

And when at last they could make their way to Turner's, and Uncle Bob stuttered and Aunt Harriet cried for joy, Miss Minnie asked in a way that was almost heartless:

"Why do you take on so? I never had such a lovely Thanksgiving in all my life!"

Honor Belongs to Pilgrim Fathers.

Long before the advent of the Pilgrims in Massachusetts all rituals contained expressions of gratitude to God for his mercies. In that of the Church of England special prayers were provided for the Sunday service This service, however, must be carefully distinguished from the Thanksgiving day of the Pilgrim fathers. Failure to make this distinction has led to the groundless claim that the Popham colonists were "the first to keep Thanksgiving day" in America. The service at Monhegan, on which this claim is based, was the regular Sunday service of the Church of England; and while it had an element of thanksgiving, the day can in nowise be regarded as a Thanksgiving day as that term is understood. Cotemporary evidence refutes all claim to the contrary.

Anomaly Frequently Noticed.

The worst men often give the best advice.—Bailey.

Playing the Hermit

By Lawrence Alfred Clay

Bascom Hayes was missing. His sister and her husband, with whom he lived, said he was—his club friends said the same thing—the public press announced that he had vanished off the face of the earth without leaving so much as a trail of dust behind.

And who was Bascom Hayes to be missing and have whistles blown and horns tooted and private deteetives set on edge? Just an old bachelor with a comfortable income, complacent in his nature and lazy and unambitious by nature.

Missing! No clew! Last seen sitting in a public park at midnight. Had a despondent air and was so pre-occupied that when a vag called him "Cully" and struck him for a quarter he neither answered to the name nor handed over the shiner. Foul play, perhaps, as he was known always to carry enough with him to pay his taxi fare, no matter how much the chauffeur meddled with the clock. No reason known why he should climb to the top of the Singer building and leap off. His laundry account was paid up to the last cent, and he was three cigarette packages ahead of the game. No reward, but the grateful thanks of a sister for information.

No reward, but still a score of private detectives called and expressed their willingness to take up the case for the prestige it would give one. He would have been but for his voice. Striking an attitude he hoarsely whispered:

"In love—got the skate—jumped from one of the bridges! He had reached that age when a turn-down is fatal to a man. His body will be found washed up on Staten Island! I go to keep watch!"

"But Bascom was not in love," protested the sister. "He has never loved. A thousand times he has declared he would never marry."

"Sly dog—sly dog!" whispered the detective. "He was simply putting you off the scent. Listen to me. On the last night you saw him I was walking on Madison avenue, following the trail of a murderer. Of a sudden the front of door No. 4,000,000 opens and a man descends the steps and plunges into the gloom. I had a fair look at his face and figure, and if ever there was black despair, it was there. He had been turned down by the widow

The Widow Took a Long Look.

who lives there. That man was your brother. He had got it bad and could not survive the shock!"

"I can't believe it," replied the sister.

"Go to the house and interview the widow. Nice little lady, but she was toying with your brother's heartstrings. Go charge her with it and you will bring the guilty blush to her face."

The sister decided not to do any such thing. She saw several embarrassing objections to that line of conduct. Neither did she believe that her brother had committed suicide, but she was willing that the detective should patrol the beaches of Staten Island at his own expense.

"'Tis done!" he whispered. "I charge you nothing for finding the sad remains, but when I arrive here with them on a truck you can tender me a small sum in payment."

There was a little widow living at No. 4,000,000 on the avenue named and the detective in mousing around had seen a man leave the house at a late hour. He didn't know whether the man was the widow's grandfather, father, uncle or brother, but he called him Bascom Gray. The little widow also knew that Mr. Gray was missing. She heard of it orally, and she read in the papers. She also knew just why he was missing, but she wasn't chasing around to volunteer information. Widows know when to keep quiet. Besides, after several days had gone by she received a letter from a friend in the country containing news that relieved her mind considerably and brought a smile to her face and a plan to her mind.

"I wish you were here," wrote the correspondent. "We have a romantic mystery on hand. There's an old log house in the woods half a mile down the road. It has not been occupied for years, and is sadly out of repair, but behold! a hermit came a day or two ago to take up his quarters. No old rags! No venerable whiskers! Middle-aged and decently dressed, and they say he spends most of his time mooning and sighing. Lives mostly on turnips, I guess, and sleeps on a brush bed. Uncle Jim was over see him yesterday, but could not get much out of him. Seems to be some one who has been disappointed in love, and thinks the world has gone to smash. Hurry down and help us to solve the mystery by finding the guilty party who gave him the shake."

The widow smiled and nodded as she read the letter. She even said to herself: "Yes, that would be just like him." Then she went to packing so as to leave for the country sooner than she had planned for. She started, arrived, and was welcomed. She had scarcely hugged her friend when she was greeted with:

"The hermit is there yet. We heard him crooning a love song last night, after stealing onions and turnips for his supper."

"Some escaped lunatic, probably."

"Oh, no, he can't be. He's just breaking his heart over some woman. What a wicked wretch she must be to drive him out of the world in this way!"

"Y-e-s. And what a ninny he must be to have been driven."

"Now, then, hurry up and change and get lunch and we'll go over to the hut. Perhaps we can encourage and console him."

An hour later the widow announced that she was going to see the hermit. She might or might not know him, but she had an idea she did. There was considerable argument about her going alone, but she prevailed, and got directions and started off. It was an ideal place for a hermit. The woods and brush were dense, the old house almost roofless, and a more lonely spot could not have been found for ten miles around. From the shelter a brush the widow took a long look. Only a woodpecker was to be seen and heard, and he was certainly a dejected looking bird. After a time an advance was made to the gaping doorway, and the hermit of the wilderness was made out to be seated in a dark corner with his head on his knees.

"Bascom, come out!"

The figure never stirred.

"Come out, I say!"

"Who—what?"

"Come out and don't play the ninny."

"Is it you, Nina?" was asked in a mournful voice as a disheveled figure arose and came to the door.

"Of course it is. Come along!"

"It's too late!"

"Too late, nothing!"

And she took the hermit's hand and led him to a little glade and sat him down and seated herself beside him and said:

"All I said that night was that a man with your money and brains ought to do something to make yourself known to the world, and you became angry and took your departure."

"But you—you intimated—"

"Yes, but that's all passed. You have done something, and that's all I asked. You are in all the papers. You are the talk of the town. You are being searched for. Bascom, no woman wants to marry a nonentity. You are not one. You have made a fool of yourself and we'll be married as soon as you wish!"

A Bashful Couple.

Arthur had never kept company with a girl, nor had Maria ever "received attentions," but by some miracle they now found themselves together, riding on a lonesome country road

Conversation was at a standstill The old nag stumped along with his head hung low, and would not hurry Not a man or a house was in sight not a sound could be heard. The silence was intense and oppressive. Maria scanned the fringe of ragweed on her side of the road. Arthur peered hopefully into the hazel brush on his side.

A half-grown rabbit sprang from somewhere, and with a dozen leaps was gone.

"Do you like rabbit?" asked Maria, impulsively.

"Yes," replied the swain, quickly. And there he stopped. His mouth hung wide open, but not another word occurred to him.

He blushed. He remembered there was not a house nor a man in sight. He strained his eyes at the fringe of hazel brush. The silence intensified, and bore down like a palpable weight. Then Arthur drew in a sharp breath, pulled himself together resolutely, and glanced toward his friend.

"And my!" he said. "And my! Ain't the gravy good?"—Youth's Companion.

HOW MANY STARS IN FLAG?

Wide Guesses Made by Veterans Who Had Fought Under It—Do You Know?

At a recent state encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic a newspaper in the city where the meeting was held decided to find out the veterans' ideas as to the number of stars which should be in the United States flag at the present time. The results of the paper's endeavors were interesting. Thirty-one veterans were questioned and 12 different answers were reeeived. The veterans' guesses ranged all the way from 30 to 50.

One soldier, whose answer was not counted as it was palpably wrong, said that there were 12 stars at the present time in our flag. This soldier had served in a large number of fights in his four years in the United States army in the Civil war and had been attending encampments regularly since they had been inaugurated. He seemed to make his guess in perfect good faith.

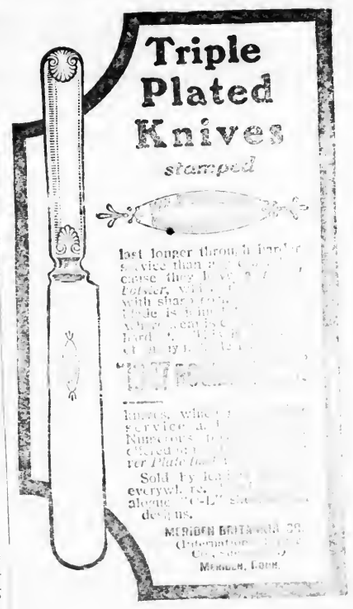
Many of the veterans said they remembered how many stars there were in the flag at the time of the memorable conflict, but they had somehow lost track since being mustered out. One old soldier said he knew there were 47 stars in the flag some time ago. 'But," he said, 'I don't know how many there are now since we've taken in Cuba."

Of the 12 different answers received, nine veterans said they thought there were 45 stars in the flag now. Among the men who favored this number was the retiring department commander of the G. A. R. The other answers went like this: Six were for 48 stars, three for 47, three for 46, two for 49, two for 42, one for 40, and one each for 30, 32, 50, 38 and 63.

Which of these numbers is correct? How many stars are there in our flag?

The Martinet.

"The martinet never succeeds. A typical martinet was the well-known one who, having ordered his men to change their shirts, and then having learned that they had no shirts to change, said in that event they must change shirts with each other. I heard yesterday of still another type of martinet."



The speaker was Col. Hugh Lenox Scott of West Point. He continued:

"This chap, a captain, strode up to one of his men and said with a fearful frown:

"'Who's the idiot that ordered you to leave that mess of empty meat cans right here in front of headquarters?'

"'It was the colonel, sir,' the man replied.

"'Very well, then,' said the captain sharply; 'let it stay there. And your leave's stopped for a week, my man, for calling your colonel an idiot.'"

Palmer Savings Bank,
Palmer, Mass.

Officers.
H. G. LOOMIS, President.
R. C. NEWELL, 1st Vice President.
W. E. STONE, 2d Vice President.
C. F. SMITH, 3d Vice President.
GEORGE A. RICE, Clerk.

Auditors.
W. E. Stone. E. B. Taylor.
C. A. LeGro.

Board of Investment.
H. G. Loomis. W. E. Stone. C. F. Smith.
H. E. W. Clark. E. E. Hobson

Trustees.
H. G. Loomis. W. E. Stone. J. O. Hamilton.
H. E. W. Clark. G. D. Mooers. L. J. Potter.
R. C. Newell. L. R. Holden. C. L. Wald.
Geo. S. Holden. C. E. Fuller. E. B. Taylor.
M. J. Dillon. C. F. Smith. C. A. LeGro.

Treasurer.
C. L. Wald.

Safe Deposit Boxes for rent.

Banking Hours: 9 a. m. to 3 p. m. Saturday, 9 a. m. to 12 m. Friday Evening, 7.30 to 9.

PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM
Cleanses and beautifies the hair. Promotes a luxuriant growth. Never Fails to Restore Gray Hair to its Youthful Color. Cures scalp diseases & hair falling. 50c. and $1.00 at Druggists

The Antalgica
Or Vegetable Pain Restorer

was introduced to the public in 1848, since which time thousands of bottles have been sold each year to an appreciative public, which is a good evidence of its merits. It is adapted to so many ailments it should be in every household, for it cures all kinds of pains both internal and external. For Bronchial affections it is unrivaled by any article in the market. It is a sure cure for Cholera Morbus and Dysentery, if taken in season, also for Coughs. It is an effective remedy for rheumatic affections, stiff joints, swelled limbs, sprains, cramps, toothache and many other ills to which the flesh is heir. Try it and it will do you good. It is sold at 25c, 50c and $1 00 per bottle by the Bay State Drug Co., Lynde & Gould, and the proprietor.

O. P. Allen,
Palmer, Mass.

Some Women Dread Baking Day—Others Use A

Glenwood

The Glenwood Ash Chute

Bottles up all the dust and ashes and conveys them via pipe to a Tight Ash Receiver in cellar. See the Plain Cabinet Glenwood Range.

"Makes Cooking Easy"

Large Copper Reservoir on end.

The E. Brown Co., Palmer

The Palmer Journal.

VOLUME LXII. PALMER, MASS., FRIDAY EVENING, DECEMBER 8, 1911. NUMBER 36.

FAIR OFFICERS ELECTED.

Eastern Hampden Agricultural Society's Annual.

ENTHUSIASTIC GATHERING MONDAY

President Bradway and Secretary Chandler to Serve Again. Plans Will Be Pushed.

If there has been any thought that the hard luck of the Eastern Hampden Agricultural Society in getting rain for last day of its fair last October might operate to discontinue the fairs of the society, that thought would have been most effectually disposed of if the holder had been present at the annual meeting Monday. The officers and members of the society recognize that the Palmer Fair is very much of a going institution; its work and record is attracting attention of agriculturists near and far, and is attracting new exhibitors every year. New members are also being added constantly, the last year recording a score or more. The members and officers appreciate that it was the weather and the weather alone which was responsible for the deficit in the treasury, and will take another chance next year. All appeared decidedly enthusiastic, and it is expected that work for the exhibition next fall will begin at an early date.

President O. E. Bradway.

The president for the coming year will be Omer E. Bradway of Monson, who is now serving his twelfth consecutive term. Louis E. Chandler of Palmer, who has held the office of secretary for ten consecutive years, will remain in the office another term. Roy E. Cummings, treasurer, declined further service. The list of officers elected is as follows: President, Omer E. Bradway of Monson; vice presidents, H. D. Vaille of Monson, J. T. Geer of Three Rivers; secretary, Louis E. Chandler of Palmer; treasurer, Harry C. Ellithorpe of Palmer; auditor, W. M. Tucker of Monson; directors, Charles H. Keith, Francis L. Jones, Francis J. Hamilton, John O. Hamilton, James Summers of Palmer, F. D. Rogers, W. M. Tucker, F. A. Moore, G. C. Flynt, A. H. Burdick of Monson, Orrin Hicks of Brimfield, J. K. Butler, H. A. Edson of North Wilbraham, C. P. Bolles of Wilbraham, G. A. Chapin of Hampden, F. C. Burton of East Longmeadow, J. L. Brooks of Springfield, E. C. Howard of Belchertown; delegate to State Board of Agriculture for three years, O. E. Bradway.

Secretary L. E. Chandler.

Superior Court Entries.

Among the cases entered in the superior court this week, are the following of local interest:

Action of tort—Ellen L. Twiss against C. W. Darling & Co., $500, for alleged damage to a pair of horses when they collided with defendant's team at Palmer.

Action of contract—Trustees of Wesleyan Academy at Wilbraham against A. J. Markham of Springfield $100, on account.

Pomona Grange Meeting.

Held in Palmer Wednesday. Good Attendance. Interesting Paper.

Springfield Pomona Grange met with Palmer Grange Wednesday. At the morning session the following officers were elected: Master, H. I. Moody of East Longmeadow; overseer, Francis L. Jones of Palmer; lecturer, Mrs. A. E. Ballard of Hampden; steward, Edward S. Wells of Palmer; assistant steward, F. M. Graves of Granby; chaplain, F. S. Forward of Granby; treasurer, Charles B. Bennett of Ludlow; secretary, Mrs. C. L. Hayward of Agawam; gatekeeper, G. H. Baldwin of Chicopee; Ceres, Miss Jennie Graves of Granby; Pomona, Mrs. F. C. Burton of East Longmeadow; Flora, Miss Isabelle Chapman of Ludlow; lady assistant steward, Mrs. A. F. Steinkiehler of Springfield; member of executive committee for three years, Herman W. King of East Longmeadow.

Eight granges responded to the roll call, and there were a number of visitors present. Palmer Grange served a lunch at noon to the members and visitors.

The afternoon session opened at 2. A good musical program was interspersed among the discussions. A discussion on the subject "Does the farmer and his family appreciate his opportunities" was opened by F. D. Rogers of Monson. L. T. Gray, Rev. F. S. Brewer and Mr. Gibbs took part in the discussion. Rev. C. B. Bliss, chaplain of the Hampden Grange, read an interesting paper on "Suggestions for 1912."

The second discussion was on the subject "Which is the greatest drawback to the farmer, lack of capital or lack of method." Walter Carpenter of Monson, Irving Green and Miss Anna Wells took part in this discussion.

The next Pomona Grange will be held at East Longmeadow January 3, when the new officers will be installed by State Master Gardner.

Burglars at Warren.

House Ransacked and About $100 Taken. Intruders Wake Woman.

The tenement occupied by Frank Lavigne on Crescent street in Warren was ransacked by burglars early Saturday morning and about $100 worth of jewelry and a few other things taken.

Mrs. Lavigne was aroused about 2.30 by a sound in the hall, and noticed that her watch was gone from a stand in the room, the light having been left burning. She aroused Mr. Lavigne, and a hasty search revealed that the intruders had ransacked the house and had gone out the front door. Mr. Lavinge is proprietor of the Star moving picture company, and the burglars evidently thought that there must be money somewhere. Mr. Lavigne summoned Constable Joseph St. George, and he, with several assistants, searched all about the neighborhood, the freight yards and about the new bridge, where all trains slow down, but saw no suspicious persons. A careful examination of the house revealed that there was missing two gold watches, a gold watch chain with a $2.50 gold piece as a charm, two gold rings, a gold bracelet, three pairs of trousers, a pair of shoes and $1.75 in cash. There was quite a sum of money in the house, but the burglars did not succeed in finding it.

The next morning an old winter cap was found near the house, and two pairs of trousers and two pairs of shoes were found behind H. Woodard's barn, which is about 100 yards from the house. They were turned over to Constable St. George, being the only clues he had to work on in his search for the guilty parties.

Wales Will Upheld.

Estate of Mary A. Royce Will Go As She Desired.

At a sitting of the superior court Monday in Springfield Judge DeCourcy affirmed the decree of Judge Charles L. Long of the probate court in allowing the will of Mary E. Royce, late of Wales, who died on February 25. Mrs. Royce's children, Andrew J. Royce, Julia A. Belcher and Lizzie M. Heck, opposed the will, alleging that their mother was of unsound mind when she made it and that she was unduly influenced by two other daughters, Rosa V. Cook and Ida M. Squier, who were appointed executrices of the will. The will provides that the estate shall be equally divided among the three daughters, Mrs. Heck, Mrs. Cook and Mrs. Squier, after the payment of $100 to the son. The other daughter, Mrs. Belcher, was cut off without a cent. Mrs. Heck, although under the will she will received about one-thir of the estate, joined with Mrs. Belcher and Mr. Royce in asking to have the will broken, in which case she would have received only one-fifth of the estate.

STABBED BY HIS FRIEND

Guisseppe Di Leo Killed at the Door of His Boarding House.

HE WAS GOING OUT TO AVOID TROUBLE

After Row Which Began Outside of Building. Friendly Joshing Over Suit of Clothes Original Cause. Murderer Was Caught in a Few Minutes.

Continued joking allusions to the style of a new coat cost Guisseeppe Di Leo, better known here as George Cattsmitt, an Italian in Palmer, his life at the hands of a man whom—up to a short time before his death—he had chummed with and counted as one of his best friends, Paul Correndi. The work was done evidently with a stiletto, about 11.30 Wednesday night at 56 Water street, where the men roomed.

According to inmates of the house, the two men came home some time after 11 o'clock; Correndi went into the room of the proprietor of the house, Lorenzo Denno, and told him that he and Di Leo had quarrelled outside and that Di Leo had stabbed him twice. He carried two wounds on his right wrist. Di Leo went into his room and announced to the other occupants that he did not propose to stay in that house any longer—that he was going up to the Red Block at the other end of the street to live. He packed his suitcase and started down the stairs. As he neared the bottom he was followed by Correndi and there was a mixup at the foot of the stairs or just outside the door, just which has not been definitely determined. The men above heard the disturbance and hurried down, but Di Leo was then beyond help. They drew the body into the dining room and went for the police.

Officer Timothy J. Crimmins was notified about 11.45 that there was trouble on Water street, his informants being Lorenzo Denno, the proprietor of the house where the trouble occurred, and Tony Augustina, one of the boarders or roomers. He made quick time to that locality and found the body of Di Leo lying on the floor of the dining room; it needed only a glance to show that the man was dead. Going into the next room, or kitchen, he found Correndi washing his hands at the sink. The officer at once slipped the bracelets on his man, who made no resistance. Deputy Sheriff Bills and Special Officer Thomas was sent for, and all were taken to the lockup, Denno, Augustina and Michael Cuzzone, another roomer, being detained as witnesses. In searching about the premises later Officer Thomas found, near the front piazza steps, a knife which had once two small and a large blade; the large blade was about three inches long, and the knife was on the whole such a one as any man might carry in his pocket; there was blood on the handle, and this would seem to strengthen Correndi's statement that he had been stabbed before entering the house, the knife apparently having been dropped or thrown away afterward.

Di Leo's body was taken to Phillips' undertaking rooms on Main street, where an autopsy was performed yesterday under the direction of Medical Examiner Dr. Jacob P. Schneider. The wound which caused death was found to be between the third and fourth ribs, about ¾ of an inch wide and penetrating to the heart. It was evidently made by a slim instrument and death was almost instantaneous. There was a bad but not serious wound in the groin, and slight wounds on the right wrist and chin.

In the district court yesterday morning Correndi was charged with murder and pleaded not guilty. He was represented by Attorney David F. Dillon of Palmer. The case was continued until to-morrow morning without bail. Tony Augustina was held as a material witness in the sum of $1000, which he was unable to furnish; Augustine and Cuzzone were held as witnesses in the sum of $100 each without sureties.

Just what the immediate cause of the killing was is not known, even by those who were in the house with the men—or if they do know they have not told. It is certain however that it was the outcome of the "joshing" which Di Leo had been giving his friend Correndi from time to time for nearly two weeks over a new suit of clothes. Some time in November the two men visited a local tailor and selected a piece of cloth for a suit, both suits to be from the same piece. Both suits were also practically identical in cut except that Correndi had his coat cut rather short. That of Di Leo's suit was longer and more dandified. The suits were taken and paid for the Saturday night before Thanksgiving, and Di Leo at once began to "jolly" Correndi about his coat being too short and not in as good style as his own. The men seemed perfectly friendly about it all, and there was no thought of the matter approaching the seriousness which it did, though, as said before, just what started the trouble Wednesday night, or what it was that was directly responsible for the row outside the house, is not known. Both men have been employed as laborers on the state highway, and were considered good workmen and peaceable, giving little or no trouble.

Di Leo has two brothers living in Worcester and parents and a sister in Italy. Relatives and friends of the murdered man arrived on the 10 o'clock train from Worcester last night and took charge of the body.

Personal Mention.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Slattery have returned from their wedding trip.

Horace Stimson is confined to his home in Palmer Center by illness.

Mrs. William Cordner has been called to Iroquois, Can., by the serious illness of her father.

Alfred Christiansen of Palmer Center has been confined to the house for a time on account of sickness.

Miss Helen Butler of Fitchburg has been the guest of her sister, Mrs. A.W. Holbrook on North Main street.

Mr. and Mrs. William Burdick have returned from their wedding trip and will reside on South Main street.

E. D. Tufts will move his family from State avenue to Stafford Springs, Ct., where he is engaged in business.

Frank Reed, who has been employed by G. A. Authier, has gone to Florida, where he has a position for the winter.

Mrs. Robert Grimston of Palmer Center, who has been seriously ill, has sufficiently recovered to be able to sit up a little.

Mr. and Mrs. William A. Smith have returned from their wedding trip and will live in A. Podrat's house on South Main street.

Mr. and Mrs. William Kavanaugh and daughters, Frances and Margaret, spent Sunday at the home of J. L. Wilder on Pine street.

Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Parker of Central street enjoyed recently an auto trip in Connecticut, Rhode Island and the eastern part of this state.

John Smith of Montague is to move his family to Palmer and will occupy the tenement in his house on Pine street, recently occupied by D. Dunn.

Miss Sarah Kenyon, who has been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Kenyon of South Main street, has returned to her home in Amherst.

Dr. Jacob P. Schneider attended Monday at White River Junction, Vt., the marriage of his brother, Dr. Harry A. Schneider, and Miss Charlotte Mae Wheeler.

Thorvald Johnson of Palmer Center is spending the week with relatives in Springfield. Miss Thora Johnson spent Thanksgiving with Miss Agnes Christiansen in Springfield.

Mrs. Charles McCarthy entertained Mr. and Mrs. William A. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Moses Longtine and Miss Anna Longtine of Springfield and Eugene Lynch of Indian Orchard at her home on Pond street Sunday.

Mrs. Joseph Connor of Main street, who recently returned from a hospital in Holyoke, where she underwent an operation for appendicitis, was again taken to that institution Sunday for another operation, blood poisoning having developed.

J. W. B. Mannion, a former resident of Palmer, is visiting friends in town this week. Mr. Mannion is now in the Philippines, and has a position in Manila as buyer for the Philippine Civil government. He has been on leave of absence since May, and is not due in Manila for another couple of months. He came to America by way of Europe, and will return by way of San Francisco.

For Use of Scented Bait.

Palmer Officer Secures First Conviction in State Under New Law.

Deputy Fish and Game Commissioner John F. Luman of Palmer and Deputy Shea of Ware had the distinction of bringing, in the district court at East Brookfield last Saturday, the first case in the state for setting traps with scented bait. The complaint was against Robert D. Barnes of Ware; he was found guilty and fined $5, and paid.

The complaint was made under the provisions of chapter 215 of the Acts of 1911, which provide that "every person who shall set, place or locate a trap or snare of any kind with scent, so-called, or scented bait upon or near the premises of another, without the consent of the owner or occupants of said premises, shall, upon conviction, be punished for each offense by a fine of not more than $50 or by imprisonment for not more than 30 days, or by both such fine and imprisonment." The offense was committed on land of S. Newell Cutler of Warren. The commissioners brought the case more as a test than anything else, and did not ask for a maximum sentence.

Hampden Railroad Hearing.

Changes in Route Through Palmer and Ludlow Asked For.

The county commissioners gave a hearing Monday at the court house in Springfield on the proposed changes in the layout of the Hampden Railroad Company in the towns of Ludlow and Palmer. The selectmen and about 25 other citizens of the former town appeared to see if some better route might not be arranged for crossing the various streets in the town. The representatives of the railroad company explained that the changes contemplated were only minor ones and after a thorough discussion all went away satisfied with the new arrangement. Henry W. Ely and Civil Engineer Orrin Parker, both of Westfield, and Civil Engineer Henry S. Durkee of Springfield represented the railroad company. The county commissioners took an automobile trip through Ludlow and Palmer in the afternoon for the purpose of viewing the route, and they will later make their formal decree approving the changes.

The "Fascinating Widow" Next Week.

Few musical plays have ever aroused the interest of women so emphatically as "The Fascinating Widow," in which Julian Eltinge will supply constant astonishment with his luxurious gowns at Court Square Theatre in Springfield next Thursday, Friday, Saturday and Saturday matinee. Eltinge comes with everything new in the way of production and will furnish evidence that the feminine mind is easily turned toward fashion if given a fair imitation. He declares the American women the best dressed in all the world, but they lack the knowledge of when to wear their clothes. Nowhere but in this country would a woman wear her best clothes in the morning or get into a street car and ride down town to do some shopping in an evening gown. In the best restaurants in any large city you will see any number of women at luncheon dressed in dinner gowns. The Parisian woman knows, as if by instinct, how, when and where to wear her clothes. That is why she is also so chic. A woman's dress must have temperament. Some gowns will act for a woman, as they always fall into the right folds at the right moment and they carry out the personality of the part one is playing. In "The Fascinating Widow" Mr. Eltinge wears several gowns of which this is true and only an actress can fully understand what this means.

Probate Court Business.

At a session of the probate court Wednesday, the following local business was included in that transacted:

Administration granted in the estate of—Emma Fenney, late of Palmer.

Accounts allowed in the estates of—Charlotte A. Pease, late of Hampden; Hannah S. Rogers, late of Palmer, Superior Court Decree.

Judge DeCourcy in the superior court Monday allowed the accounts of the trustees under the indenture made by Sophia B. Holmes, late of Monson. Under the provisions of this indenture all accounts have to be approved in the superior court rather than in the probate court.

At the annual meeting of the Christian Endeavor Society of the Baptist church Monday evening, these officers were elected: President, Annie Camcron; vice president, Miss Mabel Camp; recording secretary, Albert Whitcomb; corresponding secretary, Miss Anna Wells; treasurer, Miss Clorinda Stevenson; organist, Miss Mabel Camp.

RETIRES ON PENSION.

Palmer Man Will Take a Well Earned Rest.

IN EMPLOY OF STATE FOR 35 YEARS

J. Herbert Davis of State Avenue, Master Mechanic at Monson State Hospital.

J. Herbert Davis of State avenue, who has held the position of master mechanic at the Monson State Hospital and has been in the employ of the state for the past 35 years, retired Friday from active service. Chapter 458 of the Revised Laws of 1907 provides that all veterans of the Civil War who shall have been in the employ of the state for a certain period previous to attaining the age of 65 years, are entitled to retirement, by authority of the governor, on half pay.

Mr. Davis was born in Southbridge April 8, 1846. At the age of 17 he entered the employ of the optical works in his native town. On July 6, 1864, he enlisted in Co. F, 60th Massachusetts volunteers. He was not destined to see much fighting, however, for he was sent to Camp Mankin Wood at Indianapolis, Ind., to guard 10,000 rebel prisoners who were stationed there. He was discharged from the service December 10, 1864, and returned to his home. Soon after this he removed to Meriden, Ct., and coming to Palmer in 1870 he went to work at the old state almshouse in Monson.

In 1872 this institution was abolished and the buildings were increased in number, and the institution turned into a state primary school which was continued until 1895, when the old wooden structure that had for so many years stood upon the hillside opposite Palmer village, was torn down to be replaced the following year by the modern buildings that now shelter the inmates of the Monson state hospital for epilepties. Through all these years Mr. Davis has plied his trade. He had charge of the building of the present laundry and of the large barn erected to replace the one destroyed by fire just before the primary school was discontinued.

After living some time across the river, Mr. Davis removed to Palmer in 1894 and for 11 years made this town his home. In 1905 he returned to Monson and since that time has made his home on State avenue near his employment. Mr. Davis is a member of Thomas lodge of Masons and of Revere Chapter. Order of the Eastern Star. He is also a member and past commander of L. L. Merrick post, G. A. R. At present he is officer of the day for the local post, a position he has held for some time.

Dutch Fair Next Week.

Annual Two Nights Sale of Ladies of St. Paul's Society.

The annual two-nights Christmas sale of the ladies of St. Paul's Universalist church will be held in the church parlors next Tuesday and Wednesday. On Tuesday evening there will be the usual turkey supper, which the ladies of this society know so well how to serve. On Wednesday evening there will be an entertainment entitled "Mrs. Okley's telephone," with the following cast of characters:

Mrs. Okley, a bride,	Mrs. S. W. Lyon
Constance, engaged,	Mrs. H. W. Holbrook
Mary, the cook,	Mrs. W. L. Shaw
Emma, a maid,	Mrs. F. M. Ralton

There will be a sale of various articles both evenings, with booths in charge of the following: Fancy articles, Mrs. H. M. Howe; aprons, Mrs. Emma Gunn and Mrs. S. B. Keith; candy, Miss Doris Paine; grab bag, Mrs. A. H. Parker.

An auction of personal property will be held to-morrow at 12.30 on the farm of the late R. S. Hastings in "Skeeterville."

Special Sale

Saturday, December 9th

We will close out all the lines which we do not wish to carry, at prices regardless of cost. We may have just what you want.

Come Early.

Jones & Stevens,

Successors to the Geo. F. Emmons Co.

Palmer, Mass.

W. D. Kinsman Co.,

SPRINGFIELD.

Sixteen Days and Then Comes Christmas

The early shopper will without doubt receive the best in service, the best in quality, in fact, the advantages all favor the early gift seeker. Never before have we been better prepared, never before have we shown greater assortments, and we urge all gift-seekers to plan their shopping tour as early in the week and as early in the month as possible.

As An Extra Inducement We Present Many Unusual Attractions For Holiday Shoppers Here Saturday

Handkerchiefs for Gifts

INITIALED HANDKERCHIEFS, 1-2 DOZEN, 59c

Women's Pure Linen Handkerchiefs, one-half dozen in a box, embroidered with neat initials in corners and Fleur-de-Lis combined. Initials embroidered in script style. SPECIAL 59c A BOX

LINEN INITIAL HANDKERCHIEFS, 75c, $1 AND $1.50 BOX AND UPWARDS

Men's and Women's fine, soft, pure linen kerchiefs, 1-2 dozen in a box, initialed corners, embroidered in various designs and styles at the above prices.

Children's handkerchiefs in initials, plain and fancy styles at 15c and 25c box.

We are showing an immense range of fancy kerchiefs in neat, embroidered cornered effects, also in lace edge styles, also the dainty Armenian styles from 12 1-2c to $3.75 each

MUSLIN GOWNS, 98c

Many gift buyers select gowns as their choice in the way of a gift, and all who do, will do well to inspect the splendid offering of Muslin Gowns at the above price. They are trimmed in the most attractive and bewitching manner with the daintiest of laces and embroideries. Every gown cut full and generous as to size. SPECIAL 98c each

SERGE DRESSES, $4.98

Another shipment of handsome serge dresses on sale here Saturday. Some are made in styles that have never appeared before in the Kinsman Dress Section. Collars and cuffs are trimmed with silk or satin, and also trimmed with buttons or velvet. SPECIAL $4.98 each

HANDSOME NEW COATS $14.98 EACH

We group more than fifty handsome new coats at the above price. They are made in novelty mixtures, plain serges and broadcloths, trimmed with the sailor or pointed collar, also with the strictly plain tailored collar, some with fancy cuffs, others with the plain tailored cuffs, modeled on lines that command your instant approval. Some are semi-lined and some are lined with self material. These special at $14.98

THE NEMO CHRISTMAS CORSET

The Usual $4 Value, Christmas Special $2

We carry a complete line of Nemo corsets, and this being a fact, the Nemo manufacturers co-operated with us in the offering of a $4 corset, Christmas special, at $2 a pair

HUNDREDS AND HUNDREDS OF DAINTY CHRISTMAS APRONS From 25c to $3

There is a big variety within this range of prices. Some are trimmed with embroidery, others are trimmed with laces and ribbons. Aprons prove most acceptable as gifts and many solve the gift problem by giving aprons. There is rare choosing from 25c to $3

A GREAT SALE OF SAMPLE HOSIERY IS NOW GOING ON

We feel especially fortunate in being able to present sample hose at the low prices which they are marked. You can buy good serviceable sample hose in this sale from one of the best-known manufacturers at 12-12c a pair, 17c a pair, 25c a pair and 38c a pair. With every three pair purchase there is a substantial reduction and a Holiday box as well.

The Underwear Department is offering values that are extraordinary inducements for the shrewd shopper. We are selling Merode garments at very special prices, as well as many other famous makes. The offerings comprise Vests, Pants, Union Suits, etc., and start as low as 19c and run upwards to $2 a garment. On every purchase there is a saving.

W. D. Kinsman Co., Springfield

The Famous Rayo Lamp

The best part of the day is the evening, when the whole family is gathered together around the lamp.

The old days of the smoky fireplace and flickering candle are gone forever. In their place have come the convenient oil stove and the indispensable Rayo Lamp.

There are to-day, in the United States alone, more than 3,000,000 of these Rayo lamps, giving their clear, white light to more than 3,000,000 homes.

Other lamps cost more, but you cannot get a better light than the low-priced Rayo gives. It has become so popular we may almost call it "the official lamp of the American family."

The Rayo is made of solid brass, with handsome nickel finish—an ornament anywhere.

Ask your dealer for a Rayo lamp; or write for descriptive circular to any agency of the

Standard Oil Company
(Incorporated)

The Solicitor

By CELIA ATKINSON

Copyright by American Press Association, 1911.

John Gardner was down on his luck. He had been well born and well educated. Then one misfortune after another came upon him and the family to which he belonged just as he was ready to make a start in life and threw him, so to speak, on his beam ends. He went about applying for a position, but since he had had no experience in any department of business he received no better offer than to solicit orders for a patent gas burner.

Gardner, who had not yet worn out his good clothes and was afraid of meeting some of his old friends who would know what he was doing, kept his samples down in the bottom of his pocket. He had sufficient pluck, however, to drag himself from one house to another, and whenever he was received by any one whom he was sure he had never seen before would produce a gas burner and proceed to expatiate on what a wonderful light it would make and how little gas would be burned.

One morning he rang the bell of a residence, and the door was opened by a young girl. He didn't mind soliciting of old women, old men or servants, but girls troubled him. He was about to ask if some one he was trying to find lived there, but changed his mind, concluding that as short a way as any to make an excuse to go on would be to produce a sample. The girl would say she had no use for it and that would end the matter.

"I am canvassing for a patent gas burner," he began, when the girl, much to his surprise, said, "Step inside." He did so, and she led the way to a drawing room. Then, asking him to be seated, she waited for him to proceed with his harangue. There was nothing left for him but to do so.

"This gas burner," he said, "is arranged to separate the gas into minute streams, so that it will mingle freely with the oxygen of the air, producing a brilliant light and consuming a minimum of gas. Instead of the enormous gas bills run up by using the ordinary form of burner, the consumer finds himself or herself indebted to the company for a bagatelle."

"Are you quite sure," interrupted the girl, "that the company will not at the end of the month be indebted to the consumer?"

Gardner looked at her with a constrained smile, but, seeing no sign of pleasantry and scarcely knowing what he was saying, staggered on.

"We scarcely claim that for it, but we are willing to guarantee that the monthly gas bills will be reduced by 50 per cent of what they are when the ordinary burner is used."

"At what price do you sell your burners?"

"At 10 cents each."

"I will take a hundred of them. I suppose you will put them on for me."

"Large orders like that are usually put on by some one from the factory."

"I am opposed to allowing Tom, Dick and Harry the freedom of the house. I shall expect you to put them on yourself."

"Certainly, if you wish it. Will tomorrow at this hour be convenient for you?"

"Yes."

Gardner bowed himself out, astonished. The most that was required of him was to introduce the burner. It was not expected that he would make sales of more than a few burners at a time. But here were a hundred ordered at 10 cents apiece. That would be $10, of which his commission would be 60 per cent, or $6. He was quite elated.

The next day he called with the burners and was received by the young lady, who informed him that her mother was indisposed and it was necessary that the house should be kept quiet. The burners, therefore, could not be put on that day, but if he would call the next afternoon at 3 o'clock the work might be done. She intimated that no haste was necessary either in the burners being put on or his proceeding with his soliciting. She asked him into the library, where she introduced the subject of books, upon which she discoursed with as much volubility as he had used in demonstrating burners. When he departed he was a good deal puzzled.

But he was more so when the next afternoon he called to put on the burners. A phaeton was standing at the door, and when he went inside the young lady, attired for going out, was putting on her gloves.

"I think," she said, "that I'll not have the burners put on this afternoon. To tell the truth, I am a stockholder in a gas company, and your burners consume so little gas that I fear a complication."

"What complication?" asked Gardner, opening his eyes.

"Why, I am afraid that as a stockholder I shall become indebted to myself as a consumer."

The two stood looking at each other for a few moments, when a smile broke over the girl's face.

"I knew you," she said, "from the moment you rang the doorbell the other day. You are John Gardner, and I met you not very long ago at Mrs. Tucker's. I have heard of your misfortunes and admire your pluck in taking hold of the world even if your first grip is nothing better than a gas burner. I'm going to ride and shall be happy to have you go with me."

Six months later Gardner married the girl and a fortune.

Honesty is the best of policy.

The First Bread.

The "staff of life" was by no means the first item on men's bill of fare. For we know not how many ages human beings lived entirely without bread or anything approaching it in character. The first men were hunters and lived mostly on the flesh of the creatures they killed in the chase. The pastoral stage, which followed the hunter period, supplied milk along with the flesh of the domestic animals, and bread was practically unknown until men had settled down to agriculture. The Chinese emperor Ching Noung is said to have been the first to teach men the art of husbandry and the method of making bread from wheat about 4,000 years before Christ.

Every family has need of a good, reliable liniment. For sprains, bruises, soreness of the musles and rheumatic pains there is none better than Chamberlain's. Sold by all dealers.

COMMISSIONER'S SALE OF REAL ESTATE.

Pursuant to and by virtue of a warrant issued by the Probate Court for the County of Hampden, dated the first day of November, A. D. 1911, ordering the undersigned commissioner to make sale and conveyance of the Real Estate formerly of Caroline A. Kurtz, late of Palmer, in said County of Hampden, deceased, Intestate, for the purpose of distribution among tenants in common, as in said warrant set forth, will be sold at public auction on the premises, on Saturday, the ninth day of December, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, the real estate hereinafter described;

A certain parcel of land, with the buildings thereon, situate in the Depot Village of Palmer, in said County, and bounded as follows to wit: - Beginning at a point in the westerly line of South Main street at the southeasterly corner of land formerly of Enos Calkins and running thence southeasterly on said street about 80 feet to Vaill street; thence southwesterly on said Vaill street about 140 feet to land of Michael Barrett; thence northwesterly along land of said Barrett about 80 feet to land formerly of said Calkins; thence northeasterly along land formerly of said Calkins to the place of beginning. Being the same premises conveyed to Caroline A. Kurtz by Mary F. Clark by deed dated December 20, 1881, and recorded with Hampden County Registry of Deeds, book 374, page 467.

Two hundred dollars must be paid in cash by purchaser at the time and place of sale as earnest money. Other terms will be made known at the time of sale. 34-3

ROY E. CUMMINGS,
Commissioner.

Mrs. Rose

Late of New York City.

Hair Goods Made to Order and Remodeled. Complexion and Scalp Treatment—Facials, Shampooing and Manicuring.

Hours: 9 to 5. Appointments made.

Telephone 49-11.

17 Thorndike Street, Palmer, Mass.

Spend the Holidays IN Your Own Home

Don't think because you haven't the ready money that you are obliged to board until you can pay cash. Call at our store and let us explain our method of furnishing homes complete. No matter how large the amount purchased, the terms will be made to suit your income.

Four Rooms Complete $225

Kitchen
Contains 17 Pieces
$44.25

Dining Room
Contains 68 Pieces
$67.00

Chamber
Contains 15 Pieces
$55.75

Parlor
Contains 12 Pieces
$58.00

OUR LARGE AUTO TRUCK WILL DELIVER THIS OUTFIT TO YOUR DOOR ANYWHERE WITHIN 50 MILES.

FLINT & BRICKETT

Opp. Court Sq. 439 Main St., Springfield.

Crawford, Sterling and Stewart Ranges.

Springfield Meekins, Packard & Wheat Massachusetts

We Personally Guarantee the Absolute and Literal Truth of Every Statement Made in This Advertisement.

A. A. PACKARD. W. G. WHEAT.

THE MERRY CHRISTMAS QUEST

Now for the Merry Christmas quest. Everything is in readiness to help you in the pleasant task of making others merry, and there is no possible advantage in waiting; in fact there is everything to be gained by making your Christmas purchases now.

Shopping Early will be the best gift you can make to the workers behind the counters and on the delivery wagons.

Early Purchases will be stored at our risk in our special Christmas storerooms without charge.

Gifts for the Traveler

In Our Trunk and Bag Department

There is no more popular department of the store at Christmas time than our big trunk and bag department with its splendid showing of beautiful practical gifts for the traveler, including as it always does a great many novelties brought out expressly for the Holidays. Our Christmas stock is now ready, bigger and more attractive than ever before---everything that can delight the traveler in handsome baggage.

Traveling Bags

Handsome bags in all the popular leathers, in black and russet, in both ladies' and gentlemen's models---from $5 to $20

Suit Cases

A most complete line of ladies' and gentlemen's suit cases, in black, russet and brown, olive---from $5 to $25

Wardrobe Trunks

Wardrobe trunks in steamer and dress models for ladies and gentlemen---from $18 to $75

Imported and Domestic Steamer Rugs

Beautiful new patterns in handsome plaid in stunning color combinations.

Domestic rugs from $5 up. Imported Rugs from $10 up.

Holiday Novelties in Furniture

Never before have we shown so many attractive novelties in fine furniture for the Holidays---beautiful pieces, making the most appropriate and welcome gifts yet at very moderate prices.

Ladies' Work Tables

Quaint Colonial reproductions in solid mahogany in a great variety of designs, made with drawers and cupboards of all sizes and shapes for the accommodation of the fancy work and sewing.

Graceful Colonial Table, in solid mahogany with two drawers and drop leafs--- special value at $13

Similar design in solid mahogany with pedestal base, $15

Martha Washington Table, in solid mahogany with two drawers and two deep compartments--- special value at $15

Larger Tables in solid mahogany at $19, $22 and up

Circassian Walnut Tables---from $15 up

Nest Tables

Copies of the old Colonial styles, comprising four tables, fitting one within the other, made in solid mahogany--- $19.50

Beautiful set of four tables in solid mahogany, elaborately inlaid--- $30

Tip Tables

Reproductions of the old Colonial Tip Tables made in solid mahogany with plain or inlaid tops---at $5.75, 9.75 and 10.50

In solid mahogany, richly inlaid, $10.50, 12.00, 12.50

Muffin Stands

Triple Shelf Stands for serving afternoon tea---reproductions of the old Colonial designs.

In quartered oak--- at $5.75 and $7

In mahogany---at $6.75, 7.50, 9.00 and 10.25

Tabourets

Handy little stands for plants or a variety of uses.

In solid oak 75c

In quartered oak--- 1.50

In quartered oak or mahogany finish at $2, 2.50 and 3.00

Beautiful Tabourets in solid mahogany with fine inlaid line---at $5, 5.75 and 7.75

Mahogany Tabourets with brass-lined top, at $4, 5.75 and 7.25

Tea Trays

Oval Trays with mahogany rims and plate glass centers, for serving afternoon tea---at $3.25, 4.00, 5.00

Books Holders

All Mahogany Trays with plain and inlaid centers---at $5, 6.00 and 7.00

Solid blocks of mahogany in rich, plain designs, others in beautiful fluted columns, for holding the books in place on the library table---at $3.25, 5.00, 7.25 and 8.00 pair

Meekins, Packard & Wheat

Springfield, Massachusetts

JOHNSON'S BOOKSTORE

Bookstore Building, 391 Main St.

Springfield, Mass.

50,000 Books, 1912 Diaries.

Nice Things In Leather.

Books for all ages and desires.
Sets in fine leather $3.75 up
Stories that girls want 25c up
Breezy Adventure for the boys 25c up
No end of Diaries 15c to $2.50
Purses, Bags, Traveling Sets, Memos.

A Fine Camera For $1.00.

Everybody Wants a Calendar.

Start the children with a Brownie Camera $1 to $12
Kodaks for everybody $10 up
Calendars of great beauty 20c to $2.50
Why not a Fountain Pen 50c to $30

Christmas Cards and Letters of Special Merit.

Poinsettia, on white ground 2 for 5c
Beautiful Holly Designs 2 for 5c
Steel Engraved Letters 10c up
Exquisite Congratulation Letters 5c up
Splendid Lot of Cards at 1c
Order Personal Cards now, dz. $1.80 up

Statuary and Plaster Casts Are Pleasing.

The Lonely Baby $1 to $6
The Athlete (boys like this), $2
Barye's Famous Lion 75c to $2
Arab Horseman, a fine one $1.50
A large variety 15c up

Illuminated Sentiments.

Unique Little Pictures.

Artistic Cards and Folders 5c up
Whistler's "Mother" with verse 25c
Pictures in Brass Frames 35c up
Tinted Platinums, framed 40c up
Colonial Brass Candlesticks 35c to $1.25
Art in Brass, Wood, China, Pottery.

Real Grocery Stores And Railroads.

All Sorts of Dolls.

Real Groceries in these stores 15c up
Electric Roads, Iron Toys, Animals, Dolls, Doll Houses and Furniture.
Laughable Mechanical Toys 15c up
Melodious Music Boxes 50c to $5

Picture Books That the Baby Can't Tear.

He can even chew them and the color won't come out 5c up
Scissor and Glue Books 10c up
400 Different Games 5c to $6
Everything for artists in water, oils, wood, brass, leather, etc.

SHOP BY MAIL.

Send for Book Lists. Tell us what you want or about what you are looking for. We'll get the goods or a reply back to you quickly. 'Phone if you choose, 3290.

Hundreds of Other Things. Bring Your Friends.

Books Stationery Pictures
Prompt Attention to Mail Orders.

O'Connor's Barber Shop

PALMER, MASS.

Just across the street from the Waiting Room. (On Corner going to Depot.)

4 Chairs, No Long Waits

Everything absolutely clean.

Shavers' Supplies For Sale

Razors Honed and Handles Put On. Why pay more? We warrant our Razors at $1.50. Each one is tried, so we know what we sell you.

Central Vermont Railway Co.

SOUTHERN DIVISION.

CORRECTED TO OCTOBER 1, 1911.

Trains Leave Palmer Going South:

7.25 a. m. Passenger for New London. Due Stafford 7.58 a. m., Willimantic 8.50 a. m., Norwich 9.27 a. m., New London 10.00 a. m.

9.55 a. m. Mail for New London. Due Stafford 10.31 a. m., Willimantic 11.17 a. m., Norwich 11.52 a. m., New London 12.20 p. m.

1.25 p. m. Passenger for New London. Due Stafford 2.03 p. m., Willimantic 3.08 p. m., Norwich 3.43 p. m., New London 4.10 p. m.

6.30 p. m. Steamboat train for New London and New York. Due Stafford 7.10 p. m., Willimantic 7.55 p. m., Norwich 8.30 p. m., New London 9.00 p. m., New York City via Norwich Line, Pier 70, East River, 5.45 a. m., Pier 40, North River 7.00 a. m., following morning.

Above trains connect at Willimantic and New London east and west for points on the N. Y. N. H. & H. R.R.

Trains Leave Palmer Going North.

7.30 a. m. Mail. Due Amherst 8.15 a. m., Millers Falls 9.00 a. m., Brattleboro 10.00 a. m.

12.10 p. m. Express. Due Amherst 12.55 p. m., Millers Falls 1.20 p. m., Brattleboro 2.07 p. m.

5.30 p. m. Due Amherst 6.16 p. m., Millers Falls 6.50 p. m., Brattleboro 8.00 p. m.

These trains cannot connect at Millers Falls with trains east and west on the B. & M., and at Brattleboro with express trains for White River Junction and Montreal and points west thereof.

These trains run week days only.

SUBJECT TO CHANGE WITHOUT NOTICE.

J. W. HANLEY, General Passenger Agent.

Palmer Savings Bank,

Palmer, Mass.

Officers.

H. G. LOOMIS, President.
R. C. NEWELL, 1st Vice President.
W. E. STONE, 2d Vice President.
C. F. SMITH, 3d Vice President.
GEORGE A. RICE, Clerk.

Auditors.

W. E. Stone. E. B. Taylor.
C. A. LeGro.

Board of Investment.

H. G. Loomis. W. E. Stone. C. F. Smith.
H. E. W. Clark. E. E. Hobson

Trustees.

H. G. Loomis. W. E. Stone. J. O. Hamilton.
H. E. W. Clark. G. D. Mooers. L. J. Potter.
R. C. Newell. L. R. Holden. C. L. Wald.
Geo. S. Holden. C. E. Fuller. E. B. Taylor.
M. J. Dillon. C. F. Smith. C. A. LeGro.

Treasurer.

C. L. Wald.

Safe Deposit Boxes for rent.

Banking Hours: 9 a. m to 3 p. m. Saturday, 9 a. m. to 12 m. Friday Evening, 7.30 to 9.

THE JEWELS

A Story of 1930

By MARCO L. BRAYTON

Copyright by American Press Association, 1911.

"Dad," said a boy to his father one day when they were riding through their vast estates, "how did you get all this? Mother has often said that before you and she were married you were a tutor in a college."

"Yes, my boy, I was an instructor in analytical chemistry. The students who studied under me worked in the college laboratory. From my early youth I had shown a fondness for chemical processes and before I was eighteen had made several discoveries, though none of them so important as one I made several years later.

"Your mother was in the woman's college attached to the university, and she and I became acquainted.

"Your mother's parents being poor, as soon as she was graduated she accepted a position as governess with a very rich lady, whose children she taught. A year after she left the university she came into the laboratory one day to see me, and by her appearance I knew at once that she was in great trouble.

"'I have come to you,' she said, 'there being no one else in whom I dare confide. I wish you to advise me. The lady by whom I am employed took a great fancy to me as soon as I entered her service and last week, when she went away to be one of a house party consisting of very rich people like herself, left her most valuable jewels in my care. They have been kept in a safe in her bedroom, and she intrusted the key with me. The day after her departure she directed me by letter to send her a certain brooch she wished to wear with a costume it especially fitted. I unlocked the safe, took out the brooch and while packing it left the safe door open. When I returned to the room before locking the safe it occurred to me to see if the jewels were there. A box containing the most valuable ones had disappeared. What shall I do?'

"In tracking the thief I could be of no assistance to the poor girl, but I had been making some experiments with results that suggested to me a possible temporary solution of the difficulty. There had then recently been discovered the substance called radium, which you will soon learn something about at school. Its influence on other substances is remarkable. I had used it in the laboratory in the little glass receptacles called test tubes and had found that it had turned them a beautiful blue color. It occurred to me that the shade was similar to that of sapphires. This thought resulted in these riches we now possess."

"How? Go on with the story."

"It led me to a series of experiments. I exposed crystals of different colors to the influence of radium, putting the crystals and the radium away together in a dark closet. The white crystals had become topazes, the blue crystals emeralds, and violet crystals were turned to sapphires. I had learned the secret of the constitution of gems. They were simply crystals that had been acted upon by radium.

"I told your mother that I might duplicate the lost gems if I only knew their shapes, colors and sizes, whereupon she told me that the owner kept photographs of them to be used to identify them in case of their loss at their exact size. She brought me the photographs, and without losing a moment I had crystals cut to match them and exposed the crystals to radium.

"The danger was that the owner of the jewels would call for them before they had been exposed long enough to change their color. Besides, those I was making might not come out the right shade. I resolved on an expedient. As soon as any of the crystals became gems I took them to a jeweler and exchanged them for those whose color matched the originals and had those I received cut the exact shape. Fortunately the lady remained away a sufficient time to meet these requirements, and she never knew that her gems had been stolen."

"But was that honest, dad?"

"Had the gems been spurious it would not have been honest, but they were real. The originals had been made in nature's laboratory, just as I made these in mine."

"How did you make so much out of it?"

"I simply manufactured gems and sold them without imparting my secret. But in time a chemist in Germany made the same discovery as I, and those scientists over there used to give all their discoveries to the world. He published the secret, and henceforth all gems became of little value. Consequently they are no longer prized by the rich. They are as beautiful, now that they are manufactured by man, as they were when nature was their only maker, but value depends on rarity, and since gems are no longer rare they are no longer valuable."

"What has taken the place of these old fashioned ornaments?"

"Those substances which nature used to manufacture them. Recently there has been a craze for radium and certain like substances discovered since radium became known. The richest people now think nothing of spending a million or so on a bit of radium so arranged as to be worn as an ornament. Fortunes have kept pace with the change in decorations, and the very wealthy are now able to pay for these newly discovered properties, some of which cost millions for a single grain."

Sweet is revenge, especially to women.

WALES.

Mrs. H. E. Shaw and Miss Winona Shaw of Springfield spent Wednesday in town.

Mrs. L. P. Chase of Sturbridge has been spending a few days with Mrs. H. A. McFarland.

Mrs. William Russell and family have returned to their home in Springfield for the winter.

Mrs. J. C. Bunnell and family have returned from a visit with friends in the eastern part of the state.

Miss Olive J. Walker of Tilton, N. H., has taken the place of Miss Alice McGrath as teacher of the centre primary school.

John Conklin has moved from the hotel to D. E. Parker's house and Mrs. P. A. Gaudette has moved from Church street to the hotel.

The trustees of the Wales Savings Bank met Saturday afternoon and appointed L. H. Thompson as temporary treasurer to fill the vacancy made by the death of Judge H. A. McFarland.

HAMPDEN.

Bickmore – Corey.

Miss Marion Grace Bickmore and Albert G. Corey, the Hampden postmaster, were married at noon last Friday, by Rev. C. B. Bliss. The couple were unattended. Following the ceremony, a turkey dinner was served by a Springfield caterer. In the afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Corey left for a short wedding trip. Among the guests present at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Fred J. Baldwin, Mr. and Mrs. James B. Kelley, William Bickmore, Miss Mary Bickmore, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Campbell and daughter, Miss Elizabeth Robertson, Mr. and Mrs. George Thayer and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Frank McCarthy, John McCarthy, George Boynton, Miss Emma Rifflemacher, Mr. and Mrs. Frank P. Morey, Mr. and Mrs. James Proctor, Miss Evelyn Vinica, all of Springfield, and Miss Emma L. Turner, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Goodwill, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Ryan, Charles Burleigh of Hampden and Mr. and Mrs. John Letter and Mr. and Mrs. Fred C. Letter of Monson.

At a regular meeting of the Grange Saturday evening, the following officers were elected: Master, James L. Mulroney; overseer, C. S. Shute; lecturer, Mrs. Albert Ballard; chaplain, C. B. Bliss; steward, Robert Ballard; treasurer, C. I. Burleigh; assistant steward, C. L. Kibbe; Ceres, Kenia Carew; Flora, Helen Kibbe; Pomona, Mabel Davis; lady assistant steward, Beulah Hayes; gatekeeper, Morris Eckland; member of the executive committee for three years, Willie Pease.

WARREN.

Painfully Injured.

Herbert Healy of South Warren was painfully injured Wednesday morning. He was husking corn with a new power husker when his right hand became caught and was drawn into the machine, badly lacerating the flesh on the second and third fingers of his right hand. The little finger had been amputated on account of a previous accident. Dr. C. A. DeLand was called and dressed the fingers and hopes to be able to save them from amputation.

At a regular meeting of Clara Barton, W. R. C., Wednesday these officers were elected: President, Mrs. Nancy Brown; senior vice president, Miss Elmina Cutler: junior vice president, Mrs. Mary L. Conway; treasurer, Mrs. Carrie H. Putnam; chaplain, Mrs. Mary E. Jennings; conductor, Miss Alida Hitchcock; guard, Mrs. Carrie Coolidge; delegate to department convention, Mrs. Carrie H. Putnam; alternate, Mrs. Ellen Whiteside. The officers will be installed at the first regular meeting in January.

At a meeting of Quaboag lodge of Masons Tuesday evening, these officers were installed by C. B. Wetherby, past master of Eden lodge of Ware: Worshipful master, Edward M. Heighton; senior warden, John B. Canfield; junior warden, Daniel A. Hathaway; treasurer, Charles B. Blair; secretary, Charles D. Perkins; chaplain, Rev. O. I. Darling; marshal, Joseph G. Hastings; senior deacon, Edwin Price; junior deacon, Charles H. Klebart; senior steward, Howard W. Tuttle; junior steward, John Kinball, Jr.; tyler, Archibald McDougall. After the exercises a banquet was served by Caterer John W. Keith.

At a meeting of Warren Grange Friday evening, the following officers were elected for next year: Master, Charles E. Bliss; overseer, Archer N. Tuttle; lecturer, Mrs. Grace Dillaber; steward, Herbert D. Underwood; assistant steward, Elias Cutler; chaplain, William E. Patrick; secretary, Mrs. Flora B. Patrick; treasurer, S. Newell Cutler; gatekeeper, Joseph Mason; Ceres, Miss Leda Klebart; Flora, Miss Dorothy L. Miller; Pomona, Miss Vera E. Perry; woman assistant steward, Miss Mabel Shepard; pianist, Mrs. Grace L. Lyman; purchasing agent, Albert W. Bliss; executive committee, Herbert N. Shepard, Albert B. Patrick and Calvin Bliss. The officers will be installed at the first meeting in January.

The engagement of Louis G. Kibbe, assistant manager of the Warren Steam Pump company, to Miss Ellen G. Sherwin of Jamaica Plain is announced.

Forbes & Wallace | Forbes & Wallace | Forbes & Wallace

MAIL ORDERS Promptly and Carefully Filled.

ONLY 14 BUYING DAYS BEFORE CHRISTMAS

At Western New England's Greatest And Best Christmas Store

Stocks Are Magnificently Complete Now.

Larger and more varied than ever. Assortments are positively at their very best now---showing hundreds of the unusual, novel, distinctive things which make the most desirable presents and many of which are sold out early, not to be duplicated. There is time now for careful, unhurried selection which assures satisfaction in the gift chosen, and the crowds are not too large for comfort. If you have not already begun your Christmas buying, start to-day.

Fine Leather Goods

Hundreds of Gift Suggestions

No other line of merchandise offers such a variety of things suitable for gifts. Among the hundreds of articles for use and ornament we are showing a particularly fine line of

Hand Bags

Both Imported and of American Make

There are numberless handsome and unusual designs, in all kinds of leathers, and rich effects in silks, satins, brocades, velvets, gold cloth and other fabrics. They are mounted on metal frames, with either handles, chains or cords. Beautiful beaded bags are shown in a great variety of designs in gold and silver and colors, at $1 to $40

Other Popular Suggestions

Fitted Tabs for Traveling Bags,	$4 to $6.50	Handkerchief Cases,	$1 to $1.50
Dressing Cases,	$1.50 to $25	Watch Bracelets,	50c to $1
Memorandum Books,	25c to 50c	Traveling Slippers,	$2.50 to 5.00
Telephone Registers,	50c to $1	Music Rolls and Satchels,	50c to $5.50
Vanity Bags,	$4 to 8.50	Liquor Flasks,	50c to $6.50
Card Cases,	25c to $8	Dressing Cases,	$1.50 to 25.00
Jewel Cases,	$2.25 to 22.50	Bill Books,	50c to $8.00
Manicure Sets,	$3 to 8.00	Garment Hangers in Cases,	$1 to 5.00
Glove and Veil Cases,	$4 to 5.00	Drinking Cups,	25c to $2.25

Main Floor, Aisle 4

Forbes & Wallace

Springfield, - - - - - - - - - - Mass.

True Bros. Jewelers

"The Jewel Store of Springfield"

ONE OF OUR SPECIALTIES

Toilet Sets in Sterling Silver

We never had a finer display. Comb, brush and mirror in case, cloth brushes, hat brushes, military brushes in sets, and manicure sets.

We have them in the exquisite plain models, beaded edge, hand etched, hand engraved and engine turned.

PLEASE NOTE THIS:

Our prices include the very finest engraving that can be done. Come to see these goods.

408 Main St. Next Haynes Hotel.

Are You Happy?

If you are it is safe to say that you enjoy good health, as it is impossible to be happy unless you are well. Noted physicians will tell you that bad stomachs and torpid livers are the cause of 95 per cent of all diseases.

For the past 42 years SEVEN BARKS has proved to be the unequalled remedy for all STOMACH, LIVER and KIDNEY troubles, and the greatest tonic and blood purifier known. It makes your digestion what it should be and keeps your entire system in good condition. Price of SEVEN BARKS is but 50 cents a bottle at all druggists. Money refunded if not satisfied. Address

LYMAN BROWN, 68 Murray St., New York, N.Y.

The Antalgica

Or Vegetable Pain Restorer

was introduced to the public in 1848, since which time thousands of bottles have been sold each year to an appreciative public, which is a good evidence of its merits. It is adapted to so many ailments it should be in every household, for it cures all kinds of pains both internal and external. For Bronchial affections it is unrivaled by any article in the market. It is a sure cure for Cholera Morbus and Dysentery, if taken in season, also for Coughs. It is an effective remedy for rheumatic affections, stiff joints, swelled limbs, sprains, cramps, toothache and many other ills to which the flesh is heir. Try it and it will do you good. It is sold at 25c, 50c and $1.00 per bottle by the Bay State Drug Co., Lynde & Gould, and the proprietor.

O. P. Allen,

Palmer, Mass.

"Fair and Square Credit."

We Have Some Dandy Big Coats for Men

Our Prices Are $18, $20 to $35

These are the snappiest coats that this season, and in our opinion any season, ever saw. Big, ample, beautifully modeled coats which combine plenty of room with a perfect hang. Double face goods, plaid effects, soft, deep fabrics and also the very finest dress coats.

The Same Styles For the Women

All wool mixtures in soft beautiful shades, the most stylish grays that we have ever seen and the richest browns. Big, close-laid shawl collars, deep handsome cuffs, snappy finish and elegant details in every one of them.

Some Tremendous Bargains in Furs

$60 to $100 Gray Opossum sets.	$45.00 to $75.00
$40 to $60 Black Raccoon,	$30.00 to $45.00
$50 Natural Gray Wolf,	$35
$50 Beautiful Blue Wolf,	$35
Full length Pony Coats,	$60.00 to $75.00
Long hair Dog sets,	$16.00 and $17.50
Elegant Coney sets,	$6.00 and $8.00

AND WE'LL GIVE CREDIT TO ANYBODY WHO'S HONEST.

Benjamin Goldstein, Inc.

17-19 Elm St. Court Square Theater Building

Springfield, Mass.

THE PALMER JOURNAL

Publishe

EVERY FRIDAY EVENING

13-15 Central Street, Masonic Block.

PALMER, MASS.

The Palmer Journal Company,

LOUIS E. CHANDLER,

Editor and Manager.

Terms of subscription—Two dollars a year; a discount of 25 cents to those who pay in advance. Six months, $1.00; three months, 50 cents; single copies, 5 cents. Subscriptions continued until notified.

Entered at Post Office as second-class matter.

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 8, 1911.

LOCAL NOTICES.

Electric wiring, etc. 'Phone Moulton, 122-21 Monson.

See our guaranteed Hot Water Bottle at 83c before purchasing elsewhere. Kinsley's Pharmacy, 357 Main St., Cor. Central.

PALMER NEWS.

Baptist Church Gets Bequest.

Is Left Use of $2500 by Will of Mrs. Frances W. Dimock.

The Second Baptist church of Palmer is made a beneficiary under the will of Mrs. Frances W. Dimock of this town, who died November 26, the sum of $2500 being left in trust, the income to be used by the church. In all Mrs. Dimock left $7000 to Baptist institutions.

The terms of the will leave $2500 in trust to the Massachusetts State Convention, the income to go to the Palmer church so long as its creed remains unchanged and it adheres to the closed communion and other fundamental Baptist tenets; should it change at any time the income is to go to the Westfield Baptist Association for the "feeble" churches in the district until such time as the Palmer church returns to the Baptist fold. The Baptist Home at Cambridge, the Woman's American Baptist Home Mission Society of Boston, the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society of Boston and the Massachusetts Baptist Charitable Society are to receive funds of $1000 each, and the Massachusetts Baptist Sunday School Association is to receive a fund of $500. In case there is not enough to fill all the funds, the charitable society is to receive only what is left after the others have been provided for.

Mrs. Dimock requested the appointment of Rev. Dr. Francis T. Hazelwood of Lynn as the executor of the will, and in case of his death before the estate is administered Rev. Frank M. Holt of Lynn is named as his successor. The will also requests the administrator to prohibit the burial of any more persons in the family lot in Pine Hill cemetery, Westfield, after Mrs. Dimock is buried there.

Joker Barely Escapes Jail.

Telephones False Engagement to Newspaper Just For Fun.

There's one young man in town who up to the first of this week was unaware that there is a penalty of $100 for giving false news to a newspaper. He knows it now, and any information which he gives out to reporters in the future will be absolutely correct. Just for a joke he telephoned the first of the week to the Palmer representative of one of the Springfield dailies and asked him to run an item announcing a marriage engagement. He gave the names of both parties and, on being asked who was talking, stated that he was the prospective bridegroom. The item was used the next morning. At an early hour in the forenoon the man whose name was used appeared to the reporter and asked "Why? and Whence?" He firmly denied that he had talked over the wire, stated that not only was he not engaged, but that he didn't intend to be; furthermore, there was no young lady in town of the name given. An investigation was started by the newspaper man and he had got so close on the trail that it was a question of only a few moments when he would have the desired information, when he was called up by the victim and requested to let the matter drop, the reason being given that if continued, the investigation would result seriously for one of the victim's best friends. Proceedings were accordingly dropped, but it was a narrow escape.

Changes at Passenger Station.

Material changes are being made in the interior of the union passenger station of the railroads. The broad hallway which has connected the waiting room with the platform at the east end, between the baggage room and the men's toilet room, is to be closed to the public and taken into the baggage room by removing the wall between that and the express office at the south. The express office will then be enlarged by moving the wall between it and the present baggage room nearer the Boston and Albany tracks. The express office has long been cramped for quarters.

E. E. Brooks has been doing jury duty in Springfield this week.

Meeting of the Palmer Historical Society.

At the meeting of the Historical society in the reference room of the public library Tuesday night, the curator announced these donations: A small volume containing the addresses delivered on the occasion of the presentation of an oil portrait of Gen. Salem Towne to the town of Charlton Sept. 6, 1909, by Judge Stephen S. Twiss of Kansas City. The volume was compiled by Judge Twiss, and besides the addresses, contains portraits of each of the speakers on the interesting occasion. A vote of thanks was tendered the Judge for his courtesy to the society. Another book, the gift of W. D. Mason of Palmer, is entitled "The Generation of the Light," by Rowland Cotton, published 1795. On the fly leaf is the autograph of Hezekiah Ferry dated Jan. 6, 1806, stating the book was bought of Enoch Mason for four shillings. Mr. Ferry was born in Palmer, and died here in 1860. He lived on the farm of the late Judge Robinson. The book is interesting because of its associations. A vote of thanks was accorded Mr. Mason for the gift.

The speaker of the evening was Clifton H. Hobson, superintendent of schools, who had for his theme "Some present day school problems." The lucid and forceful manner in which the speaker handled his subject proved conclusively that he not only had high ideals, but had paved the way for their realization. An abstract of the address will appear in the Journal next week.

Dr. Hunter's Son Dead.

The many friends hereabouts of Rev. Dr. Pleasant Hunter of Newark, N. J., formerly pastor of the Congregational church here, will be pained to learn of the death of his only son, Bertrand, on Sunday evening. The young man was 22 years of age, and some time ago broke down from overstudy, and for the past five years has been living an outdoor life. Recently he has been in Canada, and only a short time ago he wrote that he had nearly recovered. Sunday evening Dr. Hunter received a telegram stating that there had been an accident, followed by an operation in a hospital in Edmunton, Canada; Monday morning came a telegram announcing the death. No details were given, and none have been received here. The body was taken to Hartford, Ct., for burial.

Wheeler-Schneider.

The marriage of Dr. Harry A. Schneider of Pittsfield, formerly of Palmer, and Miss Charlotte Mae Wheeler of White River Junction, Vt., took place Monday evening at the home of the bride. The ceremony was followed by a reception, to which between 400 and 500 invitations were issued. This was held in the main parlor of the Junction hotel, of which the bride's father is proprietor. The young couple received a fine array of gifts, including gold coin, cut glass and silver. The Shire club of Pittsfield, of which the groom is a member, gave them a silver ice service, and an after dinner coffee set was the gift of the Junction house employes. After a wedding trip Dr. and Mrs. Schneider will live in Pittsfield. Dr. Schneider is a graduate of Palmer high school and of the medical department of University of Vermont. Before going to Pittsfield he was a physician in the Springfield hospital in Springfield. The bride is a graduate of Emerson school of oratory in Boston.

There will be a dance in the Swedish club house at North Monson to-morrow evening'

James Summers of Converse street has been in Boston several days on a business trip.

James Heenehan has returned to Darthmouth College after a short vacation at his home on Central street.

A drop in the temperature to only 10 above zero, accompanied by a brisk wind, made Tuesday morning seem decidedly wintryish.

The Bijou motion picture place on Main street—formerly the Elite—has been closed by the latest proprietors, the Grand Amusement Company of Holyoke.

Rev. Paul W. Fisher of Kentucky spoke in the vestry of the Congregational church last evening, taking for his subject "Work among the Highlanders."

The two-tenement houses and the land they occupy, situated on South Main street and belonging to the Kurtz estate, are to be sold at auction to-morrow afternoon at 2 o'clock.

The Woman's Tuesday club will meet next week with Mrs. G. A. Rice on Pleasant street. Mrs. E. G. Hastings will read a paper on "Panama" and Mrs. S. H. Hellyar one on "History of the Canal."

Deputy Fish and Game Commissioner John F. Luman and his assistant, William E. Holland, liberated another consignment of adult trout in the Quaboag river near West Brimfield Wednesday.

Miss Ethel Naylor of Ware opened her dancing class of young people in the upper hall in the opera house block yesterday afternoon. The lessons will be continued every Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

The Palmer Woman's club will meet next Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. C. Wing on Central street. The speaker of the afternoon will be Mrs. Irons, who has appeared before the club before, but some time ago. Afternoon tea will be served.

Jones & Stevens, who last week purchased the stock of furnishing goods of the Geo. F. Emmons Company at assignee's sale, opened the store again for business yesterday. They announced a stock of "everything a man wears except boots and shoes."

The firemen were called out about 9.30 this forenoon on a still alarm for a chimney fire in the house on Pleasant street owned by O. C. Lyon. The fire had begun to eat into the beams in the cellar, but was put out with the help of the chemical truck with no great trouble.

Fred H. Hook, 34, for several years employed in the storeroom at the Monson State Hospital, died at his home on Pleasant street soon after midnight of Wednesday of pneumonia, having been sick only since Sunday night. He leaves a widow and infant son, also a mother and brother. The funeral will be tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock, with burial in Oak Grove cemetery.

Among the Churches.

There will be the usual services at the Congregational church next Sunday; Morning service at 10.45: Sunday school at 12; Christian Endeavor service at 6 in the evening; preaching service at 7.

Rev. A. C. Hussey will preach in the Baptist church next Sunday in the absence of the pastor. Morning service at 10.45. Bible school at 12. Y. P. S. C. E. at 6.15. Evening worship at 7, sermon by Mr. Hussey. All are invited.

Rev. N. W. Heemans, rector of St. Mary's Episcopal mission, will take for his subject next Sunday afternoon "The Bible." Services are held every Sunday afternoon at 3.15, with Sunday school at 2.15. Holy communion the second Sunday of each month at 8 o'clock.

The subject of the sermon in St. Paul's church next Sunday will be "Trouble wagon," being the seventh in the series on "Social service." The Y. P. C. U. topic will be "What we believe," with Miss Edna Atkins as leader and Misses Addie Coles and Edna Richards as sub-leaders.

The pulpit of the Advent chapel will be supplied Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock by Rev. W. N. Tenney of Boston. Mr. Tenney is an artist, evangelist and crayon lecturer, known east and west as "The children's friend." His sermon will be illustrated with blackboard. All are invited.

There will be a union mass meeting in the interest of the Men and Religion Forward Movement in the Congregational church Sunday evening, Dec. 17th, Mr. C. B. Potter, chairman, and Rev. Virgil V. Johnson, executive secretary of the Springfield committee of one hundred, will be the speakers.

If You Are a Trifle Sensitive

About the size of your shoes it's some satisfaction to know that many people can wear shoes a size smaller by shaking Allen's Foot-Ease into them. Just the thing for Patent Leather Shoes, and for breaking in New Shoes. Sold everywhere, 25c. Sample FREE. Address, Allen S. Olmstead, LeRoy, N. Y.

No harm can befall a good man, whether alive or dead.—Socrates.

When you have a cold get a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It will soon fix you up all right and will ward off any tendency toward pneumonia. This remedy contains no opium or other narcotic and may be given as confidently to a baby as to an adult. Sold by all dealers.

Low Prices for Shoe Repairing

See these prices for machine work:

Men's shoes, half soled and heeled, sewed, $1.00

Men's shoes, full soled and heeled, sewed, 1.50

Ladies' Shoes, soled and heeled, sewed, .85

Better than hand work and much quicker. Satisfaction guaranteed.

H. Platkin,

Bridge St., Palmer.

Palmer Trucking Co.

Successors to S. H. Brown.

Trucking and Jobbing of all kinds.

Piano Moving.

Dealers in Spring Water Ice.

Orders solicited, prompt attention guaranteed.

F. H. Ralton, Manager.

Office, South Main street.

Telephone connection.

See her Smile!

If you Are a man Give your wife or daughter the material for a suit, skirt or waist and see how delighted she will be with the gift and your thoughtfulness.

If you are a wife and mother Get the material and make it up for your daughter.

Ridgewood Cloths For Christmas Gifts

Stylish, high quality woolens and worsteds in a pleasing variety of styles, patterns, weaves and colors, direct from the mills at prices that will allure you. Send for samples and order by mail or visit our factory salesroom.

Ridgewood Mills,

639 Main St., Holyoke, Mass.

Not open Saturday afternoons.

Empty Christmas Boxes

A large assortment of sizes and shapes suitable for jewelry, gloves, handkerchiefs, neckties, etc.

Dennison's Goods

and all materials for making of Xmas gifts at home.

Lynde & Gould

Palmer, Mass.

Druggists, Stationers and Newsdealers

Cannel Coal for Open Grates.

English quality Bostonia cannel coal, especially adapted for open grates and quick fires. of unusually good quality. Try it.

Juanita Forge Coal.

Guaranteed to be the best forge coal mined. Blacksmiths are requested to give it a trial.

Feiner Charcoal.

I have the wholesale agency for Palmer, Monson, Ware and Wilbraham.

W. F. Fillmore, Palmer

When your feet are wet and cold, and your body chilled through from exposure, take a big dose of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, bathe your feet in hot water before going to bed, and you are almost certain to ward off a severe cold. For sale by all dealers.

Quality ALWAYS First

For convenience of those who prefer to choose their Christmas gifts now, we submit the following list from which you can make suitable selections for any of your friends or family:

Nickel Tea and Coffee Pots
Coffee Percolators
Thermometers
Savory Roasters
Nut Picks and Crackers
Carving Sets
Knives and Forks in Sets
Skates
Hockey Sticks
Jackknives
Ingersoll Watches
Tool Chests
Electric Flash Lights
Scissors
Shears
Ingersoll Clocks
Razors
Razor Hones
Razor Strops
Shaving Mugs
Shaving Brushes

For Fancy Work

Gilt and Aluminum Paint
Brass Headed Tacks
Brass Rings
Small Thermometers

Whitcomb & Faulkner,

All Cars Stop in Front of the Door.

Main Street, Palmer, Mass.

Telephone

Big Clearance Sale

Men's Overcoats

All our $20, $18, $16.50 and $15 Overcoats to be sold at $13.98

Special Lot of Ladies' Coats

Marked down to $12.50

M. Ecker, Palmer, Mass.

P. O. Block. Up one flight.

Delighted!

Truly you will please him best if you were to give him:

Bath Robe, Hose, Neckwear, Collars, Handkerchiefs, Smoking Jacket, Underwear, Sweater Coats, Cuff Links, Scarf Pin, Shirts, Suspenders or Umbrella.

Men find the maximum enjoyment in practical gifts, and the gifts we have here for them are essentially practical. Of course, REAL LOW PRICES.

We are showing a very choice line of LADIES' PURE LINEN HANDKERCHIEFS.

C. K. Gamwell,

Clothier and Furnisher,

Palmer, Mass.

Are You Interested in Parlor Stoves?

The GLENWOOD base burner does the best work. The E. Brown Co. handle this line. also carry a full stock of

Modern Hardware at Very Low Prices

E. Brown Co., Agents, Palmer, Mass.

AT THE HALL STORE

Springfield, Mass.,

Are Spread Before You the Best Things That America and Europe Produce for Christmas Gifts

In Rookwood Pottery

A New Glaze—the Ombroso.
Ask to See It.

Mark Cross Gloves and Stationery

Are Distinctive for the Use of People of Distinction.

Our Ideal of Service

To offer to the seeker worth-while gifts at this annual Christmas gift buying time. Whether your list contains articles at 25c, 50c or $1.00, or more, we maintain and believe a trial will prove that a Christmas list can be filled here with more economy and satisfaction to the buyer, and more pleasure to the recipient of the various articles, than in any other one store in New England—BAR NONE.

CHINA

Our China Department Has No Equal In This Section

It is long established and the selection afforded is unrivaled. In fine China Dinner Sets the leading potteries in England, Austria, France and America are well represented. There is here also an immense variety of moderately priced pieces of Table China of various kinds at popular prices.

The Tables of Fancy China at 25c, 50c, 75c and $1 Hold Countless Suggestions for Gift Seekers—Useful Things and Pretty.

Cake Plates, Chop Plates, Cups and Saucers, Sugar and Cream Sets, Salad Bowls, Berry Sets, Chocolate Sets, Teapots, Teapot Stands, Syrup Pitchers, Children's Bread and Milk Sets.

If You Have a China Need and Cannot Fill It Here, It Is a RARE ONE.

The Children's Balcony in the China Room is a most interesting place. Dolls of all kinds, at all kinds of prices from 15c to $1 and more. Dolls that go to sleep and shut their eyes, and Dolls that don't. Character Dolls and Baby Dolls. Fixings for Dolls of many kinds. Parlor, dining-room and bedroom furniture. Kitchens and grocery shops. A good collection of Anchor Building Blocks, made in wood or cement, modeled and designed to instruct a child in good architectural form while he plays.

Christmas Gifts In the Leather Shop

The process of elimination in buying Leather, exercised by our buyers, puts the Leather Shop in a class where any one may buy there with safety. We know what not to buy; what not to offer to our public. Never have we shown such a satisfactory selection of smart and exclusive Leather things—durable Leather things. When you give Leather things away you want to feel that the recipient will get wear and lasting satisfaction from them.

They will, if purchased here. Dozens of attractive things, either of the Mark Cross make or our own exclusive importations—at 25c, 50c, 75c, $1, $1.50 and up.

This Bridge Score FREE

If you will bring in this advertisement, you will get FREE a quaint little Florentine Bridge Score.

Lamps Are Ideal Gifts

The home deserves a gift. What better than a handsome lamp? The new "Handel" line contains designs most original and attractive.

Lamps for the Piano, Desk, Table, Dining Room, Parlor and Study

A Lamp for Every Purpose Is Here

5 Styles in Gas and Electric Lamps, complete at $5.00

Gas or Electric Lamps in green or old brass finish with leaded shades of 96 pieces, complete, $8.50

Silk and Cretonne Shades to Order, 75c to $15

"The Wise Are Doing Their Christmas Shopping NOW."

Unique prestige attach to the Gift from Hall through its beauty, value and the fact that there is little likelihood of its being duplicated elsewhere.

The enumeration of the many lines which offer possibilities for Gift solutions cannot fail to impress the reader with the extensiveness of the Christmas stocks and the desirability for making the Gift selection here. Many things at little prices.

Dressing Table Silver
Sterling and Plated. Various articles of fine quality.

Leather Wares
In refined accessories.

Glassware In Variety
Cut-Glass and Crystal pieces. Bohemian and Belgian Glass.

Chafing Dishes and Percolators
In nickel and copper finishes.

Smokers' Accessories
Articles of copper and brass.

Desk Furnishings
Leather and Brass. In sets and separate pieces.

Furniture—Antique and Modern
Rare pieces of value.

Foreign Fabrics
Accessories for the dressing room and the house.

Sterling Silver
Richly decorated pieces in Sterling, Sheffield and Dutch Silver.

Imported Pictures
Reproductions of old masters from Munich.

German Peasant Novelties
Ornaments of quaint design.

Vases and Ornaments
In China, Porcelain, Pottery and Glass.

Lamps
For every use.

Fireplace Furnishings
In new designs.

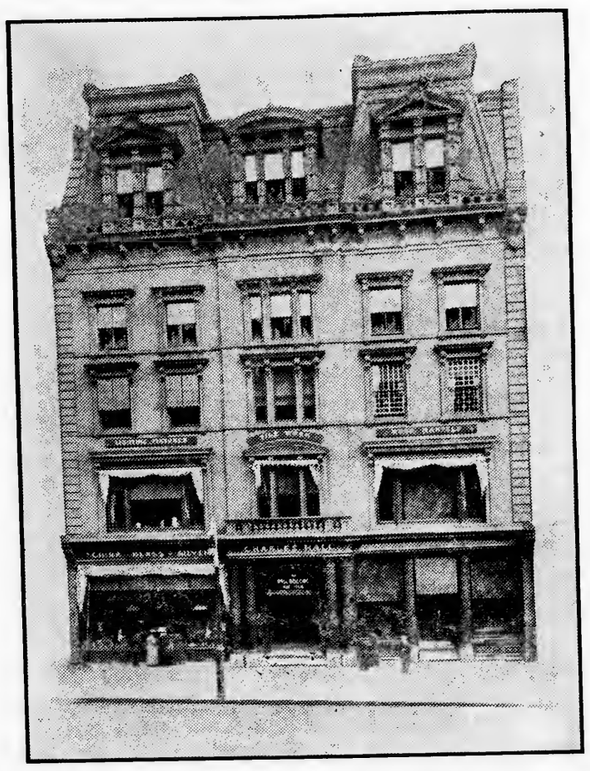
Silver-Plated Ware
Heavy, durable plate in attractive designs.

Various Imported Novelties
Fabric and Bead Bags, Jewelry, Willow and Gold Baskets, Majolica, Terra Cotta and Faience Wares.

Table China
Sets and odd pieces. Exclusive patterns from every well-known pottery in Europe and America.

Again we emphasize the fact that innumerable desirable things may be found here from 25c up

Mayhew Made Deep Cushioned Luxurious Library Chairs and Couches—a whole carload just received to make the heart of man glad—at least, the man that gets one for a Christmas gift.



$28.00 to $100.00.

Things of French Ivory for Dainty Gifts

Our Paris agents did a fine piece of work on buying our Christmas order for French Ivory. In July our buyer bought a lot which we received in September; he thought, and we did, enough for Christmas needs. In two weeks the assortments were completely broken, and an order was sent over for double the quantity of the original order. It left Paris November 3d and is now here in the Toilet Ware Section (First Floor). Beautiful heavy backed ivory white articles for toilet use—the heaviest designs and in Brushes the best bristles we could buy—priced as follows:—

HAIR BRUSHES,	$2.75, $3.50, $5, $6
MIRRORS,	$4.25, $4.50, $5, $6
COMBS,	85c, $1.00, $1.25
PUFF BOXES,	$1.00 to $3.50
NAIL BUFFERS AND TRAY,	$1.25
NAIL FILES,	65c to $1.00

Handsome monograms will be engraved on these pieces in our own engraving department at moderate prices.

An Unusual Store

THE TEA ROOM is proving its popularity by serving capacity audiences day after day. Try it---a dainty luncheon daintily served midst quiet surroundings --- from 25c up.

GIFTS MAY BE SENT from here direct --- properly cleaned, properly wrapped and properly packed --- with as great assurance of their reaching their destination promptly and safely as if sent from your own home.

Chafing Dishes and Percolators

A stock of large size and variety in the newest designs is here. The best value in New England.

For $5.00

Chafing Dish Percolator in nickel or copper. See it!

THE CONSTANT OBJECT of the Hall Store is to make low prices as much a feature of the business as the distinction and quality of the merchandise.

THE MARK CROSS GLOVE at $1.50 is made in England and worn in England and America by people who appreciate the best and insist on having it. For men and women.

Who is Not Charmed With a Gift of GLASS That's Beautiful?

American Made Rich Cut Glass

Splendid Values.

CELERY TRAYS,
$2.75, $3.25 and $6

SALAD BOWLS,
$2.50, $3 and $5

SUGAR AND CREAM SETS,
$2.25, $3 and $5

WATER PITCHERS,
$3.50, $5 and $7.50

COMPOTES, 9 inches high and 6 inches across $1

OLIVE DISHES,
50c, 75c and $1

SMALL COMPOTES,
75c, 85c and $1

SALAD AND FRUIT BOWLS,
$1.50, $2 and $2.50

CORDIAL AND WINE SETS,
$5, $8.50 and $10

Bohemian Cut, Crystal and Gold Glass Specials

Unusual Gifts

For Those Who Have Everything

One-of-a-kind things for unusual people. Who has not on their list some one or more people who literally have everything—widely traveled people with cultivated tastes.

This is where our collections appeal strongly to fill such names on the Christmas list. Old Trousseau Chests from Italy or the Balkans, much in demand for firewood boxes in country houses. Luncheon Covers in home-spun linens, with drawn-work or cross-stitch decorations—the work of peasant workers in Hungary or Russia. Beautifully bound Books from Florence, illuminated hand-wrought leather bindings, and photographic inserts illustrating the text. Hand-carved Picture Frames and Book Ends from Florence.

Do you know one reason why the Hall Store people can sell many things for less than some other stores? They go abroad themselves to Paris, London, Amsterdam, Vienna, Berlin, Florence and other Foreign cities where beautiful things in metal, wood and fabric are made.

CHARLES HALL

The Hall Building

Springfield, Mass.

Five Floors of Fine Merchandise

That Episode of J. Gordon's

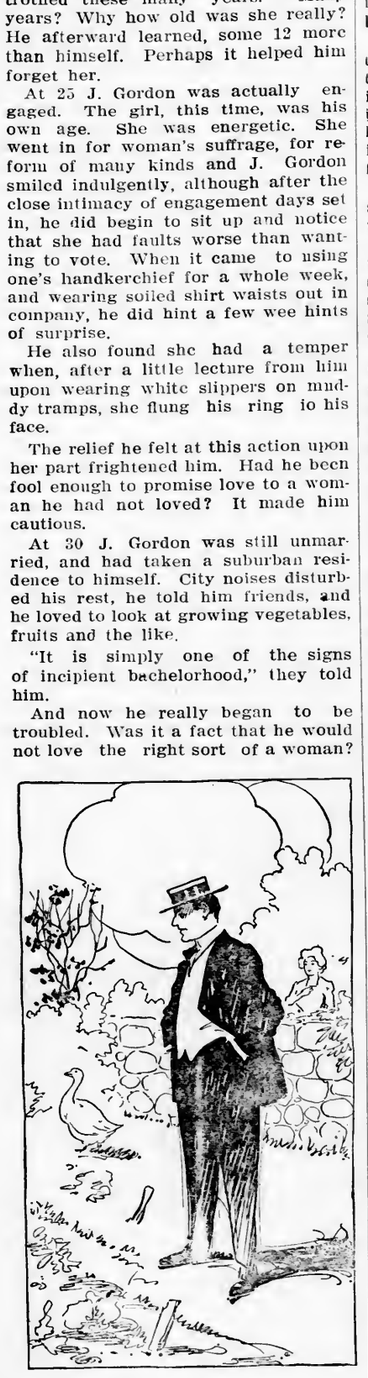
By Ida M. Shepler

(Copyright, 1911, by Associated Literary Press.)

His name, in full, was Jay Gordon Stanford, but his intimate friends seldom got farther with the name than J. Gordon.

J. Gordon had seriously contemplated matrimony at the age of 17. Shortly after he was brought rudely out of such contemplation by being softly informed by the recipient of his adolescent affection that her heart was in the keeping of one much his senior, one to whom she had been betrothed these many years. Many years? Why how old was she really? He afterward learned, some 12 more than himself. Perhaps it helped him forget her.

At 25 J. Gordon was actually engaged. The girl, this time, was his own age. She was energetic. She went in for woman's suffrage, for reform of many kinds and J. Gordon smiled indulgently, although after the close intimacy of engagement days set in, he did begin to sit up and notice that she had faults worse than wanting to vote. When it came to using one's handkerchief for a whole week, and wearing soiled shirt waists out in company, he did hint a few wee hints of surprise.



He also found she had a temper when, after a little lecture from him upon wearing white slippers on muddy tramps, she flung his ring io his face.

The relief he felt at this action upon her part frightened him. Had he been fool enough to promise love to a woman he had not loved? It made him cautious.

At 30 J. Gordon was still unmarried, and had taken a suburban residence to himself. City noises disturbed his rest, he told him friends, and he loved to look at growing vegetables, fruits and the like.

"It is simply one of the signs of incipient bachelorhood," they told him.

And now he really began to be troubled. Was it a fact that he would not love the right sort of a woman?

Gazing Upon the Damage.

The men of his family usually married early in life. Was he born to live unloved?

As long as the villas on each side of him held the kind of children they did, J. Gordon was not sure but that bachelorhood had its advantages, for these were spoiled children. But when the children moved and on one side moved in an elderly gentleman, grouchy and snuffy, and in the other, a loving young couple took up abode, his uneasiness returned. The first disgusted him with a picture of what he might yet be; the other—there were evenings when they made him feel lonely. But he would forget all this next day through office hours.

The young wife on the one side of him was rather pretty in a soft, demure way. And she loved flowers and green things as well as did J. Gordon, and thus they sometimes came close, each across the dividing fence from the other. She was very modest. He learned only that she was Mrs. Mumford, and it was born in her to love country quiet, or as near as she could get, and digging in the ground.

One morning he saw her, from her top veranda step, stoop and kiss her husband goodby. The husband at the time was well ballasted with a big valise in each hand. Business called J. Gordon from his villa during the two days after.

Upon his return, gazing with some concern upon the damage done some of his growing things by a great goose, he was startled by a cherry laugh from the other side of the fence, and looked up to behold Mrs. Mumford, merry-eyed, smiling radiant, in pink and white. Never had he seen her so beautiful as now, and so friendly and merry. What a change the departure of her husband had brought about in her nature. Then she began:

"That goose has eaten all our late strawberries, the hired girl tells me. Isn't it awful? We found out why the woman down the avenue keeps it. She's an old maid, and so afraid of burglars, but more afraid of dogs—says they all have hydrophobia, but geese never do. Can't inoculate them with it in any way. And a goose, you, know, always squawks if anybody comes in the house. See? It's her safeguard against burglars. Poor thing, if I were so afraid of burglars I'd marry a—well, a great, big brave man."

Her laugh was catching, her smile irresistible, and J. Gordon found himself planning little tricks with her on that goose, to the vexation of its owner. Over half the time they held it for ransom, which ransom the poor woman would send by her maid, and which money Mrs. Mumford would send back.

And how she sang and how well she played the piano! Each night J. Gordon went to sleep to sweet tones floating in at his open window, and each morning awakened to the same. He had not known Mrs. Mumford could sing.

Twice J. Gordon, how, he never could tell was tolled over to the Mumford veranda, and each time came away wondering if it were possible for a man of his regulated mind to fall in love with another man's wife.

A few more days of this merry suburban friendship and he pulled himself together to flee the spot, for he realized just the power she was exercising over him. It was not pretense at love on his part, now. It was a genuine case to be fought out as he would fight it. He would go away.

Next morning, after this resolve, he saw Mr. Mumford on his veranda. He was home again.

Out in the bushes Mrs. Mumford was silently trimming some small shrubs. Mrs. Mumford, her dress of subdued color, her manner retiring. She raised her eyes to him, then nodded demurely.

He spoke to get a look into her eyes. They had surprised him. He had thought them blue, but they were a dark hazel now. "Mr. Mumford is back." She glanced up and he had an excellent glance into the changed eyes. In fact the change that had come into her face was actually startling. He was glad of it. Better could he forget her now. But why the change?"

"Yes," she replied, "we came back last night. He went two days before I did. Some business took him a little out of the way. We had a delightful vacation. Bell says you helped her pass some of the lonely hours; I thank you. She kept house for me."

"Bell!" Light was breaking. "Your twin sister?"

"Oh, no, I never had a twin sister. Bell is my cousin. They do say we look very much alike."

And so they did, lacking the vivacity, the blueness of eye, the pink of cheek and lips on the part of Mrs. Mumford. These were the cousin's charm. And Bell was not married. With elation J. Gordon guessed it, and guessed right.

She was coming along the path humming. Catching sight of him, she called:

"The woman with the goose as body guard wasn't an old maid. She was a charming young widow. Yesterday she was married, and this morning she sends me the goose with her compliments. What am I to do with it? Will you help us eat it, if I roast it?"

"Come here, very close," he called across the fence.

When she came, ignoring the goose question, he asked: "Why did you allow me to call you Mrs. Mumford? I came pretty close to falling in love with another man's wife."

"Ah, no, you didn't. No danger of that. You simply fell in love with me, and—" she paused, her eyes alluring.

"Is it all right that I did?" And now, across the fence his right hand was reaching out to her. She nodded, yes.

Women Architects.

Not so long ago a woman architect was an unknown quantity, but it is becoming more and more evident that the planning of the house intended for a home is the legitimate work of the woman architect, and as one newspaper states it, "she is getting on to her job." The man architect plans the building for the contractor to construct with little, if any, thought of the woman who is expected to spend her life in it. According to all the rules of the profession, the planning is all right, both as to dignity and beauty, proportions, lines, slopes anad sweeps; but so far as conveniences or "handiness" is concerned it is entirely out of the question and seems only to be a menace to health and happiness where the woman worker comes in. Women should plan the inside arrangement, at least, of the houses destined to be homes, and for this work those gifted in the necessary lines should make a profession of it, just as brother does of his part.

When It Went Wrong.

"He told her that he would gladly die for her."

"The same old bluff. Did it catch her?"

"No. She told him she would gladly let him."

In Proof.

"Jipson is one of the most neighborly persons I ever saw."

"Is that so?"

"Yes. He seems determined, sooner or later, to borrow everything I possess."

The Only Way.

Sue—I have decided definitely not to marry Jack.

Prue—Why, has he proved unworthy?

Sue—No, but, darn him, I can't get him to propose.

Even So.

"Is there a co-respondent in the Jiggers divorce case?"

"Mrs. Jiggers mentions a 'blonde person,' I believe."

"Good heavens! Why isn't she more explicit? The world is full of 'blonde persons.'"

PROFESSOR READ THE SIGNS

But Companion Had Doubts About Character of Boy, Despite Expert Opinion.

The professor who reads character from physiognomy pointed to the boy opposite. He belonged to the criminal type, said the professor. Look at his eyes, his ears, his cheek bones, his mouth—criminal, every one of them.

The boy sat very still. All about him were other boys swinging ball bats, and cuffing each other's ears, but that, the professor said, was only the natural overflow of animal spirits; the quiet boy was too thoroughly steeped in criminality to have any animal spirits. Just as the professor's companion was beginning to wonder if it was safe to ride in the same car with the youthful degenerate the boy reached down into his pocket and brought forth a white flower. It was a common field flower, a cluster of tiny white blossoms topping a slender stalk. The boy seemed very fond of it. He twirled the stalk, he stroked the leaves and petals, and every touch was soft and tender. But the professor had no eyes for those gentle fingers, he was intent on the unmistakable signs of inherited depravity.

"A bad one, he is, all right," said the professor with a solemn shake of the head.

But the other person looked at the flower again. A bad one, was he? Maybe; but the other person had doubts.

NOT ALTOGETHER A SUCCESS

Mr. Cohen Got His Meal and Escaped the Rain but Departed Unsatisfied.

A long way from home, and the rain pouring down, with no umbrella, Isaac Cohen was in a terrible way. But suddenly it struck him that he might get shelter and a cheap meal, too, from an old friend, one Kressler, a German, who lived in the neighborhood.

So, after a little searching, he found his friend's house, and gave the door bell a manful pull.

Presently he was face to face with Kressler himself, who evidently was none too pleased to see him. Being conducted into the dining room, where eight little Kresslers were seated around the table, he was bade to take a seat and have a little dinner

Isaac rubbed his hands and quietly smiled. He was in luck!

After an enjoyable meal, and the rain had stopped, he rose from his seat, and turning to friend Kressler said:

"Ah, my dear friend Kressler, I vish to tank you for your- —"

"Don't mention it, mine friendt," interupted Kressler slyly; "shust give the kids a quarter each!"

"The Leading Specialty Store."

THE WOMAN'S SHOP

Springfield, = = = = Mass.

Eleventh Quarterly Clearance Sale Now in Progress.

This is the Eleventh of our famous Quality Clearance Sales, which are widely recognized as the most important money-saving events in the wearing apparel business of Springfield. This Fall season has been a phenomenally successful one, but owing to the tremendous volume of selling, we find ourselves now with MANY SMALL LOTS AND BROKEN SIZES throughout our stocks. These, together with ALL SLOW MOVING OR OVERSTOCKED LINES, MUST GO AT ONCE. Our policy permits of no half measures. Even though these goods are all practically new (most, less than two months in stock) this midseason clearance must be accomplished BY GENUINE AND DEEP PRICE REDUCTIONS. Take advantage therefore of this wonderful opportunity to secure and wear, in practically the height of the season, new garments in all the accepted styles at prices that are quoted unusually in end-season sales only.

SUITS First Sweeping Reductions of the Season SUITS

Suits Sold Up to $18.50—now $12.75

Strictly tailored styles in all-wool Storm Serge, Pebble Cheviot and Fancy Mixtures—lined with either Skinner's or guaranteed satin. Come in Black, Navy, Brown and Gray—all sizes from 14 to 44.

Suits Sold Up to $27.50—now $16.75

A wonderful choice at this price, of finest Chiffon Broadcloths, Lymansville Cheviots, Mannish Serges and Mixtures. A stunning assortment of stylish models—all the leading shades.

Suits Sold Up to $32.50—now $19.75

Handsomely braided and dressy styles in finest Chiffon Broadcloths and serge, showing all the newest style effects; also distinctive Men's Wear Serges and Mixtures, beautifully tailored.

Suits Sold Up to $39.50—now $22.75

A wonderful assortment of high-grade Suits at this price. Exclusive models, mostly one of a kind, in the most fashionable materials and shades. Truly remarkable values.

ALL OUR EXTRA-SIZE SUITS (SIZES 37 TO 51) AT GREAT SAVINGS.

Tremendous Sale of Silk Waists - - - 2.69

VALUES HERE AS HIGH AS $6.98.

This is, without doubt, the most notable silk waist offering of the season. Included at this price are beautiful sample waists in Chiffon, Messaline, Satin and Net, in the newest, daintiest styles, that actually are worth up to $6.98. Also handsome semi-tailored and dressy styles of extra fine quality Messaline in Navy, Black, Copenhagen, Gray, Brown, Tan, Reseda, White, Light Blue and Pink—actual $4.50 values. Come in all sizes.

Lingerie and Tailored Waist Reductions

	Sales Values	Price
Lingerie and Tailored waists, slightly mussed	$1.00	69c
32 Lingerie and Voile Waists, slightly mussed	$1.98	$1.00
24 Tailored Waists, a little soiled from handling,	$1.98	$1.00
Lingerie Waists, dainty fresh styles	$2.50	$1.49
Lingerie Waists, choicest, prettiest models, up to	$3.98	$2.39

387 Main Street 387

Springfield, Mass.

CHRISTMAS SUGGESTIONS

To visit Springfield during the Holidays is a pleasure that every woman should enjoy.

To select His Christmas Gift at the Haynes Store means that you have chosen wisely and well.

Here are a few of the many Useful Articles we show that the Men and Boys that you have on your list would be glad to receive—the assortments are large, every thing is of dependable quality, and values that you will be pleased to secure.

Neckwear, rich silks in the fashionable shapes 25c to $2—Gloves for street, dress or driving $1 to $2.50—House Coats, beautiful fabrics most pleasingly made $4.50 to $12—Bath Robes, new designs and color effects $3.25 to $15—Slippers the home comfort kind, $1 to $3—Umbrellas, rich handles and dependable covers $1 to $10—Canes $1 to $12—Suit Cases and Bags, practical shapes and serviceable leathers $3.50 to $20—Travelers' Toilet Sets, most conveniently arranged $2 to $10—Jewelry, pleasing designs that are new 50c to $5—Sweaters for men $3 to $10, Sweaters for boys $1 to $6—Underwear 50c to $5—Night Shirts 50c to $1.50—Pajamas $1 to $3—Hosiery 15c to $1.50—Suspenders neatly boxed 50c to $1.50—Overcoats $12 to $40—Boys Overcoats $3.50 to $15—Fur Lined Overcoats $28 to $1.25—Fur Coats $17.50 to $100—Fur Caps $2 to $25—Fur Gloves $3.50 to $15—Fancy Vests $2.50 to $5.

Orders by mail will receive our immediate and careful attention, satisfaction we guarantee, express we prepay.

All Christmas Purchases Will Be Nicely Boxed

Haynes & Company

Always Reliable

Springfield, Massachusetts

BORN.

In North Wilbraham, 1st, a son (Wendell Everett) to L. G. and Minnie Morgan Stacy.

MARRIED.

In Thorndike, 5th, by Rev. F. C. Taylor, Alva N. Fisher of Ludlow and Ethel M. Miller of Thorndike.

DIED.

In Palmer, 7th, Fred H. Hook, 34.

TWO FURNISHED ROOMS AND A BARN to rent. 32 PLEASANT ST. 36–1

FOX TERRIER PUPS FOR SALE. 17-tf JAMES BURDICK, Mechanic St. Monson

TO RENT—Large barn and two auto sheds, 438 NORTH MAIN STREET, next to post office. 36-1

TO RENT.—Downstairs tenement in my double house on Walnut street, after December 15. W. E. McDONALD. 36–tf

IF YOU WANT your horse clipped in first-class shape, call on JAMES BURDICK, Monson. 32-tf

VAULTS CLEANED, gardens plowed, ashes and rubbish removed at reasonable prices. W. H. HOUSE, Palmer. 3-tf

FOR SALE.—One two-horse sleigh, one one-horse sleigh and four driving sleighs. 46-tf WHITCOMB & FAULKNER.

WANTED.—Hens, calves and cows. Will pay good price. Notify by postal card. 44-tf E. GOLDBERG, Three Rivers.

FOR SALE—Second-hand hot air wood furnace in good condition; pipes and registers with it. Inquire of E. J. FULLER, Fuller's Crossing, on Bondsville line. 33-tf

CARPET CLEANER. A Richmond Cleaner to rent with or without operator. Best way to clean carpets, rugs or furniture. Write postal or telephone 25-2. FRED McCOMBER, Box 174, Palmer. 40-tf

Palmer Savings Bank.

Notice to Trustees:

The quarterly meeting of the Trustees of the Palmer Savings Bank will be held in their banking rooms on Monday, the eighteenth day of December, 1911, at 2 o'clock p. m.

G. A. RICE, Clerk.

Palmer, Mass., Dec. 4, 1611.

W. B. T. Smith,

Physician and Surgeon,

Office and residence, So. High Street, BONDSVILLE, MASS.

Office Hours 7–9 a. m. 12.30–2 p. m. 6.30–8 p. m.

Tel. 104—5.

S. H. Wright

64 Pleasant Street,

Lock and Gunsmith.

Light Repairing of every Description.

Locks, Keys, Guns, Pistols, Shears, Lawn Mowers, Skates, Sewing Machines, Saw Filing, Clocks, Pattern Making, Etc.

For Sale.

My residence on North Main street. 20 rooms and ground level basement—more room than I need. Steam heat, electric lights, bath. Can easily be made into two tenements.

Louis E. Chandler.

Notice to Piano Owners.

Mr. J. Frank Normand, Piano Tuner and Repairer. Nearly 20 years' experience on all makes of pianos. Over fifty satisfied piano owners to refer to in Palmer, Monson and vicinity. Orders left at Journal office or mailed to 800 Main street, Worcester, Mass., will receive prompt attention.

August Peterson,

Monson, Mass.

Cement, Concrete and Stone Work of all kinds at Lowest Prices.

Teacher of Violin,

Robert J. Wilder.

Palmer, Mass.

Upright Pianos to Rent $3 to $5 per month

Money paid for rent applied if purchased.

STONE'S STORE,

370 Main St. Palmer

John Winer, Three Rivers

Dealer in Cattle, Beef and Milch Cows, Poultry.

Pay High Prices

P. O. Box 339, Three Rivers

For Sale

8-room cottage, with bath; on car line. Bargain if taken at once.

R. E. Cummings,

Palmer, Mass.

INSURANCE

Of every kind placed at short notice, and all favors duly appreciated.

Yours Truly

S. H. HELLYAR

Office at store on Main St.

VIOLIN AND PIANO LESSONS

Given by

Julia A. Allen, Palmer, Mass.

Orders promptly filled for Music, Violins, Strings, etc.

Bernard J. Bancroft

Teacher of Piano.

In Palmer Saturday of each week. Methods rapid and modern. Teaches at pupil's residence. Terms: 50 cents per lesson. Address

442 State St., Springfield.

360 Main St. Springfield.

MILLINERY

ALL OUR TRIMMED HATS

have been marked down to

HALF-PRICE

This affords you a splendid opportunity to buy a STYLISH HAT for less than the price of the materials used on them

S. LEVISON

THE LEADING MILLINERY HOUSE

Fraternity Notes.

L. L. Merrick post, G. A. R., meets next Wednesday evening.

Good Cheer lodge of Rebekahs meets Thursday evening of next week.

Division 15, A. O. H., meets next Sunday afternoon in Thorndike.

Revere chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, is to meet next Friday evening.

L. L. Merrick Woman's Relief Corps holds a regular meeting next Friday evening.

A regular meeting of Palmer lodge of Odd Fellows comes next Wednesday evening.

Next Tuesday is the regular meeting night of Pilgrim commandery, Knights of Malta.

Palmer council, Knights of Columbus, holds a regular meeting next Thursday evening.

Tockwotton tribe of Red Men hold a regular meeting next Tuesday evening. There will be an entertainment by Charles D. Holden of Bondsville.

A special meeting of Revere chapter, O. E. S. was held last evening in Masonic hall; candidates were initiated and refreshments were served after the meeting.

L. L. Merrick Woman's Relief Corps elected these officers at its meeting last Friday evening: President, Mrs. Ida M. Bond; senior vice president, Mrs. Augusta Thompson; junior vice president, Mrs. Bertha B. Carpenter; treasurer, Mrs. Georgiana P. Davis; chaplain, Mrs. Belle M. Fish; conductor, Mrs. Edith Smith; guard, Mrs. Bertha Raymond; first delegate to state convention, Mrs. Laura A. Calkins; second delegate, Mrs. Lena Buffington; first alternate, Mrs. Susan J. Lee; second alternate, Mrs. Ora M. Shumway.

Quaboag council, Royal Arcanum, held its annual meeting Tuesday evening and elected these officers: Regent, Charles A. Royce; vice regent, Louis A. Chandler; orator, Dr. Silas B. Keith; secretary, James Summers; treasurer, Walter L. Shaw; collector, Roy E. Cummings; chaplain, Edwin C. Gould; guide, Frank L. Morway; warden, William H. Grady; sentry, Patrick J. Connors; trustee for three years, George A. Rice: representative to grand council, David F. Dillon; alternate, Edwin B. Taylor. A committee of five—David F. Dillon, Edwin B. Taylor, Roy E. Cummings, Louis E. Chandler and James Summers—was appointed to arrange for a ladies' night and public installation.

BELCHERTOWN.

Mrs. M. G. Ward sustained a severe fall Saturday afternoon.

Seventeen received their first communion at the Catholic mission Saturday.

The Woman's Relief Corps elected the following officers Monday afternoon: President, Mrs. Julia Hubbard; senior vice, Mrs. Cook; junior vice, Mrs. Dewey; treasurer, Mrs. Draper; secretary, Mrs. H. D. Hoag; delegate to convention, Mrs. Plaintiff.

WARE.

Funeral of Edward J. McBride.

The funeral of Edward J. McBride, 47, who died last week Thursday, was held Saturday morning from his late home on West Main street. A high mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. J. J. Roberts in All Saints' church, after which burial took place in St. William cemetery. A delegation was present from Ware council, Knights of Columbus. The bearers were John J. Kidgell, Cornelius Fitzgerald, Thomas Fitzgerald, Bartholomew W. Buckley, William B. Kelley, Daniel Nolan, Charles Connor and James Harrison.

Wilbrod Robidoux, the 13-years-old son of Peter Robidoux of School street, had his hand caught in a circular saw while playing around the shop of Philias Provencal Friday. He was taken to the Ware hospital, where Dr. L. E. Dionne found it necessary to amputate the middle and index fingers.

The following nominations have been made by Nenameseck tribe of Red Men for the election December 18th: Prophet, George O. Packard; sachem, D. P. Griffin; senior sagamore, Charles D. Myers; junior sagamore, H. J. Chenette; keeper of records, J. A. Reilly; keeper of wampum, H. F. Lamoureaux; collector, George Haley; trustee, S. E. Barbier.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure

The only Baking Powder made from Royal Grape Cream of Tartar

NO ALUM, NO LIME PHOSPHATE

WOES OF THE BUSINESS MAN

Just a Sample of the Many Things That Turn His Raven Locks to Gray.

The new girl was taking dictation from the head of the firm, a Wall street broker. In the letter the gentleman was inveighing against the practices of certain get-rich-quick houses in the street.

"The firm you mention," he dictated in the course of his epistle, "have an office in an uptown hotel, but I do not consider their business legitimate. I have never had either liking or respect for bucket shops With personal regards, I am yours very truly," he finished.

"Now you can sign that, Miss Fudge, and mail it, for I've got to leave at once." And Miss Fudge did.

The next day the boss glanced over the letter-copying book and tore his hair when he read, "I have never had either liking or respect for bucket slops." And Miss Fudge put on her hat.

The next stenographer was a young man. The boss dictated: "The deceased left neither bonds nor stocks." Any writer of stenographic pothooks knows that the word "bonds" is written almost exactly like the word which is sometimes used for "trousers." Hence the man stenographer's transcription: "The deceased left neither pants nor socks."

And the man secretary put on his hat.

Next?

Ruskin as a Grocer.

Ruskin was once a grocer. In 1874 he opened a shop in Paddington street, Notting Hill, in order, as he announced, "to supply the poor with pure tea in packets as small as they choose to buy, without making a profit on the subdivision, larger orders being, of course, equally acceptable from anybody who cares to promote honest dealing." The shop did not attract, Ruskin complained in "Fors Clavigera" that "the poor only like to buy their tea where it is brilliantly lighted and eloquently ticketed; and as I resolutely refuse to compete with my neighboring tradesmen, either in gas or rhetoric, the patient subdivision of my parcels passes little recognized as an advantage by my uncalculating public." The shop soon closed down, and the grocery trade lost the most distinguished representative it is ever likely to possess.—London Chronicle.

Only a Few.

Only a few people can follow the lines of least resistance and obey the alarm clock at the same time.—Atchison Globe.

"I had been troubled with constipation for two years and tried all of the best physicians in Bristol, Tenn., and they could do nothing for me," writes Thos. E. Williams, Middleboro, Ky. "Two packages of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets cured me." For sale by all dealers.

Many Children Are Sickly.

Mother Gray's Sweet Powders for children break up Colds in 24 hours, relieve Feverishness, Headache, Stomach Troubles, Teething Disorders, and Destroy Worms. At all druggists, 25c. Sample mailed FREE. Address, Allen S. Olmstead, LeRoy, N. Y.

EVIDENTLY A HARD TASK

Somewhat Humorously Worded Epistle the Result of Struggle With English Language.

As the most delightful example she has ever seen of the English the European uses in his correspondence, a woman who has just returned from "the other side" is showing her friends a letter that she declares to be her most interesting "souvenir."

"After we left Amsterdam," she explains, "my daughter discovered that she had left her cuff-links in our room at the pension. So I wrote back to the proprietress, whom I knew spoke English, asking her to look for them. Here is the reply."

Then she shows it. And this, word for word, is how it read:

"Dear Mrs. Thomas Grant:

"Immediately upon receiving your lettre I am going at once to looking in every drawer, and found this two button in the table near her bed. Can it be this two things what your daughter lost?

"In that way I am very glad to found it.

"So not, be so good to send it me back, for it might be of another person who perhaps will write me he lost something."

BRIMFIELD.

Prof. L. H. Parker and Mrs. Parker of Amherst were recent guests in town.

Miss Dora Sherman has returned to her duties in Becket after a visit at her home here.

THE BEST PROOF.

Palmer Citizens Cannot Doubt It.

Doan's Kidney Pills were used—they cured.

The story was told to Palmer residents.

Time has strengthened the evidence.

Has proven the cure permanent.

The testimony is from this locality.

The proof convincing.

W. C. Sheldon of 84 W. Main St., Ware, Mass., says: "Weak and disordered kidneys caused me misery for years. I tried remedy after remedy, but relief did not follow. The kidney secretions were irregular in passage and always attended with a burning sensation. My back ached constantly and was weak. On a friend's advice, I got a supply of Doan's Kidney Pills and began their use. The first few doses relieved the pain and before long my kidneys were restored to a normal condition." (Statement given August 15, 1908.)

A LATER ENDORSEMENT.

On June 15, 1911, Mr. Sheldon was interviewed and he added to the above: "All I have previously said regarding Doan's Kidney Pills was correct and I am glad to confirm my former statement. This remedy is certainly an effective one."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM

Cleanses and beautifies the hair. Promotes a luxuriant growth. Never Fails to Restore Gray Hair to its Youthful Color. Cures scalp diseases & hair falling.

Christmas Confectionery

Lenox Chocolates

In fancy boxes. Also in bulk.

Fruit

Of all kinds—Naval Oranges, Grape Fruit 3 for 25c, Malaga Grapes, Figs, Nuts, etc.

Palmer Fruit Co.

Palmer, Mass.

GALE BROS.

Carry a full line of CIGARS in Holiday boxes.

FRENCH BRIAR, MEERSCHAUM and CALABASH PIPES, CIGAR HOLDERS and CASES.

A big line of CHRISTMAS POST CARDS.

Corner of Main and Central Sts., Palmer

Bay State Drug Co.

Palmer

All 10c Cigars, 6c
5c Cigars, 4c

Special for Saturday, Dec. 9th

Largest and Best Equipped Drug Store Between Worcester and Springfield

Clean-up Sale of Monuments

Don't miss this chance of getting one of them. Manufactured from the best granite in the world and guaranteed to be satisfactory.

The lettering and placing on your lot will be executed in the same careful manner which has won commendation from past customers. The prices will be sure to suit you; they cannot be duplicated.

Palmer Granite and Marble Works

W. H. MacLean, Prop.

10 Converse St., rear of High School.

GET IT AT GREEN'S.

We Can Save YOU 25 to 50 per cent

ON

Christmas Goods

DO YOU WANT A WATCH?

The NEW Watch

Cases Gun Metal, Gold Plate, Nickel.

Warranted for One Year. Make the Boy Happy Christmas Our Price, 98c

BY MAIL SECURELY BOXED $1 10.

BIG PEN SALE

$2000 worth of $2 and $3 Fountain Pens to be sold before January 1st. Decorated with Pearl, Gold Plate and Sterling Silver.

Made by the Diamond Point Pen Co. Our Price 98c

EVERY PEN WARRANTED FOR ONE YEAR.

MAIL ORDERS FILLED. COMPLETE WITH BOX—GUARANTEED FILLER, $1.10. CAP CLIP 15c EXTRA.

A Good Christmas Present. Money Back if Not Satisfied.

GREEN THE DRUGGIST

Springfield 410 Main St.

Holyoke 257 High St.

Lynde & Gould

Our Line of Christmas Goods

Is the largest and best ever and we ask you to call early and examine before purchasing elsewhere.

Toilet Cases, Manicure Sets, Traveling Cases, Military Brushes, Shaving Sets, Safety Razors, Mugs and Brushes, Mirrors, Pocket Books, Card Cases, Christmas Stationery in Fancy boxes, Fountain Pens, including The Waterman, Conklin, Paul E. Wirt and Moors, Playing Cards in cases, including Bridge whist, Kodaks and Photographic Goods, Musical Instruments, Christmas Boxes for including gifts in all sizes.

We always carry the largest and best line of Chocolates in Fancy Christmas Packages.

Cigars in Christmas Packages, including all the popular brands, Pipes, Smoking Sets and Cigar Cases.

We are showing the largest line of Cards and Calendars ever.

We take orders and deliver Ice Cream in bricks and bulk.

We take subscriptions for all Magazines and Periodicals.

Reliable Goods. Lowest Prices

Lynde & Gould

The Druggists, Stationers and Newsdealers

Nassowanno House Block, Main Street, Palmer

Thorndike
Three Rivers
Bondsville

Many items of interest from these busy villages.

THORNDIKE.

Miller – Fisher.

A pretty wedding took place Tuesday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jason W. Miller on Main street, when their daughter, Ethel M., was united in marriage to Alva N. Fisher of Ludlow. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Frederick C. Taylor of Prescott, a former pastor of the Congregational church of this place. The double ring service was used. The bride wore a gown of white chiffon over white silk, trimmed with lace and satin ribbon, and carried bride roses. The house was decorated prettily for the occasion with laurel and running vine, yellow chrysanthemums and pinks. The couple stood under a chime of white bells. Mrs. H. T. Bishop and Mrs. R.V. Carter had charge of the decorations. Guests were in attendance from Springfield, North and West Brookfield, Ludlow, Wilbraham, Vermont, Connecticut and New York. A buffet lunch was served after the ceremony. The wedding gifts were numerous, including linen, silver, cut glass and bric-a-brac. The bride is a graduate of Palmer high school, class of 1898, also of the Westboro hospital and New York polyclinic school for nurses, and has also been engaged in social settlement work in New York state. The groom is traveling representative for the Taylor-Stokes Company of Philadelphia, Pa. The bride and groom left on the 2.22 train in the afternoon for an extended wedding tour.

Miss Mary V. Lyons is confined to her home by illness.

Mrs. J. P. Murphy and children, who have been guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Bishop over the holiday, have returned to Hartford, Ct.

Several hunters who were out after rabbit last week Thursday were startled on their way home about dusk, to see an animal of dark color resembling a bear, in the woods north of Pine avenue. It seemed to be injured as it fell repeatedly. The hunters did not feel that they were equipped for bear hunting, so did not investigate further and the animal was permitted to continue its journey without molestation.

The annual coffee party and entertainment of the members of St. Mary's church last Friday evening was well attended and a success in every particular. The entertainment consisted of two farces, "A scientific experiment" and "Beautiful forever," vocal solos by Miss Agnes Nolan of Holyoke and Miss Mary V. Lyons and readings by Miss Marie Dullihan. Refreshments were served after the entertainment. There was a sale of fancy articles and candy.

THREE RIVERS.

Brunswicks Win Match.

The Brunswicks took two points from the Trimmers in an interesting match on the Y. P. I. A. alleys the other evening. Score:

Trimmers.
E. Barton	77	68	91	236
T. Fournier	73	85	67	225
C. Lupien	88	76	71	235
H. Henrichon	114	106	93	313
	352	335	322	1009
Brunswicks.
P. Pierce	72	78	74	224
J. Fogarty	78	92	77	247
J. Trickett	80	80	84	244
F. Upham	121	93	93	307
	351	343	328	1022

Teams Split Even.

The Crescents and Mohawks split even Thursday evening. Score:

Crescents.
Rollet	78	79	88	245
Keith	84	92	77	253
J. Ritchie	71	71	74	216
Poitras	80	90	94	264
	315	332	333	978
Mohawks.
W. Ritchie	84	78	97	259
J. Pauline	79	84	84	247
A. Garvaise	70	70	70	210
I. Cole	89	84	82	255
	322	316	333	971

Henry Minnie has resigned his position in Wauregan, Ct.

John Ritchie of Palmer street spent Sunday with friends in Ware.

Walter Neilson of Hartford was the guest of Samuel Cole recently.

Miss Lillie Coyer is spending the week with relatives in Worcester.

Arthur Rice spent the week-end at his home in South Windham, Ct.

Nathan Cramer spent the last of the week with his family in Worcester.

Peter Labelle has returned after a few days' stay with friends in Montreal.

Mrs. J. F. Twiss is spending a few days with relatives in New Rochelle, N. Y.

Frank Burse of Springfield was the week-end guest of his parents on School street.

Mrs. Pembroke Pierce of Front street is spending the week with relatives in Taunton.

The Bijou has changed its program to two nights a week, Friday and Saturday.

Miss Jessie Bruce of Boston spent the week-end as the guest of her parents in this village.

Clinton D. Frame of Palmer spent the last of the week with his parents on Maple street.

W. Coligan of Connecticut was the guest for a few days of friends in the Riverside Hotel.

James Draper of South Windham spent Sunday with his family on Prospect avenue.

Henry Connor of Pittsfield spent the last of the week with his mother on East Main street.

St. John's choir of Springfield will sing at the services Sunday evening in the Union church.

Work has been begun on the new Hampden railroad which is to pass through this village.

Samuel Hartley of Hartford, Ct., was the guest of friends at the Wenimisset recently.

Miss Nellie Connor of North Dana spent the last of the week with her mother on Main street.

R. C. Newell has returned to his home on Kelley street after a week's stay at Clifton Springs.

Frank Nodlene has resigned his position in Wauregan and returned to his home on Bourne street.

Isaac Cole of Gilbertville spent the last of the week at the home of John Ritchie on Palmer road.

Miss Margery Noonan of Springfield was the week-end guest of Miss Mary E. Twiss on Main street.

James Cole of Gilbertville was a recent guest at the home of John Ritchie on Palmer street.

Raymond Walker of Northampton visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edson Walker, on Palmer street.

Aleide Labelle has resigned his position in Belchertown and returned to his home on Palmer street.

Misses Eva and Lena Bryant spent Sunday at the home of Mrs. Sarah Fenton on Springfield street.

Miss Bertha Pulsifer returned Monday after spending the Thanksgiving recess at her home in Natick.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Beauchanp and child of Indian Orchard visited recently at the home of Joseph Sirard.

Mrs. Henry Desormier and children of Willimantic are the guests of her brother, Eugene Pimpare.

Mrs. F. A. Upham has returned home after a few weeks' stay with her daughter Blanche at Clifton Springs.

Walter Root of Springfield was the week-end guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Root on Main street.

Andrew Fifer of Norwich, Ct., has been the guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Fifer, on North street.

Mrs. Richard Bruce of South Windham is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bruce at the Winimesset.

Miss Mabel Collins of Springfield spent the week-end at the home of Mrs. W. T. Abare on East Main street.

Mrs. Johanna Foley has returned to her home after a three weeks' stay at the home of her son in Worcester.

Rachel Butler of Gilbertville was the guest the first of the week at the home of Samuel Jameson on High street.

Mrs. E. Matchett left a few days ago for Boston, where she will spend the winter months with her son Robert.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry C. Newell spent the first of the week at the home of his father, R. C. Newell on Kelley street.

Misses Mary and Nellie Sullivan of Belchertown road have returned after a short stay with relatives in New York.

Miss Lena Gould of Brimfield has taken a position as clerk in the dry goods store of A. Cohen on Main street.

David Jackson of Utica, N. Y., spent the week-end as the guest of Henry and Joseph McAdam at the Wenimesset.

Miss Clara Holmes returned Monday to her duties as teacher in grade five after a few days at her home in Chester.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Mullen of Gilbertville were the guests of John Ritchie and family on Palmer street recently.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Russet are receiving congratulations on the birth of a daughter.

Miss Martha A. Buzzell of Springfield spent the week-end as the guest of Miss Anne Murdock on Main street.

Miss Harriet Wilder, a former teacher here, now of Keene, N. H., called on friends here during the past week.

Isabel Kettle of Gilbertville recently spent a few days at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Jameson on Kelley street.

Mrs. C. M. Howell of Barrett's Junction has returned to her home after spending a few days with relatives in Montpelier.

Joseph Witkins has moved his family from East Main street to Springfield, where he will open a dry goods store.

A rehearsal was held Tuesday afternoon in the vestry of the Union church for the concert which they are planning to have soon.

The Three Rivers Soccer football team is planning to go to Gilbertville to-morrow afternoon to play the team of that village.

Peter and Cosmos Twhoski have resigned their positions in Wurregan and returned to their homes on the Springfield road.

Mrs. R. E. Burlingame of Baptist Hill is ill with pneumonia at the home of her daughter, 60 Wooden street, Rochester, N. Y.

Mr. and Mrs. Brockie of Ludlow spent the last of the week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Burse on Springfield street.

Miss Ethel Jenks of Amherst spent the last of the week with her mother on Belchertown road.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Noonan of Springfield were the guests the last of the week of Mrs. Thomas Hartnett on Belchertown street.

The large tenement block being erected on Athol street by John Wilson is nearing completion and will soon be ready for occupancy.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur LaRose of Springfield were the week-end guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Levi Longey on Palmer street.

Dr. and Mrs. U. Sullivan of New York were the week-end guests of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Sullivan on Belchertown road.

Mr. and Mrs. George Barber and children of Worcester spent a few days the past week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Morin on School street.

Mrs. Bertha Taft has returned to her home in Springfield after spending a few days with her mother, Mrs. A. S. Barton on Springfield street.

Miss Mabel Geer of Belchertown road has returned to her studies at the Northfield Seminary after spending a few days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Geer.

D. E. Tenney was pleasantly surprised at his home Saturday with a beautiful bouquet of pinks, presented to him by the King's Daughters of North Wilbraham.

Mr. and Mrs. James Mills and children, Clifford, Lloyd, Marion and Gladys of White Rock, were the week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Mills on Springfield street.

Many seats, which have been stored in the Palmer high school building, have been brought here and installed in Pickering hall, to accommodate the large classes at the Polish evening school.

The following have returned to their studies after spending the Thanksgiving recess at their respective homes: Misses Gertrude Hartnett, Mollie Hartnett and Anna Bothwell to Westfield Normal; Daniel Horgan to Holy Cross and Everett Geer to Tufts.

The ladies of the Union church are to hold a Christmas sale in Ruggles hall Wednesday afternoon and evening. This sale will consist of fancy work, aprons, domestic articles, an art table, food, candy, etc. A new feature will be a five and 10 cent counter. Sale will begin at 3 o'clock. Lunch will be served from 6 to 7.30 followed by an entertainment. All are cordially invited.

The quicker a cold is gotten rid of the less the danger from pneumonia and other serious diseases. Mr. B.W.L. Hall of Waverly, Va., says: "I firmly believe Chamberlain's Cough Remedy to be absolutely the best preparation on the market for colds. I have recommended it to my friends and they all agree with me." For sale by all dealers.

BONDSVILLE.

A Successful Mission.

The mission conducted by Rev. Fr. Moore in St. Bartholomew's church for the past two weeks closed Monday and was marked by deep devotion on the part of the faithful and was a complete success. Rev. Fr. Moore expressed himself as well pleased with the large attendance at the masses, which were held at 5 and 7.30 every morning and the services at 7.30 each evening. The mission opened November 19 and for the first week was for the women. At the close of the women's mission November 26 each lady of the parish became a member of the League of Sacred Heart. At this service the altar was beautifully decorated with cut flowers and lighted candles and the shrine erected was adorned with the statue of the Immaculate Conception. The men's mission closed at 7.30 December 3 with a sermon and recitation of the beads, the renewal of the baptismal vows, the consecration of the parish to the Blessed Virgin and the bestowal of the papal benediction. At this service the shrine was adorned with a statue of the Blessed Virgin and Child and a body of men held lighted candles. The service was very impressive. At the conclusion of the service each man of the parish became a member of the Society of the Holy Name. Monday morning at 5 o'clock a solemn high mass of requiem for the souls of dead members of the parish was held and largely attended, the church being crowded to the doors. This service closed the mission. Fr. Moore was assisted in this service by Fr. Hurley, who has been holding a similar mission service in Belchertown.

William Davis is again confined to the house with rheumatism.

Mrs. John Quirk of Ware visited friends and relatives Sunday.

C. H. Banister spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Harry Thompson in Putnam, Ct.

Miss Eilene Kennedy of Monson was a week-end guest of her cousin, Miss Laura Bond.

Mr. and Mrs. Theopedus McBride were guests Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Gloster Jr.

Miss Geneva Billings has returned from a visit with relatives in Westfield and Chicopee Falls.

Mrs. F. E. Albro returned home Friday after a few days' visit with relatives in Springfield.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Collis spent Thanksgiving Day with Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Smith in Ware.

Mrs. Austin Kimball of Belchertown was a recent guest of her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Collis.

Miss Gladys Morse returned Saturday from a few days' visit with her friend, Miss Estelle Webber in Enfield.

Miss Lucy Ryther of Enfield was a guest of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Morgan Thanksgiving Day.

Miss Mary Manning has returned to Springfield after spending a few days with her grandmother, Mrs. Julia Quirk.

Miss Ina Cullen has resigned her position in the hat shop in Amherst and taken one in the hat shop in Monson.

James Kennedy, a student at Holy Cross college in Worcester, was a guest last week of his brother, Rev. Thomas Kennedy.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Davis and son Kendall of Springfield were guests Sunday of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Davis.

Catherine Murphy returned Friday to her work in Wilbraham after a short visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Murphy.

For other Bondsville news see 9th page.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

F. J. CHENEY, & CO., Toledo, Ohio.

Sold by Druggists, 75c.

Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

Suggestions for Yuletide Gifts

Toys,
Books,
Games,
Mufflers,
Sweaters,
Waists,
Fancy Handkerchiefs,
Fancy Neckwear,
Toilet Cases,
Silk Petticoats,
Silk Hosiery.

We have appropriate gifts for all. Be sure and do your shopping early.

Hellyar's Bargain Store

Converse House Block, Palmer, Mass.

Holiday Furniture

Walcott=Cameron Co.,

The Most Satisfactory Place to Buy Christmas Gifts Is Here.

We offer selections from all the staple articles in the House Furnishing line, together with lots of the smaller fancy things so much in demand at this season.

Pictures, Mirrors, Jardinieres, Jardiniere Stands, Lamps, Toilet Sets, Dinner Sets, Children's Rockers, Sleds, Carts, Doll Carriages, Bamboo Novelties, Carpet Sweepers.

Remember

We quote you lower prices than can be obtained out of town. We make delivery with our own team at any hour of any day you may desire and personally try to make your trading with us agreeable.

You owe it to your good Dollars and Cents (Sense) to look us over at least.

444 Main St., Palmer

W. D. Cameron, Proprietor

1848 BRIGHAM'S 1911

All Goods Delivered Free In Palmer.

Nothing Quite Like Brigham Furs For Christmas

In the whole Christmas catalog there is nothing so universally welcome as beautiful furs, and if they come in a Brigham box, they are doubly welcome.

The Brigham label on a fur garment or a set of furs is an absolute guarantee that these furs are the very finest that money can buy---furs of the first quality, carefully selected, perfectly matched and made up by expert furriers in the very best possible manner.

Such a guarantee adds immensely to the intrinsic worth of your gift

Perfectly Matched Gift Sets

Every year we place our orders early for our matched sets for the Holidays, securing the very choicest skins the markets afford and having them made up in the best manner for our Christmas trade. These beautiful gift sets we now show in all the popular furs, all perfectly matched to secure absolute uniformity in quality, coloring and marking.

Natural Mink

We take special pride in our showing of natural mink and no furriers in America have a handsomer display of these beautiful native furs than we show this season---the genuine natural dark mink of the very finest quality.

Natural Mink Muffs, from $20 to $150
Natural Mink Scarfs, from $20 to $200

Ladies' Black Pony Coats

To prove that Brigham prices are as low as the lowest, compare our prices on black pony coats.

50-in. and 52-in. Black Pony Coats of fine quality skins, soft and light-weight and beautifully marked at $37.50

Marmot Coats from $55 up.
Nearseal Coats from $67.50 up.

D. H. Brigham & Co.,
Springfield, Mass.

A Big Store Full of Christmas Things

Our big store in Cross Block, Palmer, (Bodfish's old stand) is completely filled with a big stock of almost

Everything for Ladies' and Children's Wear

Including Neckwear, Handkerchiefs, Hosiery, Fancy Aprons, Silk Kimonos, Silk and Heatherbloom Petticoats, Toys, Dolls without number, etc., etc. We'll be very glad to have you come in and look at what we have in Holiday wares. See what we have to offer before you go to the city.

Leonard's Dry Goods Store,

Palmer, Mass.

Monson News.

United Workmen Nominate Officers.

The following officers have been nominated by Mt. Ella lodge of United Workmen: Past master workman, David Broadfoot; master workman, August Peterson; overseer, Patrick Lyons; recorder, Perley Spofford; financier, John McCarthy; treasurer, James Burdick; guide, Carl Gustafson; inside watchmen, Ely Barslow, Benjamin Levine and Charles Bradley; representative to the Grand Court, James Fitzgerald; alternate, David Broadfoot; trustee for three years, David Broadfoot; superintendent of hall, Robert Sheriffs. A delegation is to be sent to Springfield Wednesday to attend the convocation of lodges which is to be held there on that day.

Catholic Foresters to Hold Reunion.

Wiseman Court, Massachusetts Catholic order of Foresters, will hold a reunion and roll call in the Sunday school building Monday evening at 7.45. Members of high-standing from Boston, Deputy High Chief Ranger, Miss Catherine Fitzgerald, Past Deputies Mrs. Catherine Grady and Miss Catherine Leonard of Springfield, and invited guests will be present. Nominations of officers will be held, followed by an entertainment consisting of instrumental and vocal music and speechmaking. Refreshments will be served.

No Gypsy Moths in Monson.

Some time ago Chairman Herlihy of the board of selectmen received a notice from the state forester asking the selectmen to make provision for suppressing gypsy and brown-tail moths. As it was not known that there were any of these pests here the notice was a surprise. The matter was taken up with the state forester who finds the letter was sent by mistake to Monson. The letter was intended for another town where they were found.

Slight Auto Accident.

F. G. Rogers and wife narrowly escaped injury while driving his automobile on the road to Palmer last Saturday. One of the rear axles on the car broke and the wheel went spinning into a nearby lot. The corner of the car dropped down, but the car was brought to a stop with no further damage.

Slight Blaze.

An alarm was rung in from box 13 at the corner of Hampden avenue and Main street Monday morning at 6 for a fire at the home of Mrs. Ellen Parker on Main street. The fire was confined to the chimney and was put out with practically no damage.

Sustains Bad Fall.

Mrs. Sarah Penry fell Sunday morning at her home on Pease avenue and was severely injured. Both wrists were broken and the bone in her left arm split. She was badly bruised around the face also.

Frank Shields is ill at his home on Main street.

E. F. Faulkner is visiting friends in Springfield.

Patrick Lyons is able to be out after a serious illness of several weeks.

Miss Ileen Kennedy has returned to Boston after visiting Monson friends.

John Butler has returned to Springfield after visiting Monson friends.

Ralph Duncan of Pittsfield is visiting Mrs. Harry Bradway on Green street.

Mrs. C. A. Whiton, who has been spending a few days in Stafford, has returned.

F. H. Johnson is making alterations and repairs on his property on Hampden court.

James Moran of Bridge street has gone to Bethel, Ct., where he has taken a position.

There will be a dance in the Swedish club house at North Monson to-morrow evening.

Stephen Newton has returned to his home in Haverhill after visiting friends here.

Misses Bertha and Esther Carroll of Noank, Ct., have returned to Monson for the winter.

The Current Events club met Thursday afternoon with Mrs. C. W. Jackson on Main street.

Stephen Newton of Haverhill has returned to his home after a visit with Monson friends.

Mrs. Damon of Brimfield is visiting at the home of Mrs. Lewis Rogers on Reynolds avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fisher of the west part of the town are visiting relatives in Waterbury, Ct.

The Sons of Veterans will meet in G. A. R. hall Tuesday evening. There will be election of officers.

Ralph Duncan of Pittsfield is visiting at the home of his sister, Mrs. Harry Bradway on Green street.

Nomination of officers was held last evening at the regular meeting of Court Monson of Foresters.

The North and South club met Monday evening with Mr. and Mrs. James Burdick on Mechanic street.

Mrs. N. D. Fenton of South Main street has returned from a visit with relatives in Willimantic, Ct.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Grady have returned to their home in Pittsfield after visiting Monson friends.

A 60-horse power generator has been installed in the Crescent woolen company's plant on South Main street.

M. S. Lambert has resigned his position as superintendent of the Somerset woolen mill in South Monson.

A special meeting of the Marcus Keep Grand Army post will be held Monday evening; officers will be elected.

Miss Nellie O'Brien, who has been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. K. O'Brien, has returned to her duties in Webster.

Harold Shaw, who has been visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Shaw on Bliss street, has returned to Amherst College.

The annual firemen's ball will be held Friday evening, Jan. 12. Flanagan's singing orchestra of Marlboro has been engaged.

Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Keyes have returned to their home in Wilbraham after visiting Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Fuller on Green street.

Harold Turner, who has been visiting at the home of R. P. Cushman on Main street, has returned to his home in Providence, R. I.

Miss Olive Taylor of Wilder, Vt., is spending a few days at the home of her mother, Mrs. Mary H. Taylor on South Main street.

John H. Leahy of Tufts College, Medford, spent the holiday and Sunday with his mother, Mrs. John Leahy on North Main street.

Mrs. Omer Pease and daughter Esther and Miss Dorothy Hill of East Hill have returned from a visit with friends in Springfield.

Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Baldwin Jr. and son, who have been visiting at the home of A. D. Ellis, have returned to their home in Brookline.

Mrs. J. M. Fitzgerald and daughter have returned to their home in Albany after visiting Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Tucker on Granite street.

The straw hat season at the Heimann & Lichten factory is opening up well. In addition to the sewers about 50 started in work Monday.

A. E. Shaw is moving his family from South Monson to the house on High street that he recently purchased from Mrs. H. E. Bradley.

Miss Mabel Fuller has returned to her school work in Holland and Miss Carol Beckwith to her studies at the Willimantic normal school.

Rev. A. L. Squier and son, who have been visiting Mr. Squier's mother on Green street, have returned to their home in Cambridge.

Miss Jessie Johnson of Chicago, Ill., has returned to Smith college in Northampton after spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. John Cross on State street.

Robert Squier, who spent Sunday with his grandmother, Mrs. Mary Squier on Green street, has returned to his studies at a Boston business college.

Robert S. Fay and Harry Rees, who spent the holiday at their homes in town, have returned to their studies at the Massachusetts Agricultural College in Amherst.

M. D. King of Pittsfield, Ill., a former resident of this town, has been visiting friends here and in the vicinity this week. He returned to his home Wednesday.

Supt. D. L. Bodfish has cleaned the gutters and graveled the surface of the state highway. In the spring the highway commissioners will oil and resurface the road.

The Fortnightly club met Monday afternoon with Mrs. G. L. Fuller. The subject of the meeting was "Current Events," and was in charge of Miss Bessie Sutcliffe.

Mr. and Mrs. Homer Squier and daughter, who have been visiting at the home of Edgar Squier on the Wales road, have returned to their home in Beverly.

S. F. Cushman Jr., who has been spending several days with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. F. Cushman on Main street, has returned to his studies at Amherst college.

The Dorcas society held a sale yesterday afternoon of blotters, calendars and Xmas cards at the home of Mrs. R. P. Cushman at 3 o'clock. Tea was served in colonial style during the afternoon.

The Dorcas Society will meet Monday afternoon at 3 with Mrs. L. C. Flynt on High street. The meeting will be addressed by Miss Margaret Henry on her work among the mountaineers.

Miss Mildred Munsell, who has been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. K. B. Munsell on North Main street, has returned to her studies at Mount Holyoke college.

The Century club met Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. M. C. Howe on North Main street. The meeting was in charge of Mrs. E. R. Cook, assisted by Mrs. E. W. Capen, Mrs. Frank Homer and Mrs. A. H. Bennett.

Charles Bozerson of Tobey avenue and Norman Cushman of Fountain street, who spent Thanksgiving and Sunday at their respective homes, have returned to their studies at Pratt Institute, New York city.

H. M. Smith is constructing a new ice house at his pond in State Line. Mr. Smith has had to buy his ice from out of town to supply his customers for the past six weeks. The consumption of ice is increasing each year.

At the regular meeting of the Quaboag Rebekah lodge last evening there was an inspection by the district deputy of Springfield. Initiation and nomination were also held. Refreshments will be served following the meeting.

Miss Mary Robbins of South Main street and Miss Mildred Cushman of Fountain street, who have been visiting at their homes for Thanksgiving and over Sunday, have returned to their studies at the Boston School of Domestic Science.

Miss Gladys M. Lull and friend, Miss Marie Schaefer, who have been spending a few days with Miss Lull's parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. R. Lull on Lincoln street, have returned to their studies at the New England conservatory of music in Boston.

Clamps have been put on the large limbs of the big elm tree in front of C. L. Peck's office on Main street by Tree Warden Johnson. The elm is the largest one on Main street and it was feared the limbs if not braced would fall on the business estblishments.

The meeting for inspection and initiation of the Quaboag lodge of Rebekahs was held in Odd Fellows hall last evening. District Deputy Mrs. Edna L. Turner and suite of Springfield made an official visit; nominations of officers for the coming term were held.

A social will be held in the Congregational church parlors next Friday evening. Supper will be served at 6.30 under the direction of Mrs. Foskit, Mrs. Bennett and Mrs. Pease, after which a stereopticon entertainment be given, showing local views and characters.

The Monson basketball team will play the fast independent team of the Springfield Y. M. C. A. next Thursday evening. This team is made up of members of last year's Y. M. C. A. first team. The game will start at 7.45, followed by dancing from 9 till 12, with music by Donahue's orchestra. Special cars will be run to Palmer and all the villages.

The Harry D. King stock company will be the attraction in Memorial hall the first three nights of next week. Monday night they will present "Wife in name only"; Tuesday night, "Ishmael"; Wednesday night, "What happened to Smith." There will also be vaudeville acts. Monday night is ladies' night. On this occasion there will be 200 reserved seats sold at 15 cents, if purchased before 6 o'clock of that day. Seats on sale at Bradway's news room.

BONDSVILLE.

Everett Geer of Tufts college was a guest Sunday of Miss Alice Banister, who also entertained Miss Mildred Bates of Palmer.

Thomas and Ozie Girouard of Indian Orchard spent Thanksgiving Day with their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Girouard.

Mrs. E. G. Childs and daughter, Miss Grace Childs, returned to their home in Boston Monday after a few days' visit with relatives here.

Miss Ora Parent returned to her school duties in South Framingham Sunday after a few days' visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. A. Parent.

Mr. and Mrs. Rowland McFarlane entertained Thanksgiving Day their mother, Mrs. Mary McFarlane and sister, Miss Grace McFarlane of Ludlow.

William Magee returned Sunday to his school work in Boston after spending the Thanksgiving recess with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Christopher Magee.

Mr. and Mrs. William Rose of Chicopee Falls were guests over Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Burton Rose. Mr. Rose returned Sunday. Mrs. Rose is spending the week.

Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Monaghan of Springfield and Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Begley and son of Mittineague were guests of Miss Nellie E. Monaghan a few days last week.

George Moulton Jr. has returned to the Massachusetts College of Chemistry in Boston after being the guest for a few days of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Moulton.

Miss Kathlene Quirk, Miss Elizabeth Shea and Miss Agnes Carmody returned to their school work at the Westfield Normal school Monday after spending the Thanksgiving recess at their several homes here.

Mrs. Elizabeth Thompson, who has been spending several weeks with her son and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Thompson in Putnam, Ct., has returned to spend the winter with her daughter, Mrs. Charles Banister.

Miss Nellie Sullivan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Laurence Sullivan, has gone to Des Moines, Iowa, to make her home with her sister, Mrs. John Bowler. Miss Sullivan was graduated from Wesson Memorial Hospital as a nurse in June and will take up the work in the West.

The Ladies' Aid society met Wednesday with Mrs. Charles Collis, with 15 present. The next meeting will be in two weeks with Mrs. S. C. Faunce. Eleven dollars was made at the last food sale. The following ladies were assigned booths at the annual fair which will be held later: Fancy table, Mrs. E. J. Loy; aprons, Mrs. Charles Collis; mystery, Mrs. W. H. Upham, Mrs. W. H. Morse; ice cream, Mrs. Harry Randall, Mrs. C. H, Banister; food table, Mrs. C. D. Holden; dining-room committee, Mrs. F. E. Albro, Mrs. S. C. Faunce; kitchen committee, Mrs. Samuel Stewart, Mrs. George Moulton.

"THE LINEN STORE"
Frank K. Confield, Prop.

Christmas Handkerchiefs

In texture and beauty of designs, our holiday supply of gift handkerchiefs is worthy of your inspection.

Ladies' Initials, 25c, 37 1-2c, 50c, 75c and $1.00 each.

Gent's Initials, 25c, 50c, 75c and $1 each.

Embroidered Corners from 12 1-2c to $5.00 each.

"THE LINEN STORE"
121 State St. Springfield.

Will You Live Up To Your Resolution?

—After it was all over last year you said, "I'll shop early next year."

—If you intend to keep faith with yourself 'tis none too early to begin now!

—The Christmas goods are ready, the stocks are new, the clerks are able to give you undivided attention—now!

—Will you do your Christmas shopping—now!

Suggestions

HOUSE COATS	JEWELRY	SUSPENDERS
BATH ROBES	TIE, HOSE, H'D'KFS SETS	WINTER CAPS
HOUSE SLIPPERS	SWEATERS	SHIRTS
UMBRELLAS	GLOVES	HOSIERY
TOILET SETS	MUFFLERS	UNDERWEAR
LEATHER NOVELTIES	NECKWEAR

These represent only a few suggestions.

Hart Schaffner & Marx Overcoats
$20, $22, $25 to $45

Equally good patterns, equally correct styles, equally good money's worth in our line at $15

Buy a Man's Gift in a Man's Store.

The W. J. Woods Co.,

Corner Main Street and Harrison Ave., Springfield, Mass.

We Always Have What We Advertise.

Albert Steiger Company

THE WOMAN'S STORE.

Springfield, Mass.

Preparations For the Holidays Practically Complete at This Store

We're practically ready for the Christmas rush. The real foundation work began months ago, when our buyers were ransacking the markets for all those novel things that distinguish our stocks. We're really prepared as never before, both because we've largely added room and because we planned early. Our patrons will be gratified with our Holiday showing—of that we're sure. We cite three departments that are featuring early and most attractive gift-giving displays.

We're Devoting an Exclusive Department to the showing of Imported Jewelry Novelties

Paris and Vienna are both represented in our Jewelry displays for the Yule-tide season. The assemblage of exquisite novelty creations from these two jewelry centers of the old world is such as only our foreign-born brothers can produce. Cut Jets, Rhinestones and all that's select in stone mountings from the slipper buckle and heel ornament to the finest pearls are to be found in this display. To give them prominence and to make selection easy we're devoting an exclusive department to this display. A visit will solve many a gift problem.

Pearls that form in beautiful Necklaces and collars at $1.50 to $40

Rhinestone Slipper Buckles and heel ornaments from $5 to $25 a Pair

Novelties and Lavallieres in a wonderful assortment from $2 to $15

Waist and Coat Chains from 39c to $10

Brooches and Breast Pins from 25c to $10

Our Doll Room Holds Forth in the Basement A Most Attractive Display

We've given over the space in our front basement to our Doll Room. But for all that it's a basement display it loses none of its brilliancy or interest that usually attends a showing of this kind. We've decorated it in keeping with the holidays and converted it into a room that you'll really want to visit. Here you'll find dolls of every description—Character Dolls, Bisque Dolls, the Campbell Kids, Rag Dolls, "Go to Sleep" Dolls, Baby Dolls and Unbreakable Dolls. In fact, everything in the Doll line. For selection we'd urge an early call.

Character Dolls in baby boys and girls, in gingham rompers and dresses—unbreakable heads, 25c

Character Dolls in the "Campbell Kids," all styles and sizes. 50c to $2

Baby Rag Dolls, 25c and 50c

Dressed Dolls—fancy dress in different colors, with hat, shoes and stockings, all colors hair—"go to sleep kind," 98c to $3.75

Undressed Kid Body Dolls, cork stuffed, with shoes and stockings, all colors hair and eyes, 50c and $1

Very large Undressed Jointed Dolls, long, beautiful hair, all colors, with eyelashes, "go to sleep kind"—$1.50 value, 98c

Eskimo Dolls, medium size. The only dolls that say "Mamma," 98c

Teddy Bears, all sizes, the best imported make, 50c to $1.25

"Trippel Trappel" Dogs, that walk—four styles and sizes, 98c to $2.49

Our Third Floor — A Perfect Fairyland With Its Showing of Day Craft Art Novelties

There's so much that can be said about these dainty conceptions that a word picture couldn't begin to portray their beauty. To be appreciated they must be seen. They're all hand-made, instinct with ideas and beautifully fashioned. They include all manner of things hand-fashioned from silks and leathers, including Bags, Cases, Traveling Conveniences, Coat Hangers, Baby Articles and other novelties galore. Just visit our Third Floor and take a look at the display.

Ye Rose Tree Inn

The shoppers will find much comfort in a visit to this dainty Lunch and Tea Room. It's a sister of that famous little Inn at Northampton. Service here will be similar and lunches and teas will be even more appetizing.

Fair Play

Ann Elizabeth Turns Things About.

By CLARISSA MACKIE.

Copyright by American Press Association, 1911.

The journey down in the train had been one of mingled pleasure and pain to Ann Elizabeth Clark. There was pleasure in contemplating how nice she would look in the new suit which Artemus had promised her; there was positive suffering in the mental suggestion that she might have to ask him for the money with which to pay the bill.

They had left Springbrook on the 6:02 train after an early breakfast, and all the way to the station in the rocking, careening old stage Ann Elizabeth had hoped that her husband would reach down into his hip pocket and bring forth the fat brown wallet in which he kept his money. It would be such a little thing for him to do—to count out the necessary money from the roll of bills and give it to her that she might feel the satisfaction of possessing the money for a short time, for Artemus Clark was a man who paid all his wife's bills, and Ann Elizabeth was one of those unfortunate wives who never have a cent of spending money without asking for it. As she was too proud to beg for what she considered rightfully her own share of the family income Ann Elizabeth went without many things until Artemus, ashamed of her shabbiness and in his heart knowing her reluctance to ask for money, at last made the suggestion that they journey to the city and purchase a suit for Ann Elizabeth.

Not a word about money had Artemus uttered during the stage ride; in the train he became absorbed in his newspaper, and so Ann Elizabeth sat, growing more miserable every moment until at last they rolled into the Central station. Half the pleasure of the journey was lost in the fact that Artemus had forgotten to give her the money for her purchases and she must ask him after all. And Artemus meant to be the kindest of husbands. Ann Elizabeth firmly believed that.

There was a particular store that the Clarks always traded at when in New York, and as they approached it now on the surface car Artemus talked of this and that and the other thing in the most careless manner, but not once did he mention the money for her suit. Ann Elizabeth remembered a horrible experience she had once had, when her husband had gone away and forgotten to give her any money and left her standing penniless in one of the shops surrounded by a heap of unpaid for purchases. Several hours afterward he had found her there waiting doggedly for his return.

"Here we are!" announced Artemus, shouldering his way out of the car and helping his little wife to alight. "Now, Ann Elizabeth, I don't see why you can't pick out a suit—get just what you want, and it will please me. I'm going to take the next car down to Triangle's to see about a new harness. Suppose you meet me there at noon and we'll go somewhere for dinner." He was moving away carelessly when Ann Elizabeth clutched desperately at his coat sleeve.

"Oh, Artemus, haven't you forgotten something?" she faltered. Surely he would recollect now!

Her husband looked down from his six feet of handsome good naturedness and smiled. "I don't recollect, Ann; what is it?"

Ann Elizabeth's sensitive face flushed painfully and her gray eyes darkened until they seemed almost black. She swallowed her pride and said humbly, "You forgot to give me the money for my suit, Artemus."

Artemus flung back his head and laughed heartily. "Bless my soul, so I did! Why didn't you ask me before, eh?"

Then it was that Ann Elizabeth Clark realized that her husband had kept her waiting purposely; it had amused him to tease her—she, who had not had a new suit in three years! The tears came into her eyes and she turned away proudly. How she would love to throw his money back into his hands!

"I was only having a little fun, Ann," he laughed softly, as he pulled out his wallet and gave to her generously from it. "There, get what you want. Remember you can always have what you want if you ask for it."

A curious look came into Ann's eyes. She held the roll of bills above the ground and looked down. "Speak, Fido! That's what you mean, don't you, Artemus?"

Artemus reddened uncomfortably. "Oh, now, Ann, you take it too seriously; I didn't mean to be unkind. We've been married ten years, and yet you act just as bashful about asking me for money as you did in the beginning. Don't mind my teasing. Will you meet me at Triangle's at noon?"

"Yes," said Ann coldly, turning away and entering the shop. She was too much overcome by the little scene to take much pleasure in the selection of her new suit, but dominating any possible satisfaction in the purchase there was a growing feeling of resentment toward her husband. To such proportions did her displeasure arise that she deliberately purchased a most becoming coat and skirt of rich dark blue, with a velvet hat to match, although dark blue was Artemus Clark's especial abhorrence.

For several days after this trip to the city Ann Elizabeth Clark was very thoughtful. She moved about her pretty little home with grave gray eyes, and occasionally she smiled demurely, or again the tears came unbidden to her lashes. Artemus, busy about the farm and attending to the manifold duties connected with his dairy, did not observe the change in his wife.

One night he came in to supper tired and hungry. The kitchen was immaculately clean, a bright coal fire glowed in the stove, and the kettle sang softly. There was no sign of supper, although it was fifteen minutes past the usual hour. The dining room table was not even laid for the evening meal, while Ann Elizabeth sat in the sitting room embroidering a centerpiece with daintily placed stitches.

"What's the matter?" demanded Artemus, in surprise. "Had company?"

"No. Why?" Ann looked up pleasantly.

"Nothing, only I thought it was funny supper wasn't ready," said Artemus rather grumblingly.

"Why, you can have it now if you want it." Ann spoke in a surprised tone, just as if Artemus' request was what she had been waiting for. She bustled about the rooms, while her husband lounged near the lamp reading the paper.

"What you got?" he asked hungrily as he came in response to her call. "Ham and eggs, pears and cake. I was hoping you'd fry some parsnips. You know I can never get enough of them," he said in a disappointed tone.

"Would you like some parsnips? Why didn't you ask me?" returned Ann briskly. "I'll fry some at once." She flitted into the kitchen, and soon the sputtering brown slices were placed before her husband.

Artemus ate his supper in silence. There was something peculiar about his wife's demeanor that he could not understand.

He watched Ann furtively as she flew about doing up the evening's work. At last she came and sat down near him and took out her embroidery once more. Artemus looked at it resentfully, almost jealously. She had told him it was to be a wedding present for Jennie Beake, and Miss Beake was to marry one of Ann Elizabeth's old admirers.

From these facts Artemus deducted that, while his wife stitched at a centerpiece to adorn the parlor table of one of her old lovers, he (Artemus, her husband) sat before her with a large hole in the toe of his sock.

But Ann Elizabeth was absorbed in her needlework and did not notice that Artemus had worked off his slipper and that the hole in his sock was painfully in evidence. At last he spoke rather crossly:

"Seems as if you might find time to mend my clothes."

"Why, I do mend them, Art. What is it now?" Ann looked at him with lifted brows.

"That!" complained Artemus, wriggling the peeping toe. "It's confounded uncomfortable, I tell you."

"It must be," said Ann sympathetically. "Want me to mend it?"

"If you please," said Artemus meekly.

When he reached his bedroom door that night Mr. Clark stared uncomprehendingly at the disorder that met his gaze. The bed was just as he had left it that morning, untidy, unmade. His clothes were strewn about, and there was a general air of neglect over the place that was very disheartening to a man who had slaved all day and who had waited for the last hour in pleasant anticipation of the comfortable bed that awaited his weary body.

He stepped to the door of his wife's room and looked in. All was in apple pie order, immaculately clean, with the white dimity spread turned down from the inviting bed. Ann stood before the window letting down her shower of yellow hair. Artemus hesitated for a moment. He wondered if Ann had been too busy or tired to make his bed, and yet she had never found it a trying task before.

Suddenly Ann turned and saw him there, hesitating. "Did you want anything, Artemus?" she asked pleasantly.

"My bed," replied her husband. "I guess you forgot it, Ann. It isn't made."

"I'll make it now," said Ann without surprise or apology, passing into his room. With a few deft movements she went to and fro, picking up things, replacing them in wardrobe or dresser, making the bed into a comfortable couch.

"Much obliged," said Artemus awkwardly.

"You're welcome," said Ann cheerfully. "Whenever you want anything, Art, just ask for it, and I'll do anything you want. Be sure and ask me. Good night."

Artemus lay in puzzled wakefulness for several hours. At last he broke into sudden soft laughter. "Cute," he chuckled to himself. "Cunning as the dickens. I declare if it isn't one on me!"

At breakfast next morning Artemus suddenly threw a bombshell into the conversation. "How would you like to have a weekly allowance, Ann?" he asked. "I mean some money every week of your own to spend as you please without asking anybody—eh?"

Ann Elizabeth came around the table and encircled her husband's head with tender arms. "You are the best husband in the world, Artemus," she said solemnly.

"You mean the husband of the best wife in the world," corrected Artemus.

They looked into each other's eyes and smiled with perfect understanding. Thus ended another one of the world's bloodless battles.

Paper Money.

Paper money was first issued by the notorious John Law. His issues exceeded £120,000,000.

Art Treasures in Spain.

Spain is considered by art collectors a lucrative field and many interesting antiques are picked up here from time to time. Seville has numerous shops where antiquities are sold and where the old Spanish needlework may be purchased. This section of the country has so recently (comparatively speaking) been invaded by tourists that art buyers claim to find here many desirable things of which the more frequented countries have long since been almost sold out. Probably the old Spanish needlework and the wood carvings are the most characteristic finds, though the antique Spanish and the lustrous Moorish tiles are also much sought. Of course paintings are eagerly scanned and occasionally a Murillo school picture comes to sale.

Wood-Eaters.

Wood in a certain form is a common and constant article of food in all sections of Siberia where the Yakut lives.

North of Verchoyansk, except in a few sheltered valleys, there is little food, aside from that afforded by fish, than that furnished by the larch. The natives eat it, however, because they like it. Even in sections where fish may be had wood usually forms part of the native's evening meal, as the many cleanly stripped larch logs near every hut testify.

The natives strip off the thick layers immediately under the bark of a larch log, and, chopping it fine, mix it with snow. It is then boiled in a kettle. Sometimes a bit of fish roe is added, and in the southern sections cow's milk or butter.—Harper's Weekly.

Damning With False Praise.

William Dean Howells, the author, was talking about a criticism that praised him almost fulsomely.

"I don't quite like such indiscriminate praise," he said. "Such praise does a man more harm than good. It is like the enthusiastic policeman's remark about the genial new mayor.

"'Oh, he's a fine feller,' the policeman said. 'Why, it don't matter who ye are, he'll get drunk with ye.'"

Primitive Reasoning.

"Did you sell your vote?"

"No, siree. I voted for that feller 'cause I liked him."

"But I understand he gave you $10."

"Well, when a man gives you $10 'taint no more'n natural to like him, is it?"

Couldn't Escape.

He was one of those timid, tiny-toned chaps who become enamored by mistake, and live in perpetual fear of a pending engagement ring. He himself had become enamored of a sweet and soulful maiden, whose languishing expression tore him between delight and fear.

At the conclusion of his first "call" she asked:

"When are you coming again, dear?"

He seized the wrong hat from the rack in his confusion.

"Er—what about some time next week?" he hazarded.

A look of disappointment came into the fair one's eyes.

"Next week?" she said. "Yes, that will do lovely! Come round tomorrow night, dear, and we'll decide definitely upon the day."—Answers.

BAY STATE FUR CO.
Every piece of fur in our store is our own make, bears our label and is fully guaranteed.
Manufacturers and Retailers.

FURS

For Women, Misses and Children

BAY STATE FUR CO.
We receive new furs direct from our factory every day. Complete assortments, newest styles.
Manufacturers and Retailers.

Just at the Right Moment for All Careful Buyers of Furs Comes This Important

Holiday Sale of FASHIONABLE FURS

These few weeks previous to Christmas, Furs are always at the height of demand—for gifts and for personal use. The general public is under the impression that at this time prices are unduly inflated—that Fur dealers exact all manner of high prices so as to be sure of their profits, and, after Christmas, make it appear that they are practically giving away Furs. Possibly it may be true in some cases. But no one ever heard of such unworthy methods being practiced at the Bay State Fur Co.

We keep our prices down to a fair value basis before Christmas just the same as we do at all other times of the season. Our store is noted for its high quality Furs at low prices, and we always stand ready to make good any claim made for our merchandise. You pay but one small profit over the cost of manufacturing, as we make our own Furs and sell them direct to you. Now scan the following items, and come in at your earliest convenience and learn for yourself how profitable it will be for you to buy Furs—for gifts or for yourself—here.

COATS

The largest stock of coats in the city. Every kind of desirable and fashionable fur—every good style from the world's fashion centers. All sizes from Junior's 14 to Matron's 48. Lengths, 30 to 56 inches. A fitting and becoming coat for every woman and miss.

Japanese Mink Coats

The very finest of selected let-out skins—52 inches long. Sale Price $250

Hudson Seal Coats

Made from choicest quality skins, European dye—50 and 54 inches long. Sale price $125

Natural Pony Coats

Special collection of sample coats—beauties. 52 inches long. Sale prices $72.50, $65.00 and $60

A few Natural Pony Coats with beaver collar and cuffs, silk brocade lining. Sale price $87.50

Black Pony Coats

25 in the lot. 50, 52 and 54 inches long. Some lined with Skinner's satin, others with silk brocade. Big value at $45. Sale price $35

50 BLACK PONY COATS. Sale price $50.00
25 BLACK PONY COATS. Sale price $62.50
15 BLACK PONY COATS. Sale price $72.50
10 BLACK PONY COATS. Sale price $100.00

These are made of young pony skins, with beautiful lustre in satin effect. The skins are the very best obtainable.

A few Black Pony Coats, with black fox collar and cuffs. Sale prices $135, $100, $87.50, and $65

A few Black Pony Coats, with lynx collar and cuffs. Sale prices $125 down to $77.50

A few Black Pony Coats, with natural coon collar and cuffs. Sale prices $87.50 down to $67.50

Marmot Coats

In 50 and 52-inch lengths. Lined with either Skinner's satin or silk brocade. Sale prices $65 down to $47.50

A few Marmot Coats, with beaver collar and cuffs. Sale prices $77.50 and $67.50

A few Marmot Coats, with natural coon collar and cuffs. Sale prices $72.50 and $65

Near Seal Coats

52 and 54-inch lengths. Lined with silk brocade or Skinner's satin. Sale prices $87.50, $65 and $55

A few Near Seal Coats, with lynx collar and cuffs. Sale prices $135, $110 and $85

Brown Coney Coats

52 and 54 inches long. Lined with best grade satin or silk brocade. Sale prices $39 and $35

BLACK CONEY COATS $35 MUSKRAT COATS, value $85, at $65

Children's Furs

This year our stock of children's furs is many times larger than we have ever before carried. The assortments are now complete, and suggest many a pretty gift for little tots and school girls. Prices are within reach of all purses. Parents should make selection soon.

Repairing

and Remodeling. We have doubled the space of our Repair Department, taking additional rooms over our store. Only expert furriers are employed, and all work will be delivered promptly the day it is promised, and guaranteed to be done to your entire satisfaction. Moderate charges.

Trimmings

A complete line of all kinds of skins—ermine, mink, marten, black and natural fox, natural and blended Siberian squirrel, Russian pony in natural dye, etc. Manufacturer's prices. Buy fur trimmings for hats, dresses, coats here. All skins perfect.

SETS

Just 100 Caracul Paw Sets at

$4.95

Bargain chance of the season. They are easily worth double this price. Pillow Muff and nobby Neckpiece, lined with Skinner's satin.

BEAVER SETS—One of the most popular winter furs $30, $37.50, $45

MARTEN SETS—(Guaranteed to be genuine Marten) $70

POINTED FOX SETS—Only a few. First quality skins ..... $50 and $60

MUFFS

OPPOSSUM MUFFS—Many new winter styles $4.95, $5.95, $7.95

NECKPIECES—to match, $3.95, $5.95, $7.95, $12.95

BLACK FOX MUFFS—$10.50, $12.95, $15, $17.95, $22.50, $30.

NECKPIECES—to match—animal shapes and Russian shawls, with trimmings, $12, $14.50, $16.95, $27.50 to $40.

BROWN FOX MUFFS—(Isabella color), $7.95, $10.95 to $18.50.

NECKPIECES—to match—same styles as in Black Fox pieces ..... $7.50 to $18.50

NATURAL COON MUFFS—3, 4 and 5 stripes $17.50, $22.50, $35, $45

NECKPIECES, to match, $10.95 to $40

EASTERN MINK MUFFS—4, 5, 6, 7 and 8 stripes, $25, $35, $47.50 to $125.

HATS

Closing Out All Fur Hats

About 150 Hats at 1.95 & 2.95

Reduced from $5 to $15

Not going to carry any more Fur Hats this season. Giving the space to children's Furs. All are new winter styles and shapes, of fine grade furs. Many will match sets and coats. The fur alone in many of the hats cost $5. Rare values!

We will return car fare to all customers from Palmer and surrounding towns, who will mention this advertisement when making purchases.

BAY STATE FUR CO.,

497 Main St., near cor. State, Springfield. Manufacturers and Retailers. Telephone 4424

The Palmer Journal.

VOLUME LXII. PALMER, MASS., FRIDAY EVENING, DECEMBER 15, 1911—12 PAGES. NUMBER 37.

CORRENDI BOUND OVER.

On Charge of Killing George Cattsmitt Last Week.

DISTRICT COURT HEARING SATURDAY.

Companions of Murdered Man on Fatal Night Tell of Row and Subsequent Events.

There was a hearing in the district court last Saturday in the case of Paul Correndi, charged with the murder of George Cattsmitt, as he was known hereabouts, but whose real name was Guiseppe Di Leo. At its conclusion Juge Kenefick found probable cause and bound him over to the superior court; no bail was named, as bail is not allowable in cases of this kind. Tony D'Augustini, the prineipal witness, was bound over in the sum of $1000, which he could not furnish, and so will have to pass the time in confinement until the case is tried. He will have one consolation however, that his earnings will go on the same as though he were employed, the Commonwealth being obliged to make good the wages of witnesses thus detained. The other witnesses were held on their personal recognisance.

The court room was well filled when the case was called. The prosecution was in the hands of George D. Storrs of Ware, town counsel, while David F. Dillon of Palmer appeared for the defense. W. H. Brainerd was the first witness; he offered a plan of the building on Water street in which the trouble occurred.

Officer T. J. Crimmins was the next witness. It was he who arrested Correndi, and he was the first officer to reach the scene of the crime. He testified that he was notified some time between 11.30 and 12 o'clock on Wednesday night of last week that there was a fight on Water street. With the messenger he went to the house of Lorenzo Denno, and found the body of Cattsmitt on the floor. He found Correndi in the kitchen washing his hands, and took him into custody. At the request of Correndi, the story of the trouble was told by D'Augustini, who was in the room. D'Augustini stated that he was talking with Cattsmitt outside the house when Correndi told them to come along to bed. Cattsmitt started for Correndi, but he got out of the way, though he soon returned and went into the house. Cattsmitt also went in and went to his room, saying he was going elsewhere to board. Correndi came up stairs and showed cuts on his arm, stating that Cattsmitt had inflicted them. Just at this time Cattsmitt came out of his room and started down stairs: Correndi followed, jumped on Cattsmitt's back at the foot of the stairs and the two fell to the ground outside the house. D'Augustini roused Denno, whose room was on the ground floor, and he told D'Augustini to get an officer, which the latter did. D'Augustini stated that Correndi had told him, "When I jumped on his back he had a knife in his hand. I got it. He said he'd shoot me." The officer asked Correndi what he had done with his knife and he replied that he had none, but had taken Cattsmitt's away from him and stabbed him with it. The knife was later found a short distance from the house; there was blood on the blade and on the handle which was not dry. There was also blood on the steps of the house, and a trail of blood led to D'Augustini's room. About 5 in the morning, when the prisoner was shown the knife at the lockup he said it was the one he used. On the train, on the way to Springfield, Correndi wanted to know if he would get two or three years for killing Cattsmitt, but the officer told him he didn't know. He found no knife on Correndi when he searched him. Cattsmitt's suitcase was found in the dining room of the house, the contents nearly all spotted with blood.

Medical Examiner J. P. Schneider testified to being called to the house where he found the dead man, and also Officer Crimmins and the prisoner. He told also of the autopsy performed Wednesday by himself, Dr. M. B. Hodskins, Dr. C. W. Jackson and Dr. H. C. Cheney. Eleven wounds were found, but only one which could have been fatal, that being one in the left breast, between the third and fourth ribs, penetrating to the heart. There was a deep cut in the left groin, a cut on the chin and a small wound below it, also an abrasion on the side of the face.

John Kennedy of School street testified that he had worked on the state road with both men and that on Wednesday, on the way home from work, he saw Correndi with a knife, but could not positively identify the one shown as the one he saw, although he said it looked like it. Frederick Dewey had also worked with both men and knew them. He borrowed a knife of Correndi last summer, and the one shown him looked like it, although he admitted that he had seen many knives that looked like the one he borrowed.

D'Augustini gave some of his testimony direct and some through an interpreter. After stating that he lived in Denno's house he said that after supper he and Cattsmitt and Correndi went up town, where they separated. He saw Correndi later at the house of Louis Denaro on Water street; Cattsmitt was also there and all started home together. Correndi went inside and the other two remained outside talking. Correndi came out in about five minutes and asked when the others were coming in. Cattsmitt said he was going to hit Correndi and followed with a blow. D'Augustini went to his room, where there was a light. Cattsmitt went up to his room. Correndi came up in two or three minutes and went to D'Augustini's room; there was blood on his arm. While they were talking Cattsmitt passed on his way down stairs. Correndi remarked that he was getting away and ran after him, overtaking him at the foot of the stairs and jumping on his back. D'Augustini went down to Denno's room and roused him, the other two being then outside the house on the ground, with Correndi on top, as it seemed to him. After rousing Denno he went up street and got an officer.

Michael Cuzzone testified that he saw Correndi in D'Augustini's room showing him the wounded arm. He saw Cattsmitt run out and Correndi after him, but saw nothing more. Lorenzo Denno, the landlord of the house, said he first knew of the trouble when D'Augustini knocked on his door. He went out and found Cattsmitt on the ground outside; took him in and laid him on a lounge, then went up street with D'Augustini for an officer.

Ralph Dasco told of going to Denno's house on the night in question, finding Officers Crimmins, Bills and Thomas there. Went to the lockup and talked to Correndi there. Correndi told him he had gone home with D'Augustini and Cattsmitt, and of getting something to eat in the kitchen, leaving the others outside. He finally went out and asked them to come in, whereupon Cattsmitt struck him with a knife. He ran and Cattsmitt followed, but Cattsmitt soon stopped, returned and went into the house. He also returned and went to D'Augustini's room. While showing the cuts on his arm he saw Cattsmitt leaving, and told D'Augustini that he was getting away. He ran after Cattsmitt and seized him; Cattsmitt had a knife, but he took it away and struck him with it—he couldn't tell how many times. He told where the knife would be found, and after a search Dasco discovered it; he called Officer Thomas, who called Officer Crimmins; the latter picked it up. There was blood on it, which came off when it was touched. Later, when the knife was shown to Correndi at the lockup, he said it was the one he had used.

Attorney Dillon offered no defense, and the case was closed.

Ludlow Physician Dead.

Dr. Hannum, One of the Town's Leading Citizens. Widely Known.

Dr. James W. Hannum, 60, one of the leading physicians in Eastern Hampden county, died at his home in Ludlow Saturday evening after a long illness. Dr. Hannum located in Ludlow in 1879 and for many years was the only physician in that town. His skillfulness as a surgeon is highly spoken of. He enjoyed a wide acquaintance among members of his profession in the large cities, and kept in touch with the latest discoveries in medicine and surgery. He invented a pulse-recording device which was exhibited to the state medical society. Dr. Hannum was a member of the American medical association, the Massachusetts medical society, the Eastern Hampden medical association and the Hampden district branch of the state association. He was for a number of years president of the Ludlow Savings Bank, and he was instrumental in establishing the Ludlow hospital. He was a member of the Connecticut Valley Congregational club and the Springfield automobile club, serving one year as its vice president. He was the first physician in this part of the country to use an automobile in visiting his patients. Dr. Hannum had served the town as a member of the school committee. In 1886 he married Maria L. Miller, daughter of Wilbur Fisk Miller, who survives him, with one daughter, Alice, and two sons, John and William.

WALES TO HAVE LIBRARY.

By Will of the Late Herbert A. McFarland.

NUMEROUS OTHER PUBLIC BEQUESTS.

Building to Be Erected—Funds For Books. Schools and Churches Remembered.

The will of the late Herbert A. McFarland of Wales contains many public bequests, including funds for the erection of a public library in Wales. It is believed that his estate is valued at more than $25,000.

In his will he leaves the entire estate to his wife, Mrs. Mary McFarland, to be used at her discretion for her own support and for whatever other purpose she desires with the provision that after her death the remainder shall be distributed as designated in the will.

According to these provisions $6000 shall be used for various purposes and the remainder shall be used in the erection of a public building in Wales to be known as "The McFarland library building." This building shall be used both as a library with reading room and offices for the town authorities.

In all the bequests only the income is to be used. Following are the specific bequests: Five hundred dollars to the Congregational church and society in Holland where he was born and spent his early days, the income to be used for preaching; $2000 to the town of Wales to be used for the purchase of textbooks and for the cost of transportation of out-of-town students attending the high school, the excess to be used for the support of the common school; $1000 to the public schools of Wales; $2000 to the Wales Baptist Church, this bequest to be known as the Mary Houghton fund; $500 to the same beneficiary to be used for the repair of the organ and other musical instruments used in the church, the excess to be added to the last bequest which consists of the rest and residue of the estate which is to be used in the erection and maintenance of a public building in Wales to be known as "The McFarland Library Building."

It is also provided that in the event of the bequest being more than sufficient to meet the expenses, the excess shall be used in the purchase of new books for the library.

Found Dead On Railroad.

Man Killed By Cars at West Brimfield Tuesday Night.

A train crew early Wednesday morning discovered the dead body of a man lying beside the track of the Boston and Albany railroad a short distance west of the station at West Brimfield. It was brought to Phillip's undertaking rooms in Palmer, where it was viewed by Medical Examiner Jacob P. Schneider.

The man was evidently about 30 years old, and from papers in his possession it was concluded that his name was John Murphy, his residence Fall River, and that he had been in the navy. Communication was established with his supposed relatives, but they expressed doubts as to the man bearing any relationship to them.

The body was badly mangled, both legs being cut off and the skull crushed. It was evident that the man had stepped from one track to the other to avoid a passing train, and been hit by a train on the other track.

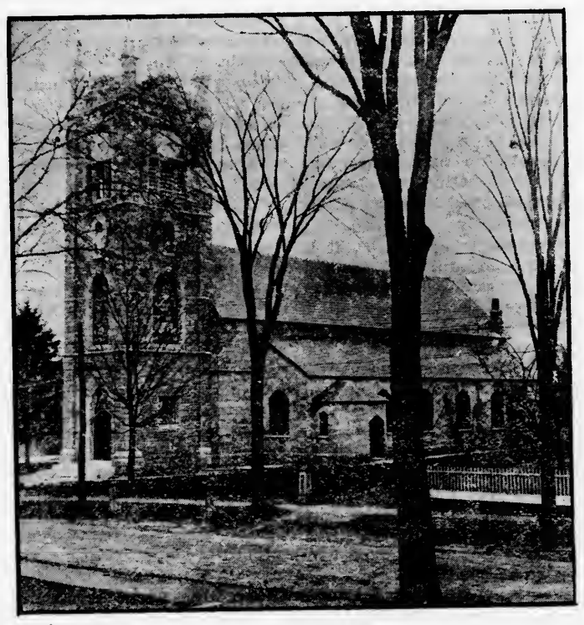
Barre Girl Found in Ware.

Tired of Humdrum Life at Home and Wanted to Work In Mills.

Marion Best, the 16-years-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Best of Barre, disappeared from her home a week ago and was located in Ware Wednesday by Chief of Police B. W. Buckley and returned to her parents. When the girl left home she told her parents she was going to Wheelwright. When she did not return they became alarmed and notified Deputy Sheriff Daniel Rice of Barre, who communicated with Chief Buckley. She was found at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Frost of North street. She said she had tired of the humdrum life of a village like Barre and had determined to come to Ware and seek employment in one of the mills. She had already asked for work with the Otis Company and expected to go to work there in a few days. Her mother came to Ware Wednesday and the girl chose to return home when told that the alternative would be prosecution as a wayward child.

Honors For Ware Man.

Lewis N. Gilbert of Ware was elected president of the Worcester Mutual Life Insurance Company at the annual meeting in Worcester on Wednesday.



HANDSOME NEW TOWER.

Fine Addition to St. Patrick's Church in Monson.

CHURCH WAS BUILT 50 YEARS AGO.

Parish Is Free From Debt. Tower Greatly Enhances Appearance Of Building.

The construction of the gothic stone tower on St. Patrick's church in Monson has been completed, and the desires of the pastor and parishioners have been realized. At the time the church was built 50 years ago the cost of construction was so great that the small number of parishioners at that time could not undertake to construct a suitable tower to match the church, so a wooden tower was erected and stood until the 15th of July, when it was torn down and the work on the present handsome tower was started. The church is the same in every respect, but one-third smaller, as the gothic All Saints' church in Aldwinkle, Northamptonshire, England.

The land for the present church was purchased on Christmas eve 1862; the church was built in 1863 and dedicated in 1864. At that time, Monson was a mission of Ware; later Monson became a mission of Palmer and remained so until 1878, when a regular pastor, Rev. Jeremiahh McCarthy, was appointed. Under his direction a church was built in Hampden.

The present pastor, Rev. Thomas O'Keefe, was appointed in 1894, and since his appointment the church property has increased and is entirely free from debt. Under his direction the Wales church and the chapel in the Quarry district have been construeted.

The new tower stands 88 feet high and is 20 feet square at the base. Four large granite steps lead to the main entrance. The lower story is lighted by two large stained glass windows. In the second story is the organ loft, with large stained glass windows on three sides. Above this is the clock room. On the street side at this height are three niches for statues; an elegant statue of the Sacred Heart, six feet tall, occupies one of these and was given by one of the parishioners. Above the clock room is the bell deck, and above on the four sides are the faces of the clock, which are five feet six inches in diameter and are of white Dummerston granite. The hands of the clock are black and the numerals are of solid bronze. Above the clock faces the battlements rise to form the hollow crosses on all four sides, each being set with electric lights. On the top of the tower are four remarkably beautiful finials set on octagon pillows which form the crown.

The addition of the tower makes the church seem much larger, both on the inside and on the outside. Formerly the organ balcony seemed an obstruction in the church, but this balcony has been removed and the organ moved back into the tower, and the choir balcony will occupy the space formerly occupied by the organ balcony.

The expense of the new tower and other necessary work will be about $10,000. There is now in the church treasury over $4,000 and the first voluntary contribution from the Monson parishioners amounted to something over $2000. The work was done by the William N. Flynt Granite company of Monson.

The property owned by the Catholics in Monson is something they can justly feel proud of, comprising the handsome spacious and sightly rectory and the pretty Sunday school building, and the cemetery and property on Pearl street. The church property has a frontage of 500 feet on Green street and 300 feet on Main street.

Bowling League Organized.

Six Teams of Palmer Men. Three Matches a Week for 20 Weeks.

Six bowling teams have been organized by Palmer bowlers, and a series of matches will be rolled during the winter.

Team No. 1 is composed of Lawson, Curtis, Crowley, Mitchell and P. Brouillette; No 2 of Johnson, Thompson, E. Brouillette, St. John and Worth; No. 3 of Swann, Duncan, Dasco, Ellithorpe and Holden; No. 4 of R. Huggard, R. Phaneuf, E. Taylor, Capen and Calkins; No. 5 of Collis, Hopkins, F. Harris, Nelson and Roche; No. 6 of J. Huggard, Bressette, W. Phaneuf, Scialdone and Barsalou.

The members held a meeting Sunday afternoon and elected the following officers: President, Lewis S. Calkins; vice president, Walter Worth; secretary and treasurer, Gene Mitchell. It was decided to run three matches a week covering a period of 20 weeks, points to decide the scoring and each man to pay for the strings he loses.

All Stars Win.

The All Stars defeated the Regulars Monday evening in the first match in the Palmer league. Harris had high single of 110 and high total of 276. Score:

Regulars.
Taylor	70	86	78	229
R. Huggard	77	66	76	219
R. Phaneouf	77	75	80	232
Capen	82	80	92	254
Calkins	108	83	84	275
	414	390	405	1209
All Stars.
Hopkins	75	75	73	228
Collis	73	78	67	218
Harris	82	110	84	276
Nelson	87	94	85	366
Roche	79	68	70	227
	396	435	379	1210

Eagles 2, Independents 1.

The Eagles took two points from the Independents Tuesday evening in a Palmer league match. Worth had high single of 114 and high total, 284. Score:

Eagles.
Scialdone	81	69	78	228
J. Huggard	64	74	84	222
Bresette	82	75	93	250
W. Phaneouf	83	82	75	248
Barsalow	95	80	105	280
	408	380	435	1223
Independents.
St. John	91	77	79	247
Johnson	67	72	77	216
Thompson	62	60	86	208
E. Brouillette	87	75	71	233
Worth	93	114	77	284
	400	398	390	1188

Athletics the Victors.

The Athletics won the Palmer league match Wednesday evening. Holden had high single, 108, and Mitchell high total of 279.

Swann	94	75	81	250
Duncan	55	62	67	184
Dasco	80	89	82	251
Ellithorpe	78	91	76	245
Holden	82	80	108	270
	380	397	414	1200
Lawson	66	84	70	220
Curtis	73	79	93	245
Crowley	79	90	79	248
P. Brouillette	74	77	84	235
Mitchell	92	101	86	279
	384	431	412	1227

Standing of Palmer Bowling League.

	Won	Lost	Perc't.	Pin Fall
Eagles	2	1	667	1223
All Stars	2	1	667	1209
Athletics	2	1	667	1200
Electrics	1	2	333	1227
Regulars	1	2	333	1210
Independents	1	2	333	1188

High Single String, Worth, 114.
High 3 Strings, Worth, 284.

Warren Boys Steal Furs.

But Give Up Booty After Nearly Starving In Woods Camp.

Officer St. George arrested George Moore, 20, and Edward Stewart, 19, at Warren Wednesday night on a charge of larceny of $100 worth of furs from Albert Reynolds Saturday night. The boys tried to ship the furs by express Monday, and the officer had the warrants for them soon after. After hiding in a cabin at West Brookfield pond and nearly starving, they sent word to Mr. Reynolds that they wanted to settle, and came in Wednesday night about 11.30.

FISH HATCHERY HERE.

Fish and Game Commissioners Choose Palmer.

GATES BROOK, NEAR PALMER CENTER.

Capacity of 2,000,000 Fingerling Trout Per Year. Plenty of Good Water.

If plans which have been made public this week materialize, Palmer will have within its borders within a short time the largest fish hatchery in the state, a new one to be established by the state fish and game commission. The location will be in the northeast part of the town, near Palmer Center, on what is known as the Gates brook. It is understood that options have been secured on several pieces of property, including that of A. F. Goodreau, and it is expected these will be taken up and work begun on the plant before long. The property contemplated contains about 270 acres of land, and the price is about $8000.

The Palmer location was selected for several reasons, chief of which, however, was the fact that the Gates brook has never been known to run dry, and yields a large flow of water even in times of greatest drought. The water is unusually pure, and maintains a low temperature even in hot weather, having tested as low as 58 in weather of unusual warmth. Tests also show that artesian wells with a generous flow of water are available with a minimum amount of drilling, and artesian water is considered the best for trout hatching.

The plan of the commission includes the building of a hatching house with a capacity of 2,000,000 fingerling trout a year. The commission has had trouble at times with a scarcity of water at the Sutton hatchery, and have had sometimes to buy the fish with which they stocked some of the brooks of the state. With the hatchery in Palmer in operation it is expected that all the trout desired can be raised by the state within its own borders. With the Palmer plant in operation the commission will be able to stock all the streams desired, and with fingerlings, and not the small fish which have had to be used at times before. The plan of the commission includes the stocking of all the deep-leaded streams of the state, and is one of the biggest projects the state has ever undertaken for the sportsmen.

Girl Has Both Legs Broken.

Thrown From Runaway Team at West Brimfield Monday Morning.

Miss Rose Haley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Haley of Warren, was seriously injured in a runaway accident in West Brimfield Monday morning.

Miss Haley left Warren on the train reaching West Brimfield at 6.57. She planned to ride from there to Dunhamtown on the milk team of her uncle, John Haley. The team was hitched across the tracks from the depot, at the milk station, and Miss Haley went over to it. While she was sitting in the wagon, the horse suddenly became frightened by the work train which was passing by, and dashed up the road toward home. When the horse turned out near a pile of stones Miss Haley jumped.

Assistance was soon on the scene and it was found that both ankles were broken. Dr. S. R. Carsley of Palmer and Dr. John E. Dalton of Palmer were summoned and it was decided to remove Miss Haley to St. Vincent hospital in Worcester.

Arm Broken In Two Places.

James Long had one arm broken in two places Tuesday evening while at work on the steam shovel at the gravel pit in North Wilbraham. He was taken to the House of Mercy hospital in Springfield.

HAMPDEN.

Mr. and Mrs. Melven Booth left Tuesday for Austella, Ga., where they will spend the winter.

William J. Mackay is to build a packing house for fruit on his farm. It will be 50 feet long, 30 feet wide and two stories high. The first floor will be used for cold storage.

BRIMFIELD.

Edward S. Brown has been drawn as juror for the December term of the United States District court.

Dr. S. A. Fisk has returned home after a short stay in the Springfield hospital, where he went for treatment.

Some Present Problems In the Palmer Schools.

An address by Superintendent Hobson before the Palmer Historical Society.

At the last meeting of the Palmer Historical Society Superintendent Hobson of Palmer spoke along lines peculiarly applicable to the Palmer schools. He did not attempt to treat any educational problems along broad lines, but endeavored rather to speak of conditions that confront the local schools, with the idea of informing members of the society, and through them the public at large, of certain matters of interest. His thought was that a talk of such a nature would bring about a better understanding of the aims of those in charge of the schools, and would thereby create a greater spirit of co-operation upon the part of the parents and citizens. He said in part:

"The vitally interested and essential parts of a good school system are the school committee, the community, the parents, the teachers, and the pupils. A harmoniously working committee, one interested in the welfare of the children, broad-minded, honest, courageous, at times willing to go contrary to public opinion, above politics, and of good business ability, is absolutely essential. There are many questions that often confront a school board that call for a high degree of courage. It is not the physical kind of courage, but the moral that is demanded. The greatest need of any community to-day is men of moral courage, men who possess sufficient courage to stand for what they know and believe to be right. There are often many things that a school board is called upon to do,—things that they know are for the best interest of the children and the schools, — but still these very things are not popular. They know that their acts are to be criticized severely, and that even these same acts may mean their defeat if they seek re-election. It may mean the loss of friendship, the loss of business, the diminishing of practice if you are a professional man. The time may arise when a thoroughly incompetent teacher is a member of the teaching corps. She may be a good woman; she may be likable and pleasing personally; she probably has many warm friends; still she is far from suited to her work. Her presence in the schoolroom is a positive detriment. The committeeman is sympathetic, he hesitates to deprive her of the opportunity of making a livelihood. He knows that if he votes in favor of her dismissal he will secure—although not merited—much adverse criticism; he knows that his motives will be misconstrued and misinterpreted and misunderstood. Nevertheless, he must realize that in that schoolroom there are some forty or fifty precious souls who have inalienable and indisputable rights to the best teaching that he, as a committeeman, can secure for the price paid, who demand far more consideration than does the one individual whose professional life is possibly at stake. It is a trying situation, and many well-meaning, peace-at-any-price seeking, honest, and honorable men have fallen and failed in just this trying position. It is easy to criticize a school board for failure to perform its duty as you see it; it is another matter to be placed in exactly the same situation and called upon to act. I believe, therefore, that what I have said about the qualities of the ideal school committee will be better appreciated.

"Again, there is one function of the school committee that always ought to be delegated to the superintendent of schools. Here in Palmer it is. That is the hiring of teachers. The superintendent ought to be entirely free from any influence, direct or indirect. He ought to feel that as long as he is honest and faithful and judicious in his selections he need have nothing to fear. If you knew nothing about farming and purchased a farm, if the farm was of any magnitude you would first hire a boss farmer. When you had occasion to stock your farm or restock it, would you insist upon going out to buy the cows, the work horses and the other stock? Would you say to your high-priced boss farmer, by word or act, that you did not care for his experienced knowledge? If you did, and at the end of the year you discovered that you had incurred a financial loss, do you think that you could rightfully lay the blame at the boss farmer's door? What I have shown about farming is equally true of any business. Is it not true of schools? I believe that the sooner some hard and fast business rules and practices are applied to school management, the sooner will you have a right to expect, and you will secure the best results obtainable. This may seem a big demand. What is the committee for? What can they do? Put it up squarely to the superintendent. Give him responsibility and hold him to account. If his shoulders are not big enough and broad enough to shoulder the responsibility get one whose are. You can find them; there is no scarcity. In fact, the last Legislature that assembled in this state recognized the importance of this and decreed that it shall be the duty of the superintendent to recommend teachers.

"The community must be sympathetic, patient, interested, and willing to give its financial and moral support. The public schools are the greatest democratizing influence in this country. They turn out from a heterogeneous raw material a homogeneous finished product when they accept the child of nearly every civilized country on the face of the earth and turn out the American citizen. It is, with our form of government, the most indispensible of all public institutions. It costs money to support it as it must be supported. The school department in a town often asks for 40 per cent of the total appropriation of the town. No wonder that the taxpayer often pauses to think and ask "why."

"Just let him consider what has been said about the work that the school performs. Let him suggest anything that is cheaper that will or can do its work. There is no question but that the work must be done and done well. When an institution can be found that will do this work better and cheaper, you may rest assured that the public school will give way; but until that time comes, and it never will, it is "up" to the community to treat it generously. If there was some way of measuring its efficiency in a tangible way, in a dollars and cents fashion, with your loss and gain side of the sheet as you measure a business enterprise, it would be easier, perhaps, to convince those who decry the school and its cost that their criticisms are unjust. The man and the woman of the generation to come; the future citizen of your town or somebody's town; the boy and girl of to-day but the man and woman of to-morrow; these are the products of the school to a large degree. Look at our country; compare it with others where common school education is not or has not been compulsory until recently. Compare the intelligence and condition of our average American citizen with that of other countries, and say whether the common school is living up to its opportunities. Has it a mission? Has not the community an obligation and a privilege?

"The school asks much of the parent. When you deal with a parent's child you deal with that which is dearest and most sacred to him. You may use or misuse his money or his property, but you can not misuse his child, and rightly so. The child is precious, and no one appreciates it more than the school. The parent is a free-born American citizen, at least in thought and belief, if not in fact. The school often seems to invade the realm of parental right, and this American spirit of resenting such an invasion is immediately aroused. The school is an aggressor, an offender; it needs to be told its place and made to keep it. With this purpose in mind, the parent approaches the school, with "blood in his eye," in a strongly antagonistic if not pugilistic manner. There is a crash, for any self-respecting teacher, any teacher of sufficient temper and vim to make her a good teacher, will not treat such an approach with unaroused feelings. She may be a public servant, but one is not compelled to stand abuse. There are many occasions for the parent to become aroused. The teacher is human; she loses her balance and temper when things break badly, just as you do. She possibly becomes provoked once at your child whereas you become provoked ten times; and in all probability, the very thing that exasperates you with the child is the same one that bothers her. Just bear this in mind. Her treatment may be the very thing that the child needs. It is better to have bad tendencies and characteristics uprooted and torn out now than later; it will not be half as hard on the child. Visit the school when you have no "axe to grind." See the conditions and environment of the child for yourself; understand the sort of relation that exists between your child and the teacher; get first-hand information. Then when something happens you will be in a better position to judge; you will not be half as prone to jump at conclusions; you will criticize, but not adversely. The school needs your moral support; it can not do its work without it; you are an important factor in the successfully conducted school.

"Eighty-five per cent of the success of a school is dependent upon the teacher. 'The teacher makes the school.' I do not believe the average person realizes the worth of the true teacher. I believe that there is not a single calling in life that calls for a truer, more manly or womanly, more conscientious devotion and consecration to the real work of life than that of teaching. The teacher who is actuated by true motives, real love of her profession, fondness for children, by the possibilities that are opened up for real service in life, is one of the greatest assets that a community can have. Personal contact with the child during his plastic, formulative period of growth, mental and moral; the opportunity offered to mould the character, awaken ambition and instil right ideals, are priceless privileges and grave responsibilities. The teacher who takes advantage of the privileges and assumes the responsibilities has a monetary value to the community beyond computation. No salary is too high. The retention of such a person, if possible, is vital to the welfare of the school and community. One who possesses these qualities, to my mind, is the real teacher.

"It is the duty of the superintendent and committee to furnish such teachers when possible. It is a duty which they should perform without fear or favor. They owe it to the community. The community has a right to demand the performance of this duty.

"The last and most important component part of the public school system is the pupil. He is entitled to the best and the most that the community can provide in the way of education. He should have the best possible training for American citizenship, the best possible fitting for his life and his work in life. These are his rights. The public owes them to him. If these are his rights and privileges, he, in turn, is obligated to show his appreciation by his willingness to perform his part. He should be the willing, faithful, obedient, thorough, punctual pupil: If not, he himself and the community at large must both suffer a distinctive loss.

"If, then, the committee, the community, the teacher, the parent and the pupil are the essential parts of the school system, it is necessary that they should all work together in order to secure the best possible results. The question that arises, then, is how best to secure the working together of these forces. Nothing but a perfect understanding, an absolute confidence of all in each and each in all will accomplish this. The community, the parent, and the pupil must understand the aims and desires of the committee and the teacher; the committee and the teacher must understand the community, the parent, and the pupil. The school authorities have two means of informing the public; namely, by use of the annual school report, and by the newspaper. Tell the public your desires, your aims, your hopes, your ambitions. Discuss therein in detail the local problems. The public has a right to such knowledge. They pay the bills and have a right to know whether the money has been and is being wisely invested. If you are free and frank with the public, the public will become co-operative and not suspicious. In thus taking the public into your confidence you are, of course, laying yourself open to one criticism. Narrow-minded people will be prone to accuse you of advertising the schools and yourself; but this petty criticism ought not deter such publicity. The results thus obtained will eventually vindicate the wisdom of your action. This, to a large measure, has been our policy the past few months and will continue to be our policy in the future. It gives you an opportunity to see the opportunities and responsibilities which are ours. You can measure us up and see whether or not we are living up to those opportunities and responsibilities. It can thus be seen that in entering upon a campaign of school publicity there are benefits and dangers alike. If by this means, or any other, we can secure this perfect understanding, create this spirit of confidence, gain this co-operation, the successful working out of the local school problems is assured.

"The duties of the superintendent of schools in Palmer are various and manifold. The superintendent must be a good business man as well as a good educator; he must be tactful in the discharge of his duties, yet fearless; he must constantly bear in mind the welfare of the schools and not the possible effect of his acts upon his own personal welfare and future. The school manual contains seventeen sections which specify these duties, but I will not burden you with their recital. The superintendent must become thoroughly conversant with the demands and standards of the town in which he is working; he must thoroughly know all possible conditions that may come to bear upon the school. He must know what support and what co-operation he can expect from the parents; how progressive his committee is; what both expect and to what degree they are willing to do their part to make this expectation a realization. There is plenty of work for one man to do as superintendent of schools. The question ought never to arise as to whether or not there is enough work for the superintendent. The question may arise as to whether or not he does his work. For example, let us consider for a moment the amount of work that is required to make out a good course

[Continued on fifth page.]

Every family has need of a good, reliable liniment. For sprains, bruises, soreness of the musles and rheumatic pains there is none better than Chamberlain's. Sold by all dealers.

W. E. Stone & Son, CHRISTMAS.

For Men

Sweaters.
Suit Cases.
Shoes.
Arctics.
Rubber Boots.
Gloves.
Mittens.
Umbrellas.
Caps.
Shirts—all kinds.
Collars.
Neck Ties.
Underwear.
Sleeve Garters in Boxes.
Suspenders.
Slippers.
Handkerchiefs.
Cigars.
Shaving Mugs.
Razors.
Moustache Cups.
Night Shirts.
Ash Trays.
Jack Knives.
Flemish Mugs.
Cuff Links.

For Women

Sweaters.
Wrappers.
Handkerchiefs.
Night Robes.
Table Linen.
Napkins.
Down Pillows.
Pillow Tops.
Towels.
Aviator Caps.
Yarns.
Aprons.
Bed Spreads.
Table Cloths.
Lace Curtains.
Corsets.
Tea Sets.
Dinner Sets.
Toilet Sets.
Kitchen Ware.
Jardinieres.
Carpet Sweepers.
Rugs.
Hat Pins.
Skirts.
Brooches.
Couch Covers.
Portieres.

For Boys

Caps.
Knee Pants.
Blouse Waists.
Underwear.
Umbrellas.
Stockings.
Handkerchiefs.
Suspenders.
Sweaters.
Jack Knives.
Shoes.
Arctics.
Rubber Boots.
Gloves.
Mittens.
Sleds.
Carts.
Coasters.
Harmonicas.
Drums.
Magic Lanterns.
Toys.
Black Boards.
Writing Desks.
Books.
Rocking Horses.
Tool Chests.

For Girls

Gloves.
Mittens.
Sweaters.
Underwear.
Waists.
Handkerchiefs.
Writing Paper (boxes.)
Hosiery.
Writing Desks.
Black Boards.
Aviator Caps.
Hair Receivers.
Mugs.
Dolls.
Dolls' Trunks.
Doll Beds.
Toy Pianos.
Umbrellas.
Books.
Cups and Saucers.
Bread and Milk Sets.
Tea Sets.
Furniture Sets.
Games.
Toys.
Dolls' Go-Carts.

Kibbe's Christmas Candy. Nuts. Oranges. Figs. Dates. Fancy Pickles. Jams. Marmalades. Maple Syrup. And a full line of Staple Groceries.

Please Order Early, and we will try to do our part.

W. E. Stone & Son,
Main Street, Palmer.

Haynes & Company

Always Reliable
Springfield, Massachusetts

You will surely come to Springfield to do your Christmas Shopping, and your Gifts for the Men and Boys

you will want to select at the Great Haynes Store

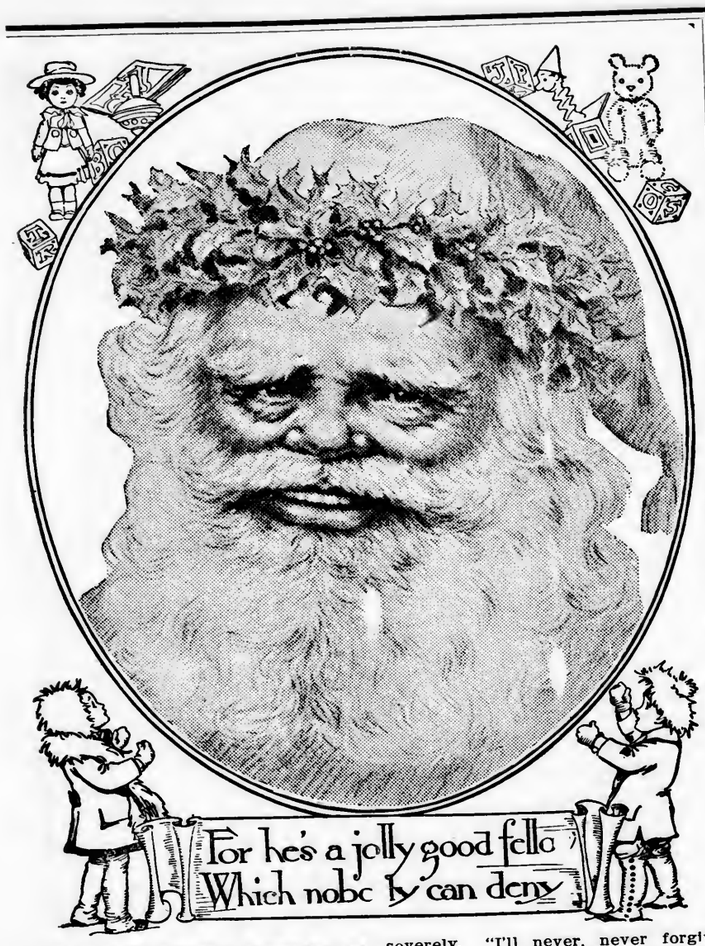
If you knew what a lot of good things we are showing, for Christmas Gifts, you'd be in early while the assortments are largest and every thing new.

Just things for the Men and Boys, and the highest quality; that's all we sell, and the excellence of the values is unmistakable.

The following list will give you an idea of the many Useful Articles that are here, but only by an inspection can you realize how large are the assortments, and what pleasing gifts they would make.

For the Men

Neckwear
Gloves
House Coats
Bath Robes
Slippers
Umbrellas
Canes
Suit Cases
Bags
Toilet Cases
Jewelry
Sweaters
Underwear
Hosiery
Suspenders
Overcoats
Fur Lined Overcoats
Fur Coats
Fur Caps
Fur Gloves
Fancy Vests
Mufflers
Handkerchiefs
Full Dress Suits
Silk Hats
Russian Vests
Sheep Lined Coats
Beach Jackets
Night Robes



For the Boys

Sweaters
Bath Robes
Fur Caps
Cloth Caps
Gloves
Mittens
Handkerchiefs
Neckwear
Indian Suits
Cow Boy Suits
Underwear
Bradley Mufflers
Overcoats
Skating Caps
Suspenders
Scarf Pins
Cuff Links
Watch Fobs
Slippers
Rubber Coats
Children's Angora Suits
Children's Rompers
Dancing Pumps
Pajamas
Night Robes
Overalls
Suit
Overcoat
Reefer

All Christmas purchases nicely boxed.

Mail orders carefully filled and express we pay.

Billy's Christmas Greeting

By EUGENIA RABBAS

Copyright, 1911

O I am a heartless flirt, who doesn't understand the meaning of the word love, am I, Mr. William Dunning?" stormed Marjorie all to herself, in answer to the final decree of rage and defiance which that gentleman hurled at her by means of a vigorous slam of the front door.

"I believe he would have shaken me, if he hadn't rushed out in time to prevent himself from doing it," she continued, the ever ready dimples venturing out of their hiding places, but she banished them severely. "I'll never, never forgive him, even though he asks me to, which of course, he won't! And he calls me stubborn!"

Next morning Marjorie was tremendously busy wrapping up dainty little parcels, for the next day was Christmas, and her many friends must be remembered, in spite of quarrels and Billy.

Still, she seemed very much preoccupied over her work, and quite suddenly she threw aside the piece of holly she had been toying with, and fairly flew to the telephone.

In answer to her impatient summons, she was quickly connected with Brown & Co.'s book store. "Have you sent out those books that were ordered for Mr. William Dunning?" she asked anxiously.

The answer evidently pleased her, for she breathed a sigh of relief. "That's all right; I'm glad you haven't, for I have changed my mind about them. Please cancel the order."

Marjorie hung up the receiver with an air of triumph. "There, I'm glad I thought of that! Billy would have construed a Christmas present into an abject apology," she said, her indignation rising at the very thought of such a thing.

But when she went back to her parcels and picked up the little twig of holly she had intended tucking away into one of them, her face softened. "I know that isn't the right kind of a Christmas spirit to have, but I can't have Billy thinking that I am admitting I was wrong, when I know I wasn't," she argued with herself.

The joyous ringing of Christmas bells and merry shouts of her younger sisters and brothers, when they discovered their stockings the next morning, only served to emphasize her depression.

"Billy never loved me; if he really and truly did he never could treat me like this," she told herself as she stood looking with unseeing eyes at the snowy Christmas world.

Just then a young man, fairly tearing around the corner, arrested her attention. It was no less a person than Billy himself who was coming, post haste, to see her.

Marjorie looked at him in wonder. What had come over Billy? Why this sudden contrition, when, she admitted it now for the first time, even to herself she had been greatly, if not altogether, to blame for their quarrel.

"O, Billy, I am so glad you came." Billy took some little time to emphasize his appreciation of her welcome, then "Glad I came? Why wouldn't I come, dear?" he asked.

"Because you vowed you wouldn't unless I apologized," Marjorie explained mischievously.

"You didn't think I'd be so narrow and unforgiving as to ignore your dear little peace offering? I brought one of the books with me to read something to you," he told her, and diving into his pocket he produced a little copy of "Romeo and Juliet."

Marjorie was surprised for a second, then it flashed over her what it all meant. Brown & Co. had forgotten to cancel her order and Billy had received the books. Billy had construed her sending them into a humble plea for forgiveness.

He most probably wouldn't have come at all if it hadn't been for that. She stiffened visibly and all her love was swallowed up in a wave of rebellious pride.

"You are mistaken," she commenced coldly, but Billy interrupted her. "Here, I have found it.

"'My bounty is as boundless as the sea,
My love as deep, the more I give to thee.'

"The more I have, for both are infinite," he was reading, and the simple beauty of the lines awoke something in Marjorie stronger than pride or resentment and she only smiled when he added tenderly: "My Christmas greeting to you, dear."

Risked Life for Comrades.

A story of wonderful heroism in the rescue of the stoker old staff of the destroyer Kangaroo after an explosion of a steam pipe was related a few days ago at the inquest at Haslar Hospital, Hants, England, on the two men who were killed—Chief Stoker Henry Hutfied, and First Class Stoker Ernest William Fryer. Members of the crew, the commander included, descended with towels round their heads into the inferno of steam to endeaver to rescue the sufferers, but Hutfield and Fryer had been killed instantaneously from asphyxia by the scalding steam. The pipe that burst was a bent branch pipe, which had been straightened out by the pressure of the steam.

How to Cook a Loon.

Bill Crozer, a guide for fifty-two years at Charleston Lake in Ontario, Canada, has a novel receipt for cooking a loon. He was rowing a couple of Somerville, N. J., councilmen a few weeks ago and when a loon came in sight the strangers asked Bill if they were good to eat.

Bill replied in a rather evasive way, and one of the fishermen then asked Bill how they were cooked. This was what Bill was waiting for and here is the recipe that Bill gave: "Cook the loon in water for twelve hours, at night pour off this water and cook him over night, in the morning throw in a piece of grindstone and when you can stick a fork in the grindstone the loon is done."—Fur News.

His Sign Said So.

One evening at 7 o'clock a man with a wife and 11 children, many of them grown up, appeared at the entrance to an entertainment hall, bought two tickets and demanded that the entire family should be admitted.

The doorkeeper declined to admit the family with two tickets only.

"But all these are my children," said the man.

"Of course," said the doorkeeper; "but some of them are too old to be admitted free."

"Too old? What's that to do with it? Don't it say on your bills that children under 12 are admitted free with parents?"

"Yes."

"Well, I've only got 11 children and if 11 children aren't under 12 I'm beat."—Everybody's Weekly.

... OUR DISPLAY OF ...

USEFUL, ORNAMENTAL and SERVICEABLE GIFTS

Will Solve the Problem for You

This Swinging Horse, $3.75
Others $1.35 to $12.50

This Blackboard
19c
Others..... 87c, $1.25 and $2.25

This Child's Rocker
98c
Others 35c, 75c, $1.48, $2.25, $2.79, $3.50 and $4.

SLEDS---Boys', Girls'
39c

Others 89c, 98c, $1.25, 1.35, $2.48, 3.00 and $3.98

Gas Lamps..... $1.98 to $12.50
Electric Lamps..... $4.50 to $14.50
Rockers..... $1.75 to $25.00
Music Cabinets..... $6.75 to $20.00
Ladies' Desks..... $5.75 to $18.00

DOLLS, 25c to $7
See our 98c Doll, it certainly is the most beautiful Dressed Doll you've seen for..... 98c
Doll Go-carts ..... 23c to $6.50
See our ENGLISH DOLL PERAMBULATORS

This Doll Perambulator, Rubber Tires, $1.88.
With Carriage Hoods and Rubber Tires, at $1.88 and $2.75 up to $7.00.
Dolls' Trunks, Mechanical Toys, etc.

ROCKING SHOO FLIES, 69c

Others at 87c, $1.25, $1.35, $1.49, $1.75, $1.98 and $3.75 with Chairs.

Rugs ..... 49c to $42.00
Shaving Stands..... $9.75 to $15.50

Pictures..... 19c to $18.00
Mirrors ..... $2.75 to $12.00
Parlor Suites..... $19.75 to $115.00
Brass Beds..... $10.88 to $68.00
Dressing Tables $10.50 to $30.00

ADASKIN FURNITURE CO.,
234 MAIN STREET, SPRINGFIELD. Just Above the Arch
YOU'LL LIKE TRADING AT ADASKIN'S.

"Fair and Square Credit."

See These Prices On the Very Finest Clothing For Men and Women

And then consider the fact that we will in addition to these perfectly fair and reasonable figures give you a fair and reasonable credit, simply asking that you treat us as squarely as we shall treat you.

Let Us Repeat This About Our Prices

There is not in Springfield a cash store that charges a fairer price than we do. In other words, we do not charge one cent more than they charge for goods of the same merit.

MEN'S COATS $18, 20 to $35

Every one of the best styles that this season has shown. The great big ample coats, beautifully modeled in double-faced goods, plaids and the finest smooth fabric dress coats.

WOMEN'S AND MISSES' COATS $15 to $27

Beyond question the most graceful stylish coats that have been seen in years. All wool mixtures in the soft beautiful grays and browns, with big collars and all of the snappy details that are so handsome.

A Great Bargain Offer In These Fine Furs

We got these early in the season at a spot cash bargain that we have seldom seen equaled. In spite of the weather they are selling because they are such big bargains and cold weather is sure to come.

$60 to $100 Gray Opossum Sets	$45.00 to $75.00
$40 to $60 Black Raccoon	30.00 to 45.00
$50 Natural Gray Wolf	35.00
$50 Beautiful Blue Wolf	35.00
Full Length Pony Coats	60.00 to 75.00
Long Hair Dog Sets	16.00 to 17.50
Elegant Coney Sets	6.00 to 8.00

Benjamin Goldstein, Inc.

17-19 Elm St. Court Square Theater Building
Springfield, Mass.

Credit to Anybody Who's Honest.

Johnny's Christmas Journal

by Wilbur D. Nesbit

6 a. m.—Got up an went downstares in my nite close an was pickin things of the Crismas tree wen pa an ma cum down an sed for gudness saik boy yule catch yuve deth of coled; go bak to bed until it is time to get up.

6:15 a. m.—Put my close on an went down stares agen an et ten stiks of candy an' two ornges befoar pa cum down an sed he wud whip me if I dident go bak to bed an let him get sum slepe after bein up so late the nite befoar, but ma sed Jon doant destroy the Crismas joy for our boy; let him aloan.

6:30 a. m.—I hav got a ralerode track an trane an a hookin ladder an a set of dum bels, an injun clubs an a air gun an a pistol that shutes arrers at a target an a histry book an a pare of mittens an sevrul sacks an boxes of candy an hav et sum moar.

7:30 a. m.—Pa an ma kep astin me why I dident eat no brekfust an pa sed he bet Ide ben etin candy alreddy in spite of his orders that I shuddent, but ma sed no doubt the xcitement of Crismas was enuf to take away my appetite.

8 a. m.—Grandpa an gramma-an-unkel Joe is here. Thay brot me sum moar candy an a indjun sute with a tommyhawk an a torpeder bote, that winds up and sales in the wotter.

9 a. m.—Pa showed me how to run the trane on the track an broke the engin, but he sez it can be fixed. Unkle Joe giv me a doller an I went out an bot sum burd shot to shute in my air gun an sum candy.

10 a. m.—It isent cold if you don't sit rite beside the parlor winder whare I broke it axdently shutin with my air gun. Pa threttened to lick me, but grampa sed boys will be boys an he was wors than me when he was my aige.

12 noon.—It wuz too bad about it but I cuddent help it. I wuz playin injun on the trale and Missus Perkins frum nex dore wuz here and she wuz talkin with gramma an i run up behine them an tommyhawked gramma an Misses Perkins an then started to scalp Missus Perkins, but jest her hare cum off an she looked so funny sittin thare bollhedded that gramma fainted an choaked on her false teeth when I hit her with the tommyhawk an Missus Perkins went hoam an gramma had to go to bed an the dokter cum and giv her medsin.

3 p. m.—it is a loansum Crismas indede to punnish me thay made me stay upstares an wuddent let me hav any Crismas dinner but i had foar pounds of candy an hav et moast of it an my torpeder bote is sailin grate in the bath tub.

4 p. m.—I went to the winder to look out an fergot the bath tub an the wotter run over an the ceelin of the parlor fell axdently an grandpa an pa an unkel joe an ma was axdently hurt so the dokter is bak agen an the plummer is comin if thay can fined him.

7 p. m.—Gramma and grampa and unkel joe has gone hoam an pa is settin down stares with his arm in a sling whare the plasterin broak it an he sez when it gets well he will tend to my case o it is a sad world for littel boys that is full of happiness one moment an filled with greef the nex an our cook has quit because i axdently shot a arrer frum my pistol into her ear an scaret her so she dropped a pan of dishes that wuz mas best chiny an broak them all up an she has quit an the fire engines cum because i tried to fire up my broaken ralerode engine an thay got the fire out but thare is a whole in the side of the house an pa swore dredful an so i ask why do thay giv a little boy things that cause them so mutch trubble.

In the New Home

You want the best when starting in the new home. Above all, you want that home to be snug and warm and comfortable.

You are sure of warmth and comfort with a Perfection Smokeless Oil Heater.

The Perfection is the best and most reliable heater made.

It is a sort of portable fireplace.

It is ready night and day. Just strike a match and light the wick. The Perfection is all aglow in a minute.

The Perfection Oil Heater does not smell nor smoke—a patent automatic device prevents that. It can be carried easily from room to room and is equally suitable for any room in the house. Handsomely finished, with nickel trimmings; drums of either turquoise-blue enamel or plain steel.

PERFECTION SMOKELESS OIL HEATER

Ask your dealer to show you a Perfection Smokeless Oil Heater, or write for descriptive circular direct to any agency of

Standard Oil Company
(Incorporated)

A Storm-Bound Christmas

By Dorothy Douglas

HAD Wallingford been anything but a wealthy bachelor and accustomed to having everything he wanted, the circumstances would have seemed less of a calamity.

He had been on his way to San Francisco to spend Christmas with his favorite married sister; and midway, in the most barren desert of the country, a bridge had been swept away by winter gales. His destination could not possibly be reached until Christmas was well over.

Wallingford cast a glance out over the wide stretch of rolling plains with only a few scattered shacks to break their endless waste; and then he looked back to his bulging suit case. The latest and most wonderful toys he could find in the city shops were crowded into that bag, for his sister's only boy. Then, not caring whether or not a highwayman might be looking in at the window of the parlor car, he took a small box from his waistcoat pocket and looked sorrowfully at a ring from which three exquisite diamonds flashed back at him.

Wallingford leaned back in his chair and in imagination pictured his sister's joy when slipping that ring on her finger. He could hear her scold him for his extravagance and chaff him for having no one else for whom to buy such baubles. He sighed and returned it to his pocket much as he might have cast it to the depths of the sea; it would do him as much good there as it would in his pocket under the present circumstances.

Wallingford was reconciled to a Christmas dinner over a lunch counter when his eye caught the name of Yankville. Yankville probably boasted a near-thousand inhabitant, yet Yankville also suggested the name of Everly—Jack Everly. When Wallingford had last heard of Jack Everly the latter was located in Yankville. That was some eighteen months before, but there was no reason why he should not be there still.

It seemed that everyone in Yankville knew the Everly homestead. It was the only one of any proportions in the village.

The red glow from an open fire within cheered Wallingford's numbed faculties as he rang the bell at the Everly door.

On the face of her who opened the door, surprise was the principal expression. For, Wallingford, his six-feet-two encased in a great fur coat all dangling with glistening snow beads and his handsome glowing face looking frankly into her own, was a surprise for any eyes.

She did not wait for him to explain his errand but with the matron's privilege of hospitality invited him into the warmth of the house.

"It was too cold to stand outside," she explained and waited for his question.

"I am Bob Wallingford," he began meeting the easy cordial expression of her blue eyes. "I am one of the belated passengers of the bridge tie-up and decided to run over and see if Jack Everly would take pity on an old friend and—"

"Jack Everly left Yankville," a smile played about her lips at mention of the illustrious village, "some six or seven months ago—"

Embarrassment, disappointment and surprise mingled equally in Wallingford's face and did not escape the eyes of Sylvia Vale. She spoke with ready tact.

"Take off that great coat, anyway, and come into the fireside. It's no night to be out."

Wallingford followed the slim gray-clad figure in a decidedly chaotic state of mind. Mingled with his embarrassment at having walked into an absolute stranger's house, was the sudden attraction he felt for this girl with the sun-lit hair. Something—the combination perhaps—was making him feel like a tongue-tied schoolboy. It was a most unusual state of mind for Bob Wallingford.

There was a patter of little feet and a tiny boy of three years threw himself into Wallingford's arms.

"Oh-h! Are you Santa Claus?" he cried gleefully. "I heaid your sleigh bells and saw your big fuzzy coat! Mamma, isn't he Santa Claus?"

The child's mother would have spoken but Wallingford's eyes pleaded for silence.

"You young rascal! You caught old Santy this time, didn't you? And he came especially to find out what you wanted him to bring down the chimney—"

"Wallingford! How in the name of all that's possible did you get here?"

Dick Elkins, an old chum of New York days, stood in the doorway and held out a glad hand of welcome.

A weight of relief fell from Wallingford's shoulders. He was no longer a stranger in a strange house. And did he imagine it, or did a glad light come also into the eyes of the woman?

"How about yourself?" he asked when they had shaken hands.

"This is my own house and my own sister," laughed Elkins. "But where in the world did you and Mrs. Vale strike up an acquaintance?" He cast an interrogative glance at his sisetr. "Sis, you never told me—"

Sylvia glanced quickly at Wallingford and a deep blush mingled with the glow from the fire in her cheeks. She explained the circumstances and Wallingford was quickly made to feel that he had come to the right house.

"I will stay under one condition only," he said finally, "and that is that you all will accept, without protest, the Christmas gifts which I brought for my sister and her family—without question."

There was a moment's silence and the promise was made, laughingly.

"But we will have to return the favor," brother and sister spoke as one voice.

So it was decided.

"Too bad Vale couldn't get here," remarked Elkins, later in the evening when, the small boy having been tucked into bed, the three sat about the blazing fire.

"Yes—we would have made a jolly quartet," said Sylvia.

Wallingford was almost guilty of a gasp. The calm, unconcerned way in which she remarked that her husband would have completed a quartet on Christmas eve had he been able to get there, was rather disconcerting.

Dick Elkins arose and left the room to get the boy's toys.

"Bring down the suitcase in my room," cried Wallingford. He was as excited as a boy.

"You will not regret having promised to accept what I had bought for my sister?" Wallingford leaned slightly toward Sylvia's gray dress and through the strands of her golden hair, and the man in him had a struggle before quenching the light in his own eyes. It was the girl herself who was unable to hide a tremor.

"I promise," she said unsteadily. "But it seems—odd."

Dick returned, staggering under a load of toys. Then they all jumped gladly into the spirit of Christmas.

"When my husband was living," said Sylvia as she pinned up a tiny stocking, "he always spoke of the day when he could do this——" The end of her sentence was drowned in the clatter of a huge box of blocks dropping to the hearthstone.

"Cheer up," said Wallingford; "wooden blocks don't break."

He stooped to pick the fallen toys and wondered if the woman pinning up the stocking beside him heard the thumping of his heart. A small box found its way into Sylvia's hand.

"Mrs. Vale, I can't keep this another minute," Wallingford said.

"Oh, I say!" exclaimed Dick when the flashing diamond ring was unwrapped. "You shouldn't expect tc make sis take——"

Invited Him Into the Warmth of the House.

"You promised" The eyes of the two men met and Elkins knew then and there what Wallingford's lips would speak.

With two of the oposite sex against her Sylvia had little chance to demur and with a tingling sensation in every nerve she slipped the ring on her right hand.

It was late the next night when the child had again been tucked in bed to dream of a wonderful day in the kingdom of toys with three grown up people to play with him, that the three again sat about the open fire.

"I never spent a happier Christmas," said Wallingford with a glad ring in his voice.

"Nor I," put in Dick. "Vale missed a good time all right," he added sleepily. "Sis and her brother-in-law are quite smitten." And unaware of the havoc he had created in Wallingford's heart he took his departure for bed, leaving the two in silence.

But the silence was a complete one—one in which spoken words and thoughts were unnecessary. After a moment Wallingford leaned forward and compelled Sylvia's eyes and while he did so he took her right hand and removed the ring and put it firmly on the third finger of her left hand.

"Next Christmas," he said tenderly, "we will spend at our own fireside. It is all very sudden and very wonderful, Sylvia, but I always do important things suddenly and—love is always wonderful."

The Annual Question

What to give is answered here if it's for the male sex.

Pleasing a Man is giving him something of real benefit or use. And What is better than:

A Warm Pair of Nice Gloves 50c to $4
Bath Robes
House Coats
Dress Shirts, 50c to $1.50
Beautiful Neckties, 25c to 50c
Hosiery, 15c to 50c
Handkerchiefs, 5c to 50c
Suspenders, 15c to 50c
Sweater Coats, 50c to $6
Underwear in all grades, 50c to $2.25
Winter Caps in all the fashionable Shapes, 50c to $5

Umbrellas
Suit Cases
Hand Bags
An Elegant line of Men's Pants, $2 to $5
Suits and Overcoats for Men and Boys
Sheepskin Coats, THE BEST the Markets Affords
Rain Coats in Wool or Rubber

You will find our stock replete with suggestions and reasonably priced.

Respectfully Yours,

C. K. Gamwell,

Up-to-date Clothier and Furnisher,

Palmer, - - - - - Mass.

Coffee Percolators $2 and upwards

The line of goods we are showing for

Christmas Gifts

are of the best make, of proven quality and will make useful as well as acceptable gifts.

Bring in your lists and let us show our lines to you. We shall be pleased to show you the good points of the varied assortment of gifts we are displaying.

Savory Roasters, $1, $1.50 and $2

Whitcomb & Faulkner

QUALITY ALWAYS FIRST

Flexible Flyer Sleds

We are proud of our line of

Cutlery

It includes both the Robeson and Holly lines—including IVORY, PEARL, BONE, STAG, SILVER and CELLULOID HANDLES at prices from 10c to $2.50.

Pocket, Jack and Desk Knives.

Casseroles, Chafing Dishes and Bean Pots

Elegant nickel finish. An ornament to any table.

Crumb Trays and Brushes

Neat and serviceable.

Universal Bread Mixer, $2

Razors $1 to $3

Razor Strops and Hones

Shaving Brushes and Mugs

INGERSOLL WATCHES
$1 to $2
Guaranteed for one year

Clocks $1.25
In several handsome finishes

Asbestos Sad Irons in Sets
DO NOT HEAT THE HANDS

Coffee Percolators and Tea Pots

With adjustable tea balls—heavy nickel plating and a handsome addition to any table service.

Carving Sets
Knives and Forks in set

NUT PICKS
THERMOMETERS
ELECTRIC FLASH LIGHTS

Tea Pot with Tea Ball Attachment

We take pride in our showing of GIFTS that would be appreciated by the mothers and sisters who have housework, and offer for their use—with the knowledge that these goods are all A No. 1.

Savory Roasters
Meat Choppers
Bread Mixers

Asbestos Flat Irons in sets
Mrs. Pott's Flat Irons in sets
PERFECTION OIL HEATERS
A full assortment of Bath Room Fixtures in plate glass and nickel

WE HAVE FOR THE YOUNG FOLKS

A large stock of Barney & Berry ICE SKATES, FLEXIBLE FLYER SLEDS, HIGH SLEDS AND LOW SLEDS, HOCKEY STICKS AND TOOL CHESTS—all suitable and useful gifts.

WHITCOMB & FAULKNER

ALL CARS STOP IN FRONT OF THE STORE.

TELEPHONE.

PALMER, - - - - MASS.

O'Connor's Barber Shop

PALMER, MASS.

Just across the street from the Waiting Room.
(On Corner going to Depot.)

4 Chairs, No Long Waits

Everything absolutely clean.

Shavers' Supplies For Sale

Razors Honed and Handles Put On. Why pay more? We warrant our Razors at $1.50. Each one is tried, so we know what we sell you.

Central Vermont Railway Co.

SOUTHERN DIVISION.

CORRECTED TO OCTOBER 1, 1911.

—o—

Trains Leave Palmer Going South:

7.25 a. m. Passenger for New London. Due Stafford 7.58 a. m., Willimantic 8.50 a. m., Norwich 9.27 a. m., New London 10.00 a. m.

9.55 a. m. Mail for New London. Due Stafford 10.31 a. m., Willimantic 11.17 a. m., Norwich 11.52 a. m., New London 12.20 p. m.

1.25 p. m. Passenger for New London. Due Stafford 2.03 p. m., Willimantic 3.08 p. m., Norwich 3.43 p. m., New London 4.10 p. m.

6.30 p. m. Steamboat train for New London and New York. Due Stafford 7.10 p. m., Willimantic 7.55 p. m., Norwich 8.30 p. m., New London 9.00 p. m., New York City via Norwich Line, Pier 70, East River, 5.45 a. m., Pier 40, North River 7.00 a. m., following morning.

Above trains connect at Willimantic and New London east and west for points on the N. Y. N. H. & H. R.R.

Trains Leave Palmer Going North.

7.30 a. m. Mail. Due Amherst 8.15 a. m., Millers Falls 9.00 a. m., Brattleboro 10.00 a. m.

12.10 p. m. Express. Due Amherst 12.55 p. m., Millers Falls 1.20 p. m., Brattleboro 2.07 p. m.

5.30 p. m. Due Amherst 6.16 p. m., Millers Falls 6.50 p. m., Brattleboro 8.00 p. m.

These trains cannot connect at Millers Falls with trains east and west on the B. & M., and at Brattleboro with express trains for White River Junction and Montreal and points west thereof.

These trains run week days only.

SUBJECT TO CHANGE WITHOUT NOTICE.

J. W. HANLEY, General Passenger Agent.

Palmer Savings Bank,

Palmer, Mass.

Officers.

H. G. LOOMIS, President.
R. C. NEWELL, 1st Vice President.
W. E. STONE, 2d Vice President.
C. F. SMITH, 3d Vice President.
GEORGE A. RICE, Clerk.

Auditors.

W. E. Stone. E. B. Taylor.
C. A. LeGro.

Board of Investment.

H. G. Loomis. W. E. Stone. C. F. Smith.
H. E. W. Clark. E. E. Hobson

Trustees.

H. G. Loomis. W. E. Stone. J. O. Hamilton.
H. E. W. Clark. G. D. Mooers. L. J. Potter.
R. C. Newell. L. R. Holden. C. L. Waid.
Geo. S. Holden. C. E. Fuller. E. B. Taylor.
M. J. Dillon. C. F. Smith. C. A. LeGro.

Treasurer.

C. L. Waid.

Safe Deposit Boxes for rent.

Banking Hours: 9 a. m to 3 p. m. Saturday, 9 a. m. to 12 m. Friday Evening, 7.30 to 9.

OVER 65 YEARS' EXPERIENCE

PATENTS

TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &C.

Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. HANDBOOK on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents.

Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the Scientific American.

A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.

MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

The Antalgica

Or Vegetable Pain Restorer

was introduced to the public in 1848, since which time thousands of bottles have been sold each year to an appreciative public, which is a good evidence of its merits. It is adapted to so many ailments it should be in every household, for it cures all kinds of pains both internal and external. For Bronchial affections it is unrivaled by any article in the market. It is a sure cure for Cholera Morbus and Dysentery, if taken in season, also for Coughs. It is an effective remedy for rheumatic affections, stiff joints, swelled limbs, sprains, cramps, toothache and many other ills to which the flesh is heir. Try it and it will do you good. It is sold at 25c, 50c and $1 00 per bottle by the Bay State Drug Co., Lynde & Gould, and the proprietor.

O. P. Allen,
Palmer, Mass.

Some Present Problems In the Palmer Schools.

[Continued from second page.]

of study. A good course of study is one that is specific, yet not too rigid and unpliable; one that maps out a maximum and a minimum amount of work; one suited, grade by grade, to the ability of the average child of that same grade. It requires a wide knowledge and a large practical experience to plan this. In order to secure the necessary uniformity in school work that should be secured, it is necessary that the teacher of each grade should know the work mapped for her specific grade, for the grade below, and the grade above her. To do this in one subject, arithmetic for example, is no small task. It is our intention, just as rapidly as possible and advisable, to go over the entire course of study with these objects in view; and in addition to the regular subjects generally taught in the grades, practical suggestions for conducting the work in the schoolroom relative to discipline, interest, instruction, attention, etc., a graded list of poems that every child should know, an outline in "Morals and Manners," a list of stories to be told in the first four grades, an outline of nature study, and one in physiology and hygiene will be placed in the hands of the teachers.

"We are very anxious that the commercial department recently established in our high school will be successful. We have secured good equipment; at present we have good instructors, and with the three years' course as outlined, it seems to me that this department will turn out pupils who should be better equipped for business life after three years' preparation than the average pupil turned out from the average business school after a preparation of three to twelve months. The big factor in making this department successful will be the quality of teachers maintained. If, then, the community does not stint the committee, this department must be successful. It seems to me when parents fully realize and appreciate the worth of this department that the enrollment in the high school will increase and that fewer pupils will drop out of school upon graduation from the grammar school.

"We contemplate the installation of a card system whereby an individual record can be kept of every pupil from the time that he enters to the time that he leaves our schools. This will aid us in following the pupil throughout his entire school course and perhaps help us to solve the problem of non-promotion. We can then, perhaps, see whether this is due to illness, truancy, late entrance, changing schools, foreign parentage, physical defects, mental defects, immaturity, slow development, home conditions, inattention, nervousness, laziness, lack of general ability, or inefficient teaching.

"Medical inspection has been in force in our schools for several years, but, in my mind, has never been put on a really systematic basis. In order to secure the best results, certain rules should be drawn up; a record of the child's health should be kept; notices should be sent and some means devised of following up such notices. At the present time throughout the state the advice and suggestions of the medical inspector are purely suggestive. Not many years ago these suggestions were regarded by many parents as an interference with parental right, but to-day these suggestions are not regarded as such. The parent realizes that they are a valuable help and that medical inspection is a wise and judicious oversight upon the part of the school committee, placed over his children. I believe that, in order that the best possible results may be obtained, some day the General Assembly will enact a law making the recommendation of a medical inspector mandatory. This seems like a big interference with parental right at first glance; so did compulsory school attendance when first enacted as a law. The state will sometime regard the health of its future citizens of sufficient importance to do this.

"Before closing, I wish to speak of three things that every school should teach: Punctuality, obedience and industry. Every child should be taught that attendance at school, upon his part, is a duty and that duties must always be performed. He should be taught not only that he must attend school every day when his health will permit, but also that he should attend promptly. If he is taught these for eight to twelve years, the ordinary time that a child spends in a public school, he will have formed a habit which will follow him through life and make his life successful. Obedience is another great lesson that every child should learn. The school should teach and exact obedience; it is the handmaid of punctuality. The spirit of industry should be thoroughly inculcated into the very being of every child. If the child is allowed to go through school idling away his time, doing what he wishes when he wishes and how he wishes, he is being allowed to form one of the most pernicious habits that he can possibly acquire. If, from the first day that he enters school, he is shown that he must perform every task assigned and perform that task to the best of his ability in the time given, and this is required throughout his entire school course, he will have been given the best habit that he can acquire. The way to acquire this habit, then, is to begin in the first grade and continue the instruction, and compulsion, if necessary, throughout the child's school life. The successful man in life is not always the brilliant man or the man of large attainments, but is more often the man who has learned thoroughly the habits of punctuality, obedience, and industry; and if one of the chief objects of the public school is to fit the child for his life and his work in life, it seems to me that, beyond any doubt, these are three of the most important things that the school should teach."

Christmas Wine and Walnuts

Wonderful Man.

Decem—Ginks had the most wonderful control of his features of any man I ever knew.

Burr—I understand he was a marvel.

Decem—He was. Why, I've even seen that man look pleased when he saw what his wife had bought him for Christmas.

In Advance.

Mrs. Skinflint—Oh, John! Mary, the parlor maid, has just swallowed a quarter! What ever shall we do?

Old Skinflint—Do? Well, I suppose we'd better let her keep it. She'd have expected a Christmas present, anyhow!

Once Enough.

"Christmas comes but once a year," said the cheery citizen.

"No use in its coming twice a year," said the morose person. "Must give a man a chance to save a little money before he can spend it!"

Too Late.

Highwayman—Halt! Your money or your life!

Victim—It's no go, stranger. My wife's in the same line of business always at Christmas time, and she's just finished with me.

Two Kinds.

There are friends and Christmas tree friends. The latter take all the presents they can get and present you with beautiful boughs.

OPPORTUNE.

George—Ah, Lily, dear, this will be the jolliest Christmas I've ever spent. Now that we're engaged I think only of the future.

Lily—Do you? Well, at this time of the year I think only of the present.

Christmas Thanks.

When turkey's on the table laid,
And good things I may scan,
I'm thankful that I wasn't made
A vegetarian.

FORBES & WALLACE,

Springfield, Mass.

Many Gift Suggestions in the Basement

The collections of wares in the basement are peculiarly rich in articles suitable for gifts. The assortments are varied and complete. Besides the wide range of inexpensive articles of attractiveness and refinement there are many choice pieces which will appeal to those seeking presents of unusual value.

Lamps of Beautiful Form and Color

Our display of Lamps shows an unusual collection of artistic designs. A great many are exclusive styles, only one of a kind, giving them additional attractiveness.

Electric Lamps in Colonial, old brass and Romanesque styles, with fancy shades in artistic designs, $4.87 to $42
Desk Electric Lamps in exceptionally attractive styles, $1.48 to $6.48
Gas Lamps in old brass, many effective designs, $1.25 to $3.48
Gas Lamps with handsome shades of art and leaded glass, $3.98 to $16.48
Hanging Domes with either gas or electric fixtures, many beautiful designs and colorings, $17.00 to $39.00
Oil Lamps for the hall, $1.68 to $3.87

Fine Dinnerware for Gifts

The assortment now shown is exceptionally complete. The best potteries, both American and European, are represented by their finest patterns, in china and fine semi-porcelain.

Haviland China Sets are shown in a wide range of styles, mostly open stock patterns, from handsome designs at $40 to a simple and elegant set of white china with rich border of encrusted gold, at $132.00

Austrian China Sets in many designs, with beautiful decorations in a great variety of patterns, a large number of them our own importations of exclusive styles, at $31.00 to $45.00

Semi-Porcelain Sets in a very large assortment—
English ware, $19.87 to $29.87
American ware, $10.87 to $29.00

Choice Presents in Fancy China

There are many small sets and individual pieces that make particularly choice and pleasing presents, and cost but little. Our assortment shows new and attractive pieces of distinctive character in both form and decoration.

Chocolate Sets in fine hand-painted Nippon ware, pot and 6 cups, $4.98 to $5.68
German China Sets, $3.87 to 7.68
Japanese Sets, $1.48 to $2.48
Bread and Butter Plates in Haviland China, one dozen, $2.98 to $10.48
Japanese Bread and Butter Plates, dozen, $1.20 to $1.80
Nut Sets, one large and six individual footed bowls 68c
Whipped Cream Sets, plate, bowl and ladle, 75c
Salad Bowls, various sizes and decorations, 37c to $2.68
Vases in a large variety of shapes and decorations, 68c to $4.48
Cups and Saucers, a very large assortment displayed on five special tables.
Japanese, 10c to 85c
China, 25c to $1.48

Cut Glass of Fine Quality

Cut Glass is one of the favorite wares for gifts, as well as one of the richest. Our collection is exceptional both in variety, quality and values. It contains scores of articles suitable for all gift purposes at a price range meeting all requirements.

Especially attractive values and assortments are shown in Bowls, in the popular 8-inch size, at $2.98 to $11.48; Fern Dishes, at $2.98; Water Sets, at $5.48 to $26.00;
Vases, at $2.62 to $13.48
Table Glassware, both plain blown and etched, in complete assortment, at very low prices.

Table Novelties in Metal

A display of Table Furnishings in nickel and copper contains a large variety of articles that are at the same time useful and an ornament to any table. They make very handsome and popular presents.

Chafing Dishes in a variety of new designs.
Nickel, $4.48 to $12.50
Copper, $6.72 to $17.87
Chafing Dish Sets, $16.87 to $17.87
Coffee Machines, in nickel and copper, $4.98 to $9.72
Aluminum Coffee Percolators, $3.00 to $4.50
Copper Tea Kettles, with stand and alcohol lamp, $2.23 to $8.48
Nickel Baking Dishes, $1.98 to $5.87
Heating Plates, $2.23
Egg Steamers, $1.98 to $3.98
Egg Sets, $18.68

Artistic Furnishings in Brass

Useful and novel pieces of unusually attractive design, in a great variety of styles, well made and handsomely finished, are offered at considerably less than the prices asked for goods of equal merit.

Jardinieres; 7-inch, 89c; 9-inch, $1.19; 12-inch, $2.48; other sizes up to $4.98
Jardinieres in openwork and basket designs, $1.98 to $3.87
Jardinieres with Pedestals, $5.48 to $14.87
Fern Dishes, with removable linings, in a variety of sizes, 69c to $2.98
Candlesticks, 72c to $1.68
Umbrella Stands, $2.87 to $6.72

Clocks Make Fine Gifts

We are showing a large variety of attractive styles, including pretty little Gilt Clocks and neat, practical styles in Brushed Finish Brass Cases; also larger Clocks in French Regulators, Wood Case French Clocks, Enameled and Brushed Brass Cases.
Prices range from $1.48 to $16.87

Fireplace Fittings

These are practical, useful presents, as well as highly ornamental. We are showing handsome designs in Wrought Iron and Brass, including Andirons at $1.48 to $10.98; Sets at $2.98 to $7.48; Screens at $4.37 to $16.48

Fancy Baskets

A new importation of Fancy Baskets, in an endless variety of pretty and novel shapes for every conceivable purpose.

Waste Paper Baskets, 48c to $1.19
Work Baskets with standards, 72c to $5.48
Wood Baskets, $2.23 to $3.62
Square Willow Hampers, 87c to $4.48

Forbes & Wallace, Springfield

For the Christmas Trade

Diamonds, Watches, Jewelry,
Solid Silver and Plated Ware,
Cut Glass, Hand-painted China,
Bohemian Glass, Chafing Dishes,
Clocks, Toilet Sets, Umbrellas,
Percolators, Jewel Boxes, etc.

E. S. Brooks, 423 Main St., Palmer, Mass.

THE PALMER JOURNAL

Published

EVERY FRIDAY EVENING

13-15 Central Street, Masonic Block.

PALMER, MASS.

The Palmer Journal Company,

LOUIS E. CHANDLER,

Editor and Manager.

Terms of subscription—Two dollars a year; a discount of 25 cents to those who pay in advance. Six months, $1.00; three months, 50 cents; single copies, 5 cents. Subscriptions continued until notified.

Entered at Post Office as second-class matter.

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 15, 1911.

A LAW against flirting in public is proposed by a New York legislator. When it is in force any man who starts to wink a grain of dust out of his eye on a windy day will run a chance of being run in by the special flirt cop in plain clothes.

THERE could be no better way to use the $200,000 defense fund raised for the McNamaras than to devote it to the support of the families bereaved by the Los Angeles explosion. And if, as reported, the bulk of it has already been spent for legal services, union labor could do no nobler thing than to raise a similar fund for the widows and fatherless. It would be the sincerest disapproval of the action of their one-time representative.

THERE is cause for rejoicing, now that the report of the naval board on the wreck of the Maine has been made. Rejoicing along two lines—that the question is settled beyond doubt, and that the original explosion is known to have come from the outside. By whom the mine was placed and exploded will probably never be known, and there is no need at this time to speculate needlessly on that problem. After 14 years of differing individual opinions the truth is made known, and it will be well to drop the matter there.

THAT is a large privilege which the New Haven road is asking—permission to consolidate and own practically all the electric roads west of Worcester, including the Worcester properties, with a capital for the new company of something like $25,000,000 or more and control of something like 650 miles of track. It will needs be looked into with a good deal of care before it is granted—if it ever is. Of course, a Massachusetts corporation would be formed to accomplish the desired end, but it would be New Haven domination just the same.

IT IS not always that the mills of the gods go about their grinding in a leisurely manner. Four defenseless women were murdered on the morning of November 8 in White Plains, N. Y. Last week five Italians were sentenced to die during the week of January 15 for the crime. Only six court days were occupied with the trials, and in one case a jury returned with a verdict of guilty before the clerk had finished reading the verdict returned by a previous jury against others of the accused. Justice was certainly swift and sure in these cases.

WITH the approach of cold weather come reports of drownings through venturing on ice not yet strong enough to be safe. So far the fatalities have been on small bodies of water, as these freeze over first; and also, all have been of children too young to judge wisely of the ice. And here parents will do well to have a care and know where their children are during the time they are away from home. The first ice on a small pond is wonderfully tempting to all youngsters, but we have not yet had cold weather enough to make even the smallest bodies of water safe.

EVERY parent should read carefully the talk, reprinted on page two, of Superintendent Hobson before the Historical Society on the Palmer schools. School officials and their actions are often misjudged, simply for the reason that it is impossible for them to give detailed reasons for their actions, as other boards of town officials can. Superintendent Hobson's talk explains many things along this line and tells what the Palmer school committee is aiming at. Its reading will give a clearer understanding of school matters and should work to lessen the criticism which is always on tap for school officials and teachers.

SANFORD, the leader of the Holy Ghost and Us society, has been found guilty at Portland, Me., of causing the death of six of his followers by neglect while on their voyage home from Africa to Maine. It is alleged that Sanford lived sumptuously in his quarters, while the members of his flock starved and died of scurvey, and that offers of provisions were refused. Although claiming to be Elijah and under personal instructions from the Lord, his directions contained no hint of what was "coming to him." And have you noticed how the majority of these alleged "Prophets" and "Christs" fall into the clutches of the law sooner or later?

OF COURSE there will be an emphatic protest over the petition of 275 physicians from all parts of the country asking Congress to re-establish the canteen in the army, which was abolished in 1901. The original canteen was established under a permit from the commanding officer for the sale of light beer in a room used for no other purpose "whenever he is satisfied that the giving to the men the opportunity of obtaining such beverage within the post limits has the effect of preventing them from resorting for strong intoxicants to places without such limits and tends to promote temperance and discipline among them." The practically unanimous testimony of army officers is that intemperance has increased, the men being driven to low resorts outside the posts, with numerous attendant harmful results. Some of the best known physicians in the country have signed the petition.

PALMER NEWS.

LOCAL NOTICES.

Electric wiring, etc. 'Phone Moulton, 122-21 Monson.

A Graphophone free for you. Come in and learn how to get one. Kinsley's Pharmacy, 357 Main St., Cor. Central.

Historical Society's Plans.

Has Arranged Interesting Program For Coming Year.

The next meeting of the Palmer Historical society will be January 9th, when John C. Sullivan, chairman of the school board, will give a talk. As he has made a special study of the schools, his talk will be an interesting one. The club has completed its program for the balance of the year, as follows: February 7, Shakespearean reading in charge of Miss Helen L. Robinson and Miss Jennie M. Linton, "Henry VIII" being the play selected. March 5, debate on "The inter-oceanic canal, should be subject to the exclusive control of the United States." Affirmative, Allen F. Davis and William C. McDonald; negative, Rupert W. Bodfish and Raymond J. Wilder. April 2, Rev. Francis S. Childs of East Brimfield will speak on "A University atmosphere," "Reminiscences of good folks and great." May 7, annual meeting, and social in charge of Mrs. L. M. Shaw, Mrs. G. A. Rice, Miss Helen L. Robinson, Mrs. C. K. Gamwell and Mrs. E. W. Carpenter.

License Commissioners Act.

Decide Charges of Illegal Sales at Weeks House Unproved.

The license commissioners, at a meeting last evening, decided to dismiss the charges against the Weeks House for illegal sales of liquor on Sunday, November 26.

In the district court on Monday, November 27, Alexander Lif, charged with drunkenness, testified that the day before he had bought liquor at the Weeks House. The matter was brought to the attention of the license commissioners by order of Associate Justice David F. Dillon, who was presiding, and they began an investigation, holding two hearings previous to last evening. All parties interested were given a hearing, and after an exhaustive research the commission satisfied itself that the charges were in no way sustained and dismissed the complaint. The commissioners are not making public the evidence which they unearthed, but state that they are perfectly satisfied they are right in their decision.

Parker—Remington.

The marriage of Nina I. Parker of West Springfield to Albert H. Remington of this town took place at the home of the bride Tuesday evening. The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. L. Atherton in the presence of a large gathering of friends and relatives, including guests from Palmer, Chester, Huntington and South Braintree. The wedding was followed by a reception, for which Barr catered. The couple received a fine array of gifts. Mr. and Mrs. Remington left in the evening on a wedding trip of two weeks to New York and Washington, D. C., and on their return will live at the Hotel Burns.

Extra Cars Next Week.

Superintendent Atkins of the street railway will make special efforts to accommodate the Christmas shoppers next week. On the Springfield line he will double-head each day the cars leaving Palmer at 9.15 and 10.15, and the cars leaving Springfield at 5.15 and 6.15. Other trips will be similarly served as travel warrants.

The Thompson houses on Pine street have received a coat of paint externally.

The public schools of the town will close next Friday for a Christmas vacation of one week.

As next week is the week before Christmas the stores of the village will keep open every evening.

Henry Beauregard has moved his family from Uxbridge to the Kurtz house on the corner of South Main and Vaill streets.

The meeting of the Woman's Tuesday Club next week will be with Mrs. W. E. Stone of Squier street.

H. C. Manzir has moved from the McDonald house on Walnut street to the Moore house on Pleasant street.

Do your Christmas shopping early. Not only will you have a greater variety to choose from, but you'll help the clerks, who are always "on the jump" the last few days before December 25.

The electric cars no longer stop on the Main street bridge over the Boston and Albany tracks, as it has been declared unsafe for the heavy cars to stand on. Consequently stops are now made on either side of the structure.

The Kurtz property on South Main street was sold last Saturday to Mrs. Jennie E. Taylor. The property consists of a lot 150 feet front on Main street and 180 on Vaill street; there are two houses, affording four tenements.

There was a brisk blaze Sunday forenoon for a few moments in a box of waste paper in the rear of the Cross block, the cause being a carelessly dropped match or "snipe." It was discovered soon after the start and no damage was done.

Everett, the young son of Postmaster W. L. Shaw, broke one of the small bones of his elbow while at play last Friday afternoon. He was wrestling with other lads about his own age, and in a fall managed to strike his elbow in such manner as to fracture the bone.

The Old Center Improvement Society met last Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Ella Lamb. The club has just closed a successful year, several new members having been added. These officers were elected: President, Mrs. Mary J. Miller; vice president, Mrs. Annie Bacon; secretary, Mrs. Agnes M. Dimock; treasurer, Mrs. Alice Gates.

Charles F. Sanderson of Palmer was brought into the district court Tuesday morning on a charge of killing a gray squirrel out of season, the date being November 23. He was found guilty and fined $15, which he paid; his hunting license was revoked and he will be unable to get another for a year. Sanderson claims that the animal he shot was a red squirrel, which he had a right to kill, and not a gray, the only witness for the prosecution being mistaken in the species.

At the annual meeting of the Y. P. S. C. E. of the Congregational church Tuesday evening, these officers were chosen: President, Marjory Munger; vice president, May Fillmore; secretary and treasurer, Francis Freeman; corresponding secretary, Mrs. George B. Loux; lookout committee, Grace Jameson; prayer-meeting committee, Marion Backus; sunshine committee, Edna Mason; music committee, Alta Burgess; missionary committee, Marion D. Clark; temperance and good citizenship, Robert W. Bodfish.

The annual meeting of Palmer grange was held last Friday evening in Masonic hall. The following officers were elected: Master, Francis L. Jones; overseer, Charles Robbins; lecturer, Mrs. Bessie Pelton; chaplain, Rufus S. Stebbins; secretary, Mrs. Effie G. Freeman; treasurer, John O. Hamilton; steward, James Hamilton; gatekeeper, Alva M. Walker; assistant steward, Charles H. Filer; lady assistant steward, Mrs. Bessie C. Jenks; Flora, Mrs. C. H. Filer; Pomona, Thora Johnson; Ceres, May Clark; member of the executive committee, Fred Collis.

If You Are a Trifle Sensitive

About the size of your shoes it's some satisfaction to know that many people can wear shoes a size smaller by shaking Allen's Foot-Ease into them. Just the thing for Patent Leather Shoes, and for breaking in New Shoes. Sold everywhere, 25c. Sample FREE. Address, Allen S. Olmstead, LeRoy, N. Y.

When your feet are wet and cold, and your body chilled through from exposure, take a big dose of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, bathe your feet in hot water before going to bed, and you are almost certain to ward off a severe cold. For sale by all dealers.

Personal Mention.

L. E. Royce has gone to Canada on a business trip.

Patrick Crowley is ill at his home on the Thorndike road.

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Norman will spend the holiday in Warren, Pa.

Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Howe of Pine street have been spending a part of the week in Boston.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Dawson of the Converse House are spending a few days in New York.

A. J. Todd and son and daughter of Rutland are guests at the home of J. J. Todd on Pine street.

Mrs. Rufus Flynt will entertain the Entre Nous Whist Club at her home on Central street to-morrow evening.

Sheriff H. A. Northrop and wife will leave next week to spend the remainder of the winter with their daughter, Mrs. Clarence Wing, in Greenville, S. C.

Miss Marjorie Buck of North Main street has gone to Orange, N. J., for a visit with Miss Bessie Swann, who is doing settlement work in that place.

Furnishing Change.

"Five dollars in change to be sent around to her house within five minutes, that was all the woman living at No. 211 in the next street wanted," said the New York grocer. "Not even a cake of soap to go with it as a guarantee of good faith—just the $5. I thought I had got so used to cheeky requests that nothing could surprise me in that line, but the change proposition did give me something of a jolt. A cheap peddler had called with something she wanted to buy; she was afraid to trust him with the money to go out and get the change; she couldn't leave the house herself, and she had nobody to send, so she just telephoned around so she could get 75 cents in change. Yes, we sent it because she buys things here once in a while, but I hope other women in the neighborhood won't get the habit."

When you have a cold get a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It will soon fix you up all right and will ward off any tendency toward pneumonia. This remedy contains no opium or other narcotic and may be given as confidently to a baby as to an adult. Sold by all dealers.

S. H. Wright

64 Pleasant Street,

Lock and Gunsmith.

Light Repairing of every Description.

Locks, Keys, Guns, Pistols, Shears, Lawn Mowers, Skates, Sewing Machines, Saw Filing, Clocks, Pattern Making, Etc.

Low Prices for Shoe Repairing

See these prices for machine work:

Men's shoes, half soled and heeled, sewed, $1 00

Men's shoes, full soled and heeled, sewed, 1.50

Ladies' Shoes, soled and heeled, sewed, .85

Better than hand work and much quicker. Satisfaction guaranteed.

H. Platkin,

Bridge St., Palmer.

Palmer Trucking Co.

Successors to S. H. Brown.

Trucking and Jobbing of all kinds.

Piano Moving.

Dealers in Spring Water Ice.

Orders solicited, prompt attention guaranteed.

F. M. Ralton, Manager.

Office, South Main street.

Telephone connection.

Cannel Coal for Open Grates.

English quality Bostonia cannel coal, especially adapted for open grates and quick fires. of unusually good quality. Try it.

Juanita Forge Coal.

Guaranteed to be the best forge coal mined. Blacksmiths are requested to give it a trial.

Feiner Charcoal.

I have the wholesale agency for Palmer, Monson, Ware and Wilbraham.

W. F. Fillmore, Palmer

SPECIAL NOTICE

The New England Telephone and Telegraph Company desires to remind its subscribers that the 20 days allowed in which to pay the service bills expire

Wednesday, Dec. 20th, 1911.

Please remit by check or call at 430 Main St., Palmer, Mass.

Mrs. Rose

Late of New York City.

Hair Goods Made to Order and Remodeled.

Complexion and Scalp Treatment—Facials, Shampooing and Manicuring.

Hours: 9 to 5. Appointments made.

Telephone 49-11.

17 Thorndike Street, Palmer, Mass.

Big Clearance Sale

Men's Overcoats

All our $20, $18, $16.50 and $15 Overcoats to be sold at $13.98

Special Lot of Ladies' Coats

Marked down to $12.50

M. Ecker, Palmer, Mass.

P. O. Block. Up one flight.

A Christmas Present

To All Our Customers.

A Special Mark-down Sale for Christmas

FATHERS, MOTHERS AND FRIENDS.

When giving Christmas Presents give something useful

A SPECIAL REDUCTION IN

Clothing, Shoes, Slippers, Hats, Shirts, Ties,

And many other useful articles for Christmas Gifts.

Abner Podrat,

Head-to-foot Outfitter,

349 Main Street, - - - Palmer, Mass.

Silver Of Proven Quality

Rich design and refined beauty in knives, forks, spoons and fancy serving pieces are not attributes of solid silverware alone. The skill born of long experience has produced, in the famous "1847 ROGERS BROS." silver plate, effects in pattern and design which make its name for beauty second only to its reputation for quality—"Silver Plate that Wears."

Sold by leading dealers everywhere. Send for catalogue "C-L," showing all patterns.

MERIDEN BRITANNIA CO.,

(International Silver Co., Successor.)

Meriden, Conn.

Are You Interested in Parlor Stoves?

The GLENWOOD base burner does the best w rk. The E. Brown Co. handle this line. also carry a full stock of

Modern Hardware at Very Low Prices

E. Brown Co., Agents, Palmer, Mass.

Card.—We wish to thank our neighbors and friends, particularly those at the Monson State Hospital, for their kindness during our recent bereavement.

Mrs. F. C. Hook.
Mrs. G. A. Hook.

Palmer, Dec. 14, 1911.

FOX TERRIER PUPS FOR SALE. 17-tf
JAMES BURDICK, Mechanic St. Monson

TO RENT.—Large barn and two auto sheds, inquire MRS. MORGAN, Main street, next post office.

TENEMENT WANTED, as near wire mill as possible. JOHN A. THORIN, care Wright Wire Co. 37-1

WANTED—Boarding place for a girl of six years old, in respectable family. MRS. F. E. SHAW, Box F. 37-3

TO RENT.—Downstairs tenement in my double house on Walnut street, after December 15. W. E. McDONALD. 36-tf

IF YOU WANT your horse clipped in first-class shape, call on JAMES BURDICK, Monson. 32-tf

VAULTS CLEANED, gardens plowed, ashes and rubbish removed at reasonable prices. W. H. HOUSE, Palmer. 3-tf

FOR SALE.—One two-horse sleigh, one one-horse sleigh and four driving sleighs. 46-tf WHITCOMB & FAULKNER.

WANTED.—Hens, calves and cows. Will pay good price. Notify by postal card. 44-tf E. GOLDBERG, Three Rivers.

FOUND.—A yellow and white dog, with collar and no name. Owner can have same by paying charges. J. M. ALLEN, Palmer, R. F. D. 1

FOR SALE—Ford runabout, 1911 model, in first-class condition, An excellent car for a doctor. C. L. HOLLAND, Dunbar Motor Co., 65 Dwight St., Springfield. 37-1

FOR SALE—Second-hand hot air wood furnace in good condition; pipes and registers with it. Inquire of E. J. FULLER, Fuller's Crossing, on Bondsville line. 33-tf

LOST—A female beagle, black, tan and white. Answers to the name of Francis. Lost between Holland and Wales. If found, please notify THOMAS GLEASON. 37-1

LOST—A male beagle, black, tan and white. Answers to the name of Smoke. On collar, license 200; Amherst, Mass. Last seen in Monson, near Cemetery Arch. If found, please notify THOMAS GLEASON. 37-1

CARPET CLEANER. A Richmond Cleaner to rent with or without operator. Best way to clean carpets, rugs or furniture. Write postal or telephone 25-2. FRED McCOMBER, Box 174, Palmer. 40-tf

NOTICE.—To the officers and members of the Polish Roman Catholic Congregation of Palmer, Mass.: You are hereby notified that a special meeting of the corporation will be held at the Town House at Four Corners in Palmer, Mass., on Tuesday evening, December 26, 1911, at eight o'clock. The business to be transacted includes the matter of selling all the property of the corporation, paying all its debts, and dissolving the corporation.

MICHAEL PELCZARSKI, Clerk.

Palmer Savings Bank.

Notice to Trustees:

The quarterly meeting of the Trustees of the Palmer Savings Bank will be held in their banking rooms on Monday, the eighteenth day of December, 1911, at 2 o'clock p. m.

G. A. RICE, Clerk.

Palmer, Mass., Dec. 4, 1911.

W. B. T. Smith,
Physician and Surgeon,

Office and residence, So. High Street,
BONDSVILLE, MASS.
Office Hours 7-9 a. m. 12.30-2 p. m. 6.30-8 p. m.
Tel. 104—5.

For Sale.

My residence on North Main street. 20 rooms and ground level basement—more room than I need. Steam heat, electric lights, bath. Can easily be made into two tenements.

Louis E. Chandler.

Notice to Piano Owners.

Mr. J. Frank Normand, Piano Tuner and Repairer. Nearly 20 years' experience on all makes of pianos. Over fifty satisfied piano owners to refer to in Palmer, Monson and vicinity. Orders left at Journal office or mailed to 800 Main street, Worcester, Mass., will receive prompt attention.

August Peterson,
Monson, Mass.
Cement, Concrete and Stone Work of all kinds at Lowest Prices.

Teacher of Violin,
Robert J. Wilder.
Palmer, Mass.

Upright Pianos to Rent
$3 to $5 per month
Money paid for rent applied if purchased.
STONE'S STORE,
370 Main St. Palmer

John Winer, Three Rivers
Dealer in Cattle, Beef and Milch Cows, Poultry.
Pay High Prices
P. O. Box 339, Three Rivers

For Sale

8-room cottage, with bath; on car line. Bargain if taken at once.

R. E. Cummings,
Palmer, Mass.

INSURANCE

Of every kind placed at short notice, and all favors duly appreciated.
Yours Truly
S. H. HELLYAR
Office at store on Main St.

VIOLIN AND PIANO LESSONS
Given by
Julia A. Allen, Palmer, Mass.
Orders promptly filled for Music, Violins, Strings, etc.

PALMER SAVINGS BANK.

Money deposited on or before Thursday, January 4th, will commence interest from January 1st

BANKING HOURS:
9 a. m. to 3 p. m.
Saturday, 9 a. m. to 12 m.
Friday Evening 7.30 to 9.

PALMER, MASS.

CHAS. L. WAID,
Treasurer.

Among the Churches.

Men and Religion Movement.

Union Meeting to be Held in the Congregational Church.

There will be a union service in the Congregational church Sunday evening at 7.30. It will be a mass meeting in the interest of the Men and Religion Forward movement. Invitations have been sent to all Protestant churches in the eastern part of Hampden county and to neighboring towns to send delegations of men. The meeting will be educational and inspirational in character. Music will be furnished by a quartet composed of James Summers, Edward Wells, Erford Corbin and Harold Taylor, and there will also be a cornet solo. The two speakers of the evening will be Rev. G. W. Stryker of the International college, Springfield, and Mr. C. B. Potter of the Potter Knitting Company, Springfield, who is chairman of the executive committee of the movement in that city. All are cordially invited to attend these services. A number of the churches in the town will omit their evening services in order that the members may attend this service.

The Ladies' Society of the Baptist church is planning to hold a fair in February.

Elder Frederick Viggers will preach in the Advent chapel on Park street Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

The two-nights' fair of St. Paul's church was a success in every particular, over 136 partaking of the turkey supper Tuesday night.

The Baptist Sunday school class of Mrs. Frank S. Keith entertained the home department and cradle roll members in the parlors of the church yesterday afternoon. Refreshments were served.

"The cause of peace and the arbitration treaties" will be the subject of the sermon in the Congregational church Sunday morning. Sunday school at 12; Christian Endeavor at 6. This will be a special meeting under the charge of Mrs. F. S. Brewer and will have for its subject "Efficiency."

At the Universalist church Sunday morning, Rev. Otto S. Raspe will preach the eighth sermon in the series on "Social service," taking for his topic "The pulpit and the pew." The subject of the Y. P. C. U. will be "Reverence"; leader, Miss Marion Andrews; sub-leaders, William Clarke and Rexford Paine.

A special meeting of the Y. P. C. U. of St. Paul's church was held at the parsonage Monday evening. Roger F. Etz of Boston, national secretary of the Y. P. C. U. gave a talk, outlining the distinct purpose of the Y. P. C. U. and emphasizing its missionary enterprises. Twenty-six members out of an enrollment of 30 were present. Refreshments were served.

Special Sale of ORANGES
50-cent Sweet Floridas
35c dozen
Saturday, Dec. 16 Only

Palmer Fruit Co.
Palmer, Mass.

Fraternity Notes.

Palmer Grange holds a regular meeting next Friday evening.

Court Palmer, Foresters of America, meet next Tuesday evening.

Palmer aerie of Eagles is scheduled to meet next Thursday evening.

Division 15, A. O. H., meets next Sunday afternoon in Thorndike.

Palmer lodge of Odd Fellows hold a regular meeting next Wednesday evening.

Cyrus W. Cross camp, Sons of Veterans, are to meet next Wednesday evening.

L. L. Merrick, W. R. C., will meet this evening and there will be an initiation.

Revere chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, will hold its annual meeting this evening in Masonic hall.

The last meeting of the year of Quaboag council, Royal Arcanum, will be held next Tuesday evening.

L. L. Merrick post, G. A. R., elected the following officers at a meeting Wednesday evening: Commander, D. J. Mahoney; S. V. C., J. S. Morgan; J. V. C., Charles Calkins; Q. M., S. H. Wright; chaplain, H. E. W. Clark; O. D., J. H. Davis; O. G., H. M. Bliss; surgeon, W. W. Converse.

These officers were elected by Palmer Grange last Friday evening: Master, Frank L. Jones; overseer, Charles Robbins; lecturer, Mrs. Bessie Pelton; chaplain, R. S. Stebbins; secretary, Mrs. Effie G. Freeman; treasurer, John O. Hamilton; steward, James Hamilton; gatekeeper, A. M. Walker; assistant steward, C. H. Filer; lady assistant steward, Mrs. Bessie J. Jenks; Flora, Mrs. C. H. Filer; Pomona, Thora Johnson; Ceres, May Clark; member of executive committee, Fred Collis.

The annual meeting of Palmer council, Knights of Columbus, was held last evening, and these officers elected: Grand Knight, Richard P. Donovan; deputy grand knight, Thomas W. Mansfield; financial secretary, Daniel W. Dillon; recording secretary, Michael P. Bowler; treasurer, John E. Doyle; chancellor, M. William Holden; warden, Frank B. Duffy; inside guard, John E. Doyle; outside guard, John A. Shea; advocate, John C. Sullivan; trustee for three years, William E. Barrett; delegates, Richard F. Donovan, J. J. Sullivan; alternates, Thomas W. Mansfield and J. J. Conway.

At a meeting of the Odd Fellows next Wednesday evening the third degree will be worked. There will also be nomination of officers.

Hooked Up.

The young politician was as obliging as possible, but there was a limit to his possibilities. When the reporter asked him what his wife would wear at the mayor's reception, he assumed a confidential air.

"I'll tell you just as much as I know myself," he said. "Last night she told me she would wear white; this morning at breakfast she said she'd decided on her rose-colored gown, and when I said good-by to her she had spread a grey one beside the rose-colored on one chair, and her black lace beside the white on another, and was taking something else out of the wardrobe. If her hair hadn't caught on a hook as she turned round, I might have been able to tell you more."

"I had been troubled with constipation for two years and tried all of the best physicians in Bristol, Tenn., and they could do nothing for me," writes Thos. E. Williams, Middleboro, Ky. "Two packages of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets cured me." For sale by all dealers.

Holiday Furniture
Walcott-Cameron Co.,

The Most Satisfactory Place to Buy Christmas Gifts Is Here.

We offer selections from all the staple articles in the House Furnishing line, together with lots of the smaller fancy things so much in demand at this season.

Pictures, Mirrors, Jardinieres, Jardiniere Stands, Lamps, Toilet Sets, Dinner Sets, Children's Rockers, Sleds, Carts, Doll Carriages, Bamboo Novelties, Carpet Sweepers.

Remember

We quote you lower prices than can be obtained out of town. We make delivery with our own team at any hour of any day you may desire and personally try to make your trading with us agreeable.

You owe it to your good Dollars and Cents (Sense) to look us over at least.

444 Main St., Palmer
W. D. Cameron, Proprietor

WALES.

George Steele of Palmer was in town Wednesday.

Mrs. Charles T. Holt has returned from a visit to her brother in Athol.

C. G. Thompson has moved his goods to his new home in Bridgeport, Ct.

Edward Roode Jr. has taken a position at the epileptic hospital in Monson.

Mrs. Georgiana Smith of Springfield is visiting her aunt, Mrs. Charles Copp.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Lawson of North Dartmouth are visiting Mrs. Emma Lawson.

Mrs. Isaiah Hiscock has gone to Stafford to spend the winter with her son, John Andrews.

Walter Stebbins has moved his family to Stafford Springs, where he has been employed for some time.

Mrs. Lindorf Miller of Worcester has returned to her home after spending a few days with friends in town.

J. V. Edwards has taken a position with the Standard Oil company in Holyoke and began work this week.

Rehearsals for Christmas concerts and entertainments are in progress at both the Methodist and Baptist churches.

WARE.

Joseph Little, 85, one of the oldest French residents, died at his home on Morse avenue Monday night. He leaves three sons and two daughters.

Ware council, Knights of Columbus, has elected the following officers for 1912: Grand knight, James H. Feehan; deputy grand knight, John A. Reilly; financial secretary, Carl Bohmiller; recorder, Robert J. Kelleher; chancellor, William E. McGurgan; treasurer, James E. Feehan; warden, James Harrison; inside guard, Thomas Feehan; outside guard, James E. Sullivan; advocate, Joseph A. Plouff; trustees, Daniel E. Clifford, Owen McArdle and Michael Shea.

Ware Valley Grange has elected the following officers: Master, H. F. Barnes; overseer, Perry S. Dunham; chaplain, Mrs. Perry S. Dunham; lecturer, Mrs. E. D. Winslow; steward, Verne S. Thayer; assistant steward, R. D. Winslow; gatekeeper, Jeremiah Malboeuf; treasurer, W. L. Lawson; secretary, W. W. Gibbs; Pomona, Miss Myrtle Andrews; Flora, Miss Katherine Woodlock; Ceres, Mrs. W. L. Lawson; lady assistant steward, Edna Malboeuf; executive committee for three years, George O. Packard.

WARREN.

Death of Mrs. Frances M. Doane.

Mrs. Frances Merritt Doane, 76, died Saturday morning at her home on the Ware road after a three days' illness of acute bronchitis. She is survived by one son, Leon, employed as clerk by the New York Central and Hudson River railroad at Springfield, one daughter, Mrs. Louise Grant, at home, one brother, Eli Merritt of West Warren, and one sister, Mrs. C. H. Backers of Newark. The funeral was held Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock at her late home. The burial was in Pine Grove cemetery at Warren.

J. S. Campbell, inspector at the new bridge near the Sayles & Jenks' mill, slipped on a bridge plate Tuesday, striking his head against a sharp edge and cutting a bad gash over his right eye.

At the annual meeting of Forest chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, these officers were elected for 1912: Worthy matron, Miss Esther L. Gage; worthy patron, Charles D. Perkins; associate matron, Mrs. Emily Daley; secretary, Mrs. Abbie F. Maxim; treasurer, Mrs. Nellie F. Adams; conductress, Mrs. Olney W. Phelps; associate conductress, Mrs. Ralph B. Patrick.

Town Clerk William F. Duncan has made his final returns on the dog licenses for this year. He has turned over to the county treasurer $403.80, representing the fees from 203 male dogs and eight female dogs. Last year he turned over $483 for 239 male dogs and 11 female dogs. This shows a big falling off for this year, but Constable St. George, who received the warrant some months ago, feels certain that all the dogs owned in town at present are licensed.

Knowles council, Royal Arcanum, elected the following officers Monday evening: Regent, Charles W. Ball; vice regent, Joseph G. Hastings; orator, Melton Dickson; past regent, Albert B. Patrick; secretary, William C. Gage; treasurer, George Bliss; collector, Edgar J. Buck; chaplain, Edward L. Fosket; guide, Noah Avery; warden, Robert P. Bestick; sentinel, Jesse T. Leonard; trustees, Charles H. Walker, Walter A. Putnam and John M. Drake; delegate to grand council, William C. Gage; alternate, Charles W. Ball. The officers will be installed in January.

Many Children Are Sickly.

Mother Gray's Sweet Powders for children break up Colds in 24 hours, relieve Feverishness, Headache, Stomach Troubles, Teething Disorders, and Destroy Worms. At all druggists, 25c. Sample mailed FREE. Address, Allen S. Olmstead, LeRoy, N. Y.

PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM
Cleanses and beautifies the hair. Promotes a luxuriant growth. Never Fails to Restore Gray Hair to its Youthful Color. Cures scalp diseases & hair falling. 50c. and $1.00 at Druggists

Bay State Drug Co.
Palmer
Chocolates 20c

Select, hand-dipped, in 1 lb. dainty boxes. Our Regular 40c packages.

Special for Saturday, Dec. 16th

Largest and Best Equipped Drug Store Between Worcester and Springfield

GALE BROS.

Carry a full line of CIGARS in Holiday boxes. FRENCH BRIAR, MEERSCHAUM and CALABASH PIPES, CIGAR HOLDERS and CASES.

A big line of CHRISTMAS POST CARDS.

Corner of Main and Central Sts., Palmer

W. D. Kinsman Co.,
SPRINGFIELD.

We are showing some especially attractive boxes of Holiday Stationery at 25c, 50c and 75c a box.

The Art Goods section offers a multitude of novelties for gifts at 25c, 50c, 75c, 98c each.

This Store Over-flowing with the Good Things That Interest Gift Seekers

HANDKERCHIEFS ALWAYS PLEASE

You will find this store thoroughly prepared with the greatest collection of linen and embroidered kerchiefs we have ever shown.

There are splendid pure linen kerchiefs for Men and Women at 12 1-2c, 25c, 38c and 50c each.

Choice linen kerchiefs in initialed corner styles at 12 1-2c, 25c, 38c and 50c each.

Pretty lace trimmed kerchiefs at 12 1-2c, 25c, 38c, 50c, upward to $3.75.

Many of these styles come by the box in neat attractive gift boxes.

In addition to the regular line of handkerchiefs offered, there is a special sale of importers' sample kerchiefs.

Sample kerchiefs at 12 1-2c, 19c, 25c and 38c each.
Savings from 1-3 to 1-2 under regular.

HOLIDAY APRONS IN CHOICEST AND DAINTIEST OF MATERIALS

Pretty lace and embroidery trimmed aprons at 50c, 75c up to $2.50 each.

DAINTY MUSLIN UNDERWEAR
A Mighty Assortment To Choose From

Pretty, soft Lingerie gowns at 98c, $1.25, 1.50 and 1.98. Fine dainty combinations, 98c, $1.25, 1.50 and 1.98. All can be had in neat gift boxes.

GLOVE NEWS WILL BE FOUND EQUALLY IMPORTANT

Solve the gift problem by giving good dependable gloves as gifts in one or two pair of a kind or even more. You will find the good kinds that have made the Kinsman store famous for years. We mention a few qualities:

The Dianna two-clasp Lamb Skin Gloves with fine embroidered stitched backs in black, white and all desirable shades. $1.00 per pair.

The Windsor one-clasp medium weight French kid in all colors. $1.25 per pair.

The Monopole two-clasp fine embroidered backs, real, French Kid in all sizes and shades. $1.50 per pair.

HOSIERY A PRACTICAL GIFT THAT PLEASES

A special purchase of sample hosiery is on sale here at very special prices.

Sample hosiery at 12 1-2c, 17c, 25c, 38 and 50c per pair. A gift box free with every three pair purchased.

THE BELLE WAISTS ARE MIGHTY ATTRACTIVE

A new shipment landed with us this week of the famous Belle Waists. Each one in an attractive gift box. Belle Waists at 98c, $1.25, 1.50, 1.98 and upwards to $5.98 each.

W. D. Kinsman Co., Springfield

Thorndike
Three Rivers
Bondsville

Many items of interest from these busy villages.

THREE RIVERS.

Wilson Clark is ill at his home on Palmer street.

Mrs. P. Senecal is ill at her home on Pleasant street.

Cosmos Zerhoski spent Sunday with friends in Ludlow.

Ralph Trueman spent Saturday with friends in Gilbertville.

Adrian Garvaise has resigned his position in the Palmer Mill.

Walter Herran is seriously ill at his home on East Main street.

Paul Rollet of Bourne street is visiting friends in New Hampshire.

Victor Fournier of Bourne street spend Sunday with friends in Ware.

Edward Picotte of Belchertown spent Sunday at his home on School street.

Miss Nellie Fogarty of Amherst spent the week-end at her home on Bourne street.

Misses Rachel Shaw and Kathryn Hartnett spent Sunday with friends in Westfield.

Moses Smith of Springfield spent the last of the week at his home on Palmer street.

Walter Root and Adrian Gervais have opened a store, dealing in teas, coffees, etc.

Miss Jessie Perdy has taken a position as clerk in the Woman's Shop in Springfield.

William Ritchie sustained a slight injury to his foot while at work in the Palmer Mill.

Alcide Barber of Willimantic spent the first of the week at his home on Bourne street.

Frank Fleury has taken a position as trap drummer in the Bijou moving picture theater.

Mrs. Merrill of Collinsville, Ct., is the guest of her daughter, Mrs. P. C. Story on Maple street.

James Draper of Willimantic spent a few days this week at his home on Prospect avenue.

Joseph Gibeleau of Willimantic spent the first of the week with his family on East Main street.

Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Goldberg of Main street are receiving congratulations on the birth of a son.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Prendergast and daughter Mary spent Sunday with friends in Warren.

Steve McAdam of Gilbertville spent the week-end at the home of Mrs. McGee on High street.

George Murdock of Gilbertville spent Sunday at the home of Mrs. William Twiss on Palmer street.

Robert Morrison of Gilbertville spent the past week at the home of William Vennert at Cheneyville.

C. W. Darling is putting in the foundation for his ice-house at the pond on Springfield road.

Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Flebotte of Indian Orchard were the guests Sunday of relatives in this village.

James Cassels of West Springfield spent the last of the week with his family on the Belchertown road.

Miss Nellie Coffee of Thorndike spent Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Connor on Palmer street.

Joseph Draper of Prospect avenue has resigned his position in Willimantic and taken one in the Palmer Mill.

Miss Lizzie Sullivan of Thorndike spent Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Sullivan on Main street.

The bridge has been completed at Barrett's Junction and the Italians who have been employed there have left.

The Ladies' Aid society of Union church held a successful Christmas sale Wednesday evening in Ruggles hall.

Louis Murdock of Gilbertville was the guest the first of the week at the home of Miss Maggie McGee on Kelley street.

Arthur Raymond has returned from a stay of several months in Maine, and is at the home of his aunt on Bourne street.

Mrs. George LaDuke of Thorndike spent the first of the week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lupien on Kelley street.

Mr. and Mrs. James Anderson and daughter Marion were the guests Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Cleland of Wilbraham.

Raymond Warriner and friend of Springfield were the guests Sunday of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Warriner on Maple street.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde M. Howell have gone to Sharon, N. H., where they will remain for a few weeks, going from there to St. Albans, Vt.

The Three Rivers Soccer team was defeated by the Gilbertvilles on the Gilbertville grounds Saturday afternoon by a score of 5 to 3.

Mr. and Mrs. James Coe of Springfield are receiving congratulations on the birth of a daughter. Mrs. Coe was formerly Miss Grace Cushing of this village.

The High Rollers defeated the Crescents Wednesday evening in a close match on the bowling alleys. In another match the Brunswicks took two points from the Mohawks.

BONDSVILLE.

Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Holden spent Wednesday in Boston.

Mrs. F. E. Albro returned Monday from a visit with relatives in Springfield.

Mrs. George Bray of Stafford was a guest this week of Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Holden.

Miss Hazel Giroux of Three Rivers spent Sunday with Mrs. James Fitzgerald.

Mrs. Elizabeth Thompson is a guest this week of her son, Fred Thompson in Palmer.

Miss Mildred Hartwell of Greenfield was a week-end guest of Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Davis.

Emerson J. Loy attended a meeting of the Grand Chapter of Masons in Boston Tuesday.

Mrs. George Adams and children were guests Thursday of her sister, Mrs. Clayton Cole.

The children of the Methodist Sunday school are rehearsing for the Christmas exercises.

Miss Lulu Austin has taken a position in the office of Dr. S. A. Mahoney in Holyoke.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Potter of Springfield were guests Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Albro.

Miss Sarah McGrath and Miss Rose McNerney of Ware spent Sunday with Miss Annie Fitzgerald.

Misses Mollie and Nellie Mansfield were recent guests of their sister, Mrs. Frank Summers in Springfield.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel J. Brosnan spent Tuesday evening with their daughter, Mrs. John A. Shea.

Misses May and Ella Brosnan and Etta Riley were guests of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Shea over Sunday.

C. D. Holden assisted with his magic at an entertainment given by the Red Men in Palmer Tuesday evening.

R. F. Collins, who has been ill for several weeks at R. L. Bond's, was able Monday to resume his position in Holyoke.

Mrs. Faunce of New Bedford, who has been a guest of her son, V. C. Faunce, for several weeks, returned home Monday.

Mrs. W. B. Kerrigan of Forest Lake District was a guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Sullivan of Collis avenue recently.

Fred Walker, the electrician at the power house, is moving his goods from his former home to one of the company's tenements last occupied by the Polish priest.

Work has commenced on the New Hampden railroad and is being pushed rapidly. Several shanties have been built for the employes and everything points to a busy winter.

The Ladies' Aid Society will meet next Wednesday with Mrs. V. C. Faunce. These ladies will serve: Mrs. Henry C. Morgan, Mrs. W. H. Morse, Mrs. George Moulton, Mrs. O. A. Parent, Mrs. Harvey Randall.

R. L. Bond, in company with Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Cordner of Longmeadow, are meeting with good success in their new undertaking, the North Eastern Lunch Room, which they opened a few weeks ago in Montreal, Canada. The lunch room is similar to some of the Springfield restaurants, but is the first lunch room of the kind to be opened in that city. H. Craig of Howard street, Springfield, is the manager.

The children of the public schools who received prizes for the best plates of potatoes at the Palmer Fair in October were much pleased this week to receive their checks. Olin White took third prize and received a check for 50 cents. The fourth prize was taken by John White, who received 25 cents. Joseph Cavin and Patrick Brown each received 25 cents.

The subject of the sermon next Sunday morning at the Methodist church will be "The coming of the King," Sunday school will convene at 11.45. The library, which has been closed for two weeks while new books were being placed on the shelves and marked, was opened last Sunday for the distribution of books. Evening services will be omitted on account of the mass meeting in Palmer at the Congregational church, to which all the men of the parish are cordially invited.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

F. J. CHENEY, & CO., Toledo, Ohio

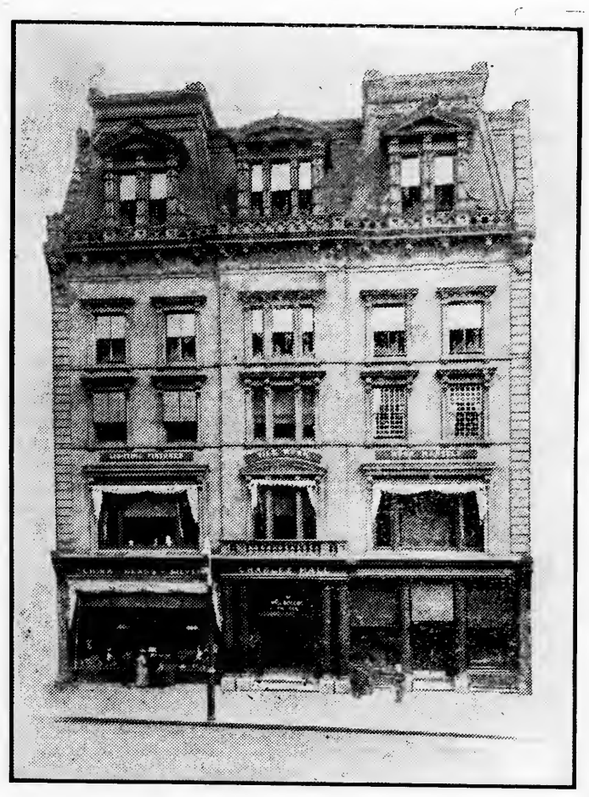
Sold by Druggists, 75c.

Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

The quicker a cold is gotten rid of the less the danger from pneumonia and other serious diseases. Mr. B.W. L. Hall of Waverly, Va., says: "I firmly believe Chamberlain's Cough Remedy to be absolutely the best preparation on the market for colds. I have recommended it to my friends and they all agree with me." For sale by all dealers.

WHAT LISZT DID FOR MUSIC

His Compelling Personality, Genius and Inspiration Made Possible the Later Wagner.



But he introduced into the musty academic atmosphere of musical Europe a strong, fresh breeze from the Hungarian puzta; this wandering piano player of Hungarian-Austrian blood, a genuine cosmopolite, taught music a new charm, the charm of the unexpected, of the improvised. The freedom of Beethoven in his later works and of Chopin in all his music became the principal factor in the style of Liszt. Music must have the shape of an improvision. In the Hungarian rhapsodies, the majority of which begin in a mosque and always end in a tavern, are the extremes of his system. His orchestral and vocal works, the two symphonies, the masses and oratorios and symphonic poems are full of dignity, poetic feeling, religious spirit, and a largeness of accent and manner. Yet the gypsy glance and gypsy voice lurk behind many a pious or pompous bar. Apart from his invention of a new form—or rather the condensation and revisal of an old one—the symphonic poem—Liszt's greatest contribution to are is the wild, truant, rhapsodic extempore element he infused into modern music; nature in her most reckless, untrammeled moods he interpreted with fidelity. But the drummers in the line of moral gasoline who controlled criticism in Germany refused to see Liszt except as an ex-piano virtuoso with the morals of a fly and a perverter of art. Even the piquant triangle in his piano concerto was suspected as possibly suggesting the usual situation of French comedy.

The Liszt-Wagner question no longer presents any difficulties to the fair-minded. It is a simple one, for men still living know that Wagner, to reach his musical apogee, to reach his public, had to lean heavily on the musical genius and individual inspiration of Liszt. The later Wagner would not have existed—as we now know him—without first traversing the garden of Liszt. This is not a theory but a fact.—From Franz Liszt—The Real and Legendary," by James Huneker in Scribner's.

Ate Nuts in Church.

The Sunday before Michaelmas day saw, until recent times, a curious custom at Kingston-Thames. The parishioners attended in force at the parish church, armed with nuts, which they cracked and ate throughout the service. "Nut cracking," however, was not peculiar to Kingston. Goldsmith makes his Vicar of Wakefield say of his parishioners: "They kept up the Christmas Carol, sent true-love knots on Valentine morning, ate pancakes at Shrovetide, and religiously cracked nuts on Michaelmas eve."—London Chronicle.

Charles Hall,
The Hall Building
Springfield, Massachusetts.

Five Floors of Fine Christmas Merchandise

The Christmas Gift Store

Up to the Last Minute

You can buy gifts of distinction and value here with comfort and the positive assurance that they will be in every way acceptable to the recipient.

Dressing Table Silver	Sterling Silver
Leather Wares	Imported Pictures
Glassware in Variety	Vases and Ornaments
Chafing Dishes and Percolators	Lamps
Smokers' Accessories	Fireplace Furnishings
Desk Furnishings	Silver Plated Ware
Furniture—Antique and Modern	Table China
Foreign Fabrics	Various Imported Novelties

We emphasize the fact that innumerable desirable things may be found here from 25c up.

360 Main St. Springfield.

MILLINERY

Great Ribbon Sale
During This Week

Thousands of pieces of narrow Christmas RIBBONS, plain and fancy, for tying up your Christmas parcels.

For FANCY WORK there are hundreds of pieces of Dresden, Brocaded, Oriental and Gilt Ribbons marked for this sale at less than half-price.

S. LEVISON
THE LEADING MILLINERY HOUSE

True Bros. Jewelers
"The Jewel Store of Springfield"

HERE'S THE REASON FOR THE INCREASING POPULARITY OF TRUE BROS'. STORE

We carry not only a very large stock of silver, watches, jewelry, cut glass, hand-painted china and novelties, but it is widely varied in price, everything, at the same time, being of the very best grade. The Christmas stock is one you should certainly see.

408 Main St. Next Haynes Hotel.

A Gift That Shows Thoughtfulness-

And a gift that cannot fail to please is a suit, skirt or waist pattern from the well-known

Ridgewood Cloths

Weaves and colors are varied and pleasing. We keep in touch with the latest style ideas, make our own woolens and worsteds, import finest Irish and French linens and sell direct by mail or in the factory salesroom. Call or write for samples.

Ridgewood Mills,
639 Main St., Holyoke, Mass.
Not open Saturday afternoons.

Johnson's Bookstore
BOOKSTORE BUILDING,
391 Main Street Springfield.

Some of the Notable Christmas Gifts at Johnson's Bookstore
Among Our 50,000 Books

		Postage.
Plain Towns of Italy,	$4.00	15c
The Great Lakes,	2.00	14c
Arctic Prairies,	2.00	16c
Life of Bret Hart,	3.00	16c
Gideon Welles Diary,	10.50	ex.
Life of Whistler,	3.50	16c
Grimm's Fairy Tales,	6.00	25c
Shakespeare's Tales,	2.00	18c
Gallery of Girls,	3.00	15c
"The Harvester,"	1.35	12c
"A Weaver of Dreams,"	1.50	12c
"A Likely Story,"	1.35	12c
"Team Mates,"	1.12	12c
"A Graduate Coach,"	95c	12c
"Jester of St. Timothy's,"	1.00	12c
"Betty Wales Decides,"	95c	12c
Books For Boys and Girls,	25c up

First Floor

Among Our Art Goods

Wallace Nutting Tints,	$2.00 up
Brown-toned Sepias,	50c up
Masterpieces in Color,	1.50 up
Pictures for Little Spaces,	30c up
Charming Child Pictures,	50c up
Splendid German Posters,	10.00 up
Austrian Opalescent Vases,	65c up
Dainty China,	1.00 up
Japanese Baskets,	1.25 up
Art Brass Novelties,	35c up
Brass Desk Sets,	3.00 up
Separate Desk Pieces,	75c up
Imported Post Cards,	5c up
Special Gift Rosary,	5.00
Gold Chain Rosaries,	1.00 up
White Prayer Books,	35c up
Religious Pictures,	50c up

Second Floor

Remarkable Toys

Ives Electric Railways,	$5.50 up
Wind-up Railways,	1.00 up
Steam Engines,	1.00 up
Electric Engines,	1.00 up
Moving Picture Machines,	1.00
Magic Lanterns,	35c up
Steel Building Outfits,	2.00 up
Splendid Blocks,	5c to 6.00
Flying Toys,	5c to 5.00
Dolls,	10c to 4.00
Doll Houses,	25c to 2.00
Automobiles,	6.00 to 12.00
Irish Mails,	5.50
400 Kinds of Games,	5c up
Real Grocery Stores,	15c to 2.00
Picture Books,	5c up
Paint Boxes,	up to $2.00

Basement

Hundreds of Other Gifts

Webster Dictionaries,	$3.50 up
Boxed Stationery,	40c to 3.75
Beautiful Calendars,	10c to 2.50
Safety Razors,	5.00
Pocket Cutlery,	25c up
1912 Diaries,	10c to 2.00
Shopping Bags,	3.00 to 20.00
Cameras,	1.00 to 65.00
Fountain Pens,	50c to 30.00
Christmas Letters,	10c up
Cards and Postals,	1c up
Book Racks,	35c to 5.00
Decorations and Favors,	5c up

THREE FLOORS, 150 PEOPLE
COME, AND BRING YOUR FRIENDS

Books Stationery Pictures
Prompt Attention to Mail Orders,

Furniture for Gifts
Always Appreciated

3-PIECE PARLOR SUITE.
With loose cushion seats in green velour, mahogany finish frames, $22.50

ARM CHAIRS AND ROCKERS
In quartered oak, birch or mahogany---at
$4.95, 6.75, 7.50, 8.50 and 12.60

CHILDREN'S ROCKERS AND CHAIRS
At $1.25, 1.50, 1.75, 2.25 and 3.75

Extra Special For Christmas 200 Boudoir Clocks, 33-hour guaranteed movements, six styles to choose from—at 85c, 95c, $1.10, $1.35 and $1.50

BISSELL'S CARPET SWEEPER $2.50 and 3.00

25 MISSION LAMPS, GAS OR ELECTRIC $3.00 each

DOLL'S BEDS
With mattress and pillows, in solid mahogany, mission or enamel finish, Colonial designs, at $3.60, 4.00 and 5.40

FLINT & BRICKETT
Opp. Court Sq. 439 Main St., Springfield.
COMPLETE HOUSE FURNISHERS.

Give Your Boy a Start in Life

A Savings Bank deposit book will make him the finest kind of a Christmas present, and provide him with a nest-egg which may be of the greatest value to him in years to come, when he wants to go to school or start in business.

Money in your pocket is earning nothing. In the Savings Bank it is working all the time for the depositor---whether he is well or sick, working or idle, asleep or awake --- and steadily adding to the original. Do you know that a sum of money deposited in the Savings Bank and left alone will double in 20 years?

Start a book for your boy now, what you can afford, whether the sum be large or small. He will be grateful to you in time to come.

Palmer Savings Bank, Palmer, Mass.

Safe Deposit Boxes to Rent.

A Yuletide Home-Coming

By Charles McCabe

THE club looked just the very thing Gerald Mannersley was craving for—a sense of home.

A few lines read accidentally in an out-of-date newspaper had made him restless with longing for the old scenes. And so he had traveled two days and nights in a sleeper, vaguely connecting his journey's end with all the love and friendship his starved nature was demanding.

When he arrived at his old club on a chill, grey Christmas morning, it was only to find that fifteen years' silent absence had been too severe a test for friendship. The place was empty of all but servants, and they wore strange, unwelcoming faces.

He stood at the club window, looking out on the desolate, deserted street which he had always remembered as being thronged, and a great sadness swept over him.

This was not what he wanted. From his pocket he drew out the scrap of paper which had really brought him so many miles, and looked at it bitterly. It was only a death announcement cut from a paper of a year ago, and ran in the usual way—"Michael Townley, at his residence," etc.

In fancy he saw a sweet-faced maiden, who sought her happiness only in the eyes of the youth by her side. There were joy-bells there, too, as they left the church with the fragrance of mutual love about them.

The bells pealed on outside, and willing fancy led him still further into the realm of "might have been."

In an instant he made up his mind to visit once more the old-fashioned cottage not many miles away, to which he had hoped fifteen years before to take a bride. He would go and see it, even if its neglected condition only added to his loneliness and pain.

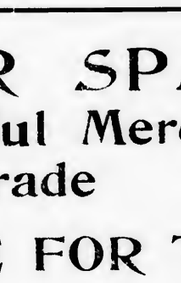
Two hours later he was striding through the crisp country air along a winding path which led to a rambling, ivy-covered cottage.

As the last turn brought him in sight of the house he stopped in surprise. He had expected to see dirt, ruin, and decay, but instead he looked upon a trim, well-kept cottage, and a soft, crooning song, in a voice which reawakened the tender memories of long ago, came floating through the unlatched door.

Half believing that it must be fancy leading him still, he entered the house softly, and, following the voice, went into the inner room, and stood in the glow of the warm firelight.

The sweet, tired-faced, middle-aged singer turned as his shadow fell across the light, and then stood white and trembling.

"Gerald!" she whispered. "Gerald! have you come to reproach me? Not today! Not today!"



The strong man's voice broke as he held out his arms.

"Nance!" he cried joyfully.

In a moment she was crushed, sobbing, to his breast.

"Oh, Gerald! is it really you? God is very good. I thought you must be dead."

For several moments they stood thus, the strong man's tears falling on her grey-tinged hair. Then he gently put her into a chair.

"You are not alone?" he asked as his eyes caught sight of a little table laid for two, daintily spread with Christmas fare.

"Yes," she answered. "I am quite alone. I have often come down here."

"But you are expecting somebody?" he said, calling attention to the table.

She flushed prettily, looking almost as young as she had in his dreams of the morning, as she replied:

"I was expecting you, Gerald."

He smiled happily at her; then the smile faded, and he sighed as he sank into a chair.

"This is all foolishness, Nance," he said sadly. "You could not live here in the old days, you could do so less now, and I could not live here on another man's thousands."

A smile hovered over the woman's face as she flitted here and there, busily preparing things for a meal. Then she slipped behind a chair, and leaning over whispered with burning cheeks:

"Perhaps you do not know, Gerald, that—that Mr. Townley's money goes back to his family if—if I marry again."

The man sprang to his feet and took her into his strong arms again.

"It is not too late," he cried. "We are still young. Will you let me try to make you happy?"

Her answer was drowned in the burst of Christmas bells that pealed from the village church close by. But he did not need her words; he could see her eyes.

MADONNA AND CHRIST-CHILD.

THE FIRST PRESENTS.

The giving of Christmas presents was first introduced by the early Romans They exchanged gifts freely, but in compliance with a sumptuary law they were never allowed to give anything very elaborate. The receiver of a present which was judged too expensive had to offer it up for auction, when it was knocked down to the highest bidder, and the money appropriated by the national treasurer of the period. Consequently, although the Romans continued to distribute their presents in great numbers, they had to confine their offerings to such trifles as jars of olives, napkins, jellied fishes, boxes of toothpicks, candies, cloaks and sweetmeats.

How to Be Rich.

Put all your eggs in one basket, and then place the basket in cold storage. —I. P.

MEEKINS, PACKARD & WHEAT,

Springfield, Mass.

SEVEN ACRES OF FLOOR SPACE

Devoted to a Magnificent Exposition of Beautiful Merchandise Made Expressly For Our Holiday Trade

GIFT SUGGESTIONS IN FINE FURNITURE FOR THE HOME

Music Cabinets

Handsome new designs in Closed Cabinets in quartered oak and mahogany finish.
At $6.50, $7, $9.75

In Solid Mahogany,
At $11.25 and up

Beautiful Inlaid Cabinets,
From $11 up

Ladies' Desks

Nearly 100 different new and graceful patterns in all the popular woods.

In quartered oak and mahogany finish. From $6 up

Special Mission Desk—regular $12 value. At $9

Handsome Desk with mahogany drop leaf, beautifully inlaid.
At $13

Beautiful Colonial design in solid Mahogany. At $13.75

Ladies' Work Tables

Graceful Colonial reproductions in solid mahogany in a variety of handsome styles at
$13, 15, 19 and 22

Special Martha Washington Table in Solid Mahogany, at $15

Colonial Clocks

Tall, stately Clocks in solid mahogany, exact reproductions of fine old Colonial pieces. At $60, 108, 185, 250, 400 and $500.

Parlor Cabinets

Handsome Mahogany Cabinets for the parlor in graceful designs, at
$14, 24, 27, 34 and $43

Beautiful Crystal Cabinets for curios, with Glass Shelves and mirrors, at $24, 32, 43, 45 and $48

Bedside Tables

Bedside Tables, adjustable to any angle and any height—a luxury in the sick room.

With japanned stand and quartered oak tablet, $3.50

In oxidized bronze, $6

Library Tables

Beautiful Library Tables in quartered Oak and mahogany finish, with drawer and undershelf, in plain and rich designs.
$9, 10.50, 11.00, 12.00, 13.75 and 17.00.

A Thousand Christmas Chairs to Choose From

Our magnificent exposition of Fine Furniture brought out expressly for the Christmas trade includes a thousand different Chairs of every kind and description and at every price from the most inexpensive Rocker to the most sumptuous production in solid mahogany, upholstered in the most beautiful fabrics and finest leathers.

Wood Seat Rockers
Handsome Rockers in quartered oak and mahogany finish, with saddle seat.
At $3.25, $4.50 and $5

Inlaid Rockers
Beautiful Parlor Chairs with mahogany panel back, richly inlaid.
At $5.25, $6, $7.75 and $9.25

Roman Chairs
Stately Arm Chairs in mahogany, plain and richly carved.
At $13, $15, $19 and $22.50

Solid Mahogany Chairs
Beautiful Colonial reproductions in solid mahogany.
At $11, $12.50, $16, $17 and up

Leather Seat Chairs
Library Arm Rockers in mahogany or golden oak, upholstered in leather.
At $7.25, $7.75, $9 and $11

Upholstered Parlor Chairs
Handsome Chairs in solid mahogany, richly upholstered.
At $20, $21, $25, $29 and $35

English Wing Chairs
Reproductions of the artistic English Wing Chairs, in solid mahogany with fine cane seats and back.
At $20, 26.50, $32 and $35

UPHOLSTERED WING CHAIRS
Beautiful Arm Chairs and Rockers with solid mahogany frames, upholstered in tapestry and panne plush.
At $24, 30, 35, 40, 46 and 48

RUSH BOTTOM CHAIRS
Exact Colonial reproductions in solid mahogany with rush bottom seats.
At $12, 13.00, 14.50, 16.00

CHILDREN'S CHAIRS
High Grade Chairs in miniature in oak and mahogany finish—our special leader.
$3.50 (express prepaid)

Imported Bent Wood Chairs.
$1.85, 2.35, 3.75 and 4.50

MORRIS CHAIRS
Big, comfortable Library Chairs with massive frames, in oak or mahogany finish with velour cushions.
$10, $10.50, $11, $12.25

These Chairs can also be fitted with handsome cushions in silk, tapestry, plain or Spanish leather.

TURKISH OVERSTUFFED CHAIRS
Turkish Overstuffed Easy chairs and Rockers, upholstered in fine tapestries.
At $30 and $40

Turkish Easy Chairs, fully upholstered in best quality leathers.
At $38, 42, 44 and 48

LEATHER EASY CHAIRS
At $23, 26, 32 and 38

Dressing Tables

Ladies' Dressing Tables in graceful patterns with large mirror.

In golden oak,
$18.50, 19.00, 22.50

In Mahogany,
$13.75, 19.00, 24.00, 25.00, 35.00, 45.00 and up to $64

Tip Tables

Reproductions of Colonial designs in solid mahogany in round and oval shapes.

Small Tables, at
$5.75, 6.75 and 7.25

Larger Tables with pie crust top, at
$13 and 14

Large Round Tables with claw feet and carved top, at
$16 and 17.75

Beautiful Inlaid Table, at $19.50

Nest Tables

Reproductions of the old Colonial Nest Tables, comprising four Tables fitting one within the other, in solid mahogany, at $19.50

Nest Tables, richly inlaid,
$30

Card Tables

Our Special Leader, $1.98

As a special Holiday leader we offer a high-grade Folding Card Table, very strong but very light, with green cloth or leather top.

Regular $3 value at $1.98

The famous Burroughs Feather-weight Table---the very best folding card table ever produced $3.50

Small Rugs Always Suitable

In the realm of practical presents for the home. Small Rugs are always suitable and there are few homes which cannot use to advantage one or more small rugs.

Hartford Saxony Rugs

Hartford Saxony Rugs are the heaviest and most durable rugs made in America and in small rugs this splendid weight is especially desirable.

Hartford Saxony Rugs closely resemble in weave and texture the fine Orientals, after which they are copied, and in rugged beauty and wearing worth the Hartford Saxony Rugs have no equal. They come in a complete range of sizes and our most popular small numbers are : ---

2.3 x 3	2.3 x 4.6	3 x 3	3 x 5.3	3 x 6 ft.
$3.50	5.00	5.00	7.50	8.50

Chafing Dishes

A big variety of handsome designs to choose from --- the very choicest patterns brought out for the Holiday trade by the three leading makers of the country who specialize in these popular dishes.

Copper or Full Nickel-Plated Chafing Dishes in new designs with good burners $4.50, $5, $6.50, $8, $9 and $10

Gifts For the Traveler

In the Trunk and Bag Department

Every one nowadays is more or less of a traveler and every member of the family ought to have his or her individual bag or suit case. In our splendid trunk and bag department you will find everything you can wish for in baggage of every description.

Black Bags From $5 to $35

Black Bags are THE THING this season and we have them in all the popular leathers and in the greatest variety of handsome styles for both ladies and gentlemen.

Black Walrus Grained Leather Bags, hand-sewed and leather lined $5

Ladies' Whip Cord Leather Bags, brass trimmed and leather lined $8.50

More elaborate Gift Bags in fancy black leathers up to $35

Steamer Rugs From $5 to $20

Wardrobe Trunks for Ladies' and Gentlemen from $18 up

The Drapery Department

Piled High With Stunning Christmas Pillows

Never were the fancy Christmas Pillows shown in such a fascinating variety of fabric and form --- Pillows made for beauty and service appropriate for the parlor, the library, the living-room or the den.

Artistic Burlap Pillows at 75c and 85c

Monk's Cloth Stenciled Pillows $1.75

Beautiful Satin Pillows with fancy top $2

Handsome Leather Pillows in illuminated and appliqued designs. At $5 and $5.50

Hand-Painted Leather Pillows in poster designs $5

Red Cedar Boxes for the Chamber

The handsome Utility Boxes and Chests of natural red cedar make a most welcome and practical gift, affording a mothproof receptacle for the wardrobe and a most attractive piece of furniture for the chamber.

We have a most complete line of them in all sizes. Special values at $7.50, 8.50 and 9.50

Meekins, Packard & Wheat, Springfield

A Song for Christmas

CHANT me a rhyme of Christmas—
Sing me a jovial song,—
And though it is filled with laughter,
Let it be pure and strong

Sing of the hearts brimmed over
With the story of the day—
Of the echo of childish voices
That will not die away.—

Of the blare of the tasseled bugle,
And the timeless clatter and beat
Of the drum that throbs to muster
Squadrons of scampering feet.

But, O, let your voice fall fainter,
Till, blent with a minor tone,
You temper your song with the beauty
Of the pity Christ hath shown,

And sing one verse for the voiceless;
And yet, ere the song be done,
A verse for the ears that hear not,
And a verse for the sightless one.

For though it be time for singing
A merry Christmas glee,
Let a low, sweet voice of pathos
Run through the melody.

JAMES WHITCOMB RILEY.

Copyright 1906 The Bobbs-Merrill Co

Children and Christmas in Many Lands

THE little folks of all the world do not keep Christmas as the children of this country do. In fact each land has its own peculiar ways, and our people, being drawn originally from almost every clime, have introduced into our celebration of the day a bit of the Christmas features brought from mother countries. We have the Dutch Santa Claus, the German Christmas tree, the English plum pudding and carols and our own peculiarly lavish gift making.

The boys and girls of far distant countries are spending the day in such different ways that it may prove of interest to young and old to hear something of the distinctive Christmas customs.

THE English Christmas is not unlike ours, save that we do not have their pretty custom of "bringing in the yule." In almost every family in England the boys and girls gather about the burning log on Christmas eve to sing carols and tell Christmas legends. Often the children who live in the country assist at the dragging in of the huge log.

An English child would not feel it was Christmas if there was not a bit of mistletoe hanging in the hall, under which the unwary are kissed soundly. Little and big eat the rich and blazing plum pudding, and all join in the singing of Christmas carols and church going.

CHRISTMAS in Holland is the gala day of the year for the children. They have a pretty custom of ushering it in. Just at midnight on Christmas eve, the men and boys dressed in fancy costume march through the streets in long procession, holding aloft a brilliantly lighted star, as they chant the "Gloria in Excelsis." The little girls clad in white stand at the windows and bow to the star as it passes.

PERHAPS the finest Christmas of all, if not the most lavish, is spent by the children of Germany. It combines the Christ child—which we Americans are prone to forget—and Santa Claus.

The whole day is full of cheer; families feast and go to church; presents are simple, but in every home is a blazing tree hung with cakes, colored candles and gifts. It is a pretty sight to see the children march in to see their tree, singing as they go, "O, Tannen Baum" (O, Fir Tree), to the air of "Maryland, My Maryland."

In many German towns just as the bells ring to usher in Christmas, every window in every house is quickly lighted. Then the children are up bright and early, even the tiny babies, to go to six o'clock church. Often each child bears a candle to illuminate the church.

The German Kriss Kingle has one horrid habit that our jolly old St. Nick would scorn. He generally leaves in the stockings a bunch of switches in case they should be needed before his next call.

THE Servian children have a strange custom. On Christmas Eve the father of the family goes to the wood and cuts a straight young oak, which he drags into the room where the family awaits him, saying as he does so: "Good evening and a merry Christmas!"

Then the children shout back: "May God grant both to thee and mayst thou have riches and honor."

With this they shower their father with corn and the tree is thrown on the fire to burn until Christmas morning, when it is greeted with pistol shots.

THE French children rarely have a tree. Sometimes they hang up slippers to be filled, instead of stockings, and there is great chanting of "Noel, Noel," the Christmas song.

Like the Scandinavian children, little French boys and girls never forget the birds, but instead of placing sheaves of grain on long poles, they are hung along the eaves of the houses.

THE children of Belgium on Christmas Eve are dressed in gay colors and form a procession, which marches through the streets, led by an orchestra and singing carols. Each child holds aloft either a Christchild in a manger or a crucifix.

AMERICAN mothers find one day of Christmas merrymaking distracting enough for their children, how would they like to live in Russia, where work is often suspended for a fortnight, while all the people keep holiday.

Even the poorest peasant has a tree and it is harvest time for beggars, for no one will refuse him anything.

In some of the country districts the boys dress as animals, and led by other boys as keepers, march through the streets headed by a band of boys making dreadful music with harsh sounding instruments. These processions go from door to door, pound until they are admitted, and all given food and drink, and two small pieces of money.

All over Scandinavia a week is given to merrymaking. Every one goes to six o'clock church on the dark Christmas morning, and in the evening every home in the land is illuminated. They have wonderful trees, around which grown people and children dance and sing. The Scandinavian child is very good to the poor on Christmas and takes gifts and food to poor families.

Bulgarian "Koleda."

In Bulgaria "Koleda," as Christians is called, is marked with many quaint ceremonies. One is called "Koledars," the name given to a band of boys, mostly, who go about proclaiming that the season of fasting is over, and heralding a reign of feasting and merriment. Each Koleda party numbers seven—the Old Man, the Old Woman, the Crumb Picker (who collects the presents and money, while the Old Man and Old Woman play the fool), and Four Singers, who carol out the Christmas songs. The attire of the Koledars is most grotesque and their procession is joined by a huge crowd of townspeople who take a great delight in the antics of the jesters.

"Christmas Comes But Once a Year," Says the Old Song

It's too bad it doesn't come more frequently for our pleasure and the pleasure we give; for the joy and goodwill which the season brings and cultivates; but maybe once a year is enough for our pocketbooks.

You'll find this store particularly a place where suitable Christmas Gifts for men and boys may be had; we're giving you a small list following; just a hint of what you'll find here.

Bath Robes,	$4 to $10	Collar Pouches,	$1 to 2
House Coats,	5 to 9	Umbrellas,	1 to 7
Choice Neckwear,	25c to 2	Dress Gloves,	1 to 2
Tie, Hose and Handkerchief Sets,	$1 and 1.50	Lined Gloves,	50c to 5
Tie and Handkerchief Sets,	50c to $1	Fur Gloves,	$3 to 6
Scarf Pins,	50c to 5	Mufflers, all kinds,	50c to 3
Jewelry Sets,	50c to 3.50	Coat Sweaters,	3 to 8
Toilet Cases,	$1 to $10	Slippers,	1 to 2
Military Brushes,	$1.25 to 3.50	Shoes for Men,	$3 to 5.70
Tie and Handkerchief Cases,	$3 to $5	Shoes for Boys,	$1 to 3
		Underwear,	50c to 3
		Fancy Suspenders,	25 to 1.50
		Pajamas,	$1 to 5
Suits,	$3 to $10	Shirts,	50c to $1
Overcoats,	$3 to 12	Toques,	50c to $1
Reefers,	$5	Caps,	25c to $1
Knee Pants,	50c to 1.50	Hockey Caps,	50c
Pajamas,	50c and $1	Underwear,	25c to $1
Night Robes,	50c	Gloves,	25c to $1
Shoes,	$1 to 3	Sweaters,	$1 to $3
Rubbers,	75c and 85c	Waists,	25c and 50c
Neckwear,	15c and 25c	Scarf Pins,	25c
Blouses,	50c to $1	Collars,	10c and 15c
Stockings,	15c and 25c	Suspenders,	15c and 25c
Bath Robes,	$3

Suits and Overcoats, $10 to $45

For Men

The one difficult thing, with a man, is to find out what he really wants. Come in here and look over a store full of things that he'd like to have, without asking him any question.

If he doesn't own a good bathrobe, for instance, there's a luxury he'll enjoy. Good neckwear is always acceptable; any of those personal, intimate belongings are good. We'll show you a lot of nice things when you come in.

The W. J. Woods Co.,

Corner of Main St. and Harrison Avenue, Springfield, Mass.

Rhyme of the Man Shopper

By Wilbur D. Nesbit

It is a pallid, weary man;
He stoppeth one of three.
"By thy white cheek and blazing eye,
Now, wherefore stoppest me?"

"Oh, sir!" the worried man exclaimed
"I fain would have thee tell
Where I may find within this store
The things they have to sell."

For it was in a Christmas store
That all of this took place.
'Twas there the frenzied man was seen
With hopeless, troubled face.

The stranger man would fain begone
From him of haggard eye;
Besides, the aisle was crowded with
The folks who would go by.

"I pray thee," said the stranger man,
"Go chase thyself from me."
"Ah, sir," the other man implored—
A woeful wight was he.

"A tortoise comb, a pair of skates,
A whole carload of toys,
Some things beside for all my friends,
And for their girls and boys.

"And here I am; and I am here;
The things—oh, where are they?
For male and female clerks conspire
To hide from me the way.

"But this I know, and this alone;
Three aisles across, then back,
Four counters down, one counter up,
Then double on your track.

"The elevator takes you next,
To land you otherwheres,
And when you weary of its crowd,
You amble down the stairs.

"But still—but still, my honest friend,
You do not reach the goal.
'Tis always 'on the other side,'
It is, upon my soul!

"So here am I, and I am here,
And you are standing by,
I care not where the things may be,
But where the deuce am I?"

They led him to an ambulance,
Although he did resist,
And now in padded cell he cons
His Christmas shopping list.

He shrieks upon the midnight clear,
And on the noonday air:
"Three aisles across, two counters back,
Then up and down the stair!"

Oh, foolish men, take heed of this,
Before you go to shop,
And when you [illegible] the outer door,
Tear [illegible] stop.

Must Fight Them Off.

As soon as a man becomes rich he finds it necessary to have himself surrounded by a guard whose duty it is to repulse the people who wish to make him richer.

Lynde & Gould

Our Line of Christmas Goods

Is the largest and best ever and we ask you to call early and examine before purchasing elsewhere.

Toilet Cases, Manicure Sets, Traveling Cases, Military Brushes, Shaving Sets, Safety Razors, Mugs and Brushes, Mirrors, Pocket Books, Card Cases, Christmas Stationery in Fancy boxes, Fountain Pens, including The Waterman, Conklin, Paul E. Wirt and Moors, Playing Cards in cases, including Bridg whist, Kodaks and Photographic Goods, Musical Instruments, Christmas Boxes for including gifts in all sizes.

We always carry the largest and best line of Chocolates in Fancy Christmas Packages. Cigars in Christmas Packages, including all the popular brands, Pipes, Smoking Sets and Cigar Cases.

We are showing the largest line of Cards and Calendars ever.
We take orders and deliver Ice Cream in bricks and bulk.
We take subscriptions for all Magazines and Periodicals.

Reliable Goods. Lowest Prices

Lynde & Gould

The Druggists, Stationers and Newsdealers

Nassowanno House Block, Main Street, Palmer

Pearl Divers in Australia.

The Queensland (Australia) diver gets into his dress at daybreak, steps onto the ladder over the side, and fastens the life line around him; the tender screws on the face glass, the pumps are started and down goes the diver to look for shell. If he is on ground where shell is plentiful he fills his bag, then allows his dress to fill with air, which brings him to the surface, when he is hauled to the boat by the life line. He empties his bag onto the deck and goes down for another sackful. Some of the divers occasionally work in 25 fathoms.

The greatest danger with which the diver has to contend is paralysis, and knowing the risk he runs he sometimes demands $1,000 in advance, and this amount is sometimes lost to the pearler through the zeal and daring of the diver.

"Of Two Evils."

Willie—"Did you have an appointment with my sister?" Mash—"Yaas, I did." Willie—"Now I know why she went out in the rain."—Judge.

Suggestions For Yuletide:

TOYS,	WAISTS,
BOOKS,	FANCY HANDKERCHIEFS,
GAMES,	FANCY NECKWEAR,
MUFFLERS,	TOILET CASES,
SWEATERS,	SILK PETTICOATS,
	SILK HOSIERY.

We have appropriate gifts for all. Be sure and do your shopping early.

Hellyar's Bargain Store

Converse House Block, Palmer, Mass.

Monson News.

Springfield Team Wins.

In a fast and cleanly played basketball game, the Springfield Y. M. C. A. Independent team defeated the Monson team in Memorial hall last night by the score of 24 to 14. The Springfield team showed better condition and team work than the local team, who have not practised together this season, and this was only their second game. A game will be played with this same team later in the season and an effort made to reverse the result. Collis excelled for the visitors, while Griffin and Clancey held the honors for Monson. Line up:

Independents.	Monson.
Buscall, lf	rb, Rourke
McCarthy, rf	lb, G. Taylor, Faulkner, Entwistle
Collins, c	c, Durkin
Hennessey, lb	rf, Giffin
Lowry, rb	lf, Clancy

Score: Independents 24, Monson 14; baskets from floor, Collins 4, McCarthy 2, Buscall 2, Lowry 2, Giffin 4, Clancy, Faulkner; baskets on free tries, Collins 4, Giffin 2; free tries missed, Collins 3, Giffin 3; fouls called, on Monson 7, on Independents 5. Referee, Ellis; timer, C. Faulkner. Time, 15-minute halves.

Foresters Hold Reunion.

Wiseman court, M. C. O. F., held a very successful and enjoyable reunion in St. Patrick's parish hall Monday evening. Many prominent Foresters from out of town were guests of the evening. H. I. S. Timothy Collins of Springfield and H. O. S. Joseph Brennan of Boston, High Court officers, addressed the court, as did also D. H. C. R. Miss Kathryn Fitzgerald. Hon. John F. Malley of Springfield was most enthusiastic and very eloquent in his address. After a musical program, which included piano duets, selections by a ladies' quartette of Wiseman court, and vocal solos, a buffet lunch was served.

Academy Faculty Entertained

Miss Holmes entertained the faculty of Monson Academy Saturday evening at her home. Mr. Frye of Boston impersonated "The man from home," which the audience greatly enjoyed. Miss Cushman and her brother, Thaddeus L. Cushman, entertained on the same evening all the students from Cushman and Morris Halls, 45 in all, so the matrons and teachers of the two halls were able to attend Miss Holmes' party. It is needless to say that the boys also had an enjoyable evening.

Runaway Accident.

A horse owned by William H. Howe of Moulton Hill caused considerable excitement on Main street for a time Tuesday afternoon. The animal was left standing in front of the post office, when it became frightened by a passing electric car and started to run. It went as far as the Academy Hill, where it was stopped. The wagon was entirely demolished, but the horse sustained no injuries beyond a slight cut on one leg.

Auto Destroyed By Fire.

Fisk G. Rogers of this town had his automobile completely destroyed by fire in Danielson, Ct., Wednesday while driving through that town on his way to Monson. The fire was started by a leak in the gasoline tank and all efforts to extinguish it were in vain. The car was a $1500 touring car and was insured for half value.

Mrs. Emma J. Converse is visiting relatives in Amherst.

Monson Academy closed yesterday for the Christmas vacation.

Mrs. John Broadfoot of Amherst is spending a few days in town.

Miss Wingate and Miss Holmes are spending a few days in Boston.

Mr. Van Allen of Albany, N. Y., has been spending a few days in town.

Thomas J. Crowley was drawn for juror at the last meeting of the selectmen.

Miss Annie Welsh of Reynolds avenue is visiting friends in Worcester.

Mrs. Guy Pelton of Green street attended the Grange convention in Worcester this week.

Edwin White, who has been visiting his mother on High street, has returned to Williamsburg.

F. L. McQuaid, who has been visiting his parents on Elm street, has returned to Springfield.

The Monson basketball team will go to Lee Christmas, where they will play their first out of town game.

Ralph Rathborne of Springfield spent Sunday with his mother, Mrs. Belle Rathborne on Pease avenue.

Thomas Crowley of this town has been drawn as juror for the Decembef sitting of the superior court.

Miss Elizabeth Welch has returned to her home in South Monson, after a ten-days' trip to New York city.

There will be a meeting of Monson lodge of Odd Fellows next Monday evening; officers will be elected.

Jeremiah Lyons has resigned as engineer at the Crescent Woolen Co., and is succeeded by Walter Dalton.

The North and South Whist Club met with Mrs. Thomas Faulkner at her home on High street Tuesday evening.

S. F. Cushman Jr. of Amherst College is spending a few days with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. F. Cushman on Main street.

Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Ricketts of Main street have been called to El Dorado, Ohio, by the death of Mrs. Ricketts' mother.

A supper will be served in the Congregational church this evening from 6.30 o'clock until 8 o'clock followed by an entertainment.

Miss Olive Taylor, accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Mary Taylor, of South Main street, has returned to her home in Wilder, Vt.

The Junior Endeavor Society of the Congregational church held a social in the parlors of the church Tursday evening from 6.30 to 8 o'clock.

John O. Murray has resigned his position as overseer of the Arrow-Head farm and has been succeeded by Charles Thomas of Holyoke.

Mrs. Katherine Gebhardt and son and Miss Alice Corcoran of Bridge street have returned from a visit with relatives in East Longmeadow.

Miss May Powers of Norwich, Ct., and Miss May Egan of Windsor Locks, Ct., spent Sunday as the guests of Miss May Pendergast on Pearl street.

Mrs. Charles Morris of South Monson is ill with pneumonia. She was removed to the Springfield hospital Monday under the direction of Dr. C. W. Jackson.

The Current Events Club will meet Monday afternoon with Mrs. E. B. Porter on North Main street. The subject, "Current Events," will be in charge of Mrs. G. T. Fuller.

The Dorcas Society met Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. L. C. Flynt on High street. Miss Margaret Henry gave an address on her work among the mountaineers of Tennessee.

There was a good attendance and a generous sum was realized at the food, fancy articles and ice cream sale held in the Methodist church Tuesday afternoon under the auspices of the T. C. S. C.

The Fortnightly Club will hold a meeting with Mrs. E. B. Potter at her home on North Main street Monday afternoon. The subject "Current Events" will be in charge of Mrs. G. L. Fuller.

The new bungalow store opposite the soldiers' monument is progressing rapidly and will soon be finished. It will be stocked with a variety of things the first part of January and ready for customers.

The Dorcas Society of the Congregational church will give a supper in the church parlors this evening at 6.30, to be followed by an entertainment which will consist of a series of stereopticon pictures entitled "Familiar scenes and faces."

The Men's Club of the Congregational church met in the church parlors Monday evening. John Callahan, principal of the Holyoke grammar school, delivered a very interesting speech on "Burgoyne's Surrender in the Revolution."

The Wide Awake sewing circle held a sale of fancy articles at the home of Mrs. J. C. Bradway Wednesday evening. A fancy quilt, which was made by the members of the circle, was sold at auction. Refreshments were on sale during the evening.

Court Monson, Foresters of America, are making arrangements to have an anniversary banquet on the evening of February 15. The committee of arrangements have been appointed as follows: James Burdick, Ralph Darling, Morris Moore, Robert E. Green, and William Bowden.

The Century Club met Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. F. S. Homer on High street. The following papers were read: "The administration of Jackson, 1844 to 1850" by Miss Tucker; "Telegraph, telephone and cable," Mrs. A. J. Buffington; "Nathaniel Hawthorne" by Mrs. H. W. Lancey.

The following officers were elected by the Woman's Relief Corps Wednesday evening: President, Mrs. Nettie Aldrich; senior vice president, Mrs. K. B. Munsell; junior vice president, Mrs. Sarah Beckwith; treasurer, Miss Mary Fuller; chaplain, Mrs. W. H. Horton; conductor, Mrs. E. S. Howlett; assistant conductor, Miss Lizzie Lull; guard, Mrs. Della Flynt.

A. A. Gage camp, Sons of Veterans, elected the following officers Tuesday evening: Commander, L. B. Alberty; senior vice commander, F. J. Flynt; junior vice commander, W. O. McEwan; treasurer, L. R. Munsell; secretary, A. L. Noyes; camp council, Morris Moore, W. G. Norton and William Moffet; delegate, Robert E. Green; alternate, Elmer S. Harris.

At a meeting of Marcus Keep, Grand Army post, Monday evening, the following officers were elected: Commander, Thomas A. Mills; senior vice commander, John C. Maguire; junior vice commander, Andrew Hodge; officer of the day, Charles Abbott; quartermaster, Frank Wood; chaplain, George Seymour; officer of the guard, William Charles; surgeon, Dr. G. E. Fuller; quartermaster sergeant, Joseph Davis; sergeant-major, Williard Nelson.

Court Monson, Foresters of America, nominated the following officers at their regular meeting last evening: Chief Ranger, Nathaniel McAuliffe; sub-chief ranger, Morris Moore; treasurer, James Burdick; financial secretary, Ralph Darling; recording secretary, Robert Green; lecturer, Edward Madelle; trustee for three years, John McCarthy; senior woodwards, James Murphy and William Bowden; junior woodward, Daniel Seannell; senior beadle, Henry Nobert; junior beadle, John Thacker. A committee was appointed to make necessary arrangements for an anniversary banquet, which is to held on the evening of February 15.

Academy Notes.

At a meeting of the Athletic Association Tuesday morning the following were awarded their football letters; Capt. Harold Smith, Frederick Oefinger, Elliott Bowker, Leon Dunbar, Paul Francis, Harry Elliott, Alexander Bates, Frank Barnikow, Robert Taylor, Henry Lechman, Earl Harper and Manager Flynt. A. D. Norcross presented the letters, speaking a few appropriate words to each man.

DON'T EXPERIMENT

You Will Make No Mistake If You Follow This Advice.

Never neglect your kidneys.

If you have pain in the back, urinary disorders, dizziness and nervousness, it's time to act and no time to experiment. These are common symptoms of kidney trouble, and you should seek a remedy which is recommended for the kidneys.

Doan's Kidney Pills is the remedy to use. It has cured many stubborn cases in this vicinity.

Can Palmer residents demand further proof than the following testimonial?

Mrs. G. H. Taylor, 23 Church St., Thorndike, Mass., says: "I willingly confirm all I said in praise of Doan's Kidney Pills when I publicly endorsed them some years ago. I was in misery from kidney complaint and I was unable to turn in bed without grasping something for support. I was rarely free from pain and I knew that something must be done. Being advised to try Doan's Kidney Pills I obtained a box and the first few doses had a beneficial effect. I continued taking this remedy and before long I was free from pain and enjoying good health."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name — DOAN'S — and take no other.

Our Christmas Offering

Is especially to women who are in a quandary as to what to select for HIM. They are cordially invited to come here and settle the men folks' presents question most satisfactorily.

OUR SHIRTS, NECKWEAR, BATH ROBES, SOCKS, GLOVES, SUSPENDERS, ETC.

Are pretty enough to please the daintiest woman, and sturdy enough to please the most manly of men. Come choose your gifts at the place

Where Men Come to Choose For Themselves.

Jones & Stevens,
Successors to the Geo. F. Emmons Co.
PALMER, MASS.

REPORT OF THE CONDITION OF THE PALMER NATIONAL BANK, at Palmer, in the State of Massachusetts, at the close of business, December 5, 1911.

Resources.

Loans and discounts	$268,740.75
Overdrafts, secured and unsecured.	375.44
U. S. Bonds to secure circulation	100,000.00
Other bonds to secure Postal Savings	7,000.00
Bonds, securities, etc.	246,311.25
Banking house, Furniture and Fixtures	4,000.00
Other real estate owned	2,414.75
Due from approved reserve agents	38,851.97
Notes of other National banks	505.00
Fractional paper currency, nickels and cents	450.55
Lawful Money Reserve in Bank, viz:
Specie $14,284.60
Legal-tender notes 41,712.00	55,996.60
Redemption fund with U. S. Treasurer (5 per cent of circulation	5,000.00
Total	$729,646.31

Liabilities.

Capital Stock paid in	$100,000.00
Surplus fund	30,000.00
Undivided Profits, less expenses and Taxes paid	25,266.99
National Bank Notes outstanding	99,500.00
Due to other National Banks	3,038.22
Due to Trust Companies and Savings Banks	39,161.98
Dividends unpaid	43.50
Individual deposits subject to check	379,922.82
Demand certificates of deposit	32,203.73
Cashier's checks outstanding	326.17
Deposits of U. S. disbursing officers Postal Savings Deposit	182.90
Bills payable, including certificates of deposit for money borrowed	20,000.00
Total	$729,646.31

State of Massachusetts, County of Hampden. ss.

I, L. J. Brainerd, Cashier of the above-named bank, do solemnly swear that the above statement is true to the best of my knowledge and belief.

L. J. BRAINERD, Cashier.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 9th day of December, 1911.

CHAS. L. WAID, Notary Public.

{Seal}

Correct—Attest:

C. A. LEGRO,
HENRY W. HOLBROOK,
JOHN F. FOLEY. } Directors.

"THE LINEN STORE"
Frank K. Confield, Prop.

Anniversary Sale

Liberal reductions from regular prices on

TABLE LINENS,
FANCY LINENS,
HANDKERCHIEFS
and
FRENCH UNDERWEAR

Christmas Shoppers will do well to attend this sale.

"THE LINEN STORE"
121 State St. Springfield.

FORBES & WALLACE,
Springfield, Mass.

DEPARTMENTS OF HOUSEFURNISHING AND INTERIOR DECORATION

Fine Gift Furniture

Gifts of Furniture have a particularly strong appeal. When chosen with thoughtfulness there are few things that give greater pleasure. Our Furniture Floor is crowded with suitable gifts for every need. We have selected for special mention the following especially appropriate and pleasing articles. All are of exceptionally good design and construction, worthy of expressing the Christmas Spirit.

Colonial Sewing Tables in solid mahogany, in various styles, with drop leaves and large and small drawers, at $10.50, 16.75, 21.98 and upward

Solid Mahogany Butlers' Trays, inlaid with satinwood in beautiful designs. Usual $8.00 and $9.00 values, at $5.98

Solid Mahogany Tip Tables in exact reproductions of the popular Old Colonial designs. Plain and inlaid effects at $6.75, $7.48 and $9.50

Mahogany Music Cabinets in unusually pleasing designs, at $7.98, $8.50, $9.98 and upward

Book Blocks of solid Mahogany; plain solid blocks and column effects, both plain and fluted, $1.98, $3.48 to 9.98

Square Top Folding Card Tables in oak and mahogany, at $2.19

Costumers or Clothes Trees of solid mahogany, made especially for us. They are the kind usually sold for $8. Our special price, $5.98

Book Racks in Mission, Golden Oak and Mahogany, and some with brass ends. $1.75, $1.98 to $4.25

Brass Candlesticks in quaint old English designs, $1.69, $2.50, $3.00 to $5.00

Handsome Mahogany Pedestals in rich designs, $2.75, $4.75 and $5.98

Over 200 Odd Chairs in mahogany and mission effects, Hepplewhite, Sheraton, Chippendale and Colonial designs, $7.98 and up

Muffin Stands of solid mahogany, at $10.50

Tall Colonial Hall Clocks in handsome designs, $29.75, $39.75 to $82.00

4th Floor.

Pictures --- Ideal Gifts for Many

ETCHINGS ENGRAVINGS
WATER COLORS
OIL PAINTINGS
HAND COLORED PHOTOS
CARBONS
COPLEY PRINTS
PHOTOGRAPHS
PHOTOGRAVURES
FACSIMILES
ENGLISH PRINTS
MOTTOES

In the Picture Store are hundreds of the newest and most popular pictures, as well as reproductions of the masterpieces of all times. Some of the pleasantest hours of your Christmas shopping should be those spent in choosing from this fine collection.

"Hanging of the Crane" and "Home Keeping Hearts," by Taylor—Copley Prints, in oak and walnut veneer frames, at $1.98, $2.98 and $3.48

Hand Colored Nature Prints in panel effects with dainty gilt frames, woodland and water scenes, special at 39c

Mottoes and Passepartouts, a large assortment of subjects, at 10c and 25c

Japanese Paintings in many different effects, attractively mounted, at 25c, 48c and 59c

A large assortment of Carbon Copies of the best-known paintings in veneer frames, size 18 x 20 inches — "The Dutch Mill," "Christ in the Temple," and others, at $1.48

Handsome Venetian Prints, in burnished gold frames, $1.98

Popular Pictures by C. Cowles Phillips and James Montgomery Flagg in dainty enamel frames, at $1.25

Sir Galahad, St. Angelo, The Forum and Coliseum---carbon prints in fine oak frames, at 79c

FRAMING ORDERS should be placed immediately. We do framing in an artistic manner and at fair prices. We have a very large variety of mouldings to select from.

3d Floor

Christmas Bargains in Oriental Rugs

A special offering of high grade pieces, mostly in the medium sizes, which are especially desirable for Christmas presents.

The lot includes Kazaks, Sarouks, Moussouls and Kurds. Former prices were $19.00, $20.00 and up to $27.50. Marked for special selling at $16.95

Also a lot of small Oriental Rugs, formerly $12.75 to $16.50, at $9.98

Home Presents in the Drapery Store

For the woman who delights to make her home beautiful; for the boy or girl away at school or college; for the bachelor or bachelor girl; what better present can be chosen than something to lend additional beauty and comfort to their surroundings?

Marquisette Curtains in Arabian shade, 2 1-2 yards long, all hand made and trimmed with Marie Antoinette and Arabian braids, $5.00, $6.00, $6.50 and $8.50

Beautiful Irish Point Curtains in white, 3 yards long, at $3.00, $3,50, $3.75, $4.00 and $4.50

White Cluny Curtains, 2 1-2 yards long, usual $3.00 grades, at $2.50

Moquette Couch Covers and Table Covers, in rich designs and colorings, $9.00 and $15.00

Screens in golden oak, mahogany and mission frames, with three or four folds, $2.50 and up

Waste Baskets, matting covered and mission styles, 87 1-2c, $1.50, $2.00 and $3.00

Nursery Boxes, in attractive hand painted designs, some mounted on wheels, $1.50 to $6.00

Utility and Shirt Waist Boxes, covered with matting and bamboo trimmings, also cretonne covered, at $2.00, $3.50, $4.50, $5.00, $6.00 and $6.50

Real Cedar Chests in a large assortment of styles, some made with trays --- in natural mahogany and walnut finish with brass trimming, at $8.50 to $16.50

Pillow Tops in silks and satins and tapestries, many effective designs, 50c to $2.00

Bed Sets in Renaissance and Marie Antoinette motifs, finished with circular flounce, $1.25, $2.50, $3.00 and $4.50

Christmas Offerings of Fine Linen

Our Linen Store is widely known for the superiority of its Linen, for the extraordinary range, variety and completeness of its stocks, and for the remarkable values it offers in high grade pure flax fabrics. Among the scores of choice gifts which this collection suggests are included the following exceptional values:—

Pillow Cases with embroidered initials, one pair in a box, very special value at $1.25

Damask Towels, a fine lot on special table, at 3 for $1.00; each 37 1-2c

Dutch Linen Centerpieces, in three colors, natural, blue and green, each 75c

Japanese Hand Drawn Scarfs and Squares, a new lot of the splendid values we have been selling at 50c

Japanese Hand Embroidered and Scalloped Scarfs, special at $3.50, $4.50, $5.50 and $6.50

All-Linen Pillow Cases with heavy embroidery, full size, pair, $2.00

Hand Embroidered Madeira All-Linen Napkins, one dozen in a box, for $3.00

12-inch Round Cluny Pieces, all-linen, value 50c, special 25c

Initialed Face Cloths, 3 in a box, each cloth in a sanitary wrapper, box 39c

An extraordinary display of Cluny Pieces, including Scarfs, Centerpieces, Doilies, Table Cloths and Napkins, at very low prices.

Main Floor, Pynchon-St. Building

Santa Claus' Treasure Box

By J. F. HENDERSON

Copyright, 1911

HRISTMAS was at hand, and Philip Draper's heart was heavy. For a number of years he had seemed to be the particular pet of misfortune. As an artist his work displayed the magic touch of genius, and he was in a fair way to achieve fame and worldly success when the first of a series of calamities befell him. Soon after Philip's marriage to pretty Lucille Girard, his father failed in business and died within a month thereafter, leaving nothing but a mass of debts as a legacy to his son.

Philip, who had just been taken into partnership with his father, and whose outlook on the future was tinged with the color of the rose, was crushed by this blow; but with a quixotic sense of duty he set himself the tremendous task of paying off the debts of the firm. To accomplish this he had nothing to depend upon but the sale of his pictures; yet, year in and year out, he toiled on stubbornly and uncomplainingly, while he and Lucille and their little boy were deprived of many of the comforts of life that the bulk of his earnings might go to his creditors. The house in which they lived was a roomy old mansion on the outskirts of the city, left to Philip by a maiden aunt, who had passed away since the death of his father, and which Lucille had persuaded him not to sell. This house, by the way, had originally belonged to an eccentric old sea captain, Jeremiah Suggs by name, who was reputed to be something of a miser, and who lived and died a recluse.

The crowning calamity came to Philip Draper when the debt was all but cleared off. It was then he was overtaken by a wasting illness, which kept him confined to his bed for almost a year, and leaving him destitute. The butcher and the baker threatened to deny him further credit, and his home was heavily mortgaged. The outlook was gloomy.

"And tomorrow is Christmas," he remarked to his wife, with a grim smile.

"Never mind, dear; let us hold fast to our courage," said Mrs. Draper, trying to speak cheerfully, though there was an ominous quaver in her voice.

"What hurts me most is the thought that Christmas is so close at hand and that there will be no Santa Claus for Bobby."

"Poor, little dear!" said Mrs. Draper. Suddenly she started up with an anxious glance about the room. "I wonder where that child can be? I haven't seen him for at least two hours."

"Oh, don't be alarmed. I dare say he is rummaging about in the cellar or attic, or some out-of-the-way closet, and is wholly absorbed in his investigations."

Mr. Draper had hardly finished speaking when Bobby popped into the room, held out a grimy little fist, and, as he opened the chubby fingers, revealed a twenty-dollar gold piece lying on his upturned palm.

"Money!" gasped Philip. He snatched the coin and examined it critically.

"Where did you get this? What does it mean?"

"I found it in the attic!" explained Bobby. "There are lots more there. Come on, I'll show you where."

The next moment the father and mother, each grasping a hand of the frightened youngster, were hastening up the stairs. When they reached the attic the whole astounding truth was laid bare to them. Bobby had been rummaging, as usual. Finding a loose brick in the crumbling masonry of the big chimney, he had pulled it out and made a startling discovery.

"I wanted to find out how Santa Claus comes down the chimney," said the boy, regretfully. "I didn't mean to do any harm—"

An exclamation from his father interrupted him. Philip, tearing away the bricks to enlarge the opening, had thrust his arm into the cavity and drawn forth two small boxes, accompanied by a shower of yellow coins. Among them was a scrap of paper on which was written:

"I have no heirs, no kith nor kin. This property goes to the finder, and may he enjoy it. It consists of $30,000 in gold and government bonds, and twice that amount in gems.

"JEREMIAH SUGGS."

Bobby was the hero of the hour, and the rejoicing that followed may better be imagined than described. Was it a merry Christmas for the Drapers? Ask Bobby, who firmly believes he found Santa Claus' treasure box.

Day-Craft Art Novelties
Third Floor

Albert Steiger Company
THE WOMAN'S STORE.
Springfield, Mass.

Day-Craft Art Novelties
Third Floor

Fifty Thousand Square Feet of Floor Space Devoted To the Sale of Gift Things

A Veritable Storehouse of Holiday Articles for the Men, Women and Children of Western New England

Our Holiday announcement is, as always, an announcement of added room for gift displays. We've expanded within the year past, over ten thousand square feet have been added to our store area. But even that fact doesn't fully measure our added capacity for service during the Holiday period. We've broadened and amplified our stocks, embarked more fully in the displays of purely gift things and devoted every inch of dormant space to the sale of active Holiday lines. Not that we've neglected those practical things of every-day use—we still recognize the tendency of the times to make useful gifts paramount. So you'll find our special gift box houses score on score of practical gifts throughout our stocks. All in all our displays of dainty Holiday gifts are fitted to make even Santa Claus himself open his eyes.

PREPARATIONS ARE COMPLETE STOCKS AT THEIR BEST

There's Every Reason Why You Should Make Selections Right Now

Note the Many Suggestions Our Jewelry Section Offers

HANDSOMELY MOUNTED Rosaries of amethyst, sapphire, emerald, garnet and opal, with 5-year guaranteed chains. Regular $1.50 value—Special $1.00

STERLING SILVER LA VALLIERES in a variety of popular stone settings. Regular 75c value—Special 50c

ROLLED PLATE BRACELETS in a variety of patterns and sizes. 75c value 50c

A NEW AND DISTINCTIVE ASSORTMENT of German Silver Mesh Bags in a variety of designs and sizes, kid-lined with pocket. $4.00 value $2.98

A LARGE ASSORTMENT OF IMPORTED Bead Bags in a variety of styles, sizes and colors. Ranging from .....50c to $35.00

GERMAN SILVER MESH BAGS, silk and kid-lined, with a large assortment of pretty frames and a variety of prices.

PRETTILY MOUNTED BROOCHES in a wide variety of styles and designs. The quality is excellent and a kind that wears well—Choice, 50c

Main Floor.

Our Toilet and Notion Sections Combine in Forming a Perfect Mecca of Gift Articles

STERLING SILVER TOILET AND Manicure Sets .....$5.00 to $20.00

STERLING SILVER PUFF JARS, Hair Receivers, Military Brushes and separate Manicure pieces.

PERFUME ATOMIZERS, 50c to $1.50

SPECIAL PARISIAN IVORY VANITY Boxes with puff and mirror combined. 25c

STERLING SILVER DEPOSIT WARE consisting of dishes, plates, vases, toothpick holders, glasses, pitchers, creamers and almond plates, also perfume bottles and pin holders 50c

EGYPTIAN IVORY FRAMES, ALL sizes, round, oval and square, 25c, 50c and $1.00

STERLING SILVER PICTURE Frames, all sizes, round, oval and square .....29c to $2.50

BOXED PERFUME — COLGATE'S, Hudnut's, R. & G., and others of good make .....25c to $1.50

QUADRUPLE SILVER PLATED Toilet Sets, including Comb, Brush and Mirror $5.00

FANCY HOSE SUPPORTERS IN Christmas boxes for women and children, 25 and 50c

CHRISTMAS POSTAL CARDS IN A large assortment. A dozen, 10c

EATON, CRANE & PIKE'S BEST WRITING Paper in fancy boxes. 25c

FANCY BACK AND SIDE COMBS AND Barrettes, inlaid with gold and stone settings, all styles and shapes, 50c to $5

JEWEL CASES IN GOLD AND SILVER, all sizes, 25c to $2

PUFF AND POWDER BOXES, HAIR Receivers, Pin Cushions and Candlesticks, 25c upward

Main Floor.

PICTURES IN VARIOUS SUBJECTS, all styles of frames, small and large. 15c, 25c, 35c and 50c

CUPID IN SEVERAL STYLES OF FRAMES—oak and gilt finish, 25c to 50c

CALENDARS, VARIOUS SUBJECTS, hand colored, 10c

We've Gift Hosiery for All the Family Graced with Pretty Christmas Boxes

WOMEN'S PURE THREAD SILK Hose, in light, medium and heavy weight, pr. ...$1.00, $1.50 and $2.00

WOMEN'S PURE THREAD SILK Hose with hand embroidered lace ankle effects and in all colors and styles, pr. .....$1.50 to $3.50

WOMEN'S BLACK LISLE HOSE with colored embroidered ankle effects and in various styles and designs, pr. .....50c, 75c and $1.00

WOMEN'S BLACK LISLE HOSE with high spliced heel and double garter top in a medium weight, pr. 50c

WOMEN'S BLACK LISLE HOSE of medium weight and lavender tops, three pr. in box $1.00

WOMEN'S PURE THREAD SILK Hose with double cotton sole, high spliced heel and garter welt—Special, pr. 50c

CHILDREN'S WHITE AND Colored Wool and Silk and Wool Stockings, in Xmas boxes, 2 and 3 prs. in box $1.00

MEN'S HOSE, TOO, IN A variety of styles and weights and in all sizes and prices.

Handkerchiefs in Countless Assortments The Best the World Produces

THE FAR FAMED "SUN-SPUN" linen in all its beautiful effects for women, at, each .....25c and 50c

MEN'S INITIALED CORNER Kerchiefs in a fine linen, 12½c, 6 in box, 75c

MEN'S PLAIN LINEN KERchiefs, at10c, 12½c, 19c, 25c, 33c, 50c, 75c and $1.00.

MEN'S PLAIN SILK HEMstitched Kerchiefs, 50c, 75c and $1.00

WOMEN'S FINE SHEER AND Cambric Kerchiefs of all linen and hand drawn hemstitched, 10c, 12½c, 19c and 25c

WOMEN'S REAL ARMENIAN Kerchiefs, 25c, 39c, 50c, 75c and $1.00

WOMEN'S LACE TRIMMED styles in the daintiest of patterns, 12½c, 25c and 50c

CHILDREN'S PLAIN AND Fancy All-linen Kerchiefs 5c

CHILDREN'S INITIALED HANDkerchiefs in boxes of six, 19c and 25c

THOUSANDS AND THOUSANDS of other styles that are equally attractive.

Main Floor.

Linens and Domestics, Too, Offer Much in Completing the Shopper's List

HAND EMBROIDERED MADEIRA Lunch Napkins, full size with scalloped or hemstitched edge, doz., $3.00

PLAIN SCALLOPED EDGE, A T, doz. $2.75

CLUNY CENTER PIECES IN HUNdreds of new styles and sizes from 4-inch up to 54-inch; also a full line of Scarfs and Sideboard Covers.

GUEST TOWELS IN A SHOWING OF wide proportions—hemmed, at 10c, 12c and 15c

HEMSTITCHED, PLAIN AND FIGured Huck, at ..25c, 29c, 39c and 50c

SCALLOPED AND HEMSTITCHED with hand embroidery ....50c and 85c

FAMILY AND HOUSEHOLD Towels in a large assortment, including all of our own importations. Extra values at ..25c, 39c, 50c, 75c and $1.00

Main Floor, Rear.

Women, Children, Bachelor and Benedict Share Alike in Our Umbrella Offerings

MEN'S GUARANTEED FAST Black American Taffeta Umbrellas with mission and boxwood handles —Special $1.00

MEN'S AND WOMEN'S GLORIA Umbrellas with mission and trimmed handles and 26 and 28-inch frames—Very Special at $1.50

WOMEN'S SILK UMBRELLAS IN a variety of colors with a good strong 26-inch frame $2.50

SPECIAL OFFERINGS IN A HIGH grade Silk Umbrella for both men and women, 26 and 28-inch frames and mission and boxwood handles, $3.00

WOMEN'S 26 - INCH COLORED Taffeta Umbrellas of an excellent quality at $2.50

A HANDSOME FULL 26-INCH 8-rib Taffeta Umbrella in black, navy, green and brown. A big special at $3.50

We'll Fashion a Bathrobe to His Measure for $2.00

HERE'S A CAPITAL GIFT. ONE that'll meet with full appreciation. Select your materials from our complete stock of blanket materials, pay for it at the regular price and furnish us with his measurements and we'll present it to you complete for ...$2.00

Main Floor, Rear.

Christmas Waists in Pretty Holiday Boxes

HAND EMBROIDERED WAISTS OF pure linen at .....$1.98 and $2.98

PRETTY CHALLIS WAISTS IN white and blue and brown dots, silk bow ties $3.98

STRIPED FLANNEL WAISTS IN beautiful colorings, tailored stocks with pretty bow tie $2.98

LINGERIE WAISTS TRIMMED with imitation Baby Irish Val lace and touches of hand embroidery $1.98

ALLOVER EMBROIDERED WAISTS trimmed with narrow bands of cluny lace $1.98

NEW LINGERIE WAISTS AT $2.49, $2.98, $3.98 and $5.00

BEAUTIFUL CHIFFON WAISTS AT $5.00, $5.98, $7.50 and $10.00

LACE WAISTS AT $3.98, $5.00, $8.75, $10.00 and up to $45.00.

MESSALINE AND TAFFETA SILK Waists at ..$2.98, $3.98, $5.00 and $7.50

Second Floor.

The Doll Room in the Front Basement Commands Your First Attention

HERE YOU'LL FIND ALL MANner of these cute little creations from the grotesque to the most elegant in doll life.

CHARACTER DOLLS IN BABY boys and girls in gingham rompers and dresses, with unbreakable heads 25c

THE "CAMPBELL KIDS" CHARacter Dolls in all styles and sizes, 50c to $2.00

BABY RAG DOLLS ..25c and 50c

SPEAKING ESKIMO DOLLS IN medium sizes that say "Mamma," 50c and 98c

TEDDY BEARS .....25c to $1.25

DRESSED DOLLS OF THE Blonde and Brunet types and of the "Go to sleep" variety, 98c to $3.75

UNDRESSED KID BODY DOLLS, cork stuffed .....50c to $1.00

VERY LARGE UNDRESSED Dolls, jointed, long, beautiful hair of all colors and of the "Go to sleep" variety. A regular $1.50 value at 98c

TRIPPLE TRAPPLE DOGS THAT walk, four styles and sizes, 98c to $2.49

Our Children's and Infants' Departments Are Resplendent with Both Practical and Amusement Gifts

SKATING AND AVIATION CAPS IN all the different shades and combinations .....50c, 75c and 98c

CHILDREN'S ANGORA SETS CONsisting of four pieces—leggins, sweater, toque and mittens, in red, tan, white and oxford, 2 to 4 years, $5.98 and $7.98

BOYS' WHITE BLOOMER SUITS, 2 to 5 years, Russian and sailor collar models. Embroidery trimmed or plain tailored .....98c to $2.98

BABY DRESSES, 6 MONTHS TO 2 years .....50c to $4.98

CHILDREN'S FRENCH DRESSES, high and low neck models, 98c to $7.98

CHILDREN'S GUIMPES, 4 to 14 years .....50c to $2.98

HAND-MADE BABY DRESSES, $2.98 to $5.98

CHILDREN'S SWEATERS IN RED, oxford, tan and white .....98c to $2.49

BABY SWEATERS, HAND KNIT, $1.50 and $2.25.

BABY TOQUES, IN PLAIN WHITE and dainty combinations ..25c to $1.98

MITTENS .....19c to 98c

BATH ROBES IN DAINTY COLORings of flannelette 98c

EIDERDOWN AND BLANKET Robes, with slippers to match—Robes priced from .....$1.50 to $2.98

Slippers .....75c to 98c

SOFT SOLED SHOES IN A WIDE varlety of colorings ..50c, 75c and 98c

DAINTY SILK HOSE TO MATCH, 50c, 75c and 98c

EIDERDOWN AND KNITTED CARriage Robes .....98c to $3.98

DAINTY PUFFS OF SILK AND Cashmere .....$2.98 to $6.00

FLOATING, JOINTED AND UNdressed Dolls .....25c to 39c

SAILOR BOYS AND GIRLS 25c

LITTLE RED RIDING HOODS, 50c and 98c

BABYLAND DOLLS, GOLF BOY and Girl Dolls 98c

TUMBLING JACKS 75c

TRIPPLE TRAPPLE DOGS, 98c to $3.49

Fourth Floor.

Leather Goods Are Always Acceptable as Gifts and Never Fail to Please

GENUINE SEAL WRIST BAGS with full 6-inch frame with inside purse, leather lined and frames of gilt and silver $2.98

BEAUTIFULLY STYLED WRIST Bags of genuine fancy calfskin, leather-lined and finished with a German silver gilt frame $5.00

VERY PRETTY ENGLISH Morocco Vanity Bags in a variety of dress shades with leather strap handles $3.98

AN ASSORTMENT OF FANCY Wrist Bags, all sizes and styles, leather-lined and finished with both cord and leather straps ..98c

A COMPLETE ASSORTMENT OF Handy Collar Bags of Suede and Leather with draw string. Choice, 98c

A SPLENDID COLLECTION OF Tapestry Belts in the season's most popular styles and finished with buckles of various designs. Boxed ready for presentation ..50c

Many Pleasing and Practical Gifts to Be Found in the Wash Goods Section

PERCALE DRESS PATTERNS 36 inches wide, in a fine line of new styles—8 yards in a pattern, tied with silk ribbon, each $1.00

FLANNELETTE KIMONO PATterns for long and short Kimonos, over 200 styles, all tied with silk ribbon—Special ... .53c and $1.20

SCOTCH FLANNEL WAIST PATterns, all put up in Christmas boxes and tied with ribbon, 3 yards in box. Price $1.25

WE CARRY A FULL LINE OF THE Beacon Bath Robe Flannels, double faced, 27 inches wide and the material used in the blankets. A range of 30 styles, at, yd. 33c

WHITE WAIST PATTERNS IN boxes, in all the new figured madras and shirtings, 27 to 36 inches wide—3 yards in box—Special at 57c, 75c, 87c up to $1.50

IMPORTED EMBROIDERED LINEN Voile and Batiste Waist Patterns, in exclusive designs. All our own importation and one of the finest that we have ever shown—all boxed, at $2.50, $3.50, $4.00, $5.00, $7.50 and $8.50.

Thousands of Dainty Gift Aprons of the Most Distinctive Designs

TEA APRONS MADE OF FINE Muslin—Swiss and crossbar muslin, finished with dainty lace insertions and edgings, rick rack braids and hemstitchings, hand embroidered and buttonhole edgings—Special 25c

APRONS MADE OF FINE MUSlins, regular, double width or reversible style, plain, tucked or with hamburg insertions and hemstitched hems and the new princess effects with bands and ties—Special .....25c, 50c, 75c and 98c

Special 50c Booth in the Suit Department

HERE WE'VE ASSEMBLED IN one grand display, tea, chafing dish, bib and bretelle aprons of the most exquisite designs. They're made of dotted Swiss, the new avon striped material and fine quality muslins. The trimmings are of motifs, lace, eyelet embroidery, embossed insertions, edgings, beading and ribbon. Truly a magnificent assemblage at 50c

WE ALSO HAVE A LARGE RANGE of White Goods for babies', girls' and women's dresses and waistings; also a full line of White Goods for aprons and fancy work, and Handkerchief Linen in all widths and qualities, at, yd. .....50c, 75c, $1.00 up to $2.75

Main Floor, Rear.

Our Fur Stock Is Noteworthy for Its Elegance, Quality, Diversity of Style and Wide Price Range

FUR SETS IN A PLEASING selection of skins—

BLACK WOLF—FROM $25.00 to $40.00

BLACK WOLF—FROM $30.00 to $100.00

NATURAL RACCOON—FROM $40.00 to $50.00

BLACK LYNX—FROM $100.00 to $185.00

NATURAL EASTERN MINK—From .....$89.00 to $325.00

CHILDREN'S FURS—FROM $2.98 to $13.50

EXCLUSIVE STYLES IN BLACK Pony Coats with Skinner's satin lining, shawl collar and frog fastenings, others with opossum trimmings, raccoon and skunk trimmings—From $50.00 to $185.00

OUR NEW SEAL AND HUDson Seal Coats are perfect beauties, being fashioned in the most striking styles. Prices from $50.00 to $225.00

Our Negligee Section Features a Beautiful Assemblage of Jackets, Kimonos and Bathrobes

BLANKET AND EIDERDOWN BATH Robes, high and low neck, newest designs and colors, extra heavy—Special $2.98

BLANKET JACKETS MADE WITH a fitted back, high neck, one style finished with buttonhole edge, and one trimmed with wide satin bands, $1.25 and $1.50

LONG SILK KIMONOS MADE OF Secco Silk, in pretty Oriental and floral designs, with low necks, satin trimmed and finished with bow ..$2.98

MEN'S BATH ROBES MADE OF Beacon Blankets, with wide border around bottom, conventional design, high neck with rolled collar, made very full with pockets and cord at waist, all sizes ..$3.98, $5.00 and $5.98

A FULL LINE OF MISSES' AND Children's Bath Robes, in Blankets and Eiderdown, 6 to 16-year sizes. From $1.98 to $5.98

A SPECIAL BATH ROBE FOR Misses made of both Beacon Blanket and Crepe Eiderdown, deep sailor collar extending to waist line, finished with wide border of stitched satin —Very Special $5.00

CREPE EIDERDOWN BATHROBES with deep sailor collar, bordered with Those come in gray and red $6.98

CREPE EIDERDOWN BATHROBES trimmed with three rows of bias bands to form yoke, also down center of sleeve and around bottom to form cuff, $5.98

BEACON BLANKET BATHROBES med with 3-inch bands of satin around neck and down entire front, kimono sleeve, trimmed with two wide bands of satin $7.98

BEACON BLANKET BATHROBES with border, in conventional design around neck. Trimmings of satin ribbon and sleeves bordered with ribbon and two rows down center of sleeve, finished with cord, loops and buttons, $6.98

"ALL - WOOL" BLANKET BATHRobes, with border, sailor collar and cuff trimmed with 1½-inch band of ribbon, cord at waist $8.98

MESSALINE AND SILK KIMONOS, Empire and Japanese styles plain and accordion plaited skirts, in prices ranging from .....$12.98 to $22.50

CHENEY FOULARD SILK KImonos, new floral designs, in plain and Empire styles; deep sailor collars and round necks, trimmed with frill down front .....$7.98 to $12.98

IMPORTED JAPANESE PADDED Robes, high neck with roll collar, plain colors $8.98

IMPORTED JAPANESE ROBES, collar and cuffs and front hand embroidered .... $12.98 to $15.00

SHORT JAPANESE HOUSE Jackets, hand embroidered around neck, down front and around bottom of sleeves $5.98

Second Floor.

Street and Evening Gloves in a Style Assortment of Most Commanding Proportions

SILK-LINED MOCHA GLOVES, in black, tans and grays. The quality is par excellence $1.50

WOMEN'S FURLINED GLOVES well made and of a splendid wearing quality $3.75

BEAUTIFULLY STYLED 2-pearl button real Kid Gloves, backs in Paris point and fancy embroidered effects. All shades and sizes $2.00

REAL FRENCH KID OVERseam and Plque Gloves with Paris point and fancy embroidered backs. Complete line of colors $1.50

WOMEN'S PIQUE GLOVES with 2-pearl clasp, in blacks, whites, tans, modes, champagnes. Our special Christmas number at $1.25

2-CLASP PARIS OVERSEAM Glvoes, perfect fitting and in a wide range of dress shades—Special for $1.00

The Palmer Journal.

VOLUME LXII. PALMER, MASS., FRIDAY EVENING, DECEMBER 22, 1911. NUMBER 38.

WOODLANDS THREATENED.

Chestnut Bark Disease Prevalent In This Section.

MANY TREES DEAD; OTHERS DYING.

Remedy Impossible. Cutting Trees Only Way to Realize on Them. A Suggestion.

It will not be welcome news to the owners of woodlands hereabouts to learn that their chestnut timber is in extreme danger from the chestnut bark disease. Probably this will be to many the first intimation that the disease has obtained a footing in this section. But that it has obtained, not only a footing but a firm hold, has been demonstrated satisfactorily within a few days by G. F. Allen of the state forestry department. Mr. Allen has charge of the forest fire work in Hampden and Hampshire counties, but has been detailed on the chestnut bark disease during the winter months when the forest fire work is at a low ebb.

With Forest Fire Warden James Summers of Palmer Mr. Allen made an extensive tour and investigation in this section recently, and finds that the disease has secured a firm foothold hereabouts. In some places there are only slight evidences of it, but in others are trees badly affected and many which have already died from the disease. In some localities there is hardly a tree which does not show the disease in some stage, from the earliest beginnings all the way down to dead timber.

It is stated by Mr. Allen that there are concerns which are using chestnut bark for tanning purposes instead of hemlock. Some of these concerns make a specialty of locating mills where the chestnut disease has secured a hold, and using the bark from the diseased trees. Not only the bark is made use of, but the small twigs and small limbs which cannot be worked up into lumber. These are ground up and the product shipped to tanneries. Mr. Allen found so much of the disease hereabouts that he intends to do what he can to induce one of these companies to locate a mill in the vicinity of Palmer. There is so much of the disease in this vicinity that a mill of this kind could be supplied with material enough to keep it running for a long time.

After the disease once attacks a tree the best thing that can be done is to convert that tree into timber as quickly as possible. Trees so attacked die in a short time and the timber then becomes worthless. By the method suggested above the owner would not only get the value of the timber in the tree, but would receive a return from the bark and other portions which he would never realize in any other way. The drawback is that if a tree is attacked by the disease it needs to be cut, whether of sufficient size to convert into timber or not.

The disease is caused by a fungus parasite, which enters the trunk or limbs of a chestnut tree, giving rise to a spreading "sore" which soon girdles the tree. If the part happens to be the trunk, the whole tree is killed, perhaps in one season. If the smaller branches are attacked, only those branches are killed or those portions beyond the point of attack; the remainder of the tree may survive for several years. Limbs with smooth bark which are attacked soon show dead and become covered more or less thickly with yellow, orange or reddish brown spots about the size of a pinhead. If the trouble is on the trunk or large limb with thick bark, there is no obvious change in the appearance of the bark, but the trouble shows in the cracks and the bark often sounds hollow when tapped. The trouble spreads over a tree very rapidly. The spores of the fungus are stieky and are spread through short distances by rain. There is also evidence that they are spread extensively by birds, insects and by squirrels. Once attacked there is little or nothing that can be done for the individual tree, although in some states some measure of control has been secured by quarantine.

Ware Man Badly Hurt.

David Blair of Ware was painfully injured Tuesday while at work in the repair shop of the H. P. Cummings Construction Company, near the railroad station in that town. A heavy piece of machinery was suspended by pulleys, one of which gave way letting the machinery down. Blair was unable to get away and was knocked down unconscious. Dr. W. W. Miner was called and found that he was badly cut about the right side of the face and the right arm. He was removed to his home.

What's The Day Coming To?

A Christmas Letter Written by a Minister to One in Kinship.

PUMPWATER PARSONAGE, TEXAS,
DECEMBER 19TH, 1911.

Dear Sis in Law, and
Sis in fact:—

This is not a Christmas note. I do nothing on Christmas now, unless it be to buneh a few pennies on printing to be delivered January 1st. The common run o' churehes no longer believe in enabling pastors to give Christmas presents.

This whole Christmas business is in the mercenary realm to-day, save the camel's head; they backed him into their old commerical tent. Buy early, buy day after day, twenty-five days ahead! If that isn't enough, newspapers are already to enjoin the use of November also, under the farcical head and guise of mercy to salesgirls. God save us from the money-getter's conception of mercy—mercy to him, mercy to his till, at the expense of our pocketbook pangs! The Christ spirit of benevolenee, ah, the proprietors of the 12th month now halve it and may yet have it. Shop, shop, shop! You must give! Bring at least half of what you give unto us!

Oh, I would like to see one Christmas where it was forbidden by United States law to make any presents save in coin. Then the recipients would get it all, the storekeepers nil,—at least until recipients bought what they wanted and needed. What a blessing would ensue to innumerable families. Yet how many would give anything, if they could not shop? Christmas giving is more than half selfish; the first half goes to the seller; half of the other half to be credited to the propensity to shop; half of the quarter left due to the customary expeetion to receeive, which aets as a compelling force upon donors; and most of the eighth remaining records a desire for tied-up returns. And what's really Christian in this complete operation, those who are able to extraet Christianity out of seawater may have the privilege of asserting.

Yes, I'd like to have a national law passed putting a close time on giving, for five years, so that the real animal would have time to propagate.

We are led by Seripture and by the heart's desire to believe that Christmas was a giving of the Divine Self, for the one purpose of bringing our race into communion with the Father and his righteousness. And what do we find Christmas degenerating into but all sorts of colored-string packages? Heaven save the day! Business blocks decorated, while the dormant ivy clings to our churches, and not always that. The commercial fire inspector placing his veto on the use of a Christmas tree by Sunday schools, but allowing trees in erowded department stores; no chairs in the church aisles, but jammed aisles between the motor and trolley. Bless us all? Whence is to come any legislation in behalf of the original Christmas idea? With that gone I behold Santa Claus becoming fatter and fatter, the abnormal gentleman at least being the father of a sickening revolt against Christmas monstrosity.

Isn't it about time for Teddy the Peaceful to recommend some book for us to read on The Simple Ghristmas? Don't you think the day is here when the Christian churel ought to adopt the wise slogan, BACK TO CHRISTMAS?

Your brother,
YULE YAN.

P. S. The ministers never hang up their stoekings; they have to keep 'em on to enjoy the real Christmas.

Y. Y.

William Rohan Burned By Gas.

William Rohan, proprietor of the Hampshire House in Ware, was painfully injured Wednesday noon. While in the kitchen Mr. Rohan turned on the gas in a gas range and held a lighted mateh to the burner. A loud report followed and Mr. Rohan was thrown aeross the kitehen. He received a severe cut on the forehead, but was able to go to the drug store of C. H. Lemaitre next door, where the cut was dressed, as well as his right hand, which was severely burned. The cut on the head was inflicted by the heavy tin door of the oven, which was violently thrown open by the explosion. It was at first thought that a leaky pipe allowed the gas to collect and the mateh then caused the explosion, but investigation showed no leak, so it is thought that the gas was not entirely shut of.

WILBRAHAM.

Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Files were pleasantly surprised Monday evening at their home on Maple street, the occasion being in honor of the 10th anniversary of their marriage. Refreshments were served and a pleasant evening enjoyed.

Christmas Exercises In Public Schools.

Interesting Programs of High Order of Merit Given Yesterday and To-day in Grade Schools of The Town, Preceding Vacation.

The schools of the town closed this afternoon for the Christmas vacation of one week. In all of the grammar schools Christmas celebrations were held yesterday or to-day, with special programs. In all the rooms the pupils have made various articles to take home, such as calendars, scratch pads, boxes, etc. The celebration of the eighth and ninth grades of the Palmer school was held yesterday afternoon, the others to-day. The rooms were all prettily decorated, and refreshments were served. The celebration yesterday was of a Handel nature, with this program:

Piano Solo, Mendelssohn
Myrtle Johnson
Joy to the World, Handel
Life of Handel,
Charles Agard
Character of Handel,
Rolland Dennis
Works of Handel,
George McMahon
Largo (violin), Handel
Kathleen Farrelly
Piano Solo, Handel
Alice Smith
Silent Night, Haydn
Grade IX
Selection, Rosetti
Mary Sullivan (Grade III.)
Piano Solo, Selected
Earl J. Morgan
Christmas Carol, A. S. Sullivan
Grade VIII
Vocal Solo, Selected
Arthur Myres (Grade VII)
Christmas Song, Adam
Grade IX
Piano Solo, Selected
Dorothy Harris
"Praise Ye the Lord," Palmer
Grade VIII

GRADES 6 AND 7

Poem, "Merry Christmas"
Mabel McKenzie
Chorus, "Silent Night"
"Gifts for the King"
Poem, Una Greene
"O, Come All Ye Faithful"
Solo, Azilda Comfort
"Santa's Goodness"
Poem, William Mumford
"Jolly Christmas"
Chorus, Grade VI
"Jest 'Fore Christmas"
Poem, Charles Burgess
"Beautiful Bells of Christmas"
Duet, Allora Eaton and Hilda Sprague
"The Christmas Vision"
Poem, Lena Buffington
"Hear the Bells of Christmas"
Chorus, Grade VI
"Annie and Willie's Prayer"
Poem, Myrtle Whitcomb
"Christmas"
Song, Grade III
"Christmas Day"
Poem, Pearl Darling
"Star of the East"
Solo, Arthur Myers

GRADES 4 AND 5

Musical Program

"Santa Claus," Grade IV
"Christmas Time," Grade V
"Shepherds Watched Their Flocks by Night," Grade IV
"Christmas," by Mozart, Grade V
"Come All Ye Faithful," Grade IV
"Holy Night," Grade V
Solo, "On Christmas Day"
Gertrude Pasco
Trio, "Tell the Wondrous Story"
Irene Cameron, Pearl Smith, Edith Wood
Solo, "Cradle Song"
Ethel Harris
Solo. "Santa Claus"
Grace Johnson
Duet, "Holy Night" (in German)
Wilhelmina Droege, Elizabeth Rauck

GRADES 2 AND 3.

Song Sing, Little Children, Sing, Grade 3
Recitation Our Saviour, Mary Sullivan
Song Carol, O Carol, Grade 2
Duet Ring, Merry Bells
Rose LeGro, Mildred Nash
Recitation Victor French
Song Christmas Carol, Grade 2
Recitation Grade 11
Duet Myrtle Duncan, Hattie Clark
Song Christmas Song. Grade 3
Recitation Theodore Johnson
Song Santa Claus, Grade 2
Recitation James McMahon
Duet Mary Bradley, Rose LeGro

GRADES 1 AND 2.

Christmas Song Grades 1 and 2
Recitation Edith Trumble
Recitation Robert Johnson
Recitation Frank Burford
Song Up on the Housetops, Grades 1 and 2
Recitation Elizabeth Shaw
Recitation Nellie Smith
Recitation Paul Gray
Recitation Grade 1
Recitation Bertha Darling
Recitation Esther Gullmas
Recitation Karl Rauck
Recitation Dunham Collier
Song Jolly Old St. Nicholas, Grades 1 and 2
Recitation Doris Thompson
Recitation Fred Highbee
Recitation William Rauck
Recitation Frieda Johnson
Song If You're Good, Grades 1 and 2

Three Rivers.

GRADES 6, 7, 8 AND 9.

Piano Solo, Thelma Keith
Song. "Joy to the World," Schools
Life of Handel,
Rose Riddle, Thomas Hartnett
Piano Solo, Hazel Marshall
Quartette. "Calm Was the Night,"
Pupils of Grades 8 and 9
Recitation. "Glorious Song of Old,"
Rex Ruggles
Piano Solo. Lila Coto
Song. "That Dear Little Baby,"
Rachel Cole
Violin Duet,
Elton Chamberlain, Ernest Fenton
"Angel's Chorus," Girls
Piano Solo, Louise Miller
Recitation. "Christmas Carol,"
Mary Bothwell
Christmas Song. Grades 8 and 9
Piano Duet. Thelma Keith, Hazel Marshall
Song. "Silent Night," Schools

GRADES 3, 4 AND 5.

In grades 3, 4 and 5 there were too many recitations to render a union celebration feasible, so all gathered in one room for the singing of songs, returning to the several rooms for the recitations. The musical pro gram was:

Sing. Little Children, Sing.
A Letter to Santa Claus.
The First Christmas.
Shine Out, O Blessed Star.
Christmas Time.
Christmas.
A Wonderful Tree.
A Christmas Song
The Air is Filled with the Echoes.

GRADES 1 AND 2.

Song The First Christmas
Recitation Santa Claus William DeLaire
Recitation Herbert Matchett
Recitation The Christmas We Like, Grade 2
Recitation Miss Blue Stocking, Rose Rolenski
Recitation Ethel Cole
Recitation Santa Claus, Joseph Rukley
Song Santa Claus, Grade 2
Recitation Perhaps, Grade 2
Recitation Lester Calkins
Recitation A Dilemma, Merrill Ritchie
Recitation Christmas Greetings,
Three children of Grade 2
Recitation Sophie Romain
Recitation Willie Barnett
Recitation My Christmas Stocking, Grade 2
Song Christmas Carol, Grade 2
Recitation If You're Good,
Five children of Grade 1
Santa Claus, Four Girls of Grade 2
Song If You're Good, Grades 1 and 2
A Christmas Telephone, Martha Nodolene
Six Christmas Letters, Grades 1 and 2
Santa Claus, George Barber
Song Carol, O Carol, Grades 1 and 2
A Ship from Santa Claus,
Two boys of Grade 2
A Question Mary McCullough
America.

Bondsville.

GRADE 1.

Song Clap, Clap the Hands
Recitation Alice Roberts
Recitation William Russell
Recitation Mary Donovan
Song Jack Frost
Recitation Veralia Monat
Song Lillian Redhead
Song Long, Long Ago
Games
Christmas Tree
Good-bye Song

GRADE 2.

Song School
Exercise
Jerry Spillane, Oliva Beauregard, Leona LaFave, Louisa Kos
Recitation Kate Cresnelviey
Exercise Mary Griffin, Mary Sullivan
Song Madeline Jenkins
Exercise Ovila LaCroix, Timothy Brown
Recitation Irene Walder
Song Frances Shea
Recitation Antolena Zopa
Song William Koboski
Recitation Edward Caven
Song Edith Norcross
Recitation Mary Kos
Song Irene Walder
Recitation Michael Moriar y
Song Irene Walder, Edith Norcross
Recitation David Rose
Recitation Alice Eliot
Recitation Walter McVicar
Song School

GRADES 3 AND 4.

Song The Legend of the Christmas Tree
Recitation A Letter to Santa Claus
Alice Hanifin
Recitation Christmas Speech Homer Cdell
Song Santa Claus
Recitation Christmas Ruth Simpson
Recitation Buying a Christmas Stocking
Greetings Three Girls
Recitation Christmas Wish
Edith McFarlane
Song Letter to Santa Claus

GRADES 4 AND 5

Song Christmas
'Twas the Night Before Christmas
Song Christmas Time
Recitation Dora Heys
Holy Night
Christmas Memory Gems
Hark, the Herald Angels

GRADES 6, 7, 8 AND 9.

Chorus Hark, the Herald Angels Sing
Recitation Just Before Christmas
Charles Donahue
Piano Solo Lenore Shea
Recitation The Bird's Christmas Carol
James Cannon
Piano Solo Harold Griffin
Quartette Like Small Curled Feathers
Recitation Signs of Christmas
William McVickar
Christmas Carol
Piano Solo Lucy Austin
Recitation. Hilda's Christmas
Annie Heyes
Recitation Greedy Jim Harold Griffin
Piano Solo Irene Marsan
Semi-Chorus Holy Night

[Continued on Fifth Page]

Railroad Work Rushing.

Big Gang Pushing One Section of Hampden Road.

Work on the new Hampden railroad has been rushed during the week. A temporary traek has been put in from a point near the Sullivan farm in a westerly direetion. Steam shovels and dummy engines are now in operation and the work is being pushed with all possible speed. Mr. Ryan is superintending the construction and Blakeslee & Sons of New Haven, Ct., are the contraetors. There is a lot of filling in to be done from the Hammond farm to a point in Belchertown near the Doyle farm. A trestle has been erected upon whieh to run cars for the fill, whieh in some plaees will attain a height of 40 feet. The Swift River near the Crotch will be crossed by a bridge and the tracks of the Central Vermont and Athol branch will pass underneath the new road. A large gang of workmen are engaged on the job and many more are to eome. The work will take several months before eompleted, and it is estimated the cost will be elose to $4,000,000.

Christmas at the Post Office.

Rush Began Monday Morning, and Has Increased Daily Since.

Indications are that the Christmas business at the post office will be as large this year as any year in the past. Whether because of the "Shop early" admonitions or for some other reason, the Christmas packages began to pour in on Postmaster Shaw Monday. The flow has inereased daily until this morning he was obliged to put on an additional clerk. The ineoming mail has also been increasing, and an additional carrier was put on to-day. Both will remain through Monday. Only one carrier delivery will be made Monday, but a team will be started in the morning with the paekages, and will work until the load is disposed of.

Yesterday brought the first sizable invoice of Christmas mail from outside, train No. 46 on the Boston and Albany, due here at 8.46 in the morning, bringing 15 sacks and being two and a half hours late.

To Use New Rooms Jan. 1.

Commercial Classes in High School to Have New Quarters.

It is practically assured that the rooms in the addition to the high school building, whieh have been formed out of the assembly hall, will be ready for occupancy on January 1, when school reassembles after the Christmas vacation. They were to be ready for use November 1. The commereial elasses are to be quartered in the new rooms, one being devoted to the class in commercial arithmetic and bookkeeping, and the other to the stenography and typewriting class. The new desks were installed yesterday.

WARE.

Stanley, the five-years-old son of Everett E. Brown, the mail carrier, died in a hospital in Boston last week Thursday after an operation. The body was brought to Ware and burial was in Aspen Grove cemetery.

Mrs. Louis Dusseault, 60, died Saturday morning at her home on Chureh street after a several weeks' illness. She was a native of Canada and came to Ware 44 years ago. She is survived by her husband and four brothers. The funeral was held Sunday afternoon in Mt. Carmel church and burial was in Mt. Carmel cemetery.

Nenameseck tribe of Red Men has eleeted the following offieers: Prophet, George O. Packard; sachem, Daniel P. Griffin; senior sagamore, Charles D. Myers; junior sagamore, H. J. Chenette; collector of wampum, George Haley; keeper of wampum, Henry F. Lamoureux; keeper of records, John A. Reilly; trustee for three years, Ernest E. Barber.

Mrs. Maria Fitzgerald of Park street, a Daughter of the American Revolution, eelebrated her 84th birthday at her home Sunday. Mrs. Fitzgerald was born in Feeding Hills, the daughter of Alexander and Mary Clark Staekweather. She was married in 1846 to Edward Fitzgerald at Chicopee and went to Ware to live. Her maternal grandfather, John Clark, fought at the battle of Bunker Hill.

Division 4 of Hibernians elected the following officers Monday evening: President, James E. Feehan; vice president, Francis T. MeBride; recording secretary, Timothy J. O'Connell; financial secretary, Michael E. Fitzgerald; treasurer, Thomas J. MeBride; sergeant-at-arms, Bartholomew O'Connell; sick visiting committee, T. J. O'Connell, George Brown, James Crystal; employment committee, Charles Connor, J. W. Clark, C. Fitzgerald; literary committee, John J. Kidgell, John E. Fitzgerald, M. J. Stratton; finanee committee, A. J. Champion, J. E. Fitzgeral, J. T. Brosnahan.

MEN AND RELIGION

Forward Movement Attracts Large Audience Sunday.

UNION MEETING OF THE CHURCHES.

Interesting Addresses by Springfield Workers. Mass Meeting For Men Later.

The audience room of the Congregational church was filled to overflowing Sunday evening at the union meeting in the interests of Men and Religion Forward movement. There were present representatives from Three Rivers, Thorndike, Bondsville, Monson, Brimfield, East Brimfield, Ware and Wilbraham. Rev. Frank S. Brewer, pastor of the church, presided and gave an outline of what has been done in town along the lines on which the movement is working. Rev. W. H. Upham of the Bondsville Methodist church read the Scriptures, and Rev. W. L. Jennings of the Brimfield church offered prayer. A male chorus led the singing, and there were selections by a male quartet composed of James Summers, Harold Taylor, Edwin Wells and Erford Corbin. Mr. Lyon rendered a cornet solo and accompanied the organ.

The first speaker was Prof. G. V. Stryker of the International college, Springfield. His theme was "The manifestation of the Son of God." The speaker said that there have been various religious movements throughout the centuries, but this is the latest, and its meaning is the manifestation of the sons of God—as it is distinctly a men's movement, He outlined the origin of the movement and gave a short draft of the seope and plan. It is being conducted along four lines: 1st, the period of education; 2d, preparation; 3d, participation; 4th, Conservation. The purpose of the movement is to bring men and boys to make the will of God the absolute will in their hearts in their everyday life, coupled with service. The work contemplates no new organization, but will work in conjunction with the present churches. It will emphasize the word of God and ask eaeh man to study it earefully, so that eaeh may find his partieular part in life's service. It is intended to assist men in effectively planning and carrying out their Christian service. In closing he pointed out the danger which threatened in the churches failing to follow up the work already begun and so losing the great benefits which they might otherwise acquire.

C. B. Potter of Springfield was the next speaker, and his theme was the timeliness of the movement. Every great need has found some great man or movement to meet it, and the Men and Religion Forward movement is in response of the great need of the country, which in the last 50 years has failed to keep pace in its religious duty. The movement is a frank ackowledgment of the conditions which exist and a determined effort to improve them. It is not proposed to inerease the organizations now in the churches, but to give more power to the present organizations. Not church union but church unity is aimed at. It is a men's movement combining religious faith with a helping hand to fellowmen.

It was announced that a mass meeting for men would be held on the evening of January 3, the plaee to be made known later.

Probate Court Business.

At a sitting of the probate court in Springfield Wednesday the following local business was among that transaeted:

Wills proved of—Catherine Sherman, late of Brimfield, Florence Pearsall of Brimfield, R. G. Sherman and W. H. Peek of New York executors; Lizzie Robbins, late of Hampden, A. G. Robbins of Hampden exeeutor; Franees Dimock, late of Palmer, F. M. Holt of Harwich executor.

Guardianships decreed—W. S. Whiting, an insane person, of Palmer, Sarah Whiting of Springfield guardian; B. W. Charles of Brimfield, H. B. Montague of Southbridge, conservator.

Accounts allowed in the estates of—Ella Horton, minor, of Ludlow; Isola W. Benway, late of Ludlow; Phebe W. Nichols, late of Monson, two aeeounts; E. B. Gates, late of Palmer.

NORTH WILBRAHAM.

Mrs. Henry M. Green has recovered from her recent illness.

Miss Alice Holt has gone to Brockton to spend the holiday.

Clifford D. Speneer, the station agent, is taking a week's vacation and Raymond Pierpont of West Brookfield is acting as agent.

The Christmas Tree Lesson

By Dorothy Blackmore

"IT would be perfect folly, George," the girl was saying.

"Thanks," the man replied, a little hurt.

"You know very well what I mean. It would be foolish—worse than foolish—for us to marry and—it is not because I do not love you, George," she added, earnestly.

"What on earth is necessary—except love?" asked the impatient man.

The girl laughed. "Much—much more," she said. "You admit, for instance, that you are absolutely bored to death in the country, that picnics, any kind of outing where you have to get down to nature is uninteresting to you. Even today you chafe under the discomfort of having to sit on a mossy mound instead of in a mahogany arm chair with a leather hassock at your feet. You would rather hear the clang of a trolley car than the song of a bird; you would rather eat a six-course dinner in a brilliantly lighted restaurant with music and the gay chatter of many companions than sit down quietly in your own home to a simple domestic meal with—with a single woman for a vis-a-vis. While, I—well, set down all the opposites of the things you live for and you have what I like. Don t you see, George?"

For a time the man did not answer. He counted the buttons on his gaiters with the tip of his walking stick.

"Is it as bad as that, girl?' he asked. "Are we as far apart as that?'

Eleanore nodded while she looked straight into his eyes. "We are," she repeated, "even as far as that."

"And there we stand—do we?"

"Yes—you in the city with all the lights turned on you; I in the quiet, peaceful country with only the eyes of my family and my friends to see me and all of nature to commune with.'

"It doesn't look like a very happy prospect for a life together, Eleanore. We're old enough to see that—even in our 20's—aren't we? But oh—" and there was a great longing tenderness in his voice—"I do love you. I do want you, dear."

The girl turned away. Presently she rose to go. There was no buoyancy in her movement. At last the thing she had been fearing had come to pass. They had had their explanation—they had tried to have an understanding as to why they could not marry each other. There was no further hope that he would tire of the life she considered artificial, the life she had been brought up in and—hated Always, she had longed for the country and when she began to realize that she loved George Davidson it was with fading hope that she studied his life, his fancies, his preferences He loved every inch of the merry avenues of the crowded cities, every atom of their existence.

On the way home the man told her frankly that if he could not have her—if she could not marry him and take a chance with it all—he would put her out of his life. He, manlike, was willing to take any chance to have her for his wife; but then she explained to him, he had not given it the thought that was necessary.

"Well, I'll travel." Eleanore told him when they were parting. "I want to see rural France and Germany and—with you out of my life, George—I might be lonely." she said a little wistfully. She looked hastily away that he might not see the effort with which she kept the sparkling tear-drop from tumbling down her cheek 'And—if I find that I can come back and—and live with my ear on the trolley track, I ll—I'll come and let you know Meantime, you shall not know where I am she said, an almost imperceptible break in her voice. She had tried to be gay, but she had failed dismally—and she knew he knew it.

"All right, girl," the man said, holding her hand closely in his own. "Since you're afraid of adding to the long list of mis-mates among our friends—I ll remain as I am. I ll have you or no one, mate or mis-mate. Good-by."

He strode off with never a look behind and she knew he was gone out of her life until—"Oh, forever!" she said, as she dashed away the foolish tears that pushed each other from her eyes.

True to her word, she traveled She journeyed here and there and enjoyed things as only a woman of her caliber can enjoy the beautiful, rare old things she had read of and heard of all her life.

When she returned to her own country it was to take up her profession of tutoring—but in the country this time. She found a home in the rectory of an old church. The minister was a family friend, and she went into the family to tutor his two children with the privilege of having a few others during odd hours in the week.

She spent many happy days with the children; she taught them everything she knew how to teach them, from reading and spelling to French and German, but, most of all, she taught them the love of Mother Nature.

The holidays were drawing near and Eleanore had little time for introspection. She was busy helping the children keep their Christmas secrets, planning for the Christmas tree in the church, making odds and ends to give to friends. For the time, she was almost forgotten.

But when Christmas eve had come and gone and she sat in the small conservatory of the rectory on Christmas afternoon when the children, tired from play, had gone to take an afternoon nap and the good rector with his wife had gone and done likewise, Eleanore began to have that lonely feeling deep within her. She looked out of doors where tiny snowflakes were just beginning to blow here and there as forerunners of a glorious Yuletide snowstorm.

Suddenly, as if to ward off the blues, she sought her cloak and gloves. She would go out in it if only because she could!

Outside, she struck out briskly toward the churchyard where the fir trees were green. There was much of the yard that was made up of beautiful parkways with wonderful blue spruce trees mingled with the old-fashioned green Christmas tree.

It was toward these trees that she walked and with every breath of the soft, moist air, she felt invigorated. The caress of each tiny snowflake as it touched her cheek was sweet to the girl who loved nature.

Presently ahead of her, she saw a group of boys. They seemed to be looking up at a great green fir tree and listening to a man who stood in their midst.

Eleanore drew near. None of the little group had seen her as she walked softly on the snow covered grass. The man—her heart beat wildly—was George Davidson.

Suddenly, as if he felt her presence, he turned. "You,' he cried, "Eleanore." Then, as if remembering the boys, he said, "Boys, I want to introduce you all to Miss Marvelle. Perhaps she can tell you more than I can about—Christmas trees."

Eleanore acknowledged the introduction to each bareheaded lad even while her hand was still in the big warm one of George Davidson.

"It's like this, Eleanore," he was ex-

She Was Not Happy.

plaining. "I've sort of taken up some settlement work on the East side lately, and when one of these boys asked me—not long ago—where the Christmas trees came from I—I felt ashamed to think he had been under my eye and didn't know. He'd never been out of the city in his life—had never seen a fir tree growing."

Eleanore's eyes grew wide with surprise. "Poor lad!" she said.

"Then and there. I promised the whole crowd of boys that on Christmas day I would take them to see a real Christmas tree growing in the earth where it belongs. I told them they should not have their gifts until we stood under one of Nature's own trees and—well, here we are. Aren't we, boys?" he asked, turning to the group of young foreigners who adored him.

'I was trying to tell them about—trees and things and—"

The man broke off lamely.

"And you didn't know very much about them. Was that it?" Eleanore asked, teasingly.

"That's it, exactly," he said. Then he drew near and spoke in an undertone while the lads, feeling instinctively that they were at liberty to roam about if they desired, left the two standing together.

"Is it too late for me—to learn?" he asked.

"No," she said, "but first, I'd like to exchange a few lessons in how to behave in a fashionable restaurant for them," she said.

"Eleanore!" he cried.

"Yes," she admitted, "it isn't so thrilling to sit on the porch all evening and watch the moon come up behind the trees—alone—even if it is Nature. I—suppose we combine our tastes and live in the country, but not so far that we can't get to town whenever we—you, I should say—feel like it."

"I feel now dear, that I never want to see the city again if—if you don't want to," he said. "I'm so weary of living without you that I'd gladly camp under a haystack with nothing but the lowing herd for an outlook if you were with me."

The Angel Doctor's Christmas

By Carl Jenkins

OPPOSITE each other in the cosy morning room sat a young woman and a girl of twelve.

"Now, Cousin Hilda," said the latter, as she smoothed down her dress and settled herself in her chair, "I'm going to begin at the beginning and and tell you all about it, and then we are to go out and buy a Santa Claus present for him."

"Yes, Polly," answered the young woman.

"You had gone to Europe. You had just packed up and skated as if the police were after you. Mother said she didn't believe you wanted to go the least little bit, but that your mother made you."

"Don't talk nonsense, Polly."

"Well. you skated anyhow."

"And don't talk slang."

"Skated isn't slang. It means that you just glided off like a streak of lightning. You had skated and I was lonesome, and I was out walking with poor Flora, when a boy came along with a big dog He was tough. So was his dog. He shouted at me:

"'Take care of your dog!'

"'Why?-' I answered.

"''Cause my dog will chew him up!'

"I was just going to tell him that if his dog did there would be trouble in the camp when it sprang upon poor Flora and ended her life. I can't describe my feelings as I saw her breathing her last"

"Well don't try to—not if there's any slang in it."

"Why, Hilda, I haven't said a slang word. You know how very, very particular mother is with me. No, I can't describe my feelings, but I remember that I went for that boy, tooth and toe-nail I hit and scratched and kicked and bit, and I was doing him up when—"

"Polly Sewell!" exclaimed Miss Hilda in horror.

"Now what's happened?" Polly asked. "I told it to papa just this way. and he patted me on the shoulder and called me good girl. As I was saying I was putting in my best licks when along came a taxi with a fat woman in it. Maybe she was eloping and maybe she only wanted to get home to lunch. Maybe the chauffeur yelled 'Hi!' at me, and maybe he just wanted to kill another girl. However it was, he ran me down. Yes, cousin, I was knocked out."

"You mean you lost consciousness?"

"Gracious, but how ignorant you are for a girl of twenty! Nobody can be knocked out without losing their consciousness. That's the whole idea of it. Yes, I was knocked out and counted out, and when I came to I was in the hospital with three broken ribs. That fat woman must have weighed a ton. It was hours and hours before I came to, and then—oh, then—"

"Then what?"

"Then there was the loveliest angel standing beside my cot in the hospital you ever saw. Nobody knew who I was, and they had rung for the ambulance and taken me to the hospital. And, oh, that angel, cousin—that angel!"

"You mean a nurse, of course."

"I don't. I mean a man—a doctor. He had hold of my hand. He was looking down on me with his sad, sad eyes. I saw at once that he had some great sorrow on his mind. Yes, he had the finest eyes—and curly hair, and a handsome nose, and when he spoke to me there was pathos in his voice. And the fun of the whole thing was that I knew him at once, while he didn't know me from a side of sole-leather. Oh, you are interested, are you?"

"Polly, I was just thinking how frightened you must have been to find yourself in a hosiptal," said the blushing Hilda.

"Oh, I see! Well, save your sympathy. A hospital with an angel-doctor to fix up your broken ribs isn't a half bad place. In fact, I liked it so well that I lied to stay there"

'Polly Sewell!'

"I sure did. They had gone through my outfit without finding my address and had concluded I was a stranger in the town. When I opened my eyes and sort o winked at the angel—"

"Polly that's surely slang!"

"No it isn't I told papa about it, and he said things had come to a pretty pass if a girl with three broken ribs couldn't wink at the angel-doctor who has set them. When I had opened my eyes and winked the doctor said:

"'Little girl, what is your name?'

"'It's Hanah Jones.'

"'And where do wou live?'

"'At far-off Blackberry Corners.'"

"Polly, you ought to have been sent to jail!" was the emphatic comment.

"But I had my little scheme to work, you see. Papa hunted for five days before he found me, and then it was ten more before the angel would let him take me home. Cousin Hilda, a girl who is the real thing can accomplish a heap in fifteen days, even if she has broken ribs. I wanted to have a chat with that angel on outside matters, and I had three or four of them. You ought to have seen his face when I told him where I had seen him before and asked if he didn't remember me."

"But—but I don't—don't—" protested Hilda in a puzzled way.

"But you will in just a minute. I told him I had seen him in this very house! Now, then!"

"Polly, it wasn't—?"

"Oh, it wasn't eh? Want to bet a $20 hat it wasn't? Of course it was, and I was so mad at you that it set my broken ribs back all of three days Dr. Charles Mortimer, and because he isn't rich your mother is down on him and she skated you off to Europe. Oh I got on to the racket right away."

"Polly Sewell, you are a wicked girl! You use slang, and you fib to the doctor, and you meddle with other people's affairs, and—and—"

"And such dark eyes—and such a deep, pathetic voice! And we had several confidential chats together—very confidential. We didn't even let a trained nurse come within ten feet of us. Hilda, you don't know how confidential a girl becomes when three of her ribs are broken and she is afraid to draw long breaths!"

"And—and you talked about—me?"

"We did. I told him just what I thought of your mother, and I told him I was going to have a plain talk with you, and I told him—"

"Polly Sewell, I'll never speak to you again!" declared Miss Hilda as she rose and tried to look very angry.

"You'll have to, as we are going down town right away to buy Christmas presents for your Sunday school kids. I want you to help me pick out something for our angel-doctor."

"You—you can do that by yourself."

"But you can tell me whether the diamonds are all O. K or not. No rhinestones for the angel with the deep, dark eyes. Dear me, while I can't help but grieve about poor Flora's death, I almost wish I could have three ribs broken on the other side!"

"You Mean a Nurse, of Course."

It was three days before Christmas, and the streets were crowded and the stores packed like a ward caucus. It was crowd and jam and push. The cousins had to link hands to prevent separation. They had visited two or three stores and were still in the jam when Polly suddenly disengaged her hand and whispered:

"Watch my hike!"

And ten seconds later she was lost in the crowd, and the angel-doctor and Miss Hilda Fitch stood face to face. They were penned in. They had to lean against a show-case and hold their own. They had to talk and say things, and by and by the angel-doctor had to help select the presents for the Sunday school children and to help Miss Hilda through the jam to a taxi, and—and—

"Say, now," observed the twelve-year-old Polly when she made a call three days later on her cousin, "I don't claim to know everything, but I do know when to—to hike!"

And she wasn't even asked what "hike" meant!

Changes in the Palisades.

The Palisades on the Hudson are slowly changing. To the traveler of a hundred years ago they were a sheer cliff of clean rock rising in a perpendicular line from the water's edge nearly a thousand feet. Now they are buttressed at the foot by immense deposits of broken rock which frosts have peeled from the cliff. Gradually this buttress is growing higher. The upward growth of this supporting pile is due to the trees—evergreens of various kinds—which have grown seemingly right out of the rocks.

"I had been troubled with constipation for two years and tried all of the best physicians in Bristol, Tenn., and they could do nothing for me," writes Thos. E. Williams, Middleboro, Ky. "Two packages of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets cured me." For sale by all dealers.

W. E. Stone & Son, CHRISTMAS.

For Men

Sweaters.
Suit Cases.
Shoes.
Arctics.
Rubber Boots.
Gloves.
Mittens.
Umbrellas.
Caps.
Shirts—all kinds.
Collars.
Neck Ties.
Underwear.
Sleeve Garters in Boxes.
Suspenders.
Slippers.
Handkerchiefs.
Cigars.
Shaving Mugs.
Razors.
Moustache Cups.
Night Shirts.
Ash Trays.
Jack Knives.
Flemish Mugs.
Cuff Links.

For Women

Sweaters.
Wrappers.
Handkerchiefs.
Night Robes.
Table Linen.
Napkins.
Down Pillows.
Pillow Tops.
Towels.
Aviator Caps.
Yarns.
Aprons.
Bed Spreads.
Table Cloths.
Lace Curtains.
Corsets.
Tea Sets.
Dinner Sets.
Toilet Sets.
Kitchen Ware.
Jardinieres.
Carpet Sweepers.
Rugs.
Hat Pins.
Skirts.
Brooches.
Couch Covers.
Portieres.

For Boys

Caps.
Knee Pants.
Bloused Waists.
Underwear.
Umbrellas.
Stockings.
Handkerchiefs.
Suspenders.
Sweaters.
Jack Knives.
Shoes.
Arctics.
Rubber Boots.
Gloves.
Mittens.
Sleds.
Carts.
Coasters.
Harmonicas.
Drums.
Magic Lanterns.
Toys.
Black Boards.
Writing Desks.
Books.
Rocking Horses.
Tool Chests.

For Girls

Gloves.
Mittens.
Sweaters.
Underwear.
Waists.
Handkerchiefs.
Writing Paper (boxes.)
Hosiery.
Writing Desks.
Black Boards.
Aviator Caps.
Hair Receivers.
Mugs.
Dolls.
Dolls' Trunks.
Doll Beds.
Toy Pianos.
Umbrellas.
Books.
Cups and Saucers.
Bread and Milk Sets.
Tea Sets.
Furniture Sets.
Games.
Toys.
Dolls' Go-Carts.

Kibbe's Christmas Candy. Nuts. Oranges. Figs. Dates. Fancy Pickles. Jams. Marmalades. Maple Syrup. And a full line of Staple Groceries.

Please Order Early, and we will try to do our part.

W. E. Stone & Son,
Main Street, Palmer.

The Annual Question

What to give is answered here if it's for the male sex.

Pleasing a Man is giving him something of real benefit or use. And What is better than:

A Warm Pair of Nice Gloves 50c to $4
Bath Robes
House Coats
Dress Shirts, 50c to $1.50
Beautiful Neckties, 25c to 50c
Hosiery, 15c to 50c
Handkerchiefs, 5c to 50c
Suspenders, 15c to 50c
Sweater Coats, 50c to $6
Underwear in all grades, 50c to $2.25
Winter Caps in all the fashionable Shapes, 50c to $5
Umbrellas
Suit Cases
Hand Bags
An Elegant line of Men's Pants, $2 to $5
Suits and Overcoats for Men and Boys
Sheepskin Coats, THE BEST the Markets Affords
Rain Coats in Wool or Rubber

You will find our stock replete with suggestions and reasonably priced.

Respectfully Yours,

C. K. Gamwell,
Up-to-date Clothier and Furnisher,
Palmer, - - - - - - Mass.

O'Connor's Barber Shop

PALMER, MASS.

Just aeross the street from the Waiting Room.
(On Corner going to Depot.)

4 Chairs, No Long Waits

Everything absolutely clean.

Shavers' Supplies For Sale

Razors Honed and Handles Put On. Why pay more? We warrant our Razors at $1.50. Each one is tried, so we know what we sell you.

Central Vermont Railway Co.

SOUTHERN DIVISION.

CORRECTED TO OCTOBER 1, 1911.

—o—

Trains Leave Palmer Going South:

7.25 a. m. Passenger for New London. Due Stafford 7.58 a. m., Willimantic 8.50 a. m., Norwich 9.27 a. m., New London 10.00 a. m.

9.55 a. m. Mail for New London. Due Stafford 10.31 a. m., Willimantic 11.17 a. m., Norwich 11.52 a. m., New London 12.20 p. m.

1.25 p. m. Passenger for New London. Due Stafford 2.03 p. m., Willimantic 3.08 p. m., Norwich 3.43 p. m., New London 4.10 p. m.

6.30 p. m. Steamboat train for New London and New York. Due Stafford 7.10 p. m., Willimantic 7.55 p. m., Norwich 8.30 p. m., New London 9.00 p. m., New York City via Norwich Line, Pier 70, East River, 5.45 a. m., Pier 40, North River 7.00 a. m., following morning.

Above trains connect at Willimantic and New London east and west for points on the N. Y. N. H. & H. R.R.

Trains Leave Palmer Going North.

7.30 a. m. Mail. Due Amherst 8.15 a. m., Millers Falls 9.00 a. m., Brattleboro 10.00 a. m.

12.10 p. m. Express. Due Amherst 12.55 p. m., Millers Falls 1.20 p. m., Brattleboro 2.07 p. m.

5.30 p. m. Due Amherst 6.16 p. m., Millers Falls 6.50 p. m., Brattleboro 8.00 p. m.

These trains cannot connect at Millers Falls with trains east and west on the B. & M., and at Brattleboro with express trains for White River Junction and Montreal and points west thereof.

These trains run week days only.

SUBJECT TO CHANGE WITHOUT NOTICE.

J. W. HANLEY, General Passenger Agent.

Palmer Savings Bank,

Palmer, Mass.

Officers.

H. G. LOOMIS, President.
R. C. NEWELL, 1st Vice President.
W. E. STONE, 2d Vice President.
C. F. SMITH, 3d Vice President.
GEORGE A. RICE, Clerk.

Auditors.

W. E. Stone. E. B. Taylor.
C. A. LeGro.

Board of Investment.

H. G. Loomis. W. E. Stone. C. F. Smith.
H. E. W. Clark. E. E. Hobson

Trustees.

H. G. Loomis. W. E. Stone. J. O. Hamilton.
H. E. W. Clark. G. D. Mooers. L. J. Potter.
R. C. Newell. L. R. Holden. C. L. Wald.
Geo. S. Holden. C. E. Fuller. E. B. Taylor.
M. J. Dillon. C. F. Smith. C. A. LeGro.

Treasurer.
C. L. Waid.

Safe Deposit Boxes for rent.

Banking Hours: 9 a. m to 3 p. m. Saturday, 9 a. m. to 12 m. Friday Evening, 7.30 to 9.

OVER 65 YEARS' EXPERIENCE

PATENTS

TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &c.

Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. HANDBOOK on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents.

Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the Scientific American.

A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.

MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

The Antalgica

Or Vegetable Pain Restorer

was introduced to the public in 1848, since which time thousands of bottles have been sold each year to an appreciative public, which is a good evidence of its merits. It is adapted to so many ailments it should be in every household, for it cures all kinds of pains both internal and external. For Bronchial affections it is unrivaled by any article in the market. It is a sure cure for Cholera Morbus and Dysentery, if taken in season, also for Coughs. It is an effective remedy for rheumatic affections, stiff joints, swelled limbs, sprains, cramps, toothache and many other ills to which the flesh is heir. Try it and it will do you good. It is sold at 25c, 50c and $1 00 per bottle by the Bay State Drug Co., Lynde & Gould, and the proprietor.

O. P. Allen,
Palmer, Mass.

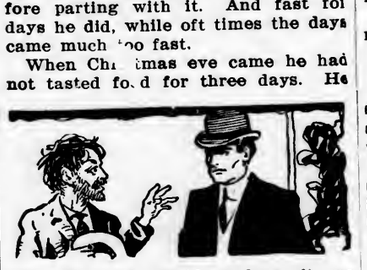
The Trifle

By HARRY IRVING GREENE



Copyright, 1911

THERE was a time when Wallington had generally been conceded to be a brand new genius in the financial world—a marvelous being who could change stones into bread and serpents into fowl; then all at once he found himself in the throes of bankruptcy.

He had exhausted his resources and was for the time being hopelessly insolvent. Day by day his little handful of remaining change vanished in steadily diminishing ratio as his meals became cheaper and further apart, until finally he had but a dime left. This coin he resolved to save for some last and most desperate extremity, and he even determined to fast for days before parting with it. And fast for days he did, while oft times the days came much too fast.

When Christmas eve came he had not tasted food for three days. He felt that he could endure it no longer, that the last and most desperate extremity had arrived and that now he must spend his dime. He was plunged deep in meditation when he felt someone touch his arm and turned about.

Beside him there stood a gaunt man with cavernous cheeks, feverish, wild ish eyes, and a stomach that curved the wrong way. The apparition addressed him in a croaking voice.

"For God's sake, stranger, buy me something to eat. I am penniless and upon the verge of committing crime I have worn out my shoes looking for work, and while I have a job promised me it will be a week before it is open And meanwhile I am starving, friend starving. In the name of Christianity spare me enough for a meal out of your plenty."

Wallington stared into the evening dusk as he fingered his last and smoothly worn dime. He knew well enough what this other man was suffering, for had he not been in the same stage twenty-four hours before! And to give a man a dime in such a case was so grossly inadequate. Yet what could he do? He turned about Close before him was a restaurant where he had spent hundreds of dollars in his palmy days and whose proprietor he knew well. Yet he owed a bill there for his last big after theater dinner party of many months ago, and he had never had the courage even in his semi-starvation to go in and ask for more credit. Yet now it must be done, for here was a human being starving upon the streets. Wallington shuddered. It was plainly his duty to fill this man's stomach, and for the last time he would exert those powers of persuasion which once upon a time few men had been able to resist. He took the stranger by the arm. "Come with me," he commanded.

They entered the restaurant and Wallington walked straight up to the proprietor. "Bob," said he, "I owe you a pretty stiff bill, but I am going to go to work in a week and then I will begin paying you off. Now I want you to do me a last favor. I owe you about forty dollars, and a couple of dollars more won't make much difference to you. It is Christmas eve and my friend over there is starving. Now I want you to fill him up to the chin on good, solid food and charge it to me. I will not ask you for any favor again if you will do this last thing." The proprietor looked at his old patron thoughtfully.

"All right," he announced at length. "Being's its Christmas eve I'll take a chance on you even if you are down and out. Tell your friend to order what he wants." So Wallington and the stranger sat down together and Wallington watched his companion fill himself with good things until at last with his stomach again curved the right way, the droop gone from his shoulders and the feverish light vanished from his eyes, the gorged one arose.

"My friend," said the stranger. "I could not have endured it another day—but of course you have never known what it is to go two days without food. And when tonight you go home and sit down to your table to your feast, remember that there is an outcast fellow being upon the streets who is blessing every mouthful that you eat. Good-by, Christian."

Wallington held out his hand. "Good-by, stranger, and good luck to you. It was a mere trifle. Happy to have been able to give you a lift." Then he went up to Frenchy's hash house and had his dime's worth of coffee and sausage.

At the Dinner.

Last Christmas a certain minister was invited to a big dinner at the house of one of the leading men in the town. At the dinner table he was placed opposite a goose.

The lady of the house was placed on the minister's left. Seeing the goose he remarked:

"Shall I sit so close to the goose?"

Finding his words a bit equivocal, he turned round to the lady, and said, in a most inoffensive tone:

"Excuse me, my lady; I meant the roast one."

A Convenient Myth.

"Why do you still keep up that absurd Santa Claus myth?" asked the cynic. "I should have thought you would have laughed at it."

"Because," answered the man with a large family, "it is convenient to have some one to blame for presents that fail to please."

A MYSTERY.

Dudley Nobs—Pa, there's one thing about Santa Claus I never could understand.

Mr. Nobs—What is that, my son?

Dudley Nobs—Why does Santa always leave valuable presents to rich folks and cheap ones to poor people? Why don't he even things up?

A Clean Sweep.

Caroline—I've been in the stores all day.

Pauline—So soon after Christmas, and still shopping?

Caroline—Shopping! I guess not. I'm exchanging all my presents.

Cackling.

Mrs. Gramercy—She must have been surprised when her husband gave her such an expensive present for Christmas.

Mrs. Park—Not surprised, my dear, but suspicious.

Poor Man.

Mrs. Caller—You surely don't give your husband a necktie every Christmas?

Mrs. Athome—Oh, yes, I do! And the poor dear never seems to know that it is the same one!

Trouble and a Turkey.

Brown was boasting of the fine turkey he had bought for Christmas. "Biggest bird I ever saw; cost me seven-fifty."

"That's nothing to the turkey I had last Christmas," said his friend Jones "It cost me $150."

"One hundred and fifty dollars!" positively shrieked Brown, in his incredulity.

"Yes," said Jones, bitterly.

"Turkeys," said Brown, looking him straight in the eye, "are generally to be bought for a quarter a pound. Say yours was a quarter, then it must have weighed about 630 pounds!"

"It only weighed twenty pounds," said Jones, sadly; "but I bought it alive and tried to kill it myself. It flew all over the house first and did $150 worth of damage."

To Unscrew a Fountain Pen.

When trying to unscrew a fountain pen for refilling, a great deal of time and patience may be saved by winding a rubber band just above the pen point. The fingers can obtain a firm grip on this band, and the pen can be unscrewed without difficulty.—Suburban Life.

Forbes & Wallace | Forbes & Wallace | Forbes & Wallace

The Forbes & Wallace Store At Its Best For the Last Week of Christmas Trading

With Plenty of Goods—With Ample Assortments—With Large Selling Space—With Hundreds of Willing, Courteous Salespeople—With a Delivery Service Equal to the Great Demand Upon It—

Is Abundantly Able to Meet Your Gift Problems And Solve Them to Your Satisfaction

A Dainty Luncheon

Or a more substantial meal in the pleasant atmosphere of the

Observatory Restaurant

Will be an enjoyable incident of the day's shopping and will save you time.

Music by players from the Philharmonic orchestra at noon and in the evening.

Parcels Checked Free of Charge at the Transfer Desk On the Main Floor.

Rest Room on the Second Floor, Adjoining the Millinery Department.

Forbes & Wallace,
Springfield, Mass.

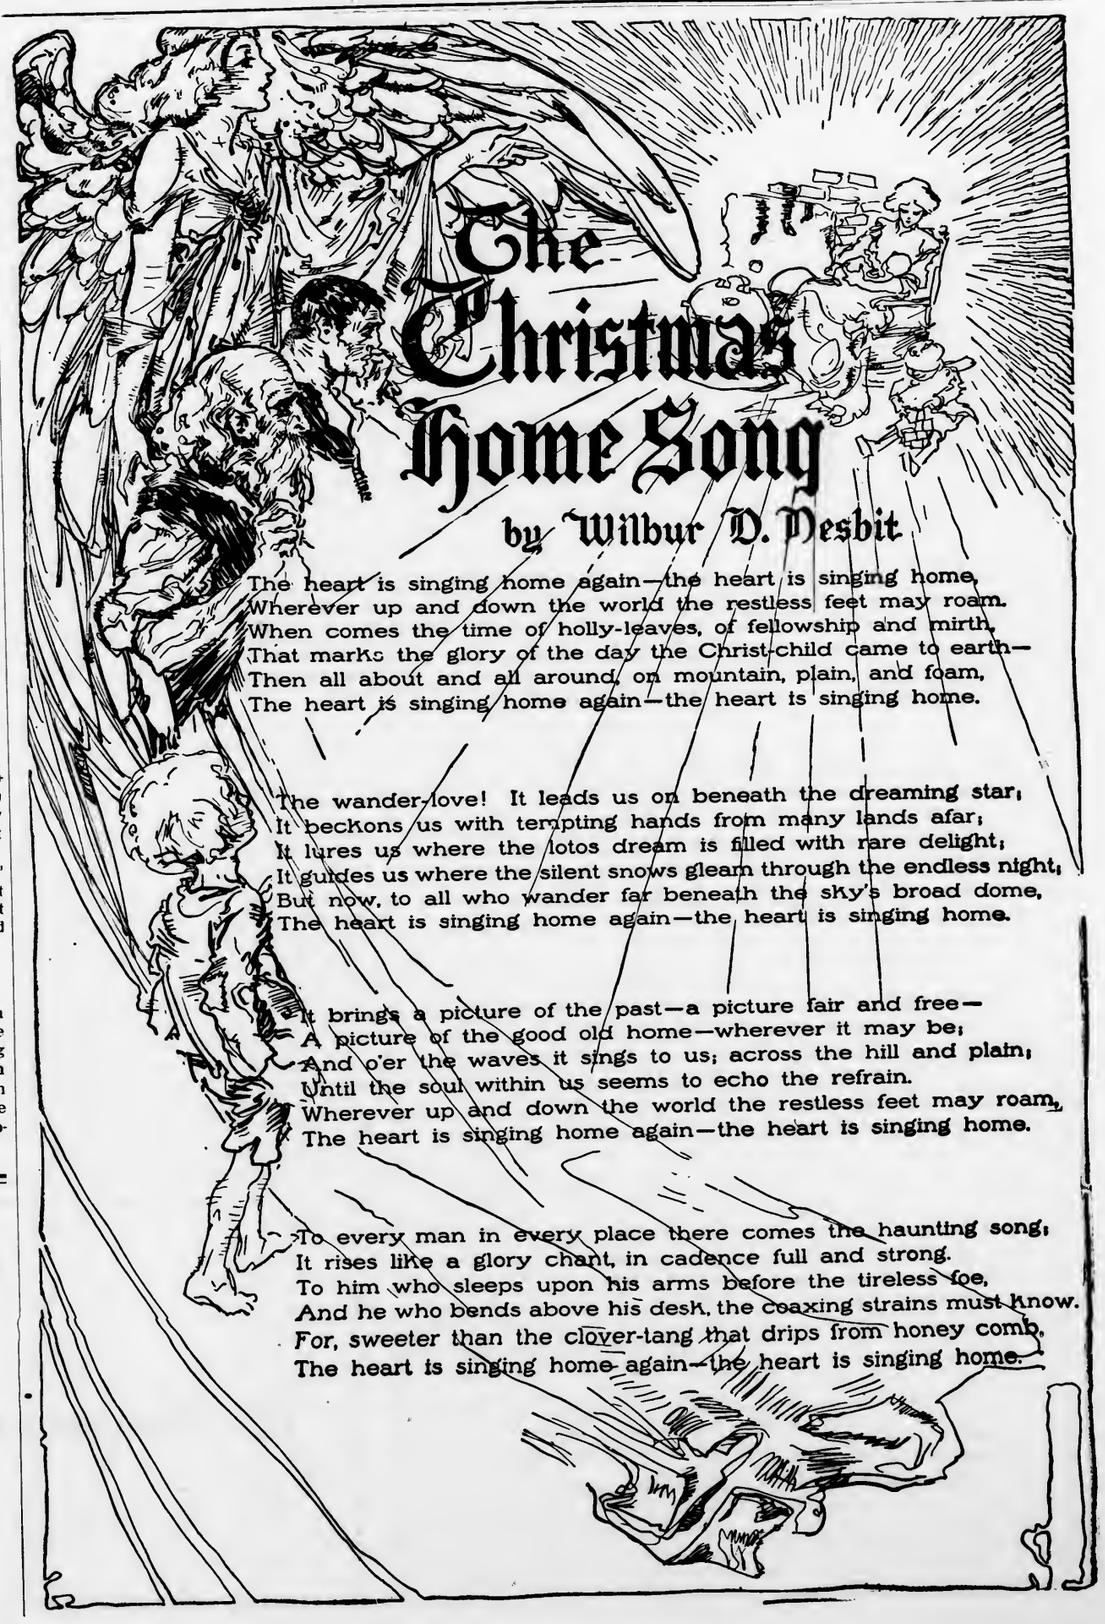
Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

F. J. CHENEY, & CO., Toledo, Ohio

Sold by Druggists, 75c.
Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.



Wall Colors and Light.

In painting or papering the walls of a room the question often arises what color reflects the most and what the least light? Recent experiments in Germany gave the following results: Dark blue reflects 6½ per cent. of the light falling upon it; dark green, about 10 per cent.; pale red, a little more than 10 per cent.; dark yellow, 20 per cent.; pale blue, 30 per cent.; pale yellow, 40 per cent.; pale green, 46½ per cent.; pale orange, nearly 55 per cent.; pale white 70 per cent. Glossiness and varnish increase the amount of light reflected.—Harper's Weekly.

IF YOU ARE ILL

from any disorder of the STOMACH, LIVER or KIDNEYS, or if your bowels are inactive at times, or you should suffer from headaches, get a 50 cent bottle of SEVEN BARKS of your druggist. If you are run down and don't feel as young and chipper as you used to, give SEVEN BARKS a fair trial; it will purify your blood, clear your system and brain, and make life worth living. It is absolutely harmless, is highly palatable, and will not disturb the most delicate stomach.

For sale at druggists at 50 cents per bottle. Don't fail to try it. Address LYMAN BROWN, 68 Murray St., New York, N.Y.

For the Christmas Trade

Diamonds, Watches, Jewelry,
Solid Silver and Plated Ware,
Cut Glass, Hand-painted China,
Bohemian Glass, Chafing Dishes,
Clocks, Toilet Sets, Umbrellas,
Percolators, Jewel Boxes, etc.

E. S. Brooks, 423 Main St., Palmer, Mass.

THE PALMER JOURNAL

Published

EVERY FRIDAY EVENING

13-15 Central Street, Masonic Block.

PALMER, MASS.

The Palmer Journal Company,
LOUIS E. CHANDLER,
Editor and Manager.

Terms of subscription—Two dollars a year; a discount of 25 cents to those who pay in advance. Six months, $1.00; three months, 50 cents; single copies, 5 cents. Subscriptions continued until notified.

Entered at Post Office as second-class matter.

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 22, 1911.

A MISUNDERSTANDING.

It is evident, from remarks heard from time to time, that there is a misunderstanding on the part of some regarding the action of the license commissioners last week in dismissing the charge of illegal liquor selling against the Weeks House. While the commissioners have a large measure of power they are not autocrats; neither have they a desire or disposition to act unfairly toward anyone. The law provides that any person complained against shall be entitled to a hearing; one was accorded the Weeks House, the investigation being conducted by Town Counsel Storrs, who questioned the witnesses and passed on points of law which came up. At this hearing it was proved beyond question that the liquor was not procured at the Weeks House on Sunday, notwithstanding that such statement had previously been made under oath. Under these circumstances there was nothing for the commission to do but dismiss the charge. In this connection there is one thing which it will be well to take note of: For the first time in years has there been an investigation by any board of a charge of illegal liquor selling without a complaint being made in court. And in this case there was not even a formal complaint. The attention of the license commission was simply called to the testimony of a man in court, to the effect that he had assisted in the violation of a liquor law, and the members of the commission immediately "got busy," for which they deserve a full measure of credit.

THERE will be less inaccuracy and less dispute a few centuries hence regarding present-day history if the scheme inaugurated recently in New York proves a success. Records printed on parchment were enclosed in a glass jar which was placed in a tube of tiling, the whole then encased in a concrete mould, a copper plate on the end bearing a record of the contents. If, as claimed, photographs, moving picture films and phonographic records are available for preservation in this manner, the people of a few hundred—or thousand—years from now ought to know definitely all about us—provided the work of sealing up the records doesn't get wearisome and abandoned.

OF course, every man who goes to the minister with his "best girl" to be married is just too happy to think of grafting on the poor clergyman,—or at least he's supposed to be,—and that probably accounts for the 30 or more ministers down in New York who gave up $10 each in return for a $20 check offered in payment for a marriage ceremony. The checks were all bad. Question—If the couple was married good and tight 30 times, how long will it take the divorce courts to untangle them if it ever comes to that?

THE suggestion to dispose of the wreck of the Maine for exhibition purposes received, as it deserved, scant consideration in the United States Senate Tuesday. Such a use of this historic vessel would be little short of sacrilegious and repugnant to every true American citizen. The burial of the vessel will be in the deep waters of the sea, a fit ending for what is now left of this once proud representative of a powerful nation.

ALL over the country the crooks are having a merry "Ha-ha" over the way Springfield allowed Lou West, an expert shoplifter and ally of such ilk, to walk out of town on $500 bail after being caught in the act in one of the big stores of the city. Of course the bail was forfeited. It may be, as is claimed, that the bail was as high as is permitted under the charge made, but it seems as though some way might have been devised to insure the woman's appearance for trial. Springfield has an enviable reputation in many things, but she dropped a stitch there.

OUT in Couer d'Alene, Idaho, Mayor Wood wants to establish a municipal saloon, and has the backing of nearly all the ministers of the place in his plan. He believes that it would take the liquor business out of politics, and declares there is no law prohibiting the city from engaging in the traffic. There is possible much of good in the scheme if the right management can be secured.

LOCAL NOTICES.

Electric wiring,ietc. 'Phone Moulton, 122-21 Monson.

A nice Christmas present, a globe of goldfish; Royce's, Palmei.

A Graphophone free for you. Come in and learn how to get one. Kinsley's Pharmacy, 357 Main St., Cor. Central.

We solicit your orders for Christmas Cakes and Ice Cream. Delivered at your convenience. L. A. & C. A. Royce.

PALMER NEWS.

Initiated 50th Member.

Quaboag Council, Royal Arcanum, Achieves Unusual Record.

Quaboag council, 876, Royal Arcanum, at its last meeting of the year Tuesday evening, initiated its 50th member since January 1, a record which has been passed in numbers by few councils in the state, even among the large and flourishing ones in the big cities, and unsurpassed, it is believed, when viewed on a percentage basis. The members began an active campaign with the installation of the new officers last January, determined to make a mark of which Grand Regent Hobson—a member of Quaboag council—might not be ashamed. Hardly a meeting passed without one or more applications for membership, the climax being reached on the evening of November 7, when 27 were read. Others were secured until on the evening of November 22d the council took a class of 30 to Springfield to the union initiation, winning the first prize offered by the grand council of the state for the greatest number, having just twice as many as all the other councils of the Connecticut valley combined. It is confidently expected that the council will win the silk flag offered by the supreme council for the greatest per cent of gain during the year. After the work Tuesday evening a lunch was served. The new officers will be installed January 2. The public installation proposed has been given up, but there will be a ladies' night later.

More Money Is Wanted.

Special Town Meeting Called to Provide Funds For Town Use.

The selectmen have called a special town meeting for Saturday, January 6, for the purpose of providing sufficient funds to enable three departments to pay their bills for the year. The amount to be asked for will probably not exceed $2200. Of this sum $1000 is for the overseers of the poor, $1000 for the contingent fund of the selectmen, and $200 for the board of health. The overseers of the poor state that there is a large increase in the number of paupers, especially families with small children, and these must be aided. Their pay roll is close to $1000 a month and, as they are not allowed to use the money paid out on account of other towns when it is repaid, their account is running shy. The board of health has received some large bills from other towns which are chargeable to their account, and will need a small sum to meet them. The selectmen find that their contingent account is or will be overdrawn before the end of the year, and an additional amount is asked for.

Penny Savings Stamp Report.

Number of Depositors Has Increased Materially In One Month.

The new system of penny savings deposits has been in operation only about a month—from November 27 to December 19, to be correct,—but in that short time has made a big gain in the number of depositors over the former stamps and card system. The present number of accounts is 238, of which 138 are old and an even 100 new, these being opened since the new system was inaugurated. The new deposits amounted to $249.88, and redeemed stamps totaled $152.07, making a total of $401.95 deposited. There has been transferred to individual accounts—that is to pass books in the Palmer Savings Bank—the sum of $224. Only four collections have been made under the new system, which is working as smoothly as could be desired.

Handsome Christmas Windows.

One of the largest displays of holiday goods is that of Whitcomb & Faulkner's, occupying, as it does, three large show windows. The variety is almost endless, and articles suitable for every member of the family are shown. There are jack, pocket—and desk-knives in great variety and scale of prices; razors of every sort, with strops, hones, mugs and brushes; scissors and shears guaranteed as to cutting quality, all sizes; Ingersoll watches and small clocks; electric flash lights in numerous sizes; carving sets in many styles, with a variety of shapes, sizes and finish; nut picks, nut crackers, knives and forks and spoons. An attractive feature is the new line of casseroles, bean pots and chafing dishes, which will be particularly interesting to the ladies. Skates, sleds and hockey sticks, tool chests, and many other things to delight the boys and girls. Coffee percolators, tea-ball pots, savory roasters, meat choppers, bread mixers, asbestos flat-irons appeal to the ladies.

The fish and game commissioners were in Palmer yesterday afternoon to visit the site of the proposed new fish hatchery near Palmer Center. Nothing new regarding the scheme was given out.

Y. P. S. C. E. Union Meeting.

A meeting of the executive committee of the Eastern Hampden Christian Endeavor Union was held Tuesday evening in the Congregational church to fill vacancies. The union is composed of the societies in Palmer, Three Rivers, Thorndike, Bondsville, Monson, North Wilbraham, Brimfield, East Brimfield, and was organized last spring but has held no meetings on account of the absence of the executive head. These officers were chosen to fill vacancies: President, Rev. F. S. Brewer of Palmer; chairman of social committee, Harold K. Taylor of Palmer; Alphonse Abare of Three Rivers was elected to the fellowship committee, and Arthur Rice of the same place to the social committee. The executive committee and pastors will meet in the Baptist church in Palmer the last Friday in January to make plans for the annual meeting the last Tuesday in February. At the committee meeting a supper will be served.

Bowling For a Turkey.

Team bowling has been suspended this week in the Palmer league to allow members to try for the turkey offered for the three highest strings rolled in competition before the close of the alleys to-morrow night; any three strings may be counted, whether rolled at one time or at separate times. At the opening of the alleys last evening the three highest were: Barsalow, 333; Mitchell, 331; Loring, 320. Late in the evening Barsalow rolled three strings of 114, 125 and 113, a total of 352, an unusual score for three straight strings.

New Gas Light Admired.

The Palmer Savings Bank installed last week a fine arc gas light over the entrance to the bank at the corner of Main and Thorndike streets, which is kept lighted until midnight. The brilliancy of the light is in marked contrast to any other illumination along the street, and is greatly appreciated, as it lights up that entire section in a most pleasing manner.

Grand Jury Indictments.

The grand jury which has been in session in Springfield this week found true bills in two Palmer cases: Frank Lanidsky and Charlie Georgie, breaking and entering a building belonging to Ida Winer at Three Rivers on the 1st.; Paul Correndi, murder in the second degree of George Cattsmitt, alias Guiseppe Di Leo, in Palmer on the 6th.

To Rebuild Bridge.

The street railway company has petitioned the railroad commissioners for an order to rebuild the Main street bridge over the Boston and Albany tracks. The structure has been declared unsafe for electric cars to stand on, although considered safe for them to pass over.

Ducked Charge of Assault.

Alfred M. Webster was before the district court last Saturday charged with an assault on his wife. The case was continued until Monday, but Webster failed to appear and was defaulted.

Mrs. F. C. Hook has moved from Pleasant street to Indian Orchard.

Benjamin Murphy has disposed of his farm to the Hampden railroad.

Lisim Arecotte has moved his family from Forest Lake to the Jones house on Park street.

Waldo Heck of Southbridge has taken a position with the Palmer Trucking company.

The next meeting of the Palmer Woman's club will be held at the home of Mrs. George Ezekiel Friday, January 5th.

The Flynt Building and Construction company has been making extensive repairs this week to the roof of its office on Main street.

A trolley express car ran off the rails at the Lake Juction Saturday afternoon about 2.30 and delayed traffic somewhat at that point.

The Ladies' Society of the Congregational church held a foreign missionary meeting Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. F. H. Hart of Holbrook street.

When your feet are wet and cold, and your body chilled through from exposure, take a big dose of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, bathe your feet in hot water before going to bed, and you are almost certain to ward off a severe cold. For sale by all dealers.

Rev. P. J. Griffin of Thorndike.

Who celebrated yesterday the 20th anniversary of his ordination to the priesthood.

The dates for the Knights of Columbus minstrel show, to be given in conjunction with the District Nurse Association, have been fixed for February 6 and 7.

John Kog of Bondsville was convicted in the district court Saturday of the larceny of paint from the Boston Duck Company and fined $10, which he paid.

There will be no meeting of the Men's League this month. The League will probably join with the men in the Men and Religion Forward movement, which meeting will be held January 3d.

Two vagrants who had sought the shelter of the lockup Monday night were before the district court Tuesday morning, but as their story was satisfactory they were allowed to depart on their ways.

The Kinsley Pharmacy is giving away phonographs to customers. Coupons are given with every purchase, and when these are accumulated to the amount of $35 the holder is presented with a phonograph.

The body of Mrs. Emily K. Hiatt, who died Tuesday in Milford, was brought to Palmer to-day. Funeral services were held in Phillips' undertaking rooms at 1 this afternoon and burial was in South Belchertown.

The electric road people dug up a section of the new macadam roadway on Main street Tuesday to make repairs to the switch leading to Thorndike street. Permanent repairs cannot be made until spring on account of the cold weather and the nature of the surface displaced.

Lynde & Gould have inaugurated a gift enterprise at their drug store, and will give away a piano. With every purchase made at the store is given a coupon indicating the amount; on the first of December next year the person presenting the greatest amount in coupons will be presented with the piano without further expense.

For Sale!

Homestead of the late Frances W. Dimock, 63 Park St., Palmer. For terms, etc., see FRANK M. HOLT, executor, who will be upon the premises from Jan. 1 to 6, 1912, or W. Harwich, Mass.

HE LOOKS WELL

who looks to us for the proper things in men's wear. Ours is a store just crowded with

STYLISH MEN'S FURNISHINGS

The newest styles in neckwear, shirts, gloves and hats are now ready.

Ours is certainly an uncommon showing, both as to the excellent quality and littleness of price.

Prompt and efficient service in pressing, cleaning and repairing. Try our work and prices.

Jones & Stevens,
Successors to the Geo. F. Emmons Co.
PALMER, MASS.

Mrs. Rose
Late of New York City.

As I am going out of town for the holidays, customers are requested to call for their work at once.

Telephone 49-11.

17 Thorndike Street, Palmer, Mass.

Big Clearance Sale

Men's Overcoats

All our $20, $18, $16.50 and $15 Overcoats to be sold at $13.98

Special Lot of Ladies' Coats

Marked down to $12.50

M. Ecker, Palmer, Mass.
P. O. Block. Up one flight.

Cannel Coal for Open Grates.

English quality Bostonia cannel coal, especially adapted for open grates and quick fires. of unusually good quality. Try it.

Juanita Forge Coal.

Guaranteed to be the best forge coal mined. Blacksmiths are requested to give it a trial.

Feiner Charcoal.

I have the wholesale agency for Palmer, Monson, Ware and Wilbraham.

W. F. Fillmore, Palmer

Suggestions For New Year's:

TOYS, BOOKS, GAMES, MUFFLERS, SWEATERS, WAISTS, FANCY HANDKERCHIEFS, FANCY NECKWEAR, TOILET CASES, SILK PETTICOATS, SILK HOSIERY.

We have appropriate gifts for all. Be sure and do your shopping early.

Hellyar's Bargain Store
Converse House Block, Palmer, Mass.

An Opportunity Seldom Offered

For the Week Following Christmas

Dinner Sets

Our best selling patterns sold for one week only at the following reduction in prices.

112-piece Sets, regular price $15.00,	Marked at $12.25
112-piece Sets, regular price, $14.50,	Marked at $12.00
112-piece Sets, regular price, $13.00,	Marked at $10.75
112-piece Sets, regular price, $ 9.50,	Marked at $ 7.00

Toilet Sets

At the same reductions. Decorated sets in green, blue and brown.

Marked from our regular price of $3.00 to $2.40

Fancy plain white and gold sets, regular price $4.50, marked to $3.65

Fancy decorated gold stipled sets, marked from $4.25 to $35.00

There Is No Exaggeration Here

Walcott-Cameron Co.,
Palmer, Mass.

The Day Is Too Short

To bother with an old range. Buy a GLENWOOD and have the best.

E. Brown Co., Agents, Palmer, Mass.

Your Heating and Plumbing Work Solicited.

Card—We wish to thank our kind friends and neighbors, who so kindly assisted us in our recent bereavement.

Mrs. Edith Kennedy.
Bela S. Baker.
H. E. Baker.
F. M. Baker.
W. P. Baker.
Ella L. Baker.

Wales, Dec. 18. 1911.

BORN.

In Springfield, 16th, a daughter to Adam J. and Maude M. (Kinnevan) Johnson.

DIED.

In Monson, 20th, Mrs. Catherine Sullivan, 65.
In Ware, 16th, Mrs. Louis Dusseault, 60.
In Wales, 20th, Mrs. Bela Baker, 66.

TO RENT—A good upstairs tenement in my block. F. M. EAGER 38-tf

FOX TERRIER PUPS FOR SALE. 17-tf
JAMES BURDICK, Mechanic St. Monson

TO RENT.—Downstairs tenement in my double house on Walnut street. W. E. McDONALD. 36-tf

WANTED—At once, choppers to cut off wood-lot. Logs and cord-wood. Apply to M. SULLIVAN & SONS, Thorndike. 38-2

WANTED—Boarding place for a girl of six years old, in respectable family. MRS. F. E. SHAW, Box F. 37-3

IF YOU WANT your horse clipped in first-class shape, call on JAMES BURDICK, Monson. 32-tf

VAULTS CLEANED, gardens plowed, ashes and rubbish removed at reasonable prices. W. H. HOUSE, Palmer. 3-tf

FOR SALE.—One two-horse sleigh, one one-horse sleigh and four driving sleighs. 46-tf WHITCOMB & FAULKNER.

WANTED.—Hens, calves and cows. Will pay good price. Notify by postal card. 44-tf E. GOLDBERG, Three Rivers.

FOR SALE—Second-hand hot air wood furnace in good condition; pipes and registers with it. Inquire of E. J. FULLER, Fuller's Crossing, on Bondsville line. 33-tf

CARPET CLEANER. A Richmond Cleaner to rent with or without operator. Best way to clean carpets, rugs or furniture. Write postal or telephone 25-2. FRED McCOMBER, Box 174, Palmer. 40-tf

NOTICE.—To the officers and members of the Polish Roman Catholic Congregation of Palmer, Mass.: You are hereby notified that a special meeting of the corporation will be held at the Town House at Four Corners in Palmer, Mass., on Tuesday evening, December 26, 1911, at eight o'clock. The business to be transacted includes the matter of selling all the property of the corporation, paying all its debts, and dissolving the corporation.
MICHAEL PELCZARSKI, Clerk.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the subscriber has been duly appointed executor of the will of Frances W. Dimock, late of Palmer, in the County of Hampden, deceased, testate, and has taken upon himself that trust by giving bond, as the law directs. All persons having demands upon the estate of said deceased are required to exhibit the same; and all persons indebted to said estate are called upon to make payment to FRANK M. HOLT, Exc. 38-3
W. Harwich, Mass., Dec. 21, 1911.

W. B. T. Smith,
Physician and Surgeon,
Office and residence, So. High Street,
BONDSVILLE, MASS.
Office Hours 7-9 a. m. 12.30-2 p. m. 6.30-8 p. m.
Tel. 104—5.

For Sale.
My residence on North Main street. 20 rooms and ground level basement—more room than I need. Steam heat, electric lights, bath. Can easily be made into two tenements.
Louis E. Chandler.

Notice to Piano Owners.
Mr. J. Frank Normand, Piano Tuner and Repairer. Nearly 20 years' experience on all makes of pianos. Over fifty satisfied piano owners to refer to in Palmer, Monson and vicinity. Orders left at Journal office or mailed to 800 Main street, Worcester, Mass., will receive prompt attention.

August Peterson,
Monson, Mass.
Cement, Concrete and Stone Work of all kinds at Lowest Prices.

Teacher of Violin,
Robert J. Wilder.
Palmer, Mass.

Upright Pianos to Rent
$3 to $5 per month
Money paid for rent applied if purchased.
STONE'S STORE,
370 Main St. Palmer

John Winer, Three Rivers
Dealer in Cattle, Beef and Milch Cows, Poultry.
Pay High Prices
P. O. Box 339, Three Rivers

For Sale
8-room cottage, with bath: on car line. Bargain if taken at once.
R. E. Cummings,
Palmer, Mass.

INSURANCE
Of every kind placed at short notice, and all favors duly appreciated.
Yours Truly
S. H. HELLYAR
Office at store on Main St.

VIOLIN AND PIANO LESSONS
Given by
Julia A. Allen, Palmer, Mass.
Orders promptly filled for Music, Violins, Strings, etc.

PALMER SAVINGS BANK, PALMER, MASS.
Money deposited on or before Thursday, January 4th, will commence interest from January 1st
BANKING HOURS:
9 a. m. to 3 p. m.
Saturday, 9 a. m. to 12 m.
Friday Evening 7.30 to 9.
CHAS L. WAID, Treasurer.

Personal Mention.

Irving Shaw is home from Tufts college for the holidays.

Miss Rose Tagan of West Warren has been a guest a part of the week of Miss Rose Duffy.

Edward Rice of Dartmouth college is at his home on Pleasant street for the holidays.

James Heenehan of Dartmouth college is at his home on Central street for the Christmas vacation.

Mrs. Russell Rixford and children of Brattleboro, Vt., are guests of her mother, Mrs. A. J. Lawton.

F. S. Potter of Highland street has gone to his home in North Adams, where he will spend Christmas.

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Crowley of Salem are visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Crowley on the Thorndike road.

Mrs. L. M. Shaw, who has been visiting friends in Hampden, has returned to her home on Walnut street.

N. W. Chandler of New York is at the home of his brother, L. E. Chandler of North Main street, for the holiday vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. James Duffy and son of Atlantic are guests of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Duffy on South Main street.

Miss Alta M. Burgess of Burleigh's Crossing returned Wednesday from a three weeks' visit with relatives in New Jersey and New York.

Mrs. Joseph Irwin and son of Ardmore, Pa., are at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Buck of North Main street, for the holidays.

Miss Irene C. Le Gro, teacher in the public schools in Keene, N. H., is spending the Christmas vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Le Gro.

Warren A. Roper, head of the commercial department of the Maine Wesleyan Seminary at Kent's Hill, Me., is the guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Roper.

Mrs. T. J. Moran of Pearl street has had as guests this week two cousins from Philadelphia, Misses Gertrude and Jesse Tryon. They left yesterday for a stay with friends in New York state.

Among the Churches.

In the Advent church on Park street Elder J. J. Fuller of Westfield will preach at 3 in the afternoon.

The annual Christmas tree and entertainment of the Baptist Sunday school will be held Tuesday evening.

There will be a Christmas tree, exercises and a Sabbath school supper in St. Paul's church next Friday evening at 6 o'clock.

There will be a celebration of Holy Communion at St. Mary's mission Christmas morning at 9.30 o'clock. Short sermon by the rector.

There will be an entertainment for the little people Wednesday evening in the Congregational church. There will be Christmas trees and gifts for the children. The doors will be open at 6.30 and the entertainment will begin at 7.

"Some forgotten meanings of Christmas" will be the subject of the sermon at the Congregational church Sunday morning. There will be special music, with solos and duets by Mrs. Norcross and Mrs. Flynt. Sunday school will be at 12, and Christian Endeavor service at 6. At 5 there will be a Sunday school concert.

There will be a special Christmas service in St. Paul's church Sunday morning and appropriate music is being prepared as follows: Anthem, "All Hail Thou Day of Gladness," William P. Spencer; bass and soprano duet, "Babe Divine," George William Warren; solo, "Night of Nights," Beardsley Van de Water. The pastor will take for his subject "Peace on Earth." A special order of service is being printed for the occasion.

Christmas will be observed in the Baptist church next Sunday. Morning service at 10.45, with the following program:

Organ Voluntary, "Pilgrim Song of Hope," Baptiste
Choir Anthem, "Tidings of Great Joy," Carrie B. Adams
Choir Anthem, "Down Through the Ages." E. S. Lorenz
Organ Offertory, "Pastorale," Foote
Sermon. "A Recurring Incarnation."
Choir Anthem, "The New Born King," Ira B. Wilson
Organ Postlude, J. L. Hatton

Bible school at 12, Y. P. S. C. E. meeting at 6. There will be a concert by the Bible school at 7, when there will be a service entitled "To Him Be Glory," arranged by H. P. Porter. Program:

Organ Voluntary. "Marche Solennelle."
Violin Solo by Mr. Robert J. Wilder.
Solo, with violin obligato, by Mrs. Williams.
Organ Postlude.

When you have a cold get a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It will soon fix you up all right and will ward off any tendency toward pneumonia. This remedy contains no opium or other narcotic and may be given as confidently to a baby as to an adult. Sold by all dealers.

S. H. Wright
64 Pleasant Street,
Lock and Gunsmith.
Light Repairing of every Description.
Locks, Keys, Guns, Pistols, Shears, Lawn Mowers, Skates, Sewing Machines, Saw Filing, Clocks, Pattern Making, Etc.

PICKING A PRESENT FOR PLATT

BY DOUGLAS MALLOCH

WHEN Harry Platt and that girl friend of the Greens (I forget her name) were married, it was one of those my-goodness-gracious-just-think-of-that affairs, with no one in on the secret except the suburban minister who tied the knot, the cabman who drive them out there and the girl from the minister's kitchen, who was a witness, and left a thumb-print of grease on the certificate (she was frying doughnuts at the time) and the minister's wife (at least the name was the same). Let's see, where was I? Oh, yes, when the Platts were married, it being that kind of a wedding, there was no chance to send them a wedding gift as I would have liked to do, or to have done, (whichever is proper, or grammatical, though I'm sure I can never tell which). But Mr. Platt is one of the nicest men in the office, that is, he was before this happened. So I felt we ought to do something for him, just to show our good will—and, anyhow, we've dug down for others we thought much less of, so why shouldn't we for him? But the wedding was over, without invitations, or even a reception, and they were housekeeping before we knew it. So what could we do?

Well, just then Christmas came along not just then but two months after the wedding. They were married October 29, so it wasn't quite two months, but that's close enough. When Christmas came along, that is, just before it came along, I suggested that we make up a purse and give them a sort of delayed wedding present, just to show our good will. Everybody thought it was a splendid idea, that is, of course, except Mr. Platt, whom, of course, I didn't consult. So I got up a subscription paper and went to everybody in the office (except Mr. Platt, of course). I got $26.60, including ten cents from the janitor, who wasn't expected to give anything but wanted to give something, which shows just how popular Mr. Platt was with everyone in the building, when a janitor even would chip in.

Christmas shopping is hard enough, goodness knows, when you do it for yourself; but when you do it for a stock company capitalized at $26.60, with 28 stockholders, with 28 different kinds of ideas and tastes, then Christmas shopping rises above a mere annoyance to the dignity of a real trouble. And that's what I was up against. I thought it would be nice to get an expression of opinion. So I went around one morning and asked for ideas. But I couldn't get a word. Nobody could think of anything. I couldn't myself. At noon I went out and looked. I walked miles. I priced. then I went back to the office. You should have seen my desk. Honest, you would have thought some one had turned in a general alarm. They couldn't wait for me to get back. There they were—28 of them, (that is, 27, or 28 with me). They all had suggestions, and they were all different.

The head bookkeeper thought an arm chair would be nice. (He stands up all day). The collector thought a raincoat would be best, while Miss Jones suggested a dress pattern. They all said, of course, that they left it entirely to me; and then each went away sadly, as much as to say that he hoped I wouldn't be so foolish as to buy any of those other things that the others had proposed.

The next day I looked again. But either a thing was too expensive or I would have money left. It is remarkable how few things there are in the world you can buy for $26.60, no more, no less.

And then I saw it. It was in a department store, and marked down from $50 to $26.60! There it was, to a cent! A great, big, glittering, magnificent Punch Bowl! Nobody had thought of that!

But, to make sure, I sent the sales ticket with it and told the Platts they could exchange the punch bowl, if they wished, for something they liked better.

And what do you suppose those Platts did?

In January they traded in that magnificent punch bowl for three tons of coal!

(Copyright, 1911)

Christmas Exercises In Public Schools.

[Continued from First Page]

Recitation Santa Claus' Secret Agnes Hanifin
Piano Solo Marion Albro
Recitation The Turkey's Lament Ella Callahan
Recitation Cake for Santa Claus Yolande Marsan
Piano Solo Myrtle McVickar
Recitation A Christmas Carol Lenore Shea
Recitation A Mistake About Santa Lillian Spillane
Reading Mary Heyes
Chorus Joy to the World
Accompanists—
Piano Myrtle McVickar
Violin John Fitzgerald

Thorndike.

March Edith Hamilton
Song If You're Good Grade 1
Song Shine Out, O Blessed Star Grade 2
Recitation A Christmas Carol Fred Davis
Song Sing, Little Children, Sing Grades 3 and 4
Chorus O Come All Ye Faithful Grades 2 and 5
Essay Life of Handel Joana Sugrue
Chorus (with violin) Like Small Curled Feathers Grades 8 and 9
Piano Solo Edward McKelligott
Chorus Hark, the Herald Angels Sing Grades 6, 7, 8, 9
Recitation Long Ago on Christmas Mary Romaniak
Recitation A Letter to Santa Grades 3 and 4
Song Jolly Old St. Nicholas Grade 2
Song Holy Night Grades 6 and 7
Song The First Christmas Grade 1
Semi-chorus Christmas Time Grades 4 and 5
Recitation Santa Claus Lester Thomas
Song Christmas Grade 4
Essay Christmas Carols William Keefe
Chorus (with violin) Christmas Carol Eight Boys of Grade 8 and 9
Piano Duet Margaret McKenzie, Edith Hamilton
Chorus Joy to the World Grades 6, 7, 8, 9
Accompanists—
Piano Margaret McKenzie
Violin Miss Sampson

Lace Known to the Ancients.

Lace was known in Venice at an early period. It was not unknown to the Greeks and Romans. To protect the native article its importation into England was prohibited in 1483.

If You Are a Trifle Sensitive

About the size of your shoes it's some satisfaction to know that many people can wear shoes a size smaller by shaking Allen's Foot-Ease into them. Just the thing for Patent Leather Shoes, and for breaking in New Shoes. Sold everywhere, 25c. Sample FREE. Address, Allen S. Olmstead, LeRoy, N. Y.

A Big Surprise For Christmas
Oranges
25c to 50c a dozen
All kinds of
Nuts
Figs
Dates
Grape Fruit
Bananas
Confectionery
Of every kind, from the broken Christmas candy to the finest
Lenox Chocolates
In fancy boxes or in bulk.
Palmer Fruit Co.
Palmer, Mass.

TOWN WARRANT.
Commonwealth of Massachusetts.
County of Hampden, ss. Town of Palmer.
To either of the constables of the Town of Palmer, in said County. Greeting:

In the name of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, you are hereby required to notify and warn all the inhabitants of the Town of Palmer, qualified to vote in town affairs, to meet at the Town House at Four Corners, in said Palmer, on Saturday, the 6th day of January A. D. 1912, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, then and there to act on the following articles, viz:

Article 1. To choose a Moderator to preside at said meeting.

Art. 2. To see if the town will appropriate any sum of money for the use of the Board of Health and determine the amount.

Art. 3. To see if the town will appropriate the sum of one thousand ($1000) dollars for the support of its poor.

Art. 4. To see if the town will appropriate the sum of one thousand ($1000) dollars for its contingent account, to be used by the Selectmen for contingent expenses of the town.

Art. 5. To see if the town will authorize its Treasurer, by and with the approval of the Selectmen, to borrow a sum of money, not exceeding three thousand ($3000) dollars to be used by the Board of Health, for the support of its poor and for contingent expenses of the town, determine the time within which the money authorized to be borrowed shall be paid, the rate of interest, and authorize the Town Treasurer, by and with the approval of the Selectmen, to issue a note or notes of the town for the money authorized to be borrowed.

And you are hereby directed to serve this warrant by posting up attested copies thereof at the different public places, designated by the vote of the town, seven days at least before the holding of said meeting, and cause this warrant to be printed in the Palmer Journal at least two issues before the holding of said meeting.

Hereby fail not and make due return of this warrant, with your doings thereon to the Town Clerk, on or before the holding of said meeting.

Given under our hands this twentieth day of December, A. D. 1912.

GEORGE L. WARRINER,
HAROLD W. BRAINERD,
Selectmen of Palmer.

A true copy attest: 38-2
GEORGE A. BILLS,
Constable of the Town of Palmer.

Bay State Drug Co.
Palmer

Holiday Goods

The largest and best selected stock we have ever displayed

Special for Saturday, Dec. 23d

This advertisement if cut out and presented at our store will be good for a 5c purchase at the soda fountain.

Largest and Best Equipped Drug Store Between Worcester and Springfield

GALE BROS.

Carry a full line of CIGARS in Holiday boxes.
FRENCH BRIAR, MEERSCHAUM and CALABASH PIPES, CIGAR HOLDERS and CASES.
A big line of CHRISTMAS POST CARDS.

Corner of Main and Central Sts., Palmer

Useful Gifts for the Home
Of Every Kind and Description
Store Open Friday and Saturday Until 10 p. m.

CHILDREN'S ARM ROCKERS
With wood seats, at $1.15, 1.50, 2.25 and 2.50
With cane seats, at $1.40, 2.75, 3.25 and 4.00

CHILD'S HIGH CHAIRS WITH TRAYS
Wood seats, at $1.25, 1.35, 1.50 and 2.25
Cane seats, at $1.50, 1.75, 2.00 and 2.50

COMBINATION HIGH CHAIRS—
Cane seats, at $3.15, 3.60, 3.80 and 4.50

Christmas Special
LADIES' WORK TABLES—
Have two drawers, drop leaves, pedestal bases and made of solid mahogany. Well worth $12, $9.75

FLINT & BRICKETT
Opp. Court Sq. 439 Main St., Springfield.
COMPLETE HOUSE FURNISHERS.

W. D. Kinsman Co., Springfield
Christmas Post Cards.6 for 5c. Dennison's Tags and Seals, 5c package
The Sharpest Price Reductions Now in Force
ON ALL HOLIDAY MERCHANDISE
Quick selling figures now appear upon the choicest and best of all holiday merchandise. Both large and small lots offered in the special price reductions so that all Saturday shoppers will share with some important savings on their final day Christmas purchases.
NOVELTIES AT 25c AND 50c
Whisk Broom Holders, Glove Boxes, Handkerchief Boxes, Necktie Racks, Spool Holders, Hat Pin Holders, etc., covered with canvas in hand-painted effects. Some with the Celluloid effects. These at 25c and 50c
ALL HOLIDAY STATIONERY AT REDUCED PRICES
Closing Price on Dolls, 89c each
Big bouncing baby dolls, blondes or brunettes, with sleeping eyes. Special 89c each
THE HANDKERCHIEF SECTION OFFERS MANY RARE AND TEMPTING OPPORTUNITIES FOR THE FINAL DAY GIFT SEEKERS
Initial handkerchiefs, plain linen handkerchiefs, handsome embroidered styles, lace trimmed handkerchiefs, starting as low as 5c each and ranging to $3.75 each. Then there are the much wanted and most favored initial kerchiefs for both men and women in half dozen boxes at 59c a box, 75c a box, $1 a box, $1.50 a box and $2 a box.
STILL COMES THE NECKWEAR DAINTIER THAN EVER
25c, 50c 75c and Upwards
Each boxed in neat and attractive gift boxes ready for gift giving.
GLOVE NEWS MOST IMPORTANT
Gloves the biggest and most wanted item in the Kinsman store. Such famous makes as the Diana two-clasp Lamb Skin with fine embroidered needle-stitched backs in all desirable shades at $1 pair
The Windsor one-clasp French Kid with fine embroidered backs in all desirable shades at $1.25 per pair
The Monopole two-clasp Real French Kid with fine embroidered backs in all desirable shades and sizes at $1.50 per pair.
All can be had in a gift box.

Thorndike
Three Rivers
Bondsville

Many items of interest from these busy villages.

THORNDIKE.

For the children, goldfish in glass globes; Royce's, Palmer.

Resigned His Position.

William F. Moran resigned his position as second-hand in the No. 2 mill carding room Saturday. Mr. Moran has been employed by the Thorndike Company for the past 43 years, and during this time has been a painstaking and efficient employe. During the period of his employment he has been engaged in the same department, that of carding. He has worked under ten different overseers and five different agents. Mr. Moran was presented a small purse Saturday as a token of their good wishes and esteem. Few persons can boast of such a long service in the employ of one firm, and it would seem that he has earned a well deserved rest.

Mrs. Ellen Hartnett of Main street is ill with bronchitis.

Dr. H. A. Dumphy is confined to his home with an attack of rheumatism.

Mrs. F. E. Walker of Springfield, a former resident, visited friends here the past week.

Frank McCuska and family have moved to the Daniel Leary house on High street.

Benjamin Murphy has disposed of his farm and stock near Forest Lake to New York parties the past week.

Joseph Bouville Sr., disposed of his horses, wagons and other farming utensils at auction last Saturday.

Mr. Dickinson has moved from the late Isaac Gerald house to the home of Mrs. Fanny Keith on Main street.

The work on the new Main street sewer is completed with the exception of some work about the catch basin.

Charles Fountain, who has been confined to his home for several days with rheumatism, is able to be out again.

Joseph Bonville Jr. has purchased the Dennis Leary property on School street and has taken possession of the same.

The teachers in the grammar school distributed boxes of Christmas candy to the pupils in the various grades to-day.

Miss Mary V. Lyons has recovered from her illness and has resumed her employment in Springfield as stenographer.

Daniel Sullivan, one of Thorndike's old and well known residents, is quite ill at the home of his son, Daniel Jr. on High street.

Jeremiah Lamery has resumed work in the No. 1 mill beaming room after an absence at the home of his parents in Moosup, Ct.

Thomas Longtine, a resident of this village for several years, has gone to live with his daughter, Mrs. Charles McCarthy in Palmer.

James Burke has taken a position in the No. 2 carding room, taking the place of Fred Marsden of Fall River, who has been promoted to second-hand.

Miss Eveline Bengle has gone to Canada, having been called there by the serious illness of her sister, Sister Mary St. Victor, who is stationed in the convent at St. Hyacinthe.

James Crean, who has been confined to his home as a result of injuries sustained while at work on the Main street sewer, was able to be out of doors this week for the first time since the accident.

The choir at St. Mary's church will render special Christmas music at the 10 a. m. service Monday. Vespers and Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament will be at the usual hour Christmas night, 7.30.

John T. Moran, traveling representative for P. Casey's booking agency, was in town for a few days recently as guest of his brothers and sisters and left Sunday for a Boston engagement at Keith's Theatre.

There will be a Christmas tree and entertainment Saturday evening at 7.30 o'clock at the Congregational church, at which time Santa Claus will be present and assist in the distribution of Christmas gifts to the young and old.

The advent of the new Hampden railroad has been the means of bringing many persons to town. Accommodations here have been taxed to provide for many of the workmen. Others were obliged to go elsewhere to find board and lodging.

David Hammond has disposed of his farm to the Hampden railroad. His milk route was purchased by Calvin W. Hastings, who took over the route Tuesday. Mr. Hammond will dispose of his stock to-morrow, but will not vacate the premises he how occupies until spring.

The recent coffee party and entertainment given by the parishioners of St. Mary's church was a great success financially as was shown Sunday by the announcement of the pastor, Rev. P. J. Griffin. The net proceeds were in the neighborhood of $500, while the profits amounted to $461.

At the annual meeting of the Congregational church Wednesday evening these officers were elected: Prudential committee, C. A. Tabor, J. J. Campbell, H. E. W. Clark; clerk, J. J. Davis; collector, C. A. Tabor; treasurer, H. E. W. Clark; music committee, J. J. Campbell; ushers, R. A. Tabor, J. W. Miller.

The following officers for the ensuing year have been chosen by Division 15, A. O. H.: President, William P. Donovan; vice president, Daniel J. Brosnan; financial secretary, Patrick J. Ford; treasurer, Patrick J. Sullivan; recording secretary, Peter F. Cahill; sergeant-at-arms, Charles H. Hamilton; sentinel, Benjamin Lavine.

Division 7, Ladies' Auxilliary, A. O. H. have chosen the following officers for the coming year: President, Miss Marguerite Griffin; vice president, Miss Anna Foggarty; recording secretary, Miss Kathering Sugrue; financial secretary, Miss Nellie L. Sullivan; treasurer, Mrs. Mary Loftus; sentinel, Miss Katherine Donovan; sergeant-at-arms, Mrs. Josephine Donohue.

Court Hampden, F. of A., elected the following officers at a meeting in Foresters hall Tuesday evening: Chief Ranger, Thomas F. Donohue; subchief ranger, John Brosnan; treasurer, E. Gay; financial secretary, James Hutchinson; recording secretary, Patrick Ford; senior woodward, John Donovan; junior woodward, James Daley; senior beadle, Henry Gay; junior beadle, William F. Moran; trustee, Charles Hamilton; lecturer, S. Chabot; court physician, Dr. S. R. Carsley.

Yesterday marked the 20th anniversary of Rev. P. J. Griffin, pastor of St. Mary's church, to the priesthood. In the morning as usual the pastor was celebrant at the 7.30 mass. In commemoration of the event he gave a dinner at the parochial residence to the following well known clergymen of the Springfield diocese: Monseignor J. I. Madden, vicar general, Rev. P. B. Phelon, Rev. John C. Ivers, all of Holyoke; Rev. J. R Murphy, Chicopee Falls; Rev. J. F. Spellman, Rev. J. P. Curran, both of Springfield; Rev. J. J. Farrell, Worcester; Rev. J. P. McCaughan, Warren; Rev. Wm. Hart and Rev. M. J. O'Connell, Palmer; Rev. J. F. Geoffroy, Three Rivers; Rev. Thomas Kennedy, Bondsville; Rev. P. J. Griffin of Killarney, Ireland.

THREE RIVERS.

Goldfish make nice Christmas presents. At Royce's, Palmer.

Rockets Win Match.

The Rockets took two points from the Trimmers on the Y. P. I. A. alleys the other evening. The score:

Trimmers.
Fournier,	89	80	80	249
Barton	76	79	78	233
Lupien	70	70	70	210
Henrichon	92	85	89	266
Total	327	314	317	958
Rockets.
G. Rogers	80	95	85	260
Graham	91	73	112	276
G. Paulin	68	98	93	259
D. Fogarty	94	78	76	228
Total	313	344	366	1023

Standing of Bowling Teams.

	Won	Lost	P. C.	P. F.
Trimmers	16	10	615	8975
Crescents	16	10	615	8980
Rockets	13	14	481	8906
Brunswicks	13	14	481	8802
High Rollers	11	15	423	9071
Mohawks	10	16	385	8748

High team single, High Rollers, 395.
High single, George Paulin, 133.

Mission Concert.

The mission concert given in the Union church Sunday evening was well attended and much enjoyed. The program rendered was as follows:

Song, Sunday School
Exercise, "For Christ and the Church."
Mission Band
Song, "From Greenland's Icy Mountains."
Song, "Hark! The Trumpeter." Quartet
Exercise, "What Boys Can Do." Laurel Band
Song, School
Exercise, "What Can I Do?"
Cheerful Workers
Violin Solo, Elton Chamberlain
Recitation and Song, Loving Workers
Exercise, "Foreign Missions." C. I. C.
Song, School
Exercise, "An Old Song with a New Meaning."
Song, "Bethlehem's Star." Girls' Quartet
Recitation., Ethel Turklington
Song, School
Pastor's Remarks, Rev. Charles B. McDuffie
Song, "The Sweet Gift of Love." Quartet
Collection.
Closing Address, Herbert Turklington
Song, School

Emmet Jackson has resigned his position in Palmer Mill.

Nathan Cramer spent Sunday with his family in Worcester.

Milton Willis spent the last of the week with relatives in Springfield.

Nellie Conroy of Springfield spent Sunday at her home on Athol street.

Leo Smart has resigned his position in the carpenter shop of Palmer Mill.

Albert Jenks of Amherst spent Sunday at his home on Belchertown road.

O. Dinelle has moved his family from Belanger's block to Cheneyville.

Miss Bertha Pulsifer has gone to her home in Natick for the Christmas recess.

Frank Burse of Ludlow was the week-end guest of his parents on School street.

Daniel Sullivan of Vermont spent the week-end with his family on Palmer street.

William McCullough was called to Hartford Sunday by the illness of his father.

Emil Bengle of Westfield was the guest the first of the week of relatives in town.

Miss Ethel Jenks of Amherst spent the week-end at her home on Belchertown street.

Paul Rollett has returned home after a few days' visit with friends in New Hampshire.

Samuel Ferguson has resigned his position in the machine shop of the Palmer Mill.

Ralph Senecal and wife spent Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Herran.

Wilson Dunlap has moved his family from Thorndike to a tenement on Bourne street.

Archie Haugh of Gilbertville spent Sunday at the home of John Ritchie on Palmer street.

Sunday evening an entertainment will be given by the mission band. It will be a concert.

Miss Clara Holmes, teacher in grade five, left Friday for a ten-days' stay at her home in Chester.

Miss Blanche V. Upham has returned home after a several weeks' stay at Clifton Springs, N. Y.

John Ritchie of Palmer street was the guest Saturday and Sunday of friends in Gilbertville.

William Murray of Worcester, formerly of this village, was the guest Sunday of friends here.

Peter Labelle of Chicopee Falls spent a few days the first of the week with his mother on Palmer street.

Mrs. J. R. Calkins of the south part of the town has returned from a visit with relatives in Springfield.

Martha Buzzell of Springfield spent a few days the last of the week at the home of Miss Anna Murdock.

Henry Fredette of West Springfield was the guest Sunday of his mother, Mrs. Matte on Pleasant street.

After the moving pictures every Saturday evening there will be dancing at the Bijou, beginning to-morrow night.

Mrs. Orelia Bradley of Palmer was the guest the first of the week of her sister, Mrs. Charles Freak on School street.

Robert Morrison of Gilbertville was the guest Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Ritchie on Palmer street.

Mr. and Mrs. John Dechaine of Indian Orchard spent Sunday at the home of Archie Dechaine on Pleasant street.

William Prairie has moved from Springfield street to the tenement in the Samuel Winer block on Main street.

Henry Minnie has gone to Shelburne Falls, where he has accepted a position with a large construction company.

The members of the Union church will have a Christmas-tree and entertainment in the church Saturday evening.

Miss Luna Whitlock, teacher of grades seven and eight, has gone to her home in Manchester, N. H., for a week's stay.

Mrs. David Crosby of Palmer was the guest the last of the week at the home of her sister, Mrs. Samuel Mason on Ruggles street.

The Polish night school did not hold any sessions the past week because of the coming holiday and will reopen January 2, 1912.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Thayer of Springfield were the week-end guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Wilson on Athol street.

A gang of workmen arrived here the first of the week to work on the C. V. railroad bridge. They are at work bracing the bridge in the middle, where it had sunk considerably.

A lively runaway took place Monday afternoon. A horse belonging to Arthur Grant, becoming frightened at the crossroads on Belchertown road, started at a lively pace towards the village with Mr. Grant in pursuit. It came down the Belchertown road and started up Main street, but was stopped near the Quaboag hotel by D. J. Hartnett.

BONDSVILLE.

Two goldfish in glass globe, 25 cents, at Royce's, Palmer.

Christmas Entertainment.

A Christmas-tree and entertainment will be held in the vestry of the Methodist church Saturday evening at 6.30. All are cordially invited to attend. The following program will be rendered:

Singing, Girls' Chorus
Recitation, "It was on a Midnight Clear."
Anna Heys
Recitation, "No Room in the Inn."
Charlie Holden
Song, "Lullaby." Mrs. Morse's Class
Recitation, "Christmas Music." Irene Walder
Recitation, Rufus Bond
Exercise and Song, "A Christmas Dream."
Yolande Marsan, Emma Lamb, Dora Heys
Mary Doster, Edith McFarlane, Ruth
Simpson, Edith Norcross, Evelyn Stewart
Eileen Loy, Ruth Stewart.
Recitation, "Buying a Stocking."
Recitation, Violet Canterbury
Recitation, Ruth Simpson
Exercise, "Mrs. Santa Claus and Little Helpers."
Mrs. Santa Claus, Dora Heys
Little Helpers,
Adalard Marsan, Leslie Gunn, Lillian Redhead, Elizabeth Merriam, Vera Cole, Mabel Cole, Elmer Marsan.

Miss Mary Sullivan of Monson was a guest of friends Wednesday.

The property owned by the late Al. Southwick is advertised for sale.

Michael Moriarty is very ill at the home of his brother, Maurice Moriarty.

M. A. Morse of Belchertown was a guest Monday of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Morse.

Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Albro and family will spend Sunday with relatives in Springfield.

Martin Fitzgerald of New York city will spend Christmas at his home in this village.

Mr. and Mrs. O. A. Parent will entertain Christmas Day Ray Joy of South Framingham.

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Carmody of Brooklyn will spend Christmas with relatives here.

The stores will be closed Monday, Christmas Day, and are open all evenings this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Morgan will spend Christmas Day in Enfield, as guests of relatives.

Edward Fitzgerald of Amesbury will spend the holiday with his mother, Mrs. Mary Fitzgerald.

Winfield Marsan of Springfield spent Sunday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Adalard Marsan.

Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Loy will entertain Christmas Day Mr. and Mrs. James Convery of Worcester.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Randall will be eoliday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Walker in Springfield.

Mrs. Charles Darling of Three Rivers was a guest Tuesday of her sister, Mrs. Frank Mason.

William Magee of Boston will be a Christmas guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Christopher Magee.

Mrs. John Robinson was called to Berlin, N. H., the last of the week by the illness of her daughter.

Mr. and Mrs. John Hearn and daughter Elaine will spend Christmas with relatives in Worcester.

The village schools close to-day for the Christmas vacation of ten days. They will reopen January 1.

Mrs. George Moulton and Mrs. O. A. Parent were guests Tuesday of Mr. and Mrs. Olin Parent of Ludlow.

Mr. and Mrs. Rowland McFarlane and daughter Edith were guests Sunday of relatives in Springfield.

Mrs. Elizabeth Thompson returned Friday from a few days spent with her son, Fred Thompson in Palmer.

Mr. and Mrs. John Green spent Saturday as guests of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Cordner in Longmeadow.

Patrick Moriarty of Georgetown College, Washington, D. C., will spend the holiday vacation at his home here.

Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Faunce and daughter Bernice will spend the holiday season with relatives in New Bedford.

Miss Alice Thompson of Boston will spend a few days' vacation with Mr. and Mrs. Charles Banister at the holiday time.

Mr. and Mrs. William Taylor announce the engagement of their daughter, Edna Blanche, to Jason H. Keith of Thorndike.

George Moulton of Boston came Wednesday to spend a few days' vacation with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Moulton.

John Kog, charged with stealing paint from the Boston Duck Co. a few days ago, was fined $10 in the district court in Palmer.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Spillane Jr. went to-day to Willimansett to spend the holiday time with Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Spillane Sr.

Miss Ora Parent comes to-night from South Framingham to spend her week's vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. A. Parent.

Edward Sharratt will spend Sunday in Springfield and will be the guest Christmas Day of Mr. and Mrs. Stanton Flemming in Enfield.

The Ladies' Aid Society met Wednesday with Mrs. S. C. Faunce. There were 16 members present. The next meeting will be in two weeks with Mrs. C. D. Holden.

Miss Agnes Sullivan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Sullivan, will spend her Christmas vacation of a week at her home here.

Miss Kathleen Quirk, a student of Westfield, will come to-day to spend a week's vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Quirk.

Agnes Carmody, daughter of Mrs. B. Carmody, will spend next week with her mother. Miss Carmody is a student of Westfield normal school.

Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Holden and two sons, Charlie and Lester, will spend Christmas with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Bray in Stafford, Conn.

Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Albro will entertain Christmas Day Mr. and Mrs. T. S. Potter, Miss Lucy Goodrich, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Potter and daughter Barbara of Springfield.

An anniversary mass was held in St. Bartholomew's church Monday morning for the late Fr. Bartholomew McKeany. The following priests were present: Rev. John F. Griffin of Holyoke celebrant, Rev. Leo Kwasniewski of Ludlow, Rev. Fr. Sullivan, Rev. P. J. Griffin of Thorndike.

The subject of the morning service at the Methodist church Sunday will be "The word made flesh." There will be special music at this service. Sunday school at 11.45, Epworth League at 6. The evening service will be held at 7, and will have for the subject "Scenes in the life of Christ," and will be illustrated by stereopticon views.

The quicker a cold is gotten rid of the less the danger from pneumonia and other serious diseases. Mr. B. W. L. Hall of Waverly, Va., says: "I firmly believe Chamberlain's Cough Remedy to be absolutely the best preparation on the market for colds. I have recommended it to my friends and they all agree with me." For sale by all dealers.

Lynde & Gould

Our Line of Christmas Goods

Is the largest and best ever and we ask you to call early and examine before purchasing elsewhere.

Toilet Cases, Manicure Sets, Traveling Cases, Military Brushes, Shaving Sets, Safety Razors, Mugs and Brushes, Mirrors, Pocket Books, Card Cases, Christmas Stationery in Fancy boxes, Fountain Pens, including The Waterman, Conklin, Paul E. Wirt and Moors, Playing Cards in cases, including Bridg whist, Kodaks and Photographic Goods, Musical Instruments, Christmas Boxes for including gifts in all sizes.

We always carry the largest and best line of Chocolates in Fancy Christmas Packages. Cigars in Christmas Packages, including all the popular brands, Pipes, Smoking Sets and Cigar Cases.

We are showing the largest line of Cards and Calendars ever.

We take orders and deliver Ice Cream in bricks and bulk.

We take subscriptions for all Magazines and Periodicals.

Reliable Goods. Lowest Prices

Lynde & Gould

The Druggists, Stationers and Newsdealers

Nassowanno House Block, Main Street, Palmer

Johnson's Bookstore
BOOKSTORE BUILDING
391 Main St. Springfield

PLENTY OF GIFTS AND CLERKS AT JOHNSON'S

Books Stationery
Bibles Fountain Pens
Calendars Christmas Cards
Leather Goods Cameras
Decorations Toys and Games
Three Floors 150 Employes

Books Stationery Pictures
Prompt attention to mail orders

Holiday Gifts of Silverware

Silver is the first thought when considering gifts for any season or occasion. No more graceful compliment can be extended than an offering of rich silver elegant in design, perfect in taste and in the newest shapes.

1847 ROGERS BROS. XS TRIPLE is the mark which represents the highest perfection in silver plate. With this imprint on every article you can buy

"Silver Plate that Wears"

as safely as an expert. This stamp also guarantees that each piece is perfect in artistic design and finish.

Sold by leading dealers everywhere. Send for catalogue "C-L" showing all designs.

MERIDEN BRITANNIA CO.
(International Silver Co., Successor.)
Meriden, Conn.

The Rayo Lamp

It Never Flickers

The long winter evenings give a woman a splendid chance for sewing or embroidery; but her eyes suffer from the strain unless she has a good light.

The Rayo is the best lamp made.

It gives a strong, diffused light that is remarkably easy to the eyes. There is no glare to it; no flicker. It lights up a whole room. The Rayo is an economical lamp, too.

You get the most possible light-value for the oil burned; and the Rayo itself is a low-priced lamp. Yet it is a handsome lamp—an ornament to any room in the house. The Rayo Lamp is easily lighted without removing shade or chimney; easy to clean and rewick. Made of solid brass, nickel-plated; also in numerous other styles and finishes.

Ask your dealer to show you his line of Rayo lamps; or write for descriptive circular to any agency of the

Standard Oil Company
(Incorporated)

Monson News.

Death of Mrs. Catherine Sullivan.

Mrs. Catherine Sullivan, 65, died Wednesday morning at her home on Bliss street after a three days' illness of pneumonia. While attending the funeral of a sister in Florence Sunday, she was taken ill. She was born in Ireland and came to this country at the age of 12. But for a few years she spent in Enfield, she had always lived in Monson. She leaves two daughters, Misses Anna and Elizabeth, both of this town. Her funeral was held at St. Patrick's church this morning at 9.30 and burial was in the Pearl street cemetery.

Fred Moores has taken a position in Stafford.

Lloyd Partelo is ill at his home on Gates avenue.

Rev. J. M. Gage of Chicopee Falls spent Tuesday in town.

Lester N. Pease of Meriden, Ct., is visiting Monson friends.

Charles Grout of Springfield is visiting relatives in town.

Henry Johnson of Shelburne Falls is spending a few days in town.

Charles Picquard has sold his household goods and will move to Montreal immediately.

Mr. and Mrs. F. O. Bliss of South Main street are spending the holidays in New Haven.

John H. Leahy of Tufts college is at his home on North Main street for the Christmas vacation.

A. D. Noreross Jr. of Main street has been spending a few days with friends in New York city.

Mrs. Elmer Longdon of South Main street has returned from a visit in Worcester and Boston.

Mrs. Joseph Hiekey, who has been visiting in town, has returned to her home in Keene, N. H.

Court Monson, Foresters of America, held their quarterly meeting last evening. Officers were eleeted.

William F. Cahill of Lakeville, Ct., is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Cahill on Granite street.

Harry L. Rees of Main street has taken a position with F. L. Sullivan, the jeweler, for a few days.

Miss Mabel Fuller of Holland is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Fuller on Lincoln street.

Mrs. M. M. Swett has returned from a visit with Monson friends to her home in Breezy Point, N. B.

John Broadfoot of Amherst spent Sunday at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. David Broadfoot.

S. F. Cushman Jr. and Harold Shaw of Amherst college are spending the holidays at their homes in town.

Miss Frieda Bradway of Moulton Hill has returned from a several months' stay at Newport, N. H.

George Bugbee of Dalton has been visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. N. A. Bugbee on Pleasant street.

Miss Florence Bugbee of North Adams is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. N. A. Bugbee on Pleasant street.

Mrs. Thomas Heffernan of Worcester is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John McKenna on Bridge street.

William Patterson, who has been spending a few days with relatives in town, has returned to his home in Milford.

Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Francis and family of Dana are visiting at the home of Mrs. Mary A. Smith on Main street.

Rev. C. B. McDuffee of Three Rivers will conduct services in the Silver street chapel Sunday afternoou at 3 o'eloek.

Mr. and Mrs. William L. Rieketts have returned from Ohio, where they were called by the death of Mrs. Ricketts' mother.

Charles Rieketts and A. E. Shaw of the Rieketts & Shaw woolen mill have returned from a business trip to Philadelphia and Washington.

Miss Lillian Meecham of New York city is spending Christmas with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Meecham in the south part of the town.

The public schools closed to-day for the Christmas vacation. Appropriate Christmas exercises were held in all the schools this afternoon.

Albert Dunsford of Trinity hospital, who underwent an operation in a New York hospital recently, is a guest of Henry N. Flynt on High street.

Henry Foley of Massachusetts Institute of Technology is spending the holiday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Foley on the Palmer road.

Gladys Lull of the New England Conservatory of Music and Ralph Lull of Pratt Institute are spending the holidays with their parents on Lincoln street.

Robert S. Fay and Harry Rees of the Massachusetts Agricultural college of Amherst are spending the Christmas vacation at their homes on Main street.

The last ear from Springfield to Palmer on Christmas night will run through to Monson to aecommodate those wishing to attend the theater that evening.

The Monson basketball team will go to Lee Christmas Day to play the team in that place. Many Monson people are planning to aecompany the team. On the return the members of the team will attend the play in the Court Square theatre in Springfield.

A Christmas eoncert was given by eighth and ninth grades in the Green street school Tuesday morning. Several Christmas carols were sung and instrumental music was rendered by different scholars. The concert was under the direction of Miss J. V. Cantwell, supervisor of musie.

The condition of the state highway from North Main street to North Monson is very pleasing to those who travel over it, the state having repaired this road a short time ago. The selectmen have reeeived promises from the state that this strip of state road will be oiled and put in fine eondition next spring.

The pulpils of the Silver street school enjoyed Christmas tree exercises in the Silver street chapel Thursday evening. The interior of the chapel was very prettily decorated with evergreen and the exercises were under the direetion of the teacher, Miss Keenan. Many of the children's relatives and friends were present.

At a recent meeting of the school committee it was deeided that any pupils who were unable to enter the first grade last September will be given an opportunity to do so on January 9. It is also desired that the parents of any children who plan to take advantage of this opportunity will inform the teachers or the school superintendent, F. A. Wheeler, as soon as possible.

Mount Ella lodge of United Workmen has elected the following officers for the coming year: Past master workman, David Broadfoot; master workman, August Peterson; foreman, J. J. Kimber; overseer, Charles Bradley; recorder, P. V. Spofford; financier, John McCarthy; treasurer, James Burdick; guide. William Lewis; inside watchman, Ely Barstow; outside watchman, Patriek Duffey; representative to the general eourt, James Fitzgerald; alternate, David Broadfoot; superintendent of hall, Robert R. Sheriffs.

A meeting of the Springfield Clerical Club, which is composed of the 12 Methodist pastors and ministers of the Springfield district, met at the residence of Rev. F. W. McConnell on Green street Tuesday afternoon. The regular business was attended to and two book reviews were given including a review of Wallard's "World of Life" by Rev. W. M. Cassidy of Greenfield and a verse of Hall's "Social Solution in the Light of Christian Ethies" by Rev. W. M. Crawford of Springfield. Dinner was served at the parsonage by several women of the parish, under the direction of Mrs. F. W. McConnell. Among those attending were Rev. J. P. Kennedy, district superintendent of Holyoke, Rev. J. M. Gage of Chicopee, Rev. B. W. Rust of Easthampton, Rev. E. W. Lutterman of Ware, Rev. J. L. Toy of Amherst, Rev. P. L. Frick of Westfield, Rev. C. O. Ford and Rev. R. A. Colpitts of Springfield and Rev. F. W. McConnell of Monson.

WALES.

Death of Mrs. Bela Baker.

Mrs. Bela Baker, 66, died at her home Wednesday evening after a long illness. The funeral was held Saturday afternoon, Mr. Wheaton of the Methodist church officiating. Burial was in Laurel Hill cemetery. Mrs. Baker leaves beside her husband, three sons, Harry E. of Arlington and Frank M. and Walter of this town, aud two daughters, Mrs. Edith Kennedy of Medford and Ella Baker.

P. A. Gaudette of Bridgeport, Ct., has been spending a few days in town this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Fayette Needham and daughter of Athol are spending the holidays with Mr. and Mrs. John Coy.

John Lynch has returned from Manchester, where he has been working on a bridge for Hynes & Son, and has taken a position in the Dell mill.

There will be a Christmas entertainment and tree with chicken-pie supper at the Methodist church to-morrow evening and Monday evening there will be a tree and concert at the Baptist church. The ladies will serve ice cream and cake.

The selectmen met Tnesday afternoon and appointed N. F. Bradley tax collector in plaee of C. G. Thompson, who has recently moved to Bridgeport, Ct., and W. E. Needham member of the school committee to fill the vacaney made by the death of Judge H. A. McFarland.

The Germania Woolen Company of Holyoke has leased the Hegan mill property for a year and has several men employed making necessary repairs. Henry Needham is engaged to paper and repair the tenements and boarding-house. The company has a large government order and will begin work as soon as possible.

Every family has need of a good, reliable liniment. For sprains, bruises, soreness of the musles aud rheumatic pains there is none better than Chamberlain's. Sold by all dealers.

Fraternity Notes.

Palmer Grange meets this evening.

Division 15, A. O. H., meets Sunday afternoon in Thorndike.

Palmer lodge of Odd Fellows meets next Wednesday evening.

Palmer council, Knights of Columbus, meet next Thursday evening.

Next Thursday is the regular meeting night of Good Cheer Rebekah lodge.

Tockwotton tribe of Red Men will hold a meeting next Tuesday evening, when officers will be elected.

Pilgrim commandery, Knights of Malta, will hold a regular meeting next Tuesday evening, when it is expected that Grand Commander Charles B. Wilson of Westfield will be present.

At the annual meeting of Revere chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, Friday evening, these officers were eleeted: Worthy matron, Mrs. Elvira B. Shaw; worthy patron, Walter L. Shaw; associate matron, Mrs. Lettie R. Paine; secretary, Mrs. Addie M. Ezekiel; treasurer, Mrs. Emma L. Keith; conductress, Mrs. May McCrea; associate conductress, Mrs. Ida L. Whiteomb; trustee for three years, Charles T. Brainerd.

At the regular meeting of Court Palmer, F. of A., Tuesday evening, the following officers were chosen for the ensuing six months: Chief Ranger, David Micott; sub-chief ranger, J. P. O'Connor; treasurer, James Lawlor; financial secretary, Albert Ayers; recording secretary, J. E. Learned; senior woodward, Fred Labelle; junior woodward, Fred Capen; senior beadle, Leo Darche; junior beadle, Albert Barsalow; lecturer, J. T. Maloney; trustee for three years, G. F. Callahan; physician, Dr. S. R. Carsley; janitor, W. G. St. John. These officers will be installed Tuesday evening, Jan. 2d, by District Deputy Robert E. Green of Monson. There will also be a collation after the installation.

WARREN.

Death of Mrs. Mary Lydon.

Mrs. Mary Lydon, 78, widow of the late Bartholomew Lydon, died Saturday evening at her home on the Ware road, after a two-weeks' illness from heart disease. She leaves one son, Joseph Lydon. The funeral was held Monday morning from St. Paul's church and burial was in St. Paul's eemetery.

Arthur Demers, an employ in the Sayles & Jenks' woolen mill, broke the third finger of his left hand Wednesday afternoon. He was handling some beams and caught his hand between two as one fell.

At the annual meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the A. O. H. Tuesday evening, these officers were elected: President, Mrs. Maude Hill; vice president, Mrs. Mary Young; financial secretary, Miss Bessie Healy; recording secretary, Miss Nellie McKelligett; treasurer, Miss Annie Ranchor; serggeant-at-arms, Miss Nora Cummings; sentry, Nrs. Michael Sullivan.

Court Warren, F. of A., elected these officers Monday evening: Chief ranger, Louis Piehette; subehief ranger, John Ryan; financial secretary, Louis Mason; treasurer, Everett P. Sheridan; recording secretary, Peirce Culliton; senior beadle, S. R. Brouillette; junior beadle, John Moran; senior woodward, Frank Hill; junior woodward, Andrew Oleson; leeturer, Edward J. Boylan; physieian, Dr. John E. Dalton; trustees, Truman Willis, W. Frank Babcock and George L. Smith. The officers will be installed at the first meeting in January.

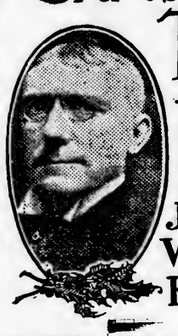
Ears of Animals.

The hearing apparatus of animals is like that of human beings, but modified to suit the conditions of the animal's life. Deer, hares, and horses, like all animals whose life necessitates keen hearing, have ears shaped and set in the best way to catch faint or far-off sounds. The serpent has no ear-drums. The ear of the fish is a membraneous labyrinth connected with the bladder by a series of little bones.

Though the sense of hearing is perfect only in the higher animals, even the animals that have no ears perceive sounds. Instead of ears they are supplied with fine nerves whose function is to note and to respond to every touch; nerves whose receiving centers are different from the centers of the purely tactile impressions. All animals, including insects, have an apparatus which enables them to distinguish the approach of an enemy.—Harper's Weekly

Food Value of Raisins.

In food value a pound of raisins is equal to a pound of bread, two pounds of milk, pounds of bananas, or six pounds of apples



"THE LINEN STORE"
Frank K. Confield, Prop.

GIFT DRESSES
for Little Boys and Girls

Exquisitely embroidered in dainty designs. The work is known as Espenzell embroidery and is the finest needle work in the world. Sizes from one to six years. We are also showing a line of Espenzell Handkerchiefs, Glove Cases, Shirt Waist and Gown Cases which make suitable gifts for prospective brides.

"THE LINEN STORE"
121 State St. Springfield.

Little Mandy's Christmas Tree

by JAMES WHITCOMB RILEY

LITTLE Mandy and her Ma
'S poorest folks you ever saw!
Lived in poorest house in town,
Where the fence 'uz all tore down.

And no front-door steps at all—
Ist a' old box 'g'inst the wall;
And no door-knob on the door
Outside,—My! but they 'uz poor!

Wuz no winder-shutters on,
And some of the winders gone,
And where they 'uz broke they'd pas'e
Ist brown paper 'crost the place.

Tell you! when it's winter there,
And the snow ist ever'where,
Little Mandy's Ma she say
'Spec' they'll freeze to death some day

Wunst my Ma and Me—when we
Be'n to church, and's goin' to be
Chris'mas purty soon,—we went
There—like the Committee sent.

And Sir! When we're in the door,
Wus no carpet on the floor,
And no fire — and heels—and—head
Little Mandy's tucked in bed.
And her Ma telled my Ma she
Got no coffee but ist tea,
And fried mush—and's all they had
Sense her health broke down so bad.

Nen Ma hug and hold me where
Little Mandy's layin' there;
And she kiss her, too, and nen
Mandy kiss my Ma again.

And my Ma she telled her we
Goin' to have a Chris'mus-Tree
At the Sunday School, 'at's fer
All the children, and fer her.

Little Mandy think—nen she Say, "What is a Chris'mus-Tree?"
Nen my Ma she gived her Ma
Somepin' 'at I saw.

And say she must take it,—and
She ist maked her keep her hand
Wite close shut, and nen she kiss
Her hand—shut ist ike it is.

Nen we comed away . . . And nen
When its Chris'mus Eve again,
And all of us childerns be
At the Church and Chris'mus-Tree—

And all git our toys and things
'At old Santy Claus he brings
And puts on the Tree;—wite where
The big Tree 'us standin' there.

And the things 'uz all tooked down,
And the childerns, all in town,
Got their presents—nen we see
They's a little Chris'mus-Tree.

Wite behind the big Tree—so
We can't see till nen, you know,—
And it's all ist loaded down
With the purtiest things in town!

And the teacher smile and say:
"This here Tree 'at's hid away
It's marked 'Little Mandy's Tree!'
Little Mandy! Where is she?"
Nen nobody say a word.
Stillest place you ever heard!
Till a man tiptoe up where
Teachers' still a waiting there.

Nen the man he whispers, so
Ist the Teacher hears, you know.
Nen he tiptoe back and go
Out the big door—ist as slow!

Little Mandy, though she don't
Answer—and Ma say "she won't
Never, though each year they'll be 'Little Mandy's Chris'mus-Tree.!'

Fer pore children"—my Ma says—
And Committee say they guess
"Little Mandy's Tree" 'ull be Bigger than the other Tree!

(Copyright, by Bobbs-Merrill Co.)

His Three Secret Societies.

The attorney demanded to know how many secret societies the witness belonged to, whereupon the witness objected and appealed to the court. "The court sees no harm in the question," answered the judge. "You may answer." "Well I belong to three." "What are they?" "The Knights of Pythias, the Odd Fellows and the gas company."

Must Push to Reach Success.

When you are inclined to critlcize any man for being too aggressive, remember that no one ever worked his way along the path to success at a faster rate than the crowd without bumping into a few people.

Many Children Are Sickly.

Mother Gray's Sweet Powders for children break up Colds in 24 hours, relieve Feverishness, Headache, Stomach Troubles, Teething Disorders, and Destroy Worms. At all druggists, 25c. Sample mailed FREE. Address, Allen S. Olmstead, LeRoy, N. Y.

A WOMAN'S BACK

The Aches and Pains Will Disappear If The Advice of This Palmer Citizen is Followed.

A woman's back has many aches and pains.
Most times 'tis the kidney's fault.
Backache is really kidney ache;
That's why Doan's Kidney Pills cure it.
Many Palmer women know this.
Read what one has to say about it.

Mrs. William H. King, 406 Main St., Palmer, Mass., says: "I had kidney complaint for years and was steadily growing worse. I was rarely free from a dull, bearing-down pain in my back and the kidney secretions bothered me. My head also ached and I had dizzy spells. Finally my husband obtained a box of Doan's Kidney Pills for me at Lynde and Gould's Drug Store and I began their use. They restored me to good health and at that time I gave a public statement, telling of my experience. It is a pleasure for me to confirm all I have previously said in praise of this remedy."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name — DOAN'S — and take no other.

360 Main St. Springfield.

MILLINERY

Millinery Ribbon Sale
EXTENDED THROUGHOUT THIS WEEK.
Here are a few items in the Millinery line that will make useful and appreciated
Christmas Gifts
Trimmed Hats for Ladies and Children, Infants' Bonnets and Knitted Aviation Caps, extra heavy stitch.

S. LEVISON
THE LEADING MILLINERY HOUSE

MORTGAGEE'S SALE OF REAL ESTATE. By virtue of a power of sale contained in a certain mortgage deed given by Charles E. Dewey to the Palmer Savings Bank, dated December 6th, A. D. 1898, and recorded in the Registry of Deeds for the County of Hampden, book 597, page 230, for breach of the condition contained in said mortgage and for the purpose of foreclosing the same, will be sold at public auction, on the premises, on Saturday, the thirteenth day of January A. D. 1912, at two o'clock, in the afternoon, all and singular the premises, not heretofore released, which were conveyed by said mortgage deed, namely:—A certain parcel of land, with the buildings thereon, and all the rights, privileges and appurtenances thereunto appertaining or belonging, lying in the Depot village of Palmer in said County of Hampden, and bounded and described as follows, to wit:—SOUTHERLY by South Main street; EASTERLY by land of one Yost; NORTHERLY by land of the Boston and Albany Railroad Company, and WESTERLY by land of Herman A. Sprague. Being a part of the property known as the "Childs Homestead."

The sale will be made subject to all unpaid taxes and other municipal assessments, if any, and $200.00 will be required to be paid in cash by the purchaser at the time and place of sale, as earnest money. Other terms will be announced at the time and place of sale.

PALMER SAVINGS BANK, Mortgagee.
by Charles L. Wald, its Treasurer.
David F. Dillon, Att'y.
Palmer, Mass., December 21, 1911.

Palmer Trucking Co.
Successors to S. H. Brown.
Trucking and Jobbing of all kinds.
Piano Moving.
Dealers in Spring Water Ice.
Orders solicited, prompt attention guaranteed.
F. M. Ralton, Manager.
Office, South Main street.
Telephone connection.

Low Prices for Shoe Repairing
See these prices for machine work:
Men's shoes, half soled and heeled, sewed, $1.00
Men's shoes, full soled and heeled, sewed, 1.50
Ladies' Shoes, soled and heeled, sewed, .85
Better than hand work and much quicker. Satisfaction guaranteed.
H. Platkin,
Bridge St., Palmer.

"Visit the Ridgewood Mills at Holyoke."
This Is Santa's Dress Goods Factory
The material for a suit, skirt or waist is always an acceptable gift. Here where are made is the place to get it. Our direct selling plan makes your Christmas money go farther. Styles represent the very latest tendencies. Weaves and colors in most pleasing variety. Buy at our salesroom at factory or write for samples and order by mail.
RIDGEWOOD CLOTHS
Ridgewood Mills
639 Main St.
Holyoke, Mass.

PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM
Cleanses and beautifies the hair. Promotes a luxuriant growth. Never Fails to Restore Gray Hair to its Youthful Color. Cures scalp diseases & hair falling. 50c, and $1.00 at Druggists

Last Call Before Christmas

Our stock is large enough to furnish suitable useful gifts right up to the last minute.

ROCHESTER CHAFING DISHES
Made of first quality copper and brass, nickel-plated finish; will not tarnish.
$5, 5.50, 6.50, 8.50

COFFEE PERCOLATORS AND TEAPOTS
With Tea Ball attachment. Absolutely sanitary. Made of copper; nickel-plated; ebonized handle. $2, 2.25, 2.50, 2.75, $3

CASSEROLES AND BEAN POTS
Metal mounted earthenware. This ware is as near fire-proof as such can be made; the interior is of spotless white porcelain; no taste of tin, iron or granite.
3.50, 4.00, 6.50

CHAFING DISH TRAYS
Nickel and copper, sand finish, $2.00

CRUMB TRAYS
either with brushes or scraper,—Nickel, Lacquered Brass or Copper Finish 65c, $2 and $2.50

SLEDS
Flexible Flyers $2.00
Low Sleds for Double Rippers 75c and $1.00
High Sleds Folding Sleds

BARNEY and BERRY ICE SKATES

BOYS	GIRLS
$ .75	$1.25
1.00	1.50
1.50	2.00
2.00

KEY SKATES $1.50 and $2.00
HOCKEY STICKS 10c, 15c, 25c, 50c
INGERSOLL WATCHES
warranted for one year. Nickel and Gun Metal Finish
$1.00, $1.50 and $2.00

POCKET SCISSORS
CIGAR SCISSORS
EMBROIDERY SCISSORS
SCISSORS WITH STERLING SILVER HANDLES
50c, 60c, 75c, 90c, $1, $1.25 pair
POCKET KNIVES with one, two, three and four blades; silver celluloid; stag; ivory; pearl; bone and wood handles, 10c, 25c, 50c, 75c, 90c, $1, 1.25, 1.50, $2, 2.50
CARVING SETS in two and three piece sets, 1.75, $3, 3.50, $5, 6.50
RAZORS, $1, 1.50, $2, $2.50, $3
SAVORY ROASTERS $1, 1.75, $2
BREAD MIXERS
four loaf size $2.00
six loaf size $2.50
UNIVERSAL MEAT CHOPPERS 1.25 and $2
OIL HEATERS $3.50, $4, $4.50

Quality Always First.

Whitcomb & Faulkner,

All cars stop in front of the store.
Palmer, Mass.
Telephone.

Compliments of the Season

A Christmas Story

By O. HENRY

COPYRIGHT BY F.I. NELSON

THERE are no more Christmas stories to write. Fiction is exhausted; and newspaper items, the next best, are manufactured by clever young journalists who have married early and have an engagingly pessimistic view of life. Therefore, for seasonable diversion, we are reduced to two very questionable sources—facts and philosophy. We will begin with—whichever you choose to call it.

Children are pestilential little animals with which we have to cope under a bewildering variety of conditions. Especially when childish sorrows overwhelm them are we put to our wit's end. We exhaust our paltry store of consolation; and then beat them, sobbing, to sleep. Then we grovel in the dust of a million years, and ask God why. Thus we call out of the rat-trap. As for the children, no one understands them except old maids, hunchbacks, and shepherd dogs.

Now come the facts in the case of the Rag-Doll, the Tatterdemalion, and the Twenty-fifth of December.

On the tenth of that month the Child of the Millionaire lost her rag-doll. There were many servants in the Millionaire's palace on the Hudson, and these ransacked the house and grounds, but without finding the lost treasure. The Child was a girl of five, and one of those perverse little beasts that often wound the sensibilities of wealthy parents by fixing their affections upon some vulgar, inexpensive toy instead of upon diamond-studded automobiles and pony phaetons.

The Child grieved sorely and truly, a thing inexplicable to the Millionaire, to whom the rag-doll market was about as interesting as Bay State Gas; and to the Lady, the Child's mother, who was all for form—that is, nearly all, as you shall see.

The Child cried inconsolably, and grew hollow-eyed, knock-kneed, spindling, and corykilverty in many other respects. The Millionaire smiled and tapped his coffers confidently. The pick of the output of the French and German toymakers was rushed by special delivery to the mansion, but Rachel refused to be comforted. She was weeping for her rag child, and was for a high protective tariff against all foreign foolishness. Then doctors with the finest bedside manners and stop-watches were called in. One by one they chattered futilely about peptomanganate of iron and sea voyages and hypophosphites until their stop-watches showed that Bill Rendered was under the wire for show or place. Then, as men, they advised that the rag-doll be found as soon as possible and restored to its mourning parent. The Child sniffed at therapeutics, chewed a thumb, and waited for her Betsy. And all this time cablegrams were coming from Santa Claus saying that he would soon be here and enjoining us to show a true Christian spirit and let up on the poolrooms and tontine policies and platoon systems long enough to give him a welcome. Everywhere the spirit of Christmas was diffusing itself. The banks were refusing loans, the pawnbrokers had doubled their gang of helpers, people bumped your shins on the streets with red sleds, Thomas and Jeremiah bubbled before you on the bars while you waited on one foot, holly-wreaths of hospitality were hung in windows of the stores, they who had 'em were getting out their furs. You hardly knew which was the best bet in balls—three, high, moth, or snow. It was no time at which to lose the rag-doll of your heart.

The Child Grieved Sorely and Truly

If Doctor Watson's investigating friend had been called in to solve this mysterious disappearance he might have observed on the Millionaire's wall a copy of "The Vampire." That would have quickly suggested, by induction, "A rag and a bone and a hank of hair." "Flip," a Scotch terrier, next to the rag-doll in the child's heart, frisked through the halls. The hank of hair! Aha! X, the unfound quantity, represented the rag-doll. But, the bone? Well, when dogs find bones they—— Done! It were an easy and a fruitful task to examine Flip's fore feet. Look, Watson! Earth—dried earth between the toes. Of course the dog—but Sherlock was not there. Therefore it devolves. But topography and architecture must intervene.

The Millionaire's palace occupied a lordly space. In front of it was a lawn close-mowed as a South Ireland man's face two days after a shave. At one side of it and fronting on another street was a pleasaunce trimmed to a leaf, and the garage and stables. The Scotch pup had ravished the rag-doll from the nursery, dragged it to a corner of the lawn, dug a hole, and buried it after the manner of careless undertakers. There you have the mystery solved, and no checks to write for the hypodermical wizard or fi-pun notes to toss to the sergeant. Then let's get down to the heart of the thing, tiresome readers—the Christmas heart of the thing.

He Sat Betsy on the Bar and Addressed Her Loudly and Humorously.

Fuzzy was drunk. Not riotously or helplessly or loquaciously, as you or I might get, but decently, appropriately, and inoffensively, as becomes a gentleman down on his luck.

Fuzzy was a soldier of misfortune. The road, the haystack, the park bench, the kitchen door, the bitter round of eleemosynary beds-with-shower-bath-attachment, the petty pickings and ignobly garnered largesse of great cities—these formed the chapters of his history.

Fuzzy walked toward the river, down the street that bounded one side of the Millionaire's house and grounds. He saw a leg of Betsy, the lost rag-doll, protruding, like the clue to a Lilliputian murder mystery, from its untimely grave in a corner of the fence. He dragged forth the maltreated infant, tucked it under his arm, and went on his way crooning a song of his brethren that no doll that has been brought up to the sheltered life should hear. Well for Betsy that she had no ears. And well that she had no eyes save unseeing circles of black; for the faces of Fuzzy and the Scotch terrier were those of brothers, and the heart of no rag-doll could withstand twice to become the prey of such fearsome monsters.

Though you may not know it, Grogan's saloon stands near the river and near the foot of the street down which Fuzzy traveled. In Grogan's, Christmas cheer was already rampant.

Fuzzy entered with his doll. He fancied that as a mummer at the feast of Saturn he might earn a few drops from the wassail cup.

He set Betsy on the bar and addressed her loudly and humorously, seasoning his speech with exaggerated compliments and endearments, as one entertaining his lady friend. The loafers and bibbers around caught the farce of it, and roared. The bartender gave Fuzzy a drink. Oh, many of us carry rag-dolls.

"One for the lady?" suggested Fuzzy impudently, and tucked another contribution to Art beneath his waistcoat.

He began to see possibilities in Betsy. His first-night had been a success. Visions of a vaudeville circuit about town dawned upon him.

In a group near the stove sat "Pigeon" McCarthy, Black Riley, and "One-ear" Mike, well and unfavorably known in the tough shoestring district that blackened the left bank of the river. They passed a newspaper back and forth among themselves. The item that each solid and blunt feigner pointed out was an advertisement headed "One Hundred Dollars Reward." To earn it, one must return the rag-doll lost, strayed, or stolen from the Millionaire's mansion. It seemed that grief still ravaged, unchecked, in the bosom of the too faithful Child. Flip, the terrier, capered and shook his absurd whiskers before her, powerless to distract. She wailed for her Betsy in the faces of walking, talking, ma-ma-ing, and eye-closing French Mabelles and Violettes. The advertisement was a last resort.

Black Riley came from behind the stove and approached Fuzzy in his one-sided, parabolic way.

The Christmas mummer, flushed with success, had tucked Betsy under his arm, and was about to depart to the filling of impromptu dates elsewhere.

"Say, 'Bo," said Black Riley to him, "where did you cop out dat doll?"

"This doll?" asked Fuzzy, touching Betsy with his forefinger to be sure that she was the one referred to. "Why, this doll was presented to me by the Emperor of Beloochistan. I have seven hundred others in my country home in Newport. This doll——"

"Cheese the funny business," said Riley. "You swiped it or picked it up at de house on de hill where—but never mind dat. You want to take fifty cents for de rags, and take it quick. Me brother's kid at home might be wantin' to play wid it. Hey—what?"

He produced the coin.

Fuzzy laughed a gurgling, insolent, alcoholic laugh in his face. Go to the office of Sarah Bernhardt's manager and propose to him that she be released from a night's performance to entertain the Tackytown Lyceum and Literary Coterie. You will hear the duplicate of Fuzzy's laugh.

Black Riley gauged Fuzzy quickly with his blueberry eye as a wrestler does. His hand was itching to play the Roman and wrest the rag Sabine from the extemporaneous merry-andrew who was entertaining an angel unaware. But he refrained. Fuzzy was fat and solid and big. Three inches of well-nourished corporeity, defended from the winter winds by dingy linen, intervened between his vest and trousers. Countless small, circular wrinkles running around his coat-sleeves and knees guaranteed the quality of his bone and muscle. His small, blue eyes, bathed in the moisture of altruism and wooziness, looked upon you kindly yet without abashment. He was whiskerly, whiskyly, fleshily formidable. So, Black Riley temporized.

"Wot'll you take for it, den?" he asked.

"Money," said Fuzzy, with husky firmness, "cannot buy her."

He was intoxicated with the artist's first sweet cup of attainment. To set a faded-blue, earth-stained rag-doll on a bar, to hold mimic converse with it, and to find his heart leaping with the sense of plaudits earned and his throat scorching with free libations poured in his honor—could base coin buy him from such achievements. You will perceive that Fuzzy had the temperament.

"Money," Said Fuzzy With Husky Firmness, "Cannot Buy Her."

Fuzzy walked out with the gait of a trained sea-lion in search of other cafes to conquer.

Though the dusk of twilight was hardly yet apparent, lights were beginning to spangle the city like pop-corn bursting in a deep skillet. Christmas eve, impatiently expected, was peeping over the brink of the hour. Millions had prepared for its celebration. Towns would be painted red. You, yourself, have heard the horns and dodged the capers of the Saturnalians.

"Pigeon" McCarthy, Black Riley, and "One-ear" Mike held a hasty converse outside Grogan's. They were narrow-chested, pallid striplings, not fighters in the open, but more dangerous in their ways of warfare than the most terrible of Turks. Fuzzy, in a pitched battle, could have eaten the three of them. In a go-as-you-please encounter he was already doomed.

They overtook him just as he and Betsy were entering Costigan's Casino. They deflected him, and shoved the newspaper under his nose. Fuzzy could read—and more.

"Boys," said he, "you are certainly damn true friends. Give me a week to think it over."

The soul of a real artist is quenched with difficulty.

The boys carefully pointed out to him that advertisements were soul-

Fuzzy Entered the Millionaire's Gate and Zigzagged Toward the Softly Glowing Evidence of the Mansion.

less and the deficiencies of the day might not be supplied by the morrow.

"A cool hundred," said Fuzzy thoughtfully and mushily.

"Boys," said he, "you are true friends. I'll go up and claim the reward. The show business is not what it used to be."

Night was falling more surely. The three tagged at his sides to the foot of the rise on which stood the Millionaire's house. There Fuzzy turned upon them acrimoniously.

"You are a pack of putty-faced beagle-hounds," he roared. "Go away."

They went away—a little way.

In Pigeon McCarthy's pocket was a section of two-inch gas-pipe eight inches long. In one end of it and in the middle of it was a lead plug. One-half of it was packed tight with solder. Black Riley carried a slung-shot, being a conventional thug. "One-ear" Mike relied upon a pair of brass knucks—an heirloom in the family.

"Why fetch and carry," said Black Riley, "when some one will do it for y? Let him bring it out to us. Hey—what."

"We can chuck him in the river," said "Pigeon" McCarthy, "with a stone tied to his feet."

"Youse guys make me tired," said "One-ear" Mike sadly. "Ain't progress ever appealed to none of yez? Sprinkle a little gasoline on 'im, and drop 'im on the Drive—well?"

Fuzzy entered the Millionaire's gate and zigzagged toward the softly glowing entrance of the mansion. The three goblins came up to the gate and lingered—one on each side of it, one beyond the roadway. They fingered their cold metal and leather, confident.

Fuzzy rang the door-bell, smiling foolishly and dreamily. An atavistic instinct prompted him to reach for the button of his right glove. But he wore no gloves; so his left hand dropped, embarrassed.

The particular menial whose duty it was to open doors to silks and laces shied at first sight of Fuzzy. But a second glance took in his passport, his card of admission, his surety of welcome—the lost rag-doll of the daughter of the house dangling under his arm.

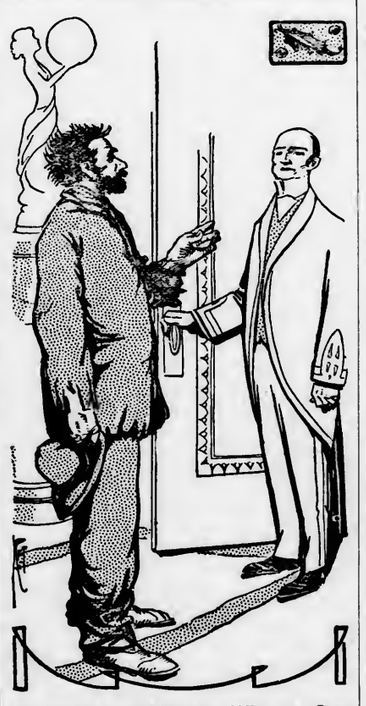
Fuzzy was admitted into a great hall, dim with the glow from unseen lights. The hireling went away and returned with a maid and the Child. The doll was restored to the mourning one. She clasped her lost darling to her breast; and then, with the inordinate selfishness and candor of childhood, stamped her foot and whined hatred and fear of the odious being who had rescued her from the depths of sorrow and despair. Fuzzy wriggled himself into an ingratiatory attitude and essayed the idiotic smile and blattering small talk that is supposed to charm the budding intellect of the young. The Child bawled, and was dragged away, hugging her Betsy close.

There came the Secretary, pale, poised, polished, gliding in pumps, and worshipping pomp and ceremony. He counted out into Fuzzy's hand ten ten-dollar bills; then dropped his eye upon the door, transferred it to James, its custodian, indicated the obnoxious earner of the reward with the other, and allowed his pumps to waft him away to secretarial regions.

When the money touched Fuzzy's dingy palm his first instinct was to take to his heels; but a second thought restrained him from that blunder of etiquette. It was his; it had been given him. It—and, oh, what an elysium it opened to the gaze of his mind's eye! He had tumbled to the foot of the ladder; he was hungry, homeless, friendless, ragged, cold, drifting; and he held in his hand the key to a paradise of the mud-honey that he craved. The fairy doll had waved a wand with her rag-stuffed hand; and now wherever he might go the enchanted palaces with shining foot-rests and magic red fluids in gleaming glassware would be open to him.

He followed James to the door.

He paused there as the flunky drew open the great mahogany portal for him to pass into the vestibule.



Beyond the wrought-iron gates in the dark highway Black Riley and his two pals casually strolled, fingering under their coats the inevitably fatal weapons that were to make the reward of the rag-doll theirs.

Fuzzy stopped at the Millionaire's door and bethought himself. Like little sprigs of mistletoe on a dead tree, certain living green thoughts and memories began to decorate his confused mind. He was quite drunk, mind you, and the present was beginning to fade. Those wreaths and festoons of holly with their scarlet berries making the great hall gay—where had he seen such things before? Somewhere he had known polished floors and odors of fresh flowers in winter, and—and some one was singing a song in the house that he thought he had heard before. Some one singing and playing a harp. Of course it was Christmas—Fuzzy thought he must have been pretty drunk to have overlooked that.

And then he went out of the present, and there came back to him out of some impossible, vanished and irrevocable past a little, pure-white, transient, forgotten ghost—the spirit of noblesse oblige. Upon a gentleman certain things devolve.

James opened the outer door. A stream of light went down the graveled walk to the iron gate. Black Riley, McCarthy and One-ear Mike saw, and carelessly drew their sinister cordon closer about the gate.

With a more imperious gesture than James' master had ever used or could ever use, Fuzzy compelled the menial

"It Is Cust—customary When a Gentleman Calls on Christmas Eve to Pass the Compliments of the Season With the Lady of the House."

to close the door. Upon a gentleman certain things devolve. Especially at the Christmas season.

"It is cust—customary," he said to James, the flustered, "when a gentleman calls on Christmas eve to pass the compliments of the season with the lady of the house. You und'stand? I shall not move step till I pass compl'ments season with lady the house. Und'stand?"

There was an argument. James lost. Fuzzy raised his voice and sent it through the house unpleasantly. I did not say he was a gentleman. He was simply a tramp being visited by a ghost.

A sterling silver bell rang. James went back to answer it, leaving Fuzzy in the hall. James explained somewhere to some one.

Then he came and conducted Fuzzy into the library.

The lady entered a moment later. She was more beautiful and holy than any picture that Fuzzy had seen. She smiled, and said something about a doll. Fuzzy didn't understand that; he remembered nothing at all about a doll.

A footman brought in two small glasses of sparkling wine on a stamped sterling-silver waiter. The lady took one. The other was handed to Fuzzy.

As his fingers closed on the slender glass stem his disabilities dropped from him for one brief moment. He straightened himself; and Time, so disobliging to most of us, turned backward for a moment to accommodate Fuzzy.

Forgotten Christmas ghosts whiter than the false beards of the most opulent Kriss Kringle were rising in the fumes of Grogan's whisky. What had the millionaire's mansion to do with a long, wainscoted Virginia hall, where the riders were grouped around a silver punch-bowl, drinking the ancient toast of the house? And why should the patter of the cab horses' hoofs on the frozen street be in any wise related to the sound of the saddled hunters stamping under the shelter of the west veranda? And what had Fuzzy to do with any of it?

"Comp'ments Sheason With Lady Th' House."

The lady, looking at him over her glass, let her condescending smile fade away like a false dawn. Her eyes turned serious. She saw something beneath the rags and Scotch terrier whiskers that she did not understand. But it did not matter.

Fuzzy lifted his glass and smiled vacantly.

"P-pardon, lady," he said, "but couldn't leave without exchangin' comp'ments sheason with lady th house. 'Gainst princ'pies gen'leman do sho."

And then he began the ancient salutation that was a tradition in the house when men wore lace ruffles and powder.

"The—the blessings of another year—"

Fuzzy's memory failed him. The lady prompted:

"—Be upon this hearth."

"—The guest—" stammered Fuzzy.

"—And upon her who—" continued the lady, with a leading smile.

"Oh, cut it out," said Fuzzy, illmannneredly. "I can't remember. Drink hearty."

Fuzzy had shot his arrow. They drank. The lady smiled again the smile of her caste. James enveloped Fuzzy and re-conducted him toward the front door. The harp music still softly drifted through the house.

Outside, Black Riley breathed on his cold hands and hugged the gate. Cold though he was, he did not think of deserting his post while Fuzzy remained inside.

"I wonder," said the lady to herself, musing, "who—but there were so many who came. I wonder whether memory is a curse or a blessing to them after they have fallen so low."

Fuzzy and his escort were nearly at the door when the lady called: "James!"

James stalked back obsequiously, leaving Fuzzy waiting unsteadily, with his brief spark of the divine fire entirely gone.

Outside, Black Riley stamped his cold feet and got a firmer grip on his section of gas-pipe.

"You will conduct this gentleman," said the lady, "down-stairs. Then tell Louis to get out the Mercedes and take him to whatever place he wishes to go."

The Palmer Journal.

VOLUME LXII. PALMER, MASS., FRIDAY EVENING, DECEMBER 29, 1911. NUMBER 39.

GETS 8 TO 10 YEARS.

Correndi Sentenced For Killing George Cattsmitt.

PLEADED GUILTY TO MANSLAUGHTER.

Crime Committed in Palmer on Night of December 6. Men Had Been Close Friends.

In the superior court in Springfield Tuesday, Judge John C. Crosby, presiding, Paul Correndi, charged with the murder of Guiseppe De Lio, known as George Cattsmitt, in Palmer on the night of December 6, pleaded guilty to manslaughter and was sentenced to from eight to ten years in the state prison. It was the contention of the prisoner's counsel, David F. Dillon of Palmer, that the killing was in self-defense, the first blow being followed up in the heat of passion. In view of the evidence in the case District Attorney Callahan consented to this disposition of the matter.

The crime for which Correndi will spend several years behind prison bars was committed about 11.30 on the night of December 6 at the boarding house of the men on Water street in Palmer. With Tony Augustina the two men had been in the village earlier in the evening, becoming involved in a quarrel on the way home. At the door of the boarding house Augustina went in, the others remaining outside. Soon Correndi came in and told Augustina that he had been stabbed by Cattsmitt, and exhibited a wound in the arm. Cattsmitt came in and went to his room, announcing that he was going elsewhere to board. He came from his room a little later and started down the stairs; Correndi, exclaiming that he was getting away, followed and there was a mixup in the lower hall; the men passed out the door and the clash continued on the step. Correndi came in soon after and Cattsmitt was found badly wounded, dying in a few moments. Correndi told those who were there that Cattsmitt had attacked him bnt that he had taken the knife away and had stabbed Cattsmitt; Correndi was himself cut in several places other than the cut on the arm. There were eleven wounds on Cattsmitt's body.

Tony Augustina, who was held as a witness under $1000 bonds which he was unable to furnish, was released Tuesday and paid $27 for his detention, at the rate of $1.50 per day.

Store and House Burned.

Grocery and Dwelling at East Wilbraham Destroyed Yesterday.

The store and dwelling house of Ernest M. Lord on the Wilbraham road at East Wilbraham were burned to the ground early yesterday morning. There were two tenants in the house, Mr. Lord and J. F. Bannister. The latter was awakened about 1.30 a. m. by the smell of smoke. An investigation showed that the house was on fire near the chimney. He gathered up as much of his clothing as possible and awakening his two boys, rushed from the dwelling.

An alarm was quickly given, but as there are no nearneighbors, it was some time before help arrived. Mr. Lord succeeded in securing his books and papers from the store, which he realized was doomed, and that is all he saved. There was a high wind blowing at the time and the buildings burned quickly. J. S. Morgan, who resides in that vicinity, attempted to call help over the telephone, but the instrument failed to work.

Mr. Lord's loss is estimated at about $1000 on the house, $800 on the store and $1500 on stock, with other losses aggregating about $3500. Both building and stock were insured.

Ware Mills On New Schedule.

The mills of the George H. Gilbert Manufacturing Company in Ware went on to a 54-hour schedule yesterday and the C. A. Stevens company will start Monday on the new schedule. The mills of the Otis company have been running on a 54-hourweek for some time, but Monday they will go onto a new schedule, the following communication having been given out by them yesterday: "To avoid the confusion and inconvenience to the people of the town, which must neeessarily arise from having two time tables for the running of the several mills, the Otis company will, on January 1, at considerable inconvenience to their work, arrange to conform to the following hours: First five days of the week, 6.45 a. m. to 12 m.; 1 p m. to 5.30 p. m.; Saturdays, 6.45 a. m. to 12 m."

New Hunting Law Jan. 1.

Every Person Who Shoots or Traps Anything Must Be Registered.

A new hunting law goes into effect next Monday, and it will be well for sportsmen if they post themselves on the new requirements and so avoid arrest and fine. The new law requires every citizen of Massachusetts who proposes to hunt, pursue, take or kill any quadruped to first obtain a certificate of registration from the town or city clerk; the fee is the same as formerly, $1.

There are a few exceptions to the above, one being that a person who is a legal resident of the state may hunt on land owned or leased by him without first obtaining such certificate, provided he is actually domiciled on the land and that it is used exclusively for agricultural purposes and not for club or shooting purposes. Residents of other states who own real estate in this commonwealth which is assessed at not less than $500 may secure a certificate of registration for $1. Non-resident members of any association incorporated prior to 1907 for the purpose of hunting, who own real estate to the value of not less than $1000, may be registered on payment of the fee of $1. Non-residents who on written invitation of a member of any club incorporated under the laws of the state attend the meetings of the club for the purpose of hunting foxes only during a period not exceeding four days, may procure a certificate provided the membership list of the club is filed with the town clerk of the town in which the hunt is to take place.

Minors under 16 may secure certificates on payment of the regular fee on filing the written consent of their parents with the town clerk. Unnaturalized foreign-born residents must pay $15 for the privilege of hunting. Licenses are not transferable and all expire January 1 following date of issue. Certificates must be produced for examination on demand of any person. The former law did not apply to trappers unless they carried a gun, but the new law requires all persons who trap any animal or bird—crows, sparrows, skunks, muskrats, woodchucks, etc.—to be registered and in possession of a certificate.

Burglars Are Sent Up.

Men Who Broke Into Three Rivers Store Sentenced Tuesday.

Frank Lanidsky and Charles Georgie, who were caught in the act of breaking into the store of Sam Weiner at Three Rivers on the night of the 1st of this month, pleaded guilty in the superior court in Springfield Tuesday and were sentenced by Judge Crosby. Lanidsky was sent to the Massachusetts reformatory, and Georgie, who has served time in that institution, was given 18 months in the house of correction.

NORTH WILBRAHAM.

Miss Mary L. Bliss was pleasantly surprised Christmas, when her pastor, Rev. Mr. Williams of the Union church, brought her a generous bag full of presents. Miss Bliss has been an invalid for nearly 30 years.

WARREN.

Thomas McElhoney, 80, died Sunday afternoon at the home of his nephew, John Finnerty, on West Main street, after a long illness. Mr. McElhoney was born in Ireland, but had lived in Ware about 40 years. The funeral was held Tuesday morning in St. Paul's church, and the burial was in the family lot in St. Paul's cemetery.

WARE.

Henry F. Ballou, 55, died Sunday night of heart disease at his home on the Belchertown road. He is survived by a widow and two sons, Ernest and Alvertus of Ware, and one brother, William of Belchertown. The funeral was held Tuesday afternoon at 1, Rev. R. D. Sawyer officiating. Burial was in Enfield.

The liquor store of Smith & Gilson on Main street was broken into some time Sunday night and about $5 in cash and a quantity of liquors and cigars taken. The break was discovered Monday morning by John Gilson, one of the partners. An investigation showed that a rear window had been forced and entrance gained that way.

John Pelck, 37, one of the best known Polish residents of Ware, died Saturday night of stomach trouble at his home off West street. He was a member of the United Workmen, St. Michael's society and was treasurer of the Polish night school. He had lived in Ware 12 years, being a farmer. He leaves a widow and six children in Ware, and a sister in Manchester. The funeral was held Monday afternoon in St. Mary's church. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery.

ENGINE SMASHES CARS.

Switcher on B. and A. Runs Amuck Sunday Night.

FORTUNATELY NO ONE BADLY HURT.

Locomotive Takes Wrong Switch, Rams Passenger Coach and Wrecks Freight Car.

The ramming of two cars on a side track in the rear of the Burns Hotel on Main street about 7.30 Sunday evening resulted in a crash which was heard a long distance and led all who listened to it to suppose that a terrible accident had occurred. Fortunately no one was hurt.

The engineer of B. and A. locomotive 2506, a big "hog" which is used to do the night switching about the yards, had a string of cars to deliver to the C. V. track opposite North Main street. He was in a hurry to get done and get home to Springfield for Christmas, so when he got the signal to go down the Ware River main track he "let 'er go." The switch to the siding, which is a short distance further along, was open however, and when he saw his mistake it was too late to stop. The big locomotive ploughed its way several feet into an old coach used on the work train and stopped, minus only the pilot, stack, headlight and a few minor fittings. Beyond the coach was C. V. freight car 40640, with the brakes set on the far end. These prevented the car from moving and it humped up in the middle like an inverted A. A brakeman on the top of one of the cars behind the locomotive did a war dance for a moment, but managed to stay on the car and was only a little shaken up. The wrecker was sent from Springfield to clear up the muss and the remains of the C. V. car were cremated.

WALES.

Miss Ada Rourke is spending her Christmas vacation in Worcester.

George Steele of Palmer is to have charge of the weave room at the Hegan mill.

Mrs. N. M. Stebbins spent Christmas with Mr. and Mrs. Walter Stebbins in Stafford Springs.

C. M. Bassett of Dorchester was in town last week. Mr. Basset is the son of a former pastor of the Methodist church and was born during his father's pastorate here.

Among the holiday visitors in town were Olen Shaw of Monson at the home of Charles Cushman, Manser Lanphear of Athol with George H. Lanphear, Mary Cunningham of Hartford at home of John Lynch, Mr. and Mrs. George Steele and family of Palmer and Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Shaw and Miss Winona Shaw of Springfield with H. E. Steele, Gordon Royce of Monson, Draper Royce of Southbridge and Burchard Royce of Springfield at home of O. P. Royce, Egerton Taylor of Southbridge with W. E. Needham and Stewart Bunnell from Worcester at home of Mrs. I. C. Bunnell.

BELCHERTOWN.

Death of Mrs. Estes H. Sanford.

Mrs. Delia Dwight Sanford, 88, widow of Estes Howe Sanford, died Saturday night at the home of Dr. George F. Thomson of a complication of diseases due to old age. Mrs. Sanford, in spite of her advanced years, had been remarkably active and her mind was keen and bright. She was the daughter of the late Nathaniel Dwight, from whom Dwight station was named, and was a direct descendant of Capt. Nathaniel Dwight. She was the youngest of a family of eight children and was the last member of her generation of the Dwight family to survive. Of the next generation there is only one male member, Josiah Dwight of Concord. Her nearest relatives are three nieces, Mrs. French and Miss Clara L. Dwight of Amherst and Mrs. Henry W. Blake of Philadelphia. There are well known Dwights in New York who are cousins. She lived in Worcester during her entire married life of over 60 years. The funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon at 3, Rev. W. T. Hale officiating, and burial was in Worcester.

Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Randall entertained over Christmas Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Randall, Mr. and Mrs. M. G. Ward, Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Towne of Springfield and Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Randall of Holden.

D. F. Shumway entertained a family party over Christmas, including Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Shumway of Amherst, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Shumway of Ware, Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Shumway of Turkey Hill, and Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Sauer of Lake View farm.

CHRISTMAS VISITORS.

Out-of-town People Who Took Christmas Cheer Here.

HOLIDAY GUESTS WERE NUMEROUS.

Partial List of Those Who Came and Those Who Entertained For A Day or More.

The Christmas season has seen a large number of visitors in town, some former residents back for a renewing of acquaintances, young people home from school and college, and friends with Christmas greetings. Among those have been noted the following:

Willis Russell of New York city with Palmer friends.

Myron Clark of Wales at his home on South Main street.

Walter Goodes of New York with his parents on Pine street.

Francis Sullivan of Newark, N. J., at his home on Central street.

J. T. O'Connor of Melrose at the home of his parents on Pleasant street.

Mrs. Merriek of Ware with her son, Edward Merrick of Spring street.

Harry Hart of Attleboro at the home of his parents on Holbrook street.

Oscar Tryon of Somerville at the home of his mother on Park street.

Jay L. Gray of Westfield with his brother, Lee T. Gray of King street.

Mrs. L. M. Strong spent the holidays with her sister, Mrs. J. H. Shaw.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Gunn of Lodi, N. J., with his mother on Pleasant street.

Joseph Tate of Bridgeport, Ct., with Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Tate of South Main street.

Miss Elisabeth Bodfish of Brown University with her parents on Central street.

Charles F. Frazer of Franklin with Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Cotton of Knox street.

Miss Mary Dowd of Springfield with her cousin, Miss Nellie Dowd of Chestnut street.

Miss Gladys Paine of Brown University with her parents on South Main street.

B. F. Clark and wife of Thorndike with W. F. Fillmore and family of Knox street.

Newton C. Wing of New York with his mother, Mrs. Abbie Wing of Central street.

Theodore Pecht and Mrs. Ida Whitneck with Mr. and Mrs. Charles Pecht of King street.

James Crowley and Timothy Crowley of Worcester with their parents on Thorndike street.

Mr. and Mrs. Carroll of Worcester with Mr. and Mrs. Homer Trainer of South Main street.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Leland of Worcester at the home of E. S. Brooks on Thorndike street.

Mr. and Mrs. J. U. Ferris of Naugatuck, with Mrs. Susan Coleman and family of Park street.

S. W. Atkins of Lee with his parents, Superintendent and Mrs. E. D. Atkins of South Main street.

Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Woods of Worcester with Colin Oakes and family of South Main street.

Miss Bessie Swann of Orange, N. J., with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Swann of Foster street.

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Call of Springfield with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Fitch on Central street.

John E. Duffy and Robert J. Martin of Cambridge with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Duffy on South Main street.

Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Taylor of Worcester with Mr. and Mrs. Fred Thompson of Central street.

Mr. and Mrs. Lucius R. Eaton of Stafford Springs, Ct., with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Ramsden.

Miss Sara Kenyon of Amherst with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Kenyon of South Main street.

Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Roche and son Curry of Springfield with Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Roche on Pond street.

Mr. and Mrs. John Slattery of Worcester with his mother, Mrs. Daniel Slattery of State street.

William A. Thompson of Greenfield with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. D. Thompson of Chestnut street.

Thomas McGrath and William Oleson of Cleveland, O., at their respective homes on North Main street.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. King of Hartford, Ct., at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Taylor on Thorndike street.

Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Daley and Patrick Daley of Pittsfield with Mr. and Mrs. John Daley of Mt. Dumplin.

Mr. and Mrs. Almon McNally of Patterson, N. J., with Mr. and Mrs. James Heenehan of Central street.

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Marsden of New

[Continued on Second Page]

Woman Defies Car Crew.

Insists on Right to Ride in Vestibule, But Dodges Arrest.

The crew of the electric car due in Palmer at 7.15 from Worcester Sunday night had an unusual experience with a woman passenger who insisted on riding in the front vestibule, in violation of the company's rule to the contrary. At Palmer Superintendent Atkins used his blandest and most persuasive manner on the obdurate passenger without effect, and it was only when Officer Crimmins began preparations to escort her to the cooler that she gave in.

The woman boarded the car at Worcester and conducted herself as nicely as could be asked for until Southbridge was reached, then she went into the front vestibule. The motorman told her the rule of the company forbidding passengers remaining there, but she affirmed that she was going to stay right there—and she did. The motorman was not a pigmy by any means, and there was also the conductor to help, but the woman was small, and besides—how it would have looked! So they called up the dispatcher and he said to let her ride to Palmer. Superintendent Atkins tackled the job when the car landed here. He stood on the paving, hat in hand, and politely told the woman of the company's rules and how sorry he was to inconvenience her, but really, she must ride in some other part of the car, suggesting the rear vestibule, where he promised to have the doors closed and all possible arrangement made for her comfort. She stood in the doorway of the car and listened serenely to all he had to say, then announced that "I'm going to ride right here, and don't one of you dare to lay a hand on me!" Officer Crimmins, who had been standing in the background, was called over and told to take the woman along unless she removed herself from the vestibule. He calmly informed her that she could make a choice in about a minute—to either step down out of the car or be placed under arrest, the officer adding, casually, "And if I start to take you I shall take you." He began to take off his gloves as she hesitated and she suddenly changed her mind, remarking "Well, I'll get off your old car and go the rest of the way by steam." To which the railroad officials replied not a word but reserved an inner thought that they didn't care a hang, and the car pulled out to Springfield after a ten-minute delay.

Plans For the Firemen's Ball.

The members of the fire department have completed plans for their annual ball, which will be held in the opera house on the evening of January 19, which is Friday. The music will be by Flanagan's singing orchestra of Marlboro, which needs no introduction to Palmer ball goers, and a concert of an hour will be given before the dancing. The tickets, admitting a gentleman and two ladies, are $1. These committees have been appointed: Floor director, John E. Learned; assistants, N. J. Comfort and F. J. Roche; arrangements, F. H. Sumner, F. J. Roche, N. J. Comfort, F. L. Jones, J. E. Learned. The boys will try to make this, the sixteenth annual, as enjoyable as any they have ever had.

EAST BRIMFIELD.

Mrs. Arthur Clark and little daughter are confined to their home with scarlet fever.

Richard Macallister of Southbridge spent Sunday with his sister, Mrs. W. C. Davenport.

There was a large attendanee at the Christmas concert Sunday evening by the members of the Sunday school.

BRIMFIELD.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Peirce and son of Springfield spent Christmas at the home of Miss Lincoln. Miss Emily Cox of Mattapan is a guest at the same place.

A family gathering was held at the home of Clarence B. Brown over the holiday. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Edward Fairfield of Adams and Mr. and Mrs. James Kershaw and family of Springfield.

The Academy orchestra will give a concert in the town hall this evening, to be followed by a dance. The regular orchestra will be assisted by Gladys Munroe of Wellesley college, a pupil of Barth, on the 'cello, by Agatha Kirby, a pupil at the New England conservatory of music, on the 'cello, and Munroe Tarbell of Massachusetts agricultural college, a pupil of M. H. Sumner of Springfield, on the cornet. These are graduates of the Academy in the class of 1910 and former members of the orchestra. There will be 13 pieces in all. Many alumni are expected to be present.

SLASHED ACROSS FACE.

Thorndike Man Disfigured For Life Monday Night.

ASSAILANT ESCAPED IN DARKNESS.

Albert Gwozdz Cut By Man He Had Ordered Away From His Boarding House.

Because he was informed by the proprietor of a boarding house that his presence was undesirable and being ordered to leave when he attempted to call on a young lady, Joseph Gavor, with a knife or other sharp instrument, left a large X—"his mark"—on the face of Albert Gwozdz at Thorndike Monday evening and disappeared into the unknown. One side of the X begins at the right temple and extends down across the cheek, under the nose and across the lower jaw on the right side; the other side of the X starts on the left temple and is almost a duplicate of the first, except that there is a slight gap under the nose where the pressure on the knife when the slash was made was apparently relaxed a little. The cuts were fairly deep, and required the services of a physician to close; Dr. C. H. Giroux did the work.

Gwozdz conducts a boarding house in the "Upper village" in Thorndike. Gavor is a comparatively recent comer, and Gwozdz had been informed that the man was married. Consequently when he began paying attention to a young lady in the house he was told to keep away. He paid little heed to the suggestions however and Monday night called again. Gwozdz found it out and going up ordered Gavor to leave. He went down the stairs and Gavor followed, as though to go out. In the darkness of the lower hall however, he slashed Gwozdz and then fled.

Electric Light Pole Fire.

Defective insulation caused a fire on an electric light pole on Bridge street early Saturday morning, and smouldered away for some time until the contents of a chemical fire extinguisher were turned on. And then the "juice" traveled along back through the stream of liquid and came near extinguishing the man who held it. The electric lights in the houses along North Main street were dark until late in the morning in consequenee, the neeessary repairs consuming considerable time.

Among the Churches.

The annual meeting of St. Paul's parish will be held next Monday evening at 6.30.

The pulpit of the Park street Advent chapel will be occupied Sunday afternoon at 3 by A. O. Anoney of Warren; subject: "Drawn of God."

The annual meeting of the Baptist church will be held next Tuesday evening. Preceding the meeting there will be a social gathering from 4 until 6, with supper at 6.

The annual supper of St. Paul's Universalist Sunday school will be held in the dining room of the church this evening at 6 o'clock, to be followed by a Christmas tree and entertainment, to which the entire parish is invited.

The monthly meeting of the Mission Circle of St. Paul's church will be held at the home of Mrs. R. B. Francis on North Main street Monday evening at 7.30. Watchword "New Year." All women are invited.

The children of the Baptist Sunday school were given a Christmas entertainment in the church Tuesday evening, and those of the Congregational church were entertained Wednesday evening. There was a large attendance at each of the gatherings.

The sermon at St. Paul's church Sunday morning will be "Following the Star: A New Year's resolution." Y. P. C. U. meeting at 6; leader, A. H. Parker. The Men's Social Service class invites all men of the parish to remain to its session at 12 o'clock.

The annual meeting of the Congregational church will be held in the church vestry next Thursday evening, when there will be election of officers and reports for the past year. Some changes in the present methods of doing business are suggested, and will be acted on at that time.

The subject of the sermon at the Baptist church next Sunday morning will be "Prisoners of hope." Bible school at 12, Y. P. S. C. E. at 6. Evening worship at 7; sermon subject, "The last night in Egypt." The Christmas music will be repeated at the morning service. All are invited.

An Ambitious Mother

By Donald Allen

(Copyright, 1911, by Associated Literary Press.)

Up to the time the hair hanging down her back was coiled up, and her dresses lowered to her shoe tops, Miss Irene Nixon enjoyed life. She had her childish diversions and her playmates, and if she also had her disappointments they were not bitter ones. Her widowed mother belonged to the middle class, and she had just a fair income.

Then things changed almost in a day. It was a legacy to the mother that did it. It disclosed a side of her character that on one had suspected Miss Irene was at once forbidden to associate with this one and that one, and when the list had been culled out she found herself standing almost alone. She must hereafter act so and so, and she must hereafter not act so and so. Where she had chummed with a girl she must now give her only a distant bow. Where she had walked home from school with this or that boy, she must now pass him as if unaware of his existence. That money was to make all the difference in the world. The daughter understood that money was a good thing to have, but she could not understand why it should almost outlaw her. In forming friendships she had never considered the money side of the question. She had judged by character instead of wealth.

None of the Widow Nixon's friends had ever considered her ambitious in a social way. Perhaps that feature was lying dormant. At any rate, she had scarcely counted the money left her by a rich sister when social ambition came to the surface to work great changes.

She decided almost at once that the daughter could not be exclusive enough at home to finish her education, and the girl was sent to a boarding school where exclusion was the motto. Then came the family tree.

A Genealogist Called.

Mrs. Nixon had never been greatly worried as to whether the Nixon family dated back to a king or a pirate. Her husband and her husband's father had been business men of good character, and that had sufficed her. Now it was different. She had the money and she sighed for a lineage.

There are so-called genealogists who make it their business to keep in touch with the newly rich and furnish them with pedigrees to match their cash. It had scarcely become known to the widow's circle that she had received a legacy when a genealogist called. He had the look of a professor even to the dandruff on his coat collar. He had been in the profession thirty years. He had traced the ancestors of 3,000 families and hauled them into the light of day. He had never made a mistake. His terms were the lowest of any responsible party. For the sum of $500 he would trace the Nixons back to the cave dwellers of England.

The Widow Nixon agreed to the bargain so promptly that the fellow never forgave himself for not asking a thousand. Yes, he was commissioned to hunt, and hunt he did, and in the course of ninety days he had turned in his report and received his cash.

And from whom had the Nixons descended and Jacob Nixon never suspecting it through all his life? It did not go back to the cave dwellers, but started at Harry, king of the Norsemen. Right there was the beginning, and it came down to the widow as straight and easy as a streak of molasses skating across a kitchen floor. Not a single break in the whole chain. The genealogist begged leave to doubt if there was another family in the state that could go back within a hundred years of Harry, and he was graciously permitted to do so.

Two years elapsed after the discovery of this fact when the proud widow informed her daughter of the need to be still more exclusive. With their wealth and lineage the girl could become a duchess. Still another auto must be purchased, and so on, and so

Meanwhile, Miss Irene, even though a prisoner at the school, and having "exclusiveness" dinged into her ears every hour in the day, had fallen in love. The young man was the son of a lawyer who couldn't trace his ancestry back over 200 years, and didn't care a copper cent if he couldn't.

Young Bennett in time came to understand the ambitions of the mother. If he had been the son of a merchant, things might have turned out differently, but being the son of a lawyer he went at it to prepare his case for a jury. When it came time to go into court, as one might say, there was no weak joint to be tinkered up. What does a girl of eighteen in love with a young man of twenty-one care for ancestry? What does she care for dukes she has never met? What does she care for the spectacled old maid who runs the boarding school? The elopement would only add to the romance.

And there was an elopement and marriage. When the widowed mother was telegraphed to she fainted away. The duke of Hartford had left her house that very afternoon. For the first time since king Harry went sloshing around, a Nixon girl had eloped to bring obloquy on the name! It was just awful—terrible!

The widow Nixon first resolved that she could never forgive her daughter, and then that the law should be appealed to to annul the marriage. Before steps were taken, however, Mr. and Mrs. Bennett appeared before her. In her righteous anger and mortification she ordered them out of the house. They didn't go. The late Miss Irene sat with a smile on her face, and the nervy young Bennett arose and said he had a few remarks to make before going.

"We will first take up the case of the family tree," he began. "The genealogist you employed is now in prison as a swindler. You are not his only victim by hundreds. I have looked into the matter myself. There was no Norseman named King Harry. Even if there had been he would have been a bloody old pirate and marauder."

"But—but he assured me—" replied the widow.

"Certainly. He also assured the court, but he got three years just the same. The name of Nixon can be traced back about 150 years, the same as the name of Bennett. For the first fifty years our ancestors were leather dealers.

"Yours might have been, but the Nixons, never!"

"I have it all written out here and certified to as authentic, and you will find that while the Bennetts sold leather the Nixons worked it up. That is, Joab Nixon of a hundred years ago was a cobbler."

"You insult me, sir!" almost moaned the widow.

"Your late husband's great-grand father was a green grocer, but as the Bennett of that date patronized him we are about even on that score."

"Irene, I am your mother!"

"Yes, mamma, but Charlie wants to tell you about the duke."

"We now come to the Hartford," continued the young man. "There is no such duke in England. The fellow who has been playing that line over here is a fraud and a swindler. Didn't you see by the papers this morning that he had at last been arrested?"

"Mercy, no! Why, he—he!"

"He has borrowed money of you, of course, and you may have to go into court as a witness against him. Mrs. Nixon, I loved your daughter and prevailed upon her to elope and marry me. Shall we say that the Nixons are all right, the Bennetts are all right, and that the happy couple are to receive a blessing?"

"Irene," replied the mother in tears and sobs, "you—you shouldn't have done it!"

"No, mother."

"And Ch—Charlie, you shouldn't have done it!"

"No, mother."

"But being you have, I—I guess—guess I'm glad!"

Date Growing in Arizona.

F. H. Simmons, who was in charge of the government date orchard at Tempe, yesterday brought to the Republican office a box of ripe dates, the first yet brought to Phoenix this year so far as known. They are of the Rhas variety, though Mr. Simmons says he has had dates of the Amari variety ripe for the last ten days.

The fruit brought in yesterday was thoroughly ripened and as luscious as a date may be. Mr. Simmons says there are 124 varieties of trees in the orchard and from that number it would appear that the government ought to be able to determine pretty well about everything in the date world that is suitable for culture in these parts.

"The particular value of the date is that it grows best on alkali land, where little else can be raised, and there are many such tracts available in the southwest. The government has demonstrated that dates may be grown here as successfully as on their native soil, and it is shown by the demand of the market that there will be buyers for all that can be produced in competition with the imported product.—Arizona Republican.

Mosquito Saved His Life.

A mosquito saved the life of John Mahoney. He was passing a building in course of construction when a workman on the top floor accidentally dropped a heavy hammer.

At the same time a mosquito tried to alight on Mahoney's nose, causing him to jerk his head backward. The hammer grazed his face and chipped a piece out of the stone pavement.

Had the hammer struck Mahoney on the head it would have crushed his skull. Mahoney declared that the mosquito's attack was so vicious that the pain had caused him to throw his head back, saving his life.

Attraction of the Unknown.

Nothing is so firmly believed as what we least know.—Montaigne.

Christmas Visitors.

[Continued from First Page]

York with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Smith of North Main street.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Waite of Yonkers, N. Y., with her mother, Mrs. Mary Holden of North Main street.

Prof. Francis Barton of Williams college with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. D. Barton of North Main street.

James Healey and daughter, Miss Mary Healey of Springfield with Dr. and Mrs. J. F. Roche of Park street.

Miss Frances McGilp of Shelton, Ct., with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry McGilp of South Main street.

Miss Sarah Harrison of New Haven, a former teacher in the public schools, with F. W. Harrison and wife of Knox street.

Clifford Bills of Providence, R. I., and Mrs. Inez Ferrell at the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Bills on Pleasant street.

Edward Rice of Dartmouth and Miss Sophia Rice of South Framingham Normal at the home of their parents on Pleasant street.

Mr. and Mrs. M. I. Longtine and Miss Anna Longtine of Springfield and Frank Longtine with Mr. and Mrs. Charles McCarthy on Pond street.

Miss Carrie Fish of Boston, Miss Pearl Fish of New Jersey and Mrs. W. A. Moore of Meriden, Ct., with Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Fish of Walnut street.

Miss Irene LeGro of Keene, N. H., Miss Ruth LeGro of Smith college and Miss Fannie Cowles of Amherst with Mr. and Mrs. C. A. LeGro of Converse street.

The Christmas party at Mrs. Lucy Flynt's on Central street included her father, James Atwood, Mr. and Mrs. James Rafter of New York, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gard of Buffalo, N. Y.

At Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Bennett's on Park street—Mrs. W. F. Bennett, Howard Mandigo, Mr. and Mrs. W. N. Roper, Warren A. Roper of Kent's Hill, Me., and Dr. Edmund Douglass.

Mr. and Mrs. John P. Sloan and two children of Worcester, Miss D. E. Todd of Brattleboro, Vt., Miss Marion Todd and Arthur Todd of Rutland at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Todd on Pine street.

Mr. and Mrs. John Gibbons of Lodi, N. J., Mr. and Mrs. John T. Fitzpatrick and two children of Stoughton and Mrs. Josephine Young of Springfield at the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Dillon on Central street.

Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Leonard of Warren, Mr. and Mrs. F. P. Bradway and daughter Doris of Willimantic, Ct., Asa Leonard of Monson and N. W. Chandler of New York with L. E. Chandler and family of North Main street.

Among the larger gatherings in private families Christmas Day was that at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. K. Gamwell on Foster street, where Mr. and Mrs. F. D. Fuller and Mrs. M. E. Fuller of Springfield, Mrs. Grace Green, son and daughter and Robert Everett of Holyoke, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Rixford and two children of Providence, R. I., and Mrs. Abbie Lawton of Palmer were entertained with a dinner and Christmas tree.

Mrs. W. P. Granger of Park street had the pleasure of entertaining her children and grandchildren over the holiday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Francis Jones, the party including C. E. Bemis and family of East Brookfield, E. S. Bemis and W. A. Adams and their families of Brookfield, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Burbank of Wilbraham, Miss Mary Granger of Keene, N. H., and Leslie Bolt of Chicopee Falls, making a party of 20.

MADE ALL THE DIFFERENCE

Mr. Newlywed Equal to Fine Distinction Between His "Cherub" and Neighbor's "Brat."

"Our likes and dislikes are guided by the personal equation—whatever that is," commented the bachelor.

"Indeed?" queried the suffragette.

"Yes; the property we buy at a real estate forced sale is always the highest and driest, while the other fellow's property, we are willing to swear, is under water."

"Are you getting ready to argue?"

"No, I'm still unmarried. But I wanted to show how different we all feel about ourselves and our property from other people and their property. You know, I have a room in a flat with a young married couple. I have one there so that I can observe the martial—or is it marital?—existence. A couple of months ago the stork brought them a baby."

"A boy or a girl?" asked the suffragette revealing a spark of womanhood; then she added, quickly, "but never mind; it will be a voter, anyway, some day."

"On the floor below us is another baby," went on the Bachelor. "The other day the quiet of the house was disturbed by lusty yelling.

"'Is that our little cherub crying?' asked the mother.

"'No,' the father answered; 'it's the brat downstairs.'"

The quicker a cold is gotten rid of the less the danger from pneumonia and other serious diseases. Mr. B. W. L. Hall, of Waverly, Va., says: "I firmly believe Chamberlain's Cough Remedy to be absolutely the best preparation on the market for colds. I have recommended it to my friends and they all agree with me." For sale by all dealers.

Why Goethe Can't Be Translated.

The reason why Goethe cannot be translated is that no equal of Goethe stands on the English side of the line to link the equivalent words with equivalent music. The process of rendering Goethe or Beranger into another tongue is what a German, not over familiar with our phrases, uses to describe translation; he says such a German book has been [illegible] into English."—T. Starr King's Essay on Books and Reading.

Johnson's Bookstore
BOOKSTORE BUILDING
391 Main St. Springfield

BARGAINS FOR THE THRIFTY SHOPPERS

Books at half price and less. All calendars at half price. Boxed stationery, leather goods, fountain pens, pictures, art novelties and toys all heavily cut.

Books Stationery Pictures
Prompt attention to mail orders

Pre-Inventory Sale
Parlor Suites at 1-5 Off

Mahogany Finish Parlor Suites
Have loose cushion seats in green velour, tied with cord and tassels. Were $25. Sale Price. $19.50

Solid Mahogany Parlor Suites
With deep spring seats covered in best panne plush, 3 pieces. Usually $90. Sale Price Now $72.00

Library Suites
Covered in genuine leather, box spring seats, mahogany frames. Arm Chair $23.20, Rocker $24, Sofa $36.80. Sale Price for the three pieces Now $84.00

Extra Special
3-Piece Parlor Suites
Very heavy birch mahogany frames, hand carved dragon heads on arms, claw feet legs, full spring seats, covered with green silk plush. Marked to sell for $55. Sale Price, $43.50

FLINT & BRICKETT
Opp. Court Sq. 439 Main St., Springfield.
COMPLETE HOUSE FURNISHERS.

Meekins, Packard & Wheat
Springfield, Mass.
We Personally Guarantee the Absolute and Literal Truth of Every Statement Made In This Advertisement.
A. A. PACKARD. W. G. WHEAT.

Two Great Sales
That Mean Money-Saving For You
These two great money-saving sales command attention this week.

Clearance in the Suit Department
With Sweeping Reductions on Our Entire Stock of COATS, SUITS AND FURS

Plain Tailored and Fancy Trimmed Suits
In a big variety of styles in all the popular fabrics of the season.
Suits formerly $25 to 42.50
Now $18, $22.50 and $25

Coats of All Kinds
Plain tailored and fancy trimmed coats in all the popular models.
Formerly $15 to 57.50.
Now $10, 12.50, 15.00, 18.00, 22.50, 25.00 and 37.50

Fine Furs and Fur Coats
Scarfs and Muffs in all the popular furs.
Formerly $15 to 125.00 NOW $10 to $75
LADIES' FUR COATS IN ALL THE POPULAR FURS OF FASHION
Coats formerly $50 to $175---NOW $37.50 to $125

Our Matchless Offering of
"CHIC" UNDERMUSLINS
Eclipses All Previous Records in Value Giving

For many years we have wound up the old year by giving our patrons a magnificent feast of bargains in beautiful "Chic" Undermuslins. In seasons past we have offered some extraordinary values in beautiful undermuslins, but this year we are prepared to outdo all previous efforts and offer our patrons the most beautiful muslins at prices never before equalled.

QUALITY THE FINEST---ASSORTMENTS THE BEST

In our effort to give our patrons these phenomenal bargains we have adhered strictly to our policy of selling only muslins of superior quality, beautiful materials and fine workmanship, and every garment made on full generous lines---no scrimping in the materials, the patterns or the finish.

At these marvelously low prices we shall offer more goods than ever before, every article made expressly for this sale, and in an assortment of styles more beautiful and more varied than ever before. These are the famous "Chic" Undermuslins which have made these sales famous in the past---the very finest undermuslins made in America, offered at special sale prices.

These Are the Bargain Lots

At 25c
Corset Covers, Drawers and Short Skirts.
Regular 37 1-2c and 39c values.

At 29c
Our Special Gown.
Actual 50c value.

At 33c
Another Special Gown.
Regular 50c value.

At 49c
Corset Covers, Drawers, Gowns, Combinations, Chemise and Long and Short Skirts.
Regular 75c values

At 79c
Gowns, Long Skirts and Combinations.
Regular $1 values

At 98c
Gowns, Combinations, Long Skirts, Chemises.
Regular $1.25 values

At $1.19
Combinations, Gowns and Long Skirts.
Regular $1.50 values

At $1.49
Gowns in a big variety of styles.
Regular $1.98 values

At $1.98
Gowns richly trimmed with Irish Crochet and fine embroideries.
Regular $2.50 values

TAKE FRONT ELEVATOR TO GREEN ROOM.

Meekins, Packard & Wheat, Springfield

O'Connor's Barber Shop

PALMER, MASS.

Just across the street from the Waiting Room. (On Corner going to Depot.)

4 Chairs, No Long Waits

Everything absolutely clean.

Shavers' Supplies For Sale

Razors Honed and Handles Put On. Why pay more? We warrant our Razors at $1.50. Each one is tried, so we know what we sell you.

Central Vermont Railway Co.

SOUTHERN DIVISION.

CORRECTED TO OCTOBER 1, 1911.

Trains Leave Palmer Going South:

7.25 a. m. Passenger for New London. Due Stafford 7.58 a. m., Willimantic 8.50 a. m., Norwich 9.27 a. m., New London 10.00 a. m.

9.55 a. m. Mail for New London. Due Stafford 10.31 a. m., Willimantic 11.17 a. m., Norwich 11.52 a. m., New London 12.20 p. m.

1.25 p. m. Passenger for New London. Due Stafford 2.03 p. m., Willimantic 3.08 p. m., Norwich 3.43 p. m., New London 4.10 p. m.

6.30 p. m. Steamboat train for New London and New York. Due Stafford 7.10 p. m., Willimantic 7.55 p. m., Norwich 8.30 p. m., New London 9.00 p. m., New York City via Norwich Line, Pier 70, East River, 5.45 a. m., Pier 40, North River 7.00 a. m., following morning.

Above trains connect at Willimantic and New London east and west for points on the N. Y. N. H. & H. R.R.

Trains Leave Palmer Going North.

7.30 a. m. Mail. Due Amherst 8.15 a. m., Millers Falls 9.30 a. m., Brattleboro 10.60 a. m.

12.10 p. m. Express. Due Amherst 12.55 p. m., Millers Falls 1.20 p. m., Brattleboro 2.07 p. m.

5.30 p. m. Due Amherst 6.16 p. m., Millers Falls 6.50 p. m., Brattleboro 8.00 p. m.

These trains cannot connect at Millers Falls with trains east and west on the B. & M., and at Brattleboro with express trains for White River Junction and Montreal and points west thereof.

These trains run week days only.

SUBJECT TO CHANGE WITHOUT NOTICE.

J. W. HANLEY, General Passenger Agent.

Palmer Savings Bank,

Palmer, Mass.

Officers.

H. G. LOOMIS, President.
R. C. NEWELL, 1st Vice President.
W. E. STONE, 2d Vice President.
C. F. SMITH, 3d Vice President.
GEORGE A. FIELD, Clerk.

Auditors.

W. E. Stone. E. B. Taylor.
C. A. LeGro.

Board of Investment.

H. G. Loomis. W. E. Stone. C. F. Smith.
H. E. W. Clark. E. E. Hobson

Trustees.

H. G. Loomis. W. E. Stone. J. O. Hamilton.
H. E. W. Clark. G. D. Moores. L. J. Potter.
R. C. Newell. L. R. Holden. C. L. Wald.
Geo. S. Hobien. C. E. Fuller. E. B. Taylor.
M. J. Dillon. C. F. Smith. C. A. LeGro.

Treasurer.

C. L. Wald.

Safe Deposit Boxes for rent.

Banking Hours: 9 a. m to 3 p. m. Saturday, 9 a. m. to 12 m. Friday Evening, 7.30 to 9.

OVER 65 YEARS' EXPERIENCE

PATENTS

TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &C.

Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. HANDBOOK on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents.

Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the Scientific American.

A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.

MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

The Antalgica

Or Vegetable Pain Restorer

was introduced to the public in 1848, since which time thousands of bottles have been sold each year to an appreciative public, which is a good evidence of its merits. It is adapted to so many ailments it should be in every household, for it cures all kinds of pains both internal and external. For Bronchial affections it is unrivaled by any article in the market. It is a sure cure for Cholera Morbus and Dysentery, if taken in season, also for Coughs. It is an effective remedy for rheumatic affections, stiff joints, swelled limbs, sprains, cramps, toothache and many other ills to which the flesh is heir. Try it and it will do you good. It is sold at 25c, 50c and $1 00 per bottle by the Bay State Drug Co., Lynde & Gould, and the proprietor.

O. P. Allen,
Palmer, Mass.

McCall's Magazine and McCall Patterns

For Women

Have More Friends than any other magazine or patterns. McCall's is the reliable Fashion Guide monthly in one million one hundred thousand homes. Besides showing all the latest designs of McCall Patterns, each issue is brimful of sparkling short stories and helpful information for women.

Save Money and Keep in Style by subscribing for McCall's Magazine at once. Costs only 50 cents a year, including any one of the celebrated McCall Patterns free.

McCall Patterns Lead all others in style, fit, simplicity, economy and number sold. More dealers sell McCall Patterns than any other two makes combined. None higher than 15 cents. Buy from your dealer, or by mail from

McCALL'S MAGAZINE
236-246 W. 37th St., New York City

Note—Sample Copy, Premium Catalogue and Pattern Catalogue free, on request

Eliza's Engagement

By John Osborne Field

(Copyright, 1911, by Associated Literary Press.)

"Well, good-bye, Eliza, I hope you'll have a good time," said pert little Molly Dobson, flaunting her recently acquired diamond solitaire ring in the sunshine. "And I hope," she teased, "that you'll come home engaged, too, to some nice city man. Write and tell us all about it."

Molly laughed, as if the idea of Eliza's becoming engaged were a huge joke. Eliza's uncle, John Robinson, patted her shoulder with embarrassment and her Aunt Emma Robinson tried to smile naturally. The station master whistled with forced cheerfulness.

"That Molly Dobson's an awful mean girl," he said to himself.

A moment later Eliza jumped aboard the train that was to take her to the city, and before long the little group of friends on the station was just a blur in the distance.

Eliza was twenty-eight and she had determined to go to the city for a few months of excitement. The comfortable routine of her life at Dayville, where she had lived with her aunt and uncle from babyhood, had begun to pall. Her days were never empty. There were active hours spent out of doors planting and pruning flowers and vegetables and tending her chickens and ducks; and other active hours spent in the pleasant, sunny kitchen over savory preserve kettles or the week's fragrant baking. There were long placid evenings on the vine-covered piazza under the stars or beside the glowing sitting-room stove, with the dozing Uncle John and chattering Aunt Emma and purring Tabby for companions. There were occasional excursions—picnics and carryall drives and once in a while a jaunt with one of the young men of the village. But Eliza knew that the years to come would be identical with the years that had passed, and she grew discontented.

It was this perfectly comfortable state of affairs but wholly uncomfortable state of mind that had induced Eliza to set forth on the first real adventure of her life. She made her voice an excuse; it was a sweet, light voice that led all the others in the village choir, and although Eliza knew that it was not worth cultivation, it served as an excuse. She wrote for circulars from singing masters, engaged a room in an inexpensive but comfortable boarding house in the city and with her savings in her pocket, started forth to see the world.

Planting and Pruning Flowers.

But until Molly Dobson's taunting words were spoken Eliza had not really considered matrimony as a possible culmination of her city visit. Molly's words, however, put an idea into her head. Why not pretend, after a few weeks away from home, that she was engaged? It would be fun to write the letters describing the lucky man, the things they did together and their plans for the future. Then, later, Eliza thought, she could write to say that the engagement was broken, and could return home heart-free.

"And if she thought I really had been engaged," thought Eliza, "I shouldn't care how much that silly little Molly did tease me. And it won't exactly be a lie. I'll pick out some nice man at the boarding house, and pretend he's the one."

With this justification for her proposed action, and with the excitement of her plan flushing her tanned cheeks and brightening her soft brown eyes, Eliza walked into Mrs. Benson Brown's rather shabby boarding house that same evening for dinner.

She looked furtively from one end of the lone crowded table to the other to find the chosen man. Three or four middle aged women who looked as if they had spent most of their time gossiping over fancywork, their equally monotonous-looking husbands, the timid pale young daughter of one of the women, who giggled and blushed whenever anyone spoke to her, a dapper young man who cracked jokes for the benefit of the whole table, a lame old man, a near sighted old lady that reminded Eliza of Mrs. Saunders and buxom Mrs. Benson Brown—these filled the table.

After Eliza had been introduced to everybody present she sank back into her chair with a feeling of disappointment.

"Why, he isn't here," she thought. "I couldn't even pretend he was that silly young man that makes jokes; besides he and the pale little girl seem quite taken with each other. Oh!"

Eliza started. Opposite her was a vacant chair. A serious looking, tall young man, with keen gray eyes was just taking his place there, and Mrs. Benson Brown was saying:

"Oh, Miss Morgan, this is Mr. Wilbur."

"How do you do Miss Morgan," said the man, his face lighting with a smile of friendliness. "Sorry I'm late, Mrs. Brown."

Eliza breathed more easily, and the next day she mentioned "a very pleasant young man—about thirty-five I should say—whose name is Wilbur," in her letter to her aunt, and a few days later she wrote to Molly Dobson of a walk in the park she had had with Mr. Wilbur, "the nicest man you ever saw."

The weeks passed quickly with Eliza. Each other she wrote home contained some reference to Mr. Wilbur. Once he had brought her a book—she had given him the money for it and had asked him to get it, but she did not mention these facts; again he had brought flowers, and she shuddered when she wrote this down, for it was true. There were brief references to real conversations between the two, and long accounts of imaginary talks and excursions together. Finally, at the end of three months, Eliza's friends in Dayville received word that she and Mr. Wilbur were engaged.

"There are still three months to break it in," thought Eliza.

It was three or four days after Eliza had announced her engagement. She had come down stairs to look for letters on the hall table, and sat in Mrs. Brown's dimly lighted parlor reading them. There were half a dozen—all letters of good wishes and congratulations. "I know you'll be happy; it's lovely to be engaged," wrote Molly Dobson. Eliza trembled guiltily as she read them. She left her uncle's until last, but finally she tore it open.

"If you are sure he is the right man, dear child, I am glad. But don't make a mistake; you seem so far away from everything and everyone that you are used to and know. Don't do anything you will regret later."

Eliza buried her head in one of Mrs Brown's sofa cushions with a sob "Don't do anything I'll regret," she repeated. "Oh, how wicked, wicked I've been." Then, suddenly Eliza realized that what she was crying for was that she and Mr. Wilbur were really not engaged.

Eliza heard a footstep by her side and looked up into the grave eyes of Mr. Wilbur.

"Why, you poor little girl," he said gently, kneeling down and putting his arms about her.

"Don't cry Eliza, pulling herself free. "Oh, you musn't," and she rushed past him into the hall and up to her room. Once there she locked the door and set to work to write a confession.

"I must tell you," she wrote, "although you will hate me when you know. I can't explain why, but I wanted the folks at home to think me engaged—to you. I never thought it mattered until I found that I cared—and that you do, too. I don't ask you to pardon me; and as I shall never have to know how much you despise me for it. I am going home to tell them that my engagement is broken."

The next day Eliza, pale and tired arrived unexpectedly at the station at Dayville.

"Hello, Miss Morgan," said the station man, as he helped her with her bags—he was baggage master, porter, telegraph operator and ticket agent all in one—"I certainly am glad to see you. A queer message come over the wire for you. Just going to send it over to your aunt."

Eliza took the yellow telegram and read: "Don't tell anyone it is broken Am coming on the next train to help you mend it."

"Anything valuable that's broken?" querried the man curiously.

Eliza flushed and smiled. "It's the most valuable thing I ever had," she said slowly. "But the cracks will never show after it's mended."

Planning for Mother.

Mrs. Shepherd looked bewildered when her sons announced that six of "the boys" were coming up on the noon train. "They want to see our camp," said Ted.

"Why didn't you tell me this morning," Mrs. Shepherd wailed, "when the butcher was on the hill?"

"Oh, they won't expect to be regularly entertaine " Hal said, comfortably. "We'll just picnic."

"Good!" said Ted, approvingly. "They aren't hard to please. Just put some stuff in a basket, and it will be all right, mumsey. Fried chicken'd be great, and just a few ham sandwiches, some of that chocolate laye cake you make, and a few doughnuts or apple puffs, and maybe seed-cakes, if there are any."

"There you are, mumsey," said Hal, encouragingly. "everything all planned for you!"—Youth's Companion.

Forbes & Wallace | Forbes & Wallace | Forbes & Wallace | Forbes & Wallace

MAIL ORDERS Promptly and Carefully Filled.

This Week Begins Our Half-Yearly Stock-Taking Sale

Thirty Thousand Dollars' Worth of Dresses, Costumes, Suits, Coats

At One-Half and One-Third Less Than Regular Prices

We take stock Dec. 30, and have just this week to sell out every odd lot, model, single piece, and all excess stock. We have put on everything we wish to close out, prices that we think will force them out before the week ends.

All of Our Beautiful and Exclusive Dresses Reduced to Close Out === Silk Afternoon Dresses, Velvet and Serge Dresses, Evening and Dancing Dresses

Evening and Dancing Dresses

These great reductions afford an uncommonly attractive opportunity for any woman who wants a new gown for the holiday festivities to secure a handsome, new and stylish costume for very much less than it would cost ordinarily.

49.00 for all of our beautiful Evening Gowns formerly priced from $69.00 to $98.50.
$98.50 for a 325.00 Beautiful Paris Dress by Martial Armand.
34.75 for Dresses formerly priced up to $50.00.
22.75 for Dresses formerly priced up to $39.00.

Three Hundred Hand-Tailored Suits

Reduced to Close Out

Every One of Our Tailored Suits

In 5 Big Bargain Lots

$ 6.95 for Suits, values $15.95.
16.95 for Suits, values up to 29.75.
19.75 for Suits, values up to 34.75.
25.00 for Suits, values up to 39.00
$34.75 for all of our model suits, values up to $69.00.

Silk Dresses

Crepe Meteor, Crepe de Chine, Taffeta, Chiffon over Messaline, in black and the fashionable afternoon shades. Dresses for bridge, for luncheon, for theater, for calling, and for house wear.

$10.95 for $15.00 to 25.00 values.
$22.75 for $34.75 to 39.00 values.
$33.75 for $45.00 values.
$43.75 for values up to 75.00.

40 Soiled and Crumpled Dresses

Priced Without Regard to Value

They are mostly from last season, they are all made by high-class makers, and they will be all right for house wear or for wear afternoons later on.

$ 7.95 for Dresses originally priced up to $19.75.
12.95 for Dresses originally priced up to $25.00.
19.75 for Dresses originally priced up to $34.75.
29.75 for Dresses originally priced up to $69.00.

Velvet and Serge Dresses

These very fashionable dresses will always be in style. They are simple tailored styles, relying on their superior make and lines for their beauty. Made mostly by men tailors, of fine serge and in a superior quality of velvet and velveteen.

$65.00 for an Imported Serge Dress direct from a prominent Paris maker.
$13.75 for Dresses formerly priced up to $22.50.
$22.75 for Dresses formerly priced up to $45.00.
$34.75 for Dresses formerly priced from $45 to $55.

Street and Motor Coats Reduced

Serges, Tweeds, Mixtures, Chinchilla, Broadcloth, in sizes to fit misses and women.

$12.95 for Coats formerly priced up to $22.50.
$19.75 for Coats formerly priced from $25 to $39.
$29.75 for Coats formerly priced up to $45.
$34.75 for Coats formerly priced up to $55.

IMPORTANT NOTICE — Customers having charge accounts may, on request, have their purchases in this sale charged on January account, bill for which will be rendered February 1.

The Annual January Sale of MUSLIN UNDERWEAR

Will Commence Monday, January 1, 1912

Forbes & Wallace, Springfield

And Prints Them, Too.

"Jones writes more foolish things than any other man I know."

"What is he, a poet?"

"No, congressional stenographer."—Latin.

Fight Your Own Way.

If you got into trouble without the assistance of your friends, you should be game enough to get out in the same way or take your medicine.

Famous Silverware

Care should be exercised when selecting forks, spoons and fancy serving pieces to see that they always bear the famous trademark

1847
ROGERS BROS. XS TRIPLE

which stamps them the genuine Rogers silverplated ware. For over 60 years "1847 ROGERS BROS." silver has been first in the heart of the housekeeper because of its wearing quality, workmanship and design.

Sold by leading dealers everywhere. Send for catalogue "C-L" showing all patterns.

MERIDEN BRITANNIA CO.
(International Silver Co., Successor.)
MERIDEN, CONN.

THE PALMER JOURNAL

Published

EVERY FRIDAY EVENING

13-15 Central Street, Masonic Block.

PALMER, MASS.

The Palmer Journal Company,

LOUIS E. CHANDLER,

Editor and Manager.

Terms of subscription—Two dollars a year; a discount of 25 cents to those who pay in advance. Six months, $1.00; three months, 50 cents; single copies, 5 cents. Subscriptions continued until notified.

Entered at Post Office as second-class matter.

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 29, 1911.

LOCAL NOTICES.

Electric wiring, etc. 'Phone Moulton, 122-21 Monson.

A Graphophone free for you. Come in and learn how to get one. Kinsley's Pharmacy, 357 Main St., Cor. Central.

PALMER NEWS.

Damage By Wind Storm.

Wires Down, Trees Blown Over, Windows Blown in Last Night.

The wind storm which began yesterday noon and increased in strength until at night it was blowing a good sized gale, which continued the greater part of the night, did a generous amount of damage hereabouts. The street lights were out of commission from 8.45 until 11.15 on account of a break in the wires. A pole blown over at West Warren gave the repair gang some trouble, and a load of hay blown over on the car track near Ware delayed the service for a time. On Pearl street in Palmer a large limb on a maple tree over 100 years old was blown off and wrecked the piazza of the house owned by Patrick Connors. Limbs were blown from trees and windows broken by slamming blinds in numerous places In Thorndike a large elm tree in front of the residence of G. E. Mooers was blown over, and a pine tree in the Four Corners cemetery; on the Houghton farm in the Forest Lake district the silo was blown down. Early yesterday afternoon trouble developed on the telephone line east of Palmer, and the service was reduced to one line to Worcester by broken poles and wires down. The wind has kept up through the day to-day, though not as strong as yesterday.

Pool Contest For Supper.

Fun Ahead For Members of Palmer Business and Social Club.

The Palmer Business and Social Club has planned a pool contest which promises to afford some rare sport for the coming weeks. Captains have been appointed—James Summers and Charles Walker—and the entire membership of the club has been drawn, turn and turn about, by them for two sides in a pool match, the losers being allowed to furnish a turkey supper for the winners. Only one game will be played by each man, and the pairs will play in the order in which they were drawn by the captains, No. 1 on Summers' side with No. 1 on Walker's side, and so on, each captain choosing the (in his opinion) best player remaining when it came his turn. As some of the club members have not had a cue in their hands for years, and it is doubtful if some have ever played, rare shots are looked for when the games are played.

Mass Meeting of Men.

In Interests of Men and Religion Forward Movement Next Week.

A mass meeting, to which all men of the town are invited, will be held in the Congregational church next Wednesday evening, beginning promptly at 7.30, in the interests of the Men and Religion Forward Movement. The general topic will be "Civic and religious problems of the Town of Palmer, and how they may be solved." The speakers—who will be local men—and their subjects will be "Evangelism," Rev. C. B. McDuffee, pastor of the Union church at Three Rivers; "Bible study," J. F. Davis of Thorndike; "Social service," R. C. Newell, agent of the Palmer Mill at Three Rivers; "Boys' work," Superintendent of Schools Clifton H. Hobson; "Missions," L. H. Gager of Palmer. A buffet lunch will be served at 9 o'clock.

Chimney Fire Last Night.

The firemen were called out about 6.30 last evening for a chimney fire in the old Holden block on Fox street. It had been burning a good share of the day, according to the neighbors, but with the strong wind of the latter part of the afternoon the sparks began to sail dangerously near the gas works, so a telephone alarm was sent in. Small chemical extinguishers were all that were required to put a stop to the trouble, and the firemen were not sorry that the duty term was short.

The public schools of the town will resume sessions next Monday.

F. C. Sherman has completed a two-room addition to his house on Oak street.

The K. N. club of young ladies gave an invitation dance in Memorial Hall Wednesday evening, which was generously attended.

Associate Justice David F. Dillon presided in the district court Tuesday. John Shea of Monson, charged with drunkenness, was fined $11 and in default was sent up.

Mrs. Alfred M. Webster of Dublin street fell at her home Tuesday evening and severely sprained an ankle. She has been taken to the home of her sister in Indian Orchard.

The turkey which was offered for the three highest strings rolled at the bowling alley last week went to Barsalow, his 352 proving several pins higher than any of the other contestants could negotiate.

The next meeting of the Palmer Historical Society, instead of coming next Tuesday, the first of the month, as usual, will be held on the evening of the 9th, when John C. Sullivan, chairman of the school committee, will give an address on school matters.

The Central Vermont train leaving Palmer at 1.35 yesterday afternoon for the south was delayed for a time at North Monson while the train crew attempted to put out a fire in a small bridge, but they had to give it up and a gang was sent back from Monson to complete the job.

Personal Mention.

Mrs. Charles Frappier and son Edward spent Christmas in Ware.

Miss Elissa Caryl of Pine street is the guest of friends in Springfield.

Harold K. Taylor of Thorndike street is visiting friends in Readville, Me.

Louis Green of South Main street has gone to Maine for a short business trip.

Miss Helen Jenkins is a guest of Mrs. G. H. Hastings of Pleasant street.

H. P. Letters has been confined to his home a part of the week by illness.

Henry Donahue of New York is visiting his parents on Walnut street.

Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Cummings of Pine street spent the holiday in Athol.

Mr. and Mrs. Harrie Howe of Pine street spent the week-end in Springfield.

Mrs. Henry Shaw and Mrs. L. W. Miller spent Tuesday with relatives in town.

Mrs. Daniel Connor and children of South Main street spent Christmas in Ware.

Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Ralton of South Main street spent Christmas in Lawrence.

Floyd Thompson of Mansfield is the guest of Mrs. J. Percy Smith of Depot street.

Miss Susan Barlow of Pine street is spending the week with relatives in Worcester.

Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Donahue of Knox street spent the first of the week in Worcester.

Miss Madalene Fuller of South Main street has gone for a visit with friends in Attleboro.

Jerry Meyers and son Arthur of Chestnut street are spending a few days in Lawrenee.

Mr. and Mrs. William A. Smith of South Main street spent the holiday in Blandford.

Mrs. Nelson Whiton is visiting her daughter, Mrs. E. C. Buffington of Converse street.

Fred Davis and wife of Spring street are spending the week with his parents in Winchendon.

Miss Lillian Proulx of Pittsfield is a guest of her aunt, Mrs. M. St. John of Thorndike street.

Miss Mary E. Dolbear, teacher in the high school, is spending the week with relatives in Boston.

Charles Hellyar of New York has been the guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Hellyar.

Miss Edith Thompson of Chestnut street is spending the week with relatives in Southbridge.

Albert W. Bailey of Worcester is a guest of his cousin, Robert W. Bodfish of Central street.

Miss Frances Davenport of Newton, N. J., is a guest of Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Marcy on King street.

Judge and Mrs. T. W. Kenefick spent the holiday with Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Kenefick of Boston.

Henry Stimson of Hazardville, Ct., is visiting his brother, Horace W. Stimson, at Palmer Center.

Mrs. J. Percy Smith and five children of Depot street have returned from their visit in Mansfield.

Edward Heery of Boston was a guest the first of the week of Miss Katherine Feeney of South Main street.

Miss E. Frappier of Ware is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Frappier of South Main street.

Mrs. Elizabeth Bolter has returned to her home on King street after a visit with friends in South Amherst.

Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Remington have returned from their wedding trip and are living at the Burns Hotel.

Miss Irene Bates of the printing department of the Palmer Carpet Mill resigned her position last Saturday.

William M. Barrett has returned from a visit with his sister, Mrs. William McGuire, in Washington, D. C.

Warren Harradon has moved his family from Springfield to H. A. Sprague's house on South Main street.

Mr. and Mrs. Horace Todd and two children of South Main street spent the holiday with relatives in Stafford.

H. L. Jones has moved his family from Huntington to the two-tenement house of W. E. McDonald on Walnut street.

Mrs. Gordon Wilson and daughter Etta of Concord are spending the week with Mrs. Theron Beals of South Main street.

Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Shaw of West Warren are guests this week of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Parker of Central street.

Arthur Mitchell has resigned his position as conductor on the street railway and returned to his home in Lowell.

N. K. Rogers of South Main street, who has been seriously ill as the result of a fall some time ago, is improving slowly.

Miss Ruth Connor of Mount Holyoke college is spending the week with her sister, Mrs. E. C. Gould of Pleasant street.

William Taylor, a recent graduate of Pratt Institute, Brooklyn, N. Y., has taken a position as draftsman in the wire mill.

Mrs. Charles Willman and daughter of Leominster are visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Huntington of Pine street.

Miss Florence Rohan and Miss Frances Kavanaugh of Springfield are guests at the home of J. L. Wilder on Pine street.

Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Hellyar and family spent the holiday with their daughter, Mrs. Clarence Bennett in New Britain, Ct.

Mrs. Joseph Hobson and son Clarence of Indian Orchard were guests yesterday of Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Hobson of Pearl street.

Miss Gladys Paine of South Main street and Miss Elizabeth Bodfish of Central street attended a tea at the McDuffie school in Springfield Wednesday afternoon.

Among the Churches.

"A challenge to uncertainty" will be the subject of the morning sermon at the Congregational church next Sunday; Sunday school at 12; Christian Endeavor at 6, subject, "Things I want to do better next year;" evening sermon at 7, subject, "A new year and its meaning."

Heard in School.

"Why did Atlas have to support the earth?"

"He didn't have to; he was just practicing his physical culture lesson."

Not in His Native Element.

The Admiral de Vivonne, while crossing the Rhine at Tolhuys, noticed his horse stumbling when in midstream. "Would you drown an admiral in fresh water?" he shouted to his steed.

Every family has need of a good-reliable liniment. For sprains, bruises, soreness of the muscles and rheumatic pains there is none better than Chamberlain's. Sold by all dealers.

S. H. Wright

64 Pleasant Street.

Lock and Gunsmith.

Light Repairing of every Description.

Locks, Keys, Guns, Pistols, Shears, Lawn Mowers, Skates, Sewing Machines, Saw Filing, Clocks, Pattern Making, Etc.

Buy Cloth from the Mill.

For 50 years we have been manufacturing dependable Woolen and Worsted Cloths.

You can buy them at our Salesroom, OR BY MAIL at reasonable prices and with confidence that every transaction will be entirely satisfactory to YOU.

Samples Free. State garment planned, color preferred.

Buy Direct From the Mill and Save Money.

The Ridgewood Mills

639 Main Street,

Holyoke, Mass.

Not open Saturday afternoon.

Fraternity Notes.

Palmer aerie of Eagles meets next Thursday evening.

The A. O. H. meets Sunday afternoon in Thorndike.

Palmer lodge of Odd Fellows meets next Wednesday evening.

The firemen hold their regular monthly meeting next Monday evening.

The officers of Court Palmer, Foresters of America, will be installed next Tuesday evening by District Deputy Robert E. Green of Monson. A collation will follow.

Quaboag council, Royal Arcanum, will hold a regular meeting next Tuesday evening, when the new officers will be installed by District Deputy Belden of Springfield.

Tockwotton tribe of Red Men elected these officers Tuesday evening: Sachem, R. H. Paine; senior sagamore, H. E. Thompson; junior sagamore, Fred J. Brown; prophet, G. C. Goodes; C. of R., E. W. Carpenter; C. of W., G. E. Clough; K. of W., E. E. Brooks; trustee for three years, G. A. Bramford.

There will be a joint installation of the officers of the Grand Army post, Woman's Relief Corps and Sons of Veterans next Wednesday evening in Memorial Hall. E. F. Cross of E. K. Wilcox post of Springfield will install the officers of the post, Mrs. Viola Shaw of Belchertown the officers of the Relief Corps and E. S. Emerson of Springfield the officers of the Sons of Veterans. Each order has the privilege of inviting their friends to the exercises.

"I had been troubled with constipation for two years and tried all of the best physicians in Bristol, Tenn., and they could do nothing for me," writes Thos. E. Williams, Middleboro, Ky. "Two packages of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets cured me." For sale by all dealers.

Warmer Underwear Time

That suggests several things you'll need for the cold weather. We have them all. Our line of Men's Furnishings is new, complete, up-to-date.

Delays Are Dangerous

buy these needful articles at once. Warm under garments prevent colds. We sell all the best kinds.

Jones & Stevens,

Successors to the Geo. F. Emmons Co.

PALMER, MASS.

Special Sale

OF

New Year's Gifts

AT

Lynde & Gould's

We carry the largest and best line of DRUGS, TOILET ARTICLES, STATIONERY, PHOTOGRAPH GOODS, ETC., to be found in this vicinity.

Remember the Piano Contest

And get a coupon with every purchase.

Lynde & Gould

Nassowanno House Block,

PALMER, MASS.

Quality Always First

Seasonable Goods at Reasonable Prices

We have a good stock of

Heating Stoves

Of various sizes and styles and at corresponding prices. These stoves we know are good heaters and will please you we f el sure.

Coal Hods Coal Shovels Ash Cans Ash Sifters

Clark's Carriage Heaters

Make a long carriage or automobile ride a pleasure in cold weather. Keep the feet warm, are inexpensive to operate and only occupy a small space.

Horse Blankets

For street and stable use. We still have a large assortment of styles, sizes and prices and are sure we can suit you if in need of Blankets.

Felt Weather Strips

Will keep out a lot of cold if put around the windows and doors. We have it in two sizes. 25 feet in a box.

Perfection Oil Heaters

Hold a gallon of oil and burn 9 hours. Just a little over 1 cent an hour for heat.

Barney & Berry Ice Skates

Flexible Flyer Sleds

Hockey Sticks

Whitcomb & Faulkner,

All Cars Stop in Front of the Door.

Main Street, Palmer, Mass.

Telephone

Accept Our Sincere Good Wishes

For Your Nineteen Hundred and Twelve

We hope it will be a happy, prosperous one.

Our sale of Men's Furnishings will enable you to dress prosperously and perfectly.

We Have Some Bargains in Suits and Overcoats.

Fine Shirts, Neckwear and Underwear.

C. K. Gamwell,

Up-to-date Clothier and Furnisher,

Palmer, - - - - - - Mass.

Big Clearance Sale

Men's Overcoats

All our $20, $18, $16.50 and $15 Overcoats to be sold at $13.98

Special Lot of Ladies' Coats

Marked down to $12.50

M. Ecker, Palmer, Mass.

P. O. Block. Up one flight.

The Day Is Too Short

To bother with an old range. Buy a GLENWOOD and have the best.

E. Brown Co., Agents, Palmer, Mass.

Your Heating and Plumbing Work Solicited.

BORN.

In Troy, N. Y., a daughter, Lois Moulton, to Lois T. and J. O. Matthews.

In Westerly, R. I., 22d, a son to Ellie King and Clifford W. Campbell, and grandson of the late Joseph King of Palmer.

MARRIED.

In Monson, 27th, by Rev. Abram Conklin, Elmer Harris and Nettie Ellen Trumble, both of Monson.

DIED.

In Belchertown, 23d, Mrs. Della H. Sanford, 88.

FOX TERRIER PUPS FOR SALE. 17-tf
JAMES BURDICK, Mechanic St. Monson

TO RENT.—A good five-room tenement to a small family, at 28 Pleasant Street.
39-2 MRS. TUTHILL, Palmer.

WHITE WYANDOTTE PULLETS for sale at once. A. F. BENNETT, Palmer. Telephone 74—2 39-1ks

WANTED—At once, choppers to cut off wood-lot. Logs and cord-wood. Apply to M. SULLIVAN & SONS, Thorndike. 38-2

WANTED—Boarding place for a girl of six years old, in respectable family. MRS. F. E. SHAW, Box F. 37-3

IF YOU WANT your horse clipped in first-class shape, call on JAMES BURDICK, Monson. 32-tf

VAULTS CLEANED, gardens plowed, ashes and rubbish removed at reasonable prices. W. H. HOUSE, Palmer. 3-tf

FOR SALE.—One two-horse sleigh, one one-horse sleigh and four driving sleighs.
46-tf WHITCOMB & FAULKNER.

WANTED.—Hens, calves and cows. Will pay good price. Notify by postal card.
44-tf E. GOLDBERG, Three Rivers.

FOR SALE—Second-hand hot air wood furnace in good condition; pipes and registers with it. Inquire of E. J. FULLER, Fuller's Crossing, on Bondsville line. 33-tf

CARPET CLEANER. A Richmond Cleaner to rent with or without operator. Best way to clean carpets, rugs or furniture. Write postal or telephone 25-2. FRED McCOMBER, Box 174, Palmer. 40-tf

WANTED—By an elderly lady, a suite of three rooms, with all improvements, in good location, for light housekeeping. Wanted by January 8. Best of references given and required. Business as a trance medium and clairvoyant. Address ROOM 671, Third Avenue, New York City.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the subscriber has been duly appointed executor of the will of Frances W. Dimock, late of Palmer, in the County of Hampden, deceased, testate, and has taken upon himself that trust by giving bond, as the law directs. All persons having demands upon the estate of said deceased are required to exhibit the same; and all persons indebted to said estate are called upon to make payment to FRANK M. HOLT, Exc. 38-3
W. Harwich, Mass., Dec. 21, 1911.

For Sale!

Homestead of the late Frances W. Dimock 63 Park St., Palmer. For terms, etc., see FRANK M. HOLT, executor, who will be upon the premises from Jan. 1 to 6, 1912, or W. Harwich, Mass.

W. B. T. Smith,
Physician and Surgeon,

Office and residence, So. High Street,
BONDSVILLE, MASS.
Office Hours 7-9 a. m. 12.30-2 p. m. 6.30-8 p. m.
Tel. 104—5.

For Sale.

My residence on North Main street. 20 rooms and ground level basement—more room than I need. Steam heat, electric lights, bath. Can easily be made into two tenements.
Louis E. Chandler.

Notice to Piano Owners.

Mr. J. Frank Normand, Piano Tuner and Repairer. Nearly 20 years' experience on all makes of pianos. Over fifty satisfied piano owners to refer to in Palmer, Monson and vicinity. Orders left at Journal office or mailed to 800 Main street, Worcester, Mass., will receive prompt attention.

August Peterson,
Monson, Mass.

Cement, Concrete and Stone Work of all kinds at Lowest Prices.

Teacher of Violin,
Robert J. Wilder.
Palmer, Mass.

Upright Pianos to Rent
$3 to $5 per month

Money paid for rent applied if purchased.
STONE'S STORE,
370 Main St. Palmer

John Winer, Three Rivers
Dealer in Cattle, Beef and Milch Cows, Poultry.
Pay High Prices
P. O. Box 339, Three Rivers

For Sale
8-room cottage, with bath; on car line. Bargain if taken at once.
R. E. Cummings,
Palmer, Mass.

INSURANCE
Of every kind placed at short notice, and all favors duly appreciated.
Yours Truly
S. H. HELLYAR
Office at store on Main St.

VIOLIN AND PIANO LESSONS
Given by
Julia A. Allen, Palmer, Mass.
Orders promptly filled for Music, Violins, Strings, etc.

PALMER SAVINGS BANK. PALMER, MASS.

Money deposited on or before Thursday, January 4th, will commence interest from January 1st

BANKING HOURS:
9 a. m. to 3 p. m
Saturday, 9 a. m. to 12 m.
Friday Evening 7.30 to 9.

CHAS L. WAID,
Treasurer.

Confident Chester

By Adele Mendel

"Look at this solitaire ring," said Chester to his legal partner, Edward Leslie. "Isn't it a beauty?"

"Well, I'll be flabbergasted!"

"Best wishes, old chap; am I to be best man at your wedding?"

"Don't be too previous! I haven't asked her yet."

"How do you know she'll have you? Such conceit.'

"Great Scott, Edward! Am I such a dub that a little golden haired hazel eyed country girl would refuse me?"

"You never can tell. Better get busy!"

"Who is she, and where is she?"

"I'll tell you all about her after she's promised to become Mrs. Chester Farson," replied Chester.

"I'll not cut you out. Have a girl of that type myself."

A few days after the latter conversation Chester rang the doorbell at Mrs. Robbin's home and inquired for Miss Hoyt.

"Miss Hoyt isn't at home," replied the old lady who opened the door.

"I met Miss Ruth at the sea shore," commenced Chester, "and she asked me to call."

"Come right in," interrupted Ruth's aunt, cordially.

"Are you the lawyer she spoke about?"

"I believe I am."

"Ruth told me all about you. She's so changed since her return I never

"Auntie, Congratulate Me!"

meddle in other people's affairs, but I think Ruth is in love."

"In love!"

"Yes; she doesn't care for any of the town fellows any more and acts so quiet like. My niece thinks a lot of you, young man."

"Does she? Are you sure?" questioned Chester.

"If Miss Ruth cares for me, I'll be the happiest man in the universe."

"I'm positive of it. Here she comes now. She will be so surprised and delighted."

"By Jove!" exclaimed Chester, looking out of the window.

"She's prettier than ever. So happy, too! She must have heard I'm here."

Just then Ruth rushed in exclaiming: "Auntie congratulate me. I'm engaged! Oh, I didn't see you, Mr. Farson."

"Allow me to congratulate you, too. Who's the lucky fellow?"

"Edward Leslie, a brother of my roommate at school whom I met at the sea shore after you left."

"I never even heard of him," said Ruth's aunt, regaining her voice.

"He's the lawyer I told you about. Edward came this morning, and is waiting at the hotel, auntie, until I tell you the good news. I'd like to have you meet him, Mr. Farson."

"Edward Leslie is my partner, and we can't both be away at the same time, so goodby, little girl. Best wishes for your happiness."

"The deuce!" muttered Farson, to himself as he left the house. "Wish I could find a girl to fit this ring before Edward and I meet again. Guess I'll go up and see Mildred Carrol tonight."

Women in Business.

"Women," said the bromide sententiously, "ought to live at home and attend to their housework. They can't stand the killing pace of business life."

"Oh, can't they?" asked the man who had made a few observations. "They seem to do fairly well in business. You never find any of them in sanitariums. You'll find lots of businessmen there. You also will find many married women there, and as a rule those who have had the least to do with business. The sanitariums of the country find their most numerous patrons to be society women, who never have given business a thought in their lives. You know, or course, that farmers' wives fill the insane asylums. Don't you worry about women in business. It is good for them. They are not likely to push it to an insane limit. All they ever will learn of it never will hurt them. It will do them and the rest of the world more good than harm."

Exonerated.

Mrs. Crabshaw—I can't understand why I didn't see those faults in you before we were married.

Mr. Crabshaw—It's quite plain, my dear, I didn't possess them.

The true art of memory is the art of attention. —Johnson.

An Aeroplane Stock Deal

"Do you believe in reciprocity?" inquired George.

"What has that to do with it?" replied Helen.

"Only if I love you then you ought to love me."

"I might care for you with all my heart and soul, but not for your vocation."

"That's the limit. I don't fly. I only sell airships."

"You're perpetually talking and thinking about them, and I wager you even dream about aviators."

"I'd rather dream about you, dearest. Consider how wonderful it will be in the future to eat your breakfast in New York and lunch in Paris."

"Don't attempt to convince me. With you all the time is fly time."

"Well, see how the time flies when you're talking about aeroplanes."

"Stop jesting, George," said Helen seriously. "I'd even rather be a minister's wife than marry a man interested in aeroplanes."

"Its plain enough, clergymen talk about heaven and we aim to get there."

"What of all the birdmen whose lives are sacrificed. It would constantly haunt me if a single martyr was dashed to his destruction in one of your horrid winged bat affairs."

"Helen, I must confess that I have been taking instructions how to navigate an aeroplane so we could take a little trip during our honeymoon."

"Are you daffy? Enough people are always gazing at a bridal couple without our making an effort to have our pictures in a Sunday paper.

"Oh, I'll never, never marry you unless you sell out your interest in those aeroplanes."

"Helen, every cent I possess is invested in that corporation. If I lose that money how can we marry?"

"I don't know and I don't care. Unless you can comply with my wishes, never speak to me again. Good-night," she said as she left the room.

George made many an attempt to see Helen, but all efforts were frustrated. A few weeks later in sheer hopeless despair he exclaimed: "Confound it, all the airships science could produce are worth losing for Helen. Can't people talk of anything but aviation to me? No matter where I go some one jabbers about those blasted airships. I'd rather talk about Helen and courtship."

"Do you know of any one who would dispose of some stock?" asked one of the directors of George as he gloomily entered the office.

"At a loss?"

"No, at a big profit. But not for an instant did I imagine that you or any other party would consider it because of the prospects."

"Hang the prospects," shouted George. "I'm more than willing to sell for cash. Who's the party?"

"A trust magnate who phones this morning and is waiting for an answer."

"Helen," said George when he saw her that evening, "I sold my share in the flying machine company today."

"You darling," laughed Helen, giving him a loving embrace. "Airships or no airships, you're the best ever Did you lose much money?"

"Oh, I came out all right and have more of real cold cash than I ever hoped to possess."

"How grand. Let's go and tell father; he'll be delighted."

Helen's father expressed great surprise at seeing his daughter so bright and cheerful again.

"So the storm's all over," he said. "To prove how happy I am over your choice I will give you for a wedding present some bonds I directed my secretary to buy today."

"Thanks, father; there certainly will be a strong bond between George and me."

"These bonds," continued her father, "are called the P. F. M."

"The P. F. M.?" interrupted George "That stands for the Perfection Flying Machine. So you see, Helen, even though I did sell the stock it will still keep in the family."

Trouble for Tompkins.

The ever-genial Tompkins was a little the worse for wear after the twenty-fifth anniversary dinner of his class, and as he stood waveringly on the sidewalk on the other side of the street from his own front steps his distress of mind became perfectly, if not painfully evident to Office. Maginnis on patrol.

"Why, Mr. Tompkins," said the officer, noticing Tompkins' troubled expression as he came upon him in the dim light of the corner lamp, "what seems to be the trouble?"

"I do know, Maginnis," said Tompkins, scratching his head in perplexity. "But there's somethin' queer goin' on my front stoop. I've shignailed to 'em fifty-two times already, as it went by, and the darned old contraption goes right on jus' as if it thought it was a troiolley car."

And the kindly officer waited until the stoop came around the fifty-third time and assisted Tompkins in getting aboard without interfering with the orderly progress of the block.—Harper's Weekly.

Often.

"What becomes of the average man's money?"

"I guess it goes to the average woman."—Judge.

A boy defines dust as mud with the juice squeezed out.—Chicago News.

WORLD OF BLUFF AND SHAM

Absolute Frankness Seems to Be a Thing Unknown Among Men and Women.

One of the most pitiful as well as one of the commonest things in all this old world is sham. Those who hide—and who of us does not?—under its sleazy covering are continually struggling to keep up appearances against a remorseless and overwhelming handicap. The modern spirit of emulation is responsible for much of the present-day sham. The mad race to keep up with and a little ahead of one's neighbors creates an ingenuine condition. One strives for a good showing, and life behind the scenes accepts what's left. If we could only see the other side that is jealously hidden from Mrs. Grundy's prying eyes what an awakening there would be oftentimes!

The man who, living on his wife's inherited or possibly hard-earned money, tells his friends with blatant impudence that she spends his wages faster than he can earn them and then asks for more; the young wife who to "make a show" passes her summers at some fashionable resort while her husband bends his head even nearer the grindstone to meet an extravagance that far overreaches his salary, suppiementing the deficit by borrowing from his business partner; the "happy" woman who with serene eyes forces the world to think her lot a blissful one when all the while her heart is breaking over some secret sorrow or bitter humiliation—each a disciple of bluff, sham and pride. What cankers of the soul these three cover! And the world moves serenely on and the make-beliefs which cover a multitude of miseries are held valiantly up to trick Dame Grundy into thinking that all is gold that glitters.

When you have a cold get a bottle of Chamberlin's Cough Remedy. It will soon fix you up all right and will ward off any tendency toward pneumonia. This remedy contains no opium or other narcotic and may be given as confidently to a baby as to an adult. Sold by all dealers.

If You Are a Trifle Sensitive

About the size of your shoes it's some satisfaction to know that many people can wear shoes a size smaller by shaking Allen's Foot-Ease into them. Just the thing for Patent Leather Shoes, and for breaking in New Shoes. Sold everywhere, 25c. Sample FREE. Address, Allen S. Olmstead, LeRoy, N. Y.

A Big Surprise For New Year's
Oranges
25c to 50c a dozen

All kinds of Nuts
Figs
Dates
Grape Fruit
Bananas

Confectionery
Of every kind, from the broken Christmas candy to the finest
Lenox Chocolates
In fancy boxes or in bulk.

Palmer Fruit Co.
Palmer, Mass.

TOWN WARRANT.
Commonwealth of Massachusetts.
County of Hampden, ss. Town of Palmer.
To either of the constables of the Town of Palmer, in said County. Greeting:
In the name of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, you are hereby required to notify and warn all the inhabitants of the Town of Palmer, qualified to vote in town affairs, to meet at the Town House at Four Corners, in said Palmer, on Saturday, the 6th day of January A. D. 1912, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, then and there to act on the following articles, viz:

Article 1. To choose a Moderator to preside at said meeting.

Art. 2. To see if the town will appropriate any sum of money for the use of the Board of Health and determine the amount.

Art. 3. To see if the town will appropriate the sum of one thousand ($1000) dollars for the support of its poor.

Art. 4. To see if the town will appropriate the sum of one thousand ($1000) dollars for its contingent account, to be used by the Selectmen for contingent expenses of the town.

Art. 5. To see if the town will authorize its Treasurer, by and with the approval of the Selectmen, to borrow a sum of money, not exceeding three thousand ($3000) dollars to be used by the Board of Health, for the support of its poor and for contingent expenses of the town, determine the time within which the money authorized to be borrowed shall be paid, the rate of interest, and authorize the Town Treasurer, by and with the approval of the Selectmen, to issue a note or notes of the town for the money authorized to be borrowed.

And you are hereby directed to serve this warrant by posting up attested copies thereof at the different public places, designated by the vote of the town, seven days at least before the holding of said meeting, and cause this warrant to be printed in the Palmer Journal at least two issues before the holding of said meeting.

Hereby fail not and make due return of this warrant, with your doings thereon to the Town Clerk, on or before the holding of said meeting.

Given under our hands this twentieth day of December, A. D. 1912.

GEORGE L. WARRINER,
HAROLD W. BRAINERD,
Selectmen of Palmer.

A true copy attest: 38-2
GEORGE A. BILLS,
Constable of the Town of Palmer.

Bay State Drug Co.
Palmer

Imported
Manila Cigars
5c

From the Philippines on Steamship "Antilochus," via Tacoma, Washington. These fine Cigars transported nearly half around the world to please the taste of the exacting smoker.

All Other 10c Cigars, 6c
5c Cigars, 4c

Special for Saturday, Dec. 30

Largest and Best Equipped Drug Store Between Worcester and Springfield

Mrs. Rose
Late of New York City.
Hair Goods Made to Order and Remodeled.
Complexion and Scalp Treatment—Facials, Shampooing and Manicuring.
Hours: 9 to 5. Appointments made.
Telephone 49-11.
17 Thorndike Street, Palmer, Mass.

Walk a Few Steps
Past the Post Office and see our windows for
Some Very Special Prices

Don't make the mistake of thinking that all the so-called Winter Mark-Downs are offered in Springfield. See your Home Furniture store first.

We have a larger variety for selection than a great many of you think.

Walcott-Cameron Co.,
Palmer, Mass.
Furniture Rugs Stoves

Cannel Coal for Open Grates.
English quality Bostonia cannel coal, especially adapted for open grates and quick fires, of unusually good quality. Try it.

Juanita Forge Coal.
Guaranteed to be the best forge coal mined. Blacksmiths are requested to give it a trial.

Feiner Charcoal.
I have the wholesale agency for Palmer, Monson, Ware and Wilbraham.

W. F. Fillmore, Palmer

Large Stock of Cold Weather Goods
SWEATERS, AVIATION HOODS, CAPS, GLOVES, MITTENS, LEGGINS, MUFFLERS, UNDERWEAR, ETC., ETC.
Sole agent for
Interwoven Hosiery for men, the best hose ever manufactured.

Hellyar's Bargain Store
Converse House Block, Palmer, Mass.

Thorndike
Three Rivers
Bondsville

Many items of interest from these busy villages.

THORNDIKE.

Christmas Sunday at St. Mary's Church.

Christmas was observed at St. Mary's church with extra services, which were held at 7, 8, 9 and 10 o'clock. The latter was a solemn high mass, Rev. P. J. Griffin, the pastor, being celebrant, Rev. P. J. Griffin of Killarney, Ireland, deacon, Stephen Healey sub-deacon, and Edward Dailey master of ceremonies. The two latter are students for the priesthood. The altars were handsomely decorated with flowers, plants, etc., and presented an imposing scene. The crib of the Infant Jesus was present within the altar rail, representing Jesus in the manger. The mass rendered by the choir under the direction of Miss Katherine Holden was well sung; Miss Nola Cavanaugh and Miss Mary V. Lyons were the soloists. At the close of this mass the Te Deum, "Holy God We Praise Thy Name," was sung by the choir and congregation. The attendance at all masses was large. In the evening solemn vespers were sung, Rev. P. J. Griffin being celebrant. This was followed by Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament. Appropriate sermons were given at both the 10 o'clock morning service and at vespers, the subject being "The Birth of Christ."

Dennis F. Leary passed Christmas with friends in Boston.

Patrick Nagle Sr. and son, Patrick, spent Christmas in Haverhill.

Arthur Bengle of Palmer was the guest of his parents on Monday.

Patrick Sugrue and Thomas Murphy of Monson passed Christmas in town.

Patrick Connor of New York City was the guest of T. J. Clifford this week.

Fred Walker Jr. of Springfield has been visiting friends here during the week.

Mr. and Mrs. LaDuke and children passed Monday with relatives in Three Rivers.

Miss Mildred Loftus is passing a vacation with relatives in Holyoke for a few days.

Mrs. Lena Parker and son Berton passed the holiday with friends in Springfield.

Mr. and Mrs. William St. George and little daughter passed Christmas out of town with friends.

Mrs. William Holden and Miss Marie Dullihan are visiting relatives in Hartford for a few days.

Frank Soloman has taken a position as wine clerk for McKelligott & Gebo at the Clinton House.

Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Coffee of Easthampton were guests of relatives in town the past week.

Daniel Crimmins of West Springfield was the guest of his mother, Mrs. Hannah Crimmins Christmas.

Miss St. George of Warren has been a guest at the home of her brother, William St. George the past week.

George Gerald of Springfield was a guest of his mother, Mrs. Honora Gerald, over the Christmas holiday.

Miss Eliza Malloy of Springfield and Michael Malloy of Wilbraham were guests of relatives here the past week.

Miss Nellie Fleming and Miss May Miller of the Steiger store, Springfield, spent Christmas in town with relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Decker and child of Deerfield were guests of Mrs. Katherine Lawlor and family Christmas.

Misses Frances and Clair Sullivan of Ware were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Loftus on Christmas Day.

Miss Maude J. Parker of New York has been the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew J. Parker the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Fleming and daughter of Philadelphia were the guests of the Misses Fleming the past week.

Miss Bessie Roach of Brown University is spending the holidays at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. Roach.

Mr. and Mrs. Orrin Ives of Attleboro spent the Christmas holiday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Trumble.

Miss Marguerite Casey of Chester has been visiting at the home of her father, James Casey, and family the past week.

The Pastime Club will hold a dance the 17th of next month in Union Hall. Music by Plante & Wedge's orchestra of Spencer.

Miss Marguerite Delane of New York City has been the guest of Mrs. Ellen Hartnett and family during the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. Noe Plant and Joseph Plant of Spencer were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Plant and family Christmas.

Mr. and Mrs. William Smith of Holyoke were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hanlon of Main street Christmas.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Shea of Bondsville were guests of Mrs. Shea's parents. Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Brosnan on Monday.

Dennis F. Sullivan of Peacedale, R. I., was guest of his brother, Daniel J. Sullivan and family during the Christmas holiday.

St. Mary's Temperance society will elect officers for the ensuing year at their meeting in Temperance hall Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Henry have been entertaining relatives from out of town at their home on Church street the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. John Coogan and son Thomas of Indian Orchard passed the Christmas holiday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Kelley.

Edward J. Kelley of New York, a former resident, visited at the home of his mother, Mrs. Ellen Kelley, during the Christmas holiday.

Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Bishop and daughter Ruth spent Christmas in Hartford at the home of their daughter, Mrs. J. P. Murphy.

Miss Hanora Hartnett of Ware and Miss Margurite Hartnett passed Christmas in town at the home of Mrs. Ellen Hartnett of Main street.

James Holden of Warren has been spending the Christmas holiday at the home of his mother, Mrs. Annie Holden of Church street.

George McKenzie of Ware passed the Christmas holiday in town at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm McKenzie of Pine avenue.

Walter O'Keefe of Philadelphia Dental College is passing the holidays at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John O'Keefe of Pine avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Trumble and daughter of Springfield were guests of Mrs. Ellen Dwyer and Mr. and Mrs. Warren Trumble over Christmas.

Edward Dailey, who is attending St. Bonaventure College, Allegancy, N. Y., is guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John B. Dailey of Main street.

Miss May and Master Lawrence Griffin of Thompsonville, Ct., were guests on Christmas Day of Rev. P. J. Griffin, pastor of St. Mary's church.

Daniel and Edward Healey returned to New Jersey this week after passing the holiday at the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Maurice C. Healey.

Prof. J. D. Kelley of Springfield, who conducted a class in dancing here for the past two seasons, is to open a class in Bijou Hall, Three Rivers, Saturday evening.

James Burke, who recently left town and who has been living in New Bedford, has returned to town and has taken a position in the No 2 mill carding department.

Mr. and Mrs. H. E. W. Clark had as their guests Christmas time their son Charles, wife and daughter, Josephine of Boston, and son, Granger F. and wife of New York.

Stephen Healey, who is studying for the priesthood at Niagara, N. Y., is home for the holidays, at the home of his mother, Mrs. Cornelius Healey of Commercial street.

The Christmas tree and entertainment Saturday evening at the Congregational church was well attended and much enjoyed. There was a Christmas tree loaded with gifts for old and young.

Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Roche and four sons of Palmer and Mr. and Mrs. P. W. Fleming and daughter Rosemary, of Elmhurst, L. I., were guests Christmas of the Misses Fleming on Main street.

Benjamin Murphy and family have moved from Forest Lake district, where they have recently disposed of their farm property, to Commercial street and are occupying the tenement owned by J. J. Kelley.

Mr. and Mrs. John O'Keefe entertained the following as their guests over the Christmas holiday: Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Casey and Miss Sadie O'Keefe of Chester, Pa., Miss Annie O'Keefe of Springfield, James O'Keefe of Holyoke, Mr. and Mrs. Merton Thomas of West Springfield.

When Andrew Brosnan, flagman at the Four Corners crossing, went to his place of work Saturday morning, he discovered that some unknown person had taken possession. The man was found lying upon the floor asleep. Dalvini Fortier, an officer who lives nearby was called, and the man was taken to Palmer under arrest.

Miss Mary Louise Bengle, 23, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Bengle of this place, died at the convent in St. Hyacinthe, Canada, on Wednesday of last week and the funeral was held Friday. Miss Bengle had continued in her religious vocation for about five years. She was known as Sister Mary Victor. Besides her parents she is survived by four sisters, two of whom belong to other religious orders, and one brother, Arthur of Palmer.

THREE RIVERS.

Young Men Organize Club.

A club has been organized by the young men of the village. It will be something of the nature of the Y. M. C. A. The following officers have been chosen: President, Albert R. Jenks; vice president, Clarence N. Lupien; secretary, John Chambers; treasurer, Edward Barton. The name "Booster Club" has been chosen. Several new members are to be enrolled.

Repairs are being made on the electric line on Main street.

R. Louis Thayer spent Christmas at his home in Enfield.

Nathan Cramer spent the week-end with his family in Worcester.

Miss Lizzie Fletcher spent the holiday at her home in Westfield.

Fred Hubert visited friends in New London during the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. Mose Gervais spent the holiday with relatives in town.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Montville are visiting relatives in this village.

William Bleau of Holyoke visited relatives in this village this week.

Frank Burse of Ludlow spent Christmas at his home on School street.

Emil Bengle of Westfield spent the holiday with relatives in this village.

The Polish night school will reopen January 2, after a two-weeks' vacation.

Moses Smith of Springfield spent the holiday at his home in this village.

A. Adams of the Wenimisset spent the holiday with his father in Holyoke.

Andrew Fifer of Norwich spent the holiday with his parents in this village.

Fred Hubert was the holiday guest of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Freak on School street.

Miss Nellie Fogarty of Amherst spent the holiday at her home on Bourne street.

Mrs. David Crosby of Palmer was the guest Christmas of relatives in this village.

George Saunders of Springfield was the guest on Christmas of old friends in town.

James H. Cole of Gilbertville spent the week-end at the home of John Ritchie.

Bradford Stone of the Wenimesset spent the holiday at his home in Springfield.

Miss Nellie Connor of North Dana spent the week-end with her mother on Main street.

Mabel Geer of Northfield spent the holiday recess at her home on Belchertown road.

Richard Matchett of Holyoke has taken a position in the picker room of Palmer Mill.

Irving Allen of Worcester spent the holiday with his father, J. E. Allen on Maple street.

Miss Jessie Purdy has resigned her position as clerk in the Woman's Shop in Springfield.

Archie Rogers returned from a visit with friends in Torrington, Ct., during the past week.

Mrs. John Foley of Springfield street spent the holiday at the home of her son in Worcester.

Edward Dupraw was called to New York by the illness of his brother during the past week.

J. H. Trickett of Front street attended the funeral of a relative in Lowell during the past week.

George Tomelson of South Manchester was a guest during the past week of John Ritchie.

George Murdock of Gilbertville was the week-end guest of Mrs. William Kuss on Palmer street.

Barnard Allen of Concord, N. H., spent Christmas with his father, A. C. Allen on Maple street.

Robert Morrison was the guest Christmas at the home of Mrs. Vennert on Palmer street.

Isaac Cole of Gilbertville was the holiday guest at the home of John Ritchie on Palmer road.

Timothy Connor spent the holiday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Connor on Maple street.

Miss Anna Murdock has returned home after spending a short vacation with relatives in Boston.

Mrs. Leslie Chisholm and son Bruce of Everett spent Christmas with her parents at the Wenimisset.

Everett Geer of Tufts College is spending the holiday recess at his home on Belchertown road.

F. Trembly has moved his family from Anderson avenue to the Samuel Winer block on Main street.

William Roberts of Nashua, N. H., spent Christmas at the home of George Moore on Springfield street.

Margaret Taylor of Gilbertville spent the holiday at the home of Miss Anne Ritchie on Anderson avenue.

Peter Labelle of Chicopee Falls spent the week-end and holiday at the home of his mother on Palmer street.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Senecal of Springfield were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. Herran on Main street.

Robert Geer of Providence is spending the week with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Geer on Maple street.

Thomas Connor was the Christmas guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Connor on Palmer street.

Mrs. B. Doherty of Amherst spent Christmas with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. Fogarty on Bourne street.

John Lanier, second-hand in the carpenter shop of the Palmer Mill for several months, has resigned his position.

Stephen McAdam of Gilbertville spent Christmas at the home of his sister, Mrs. McGee on High street.

Gertrude Hartnett of Westfield Normal is spending her holiday vacation at her home at the Quaboag Hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. Dinelle of Anderson avenue spent Christmas at the home of John Domey on Bondsville road.

Miss Eunice Horton is spending a few days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Horton on Pleasant street.

Nellie Conroy of Springfield was the Christmas guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Conroy on Athol street.

Miss Jessie Bruce of Boston spent Christmas with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Bruce at the Wenimisset.

Miss Anna Bothwell of Westfield Normal is the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Bothwell on Palmer road.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Mullen and family of Gilbertville spent the holiday at the home of John Matchett on South street.

Mr. and Mrs. James Anderson and daughter Marion of Springfield street spent Christmas with relatives in Norwich, Ct.

Mr. and Mrs. George Camerlin of Anderson avenue spent Christmas at the home of John Domey on the Bondsville road.

Mrs. Henry Roberts of Indian Orchard spent the holiday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Moore on Springfield street.

James Cassels of West Springfield

[Continued on Seventh Page]

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

F. J. CHENEY, & CO., Toledo, Ohio

Sold by Druggists, 75c.

Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

Essential to Comfort

PERFECTION
SMOKELESS
OIL HEATER

Warmth is essential to comfort. As you grow older, it is hardly less essential to health.

Get a Perfection Smokeless Oil Heater, and you keep warm and comfortable in your home, no matter what the weather without.

The Perfection gives a strong, widespread heat, and gives it quickly. It is always ready for use and burns nine hours on a single filling no more trouble than a lamp. It can be carried anywhere: no pipes, no wires, no flues; no smoke, odor or dirt.

The heater that gives complete satisfaction.

This year's Perfection is finished in either blue enamel or plain steel; nickel trimmings; light and ornamental, yet strong and durable as can be made. All parts easily cleaned. Automatic-locking flame spreader prevents smoking

Dealers everywhere; or write to any agency of the

Standard Oil Company
(Incorporated)

Haynes & Company
Always Reliable
Springfield, Massachusetts

January Stock Reduction Sale

A Saving Time for You to Buy Winter Clothes

The late coming of cold weather has caused our stock to be much larger than it should be at this time—Suits and Overcoats that should have been sold long ago are still on our tables and they must be sold.

It's our loss and your gain and an unusual opportunity to provide yourself with the good kind of clothes you like to wear, and at prices that mean a liberal saving from what you would ordinarily have to pay.

Suits and Overcoats at $9.50
That were $11.50, $12.00 and $13.50

Suits and Overcoats at $12.50
That were extra good value at $15.00

Suits and Overcoats at $14.50
That were $16.50, $17.50 and $18.00

Suits and Overcoats at $16.50
That were $18.50, $20.00 and $22.00

Suits and Overcoats at $19.50
That were $22.00 and $25.00

Boys' Suits, Overcoats and Reefers

$5.00 Suits and Coats $3.95
$6.50 Suits and Coats $4.95
$8.50 Suits and Coats $7.65

100 Fur and Fur Lined Overcoats at a great saving from regular prices.

$1.50 and $2.00 Fancy Shirts at $1.15.
50c Heavy Ribbed Underwear 33c.

2500 Pairs of Pants at Reduced Prices

$1.25 and $1.50 Pants $1.00
$1.75 and $2.00 Pants $1.35
$2.50 Pants $1.95 $3.00 Pants $2.35
$3.50 Pants $2.95 $4.00 Pants $3.35
$5.00 Pants $3.95 $6.00 Pants $4.95

All Broken Lines of Haynes $5.00 Shoes $3.85

Factory Rejected Stiff Hats at $1.67

High-grade hats that during the making were rejected for slight imperfections. They have been finished and blocked on the coming Spring shapes and sent to us to sell. They will not last long and we advise an early selection, for such unusual values go fast.

Every purchase guaranteed to give satisfaction the same as though you paid regular prices.

Mail orders carefully filled. We pay express.

Haynes & Company
Always Reliable
Springfield, Massachusetts

Monson News.

CHRISTMAS VISITORS.

Partial List of Out-of-town Guests Here For the Holidays.

Among those who spent Christmas with relatives in town were the following:

Miss Olive Morgan of Florence, Ralph Rathburne of Springfield with his mother, Mrs. Belle Rathburne of Pease avenue; Miss Lulu Walker of Woreester and Miss Mary Walker of Springfield at the home of E. M. Walker on East Hill; M. M. Brown of Springfield with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elliott Brown of Park avenue; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Crossley of Providence, R. I., at the home of Mrs. Crossley's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Dustin of Main street; Mrs. C. E. Nichols, Miss Ida Nichols and Miss Grace Stacy of Worcester with Miss Stacy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Stacy of North Main street; Dr. James Murphy of Boston, Miss Catherine Murphy, Misses E. and M. McCarthy of Cambridge at the home of John Murphy of Park avenue; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Crosby and W. W. Dunfield of Providence at the home of John Hirst; Clifford Bills of New York with his aunt, Mrs. Inez Ferrell of Washington street; Dr. and Mrs. A. D. Coleman of Boston at the home of John Gavin of North Main street; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Howe of Thompsonville, Ct., with Mrs. Harrison Howe of Washington street; Miss Helen Fox of West Brookfield and Miss Catherine Fox of Boston at the home of T. M. Lynch of Park avenue; Mr. and Mrs. M. H Pease of Pittsfield with Mr. and Mrs. Omar Pease of East Hill; Eugene Manchester of Boston with Mr. and Mrs. William Manchester of North Main street; Miss Florence Crocker of Southbridge with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Crocker of North Main street; Mr. and Mrs. Walter Oldham with Mrs. Sarah Oldham of Park avenue; Miss Lulu Vaille of Plymouth with Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Vaille of East Hill; Miss Helen Moulton of New York with Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Moulton of Highland avenue; Henry S. Hale of New London, Ct., and Earl T. Hale of Boston with Mr. and Mrs. James Hale of Harrison avenue; Miss Carol Beckwith of Willimantic with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Beckwith of North Main street; Miss Alice Carpenter of Providence at her home on East Hill; Miss Nellie Beckwith of Shelton and Harry L. Oldfield of New York at the home of R. A. Beckwith of Lincoln street; G. E. Fuller of Southbridge and Robert E. Fuller of Springfield with Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Fuller of Lincoln street; Miss June Norcross and Miss Alice Caddy of New York with Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Norcross of Main street; Miss Florence Johnson of Boston and Roy Johnson of Hanover, N. H., with Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Johnson of South Main street; Miss Mary Robbins of Boston with Mr. and Mrs. Everett Robbins of South Main street; Mortimer Dugan of Mystic, Ct., James Fitzgerald of Springfield with Mr. and Mrs. James Fitzgerald of Belmont avenue; Thomas J. Faulkner of Springfield with his parents on High street; Raymond McPherson with his sister, Miss Mary McPherson of Pleasant street; William Hanson of Holyoke with his mother on Hampden avenue; Carl Sweet of Somerville with Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Sweet of State street; Miss Margaret Cushman of Boston with Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Cushman of Main street; Peter Kearns of Springfield at his home on Cushman street.

STATE INSPECTOR HERE.

Thinks Town Should Establish a Pest House, Possibly With Other Towns.

Dr. J. S. Hitchcock, inspector for the state board of health, was in town yesterday in conference with the local board of selectmen and making investigations relative to the advisability of establishing a pesthouse in Monson. A law passed by the Legislature last year makes it obligatory in towns with a population of more than 5000 to have sueh a building. The population of Monson is but 4700, and therefore no obligation rests upon it, but the state board thinks it advisable where there is such a need, to have towns combine in establishing an isolation hospital in which the expense may be shared. Nothing definite has been proposed, but the matter is under discussion.

How Christmas Was Observed.

Christmas this year was observed in about the usual manner. All of the churches had special musical programs for the Christmas services. The special services in St. Patrick's church were held at 7, 8.45 and 10.30 in the morning; at the Methodist and Universalist churches the members of the Sunday schools enjoyed Christmas trees Monday evening. Several people attended the theatre in Springfield Monday evening, returning by special electric car.

The Monson merchants report a good holiday trade, the stores all doing a rushing trade at the last. The clerks in the post office were kept busy the entire week, and had to work over time in order to handle the heavy consignments of mail, those for the rural free delivery being especially heavy; all things considered however, the large mass of matter was handled in an exceptional manner, and the post office force deserves a large amount of credit for the same.

Children Enjoy Entertainment.

The children of the Congregational Sunday school had a fine time in the chapel Saturday evening. There was a tree trimmed very prettily with many sparkling ornaments and little electric lights. All the little children sang a song and several spoke pieees about Christmas. A Miss Wood from Boston entertained them for about an hour telling stories in a very animated way. All the children listened attentively. Some liked best the story of the little red princess; others said the one about the Chinese boy was the best; the three mice was a favorite with others, so they enjoyed all the stories. Santa Claus appeared and spoke to all, then gifts were distributed to every child present and all went home happy with the evening's entertainment and looking forward to Christmas Day in their own homes on Monday.

Academy Class Entertained.

The members of the class of 1910 were entertained by Miss Gladys Lull, one of the class, with a card party at her home on Lincoln street Tuesday evening. Many of the class are at present students at colleges in various parts of New England, but were home for the Christmas vacation, and the following colleges were represented at the gathering: Simmons, New England Conservatory of Music, Boston School of Domestic Science. St. Lawrence University, Amherst, Dartmouth, and Pratt Institute.

John O. Murray is visiting friends in Lee.

Miss Winifred Cooke has returned from a trip to Attleboro.

Mr. and Mrs. Myron Pease of Pittsfield spent the holidays in town.

C. J. Faulkner of High street is visiting friends in Norwich, Ct.

John Bacon has returned to Ware after visiting relatives in town.

H. P. Holdridge is confined to his home on South Main street by illness.

Miss Kate Cushman of Main street is visiting friends in Providenee, R. I.

Roy S. Graves has returned to Springfield after visiting friends in town.

Harold E. Shaw is spending a few days with friends in White Plains, N. Y.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Rees and family of Springfield are visiting friends in town.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Kemp have returned from a visit with relatives in Ware.

Miss Ethel Relby of Boston is visiting Miss Nellie Beckwith on Lincoln street.

Henry Callahan has returned to his home in Pittsfield after visiting friends in town.

Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Lyons and M. J. Foley have returned from a visit to Watertown.

Mareus Keep post, G. A. R., will install officers at the meeting next Monday evening.

Miss Ruth Quinn of Springfield is visiting her sister, Mrs. N. P. Dempsey on Oak street.

Miss Florence Burt of Holyoke is visiting Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Thompson on Green street.

Miss Esther Fagan of Gates street has returned from a visit with friends in Southbridge.

Miss Winnifred Cook of High street has returned from a visit with relatives in Attleboro.

John Marshall of New York city was a guest of L. C. Flynt on High street during the holidays.

The King's Daughters met this afternoon at the home of Mrs. F. A. Wheeler on Fountain street.

Miss Edna Williams and F. Earl Williams of Hartford are visiting friends on Pearl street.

Miss Dorothy Hill of East Hill is spending the Christmas vacation with relatives in Attleboro.

The Doreas Society will meet with Miss Holmes on Wednesday afternoon, Jan. 3d, at 2.30 o'eloek.

Miss Dorothy Chapin of Springfield is visiting at the home of Mrs. Lillian Chapin on Green street.

Rev. William McGuire of Washington is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John McGuire on Cushman street.

Edward Emery has returned to Westboro, after visiting Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Reynolds on South Main street.

Arthur Holdridge of Springfield spent Sunday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Holdridge on South Main street.

Mr. and Mrs. James Farrell and family have returned to their home in West Springfield after visiting relatives in town.

A social dance will be given in the Swedish club house at North Monson to-morrow evening. Good music has been secured.

The Woman's Relief Corps will give a whist party in G. A. R. hall next Tuesday evening. All friends are cordially invited.

Miss Mary Murphy of the telephone exchange has attended a conference of chief operators of the Springfield district in Springfield to-day.

Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Baldwin Jr. and son, who have been visiting at the home of A. D. Ellis on Green street, have returned to their home in Brookline.

The New England Telephone and Telegraph Company has petitioned the selectmen for a right of way to set poles on the south end of Elm street. There will be a public hearing, the date of which will be announced later.

Mr. Cooley is not the only poultry owner who gets large eggs. Miss Wingate's prize winner Buff Orpington pullet laid an egg reeently which weighed eight ounces and measured 7 7-8 by 6 1-2 inches. Who ean beat it?

Miss Nettie Ellen Trumble, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Trumble, and Elmer Harris were united in marriage in the Universalist parsonage Wednesday evening by Rev. Abram Conklin. After a short wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Harris will reside in Monson.

Dr. and Mrs. C. W. Jackson entertained a party of Springfield relatives at their home on Main street Christmas. Among those present were Miss Zerphea Bumstead, Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Woods, Miss Edith, Harris and Sumner Woods, Mr. and Mrs. George L. Yerrall, William and John Yerrall Jr.

Miss Ruth Duncan entertained about 20 of her friends at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Duncan on Pease avenue, last evening. Several of Miss Duncan's former classmates of Monson Academy were present. Games and music were enjoyed, and refreshments were served.

The Monson basketball team will play their next game in Memorial Hall next Thursday evening; their opponents will be the Springfield Independents. A danee will follow the game, and Donahue's orchestra will furnish music. There will be special ears to Palmer and the villages after the game.

The "Summer Sewers," consisting of twenty-five or more young women who are home from schools and colleges for the Christmas vacation, will be entertained at Miss Holmes' this evening. Pictures of familiar places and faces will be shown, and there will be a decorated Christmas tree with presents for all guests.

There was a pleasant family gathering Christmas Day at the home of Mrs. M. J. Bradway on Hampden court. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Bradway and daughter, Mr. C. A. Bradway and son of Monson, Mr. and Mrs. F. P. Bradway and daughter of Willimantic, Ct., Mr. and Mrs. William H. Pease of Monson.

THREE RIVERS.

[Continued from Sixth Page]

spent the week-end and Christmas with his family at his home on Belchertown road.

Miss M. P. Webber of Springfield was the guest the first of the week of her sister, Mrs. A. W. Warriner on Maple street.

Raymond Warriner of Springfield was the guest Christmas of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Warriner on Maple street.

Mr. and Mrs. George Barber and children of Worcester were the week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. O. Morin on School street.

Daniel Horgan of Holy Cross is spending the holiday recess with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Horgan on Main street.

Mrs. Oliver Farro and children of New London, Ct., were the holiday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Mason on Ruggles street.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Noonan of Springfield were the holiday guests of her mother, Mrs. Thomas Hartnett on Belchertown road.

Miss Elizabeth Hartnett, who is training in the Mercy Hospital in Springfield, spent Christmas at her home on Belchertown road.

Elton Triekett of Waltham has been spending several days at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Trickett on Front street.

Miss Martha A. Buzzell of Springfield was the guest of Miss Anna Murdock at her home on Main street during the past week.

Dr. William Tannebring of Beverly was the guest over the week-end of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Tannebring on Springfield street.

Ralph L. Willis of New Brunswick, N. J., is spending a vacation at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Willis on Springfield street.

Miss Mollie Hartnett is spending a vacation from her studies at Westfield Normal with her mother, Mrs. Thomas Hartnett on Belchertown street.

The Crescents took two points from the Rockets in a match on the Piekering Hall alleys the first of the week. In another match the Trimmers defeated the Mohawks 3 to 0.

G. Shankback and Miss Albina Rivers, formerly of this village, were united in marriage Christmas Day in Williamantie, Ct. Mr. and Mrs. Shankback are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Holt on Kelly street.

Many Children Are Sickly.

Mother Gray's Sweet Powders for children break up Colds in 24 hours, relieve Feverishness, Headache, Stomach Troubles, Teething Disorders, and Destroy Worms. At all druggists, 25c. Sample mailed FREE. Address, Allen S. Olmstead, LeRoy, N. Y.

"THE LINEN STORE"
Frank K. Confield, Prop.

We Are Prepared

To supply you with articles for
"Afterthought Gifts"

Our stocks are still fresh and the assortments nearly complete.

"THE LINEN STORE"
121 State St. Springfield.

BONDSVILLE.

Night School for Polish People.

A meeting was held last evening in the Company's hall to determine the amount of interest in a possible night school for the teaching of English to the Polish residents of the place. In spite of the disagreeable weather there were 175 present, and 141 registered. More are expected at the next meeting. The work is in charge of Albert R. Jenks of Amherst, and teachers will eome from that plaee; a eharge of five or ten cents a lesson will be made to defray the traveling expenses of the teachers. The meetings will be held on Tuesday and Thursday evenings.

John Martin is entertaining his son from California.

John Heys of Chicopee spent Christmas with his family here.

James Mansfield of Nashua, N. H., is spending the week with his family here.

William Simpson of Haverhill spent the first of the week with his family here.

Percy Butterfield of Newport was a holiday guest of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Doster.

Miss Mildred Hartwell is spending the week at the home of her parents in Barnstable.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Collis Jr. spent Christmas with Mr. and Mrs. Beveridge in Thorndike.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Collis spent Monday with Mr. and Mrs. Austin Kimball in Belchertown.

William Magee has returned to Boston after a visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Christopher Magee.

Mr. and Mrs. John Boyle of New York city spent Christmas Day with Mr. and Mrs. James Fitzgerald.

Mrs. E. G. Childs and daughter, Miss Grace, have returned to Boston after spending a few days with relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Albro and family returned Sunday from a visit with Mr. and Mrs. Charles Potter in Springfield.

Miss Lulu Austin of Holyoke was a holiday guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Austin. She returned Tuesday.

Measles have made their appearance in the village, several of the pupils in the lower grades having them in a mild form.

Mr. and Mrs. Rowland McFarlane and daughter Edith spent Christmas with Mr. and Mrs. Scott Merrifield in Springfield.

Mr. and Mrs. James Convery returned Monday to their home in Woreester after a holiday visit with Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Loy.

Miss Lydia Marsan and brother Winfield of Springfield spent Chrismas at the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Adalard Marsan.

Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Holden and sons returned Tuesday from a few days' vacation spent with Mr. and Mrs. George Bray in Stafford.

Dr. and Mrs. U. B. Smith entertained Christmas Day, Rev. C. J. Shrimpton and Mrs. Shrimpton, and Lovet B. Smith, wife and daughter Charlotte, all of Athol.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Collis Sr. entertained Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Matthew McKenzie of Thorndike and Mr. and Mrs. Henning Forsman and two daughters of Palmer.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Glaceum of Brooklyn were holiday guests of their mother, Mrs. Dennis Fenton, who also entertained her three sons, John, Michael and Dennis Fenton.

Mr. and Mrs. William Houle of Holyoke, Albert Fauteux of Athol and Arthur Fauteux and son Seward of Stafford Springs were reeent guests of Mrs. Mary Fauteux and family.

The Ladies' Aid Society will meet Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. C. D. Holden. These ladies will serve: Mrs. Samuel Stewart, Mrs. William Taylor, Mrs. W. H. Upham, Mrs. Albert Walder, Mrs. F. E. Albro.

Miss Catherine Murphy of Wilbraham spent the holiday recess with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Murphy, who also had as guests their daughter, Miss Mary Murphy of Boston, and son, James Murphy of the same city.

The Christmas tree and entertainment at the Methodist church Saturday evening was much enjoyed. Santa made his appearance and was a great delight to all the children. Each member of the Sunday school received a gift and cornucopia of candy.

Low Prices for Shoe Repairing

See these prices for machine work:

Men's shoes, half soled and heeled, sewed, $1 00
Men's shoes, full soled and heeled, sewed, 1.50
Ladies' Shoes, soled and heeled, sewed, .85

Better than hand work and much quicker. Satisfaction guaranteed.

H. Platkin,
Bridge St., Palmer.

KEEP THE KIDNEYS WELL

Health is Worth Saving, and Some Palmer People Know How to Save It.

Many Palmer people take their lives in their hands by neglecting the kidneys when they know these organs need help. Sick kidneys are responsible for a vast amount of suffering and ill-health, but there is no need to suffer nor to remain in danger. Use Doan's Kidney Pills—a remedy that has cured thousands of kidney sufferers.

The following statement leaves no ground for doubt.

N. O. Shea, 83 West Main St., Ware, Mass., says: "Doan's Kidney Pills are certainly an effective kidney medieine. We publicly endorsed them in 1908, and at this time I willingly confirm what was then said. My back ached and I did not sleep well. There was considerable pain during passages of the kidney secretions and I knew something must be done for relief. When I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised, I obtained a supply and they soon had the desired effect, relieving my trouble."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name — DOAN'S — and take no other.

When your feet are wet and cold, and your body chilled through and through from exposure, take a big dose of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, bathe your feet in hot water before going to bed, and you are almost certain to ward off a severe cold. For sale by all dealers.

MORTGAGEE'S SALE OF REAL ESTATE. By virtue of a power of sale contained in a certain mortgage deed given by Charles E. Dewey to the Palmer Savings Bank, dated December 6th, A. D. 1898, and recorded in the Registry of Deeds for the County of Hampden, book 597, page 230, for breach of the condition contained in said mortgage and for the purpose of foreclosing the same, will be sold at public auction, on the premises, on Saturday, the thirteenth day of January A. D. 1912, at two o'clock, in the afternoon, all and singular the premises, not heretofore released, which were conveyed by said mortgage deed, namely:—A certain parcel of land, with the buildings thereon, and all the rights, privileges and appurtenances thereunto appertaining or belonging, lying in the Depot village of Palmer in said County of Hampden, and bounded and described as follows, to wit:—SOUTHERLY by South Main street; EASTERLY by land of one Yost; NORTHERLY by land of the Boston and Albany Railroad Company, and WESTERLY by land of Herman A. Sprague. Being a part of the property known as the "Childs Homestead."

The sale will be made subject to all unpaid taxes and other municipal assessments, if any, and $200.00 will be required to be paid in cash by the purchaser at the time and place of sale, as earnest money. Other terms will be announced at the time and place of sale.

PALMER SAVINGS BANK, Mortgagee.
by Charles L. Wald, Its Treasurer.
David F. Dillon, Att'y.
Palmer, Mass., Deeember 21, 1911.

Palmer Trucking Co.

Successors to S. H. Brown.

Trucking and Jobbing of all kinds.

Piano Moving.

Dealers in Spring Water Ice.

Orders solicited, prompt attention guaranteed.

F. M. Ralton, Manager.
Office, South Main street.
Telephone connection.

PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM
Cleanses and beautifies the hair. Promotes a luxuriant growth. Never Fails to Restore Gray Hair to its Youthful Color. Cures scalp diseases & hair falling. 50c, and $1.00 at Druggists

W. D. KINSMAN CO.
Springfield, - - - Mass.

A Three-Days' Selling of the Water Damaged Stock

Sale Started Thursday, December Twenty-Eighth, and Ends Saturday Night, December Thirtieth.

One week before the great Holiday rush and the general hustle and bustle of Christmas shoppers the pipes on the second floor of the Kinsman building gushed considerable water through the ceiling and floors upon the Petticoat stock, Shirt Waists, Kimonos, Sweaters and even reached into the reserved stock room and damaged some Leather Goods and Muslin Underwear. After the flow of water had been stopped and the stock had been removed, we decided to pack away all the damaged stock, in order that it would dry properly. The entire stock that was damaged, along with additions from other sources, has been placed on sale in the Basement at very special prices. Remember this sale lasts for three days only.

$1.00 Splendid Moreen and Satin Skirts, 69c Each

Damaged by water somewhat, but this fact does not hurt the value in any way as to the wear and appearance. All have good full ruffles and the fact that they are damaged is hardly noticeable.
WATER DAMAGED STOCK SALE, 69c EACH

98c Odd Moreen and Sateen Skirts, 49c Each

Odd Moreen and Sateen Skirts, slightly damaged, yet, nevertheless, serviceable, in blaek only, with full deep flounce ruffles.
WATER DAMAGED STOCK SALE 49c EACH

$4.98 to $6.98 Silk Skirts, $3.00 to $4.98 Each

More than one hundred and fifty of these exeeptionally fine black Silk Skirts, made of the best quality Messaline, Taffeta, etc., but owing to the fact that they were slightly spotted with coming in contaet with the water we reduce them for a quick clearance.
WATER DAMAGED STOCK SALE $3 TO $4.98 EACH

25c HOUSE KIMONOS, 19c EACH

A thorough drying has made them look as well as ever before, yet they come in this sale at a reduced price. and come in all pretty colors, made of fleece flannel.
WATER DAMAGED STOCK SALE 19c EACH

50c HOUSE KIMONOS, 39c EACH

Slightly mussed and rumpled, spotted here and there by water, yet hardly noticeble. These are long fleece flannel Kimonos.
WATER DAMAGED STOCK SALE 39c EACH

$1 to $5 SWEATERS, 75c to $3 EACH

Slightly mussed, subjeet to spots here and there, yet the wearing qualities are just as good as ever. They come in white, gray, blue, red.
WATER DAMAGED STOCK SALE 75c TO $3 EACH

$1 to $1.50 WATER DAMAGED WAISTS, 69c EACH

Semi-Tailored Waists in white and colored styles, made with pretty tueked effeets. Some have collars attaehed, and in all sizes. These Waists were not damaged by water, but they are marked down just the same.
WATER DAMAGED STOCK SALE 69c EACH

OUTING FLANNEL GOWNS, 43c EACH

About two hundred all told of these warm Outing Flannel Night Gowns, in fine stripes and all pretty colors. every size represented.
WATER DAMAGED STOCK SALE, 43c each

25c NECKWEAR 12 1-2c EACH

Slightly soiled from water, but this did not affect these Collars, as a tubbing will make them like new. The offering comprises Tabs, Jabots, Collar and Cuff Sets, etc.
WATER DAMAGED STOCK SALE 12 1-2c EACH

25c, 39c and 50c Corset Covers, 19c EACH

Slightly damaged in many instances, but a tubbing will make them like new. This lot comprises Corset Covers, Short Skirts, Drawers, all made of fine Lingerie muslins.
WATER DAMAGED STOCK SALE 19c EACH

98c Gowns and Short Skirts, 69c Each

Slightly mussed from counter handling, but that we may make a quick clearance we offer them during the water damaged stock sale at this low price. They are made of the finest and softest Lingerie muslins, trimmed with the prettiest and daintiest of laces and embroideries, cut full and generous as to size.
WATER DAMAGED STOCK SALE 69c EACH

W. D. KINSMAN CO.

The New Year begins earliest on the 180th meridian, that is at the part of the world which lies exactly opposite Greenwich, on the magic line where sailors have to jump a day either forwards or backwards, according as they are sailing with or against the sun.

The earth rotates on its axis once every twenty-four hours, so that in the same period of time the sun apparently circles the earth. Supposing we travel around the earth in the same direction as the sun, and at a speed great enough to keep it in sight, then we get back to our starting point without once seeing a sunset, so that as far as we are concerned it is still the same day. As a matter of fact, it is exactly one day later. Even if you do not keep the sun over you on your voyage, it is apparent that you will reach your starting point with your calculations one day out, unless you have provided for this by striking out an extra day on the calendar. If you travel against the sun you will have to add a day to the calendar.

The convention that has been established with regard to this matter is to consider the day as beginning at the 180th meridian, so that the 181st meridian is always a day ahead of the 179th. As the day begins first at the 180th meridian, the New Year comes first at that point, too, being there twelve hours sooner than it comes at Greenwich.

It was New Year's night. An aged man was standing by the window. He mournfully raised his eyes toward the deep blue sky, where the stars were floating like white lilies on the surface of a clear, calm lake. Then he cast them on the earth, where few more helpless beings than himself were moving toward their inevitable goal—the tomb. Already he had passed sixty of the stages which lead to it, and he had brought from his journey nothing but errors and remorse. His health was destroyed, his mind unfurnished, his heart sorrowful, and his old age devoid of comfort.

The days of his youth rose up in a vision before him, and he recalled the solemn moment when his father had placed him at the entrance of two roads, one leading into a peaceful, sunny land, covered with a fertile harvest, and resounding with soft, sweet songs; while the other conducted the wanderer into a deep, dark cave, whence there was no issue, where poison flowed instead of water, and where serpents hissed and crawled.

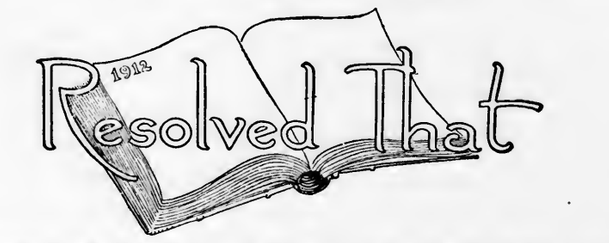
He looked toward the sky, and cried out in his anguish: "Oh, youth, return! O my father, place me once more at the crossway of life, that I may choose the better road!" But the days of his youth had passed away, and his parents were with the departed. He saw wandering lights float over dark marshes, and then disappear. "Such," he said, "were the days of my wasted life!" He saw a star shoot from heaven, and vanish in darkness athwart the churchyard. "Behold an emblem of myself!" he exclaimed; and the sharp arrows of unavailing remorse struck him to the heart.

Then he remembered his early companions, who had entered life with him, but who having trod the paths of virtue and industry, were now happy and honored on this New Year's night. The clock in the high church tower struck, and the sound, falling on his ear, recalled the many tokens of the love of his parents for him; the prayers they had offered up in his behalf. Overwhelmed with shame and grief, he dared no longer look toward that heaven where they dwelt. His darkened eyes dropped tears, and with one despairing effort he cried aloud, "Come back, my early days! Come back!"

And his youth did return; for all this had been but a dream, visiting his slumbers on New Year's night. He was still young, his errors only were no dream. He thanked God fervently that time was still his own; that he had not yet entered the deep dark cavern, but he was free to tread the road leading to the peaceful land where sunny harvests wave.

Ye who still linger on the threshold of life, doubting which path to choose, remember that when years shall be passed, and your feet shall stumble on the dark mountain, you will cry bitterly, but cry in vain, "O youth, return! Oh, give me back my early days!"—Jean Paul Richter.

If New Year's comes as late again
  This year as it did last,
I don't believe I'll get to see
  The end, when it goes past,
And when the new one starts to go
  Across the calendar,
Last time I watched until I dreamed
  I was a New Year's star.



Pa says there isn't anything
  That folks can see or hear
When midnight comes and Father Time
  Brings in another year.
But maybe he is fooling me.
  Why do the people sing
And call it watch-night meeting, and
  Why do the church bells ring?

Pa says they got the number of
  The year by adding one
Each New Year's to the year before,
  And when that year was done,
By adding on another, till
  They piled it up to here.
It must have taken awful long
  To count just once a year.

They tell me when I go to bed
  The last December night,
I'll have to go without a meal
  Until the next year's light.
Some people think they're awful smart,
  But I know what they mean;
The next year has to be next day—
  There's nothing in between.

A New Year's day's a happy time
  For almost every one
It seems a sort of start of things,
  With nothing quite begun,
And everybody's feeling young
  And spry, just like a boy,
I hope your happy New Year will
  Be spilling-full of joy.

TOMMY.

Optimism turns up the corners of my mouth, and incidentally the other fellow's. But I won't carry it to a Nirvana state of inactivity. The world must move, I know.

A smile will carry me more successfully through the coming year than a frown. Besides, it's more becoming.

My husband is not a hero to the other woman. She thinks her partner is just as good. I will give her a chance to sound his praises.

I will not shake the other girl's false hair in the man's face. If it is a good match, he will not believe me; and if it is an obvious substitution, he will think that I am catty In either case I lose.

"Truth is a moon reflected in many waters," says an eastern proverb. will remember that when questioning my erring child.

"Union and liberty, one and inseparable, now and forever," is a pretty good motto for married ones. The trouble is that liberty drifts into insignificance, and union ends at the divorce courts. I will be wise.

Despite the fact that love makes the world go round, he cannot pay the gas bill or the rent. I will look out for the bread and cheese and love will provide the kisses.

Was there any place where she could be really quiet?

The Snow Began to Fall.

Nell went to the door and looked out. As far as her eyes could see there was wintry whiteness and through the purple shadows of the coming night shone a few lights, like stars. Each light represented a farmhouse, and each house, like the one in which Nell was staying, was full of happy, noisy people.

And Nell was not happy, she wanted quiet. Like a hunted animal she looked this way and that for some place where she might be alone. On the crest of a hill, far up the road, stood the schoolhouse where she taught. It was closed now and dark.

"I will go there," Nell said to herself, and just then a voice behind her called: "Supper is ready."

"I don't want any," Nell said wearily. "I'm going out for a little while, Mrs. McGregor. I'll be back by ten."

The snow began to fall softly as she left the house, and by the time she reached the school it was beginning to drift against the fences. There was no fire within, but Nell lighted one, and when the warmth began to steal into the room, she drew the one big chair close to the hearth and in the peaceful loneliness gave herself up to her thoughts.

But she was not to remain in peace long. There was a sound of sleighbells without, heavy steps on the threshold, and she looked up to see the burly form of a young farmer in the doorway.

"Well, well," he said, "I saw the light and came in. Who would have dreamed that you would be here alone?"

Nell smiled wearily. "I came to be quiet."

"Then you don't want me."

"Oh, sit down," she said, somewhat ungraciously.

But he stood by the fireplace and looked down at her.

"What's the matter?" he asked abruptly.

"Nothing," faintly.

"Don't tell me that; I know better."

"If I tell you," she asked, "you mustn't give me any advice. I have had so much advice I hate it."

He sat down beside her. "Tell ahead," he said, "and I'll promise to listen like the Sphinx."

"You see, it is this way," she said; "my uncle in town is rich. He is a miserly old man, and he made me miserable when I lived with him. I'm not going to tell you about my childhood, how little love there was in it, and how I was starved spiritually and mentally, as well as physically. When I grew old enough to understand that he could give me things, and had not because he wanted to save and save, I left him and came here to teach, and now he has written to me to come back, and I don't want to go, yet he is sick and old and alone. I told Mrs. McGregor and she tells me to stay here. Then all the family talked about it and everybody advised. They meant well—but I couldn't stand it, I—I don't want to go, but I must."

"What's the Matter?" He Asked.

He started to say something, then checked himself.

"I'd like to break that promise," he said.

"No, you mustn't," she said firmly. "You've all been so good to me here, and if you," she caught her breath, "join the others in asking me to stay, it will make it so hard for me to go."

"He doesn't deserve much at your hands," the man stated.

"I know," she said wearily, "but to-morrow I begin a new year, and I

The Real People

Elizabeth had never noticed how plain and provincial her family were until young Haddon began calling on her.

The contrast between his polished courtesy and her father's bluff good nature was positively painful, and she began to wish that her father had a club to go to evenings and that her mother wouldn't always come into the parlor and discuss the weather with Mr. Haddon. As for her boisterous brother Jack, she could almost find it in her heart to regret that he was not many miles away.

"Mother," she said, one evening when she had reason to expect young Haddon, "won't you please make Jack go to bed early tonight?"

"Make Jack go to bed early? Why, Bess, I don't tell Jack when to go to bed any more. He's too old for that."

"He isn't too old to drink lemonade and eat cookies as if he had never seen evening refreshments before," complained Elizabeth. "He acted like a big and a wild Indian the other night. He stamped around and whistled so loud that we couldn't hear ourselves talk, and he used the commonest slang, mother. I don't know what Mr. Haddon thinks of him."

"Oh, I guess he knows a rollicking boy when he sees one," said Mrs. Day, comfortably.

"Mother." Elizabeth hesitated a moment. "I wish you wouldn't wear your apron when you come into the parlor evenings."

"Why not, Bess?"

"Well, it looks so—bourgeois."

"What's that?"

"Why, you know, sort of common."

"Well, that's funny. I always feel real dressed up when I have on one of my pretty aprons. But I won't wear an apron if you don't want me to."

"That's a dear," said Elizabeth, gratefully. "And, mother, do you think you could coax father to wear his coat when Mr. Haddon is here? It looks just dreadful for a man to go around the house with his coat off."

"But your father likes to be comfortable, and I don't think he looks a bit untidy without his coat."

Elizabeth sighed deeply. Just then the door bell rang. Eager to get there before her brother, she ran and opened the door herself.

"Say, you're getting awfully anxious, aren't you, Bess?" Jack called.

Elizabeth, in her endeavor to appear unconscious of this thrust, greeted her visitor with what she knew was stilted politeness. They had not been settled in the parlor two minutes before her mother appeared. She spoke pleasantly to young Haddon, asked him if he didn't think the evenings were getting cool, and then, glancing down at her apron, precipitately left the room. A moment later she returned, consciously smoothing out the front of her skirt, from which she had just removed her apron.

Elizabeth's annoyance at this was not lessened when Jack bobbed in and asked loudly: "What time you going to have the handout, Bess? I'm going down to Bud Brown's, but if there's to be a feed here I'll beat it back."

"Oh, Jack, I wish you'd—" began Elizabeth.

"Run on, dear," said Jack's mother I'll save you something if we have anything to eat. Oh, there's father." Mrs. Day's face beamed with welcome for an instant, and then suddenly clouded over. "Father, don't you think you ought to have on your coat? It's a little chilly."

"Chilly! Gammon, mother. You know I never wear my coat in the house Say, Haddon, these women are always fussing at their men folks. Some day you'll know what it is to have a wife worrying about you."

Elizabeth's face turned scarlet, but Haddon laughed, and said: "I certainly hope so."

"Now, father, come out in the dining room. I want to show you something. Mrs. Day smiled at her own tact and led her husband away to be gently lectured on the subject of wearing a coat.

"Do you know," said Haddon to Elizabeth as soon as they were alone, "I think you are about the most fortunate girl in the world?"

"Why?" was the astonished query.

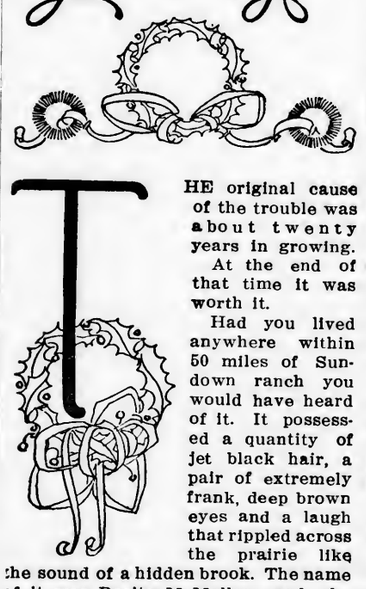
"Because you're surrounded by such whole souled relatives. I feel like embracing your sweet little mother when I see her wearing that crisp white apron. It takes me back to the time I had a mother up in Maine who wore white aprons. And your father! How hearty and kind he is! I tell you, in these days of affectation it's a privilege to meet people like Mr. and Mrs Day."

"What about Jack?" asked Elizabeth, hesitatingly.

"He's an all round boy—the kind that makes the real man. It's the real people who count."

"I fear," murmured Elizabeth, "that I'm the only one in the family that isn't quite real."

Haddon laughed. "You're real enough to suit me," he answered.



The Exception.

"So your marriage has proved a disappointment to you, has it?"

"Yes, all except my husband's Christian name. I was always in love with the name Raoul."—Fliegende Blaetter.

A Chaparral Christmas Gift

By O. Henry

THE original cause of the trouble was about twenty years in growing.

At the end of that time it was worth it.

Had you lived anywhere within 50 miles of Sundown ranch you would have heard of it. It possessed a quantity of jet black hair, a pair of extremely frank, deep brown eyes and a laugh that rippled across the prairie like the sound of a hidden brook. The name of it was Rosita McMullen; and she was the daughter of old man McMullen of the Sundown sheep ranch.

There came riding on red roan steeds—or, to be more explicit, on a paint and a flea-bitten sorrel—two wooers. One was Madison Lane and the other was the Frio Kid. But at that time they did not call him the Frio Kid, for he had not earned the honors of special nomenclature. His name was simply Johnny McRoy.

It must not be supposed that these two were the sum of the agreeable Rosita's admirers. The bronchos of a dozen others champed their bits at the long hitching rack of the Sundown ranch. Many were the sheeps' eyes that were cast in those savannas that did not belong to the flocks of Dan McMullen. But of all the cavaliers Madison Lane and Johnny McRoy galloped far ahead, wherefore they are to be chronicled.

Madison Lane, a young cattleman from the Nueces country, won the race. He and Rosita were married one Christmas day. Armed, hilarious, vociferous, magnanimous, the cowmen and the sheepmen, laying aside their hereditary hatred, joined forces to celebrate the occasion.

But while the wedding feast was at its liveliest there descended upon it Johnny McRoy, bitten by jealousy, like one possessed.

"I'll give you a Christmas present," he yelled, shrilly, at the door, with his .45 in his hand. Even then he had some reputation as an offhand shot.

His first bullet cut a neat underbit in Madison Lane's right ear. The barrel of his gun moved an inch. The next shot would have been the bride's, had not Carson, a sheepman, possessed a mind with triggers somewhat well oiled and in repair. The guns of the wedding party had been hung, in their belts, upon nails in the wall when they sat at table, as a concession to good taste. But Carson, with great promptness, hurled his plate of roast venison and frijoles at McRoy, spoiling his aim. The second bullet, then, only shattered the white petals of a Spanish dagger flower suspended two feet above Rosita's head.

The guests spurned their chairs and juniped for their weapons. It was considered an improper act to shoot the bride and groom at a wedding. In about six seconds there were twenty or so bullets due to be whizzing in the direction of Mr. McRoy.

"I'll shoot better next time," yelled Johnny; "and there'll be a next time." He backed rapidly out the door.

The cattlemen swept out upon him, calling for vengeance.

But the sortie failed in its vengeance. McRoy was on his horse and away, shouting back curses and threats as he galloped into the concealing chaparral.

That night was the birthnight of the Frio Kid. He became the "bad man" of that portion of the state. The rejection of his suit by Miss McMullen turned him to a dangerous man. When officers went after him for the shooting of Carson, he killed two of them, and entered upon the life of an outlaw. When he was at last shot and killed by a little one-armed Mexican who was nearly dead himself from fright, the Frio Kid had the deaths of 18 men on his head.

Many tales are told along the border of his impudent courage and daring. But he was not one of the breed of desperadoes who have seasons of generosity and even of softness. They say he never had mercy on the object of his anger. Yet at this and every Christmastide it is well to give each one credit, if it can be done, for whatever speck of good he may have possessed. If the Frio Kid ever did a kindly act or felt a throb of generosity in his heart it was once at such a time and season, and this is the way it happened:

One December in the Frio country rode the Frio Kid and his Satellite and co-murderer, Mexican Frank. The Kid reined in his mustang, and sat in his saddle, thoughtful and grim, with dangerously narrowing eyes.

"I don't know what I been thinking about, Mex," he remarked in his usual mild drawl, "to have forgot all about Christmas present I got to give. I'm going to ride over tomorrow night and shoot Madison Lane in his own house. He got my girl—Rosita would have had me if he hadn't cut into the game. I wonder why I happened to overlook it up to now?"

"Ah, shucks, Kid," said Mexican, "don't talk foolishness. You know you can't get within a mile of Mad Lane's house tomorrow night. I see old man Allen day before yesterday, and he says Mad is going to have Christmas doings at his house. You remember how you shot up the festivities when Mad was married, and about the threats you made? Don't you suppose Mad Lane'll kind of keep his eye open for a certain Mr. Kid? You plumb make me tired, Kid, with such remarks."

"I'm going," repeated the Frio Kid, without heat, "to go to Madison Lane's Christmas doings, and kill him. I ought to have done it a long time ago."

"There's other ways of committing suicide," advised Mexican. "Why don't you go and surrender to the sheriff?"

"I'll get him," said the Kid.

Christmas eve fell as balmy as April. Perhaps there was a hint of far-away frostiness in the air, but it tingled like seltzer, perfumed faintly with late prairie blossoms and the mesquite grass.

When night came the five or six rooms of the ranch house were brightly lit. In one room was a Christmas tree, for the Lanes had a boy of three, and a dozen or more guests were expected from the nearer ranches.

The guests had arrived in buckboards and on horseback, and were making themselves comfortable inside.

The evening went along pleasantly The guests enjoyed and praised Rosita's excellent supper, and afterward the men scattered in groups about the rooms or on the broad "gallery," smoking and chatting.

The Christmas tree, of course, delighted the youngsters, and above all were they pleased when Santa Claus himself in magnificent white beard and furs appeared and began to distribute the toys.

"It's my papa," announced Billy Sampson, aged six.

Berkly, a sheepman, an old friend of Lane, stopped Rosita as she was passing by him on the gallery,

"Well, Mrs. Lane," said he, "I suppose by this Christmas you've gotten over being afraid of that fellow Mc-

"Oh, Thank You!"

Roy, haven't you? Madison and I have talked about it, you know."

"Very nearly," said Rosita, smiling "but I am still nervous sometimes. I shall never forget that awful time when he came so near killing us."

"He's the most cold-hearted villain in the world," said Berkly. "The citizens all along the border ought to turn out and hunt him down like a wolf."

"He has committed awful crimes," said Rosita, "but—I—don't—know. I think there is a spot of good somewhere in everybody. He was not always bad—that I know."

Rosita turned into the hallway between the rooms. Santa Claus, in muffling whiskers and furs, was just coming through.

"I heard what you said through the window, Mrs. Lane," he said. "I was just going down in my pocket for a Christmas present for your husband But I've left one for you, instead. It's in the room to your right."

"Oh, thank you, kind Santa Claus," said Rosita, brightly.

Rosita went into the room, while Santa Claus stepped into the cooler air of the yard.

She found no one in the room but Madison.

"Where is my present that Santa said he left for me in here?" she asked.

"Haven't seen anything in the way of a present," said her husband, laughing, "unless he could have meant me."

The next day Gabriel Radd, the foreman of the X O ranch, dropped into the post office at Loma Alta.

"Well, the Frio Kid's got his dose of lead at last," he remarked to the postmaster.

"That so? How'd it happen?"

"One of old Sanchez's Mexican sheep herders did it—think of it! the Frio Kid killed by a sheep herder! The Greaser saw him riding along past his camp about twelve o'clock last night, and was so skeered that he up with a Winchester and let him have it. Funniest part of it was that the Kid was dressed all up with white Angora-skin whiskers and a regular Santy Claus rig-out from head to foot. Think of the Frio Kid playing Santa."

(Copyright, 1910, by F. L. Nelson.)